AGITATION FOR C.J.R.R. TUNNEL

Plan of Commerce Chamber to Arouse Public Sentiment Along the Line.

FOR COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.

Vote of Confidence For Common Council For Its Water Probe

Work—To Hold Monthly Dinners.

An agitation in favor of the New Jersey Central securing tunnel connection at Jersey City was started at the March meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, last night, and it was decided to invite Vice-President and General Manager W. G. Besler and W. C. Hope, the general passenger agent, to address the chamber at the April meeting on the possibility of such an improvement. It is the intention of the chamber to arouse interest in the project among residents along the New Jersey Central to secure united action.

The chamber also gave its endorsement to the plan of government of municipalities by commission, following the reading of a letter from former Mayor Charles J. Flisk, urging that the chamber "get in line," and President George L. Babcock appointed Mr. Flisk and William Jeffery a committee to confer with the legislative committee and to attend all future hearings on bills pertaining to the subject at Trenton. It is understood that several hearings will be given at Trenton within a short time. There was a question raised as to the form desired by Plainfield, but the committee will investigate and report.

The chamber gave a vote of confidence to the Common Council in the matter of securing a municipal water supply, believing that its course is right and proper in trying to acquire such a supply either through condemnation proceedings of the local plant or in establishing a new plant.

Words of praise were received from the speakers at the chamber's banquet, including George W. Perkins, George A. Post and W. J. Moran, and said that they would be pleased to speak at some convenient time before the chamber on suggested topics. On motion of P. H. Burns the above men together with James E. Martine were elected honorary members of the chamber.

It was also decided to hold the first of the series of monthly dinners at the Waldorf Hotel Monday evening, March 13, from 6:30 to 8:30, as suggested by the membership committee of which G. M. Christian is chairman. On motion of William Jeffery the membership committee will be enlarged, the president appointing those who are to serve. It is hoped to secure a large non-resident membership.

The secretary, Judge John Ulrich, presented a brief report on the first annual banquet of the chamber, February 13, stating that it was a success and that there was no deficit. D. W. Littell, treasurer, then reported in that connection receipts of $1,200, expenditures of $1,133.94, leaving a balance of $67.06, which was turned over to the treasurer of the chamber. Mr. Littell said that all bills had been paid. The committee was discharged with thanks.

Julius Keller, of the Harris Typewriter Company, who has been seeking a location in this city with a view to establishing a factory here for the manufacture of typewriters, appeared before the chamber, explained his proposition at some length and was questioned in detail by the members. He displayed a sample typewriter, the kind that it is proposed to manufacture.

A communication was received from the New York Globe, informing the chamber that it is soon to issue a special suburban edition of 15,000 copies, and seeking an advertisement for the same. The communication was laid on the table.

William Jeffery stated to the evident satisfaction of the chamber that the executive committee of the old Board of Trade had settled all old bills, with the exception of the one for the Charter Day Badges. That was reduced from $420 to $320, and Mr. Jeffery explained that the old committee had $100 which it had offered to the concern in settlement of that claim, the time for such offer expiring today.

NEED FOR CAPITAL

Commerce Chamber to Raise Fund to Get Big Plant Located Here.

BY POPULAR SUBSCRIPTION.

Harris Typewriter Company Will Build Factory Here if It Gets $80,000—Committee Named.

The possibility of the Harris Typewriter Company locating its factory in this city, seems brighter, following the action of the Chamber of Commerce at its March meeting, last night. Julius Keller, representing the company, appeared before the chamber, explained in detail the special make of typewriter which it is intended to manufacture; also the fact that the concern had assurances of making a contract with Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, whereby the latter will take one hundred machines a day for ten years.

This Mr. Keller said, was sufficient to warrant the business being a success from the start. And in addition there would be the export trade which Mr. Keller said would greatly increase the profits of the company.

The proposition was thoroughly discussed by members of the chamber and Mr. Keller was closely questioned in every little detail. What Mr. Keller desires is that the Chamber of Commerce endorse the proposition, making it possible for the company to secure subscriptions among Plainfielders to the extent of raising about $80,000 which would purchase land and erect a factory such as the company would need. The plan would be to give the stockholders a mortgage to the amount subscribed.

The discussion raised the point as to whether it is the purpose of a Chamber of Commerce to give endorsement to such propositions. Charles H. Hand, who showed clearly that he was very weary concerning the endless discussion, put the question point blank to Mr. Keller if it was not his purpose to raise $80,000 here among Plainfielders, and if so he said that the question to decide was how is the money to be raised.

Mr. Hand declared that the typewriter company would be waiting six years or more for a location if the present policy of discussion was followed and he suggested that all hands get down to business.

This served to bring the matter to a head and on motion, President Babcock named in addition to the committee on factories, comprising F. A. Duttonhoffer, J. C. Allen, Milton Mindil, other members, Herman Schwed, E. F. Felckert, Charles H. Hand, William Jeffery and W. S. Angleman, to further investigate the proposition to canvass the members of the chamber and see who are willing to subscribe $100 or more for the purpose mentioned.

It seemed to impress those present that Mr. Keller's proposition was a good one, and it is also believed that the company will doubtless locate here. Mr. Keller said that it would be possible to build a factory in a larger city, but then there was also trouble about keeping help. He did not believe that condition would be found in Plainfield. He said that it would probably cost $250,000 to build a plant and equip the same.

MISS FLORENCE N. FORD BRIDE OF HAROLD FENNO

Announcement was made today by Mrs. Sara N. Ford, of the marriage of her daughter Miss Florence Nettie, to Harold Chamberlain Fenno, of Chicago, Ill. The wedding took place on January 2 at Hartford, Conn. The groom is a son of R. F. Fenno, formerly a resident of this city, but now living in Chicago and a grand nephew of the late Job Male, who presented the library to this city. He was graduated from the Plainfield High school in 1905 and from Williams College in 1909. He is in the employ of the Middle States Inspection Bureau, of New York, in a lucrative position and with his bride is living at York, Pa., where he is temporarily at work for the company.

"FAKED" WEIGHTS

Mayor Moy Starts Crusade Against Dishonest Dealers.

GETS SOME LOCAL EVIDENCE

If You Have Any Complaint See His Honor—Bill In Legislature Aims to Stop the Evil.

If there is anybody engaged in the retail business whose scales are not standard and weigh truly they are likely to get into trouble with the law. Mayor Moy believes it will be a long time before the special measure which is to be brought before the Legislature providing for inspectors of weights and measures becomes a law and in order that the people may not have to submit any longer to short weights proposes to wage a crusade purely local and under the old State law.

Yesterday his honor asked Chief Kieley to start the ball rolling by taking a flyer at a local junk dealer. The first one the chief asked to show his scale produced one of the variety known as stillyards, which had just been purchased, so he said, from a local hardware dealer. Chief Kieley accepted the scale and later in the day took it to a local butcher.

"How much does that leg of lamb weigh, Bill," asked the chief. "Nine and a half pounds," responded the butcher as he laid it on the counter preparatory to dressing it up for the chief's table.

"I guess I'll weigh that myself," said the chief to himself, and suiting the action to the word hooked the stillyards onto the piece of lamb and held it at arm's length.

"Well, I'll be jiggered," ejaculated the hunter after evidence. "This scale says that that piece of meat weighs only half a pound; now I'd like to know which scale is right—yours or mine."

The butcher looked at the chief in amazement and wanted to know where he got the stillyards. "That's telling," said Mr. Kieley, "but I'm not quite satisfied yet. Let's try another and bigger piece of something. No sooner said than done. A piece of beef weighing fifty pounds or more was hooked on to the stillyards and they registered 22 pounds.

"Looks like a get-rich-quick piece of mechanism, don't it?" "Seems so," answered the butcher. And there you are.

Question—How many are doing the same trick?
But then there is another side to this weight question and his honor determined to get a little evidence himself this morning. He watched the process of buying a certain commodity by a dealer who does considerable business. After the deal was concluded Mayor Moy asked to look at the stillyards. He found that by pressing on a certain part of the instrument that it could be made to act as the manipulator wished. He confiscated the scale.

According to the plans of the mayor there will be tests made in different quarters and there are several especially flagrant violators who are thought to be "scale manipulators."

That the matter of short weights has become a sort of business as a side line to legitimate enterprise is amply sustained by the information given out by the Bureau of Municipal Research of New York. It is estimated that upward of $10 each is the toll exacted from the families of the rich and poor alike throughout New Jersey.

Eight Centuries of Masonry.

George N. Cross will give an illustrated lecture on "Eight Centuries of Masonry," at the communication of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., Tuesday evening, March 7. Others who will entertain that night will include James D. Kay, of Azure Lodge, in impersonation; Elmer D. Cutting, Harry N. Blimm, William G. Smith and Charles Gilman, who will render vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments will also be served. On Tuesday evening, March 21, the lodge will confer the entered apprentice degree.

Mysterious Fire.
A quantity of bedding in a room on the second floor of Mrs. Mary C. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, caught fire in some way early last evening. The West End hose company responded to an alarm and put out the blaze with a couple of hand extinguishers. The damage is placed at $50. The members of the family were unable to explain the origin of the blaze as no one had been in the room for an hour previous.

Every lady of this city should see the demonstration of the Lady Chaire Adjustable Dress Form at 155 East Front street today or tomorrow. See adv. on page four.

COUNTY HOSPITAL BONDS ARE SOLD

The Union County Board of Freeholders at its March meeting, yesterday, authorized the selling of the $50,000 bonds for the county tuberculosis hospital, and Harris, Forbes & Co., of New York, the highest bidders, secured them. The firm offered $52,740.

The bonds are to bear interest at 4 1/2 per cent. and are to run thirty years. This will give the freeholders a sufficient sum to pay for the land at Scotch Plains and make many needed improvements for the care and treatment of persons suffering from tuberculosis.

SOMERSET COUNTY SUED BY BRUNSON

Before Vice Chancellor Howell at Newark, today, there is a hearing in the case of A. J. Brunson against the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, in which Mr. Brunson seeks to make permanent the temporary injunction restraining the board from cutting down several valuable trees in front of his property on Greenbrook road for the purpose of widening that thoroughfare. The road had been widened up to that point when the temporary injunction was secured.

R. V. Lindabury represents Mr. Brunson and John A. Frech the Board of Freeholders. Among the witnesses called this morning were Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough; W. H. Shotwell, James Craig and F. C. Langhorne, the photographer, who took pictures of the road in front of Mr. Brunson's place. The hearing will be continued this afternoon.

JURY DISAGREES IN SUIT ON NOTE

After a five hours' deliberation the jury in the case of the suit of William Abbott against Charles H. Lyman, seeking to recover on a promissory note, returned to the District Court, last night, and was discharged after the foreman reported that no agreement could be reached. The jury retired about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The case was tried before Judge William Newcorn and occupied the greater part of the morning. Mr. Abbott was represented by V. W. Nash, Jr., and W. A. Coddington was counsel for Mr. Lyman. Mr. Abbott sued to recover $270 with interest on a promissory note and in addition $90 for commissions on a real estate deal.

Mr. Abbott testified that Mr. Lyman had not paid the note and interest as well as the commission, while Mr. Lyman, who is also a real estate broker, contended that the amount had been paid, that he had sold property for Mr. Abbott and that the commission was sufficient to liquidate the indebtedness to Mr. Abbott.

The jury comprised the following: Edward Lynch, Thomas Hanna, F. A. Duttonhoffer, Edward Morallon, Meredith Dryden, Charles E. Vail, James C. Hansen, S. R. Meyers, Frank Dunham, Joseph Harrigan, A. F. Marsh and J. P. Homan. It has been decided to try the case again.

HOWARD CARVER WEDS MISS LUCY GORJINI.

Miss Lucy Gorjini, of this city, formerly of Elizabeth, and Howard Carver, of the borough, were married at the latter's home on Harrison street, last night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Mrs. Richard Higgins and Jerry Signor, both of Elizabeth, acted as matron-of-honor and best man-respectively.

The wedding was followed by a reception during which supper was served and musical numbers were furnished by the Mignon Brothers, of Newark. The couple received many handsome presents. Mr. Carver conducts a coal and wood business in the city and borough.

Planning For Columbus Day.
The Italian boss barbers of the city held a meeting last night with a view to planning some sort of observance of Columbus Day, October 12. There was a general discussion of plans, to be decided later, and it is hoped to secure the co-operation of all people who are directly interested in such a celebration.

COLLEGE TO BE REBUILT--AN APPEAL; ADJUSTERS FIGURE LOSS IS $230,000

Bishop McFaul Acts Promptly for Temporary Quarters-- Monsignor Brady Gives $5,000--Request Made by Sisters-- To Adjust Loss Tuesday.

GLIMPSE OF FACADE OF MT. ST. MARY COLLEGE AFTER THE FIRE. ABOVE THE MAIN ENTRANCE STANDS THE UNBLEMISHED STATUE OF THE VIRGIN MARY.

The ruins of the College of Mt. St. Mary were still smoking today and it will be some days before the heap of smoking debris will be cooled off enough to be searched. The articles of furniture and other things saved from the flames have been taken care of and will be in readiness for the new building when completed.

Help Extended.
It was announced yesterday that several large contributions had been offered toward a fund for rebuilding the edifice, Monsignor Brady, of Perth Amboy, offering $5,000. When seen this morning, Rev. William H. Miller, pastor of St. Joseph's church, said that visitors among whom was Miss Louise Tucker, teacher of music at the college, suggested that a benefit be arranged to be given in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and while this plan was considered a good one it was not definitely decided upon.

Temporary Quarters.
Father Miller also said that temporary houses for the continuance of the classes of the college would soon be obtained and the work resumed, meanwhile most of the sisters have been sent to the various missions in the nearby cities where they will be cared for until the new arrangements are completed. Classes may be begun in seven days.

Kindness has marked the many friends of the institution in offers of aid. Herman Kellar, owner of the building at the corner of Watchung and Jackson avenues in the borough has offered the building for the use of the school and in all likelihood will be accepted. Several other buildings are at the disposal of the sisters.

Adjusters Busy.
Miller & Maltby, public adjusters, acting for the several companies in which the institution was insured, visited this city yesterday afternoon. They had a talk with Bishop McFaul and Mother Gabriel and visited the scene of the fire. The adjusters will hold a conference with Bishop McFaul at Trenton on Tuesday when it is expected that an amicable settlement of the losses will be made.

The Loss $230,000.
The total loss is now estimated at $230,000. Of this amount $170,000 represents damage done to the structure, while $60,000 is the loss on the personality.

Smoke.
A story was told by some of the boys of the primary department of the college to the effect that they had smelled smoke for several hours on Wednesday afternoon, but paid no particular attention to the incident owing to the fact that they thought the odor came from the cooking being done in the kitchen, or possibly from wood being dried there.

Brave at Fire.
There is no doubt that bravery was exhibited by all the men who went to the assistance of the sisters when the fire became known. Among those of the fire department who were conspicuous for their bravery were Martin Connaughton, Daniel Keiderling, Joseph Clark, Captain James Daley and Chief McCullough and his men from the borough department. Geo. A. Bailey, of the borough, who is not a fireman, accompanied the local police in the patrol wagon and did great work in saving what was possible to carry out. Instances of personal bravery were many and it is owing to the caution of Chief Doane, that two men are not numbered among the dead now. Keiderling and Connaughton were bent on attempting a rescue of the painting, "Christ Before Pilate," which hung just inside the college entrance. The two men started in but before they had gone many feet Chief Doane rushed in front of them and pushed them out of harm's way just as the wall collapsed. The men would have been buried under tons of stone and bricks. It is estimated that the firemen were instrumental in saving $6,000 worth of the contents besides the building on the east end, containing the kitchen and laundry.

The Still Alarm.
Another story told yesterday in which the telephone operator was accused of not sending the alarm in until the sending telephone number was given was denied by Manager P. H. Burns. What really occurred was that the operator, not knowing whether the department wanted was in North Plainfield or this city, had to look it up and could only do so by referring to "information" for its location. As soon as this was obtained the company was summoned. The time consumed was perhaps twenty seconds. In referring to this incident, Mr. Burns said this morning that in front of every operator there is posted in red figures the numbers of the two fire headquarters and as soon as an alarm is given the proper department is notified. It would be wrong and perhaps annoying to call the city fire department for a blaze in the borough and vice versa, hence the necessity for the correct location of a call.

It is believed that if a benefit is arranged as suggested by Miss Tucker that a very large proportion of the funds needed to rebuild the college would be secured. The sympathy of the entire clergy of both the city and borough has been expressed.

Statue Not Damaged.
One of the remarkable things about the destruction of the college and one that is causing great comment among both Catholics and others is that notwithstanding the fearful heat and the playing of flames all about it, the statue of the Virgin at the entrance of the building was not even scorched nor cracked nor in any way harmed. The statue may be seen in the picture published today.

The School Itself.
Contrary to the general belief the pupils at Mt. St. Mary's included boys from the age of five years up to twelve, which means up to the preparatory for the High School. And besides that there was no sectarianism entering into the contract to teach. No methods of religious instruction were inculcated that would in any way conflict with the upbringing of any pupil. The disaster has resulted in bringing to light the actual conditions which prevail at the institution.

Sisters Make Appeal.
At a conference held this morning it became known that fifteen pianos, beds, bedding, household linen and all the equipment of the domestic science department of the college had been destroyed. The most urgent need, therefore, is the things which must meet these requirements. Beds and the necessary bedding, pillow cases and sheets and in fact pieces of black voile, and linen or muslin are urgently needed.

Temporary Quarters.
The building known as St. Gabriel's Academy at the corner of Watchung and Jackson avenues will be the first one fitted up for the continuance of the work of the college and it is hoped to have this ready for classes within a week.

Public Schools' Use.
In speaking of the needs of the advanced pupils of the college this morning one of the sisters said that if the Board of Education of this city would offer the use of the chemical laboratories after the regular school hours the sisters could make advantageous use of them and besides would not cause any inconvenience to the authorities of the education board. And another thing which might possibly be accomplished without very much trouble would be the furnishing of text books which are very much needed. School supplies of all kinds are needed, but those mentioned are the most urgent.

Water Not Inadequate.
The sisters this morning said that the published reports of the scarcity of water were not absolutely true as there was an adequate supply.

The following is the roll of the school: Miss Loretta Nolan, Trenton; Irene Duchesne, Plainfield; Irene Smith, New York; Grace Conrery, Trenton; Anabel Jones, South Carolina; Grace Rafferty, Plainfield; Mrs. Alice Jacard, instructor in French; Alva Stevens, Mont Hagen Island; Catherine Griffin, New York; May Hickey, Raritan; May Costello, South Amboy; Maribel Collins, Plainfield; Anna Sutley, Bordentown; Marie Sheppard, Bound Brook; Minnie Taylor, Plainfield; Pearl Jones, Trenton; Emily McCloud, Elizabeth; Anna Borgseldt, Metuchen; Lucille Borgseldt, Metuchen; Anna Conlin, Bound Brook; Marie Sullivan, Plainfield; May Duchesne, Plainfield; Bernadette Duchesne, Plainfield; Marie Tobin, Plainfield; Sadie Lee, Scotch Plains; Margaret Ribson, Trenton; Margaret Baulatz, Trenton; Kathleen Brown, Trenton; Marie Helen Dugan, Philadelphia; Agnes O'Connor, Trenton; Marie Krenan, Trenton.

This Shows the Boynton Square Fire Pot. Nothing Like It in Other Boilers.

This Boiler is a Coal Saver

Why? Because it is a BOYNTON and has the BOYNTON square fire pot, which increases fire surface about 25% over other boilers of like diameter. The BOYNTON "square pot" is the greatest improvement yet devised in heating systems. It is square at the corners, hence clear of cinders and ash each time the grate is turned. That means a live fire, always, and plenty of draft. See your dealer about the

$3,000 WORTH OF CHECKS MISSING

Jersey City, March 3.—The discovery of the theft of a large number of checks to the amount of $3,000 was made by the timekeeper in the plant of the beef-packing firm of Swift & Co., in Ninth street yesterday. The timekeeper notified the cashier, who called Acting Captain Richards of the Second Police Precinct and notified him of the theft. Detective Sergeants Hoffman and Curry were hustled out on the job.

The police have issued a notice to business men and banks not to accept the checks if presented. One well known business man of Pavonia avenue informed the police that he had cashed one of the checks. He said he knew the man whom he had cashed it for; that he was an employee of Swift & Co., and that he had frequently cashed checks for him.

The checks stolen were to have been paid to men in the Swift Company last night, it being the regular pay night of the establishment. The men to whom they were to be paid had to wait until today in order to give the timekeeper time to make out another set of checks.

Altogether there were about 100 checks stolen. Those entitled to the checks not stolen were paid off last night as usual. The timekeeper missed the stolen checks while going over the list, preparatory to paying the employees. The checks were usually kept in a desk drawer in his office. There is nothing to indicate how the theft was accomplished. The police investigating the case are of the opinion that it was someone in Swift's who stole the checks, and they expect to make an arrest in a day or so.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A number of the local members of Fireside Council, R. A., of Westfield, attended the council's annual dinner which was held last night in New York.

Mrs. Irving W. Quenan, of New York, is spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Randolph, of Grand street.

Lynus Walpole has returned home from a week's visit with relatives and friends in the New-England States.

Miss Kate Clark has returned from a visit of several days with her aunt, Mrs. D. R. Clark, at Newark.

The regular monthly communion will be held at the Sunday morning service at the Baptist church.

Borough Recorder Charles Sheelen is able to be around again after a severe attack of the grip.

Albert Walpole has resigned his position with the Aelolan Co., at Garwood.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The funeral of John Teeling, who died Monday after a long illness, was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Teeling. The service was conducted by Rev. Ernest R. Brown, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Several selections were sung by members of the Presbyterian church choir. There were numerous floral tributes, among them several sets of pieces from the Presbyterian Sunday school and the family. Burial was made in Evergreen cemetery, Elizabeth, the pall bearers being Edgar Starker, Clarence T. Voorhees, Leo Logan, Russell Runyon, Ben Dodwell and Ben Vail.

smoker announce that a good program is being prepared. A speaker versed on municipal affairs has been secured and will give an address. There will also be other speeches and refreshments.

Members of the Methodist church are preparing to give an entertainment entitled "New England Folks" next Thursday night. Rehearsals have been underway for some time and indications point to a successful affair.

Shively and Harris, the Dunellen contractors, have completed the work of painting the Piscataway township almshouse.

Mrs. Charles E. Dodwell, of the borough, has returned from a visit with friends at Newark.

SENATORS LEARN TO PRAY.

At a session of the Kansas State Senate recently Rev. A. F. Randall, the chaplain, requested the Senators to repeat with him the Lord's Prayer. Only eight were able to join in its audible repetition. Since that time the chaplain has distributed copies of the Book of Common Prayer of the Episcopal church among the members.
 At the opening of yesterday's session the chaplain again requested the Senators to say this prayer. Full-ly half of the Senators were able to repeat it.

Sixty Hens Laid 1,039 Eggs.
 M. Johnson, a poultry fancier of Glenville, N. Y., made a wager on February 1 that his sixty hens would lay 1,000 eggs during the month. Up to February 28 he had collected 969 eggs, an average of 35 a day. Great interest was taken in the contest, and all day neighbors called to get the latest reports. At 10 o'clock in the morning of the twenty-eighth it was announced that the thousandth egg had been laid. But the hens wanted to make it a good victory, and at 5:30 o'clock the hour the contest was declared off, the last hen jumped off the nest, making the count 1,039.

News and Notes

BASEBALL.

It looks as if the syndicate of bookmakers of Newport, Ky., who are sending circulars all over the country offering to accept bets on the results of the ball games played by the different teams in the National and American leagues this season, will either have to abolish their plan or take the consequences of being arrested. The Department of Justice of Washington, after reading one of the circulars sent out by the syndicate, has decided to make an investigation, and will most likely put the "bookies" out of business.

The train bearing the players of the Philadelphia National League baseball club rolled into Birmingham, Ala., Wednesday, 15 minutes behind the scheduled time. The men bounded off the train with enthusiasm, all glad to be relieved of the fatigue and monotony of a thirty-one hours' ride, which offered little to amuse or entertain them. The Phillies started training at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

It now seems probable that Sunday baseball will be legalized in Ohio, in which case the Cleveland club will play Sunday games. The House Wednesday passed the bill, 61 to 46, and as Sunday ball is now played at Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo, by permission of City Councils, the sentiment of the State seems to be in favor of the sport on the Sabbath.

Somebody asked Wyatt Lee, of the Indians, recently if he had signed a contract for this season yet. "Why, I never bother about that," replied Lee. "When it comes time I take my dinner pail along and go to work. They don't need a contract for me. Lee is something of a philosopher. He has seen the rise of many a "busher," and also seen a lot of them come back. Speaking of the reason why so many wonderful minor league twirlers fail in big company, he remarked: "It's this way. They find their fast ball a mite too slow, and their slow ones just a bit too fast."

Pitcher Jack Coombs, of the Philadelphia Athletics, wandered into the office at Shibe Park around 1 o'clock, and, after warm greetings had been extended between the pitcher and Manager Mack, a contract was yanked from the club's safe, and in a few minutes the signature of the twirler was on the paper. Coombs looked to be in mid-season form. Connie was well pleased with the big fellow's appearance, and, as most of the veterans who got away Wednesday did not look to be in need of any excessive exercises, the tall leader of the Elephants expects every man to report in Savannah in superb condition.

President Charles Carpenter, of Tri-State League, today announced his staff of umpires for the season of 1911. He has re-signed Thomas Connor, of last year's staff, and signed Francis R. Connolly, a brother of Tom Connolly, and four years in the New England League; Edward J. Conahan, formerly of the American and Southern Leagues; Levi Glatts, of the Southern League, and A. Alloway, of the Central and Western Leagues.

GOLF.

Under the caption "The Child's Guide to the History of Golf" appears an article in a recent issue of "The World of Golf," of London. It treats of the putter controversy, touches on other subjects over which identically takes Leighton Calkins to task. The whole article is written in a lighter vein than is usually found in the foreign golf publications, as may be seen by the following:

"From time immemorial, that is to say, ever since the game became the particular property of Scotland, the nominal rulers had been a few wise men who, although drawn from all parts, had given themselves the composite name of St. Andrews. For the most part St. Andrews always consisted of elderly gentlemen, who never desired any harm to anybody. During many years they held unquestioned sway throughout all the land of golf. They enacted many laws, some wise and some foolish, but they were obeyed unquestioningly by all who wielded the driver or who pursued the rubber core with the less pliant creak.

"With the growth of the game, however, there arose several insurrectionary bodies. One of these was in the Midlands of England, where several bold, bad barons raised the standard of revolt. Few were attracted by the flag of insurrection, and after a very short time the rising was quelled without any losses, on either side. Then St. Andrews did the most foolish thing it had ever been guilty of in all its foolish career.

American invention, and used very largely in that country. It really did not make the game any easier, but St. Andrews chose to think that it did, merely because an American once came over here and won the championship with the implement.

"As soon as the news became known that St. Andrews had illegalized the Schenectady putter America was aflame with indignation. Individual American golfers were not particularly concerned about the matter, but they were aroused to a great pitch of indignation by the writing and speeches of one Leighton Calkins. Leighton Calkins was a demagogue and a charlatan. He affected to feel very strongly on the injustice of St. Andrews in barring the Schenectady, but as he had never used this particular kind of putter it was plain that his indignation was simulated.

"The greater number of the American councillors were agreed that the foolishness of St. Andrews was a thing that might be passed over, and several resolutions were carried to that effect. Mr. Calkins' influence with the public, however, was so great that many joined his standard. He raised the insurrectionary flag in the West of America. His inflammatory writings—for he was no man of action and found the pen mightier than the sword—spread all over the United States, and their effect on the unthinking public was so great that within a very short time the whole continent was prepared for war.

"The revolt of America was cabled to all European centres. England for the most part remained loyal to St. Andrews, but France and some of the newer Continental golfing countries joined the rebels. On June 24, 19— the insurrectionaries set sail from New York. Their army was some thousands strong and armed to a man with Schenectady putters or some other centre-shafted club. They landed in Scotland on June 30, and a couple of days' march overland brought them to Leuchars' Junction, the very gates of the stronghold of St. Andrews.

"It was about this time that the true character of Leighton Calkins made itself manifest. He ordered the army to take the old gray city by assault, but when the army asked him to lead them he declared that he was no soldier, only a golfer. A sharp American caddy discovered him shortly afterward buying a single ticket for Carnoustie. At noon on July 4 the invaders moved on St. Andrews. The level road between Leuchars and their destination was soon passed. They entered the town of St. Andrews without opposition and made their way to the links, where they expected to find their autocratic enemy.

"It was evening when they came in sight of the course. The links lay invitingly at their feet and, Schenectady putters or no, they felt a desire to sample the mother of all golf courses. In a few minutes the severed ranks of the insurrectionaries were broken, for each man made a dash to get his name in the ballot for the following day. Thus ended the revolution of 19—"

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., March 3, 1911.

BLOT ON SENATE

Progressives Were Duped in Lorimer Verdict Says Miss Richards.

NO RELIEF FROM THE TARIFF.

Freight Rates Decision Has Had a Salutary Effect on Railroads.

Which Are Making Good Profits, She Declares.

There was a large and attentive audience at the Hartridge auditorium, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, D. C., gave her sixth talk on "Current History." She said that in spite of the majority vote of the Senate in favor of Senator Lorimer, the country generally, and the press almost unanimously, consider his acquittal as a blot on the record of the sixty-first Congress. The Senate had been at a deadlock over this matter and those opposed to Senator Lorimer were only induced to bring the matter to a vote by the promises of Senator Hale, of Maine, that once this decision of the Lorimer case was out of the way the Senate would turn its attention to the establishment of a permanent tariff board, a measure warmly desired by all progressive Senators.

The Progressives feel they have been duped over this decision, for now though the way is clear for the consideration of the permanent tariff board the Senate by filibustering tactics is delaying a decision on this matter till it is too late for any action a result most likely to be achieved on Saturday, March 4. One result of this inquiry and acquittal is that a very strong argument is placed in the hands of those who consider the direct election of Senators desirable.

"Another decision calling for attention is that of the Interstate Commission which has given as its opinion that the railroads are making quite good enough profits without any increase of their freight rates. This decision has had a most salutary effect on the car building industry; one factory has opened again for work, of which there had been an almost total suspension along these lines pending the commission's verdict, and orders for some 400 new cars have been placed."

Miss Richards touched on the Arnold case, denying on the authority of Mr. Arnold himself that the family knew anything of the whereabouts of Miss Arnold and urging on her audience to give no credence to all the alleged slanderous rumors circulated on this topic, but to take this as a painful object lesson of the dangers which threaten our girls and young women in our big cities. In New York alone she stated four such cases occur daily and there seems no way to check the evil. Miss Richards reported the progress made by Mrs. Owen, of Salt Lake City, in her efforts to arouse popular sentiment so that the portrait of Brigham Young, the high priest and founder of a sect so un-American in its ideals—or lack of them—may not go forth to the world on the silver service to be presented to the battleship Utah, as one of the men whom the American nation would wish to represent them in their contact with foreign nations.

Miss Richards spoke briefly in the present tariff pointing out how greatly it had been made to bear upon the women, no less than twenty-five articles of women's wearing apparel being dutiable; among others the cheapest grade of hosiery for working-women, who are ill prepared to bear any increased cost of clothing.

Turning to foreign affairs, Miss Richards briefly outlined the situation in France leading up to M. Briand's resignation and to M. Monis' appointment to form a new cabinet. Since the days when Napoleon re-established religion in France in 1793 until the act of disestablishment five years ago, priests, calvinistic ministers and Jewish rabbis had been supported by the State, and it is the struggle between atheistic Socialists who desire to see religion routed out of France, and the more conservative members who deplore the complete extinction of religion, the outrages on beautiful and old buildings, which have been turned from churches to vaudeville halls and other similar acts of vandalism, which has been the cause of the overthrow of the ministry. Miss Richards was most warmly applauded at the close of her lecture.

There will be no meeting of the sewing and cooking classes at Warren chapel tomorrow morning.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF Y. W. C. A. GLEE CLUB

The Y. W. C. A. glee club has about completed arrangements for its fourth annual concert to be given Tuesday evening, March 7, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The club has had a successful year under the leadership of S. Frederick Smith, organist of Grace church. The club members will be assisted in their program by Mrs. Edward Caldwell Moore, of Cambridge, who played for them two years ago. Her many friends will be glad, doubtless to hear her again. The second soloist is Bay Wirtz, a cellist from the Peabody Institute of Baltimore. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Joseph McIntyre. The program: Voices of the Woods, Wanders Night Song, Rubenstein; To the Dance, Denza; Boat Song, Abt. Glee club; Prelude, Chopin; Ballade, Chopin, Mrs. Moore; Larghetto, Mozart; Traumerel, Schumann; Gavotte; Padre Martini, Mr. Wirtz; Serenade, Schubert; Snow Flakes, Cowen; What the Chimney Sings; Griswold; Doan ye Cry, Nell; Glee club; Kolhidel, Mat Bruch; Se Lygne, Saint-Saens; Tarantella, Squiers, Mr. Wirtz; Gavotte, Gluck-Brahms; Nocturne, for the left hand, Scriabine; La Campanella, Paganini-Liszt, Mrs. Moore.

Reception to New Pastor. Rev. Frederick L. Green, the new pastor of Hope chapel, will take charge of the services at the chapel on Sunday for the first time, and a reception will be given to Mr. Green and his wife at the chapel, Thursday evening, March 16 at 9 o'clock. The committee in charge comprise Donald McInnes, chairman; W. H. Cook, Charles Hughes, George Leighs, Harry Kean, James Penny, William Baker and G. H. Condit, which will be assisted by two representatives from each department of the chapel. The children under fourteen years of age will give a reception to the pastor and his wife Friday afternoon, March 17 at 3 o'clock.

Morton Makes Change. John Morton, who, for the past twenty-eight years, has been engaged in the ice business in this city, being one of the original dealers, has identified himself with the Plainfield Ice & Supply Company, and is now a stockholder in that concern, which deals in ice, coal and lumber. During the twenty-eight years he was engaged in the ice business he established a reputation for fair dealing and he appreciates the liberal patronage accorded him. As a member of the Plainfield Ice & Supply Company he will now deal in those commodities.

Henry Nischwitz, of West Second street, was removed to the hospital yesterday with a severe attack of rheumatism.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

The Passion Play, having been given so recently at Oberammergau, has served to stimulate unusual interest in Henry Ellsworth's pictorial reproduction of "Oberammergau, Its People and Their Passion Play of 1910," which is to be presented at the Plainfield theatre Monday matinee and night, March 6, for the benefit of St. Mary's new convent. Mr. Ellsworth has resided in Oberammergau for the past eleven summers, and has had special privileges accorded him for collecting exclusive photographs and facts pertaining to the village and the play. So comprehensive have been Mr. Ellsworth's studies of his subjects that it is quite safe to assert that no lecturer is as well informed about Oberammergau and its remarkable exhibition of the Sacred Drama, or is as well equipped to give entertaining expression of that information as is he.

The laughing comedy success of the season, "The Traveling Salesman," by James Forbes, author of "The Chorus Lady," will be the offering at the Plainfield theatre on Thursday, March 9, when Henry B. Harris will send the original New York and Chicago company to this city. The story of the play concerns Bob Blake, a jovial fat drummer, who is compelled to spend Christmas day in an isolated village of the Middle West. Here he meets Beth Elliott, the telegraph operator and ticket agent, who, in an effort to brighten his depressed spirits, invites him to partake of her lunch. She is a most dear little girl and the traveling salesman falls a victim to her charms. So well does the play depict the life of the drummer on the road that it has won the endorsement of the United Commercial Travelers and the Travelers' Protective Association. Frank J. McIntyre interprets the role of Bob Blake, and Gertrude Coghlan is "The Girl."

THE LADIES OF PLAINFIELD ARE INVITED TO SEE A DEMONSTRATION OF

To be Given March 3d, 4th and 6th From 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. 155 East Front Street

This exhibition is given in compliance with numerous requests following the private demonstration held the first three days of this week for the dress-makers and ladies' tailors of Plainfield. All women know the value of a Dress Form that can be adjusted to any figure. Everyone accepting this invitation will see at once the remarkable adjustability of the Lady Claire Adjustable Dress Form to every style of figure, shape or size.

Conforms to Every Curve Unlike the old-fashioned Dress Forms, each part may be regulated independently of the other—neck, chest, bust, shoulders, hips and skirt being capable of separate adjustment. No single conformation interferes in the slightest with the other.

After measurements are taken, all the fitting, draping, trimming and hanging may be done on the Dress Form, and a perfect fitting garment the result. Never since the introduction of the sewing-machine has such a useful invention been offered to dressmakers and women who dressmake at home. We invite everyone interested in the use of a Dress Form to call at the above address on the days mentioned, and see a demonstration of the Lady Claire Adjustable Dress Form.

One of New York's leading designers and style authorities will be in attendance. Your call will place you under no obligation, nor will you be importuned to give an order. The Perfect Adjustable Dress Form Co., New York Address: 27 West 36th St. 3 2 3

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The following cast has been selected to present "Twelfth Night" on May 6 at the Plainfield theatre: Misses Thyra Stites, Louise Bird, Margaret Hutchinson, Alice Mehl, May Day, Bertha Nelson and Edith Whitney, and Messrs. Sewell Ulrich, Gordon May, Sidney Karr, Luther Banks, Alfred Clarke, Benjamin Harris, Alfred Manley and Herbert Terry. The tryouts took place before the faculty yesterday afternoon.

The newly elected members of the Oracle will meet next week to select an editor-in-chief of the school paper.

Miss Helen Pearce recited "A Nation's Honor" before the assembled students at the High School this morning. Miss Pearce's rendition of the poem was splendidly done.

The regular Friday afternoon entertainment and dance this afternoon was enlivened by some clever songs given by Roy Titsworth. Dancing followed the entertainment.

DRY CLEANING TALK

Number 2 WHAT IS DRY CLEANING? Many people have erroneous ideas about what Dry Cleaning really is—believing that their clothes are actually cleaned dry—as if by magic method we pass our hands over the garment and say "Presto!" It is clean. Dry is a misnomer. "Chemical" cleaning would be a more intelligent name, but people might confuse "Chemical," thinking of acids, alkalis, etc., not used in Dry Cleaning. The truth is we depend largely upon gasoline, naphtha, benzine—there's a difference—and other petroleum and coal tar products, for our cleansing bath instead of water as do the laundresses. The secret and successful operations in Dry Cleaning are learned only by hard experience and study, coupled with proper equipment. These are what enable us to do superior work. We know our business thoroughly and are properly equipped in plant, collection and delivery. Next Week—"The Imitators."

Only 26 Cases of Communicable Disease Reported in February.

THERE WERE 39 BIRTHS.

Total Deaths 22—Health Board Officers Made Many Inspections During the Month.

The reports presented at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health, last night, showed the sanitary condition of the city to be excellent. The meeting was held in the new quarters, 104 East Front street. The total number of communicable diseases reported was twenty-six, as follows: Scarlet fever, 11; diphtheria, 1; tuberculosis, 3; chicken-pox, 1; measles, 10.

Five of the eleven cases of scarlet fever were in two houses, three in one and two in another. Except for these two instances, there was apparently no common source of infection among the cases.

The following returns were made to the office during the month: Marriages, 16; births, 39; stillbirths, 2; deaths, 22. Of the deaths ten were of persons over sixty years of age.

During the month 64 inspections were made in connection with the milk supply and 31 samples of milk analyzed. The dairies, bottling places, stores, etc., were found to be in fair condition and the milk analysis very good.

Inspections were made of bakeries, butcher shops, dumping grounds, back yards, cellars, etc., and in addition to inspections made on complaint of nuisances and visits to houses with communicable disease, as follows: Plumbing inspections, 58; inspections with milk supply, 84; general inspections, 340, a total of 4,822.

During February 75 rooms in thirteen houses were disinfected, one wagon, two school rooms and the isolation ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. Through the efforts of the board, E. C. King, of Irvington, was fined $25 for doing plumbing work in the city without first filing a bond.

The following applications for permits were received and permits granted:

Lewis Rosenthal, to sell milk from store; J. H. Snowden, to retail milk from wagon; Mrs. Charles Brunjes and James P. Butler, to collect garbage; plumbers' bonds filed in renewal; P. E. Neylon, W. W. Mills, Vall Bros. and William Islieb. The following are new applicants: Archibald Peacock and William Newell & Bros.

Proctor's Fine Show.
Harrigan, Giles & Co., in "Silverstein's Luck," is making a hit at Proctor's theatre this week. It is one of the best acts seen here in a long time. The Warren Trio, operatic singers give a song fest that is good; Webb & Norton, singers and dancers are clever and Mayer & Hyde English character comedians are excellent, their impersonations of the "Chappies" and "Coster" types being true to life.

Lenten Preacher.
Rev. Dr. Henry M. Nash, of the Cambridge Theological Seminary, will be the preacher at the morning and afternoon services at Grace Episcopal church on Sunday. He will be the second one to give an address during the Lenten series of services. The hours of service are 11 in the morning and 4:30 in the afternoon.

Will Improve Property.
John H. VanWinkle, Jr., of New York, who purchased the Robert H. McCutcheon estate on Plainfield avenue, plans to cut the tract up into building lots and improve the same. The land faces on four streets and is one of the most attractive sites in the city.

Thieves' Attempt Frustrated.
Would-be thieves were frustrated in their attempt last night to enter the garage of Robert C. Woodhouse, 1270 East Seventh street, by specially constructed doors which failed to open after the miscreants had done ten dollars' worth of damage to the woodwork of the building.

J. H. VanWinkle, Jr., Executor.
John H. VanWinkle, Jr., is named in the will of Daniel VanWinkle, as executor of his uncle's estate.

Rev. Dr. F. P. Blakemore, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of East Ninth street. He is pastor of the First Baptist church at Bellefontaine.

MOUNTAIN LEVELLED AS SPARK IGNITES POWDER

Netcong, March 3.—It only took a little spark that jumped between two wires nestling in a load of dynamite to lift the crest of "Mountain" (Side Hill Hummock) yesterday and accomplish in a second what it would take laborers two months to do in the Lackawanna Railroad cut-off near this place. The blast was fired at 2 o'clock and engineers reported the result satisfactory.

Ten tons of "Judson" powder and five tons of dynamite had been placed in a four-foot tunnel that had been wormed into the side of the hill where a seventy-five foot cut is to be made on the line of the cut-off. From this central tunnel four smaller leads, star-like, were dug. In these ten separate loads of explosive were placed and the mouth of the tunnel sealed with concrete cap.

Under a culvert 500 feet away an engineer for the Waltz & Reece Construction Company waited for the signal to turn the electric battery. F. L. Wheaton, engineer in charge for the Lackawanna Railroad, saw that the crowd of 100 or more curious persons who had gone four miles into the mountains to see the blast were out of danger and then he waved a flag. More than 20,000 cubic yards of mountain slipped from its place with a roar that made the countryside echo.

Mrs. White is Eighty-one.
Mrs. William White, of Grove street, celebrated her eighty-first birthday yesterday and entertained seventeen of her relatives and descendants at dinner last evening. Mrs. White is the grandmother of Mrs. William G. DeMeza, wife of the City Judge.

Preparatory Services Tonight.
Preparatory services will be held at Trinity Reformed church tonight at 8 o'clock, followed by a meeting of the elders for reception of new members. The subject of Rev. J. Y. Broek's address will be "The Finished Work of Christ."

Freeholders Raise Salaries.
The Union County Board of Freeholders at its meeting yesterday raised the salary of Major Irwin, probation officer, from $1,500 to $1,800, and that of his assistant, W. J. Hamilton, from $800 to $1,200.

Those who are opposed to municipal ownership of a water supply in this city are urged to attend the meeting to be held this evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The quarantine has been raised from Constable Relly's house and his children who have been ill with scarlet fever are now out and will soon return to school.

A delegation of fifty students from the Catholic school at Metuchen passed through the village yesterday enjoying their first outing of the season.

Theodore Zellars has entirely recovered from the injury to his foot, received while at work at the Levering Garrigues plant.

WHAT RATE RULING MEANS TO CONSUMER

Washington, March 2.—The recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission preventing the railroads in official classification territory, and also those in western trunk line territory from increasing their rates, is unquestionably of importance to every family in the United States, more especially every family in the territory immediately concerned in the proposed rate increases.

Experts on the subject of rates find it difficult to give definite figures saying what the decisions mean in dollars and cents to the average family. They say generally, however, that had the railroads to have made the increases they sought to make the effect would have been perceptible in the living cost of the average family.

Senator Bristow, of Kansas, who has given the rate question much attention, aside from commending the decision as meritorious and right, declared that it prevented a heavy tribute from being exacted from the public. He emphasized the fact, however, that in considering what the proposed increases in rates would have cost the consuming public, much more had to be taken into account than simply the direct increase in freight rates.

"I cannot say in dollars and cents what the decision would mean to the average family," said Senator Bristow, "but there can be no doubt that had these increases been allowed to go into effect they would have resulted in exactions from the public of two or three times the actual amount of the freight increases. An increase in a freight rate in this respect operates just as does the tariff. If the shipper has to pay the higher freight rate this means that he calculates the profits he seeks on a larger amount. It so works out that by the time the customer is reached he is taxed for a great deal more than the actual increase in freights."

Representative Good, of Iowa, who has studied the rate question carefully, and who made a specialty of it in the last campaign, took substantially the same view of Senator Bristow. He pointed out that the cost of increased freight rates to the consuming public was much greater than the actual increase in the rates.

The Increase Planned.
The magnitude of the increases proposed by the railroads in something which there are the most varying opinions. It is commonly stated that the railroads in official classification territory would have increased rates about $27,000,000 a year and the western roads something like the same amount. Roughly this would mean an increase of $50,000,000 to $55,000,000.

But this view is not accepted on all hands. One western freight authority, a man of wide experience in the freight business, declares that the railroads would have got $300,000,000 more returns annually out of the increase they proposed in rates.

If the proposed increase in revenue which the roads hoped to get and which they will not get on account of the rate decisions is taken to be $55,000,000, and if it be correct that through the process of multiplication of charges of which Senator Bristow alludes perhaps double this sum would be visited on the consumer, then $110,000,000 would be amount that would have been exacted from that person when Senator Lodge once described as mythical. Assuming that two-thirds of the families of the country would have to bear this, this would mean that had the increases gone into effect each family would have paid out about $10 more per year on account of the higher rates.

This increased exaction would, however, have been imposed only in small amounts. It would have meant a few more cents out here and a few more cents there. It would have been difficult for the head of the family to have discovered just where he was being mulcted. But on looking over his accounts at the end of the year he would have discovered that somehow he was ahead a little less than usual. The frugal housewife, casting over her grocery bills, would have found in the course of a few months that somehow her allowance was falling to go quite as far as it used to. The cost of meats, already high, would somehow have crept just a little higher. The same is true of numerous other commodities entering into general household use.

But there is a far more important side to the matter, from the viewpoint of the consuming public, than what is involved directly in the proposed rate increases. That is, the Interstate Commerce Commission has laid down certain principles of rate making that are going to tend to hold down future proposed rate increases. It has to be remembered that if the roads had obtained permission to increase rates in the two instances decided against them, they proposed to follow these increases up with others. So that not only are the increases filed with the commission prevented, but other and probably greater contemplated increases are blocked.

Further than this, the commission had set down hard on the idea that a railroad can go ahead indefinitely capitalizing surplus earnings and then demanding increased returns on the basis of the increased capitalization. The commission's decisions go far to block the process of indefinite increment of capitalization through means other than actual addition of moneyed capital, and thus the decisions will be found in all probability more important in their future effect than in their immediate effect. In other words, the decisions if lived up to will shield the consuming public from freight taxation increases in the future much greater than the actual increases planned in the rates filed with the commission. The railroads of the country now cost the average family directly, to say nothing of the indirect charges, about $100 a year. This includes freight and passenger charges. It is apparent that the item is an appreciable one in the living expenses of the average household.

Colonials in an exhibition of physical culture, and Duffin-Dedacy Co., in an astonishing high bar act. The new circus will be given in conjunction with the three big spectacles, "The International Cup," "The Ballet of Niagara" and "The Earthquake," which continue to prove as potent drawing cards as during the early part of the season.

A charming romance about a princess and a naughty prince set to waltzes that refuse to let one's feet behave, and overflowing with irresistibly amusing situations, is only a skeleton idea of "The Spring Maid," the new operetta from Vienna in which Christie MacDonald has become the favorite of all New York. Since Christmas night, when the holiday crowds in Forty-second street beheld an electric fountain playing over the prima donna's name at the Liberty Theatre, there has been a continuous line of carriages at the door. Before the end of January all records were broken and the box office had a $50,000 advance sale, with seats being bought as far ahead as Easter.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

District of New Jersey.

In the matter of the Petition of the United States of America for the appointment of Commissioners to fix the compensation to be paid to Charles E. Vail et al. Trustees of the property hereinafter particularly described.

On Petition, etc. NOTICE TO OWNERS, etc.

Matthew A. Brown, Sarah Ann Brown, his wife, their respective heirs, devisees and personal representatives, the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of George R. Pound, deceased, and of Henry R. Shotwell, deceased, and of Elijah Shotwell, Smith Webster and Samuel L. Pound, Trustees of the Friends School Society of Plainfield, in the County of Essex and State of New Jersey, and to the unknown owners of the property hereinafter particularly described.

You and each of you are hereby notified that a petition has been presented to the Honorable John Reilly, one of the Judges of the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, praying for an order assigning a time and place for the hearing of said petition, and upon the day fixed for the hearing thereon for the appointment of three disinterested freeholders, residents of the County of Union, in the State of New Jersey, where the land and property hereinafter described lies, Commissioners to examine and appraise the said land and to assess the damages to be fixed a day on or before which the Commissioners must file their report, which said land the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States has determined on behalf of the United States to acquire by condemnation as a part of a suitable site for a United States Post Office and other Governmental offices, and other purposes, and is described as follows: All that lot of land and premises situated in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey.

OUT GO REFRIGERATORS---Our Annual Clearance Sale Tomorrow at 1/3 Off Regular Prices

Three carloads of the 1911 Governor and Pocono Refrigerators are en route, and we do not want to take in these spic and span boxes and mix them with last year's stock, hence this drastic clearance of every refrigerator now in the store.

Everyone of these refrigerators is guaranteed by us to be absolutely dependable just as we guarantee those bought in mid-summer. They are refrigerators too well known to have their quality questioned. There are many kinds for we carry full lines of refrigerators throughout the year so that all who come should find sizes and prices to please them.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Red Men of Millville are laying plans to give a reception to the Great Chiefs of New Jersey on the evening of March 30.

Bitten on the face by a cat, Lester Briant, five years old, of 907 Spruce street, Camden, visited Cooper Hospital Wednesday.

Bridgeton people will have a conference tonight to determine upon a plan and campaign to raise funds for a modern Y. M. C. A.

Rev. A. C. Oliver, pastor of the Cross Keys M. E. church, has notified the officials that he will ask to be transferred by the coming conference.

The official board of the Glassboro M. E. church unanimously extended a call to Rev. J. Morgan Reed, former president of Pennington Seminary, to the pastorate.

Suffering from a lacerated scalp caused by falling downstairs, Mary Mason, thirty-five years old, of 1026 Linden street, Camden, was cared for Wednesday at Cooper Hospital.

For injuries sustained in falling over the top of a cesspool, Mary J. Braum was awarded $300 damages in the Camden courts Wednesday against the Pitman Grove Camp-meeting Association.

Four out of five votes registered in an election Wednesday at Hadden Heights, to decide whether there shall be a $60,000 bond issue for macadamizing the streets, were in favor of the measure.

Mayor Ellis, in Camden Wednesday, served notice on the Moorestown Rapid Transit Company, a subsidiary line of the Public Service Railway Company, to cease operating what are known as club cars.

At the meeting of the Board of Agriculture at Harrisonville, Monday afternoon, S. J. Morgan and Wilbert T. Beckett will discuss the question: "Will the farming interests of New Jersey, be affected by the reciprocity treaty?"

Accompanied by the Stone Road Committee of the Board of Freeholders, Colonel E. A. Stevens, the new State road commissioner, and State Superintendent of Roads Meeker made a tour of the roads of Camden county Wednesday.

The Cumberland County Board of Agriculture will have its annual meeting in the rooms of the Bridgeton Commercial League on March 7. There will be addresses by speakers of the State Board and the United States Agricultural Bureau.

Drowned about two months ago in a fall from a barge, the body of Henry Rookery, sixty-two years old, of 319 Richmond street, Philadelphia, was found in the mud at the river end of Thirty-sixth street, Camden, Wednesday. Rookery was a watchman on the barge Lee.

The friends of Miss Katherine Pauline Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sharp, of Ocean county, and Walter J. Hackroth, of Philadelphia, were surprised when the secret leaked out yesterday that they had been married there last Saturday by Justice of the Peace Rush. They are now on a wedding tour.

One hundred and fifteen representative men of Newark sat down Wednesday evening at a banquet tendered to Circuit Court Judge Clarence L. Cole, of Atlantic City, at Bridgeton, who made his first judicial appearance in Newark yesterday. The banquet was under the auspices of the Central M. E. Sunday school, and was held in the church.

The Burlington County Board of Freeholders is facing an alarming financial condition. Many of the funds will be exhausted before six months of the year have passed. After Wednesday's business had been closed, the bridge appropriation of $21,000 had dwindled to $2,780, which is all the board has for expenditures during the remainder of the year.

GUARD'S RETIREMENT MEASURE IS SIGNED.

These bills have been signed by Governor Wilson:

House 7, Mr. James, authorizes the placing upon the retired list any member of the national guard who has served for more than twenty years or who shall be incapacitated by military service.

House 88, Mr. Turner, provides conditions under which finance boards in boroughs may appropriate moneys to pay the cost of a pedestal and foundation for soldiers' and sailors' monuments.

EDISON NAME INCORPORATED.

Following action taken at a stockholders meeting last Monday, the National Phonograph Company has filed an amended certificate with the secretary of State changing its name to "Thomas A. Edison, Incorporated." Attached to the certificate is a statement signed by Mr. Edison consenting to perpetual use of his name by the corporation.

The company has an authorized capital stock of two million dollars. The stockholders are Mina M. Edison, Ernest J. Berggren, Frank L. Dyer, Carl H. Wilson, William Pelser and Harry F. Miller.

The correspondent of The Tribune in Paris says the new Cabinet, formed by M. Monis is acclaimed only by radical socialists and laborites, but the average Frenchman is inclined to suspend judgment.

DOG POISONER AT WORK IN BOROUGH

The dog-poisoner is again at work in the borough and three canines have fallen victims in the neighborhood of Watchung avenue and Chatham street. One of the dogs which died yesterday as a result of underhand work was "Colonel," the valuable Boston bull, belonging to Mrs. Margaret Wilson, of Grove street. He dropped in his tracks at Chatham and Warren streets. The dog was known almost everywhere in the borough and was the idol of the children in the vicinity of his home. Early this morning another dog was found dead on Chatham street, giving evidence of poison. At noon Chief Marshal Weiss was notified that a third dog had crawled into the yard at Mrs. Back's, 21 Chatham street, and was suffering from the same trouble. Percy Culver and Claude Hann were sent to the scene and put the animal out of its misery with a couple of pistol shots. Chief Weiss said later that he would conduct a personal investigation to learn the source of the poisoning. He asserted that he is always ready to help a neighborhood get rid of undesirable dogs, but draws the line at people taking the law in their own hands and ruthlessly exterminating all in sight.

ASSOCIATION GAME TAKES PLACE TOMORROW.

The Plainfield Association Football Club will play the Eureka A. A., of Kearney, on the Clinton avenue field tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. This will be one of the Intra-City league games and should be of special interest to soccer fans as the Eureka are leading the league with Plainfield in second place. The Eureka have played thirteen games and have not lost a single one. It will be up to the local aggregation to do the trick. Plainfield will lineup as follows: McNeice, Menzies, Craig, Crawford, Hosie, McComb, Spalding, Mitchell, Heaume, Braidwood, Sutton; reserves Mackay, Gould, Marks, John Johnson, of Arlington, will be the referee.

Planning to Improve Streets. The Councilmanic street committee met last evening and discussed proposed repairs to the streets of the city during the coming year. It was realized that there are many streets needing immediate attention and just as soon as possible work will be started under the direction of Street Commissioner Gavett. It is likely that the committee will use oil to a considerable extent this year, it having given satisfaction in the past. These matters will be taken up at greater length a little later.

South Plainfielders Delayed. South Plainfield commuters returning home last night were delayed near Potters' Crossing, their train, No. 3, being held up by a freight which had pulled out two draw heads, disabling the air brake system. The engine on train No. 3 uncoupled and helped to push the stalled freight into the yards at South Plainfield, where a repair gang, fixed up the disabled engine.

Mrs. Mary E. Teeple. Mrs. Mary E. Teeple, an aged widow of South Plainfield, died at her home in that place, last night. She was well known among the older residents. The funeral will be held at the Baptist church, South Plainfield, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be at Samptown.

CHAPTER XXII. A BOLD RESOLUTION.

Mr. Foscombe found it convenient to be absent in the city for the rest of the day and most of the evening. He dined in town and did not go home till late, hoping that there would be no necessity for his seeing Eva that day.

But as soon as he was known to have returned a note from her was put into his hand. She wanted to see him for a few moments.

He went to her room and took her hand in silence. She did not look up and silently thanked him for refraining from offering to console with her.

"I only want to ask you, Mr. Foscombe, do you think it possible that I should see him again?"

"My dear Miss Fitzgerald," he said gently, "it distresses me more than I can tell you, but such a thing could never be allowed. Even in the cases of blood relations they never allow it if it can possibly be avoided. You can see that with the limited accommodation they have in London hospitals it would be difficult to make arrangements."

He paused, hoping that the girl would fill up the gap for herself. And as she was entirely ignorant of the rules in force in London hospitals she gave up the hope she had cherished of gazing once more on the face of the man she loved.

"Besides," said Mr. Foscombe, "I should think that by this time, or, at all events, before a visit from you could be arranged for, his relatives will have removed the remains to the country."

"Oh, may I not go to the funeral even?" cried Eva, and there was such an accent of despair in her voice that the man had not the heart to say at once, as he had intended doing, that this, too, would be out of the question.

"If the funeral is to be at one of the London cemeteries nothing would be easier," he said after a pause. "But if it is to be in the country I am afraid you would find it very awkward to intrude yourself upon strangers, who might not be disposed to admit any claim on your part. Do you know whether Guy had mentioned his approaching marriage to any of his relations?"

"I—I don't know. You see, the thing was decided in such a hurry—there was no time."

"I quite understand," said Foscombe in a sympathetic tone. "Guy may very well have thought that there would be plenty of time to announce his marriage afterward. I know he was frightfully busy—indeed I should not wonder if it was overwork that brought on his illness."

After this conversation Foscombe had no difficulty in making Eva believe that the funeral was to take place in the north of England and that it would be thought an indelicate thing if she were to travel down to Durham to be present at the last rites. He showed her a paragraph apparently cut from a newspaper in which the death of Mr. Lorimer was referred to as an event of local interest, but in reality this was an unnecessary precaution. She had learned at the hospital that he was in great danger, and it never once occurred to her to doubt her lover's chosen friend when he told her that the death had been expected had actually happened.

Foscombe kept out of Eva's way for the next three or four days. He could not bear the sight of her grief and, besides, he felt that he would best consult his own interests by refraining from anything like intrusion at that time.

But at the end of a week he received a message from her and he went at once to her room.

"Mr. Foscombe," she said, going up to him and taking his hand in both her own, "I simply do not know how to thank you for your constant and great goodness to me. But I feel that I have trespassed on your kindness—I mean on your aunt's and yours—too long. I have written to my mother, telling her what has happened and asking if I may go home."

[This was no news to the lawyer. He had anticipated that Eva would write to her mother and he had given strict instructions that any letter she might write must not be posted, but must be brought to him unopened. As this order was backed by an offer of £5 for the letter his orders were strictly obeyed, and the letter which Eva imagined had been dispatched to Castle Dare was handed to Foscombe. He had the grace to burn it unopened.]

No answer coming from Castle Dare, Eva wrote again, and again the letter was handed to Mr. Foscombe and destroyed.

But the scheming lawyer knew that this could not go on indefinitely, and he was not surprised when she told him one evening that she had made up her mind to go home next day.

That night Eva's sorrow was tinged with a new bitterness. She was going home, solitary and ashamed. She did not know what reception awaited her, but she judged from her mother not answering her letters that it would not be a very cordial one.

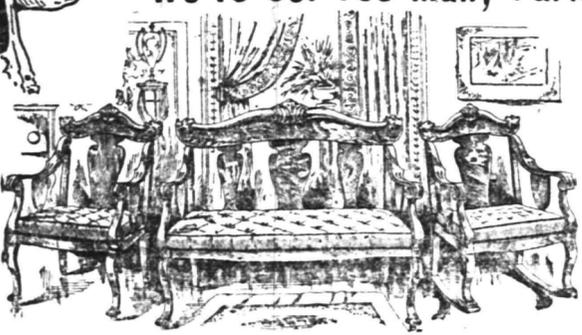

And then, the thought came to her:

TRY A PRESS WANT AD.

What was the end to be? Must she, after all, marry Sir Rufus? She felt that she would die first!

Then, not for the first time, the question sprang up in her mind. Why was her mother so anxious that she should become Lady Deverill? It must be because of some secret tie between her mother and Sir Rufus. They must be in some way connected, though there was no relationship between them. What could be the nature of that tie? She could not guess, except that its effect seemed to be that her mother was forced to do what Sir Rufus wished.

At the thought only of the miserable thralldom in which her mother must have been living Eva conceived a noble idea. She would find out the nature of the hold that Sir Rufus evidently had over her mother and set her free.

But how was she to learn that secret? Not at Castle Dare. She knew that she could never wring it from her mother. But was it not possible that either by finesse or by accident she might get Sir Rufus himself to tell her the nature of the secret? Surely it was at least possible. She must see him and either by cajolery or threats worm the truth out of him.

She felt certain that she had seen Sir Rufus' name in a society paper only the day before, and she soon found the paragraph:

"Sir Rufus Deverill is at his country seat, Ravenscrag, Westdale, Cumberland, and he will probably remain there till partridge shooting begins on the 1st."

Eva decided that the opportunity of having it out with Sir Rufus was too good to be lost. She would spend a night at some town in the north country and so arrive at Ravenscrag early in the day and avoid the awkwardness of having to decline an invitation to stay overnight. There was no need, she decided, to mention her project to Mr. Foscombe. He would be surprised and would probably try to dissuade her from going to Ravenscrag, and she did not mean to be dissuaded.

Before she went to bed that night she had made up her mind, and next morning at Euston she took her ticket, not for Dublin, but for Kendal.

CHAPTER XXIII.
A BOLD ESCAPE.

Eva slept so poorly at Kendal that she missed her train in the morning and did not get one till noon.

In the afternoon she found herself at a small station dignified by the name of Junction because three times a day a train took its leisurely way along the single line to Westdale. There was no substantial building, no refreshment room, no waiting rooms even. And there was an hour to wait.

The rain was coming down in torrents. It rained as if it had rained always and never would stop raining.

There was a wooden shed, along one side of which ran a narrow bench. At the other end of the bench sat a girl with a trunk at her side waiting for a train. She had a downcast air, and it was easy to see from the redness of her eyes and the handkerchief rolled into a ball and tightly clinched in her right hand that she had recently been crying.

Through a window could be seen a good sized stone house bearing a great sign, "Railway Hotel—Wines and Spirits."

Would it be possible, Eva asked herself, to go across to the hotel and get a cup of coffee? She hesitated and stopped. The girl on the bench was sobbing. Eva stepped back under shelter of the shed and walked up to her.

"I was just thinking of going over to the hotel yonder and trying to get a cup of hot coffee. May I order one for you as well? I am sure it would do you good."

The only answer was that the girl buried her face in her hands and gave full vent to her wretchedness.

Eva waited until the paroxysm was over and then said gently: "It is easy to see that you are in trouble. Tell me what it is and I will help you if I can."

The girl looked up at the sweet face bending over her and a few seconds passed before she replied.

"I don't know what to do nor where to go," she said at length, speaking with a decidedly cockney accent. "I want to get back to London and I ain't got the money to pay my fare. I came here to go to a place, but I'm not going to that house."

"What house?"

A Geisha Girl

By SADIE OLCOTT

"By the spirits of your ancestors I beseech you to hide me."

The words were spoken by a young Japanese who rushed into a tea house where stood a startled geisha girl. It was more than forty years ago, when the followers of the mikado and the shogun were struggling for the supremacy in Japan.

"What is it, Herobumi?" asked the girl quickly.

"The shogunites! They are after me. If they catch me they will kill me. Quick, Nikama!"

The girl darted glances in every direction, and finally her eyes lighted on what she at once recognized as the best place for concealment. In every Japanese house is a dust hole. The ground floor is raised about two feet above the earth, and a square hole is cut in the floor, into which the dust and litter of the rooms are swept.

"Get in there, quick!" cried the girl, pointing to the hole.

Herobumi sprang into the hole, doubling himself up to occupy the space. Nikama put a board over it, and on the board she placed a brazier, thus concealing the hole and making it appear that the brazier rested on the floor. Then she sat down before the brazier, in which was a fire, and appeared to be lazily warming herself. In another moment a band of armed men rushed in. The girl looked up at them in feigned surprise.

"A man is here," said their leader, "whom we seek. We saw him enter. Where is he?"

"You are welcome to look for him."

"We will see for ourselves," replied the man, and, with his followers, he began a search of the premises. They moved furniture; they opened closets; they pulled out drawers. Into every cranny in the house they peered, but none of them thought of the dust hole. Thinking him they sought had simply passed through and had gone on, they rushed out as hurriedly as they had come in. When they were well away the girl called to the hidden:

"There is nothing now to fear, Herobumi, but you had better remain where you are for awhile in case they come back."

"Thank you, Nikama. You have saved my life. I knew when I came, having been here at times for tea, that I would not be betrayed, but I did not know that I would find one who by her presence of mind would keep my head on my shoulders."

The girl went out and looked about and, finding all pursuit of the fugitive in that vicinity had been abandoned, returned to the house, removed the brazier, and Herobumi came out of the hole. He did not think of the dust with which he was covered, but Nikama did, and, getting a wisp broom, she brushed his clothes. Then he took both her hands in his and said to her:

"You are but a poor geisha girl, while I am of a far different rank, but I promise that you shall never regret the act of this day."

When it was dark he slipped out of the tea house and found a more permanent place of safety.

One day it was after the shogun had been permanently defeated and the mikado securely placed upon the throne of Japan—a jinrikisha stopped before the tea house. Nikama was standing at the door, and who should she see alight from the jinrikisha but the young man whose life she had saved. He came up and led her out on to a veranda.

"I have not seen you for a long while," she said. "I feared that the shogunites had caught you at last."

"No; I was too slippery for them. But all my inventive powers—and there are those who esteem them considerable—are as nothing compared with yours. Had it not been for your quick acting brain I should not now be here."

The girl, naturally pleased at his appreciation of her act, smiled and blushed.

"I told you that you would not regret your act of that terrible day," continued the visitor, "nor shall you. I wish to make you a present. I will first offer you that which I value most highly and which will include within itself all I can give you. Then if you prefer a part rather than the whole you may ask for what you like and I will give it."

"You speak in riddles, Herobumi, or, rather, you speak like the mikado when you say you will give what I ask. Are you, a young man, not yet thirty years old, so powerful that you can give me anything I ask?"

"I can at least give you that which I prize most."

"And that is—"

"Myself."

The girl stood looking at him in astonishment. No high caste young man in Japan was likely to marry a geisha girl.

"I am the whole," resumed the young man. "If you don't find me to your taste you may take a part."

"But I know you only as one who has come here to drink tea and be amused," said Nikama.

"Oh, you wish for my credentials. Well, then, know that when our new government was formed it was I who was principally entrusted with its formation. Then I was made prime minister by the emperor, and that office I hold at the present time."

It is true that Prince Herobumi Ito of Japan, who was recently assassinated, married the geisha girl who more than forty years ago saved his life by hiding him in a dust hole, put a board and brazier on it and then invited the followers of the shogun to search the house.

The Market Strength

which characterizes the Securities of the PUBLIC SERVICE CORPORATION, OF NEW JERSEY

at the present time is not in our opinion merely a temporary condition—but, we believe, the natural result of an adequate appreciation on the part of the public and investors, both here and in other cities, of the inherent values lying back of these securities and the continually increasing earning power of this Corporation.

Investors who buy Public Service securities at the present time are not only sure of obtaining a safe investment, but one which promises increases in value.

We WANT COMPETITION of the Right Sort, Not the Following Kind!

A Mrs. S— after selecting her outfit and learning the total cost from our plainly marked price tags, said she preferred to make comparisons elsewhere before ordering, to which we readily agreed, for it's a thing we always URGE!

On getting another store's prices (where they were marked in private signs) she found ours were far less, and SAID so. The salesman promptly dropped to our figures—AND GOT THE ORDER.

Here, where there's but ONE PLAINLY MARKED PRICE ON EVERY ITEM, such an "accommodating" and sudden price drop would be impossible—here, when you read the price tag, you KNOW it's already at lowest point, for ALL prices are made and REMAIN on the SAME UNIFORM SMALL PROFIT BASIS. We don't HAVE to run a "leader" here and there for an hour, or a day, to catch trade, as ALL lines are equally good values EVERY day in the year!

All we want is HONEST competition that meet OUR plainly marked prices WITH prices you can READ! ISN'T THAT FAIR?

EASY CREDIT 6 months, 1 year, or 1 1/2 year's time to pay—or 10 per cent off for cash.
