RED MEN TO MEET

Judge Newcorn a Candidate at Great Council of the Order.

ANNUAL SESSION THURSDAY.

Plainfield Tribes to Be Represented at Convention, at Trenton—26,834 Red Men in New Jersey.

The Great Council of Improved Order of Red Men of the State will open its annual session in the Y. M. C. A. building in Trenton on Thursday at 10 o'clock. The session will continue two days, and the reports show that more than 400 past sachems from all sections of the State will attend. The session will be a busy one, as there are many matters of importance to be discussed, besides the annual election of officers, which will take place on the afternoon of the opening day. The delegates from this city are: Miantonomah, Judge William Newcorn, Charles Holstein, Jerry Griffin and J. T. Green; Wetumpka, J. A. Fass, A. E. Willard and R. W. Osland. Judge Newcorn is a candidate for great representative and it is said stands a good chance for election to the office.

The main contest at the election will be for great junior sagamore, for which there are three prominent candidates. They are Harold T. Blinn, of Burlington; John Hackett, of Millville, and David Summerfield, of Clemenon. Hackett has the support of the majority of the past sachems of the lower end of the State, while Blinn has the backing of the State officers, and seems to be the favorite, and will probably win out by a close vote, although the friends of Hackett believe that they can win. There will also be quite a contest for representatives to the great council of the United States. There are usually four to be elected annually, but this year the representation of the great council of this State has been reduced from eight to six, therefore leaving but two to be elected. There are numerous candidates, but the indications are that John Thomson, who will retire as great sachem, and Emil Schablon, of Hackensack, will be elected. John B. Wright, of Camden, will be elected great sachem, the highest office of the order, without opposition. Charles M. Curry will be advanced to great senior sagamore.

Great Sachem Thomson will show that he instituted new tribes at Audubon, Westville, Marlboro, Jackson Mills and Ewan. Great Chief of Records Stevens, who has held that office twenty-five years, also has a long statement in book form to be submitted. It reviews the work of the tribes during the past twenty-five years, showing that 62,818 members were adopted into the order; 5,973 reinstated, 2,973 admitted by card, 44,352 suspended. The financial report shows total receipts of $4,486,151.07; paid for relief of members, $1,450,978.08; burial of the dead, $489,022; for widows and orphans, $28,511.18.

The report for this year shows that 3,079 members were admitted and 2,680 dropped from the roll of membership, making the total membership of the order in the State 26,834, an increase of 400 over the year. The receipts of all the tribes for the year were $279,613.94; paid out for the relief of members, $88,620.60; funeral benefits, $37,329.05; widows and orphans, $2,623.19.

The annual report of the great keeper of wampum, William J. Smythe, will show a balance of $6,681.06 in the general fund, $1,252.97 in the aged men's fund, and $1,341.71 in the orphans' fund.

Planning "Ladies' Night."

Plainfield Council, No. 402, The Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, is planning for a "ladies' night" in connection with the regular March meeting. Interesting talks upon the good of the order were made by Past Grand Counselor Percy, Past Counselor C. A. Sturtevant and Past Counselor Alfred I. Laing.

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN DIES IN 87TH YEAR

George Stiller, one of the oldest and best known residents in Scotch Plains, died at his home on Front street, that village last night. Death was due to the infirmities of age.

Mr. Stiller was eighty-six years old and had lived in Scotch Plains since 1870. He conducted a shoe repairing shop, but retired about ten years ago, when his health began to fail. He was one of the leading members of St. Mary's church, Stony Hill, as long as he was able to attend. He is survived by two sons, George Stiller, of San Francisco, and John Stiller, of Brooklyn; also one daughter, Mrs. Fred Clark, with whom he lived.

The funeral services will be held at his late home, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, an hour later. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

CAKE SALE HELD AT TRINITY REFORMED.

The cake sale held at Trinity Reformed church, Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Home department of the Sunday-school, netted $12 for the purchase of fruit and flowers for the sick members. The patronage was gratifying and everything was disposed of during the afternoon.

The committee in charge comprised Mrs. L. C. Sheppard, chairman; Mrs. John Ross, Mrs. A. D. Honeymann, Mrs. William Gibson, assisted by Mrs. W. G. Leitheusser, Mrs. William Van Deventer, Mrs. John H. Whitenack, Mrs. J. L. Dilliver, Mrs. George Dufford, Mrs. E. F. Sheppard and Mrs. L. M. Dunavan.

INJURED MAN SAID HE CAME FROM BOROUGH.

A man giving his name as Jeremiah O'Donovan, aged forty-six years, of 63 Mercer street, Plainfield, fell in front of the New York post-office this morning, receiving severe injuries. He was removed by ambulance to the Hudson street hospital.

The Manhattan police notified Chief Killy over the phone and the latter then informed Chief Marshall Weiss. The borough police found that 63 Mercer avenue is a vacant lot while a try at 63 Myrtle avenue was devoid of results, the family there knowing nothing of O'Donovan. It is believed by the local police that the address may have been given as Plainfield, Conn.

LOCAL REALTY EXCHANGE TO ERECT RESIDENCE.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon and Francis J. Blatz, representing the Union, Somerset and Middlesex Realty Company, have exchanged a large tract of land on Lakeview and Washington avenues, New Market, for four fine lots at Edgewood and Martine avenues, this city, having a frontage of 217 feet on Martine avenue and 165 feet on Edgewood avenue. The consideration represents about $9,000.

Both Mr. Blatz and Judge Runyon may erect residences on these lots for their own occupancy. The property here was owned by the Central Park Realty Company.

'JAPS' FRIENDLY

'Jingoes' Responsible for War Talk Says John M. Whiton.

GIVES ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Inhabitants of Flowery Kingdom are Intelligent and Sociable Race He Tells Dutch Arms of Trinity.

Despite the stormy weather about two hundred people thoroughly enjoyed John M. Whiton's delightful illustrated talk on "Japan," at Trinity Reformed church last night. The affair was held under the auspices of the Dutch Arms, Men's Association, and it was "ladies' night." There was possibly more women than men present. F. S. Cutter, president of the Dutch Arms, introduced Mr. Whiton, expressing his appreciation on behalf of the association and a vote of thanks was given Mr. Whiton for his generosity and courtesy in giving the talk.

Mr. Whiton displayed more than one hundred fine views, many taken by himself, while with Mrs. Whiton he was travelling in Japan, depicting the natives and describing their customs and peculiarities. The speaker brought out one very important point in his talk in answer to a question as to the possibility of war between Japan and the United States. He said that he did not believe there was the slightest possibility of such a conflict, he being convinced that such talk was the work of "jingoes" in this country and Japan. Mr. Whiton explained that Japan today is outrageously taxed, for instance, if a Japanese possesses $50,000 he is taxed $32,000 and other people are taxed on that proportionate basis.

Mr. Whiton paid tribute to the Japanese, describing them as an intelligent race, sociable and always willing to do everything possible for visitors to their country. He described his entrance into Yokohama, where the Japanese and United States war vessels were at anchor in the harbor. He said that it was an impressive sight.

The speaker told his audience that if any contemplate a visit to Japan or other foreign countries they must expect some inconveniences but all things considered he enjoyed his travels and found many comforts. In the mountain regions he found the natives very particular in trying to make Mrs. Whiton and himself comfortable.

Many interesting incidents were related by Mr. Whiton, being his experience on his trip, all told in an informal way, making it delightful. Mr. Whiton's views are among the best yet seen and represent scenes not often found in the usual collection of travelers. At the close of the talk there was a social time and many of those present took the opportunity to personally thank Mr. Whiton for his interesting lecture and display of views.

CHAPMAN—ALEXANDER REVIVAL IN BROOKLYN.

The Chapman—Alexander revival movement which will hold an all day session in Brooklyn tomorrow will be joined by the Salvation Army in the work or rescue. The local corps as well as representatives of the various commands of the army throughout this part of the State will participate in the services.

The services will begin in the Brooklyn Baptist Temple tomorrow morning at 10:30, when Rev. J. W. Chapman, the noted evangelist, will preach a special sermon. Rev. Mr. Chapman was one of three noted clergymen who took a world trip three years ago, holding evangelistic meetings throughout the Far East and it is reported that over ten thousand converts to Christianity were made on that trip.

Assisting Rev. Mr. Chapman tomorrow are Colonel William Pearl and Commander Miss Booth, of the Salvation Army, who will address the afternoon and evening meetings respectively. Special invitations are extended to all those interested in the cause to attend these meetings in Brooklyn. A feature will be a chorus made up of reformed drunkards.

Co. K Fair.

Another large attendance was noted at Company K's fair in the armory last night. Dancing continued the main attraction but the other features were well patronized. A roll call will be held tonight while the soldier boys will have other diversions to offer for the remainder of the week.

Dr. Cook's Lecture.

Dr. A. F. Cook's moving picture travelogue on his discovery of the North Pole was heard by 300 people at the theatre last night. The explorer was frequently applauded.

TO INCREASE WORK

Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League's Scope to be Enlarged.

TO SELECT FIFTY TRUSTEES.

Text Books for Children at Society's Pavilion to Be Sought—Reports are Submitted.

In order to enlarge the scope of the work of the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society, it was decided last evening at the regular meeting of the trustees to increase the number of this board and thus increase interest in the fight against tuberculosis. William S. Tyler, president of the society, presided at the meeting and in his remarks to those present said that he thought it desirable that the membership be increased to fifty members. The idea was received with approbation. George H. Holstein, J. P. Murray, J. W. Gavett, Miss Mabelle Phillips, Mrs. S. B. Joost and Hugh F. Fox speaking in favor of the movement.

It is the intention to secularize the work and by this means interest the many who are not now affiliated with the movement. By adding to the membership it is believed that all classes will see the necessity of aiding the work and in creating greater enthusiasm bring the results so much desired in ridding the community of the dread disease.

It is decided to appeal to the Board of Education for text books for the children now being cared for at the pavilion near Muhlenberg hospital. With the aid of these books those who now are not obtaining any education can be helped to obtain what they are missing in the public schools.

Treasurer J. P. Murray reported that there is a balance in the treasury of about $400. Mrs. Sherman B. Joost reported that the society is in good condition and doing splendid work. The house to house work of the city nurse and others is having much desired results in teaching those who are ignorant or unsuspicious of the danger of close rooms, diet and other enemies to health.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will give a Washington's Birthday supper and different societies will give a supper a Hope chapel in the evening. The Plainfield Public Library and Reading room will observe the usual holiday hours.

Persons holding tickets for Proctor's theatre will be able to use them at The Plainfield theatre and vice-versa. The bills at both playhouses will be different.

The Plainfield City Market will be open tonight until 9 o'clock to accommodate those who must shop for tomorrow. On Thursday there will begin demonstrations lasting for ten days of the Walter Baker Co. products.

Hiram Horton DeCamp.

Hiram Horton DeCamp, a former resident of this city many years ago, is dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Clifford M. DeMott, New Rochelle, N. Y. He will be remembered by many of the older residents as the manager of John W. Laing hotel, where the Babcock building now stands. He also lived at Chester, Morris county, at one time. He leaves a brother, Alonzo DeCamp, of Westfield, and a son, Hiram DeCamp, Jr., in the west. The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church, Chester, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

CIVIC CLUB'S STAG

North Plainfield Association's Smoker a Real Snappy Affair.

DEBELE HALL WAS CROWDED.

"Bang-Up" Entertainment with Fifty-seven Varieties of Fun Takes Place "Across the Brook."

In heralding the approach of its smoker and entertainment, given in Debele's Hall, last night, the North Plainfield Association announced that it would be a "snappy" affair in the nature of an evening with old friends and neighbors. It was all that and more, too. For originality and straight-from-the-shoulder ideas it outclassed anything the borough has witnessed in a long time. The program was highly diversified, comprising numbers that brought all kinds of applause and so humorous at times that they had the people falling out of their seats.

Something like 300 neighbors and friends from both sides of the brook rallied to the call. On arriving at the hall each man was handed a long stemmed pipe and a bag of tobacco. All hands were soon enjoying a cool smoke and in cases where Duke's Mixture bit the tongue circus lemonade could be had for the asking. Meredith Dryden, chairman of the committee in charge, and President Alexander Milne, of the association, looked after the personal comfort of the guests and by numerous introductions added an "old home week" flavor to the gathering.

The entertainment was furnished for the most part by professional artists from New York. Tommy Barker, possessed of an excellent voice, sang about a dozen popular numbers as did Marie Carlton, a soprano soloist of no mean ability. Miss Helen Garmen, known as "the contagious smile," made a hit with character songs and stories, but the big feature was John J. Ronney, a monologist, who styles himself "the Tall Talkologist." He had an inexhaustible fund of stories and kept the audience in roars. One neighbor from over Vine street was became so demonstrative the committee had to give him a severe scolding.

The singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein were down for a number and figuratively "brought down the house." They responded to an encore that was even better than the first effort and retired amid deafening applause. A musical act entitled, "Silence in Fun," given by Garibaldi and Jones, secured at bargain rates by David Carney, played the mandolin and guitar, accompanied by a manager. They played about five minutes.

The final number on the program was an exhibition of physical culture methods by Professor James Finnerty and two boxing matches. The first was between Prof. Finnerty and Chas. Winkelmole and the second Professor Finnerty and Claude Hann. The last one went two rounds and was first class. Hann is an expert with the gloves and held Finnerty down in good shape. It was given and taken from start to finish and roused great enthusiasm. Meredith Dryden acted as referee and J. E. Nicol timer.

At the close of the entertainment President Milne offered a resolution endorsing Mayor Smalley's stand in the call to oppose Senate bill 41 and to place the association on record as adverse to any scheme to delay the installation of sewers in North Plainfield. It was carried unanimously.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the smoker was composed of Meredith Dryden, chairman; D. J. Carney and B. J. Pheip.

Supper at Hope Chapel.

The Men's Club, Ladies' Aid Society and Endeavor societies of Hope chapel will give a supper at Hope chapel tomorrow night. The committee in charge comprises Frank Rimmer, John B. Slorah and Walter D. Firstbrook. Supper will be served from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF WILLIAM L. SMALLEY

The funeral of William L. Smalley, who passed away Friday night in his ninety-third year, was held yesterday afternoon, at the residence of his son, David C. Smalley, of East Front street. It was largely attended by relatives and friends from surrounding places as well as the city and borough. Mrs. Smalley, who is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dunbar, was unable to be present, owing to her severe illness.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which Mr. Smalley was a member for fifty-one years, was in charge of the service in the course of which he spoke of the broad-minded, liberal life of the departed and the union of sixty-five years that had been broken by his death. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was also present, and offered prayer. During the service, a quartet composed of Miss Etta Raybert, Miss Grace Carroll, William Tallamy and William Holmes rendered several hymns. The floral tributes were numerous and included many handsome set pieces from the family and friends.

Burial was made temporarily in a vault in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery but the body will later be transferred to Hillside. The pall bearers were six grandsons, Frank, Harry, Ralph, Edwin and Clarence Smalley, of this city and borough, and William F. Cadmus, of Newark.

EXERCISES TODAY IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, addressed the students in the High School this afternoon, taking for his topic, "Washington." The address was preceded by the singing of several patriotic songs by the assembled classes and a three part song entitled "Washington" was sung by these students. Misses Helen Pearce, Helen Crane, Laura Bristol Margaret Hutchinson, Eunice Eckert, Viola Garda and Messrs. Roy Titsworth, Sidney Karr and Felix Janke.

The feature of the exercises at the Stillman school this morning was an address on the life of Washington by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Holy Cross church. The children sang a number of patriotic songs. The exercises at the Jefferson school, held on Friday, combined an observance of the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, and consisted of songs, recitations and essays on the lives of both Lincoln and Washington.

Appropriate exercises were held in each class room at the Lincoln school, this afternoon, owing to the fact that there is no assembly room there. They consisted of the singing of patriotic songs and recitations. The program at the Franklin school this morning consisted of the singing of patriotic songs, together with a sketch of the life of Washington by Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal. Informal exercises will be held this afternoon at the Irving school in charge of Miss Genevieve Petrie, principal. There were patriotic songs and recitations and sketch of the life of Washington. No exercises were held at the Bryant school.

EAST END CHURCH MEN'S CLUB ELECTIONS.

Officers were elected for the coming year and plans were discussed for the future at the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the Netherwood Reformed church, held at the home of Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor, last night. There was a good attendance of the men of the church. The election resulted as follows:

President, C. H. Hanson; first vice-president, W. T. Banks; second vice-president, Amos Andrews; secretary, Claude Gonod; treasurer, William Carson. The list of committees will be announced later.

The club decided to hold a supper in the church on April 20, at which time a quartet will furnish music and there will be several good after-dinner speakers. The members are very enthusiastic over the future success of the club.

WATER PROBLEMS

Former President of Common Council Dumont Raises Some Questions.

FAVORS NEW CONTRACT.

The Dangers of Municipal Ownership Pointed Out by Property Owner Who Has Studied the Subject.

Questions not only germane to the issue but having a highly important bearing on its proper solution were propounded last night by John B. Dumont when discussing the relative merits of municipal ownership and a new contract for a water supply. Mr. Dumont's views were sought because he has devoted much time and attention to the perplexing problems and because of the weight that will be attached to his opinion by the public who recall his valuable work as a member of the governing body of the municipality some few years ago.

"The report of the committee of the Common Council," said Mr. Dumont, "states that there is a strong sentiment against a contract with the water company. The public hearing, however, demonstrated a strong sentiment in favor of a contract. A contract can be made, rather could have been before the committee's report was published, whereby Plainfield can have a preferred claim on the present underground supply of the water company, if approved by a board of arbitration. I firmly believe that a contract such as indicated by the committee whereby Plainfield is given the absolute right to compel the water company to cease supply to North Plainfield, Westfield, Cranford and other localities would undoubtedly be declared illegal when submitted to the courts."

"The water company has now the right and is under contract to supply North Plainfield and other localities," said Mr. Dumont, "and the courts would compel it to continue doing so for a time at least. The committee urges its plan to condemn the water company's plant in order that Plainfield may control the underground water supply. How is this possible?"

"The underground water," declared Mr. Dumont, "does not originate under Plainfield, but comes to it from the north and east. Wells can be sunk in Fanwood township within a short distance of the Netherwood plant which would intercept this supply and Plainfield could not prevent it so that condemning the water company would not accomplish this object as to condemning the water company plant."

"Can the city of Plainfield condemn the water pipes now laid in North Plainfield and other localities?" asked Mr. Dumont. "Can the city of Plainfield issue bonds to pay for pipes that supply these localities? Did the vote (of less than one-third of the legal voters) give the Common Council authority to go in to the water business to extent of furnishing water to other localities? No seems the only answer to all the above questions."

Continuing Mr. Dumont said: "The condemnation of the water company plant would necessarily include the entire outfit for the water company could not then supply other localities and the commissioners would be compelled to include the whole outfit so far as Plainfield water supply is concerned, including their contract to supply other localities."

"Supposing Plainfield can purchase the entire plant," said Mr. Dumont, "could they make a contract with North Plainfield or other localities on the same terms they now ask from the water company? No!"

"A condemnation of the water pipes in Plainfield to be connected with a pumping station erected by Plainfield is the only safe thing that can be done other than a contract with the water company."

"The demand for water" concluded Mr. Dumont, "must increase in all the territory between the Watchung mountains or Raritan river and the State will not permit Plainfield to control all the underground supply. The water company is in business to supply water and it must and will find it surface or underground or both and it seems safer to continue with the water company and so prevent it from putting down wells in Fanwood township and increasing the danger of exhaustion of the underground supply."

MR. BRIGGS WANTS
MORE U. S. CADETS

Senator Briggs submitted an amendment to the Military Academy appropriation bill Friday afternoon, in the United States Senate, which, if adopted, will remedy a condition at West Point that the authorities there have vainly endeavored to correct for several years. The corps of cadets has never, in recent years, been filled to its quota, and as a result the classes graduated from that famous military school have not been of sufficient numerical strength to fill the vacancies existing yearly in the grade of second lieutenant in the regular army. This is due, to a great extent, to the failure of Senators and Representatives to avail themselves of the privilege of nominating cadets to West Point.

The present law provides that the corps of cadets shall consist of one from each Congressional district, one from each territory, one from the District of Columbia and thirty from the United States at large. Senators and members of the House of Representatives only nominate and the President appoints. The amendment of Senator Briggs provides that hereafter whenever any cadetship at the United States Military Academy is available for the appointment of a cadet from any State at large, or from any Congressional district or territory, the President shall appoint a cadet from the United States at large to fill such cadetship, unless the proper Senator, Representative or delegate in Congress shall nominate an eligible candidate for appointment to such cadetship within six months after having been requested by the War Department to nominate such a candidate. Under the laws governing the appointment of midshipmen to the Naval Academy, the Secretary of the Navy fills all vacancies where candidates have not been nominated by June 1 of each year.

DEPUTY POSTMASTERS
TO MEET AT TRENTON

Assistant postmasters from all parts of New Jersey and men active in the postal service of this country, will attend the annual convention of the New Jersey State Association of Assistant Postmasters in Trenton tomorrow. The convention will be held in the District Court Chamber in the City Hall.

Charles P. Sayers, of Camden, president of the organization, will preside. Addresses will be delivered by First Vice President Kendrick C. Hill, of Trenton; J. K. Baccarach, of Atlantic City; Edward Wooley, of Jersey City, president of the National Association of Postmasters; Frank Beasley, of Rutherford, secretary of the National Association; John L. Stewart, of Philadelphia, superintendent of mails of that city, and Chief Postal Inspector Cortelyou, of the Philadelphia postoffice.

A number of resolutions will be offered, the most important one from a public standpoint being that to close the carriers' window on Sundays. The members will banquet in the Hotel Sterling in the evening, the affair being scheduled to start at 6 o'clock. Postmaster Morgan, of New York city, is slated to deliver an address. Assistant Postmaster Kendrick C. Hill will act as toastmaster. The association was organized in 1908, and every assistant postmaster in the State is a member.

STREITWOLF BILL IS WITHDRAWN.

Trenton, Feb. 21.—Assemblyman Streitwolf, of Middlesex, withdrew last night the rate-making public utilities measure which he introduced early in the session at the instance of the New Jersey Commuters' Association, the commuters having decided to throw their influence to the Egan public utility measure, which is identical with the Osborne bill in the Senate.

The railroads and canal committee had given a hearing in the afternoon on the Streitwolf bill. Among those who appeared to argue in favor of it in preference to the Egan measure were Howard Marshall, of East Orange, president of the New Jersey Commuters' Association; Roy M. Robinson, of Englewood, secretary of the same body, and William B. Grinnel, of Newark.

Myron C. Ernest, of Jersey City, argued for the Egan bill. It was after the subject had been thoroughly thrashed out before the committee that the commuters acceded to the withdrawal of the Streitwolf measure. The Egan bill provides for only three members, while the Streitwolf bill made provision for five and a paid counsel to the commission. Both were rate-making measures. The Egan bill is known as the administration measure.

The commuters say that the thirty-eight votes which were pledged to the support of the Streitwolf measure will now be thrown to the Egan bill.

Werner's Clothing House,
206 WEST FRONT STREET

Bugs Raymond batted out flies to them. Then McGraw called Southpaw Ed. Hendricks to the box and he tossed up easy ones for about fifteen minutes. There were about six batters taking their regular turn, McGraw among them. The first time the manager stepped to the plate he smote a hot one past third.

Forsythe had the distinction of making the longest hit of the day when he cracked the ball over the right-field fence only a few feet foul.
The boundaries of the new park are so far away from the plate that even Chief Meyer will not be able to hit the left-field fence on the fly, and it is doubtful whether more than a dozen balls are lost over the right-field wall.

In Jack Johnston, the Waco outfielder, McGraw believes that he has a lad who will develop into as valuable a man as Devore; Johnston is very fast and appears to be a good bunter. He is a kid and probably needs further seasoning, however.
Grover Hartley, the only new catcher
this year, is a splendidly built fellow and a smart looking athlete.
He and Gowdy did not have their eye on the ball yesterday and made no long hits. However, that is the usual thing in the spring, when batters swing too quickly. Forsythe has been down here for several weeks and is in good shape, as the weather has been warm and he has had considerable practise.

McGraw lobbed up his slow ball
a few times and once Bugs Raymond lunged at it so hard that he spun around like a top and fell down. The pitchers were rather shy about taking a turn in the box, fearing that the piercing wind might tie kinks in their arms. Rudolph Nagle and Shontz were contented to hang around the infield, but Tesreau and Hendricks, the two Goliaths of the twirling corps, volunteered to chuck them up to the batters and each labored about a quarter of an hour.
Then they trotted around the park and beat it to the bathroom. Hendricks tips the scales at 215 pounds and intends to reduce to about 195.
Tesreau is another 200-pounder.

There will be no hard practise until the temperature undergoes an upward revision. This is the coldest spell of the winter and cannot last long. The sun was out yesterday but the wind carried a sting. Mc-Graw is following out his custom of working hard as any of the youngsters and Robinson is another industrious trainer. The training squad was augmented late yesterday afternoon by the arrival of Jenkins.
Bustenhaven and McKnight, who missed the train in St. Louis on Saturday.

BASEBALL.

Jack Ryan, the Jersey City manager, is more than 40 year old but he is still able to play a lively game, either behind the bat or in the infield. Ryan has been playing ball for more than twenty years. In 1895 handling Nichols, Stivets and other pitchers with ease and grace that classed him with the best back-stops. Later he caught for the St.
Louis Nationals when managed by Pat Donovan, and also drew salary from the Brooklyn club. Ryan then drifted into the Eastern League, but in spite of advancing years he has kept on playing, to the surprise of old companions who have been compelled to retire. Ryan is a hustler, and with the Jersey City club in new hands he may soon build up a winning team.

Christy Mathewson says that Louis Drucker will be the best pitcher in the National League within two years. Matty has instructed the tall Texan as to the mystery of the fadeaway and has shown much pride in the young man's development.
Drucker fairly worships Matty and says he intends to copy every method employed by the latter in fooling batsmen. As a matter of fact, Drucker and Matty to a man with poor eyesight look so much alike,
when hurling the sphere to the plate that it's hard to distinguish between them. It is a case of mutual admiration, too.

Said Captain Chance, of the Cubs,
when he arrived in Chicago: "Murphy never meddles with the team, and allows me to run things with unhampered authority. He doesn't blame this or that man for losing a game and never noses around looking for trouble. He doesn't care whether the players like him or not.
He pays salaries for ball playing and allows me to decide whether the money is earned or not. Sentiment cuts no figure with him, and whatever I may suggest to benefit the team you can rest assured that Murphy will O. K. it."

The Misses Jennie and Mamie Dresselt, of Lincoln place, returned home yesterday from a sojourn at Atlantic City.

Mrs. A. A. Weeks, of West Seventh street, is convalescing after a serious attack of the grip, which has left her quite deaf.

Mrs. W. H. Cary and daughter,
Mrs. D. C. Walker, of New York
State, are visiting Mrs. Cary's son, Dr. Robert D. Cary, of Grove street.

The lecture given by Jonas Lie at All Souls' church, last week was liance, and Mr. Lie gave his services

McGraw SURPRISES HIS BALLPLAYERS

Marlin, Tex., Feb. 21.—Manager
McGraw stole a march on his young Giants when he dropped in on them at the Arlington Hotel yesterday noon, two hours before the arrival of the train on which he was expected. McGraw was anxious to get here in time to start an early afternoon practice, and made the last stage of his journey from San Antonio by auto. He hired a machine at Waco and, although the weather was very cold and he had to face a Texas "norther" and travel over muddy roads, he made the trip in two hours. Immediately after lunch he put on a uniform and was one of the first to run out to Emerson Park

and get busy with the bat and ball.

The youngsters were ready to start work yesterday morning, but Wilbert Robinson thought it was too chilly and advised them to wait for the sun. Robbie then grabbed a shotgun and went snipe hunting.

The sun came out before noon and the icy wind did its share toward drying off the diamond. The infield was firm enough to work on, and the first batting practice of the year was preceded by brief infield calisthenics.

When McGraw suggested that some infield tossing would be a good way to begin Cy Forsythe went to first base, Jack Johnston to second, Ernest Lush to short and Clyde Fullerton to third. Later Harry Gowdy relieved Forsythe at first base. The manager sent slow rollers to the fielders, as it is always difficult to get the eye accustomed to fast bounders on the first day of practise.

Several of the pitchers circulated in the outfield to keep warm and

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., February 21, 1911.

RELIGIOUS TYPES

"The Peril of Unreality" is Discussed by Rev.
Charles Fiske.

THE UNPROFESSING MAN.

Phariseism of the Publican is Illustrated to a Large Congregation at Grace Church.

In the series of Religious Conferences which the Rev. Charles Fiske, of Baltimore, is conducting at Grace church this morning there was a celebration of the holy communion at 7 o'clock, besides services at 10 o'clock. A service will be held tonight and tomorrow morning there will also be a 7 o'clock celebration.
Tomorrow, in addition to the 10 o'clock service and the night service
there will be talk to children at a 3:30 in the afternoon. Three services are held daily.

Mr. Fiske is dealing in the evening with "The Soul's Perils." Tonight
he speaks on "The Perils of Respectability." Last evening he talked of "The Peril of Unreality."

"One thing, at least," the clergyman said, "Christ always demanded of those who came to Him. He asked for absolute reality. Of one thing
He is always critical; a mere sentimental emotion. True emotion that ends in action always receives from Him its meed of praise; but He is impatient—divinely impatient—of anything that savors in the least of purely conventional sentiment. It mere emotional enthusiasm.

"Christ and His religion are charged with reality. He tests those who come to Him—whether it be the rich young man, the emotional woman in the crowd, or the men who would follow Him whithersoever He went, by sharply reminding them that He wants those who come to Him to be perfectly honest with themselves, and perfectly sincere and unaffected and natural in their language."

The preacher dealt, first, with the temptation to unreality among ministers. "I confess to an impatience,"
he said, "with the professional cleric.
I find sometimes a smugness that irritates me, a ready moralizing that seems perfunctory, and I sympathize with the man in the street who steers clear of ministers because they do not always seem to be men first and ministers afterward."

Then the clergyman touched on the canting unreality of the people.
He found it among men who "can worship God under the blue sky just as well as in church," but were annoyed when they were asked: "Yes,
—but do you?" There was another type of cant in religion that was "so broad minded that it found good in all churches, but didn't love any one."

"Or," Rev. Mr. Fiske said, "there is the woman who reads a lovely little book about a godly fisherman or a pious shoemaker, and says contentedly, that is my idea of religion," as if making a great discovery
—and yet has not the faintest idea of putting the ideal into practical every day life.

"There is, again, what I call the Phariseism of the Publican. I don't go to church," somebody says; "I don't receive the Sacrament. A man who has to knock about in the world and make his way must do things; that any who comes to holy communion should stop doing. I do not profess to be so strict, but at any rate, thank God, I am not a hypocrite.
I make no religious pretensions."
Phariseism is contentment with self, a critical attitude towards others, and the man who talks that way is a pharisaic publican."

Mr. Fiske warned his hearers, in closing, of the type of religion that uses itself up in feeling instead of passing on to action. "Sentiment is soothing," he said, "duty is severe.
Choose the harder. Count that emotion dangerous which does not pass into action."

This morning Mr. Fiske gave the second of a course of lectures on
"Our Lord's Experiences, or Conditions of Salvation." His text was St. John 12:24, "Except a corn of wheat fall to the ground and die, it abideth alone," and he said that life in Christ must be grounded in sacrifice. Sacrifice is the genius of Christianity.
This is to be followed tomorrow morning by a sermon-lecture on "Conversion."

THE FORUM.

The Water Problem.

Editor, The Daily Press:—
Figure out the various plans with reference to the water business. I.
New Contract with cancellation clause, one year's notice, Plainfield
to receive ample supply—first call.
II. See what charter amounts to.
III. Condemnation. IV. New plant.
Public meetings are all right but public apathy is appalling and where there is no direct pecuniary interest, there is usually very little direct active interest.

A man may not own property, but he does use water and pay for it. A wife may hold title to real estate,
but the man should not be disfranchised. It is bad enough for the wife to have no voice, but when the old man's wind is choked off, it is too much! too much! Labor representatives should be specifically invited to attend the meetings. Labor is quite a factor in the production of wealth, no mistake about that. Labor is quite a factor in the consumption of water and labor pays for the same.
Labor composes the tenantry and the tenantry outnumber the owners of property "steers to one," and nobody but a remnant that came out of Noah's Ark would ever suggest the impropriety of labor not having a voice in the municipal ownership
and operation of a water plant.

I don't see any good friend of the working men arguing labor's side of the case. It is amusing to witness the constant activity of certain gentlemen in this water question. Willing to save the dear people from investing in a water plant because they know that there is no money in it.
A school boy once playing truant got as far away from home that he lost his way and reaching the cross roads he saw several boards up on posts with a hand directing the traveller which way to go, but he flopped around and of course took the wrong road. Just as he was looking at the signs, a little girl came along.
She looked at the signs and took the right road. I suppose the difference was that one could read and the other couldn't and the boy didn't like to ask. These gentlemen who are always on hand at the water investigating meetings are like the signs, maybe I can read them and maybe I can't.

Those who did not vote at the water election acquiesced unquestionably. The old motto reads,
"Silence gives consent" and in my humble opinion, the supporters of the new contract could not get out a much larger vote than was obtained at the Special Water Election.
The public are waiting to be advised, rather than to advise. The Common Council represents the people and it is up to the Council to suggest to the people the way, and the people if they must be further consulted in the matter in order to safeguard the destiny of those in charge of the work, will undoubtedly provide the means.

Trot out the facts, gentlemen, and let the people state at another election, if necessary, what they want you to do.

The people can read and are nearing the cross roads. Get up your signs. Give it a whirl, gentlemen, and let the wheel go round.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Novita, a dainty little dancer, direct from the Crystal Palace, London, is the premiere danseuse with
"The Soul Kiss," which is the underlined attraction at the Plainfield theatre for Thursday night this week. During the action of this big brilliant musical sensation, Novita, assisted by a special dancing chorus of pretty girls, will introduce some novel combinations of toe-dancers, a series never before seen on the stage, and which shows the extraordinary skill of the performer.

To be transported from the strife
of town to the atmosphere of the hill country, with its simple honest people pursuing their lives of affection and trust, is in itself a refreshment.
To hear the singing of the birds and those other sounds with the farm, to hear and see all things that flood the memory with pleasant experience and excite the imagination to a realizing sense of the poetry of common things, is not only a relief from the carves of the day, but a renewal of the better side of nature. To detail the plot would rob the reader of the pleasure of its surprises, for like
"Shore Acres" and the "Old Homestead," "Human Hearts," while on a different theme, throbs with interest true to nature and is an ever welcome visitor to the discriminating and thoughtful spectator. That its production will be welcomed by an overwhelming house is almost a foregone conclusion. At the Plainfield theatre, matinee and night, Saturday, February 25, at popular prices.
Matinee, 25, 35, 50 cents; night 25, 35, 50, 75 cents.

took part in the Tableau Vivant
given for charity at Asheville, N. C.,

DRY CLEANING TALK

Number 2

WHAT IS DRY CLEANING?

Many people have erroneous ideas about what Dry Cleaning really is—believing that their clothes are actually cleaned dry—as if by magic method we pass our hands over the garment and say "Presto!" It is clean.

Dry is a misnomer. "Chemical" cleaning would be a more intelligent name, but people might confuse "Chemical," thinking of acids, alkalis, etc., not used in Dry Cleaning.

The truth is we depend largely upon gasoline, naphtha, benzine —there's a difference—and other petroleum and coal tar products, for our cleansing bath instead of water as do the laundresses.

The secret and successful operations in Dry Cleaning are learned only by hard experience and study, coupled with proper equipment.
These are what enable us to do superior work.

We know our business thoroughly and are properly equipped in plant, collection and delivery.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Isaac Kuppenberg, proprietor of the North avenue bakery, was arranged before Recorder Campbell, Sunday morning, on a charge of assault preferred by Charles Jefferson, colored. The trouble took place near the borough hall and was the result of a dispute the men had at the bakery. Kuppenberg, it was alleged, struck Jefferson several vicious blows and then knocked him down. He denied the complaint, but Recorder Campbell told Kuppenberg in plain terms he had no regard for the truth as he saw part of the occurrence himself. He gave Kuppenberg a severe scolding and imposed a fine of $5 and costs, $6 in all with an alternative of $20 in all. The fine was paid.

THE KNITTED TOQUE.

Simplicity is its keynote, and it combines chic and usefulness.

Have you seen them? They are of wool—red or white usually—and they are knitted or crocheted loosely in the shape of tight fitting skating caps and in the weave once familiar in baby afghans.

Sometimes they are perfectly plain; sometimes they are bordered with dark fur; sometimes at the left side they have a long quill—feather or kid or velvet—caught by a little moon ornament, never anything more than that. Simplicity is their raison d'être.

Probably they won't live very long beyond this winter, but Paris has decreed them, and so this season they are quite the thing. In Paris they were the first to the races—a little girl selling doll caps at the gates thought of them first, they say—and now they are seen everywhere that a tailored suit is in evidence. For country tramps or for any open air exercises they are ideal, since they fit closely over the hair, do not need buttons and yet do not disarrange the coiffure.

Moreover, no snow or rain can hurt them, and they are easily washable in cool water and ammonia, with a little suds of castile soap. Do not iron them, but wring them tight, roll them in a towel and let them dry. In other words, act just as in laundering sweaters.

In fact, where they look best is with the long knitted coats that Paris sent over to us still earlier in the season.

With a knitted skirt, coat, gloves, leggings and cap the winter girl is toggled out completely, ready for any weather.

FOR THE SMALL BOY.

A Little Dress That Can Be Made Either Plain or Elaborate, According to Cloth Used.

The boys of America are better dressed than those of any other country, for in Paris their clothes are over-trimmed and give them a decidedly girlish appearance, while in London the opposite extreme prevails and the average boy's suit is not even youthful in appearance. Profiting by these peculiarities, American mothers insist upon dressing their boys in garments that are both young and boyish, and so these neat, short slips are made in a style that is different from girls'.

Following these lines, the little dress shown here will appeal to mothers because it is practical.

If developed in tub goods, such as blue or brown linen, striped or figured percale, plain gingham or chambray, it will be satisfactory for morning wear.

A more dressy garment could be made from white pique or heavy cotton poplin.

The finish at the side front could be effectively accentuated by applying a stitched band of the goods and the use of large flat pearl buttons.

If this model is copied in woolen materials, French serge, cashmere or mohair in either doft or navy blue it will be pretty.

A band of the same goods in white should be arranged at the side. The advantage this design has over the others is that it is so plain it may be successfully cleaned or laundered when soiled.

To copy it for a boy two years old one and one-half yards of goods thirty-six inches in width will be needed.

Crocheted Purse.

Here are simple directions for crocheting a purse with wool or silk. Commence with thirty-seven chain, always taking three chain to turn. Turn and work one treble in each chain, turn and continue the same till you have the required length. Remember that the work has to be doubled from beginning to end to form two sides.

When you have the length desired, start decreasing one stitch at each end until all the stitches are done. This point forms the turnover flap.

Double the work and sew neatly on the wrong side, turn back and sew a patent fastener to the under side of the flap, which fastens to the purse itself.

If you wish to fasten the purse around your neck, fasten your thread at one end of the purse and work eight chain and attach the opposite side. Buy a brass ring and double crochet around it, catching it into the eighth chain in the center. Pass the cord to go around the neck through this ring and the purse is completed.

IF I HAD ECZEMA

A Desperate Game

By JOHN K. LEYS,
Author of "The Lindsays," "The Lawyer's Secret," "The Black Terror," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by John K. Leys.

"I mean narrow means—living in a small suburban villa and never seeing any smart friends, having a pinch perhaps to make both ends meet, and having shabby clothes and poor fare?"

"Oh, that would be heaven in comparison!"

"Then, Eva, will you take the readiest way out of the difficulty? Will you marry me?"

The red blood rushed to her cheeks and she covered her face with her hands. Guy remained silent, his heart beating furiously. Then she looked up and met his gaze bravely.

"No, Guy, I cannot."

"And why not, if you really prefer poverty to—the life your mother proposes to you?"

"Because I will not have you marry me out of pity."

"Pity?" He laughed aloud. "Eva, is it possible that you do not know that I have been madly in love with you for weeks and weeks, ever since the night I first saw you indeed?"

He took her hand, her tiny little hand, in one of his and stroked it with the other.

"I am quite certain that Terence never did anything he need be ashamed of," cried Eva, her cheeks flushing.

"Then what is there to be afraid of? My darling, only trust to me! Only give me the right to protect you, and all those terrors will flee away like the mists at sunrise. If your brother should need a friend I will be his friend. I will do for him all that a man can do. Only give me yourself!"

Who can wonder that she yielded? She felt her lover's arms fold round her waist. She allowed herself to be drawn closer to him. When she raised her troubled eyes they met his and their lips met in the kiss of betrothal.

That afternoon, as Nora was sewing in the housekeeper's room, Mrs. O'Rourke came in, her cap strings flying, her good humored face scarlet with indignation.

"What is the matter?" asked Nora, letting her work fall into her lap.

"Matter enough! Why, I go into Master-Terence's room and I find it thick with dust. Over and over again I've told that girl Gladys that it was to be kept as neat as if he was expected here every day."

"Don't let it worry you, Mrs. O'Rourke. I'll make the room tidy," said the girl.

"Will you now? The saints bless ye, my dear, then, for a good girl, that's not above lending a hand when it's wanted."

It was with a certain secret pleasure that Nora opened the door of Captain Fitzgerald's private sitting room. She had been grateful to him for his kindness to her at her first coming to the house.

Her task was almost ended, and she was putting away in a closet a number of old papers and magazines when she came upon a Russia leather box about a foot long by three or four inches deep. There was scarcely room for it on the shelf, and in moving it she let it fall to the floor. The lid opened as it fell and showed the interior to be of red velvet, shaped in a very peculiar way.

Suddenly she gave a scream and dropped the box to the ground.

She had seen, running round the inside of the box, in faded gilt, the very same peculiar pattern that she had noticed in the ornamentation of the revolver that had taken her father's life. She remembered it well, and she recollected that Guy Lorimer also had noticed it when he showed her the weapon. At the instant no one had doubted that the man who had dropped the revolver was the murderer. Then, if it belonged to Captain Fitzgerald—

But was not this a matter the police ought to know of? Her reason said "Yes," but her whole nature rose in rebellion against the idea. She loved this man, and what had he done? She loved him—she would have shielded him at the cost of her own life.

In the meantime it was not safe, she told herself, to leave the box lying there. It was a strong piece of evidence against the man in whose room it was found. She would fill it with stones and sink it in the Thames. She took the box, cartridges and all, went upstairs and locked them away in her trunk.

CHAPTER XI.

"THERE IS BLOOD ON YOUR HANDS!"

One morning shortly after this Lady Roscommon came to breakfast with an absent, thoughtful expression on her still handsome face. Her husband, glancing up from his newspaper, noticed it, but made no remark.

"Algernon," she said suddenly, "I think it would be best to go back to Castle Dare."

His lordship was genuinely surprised.

"Why?" he asked.

"Because I don't see the use of staying here any longer."

"But," he ventured to remonstrate, "you have gone to great expense in taking this house in order that Eva might have a season in town, and the season is scarcely begun. Not that it matters to me," he added, hesitatingly.

You're guilty of criminal neglect if you've delayed coming to Greene's price-paralyzing Midwinter Sale. Lavish values in furniture, carpets and clothing are the fascinating features of this gigantic selling event.

It Stands for Everything She Wants

In a Furniture and Carpet Store

She finds the lowest prices in the State, marked in plain figures. She sees a storeful of housefurnishings of every kind and description, making the selection so easy that she's sure to find exactly the things she wants. She finds the dependable in use, and the Credit Terms so convenient that there's never a worry about making payments. She knows that the bristling Midwinter Sale is "making good" every word said for it in the newspapers, because she's been here and snapped up some of the wonderful bargains. She knows that this sale "Practises What It Preaches." The worst injustice you can do is to confuse it with other sales. She knows it's different because "it's miles ahead." Not a lot of washed-up junk to select from, but brand-new spring 1911 patterns, at savings of 30, 40 and 50 per cent. Come early, tomorrow. Women of Good Judgment Use the "Beaver"

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES Prompt Delivery

A good stove is as essential to the housewife as a watch to the business man—both must be dependable. The woman who prides herself on baking the best bread in town can't do justice to her skill if she uses a range that won't hold its heat and that doesn't warm all sides of the oven uniformly. "Beaver" ranges are fine bakers, because the right amount of heat reaches every part of the oven at the right time. Save money, time, trouble and worry by investing in a "Beaver" during the Midwinter Sale, while the prices are sharply reduced.

seeing a 'trown gather on the lady's face. "I shall be delighted to get back to the country. The fishing is at its best, and the beetle season!"

"We can't give Eva the advantages of a London season living in this house," Lady Roscommon interrupted. "for we are in the suburbs, too far out for people to call, too far even to go to a theater comfortably. It is duller here than at Castle Dare. Terence will soon be having his furlough, and he will enjoy being with us at home."

"Well, dear, as I said, I have no objection. When did you think of going?"

"As soon as things can be got ready for us—in a week, I should think."

All this time Eva had sat by without saying a word. Her mother had purposely refrained from looking at her and so had not observed that the girl had turned pale. She had no wish to leave Hampton Place now that Guy had declared his love for her. She had pictured to herself many meetings, but she knew her mother too well to raise any objections. They would have carried no weight, and if she had expressed a wish to remain at Hampton Place her sharp eyed mother might have asked questions as to her reasons which she would have found it difficult to answer.

Her first care was to write and tell Guy the unwelcome news and arrange for a farewell meeting. This was not a very easy matter, as Lady Roscommon, disapproving of the friendliness that she saw was springing up between Eva and her own maid, Nora, had engaged a French maid to accompany her daughter whenever she had occasion to go out, and as Virginia was always at hand, ready to carry out her mistress' wishes, it was not easy to get rid of her. Happily an opportunity offered itself. Virginia begged for an afternoon to go and bid adieu to her friends in London, and Eva managed to send a telegram to her lover begging him to meet her at the old trysting place in Hampton Court grounds.

The member of Lord Roscommon's family who was most disturbed by her ladyship's sudden resolve to go back to Ireland was the heir, Captain Fitzgerald.

He had fallen in love madly in love—with his mother's beautiful maid, Nora Kildare. Many a man before now has had the misfortune—it is generally a rather heavy misfortune—to fall in love with his mother's maid, but few have had so good an excuse as young Fitzgerald. Not only was the girl extremely beautiful, but she had a mind above her position. There was something in the nature of the girl which made it impossible for her to be vulgar whatever her surroundings might be.

Captain Fitzgerald was not blind to this. If she were his wife he would never have to blush for her.

But his father and mother would offer the bitterest opposition to the match, and to marry in spite of them was an impossibility. He had nothing but his pay, which did not suffice even for his own needs. What he depended on was the allowance from his mother.

If he allowed Nora to go to Ireland without telling her what he felt for her she would be very likely to meet some one in her own rank of life who would fall in love with her and ask her to marry him, so he resolved to speak out. After all, he said to himself, there was no need for them to marry just yet, and something might turn up that would allow them to marry before long.

He seized an opportunity one afternoon when the house was unusually empty. His mother was out paying calls. Eva, too, was not to be seen. As a matter of fact, she was just then sitting very close to Guy Lorimer on a bench in the gardens of Hampton Court.

It was with a heart beating high with anticipated triumph that Terence Fitzgerald made his way to the retired little room where he knew he would find Nora.

He knocked lightly and opened the door without waiting for an invitation.

"Don't run away, Nora," he said as the girl rose, gathering up her sewing. "I shan't stop a minute. But the fact is the house seems quite empty today. Everybody has gone out, and there isn't a soul to speak to a fellow."

Nora kept her eyes fixed on her work and said nothing.

"I suppose you know we are—that is, you are all going back to Ireland next week?"

"Yes, sir. My lady told me so."

"I wish you wouldn't be so precious formal with me, Nora," said the young man, half offended. "You weren't nearly so stand-off when you first came. Have I done anything to offend you?"

"No, sir. How could you offend me? On the contrary, you have always been very good to me."

His quick ear caught the tremble in her voice.

"Nora," he said and stopped, for his own voice was shaking strangely—"Nora, I have come to say something to you. Won't you listen to me?"

The girl let her hands fall into her lap, but did not raise her eyes.

"It is only what I have been feeling this long time, Nora. It is just this—that I love you, and I want you to—to be my wife by and by."

The girl pushed back her chair, so as to place herself at a greater distance from him, and, raising her head, looked straight into his smiling eyes.

"You—you say this to me?" she panted out.

"Yes. Why not, since I love you, my darling? There will be difficulties!"

"Yes, but we will overcome them together, won't we? There is my hand. Will you take it for your own?"

"Your hand? No, no! I can't! There is blood on it!" Her eyes were fixed on the outstretched hand as if she almost expected to see the dark red

UNION CO. TAXES

Board Tells of its Work and its Benefits in Exhaustive Report.

The Conferences with the Local Assessors Helpful as Latter Carry Out Suggestions Made to Them.

The Union County Board of Taxation has considered and disposed of appeals from assessments upon real and personal property, situated in the various municipalities below set forth, for the year 1910, in the manner following:

	Withdrawn.	Dismissed.	Granted.
Cranford Township.....	0	0	10

Springfield Township.....	1	1	2
Summit.....	1	3	19
Union Township.....	0	1	8
Westfield.....	3	19	31

Total.....21 108 370
The total number of appeals considered were four hundred and ninety-nine, many of which included several pieces of real estate and frequently included land, buildings and personal property, and, always, where the appeal was from valuation placed upon improved real estate, it compelled the determination by the board of the value of both land and buildings.

The total reductions granted by the board, on appeal, for the year 1910, amount to $458,091.00.

It will be noted from an examination of the following statistics that the assessed valuations in Union county have rapidly risen since the creation of county tax boards.

In the year 1905 the total taxable valuation of Union county, including real and personal property, was $55,260,709.00, and in the year 1910 the total valuation was $135,383,489.85.

The following is a statement of the total ratables of Union county during the years this board has been in existence, and including, as well, the year 1905:

1905.....	$ 55,260,709.00
1906.....	106,259,437.00
1907.....	114,454,000.00
1908.....	118,971,114.00
1909.....	127,013,402.00
1910.....	135,383,489.85

Showing an increase, since 1905, of $80,122,780.85.

The following is a statement of assessed valuations, for each municipality in Union county, for the years 1905 and 1910, showing the increases in property since the creation of this board, 1905 and 1910, respectively:

Clark township, $224,400, $768,177; Cranford township, $2,049,000, $5,383,306; Elizabeth, $24,116,699, $57,408,430.90; Fanwood township, $863,200, $1,325,233; Fanwood L. $256,419, $509,879; Garwood, $460,275, $1,192,391; Linden township, $1,666,700, $7,827,625; Linden, $246,200, $1,003,462; Kenilworth $762,160.18; Mountainside, $141,650, $479,500; New Providence township, $152,000, $370,147.50; New Providence, $220,000, $517,986; Plainfield, $10,251,064, $24,411,589; Rahway, $3,441,820, $6,612,996.42; Roselle, $1,270,000, $3,026,450; Roselle Park, $931,000, $2,782,957; Springfield township, $402,200, $1,032,570; Summit, $1,608,000, $9,950,277; Union township, $1,927,782, $2,956,010.85; Westfield, $2,932,300, $7,052,342.

*In 1905 the borough of Kenilworth was part of the township of Union.

For many years the various municipalities were compelled to pay State school and county tax upon valuations fixed by the local assessors and were made no remittance on account thereof for reductions in valuations made by the county boards. To remedy this injustice an act was passed by the Legislature of 1910 providing that the county boards, in fixing the State school and county taxes for each municipality, should deduct the total reductions made by the board since its creation, after appeal made to it, from the total ratables as returned by the various assessors. This course was followed by the board this year and the total reductions made amounted to $3,433,200.23.

The result of this procedure was that in some municipalities the amount of money to be raised for State school and county purposes was materially less than in previous years. This difference was especially noticeable in the moneys to be raised by the smaller boroughs and townships for the above purposes.

The duplicate assessment books are by law required to be filed by each assessor with this board on or before the first Tuesday in August, of each year, and, thereafter, and until the third Tuesday in September, of each year, are subject to revision by this board without appeal or notice. While the board has received some complaints during the period, and has given them attention, it finds that perhaps the public at large is not aware that by complaining to the board at this season owners can avoid the necessity of making a written appeal to the board. When the books of the assessors are filed they are examined and all totals verified before the rates are fixed.

The board has maintained an office in the court house at Elizabeth, where the duplicate assessment books, returned by the various assessors, are kept. It is found that these records are being constantly referred to by taxpayers and they afford information which could not otherwise be obtained except by interviewing the various assessors and collectors of taxes. A clerk has constantly been in charge of the office for the purpose of exhibiting these records, answering the many questions relating to taxation and to carry on the business of the board.

The statute of 1909, requiring county clerks and registers to file a statement of each recorded conveyance of real estate to the various municipalities has given much assistance to the assessor in his effort to fix a true valuation on real estate. The return of the register in this county includes not only a description of the property transferred but, where set forth in the transfer, a statement of the consideration for the transfer.

The board finds that it is often handicapped in determining the exact area of land as it has no maps filed in its office that can be used for reference, except the Union county atlas, and that does not furnish the details which should be before the board, and it is hoped that maps of each municipality in the county, properly authenticated, will be filed with the Board so that this difficulty may be overcome.

A great advantage has been found in conferring with the various as-
