

EXECUTOR MAY CONTINUE SALOON

License Committee Advised
He May Do So in Clark Case.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER

Matter Will Be Brought up in Executive Session of City Fathers
Monday Night—Late Closing Hour
Will Also Be Acted Upon.

The Councilmanic license committee met last night and discussed at length the probable action concerning the saloon license formerly held by the late John C. Clark at Liberty and West Third streets, and then decided to bring the matter before the whole Council in executive session
Monday night prior to the adjourned meeting of that body. It is understood that Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed has informed the committee that he can see no reason why the Council could not allow an administrator or executor of the Clark estate to take over the business and continue it for the rest of the license
year, but at the end of that time, according to the present ordinance, that place could not be licensed again.

There is a feeling on the part of some of the Councilmen that the Clark estate should not be compelled to lose the proportionate share of the $1,200 license fee paid when the license was granted, and yet there appears to be no legal right for the Council to reimburse the estate in case the business is not continued.
It is said that Joseph Clark, a brother of the late John C. Clark, would like to continue to business and no doubt the Council would permit an executor or some legal representative of the estate to run the place for the balance of the license year.

As stated yesterday, there are some of the members of the Council who favor a licensed place in that section of the city and would probably vote
in favor of an application presented by a reliable party, while others are of the opinion that such a place is not needed there and would welcome the opportunity to abolish another saloon. When the matter comes up for final decision there will no doubt be a lively discussion for it is known that the Council is divided on the question.

The committee also discussed the petition of Peter J. Floersch, for permission to extend the hour of closing at night from 11 to 11:30 o'clock, in return for which concession he would be willing to open an hour later in the morning. It is understood that the committee would like to favor Mr. Floersch in this respect, but cannot see its way clear to make any distinction. If Mr. Floersch's request was granted, other hotels and possibly the saloons might want the same concession, although it is said that the saloon keepers are more in favor of the early opening hour as that is the time when they get considerable trade. This matter will also be considered in executive session by the Council, Monday night.
Mr. Floersch's request seemed to be a reasonable one, for he wishes to accommodate his patrons, including theatre parties and others who find the 11 o'clock closing hour early to suit their convenience. The public affairs committee also met last night
and discussed the garbage question,
a report on which will be made Monday night.

CREDITORS WILL MEET WITH CONTRACTORS

J. D. Loizeaux Issues Call for a Conference at High School on Monday.

Realizing that co-operation among the creditors of the P. J. Exner Co.,
the general contractors for the Plainfield High School addition, is necessary
if their losses by reason of the contractor's failure are to be kept within reasonable limits, the J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Co., of this city, sent out
today a letter to the creditors,
inviting them to attend a meeting at 3 p. m. Monday, April 20, at the Board of Education rooms at the High School, which at their request
have been placed at the disposal of the Exner creditors by the Board.

The Loizeaux company is one of the largest creditors and stands to lose a considerable sum if the work is not completed promptly; and the delay obliges the Board of Education
to call in the bondsman to finish the building. Up to the present time the Board has taken no official action in the matter in order to protect so far as possible the local creditors, but in justice to the public who are interested in having the school finished promptly must act at once if the creditors do not get together.

In their letter the Loizeaux company calls attention to the fact that if the matter is not adjusted by Tuesday night, the Board of Education
will probably call in the bondsman
to complete the job, and says that the writers are convinced that if the creditors can take up the work immediately and complete it promptly
a saving of from $1,000 to $8,000
will be effected, and the building
done under the contract as it now exists. A full statement of the situation will be made at the meeting,
and an opportunity given for all
creditors to act together in presenting an application to the Board to be allowed to reduce their loss by finishing the building.

the members of the Park Avenue Ba-

the parlors of the edifice, last night,
a large attendance being present at the affair. Many novel forms of entertainment were introduced during the evening, including several origi-

to Mrs. William N. Runyon by Mr.
Hall; one to Mrs. Gabriel Reid Ma-
gill by Judge William N. Runyon

MAJOR W. D. W. MILLER SERIOUSLY ILL AT HOME

Major W. D. W. Miller, a widely-known veteran of the Civil War, is quite ill at his home on East Seventh street, being under the care of a physician and trained nurses. He was in New York on Easter Sunday
and again the following day, and on Monday night he was taken suddenly ill with what appeared to be a paralytic condition and since then has been helpless.

Major Miller, who will be 79 years
of age on May 2, has been particularly active and in fine spirit of late,
attending to business regularly. He was reported today as resting quite comfortably and his physician thinks there is no immediate danger. Today's contributed editorial in the Daily Press is from the pen of Major Miller and will doubtless be read with unusual interest. This article was prepared two weeks ago and recalls incidents of the Civil War in which he performed valiant service.

C. A. Hall.

Much interest is being manifested
by the members of the local Anti-Suffrage League in the meeting which they have arranged for Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. They are expecting a large attendance of people on both sides of the question,
and following the talks by the principal speakers, an open discussion
will be a feature.

Rev. Frank Goodwin, D. D., of Westfield, will act as the presiding officer, and the speakers of the evening will be Miss Lucy Price, of Cleveland, Ohio, who was one of the speakers before the Congressional committee at the hearing a few months ago on Woman Suffrage, and former Assemblyman John A. Matthews, of Essex county, an earnest
advocate of the anti-suffrage side.
Miss Price and Mr. Matthews are both discussion. The meeting will begin the summer months. The store will remain closed Friday, and on Satur-

their time to getting out an edition
of the Daily Press, and to a number of open-air meetings in the city park.
Eight street and Arlington avenue.
All these activities will be conducted by the women.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE FACING A CRISIS

Entertainment to Be Given
Here by Grads Will Help
Building Fund.

Wellesley College alumnae of Plainfield and vicinity are doing their part to help in raising $2,000,000 to replace College Hall, which was destroyed by fire, and are presenting
"Les Miserables" in moving pictures
at the Plainfield theatre next Friday and Saturday.

The little band of twenty to thirty loyal Wellesley alumnae in securing the films have done so at considerable expense, since they are considered examples of the best in moving pictures. To those who rank "Les Miserables" among their favorite books, and to those who have not read their Victor Hugo for many years
they bring again the same breathless
interest that the book does.

It is a spirit of hopefulness and
undaunted courage in the face of the disaster which wiped out the central
life of the college which is inspiring
the alumnae to work to raise the large sum which is needed for rebuilding, but in doing so they realize that they must have the help of all those who know what Wellesley
has stood for in the higher education
of women and who want to do their share in restoring what has been destroyed by the fire.

UNITED ASSOCIATION HELD ITS FIRST ANNUAL DANCE

The first annual ball of the United Association of Drop Forgers, Die
Sinkers and Trimmer Makers, was held in Sebring's Auditorium, last night, a large number of guests taking advantage of the excellent program of dance music afforded.

The local members of the organization had charge of the arrangements for the affair and conducted the entertainment. Several officers of the association were also present
last night.

BORO SCHOOL BOARD WILL NAME VOSSLER'S SUCCESSOR

Members of the teachers committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education met at the home of Chairman F. L. Sill, on Myrtle avenue, last night, and conferred with candidates
for the position of supervising principal to succeed Arthur B. Vossler, who will resign at the end of the present term. Many applications have been received for the office, and all
are being considered by the board.

Nothing definite was decided upon
at last night's meeting, but it is understood that the members of the committee have selected the names of the most likely applicants who will be turned over to the board at the next meeting.

PROGRESSIVE GAME PARTY GIVEN BY MISS GEORGE

Seven couples enjoyed a party of progressive games given by Miss Helen George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
E. D. George, at her home on Duer street, last evening. There were three tables used and various games were played. Miss Grace Winnie won the first prize of the ladies, and William Demler took the men's high honors.

Music was also a feature of the evening. Refreshments were served at a late hour and the party broke up shortly after midnight. Those who were present are the Meses Grace
Winnie, Ruth Day, Katherine Day,
Annette Steiner, Lucile Ewart, Clara
Runyon, Helen George, and Frank
Webster, Ducus VanMater, Carlton
Smith, Percy Bailey, Pierson Bailey,
William Demler and Douglas Dem-ler.

FOUR ITALIANS ARE HELD ON SUSPICION

Believed to Be Implicated in Fire Which Destroyed the Glaser Property.

Four Italians were arrested at Sampston, yesterday afternoon, on suspicion of being implicated with
the burning of a large quantity of lumber on the farm where the Glaser Fertilizer company is erecting a new plant, on the night of February 22
last. Mr. Glaser engaged detectives to work on the case, and one of the men, an Italian, lived with a number of countrymen at South Plainfield for several weeks.

In this way sufficient evidence was obtained, it is said, to warrant the arrest of four of the Italians. They were taken to New Brunswick, where they have been held for the grand jury. There has been considerable opposition to the Glaser plant at South Plainfield, especially on the part of Italians and it is said that they have made their threats that the owner would never operate the plant.

Mr. Glaser during the past few years has suffered several very heavy losses from fire, twice when his plant was located at Alton, and since his removal to Sampston he has been annoyed considerably not only by fires,
but petty thieving.

ROCKELLER BOY SENT TO JAMESBURG SCHOOL

Raymond Rockefeller, of Prescott
place, the fourteen-year-old boy who has been giving the local police considerable trouble during the past two months, has been committed to the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg
by order of Judge James C. Connolly
in the Union County Court of Quarter Sessions, at Elizabeth, yesterday.
He is incorrigible and when arraigned
for the third time inside of two weeks before Judge DeMeza the latter held him for the Court of Quarter Sessions.

The parents of the youth accompanied him to Elizabeth and the mother made a pathetic scene in the courtroom when sentence was pronounced. Efforts to reform the boy
by the local authorities have proven futile and his mania for riding coal
trains has given the police and his parents much trouble.

LOCAL GIRLS WILL TAKE PART IN BIG EXHIBITION

All members of the gymnastic squad of the local Y. M. C. A. who are to take part in the monster exhibition on April 28 in New York, are urged to be present at the Y. M. C. A.
tonight to rehearse the drills with Miss Mabelle Ford, physical director
of the Recreation Center, New York city. Miss Ford is to be the leader of the exhibition and is coming here
tonight to perfect the local girls in their part of the program. The exhibition will be held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory and 400 participants from ten different associations will take part.

The entertainment will consist of folk dances and club swinging. Many features have been placed on the program. The local association will be represented by twenty-five girls and in order to make their showing as good as possible the leader has consented to come out and help them.

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR CLUB'S ENTERTAINMENT

The annual entertainment of the Monday Afternoon Club will be held Thursday evening, April 23, at 8:30
in the Hartridge Auditorium. After the reception of members and guests,
Mr. and Mrs. Murray Anderson, of New York, will present in costume
the "Evolution of the Dance." Max
Jacobs, violinist, and Miss Virginia Holmes, pianist, will interpret the rhythmical characteristics of the various types of the dance as it has come down to us from by-gone generations. Mr. Jacobs will also render several selections between the dance numbers.

Mrs. Frank C. Ard, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be at Hartridge Auditorium, Monday afternoon, April 20, from 2:30 to 5:30
to supply the demand for extra guest tickets as provided for by the rules of the club.

Avenue Baptist Bible school is to be

At the close of the service tomorrow evening the ordinance of baptism is to be administered to several candidates.

P. S. C. APPEALS FROM DECISION

Institutes Certiorari Proceedings to Review Order of Utility Commission.

AS TO FREE LIGHTS

Company Contents That State Board
Is Without Jurisdiction to Make
the Order and That Contract Was Abrogated by Law of 1911.

Trenton, April 18.—The Public Service Electric Company has instituted certiorari proceedings in the Supreme Court to review an order of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners compelling the company to furnish to the city of Plainfield electricity free of charge to certain of its municipal buildings, in accordance with an agreement entered into with the city.

The Public Service contends that the Board is without jurisdiction to make the order and that the contract
in question was abrogated by the law
of 1911, creating the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, which expressly prohibited the company from doing what the order requires to be done. It is further alleged that the order of the Board is in violation of both the State and the United States
constitutions.

The announcement that the Public Service Corporation has decided to appeal from the decision of the Public Utilities Commission, comes as a surprise, for it was understood that when arrangements were made to take the matter up with the State
Utilities Commission, that the company as well as the city agreed to abide by the decision. Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed gave the company to understand that if the city was beaten, it would stand by the decision and in the future pay for all lighting. It was then understood that the company would stand by the verdict.

COMPLAINANT WAS MADE ONE OF THE DEFENDANTS

Arraigned before Judge W. G. De-Meza in the city court, this morning,
on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Mrs. Katherine Stites, of West Third street, James Filmore
was given a suspended sentence of $25 fine or forty days in the county jail. Mrs. Stites, the complainant, was made defendant by the court on the same charge and given a suspended sentence of $20 fine or forty days in the county jail.

Filmore, who has been the star
boarder in the Stites' home for some time, was alleged to have threatened the life of his boarding mistress.
He appeared in court with a bandaged head due to cuts he claimed to have received at the hands of Mrs.
Stites, who wielded a lead filled billie
with telling effect on his cranium.
The trouble started at 10:30 o'clock
Thursday night when Patrolman Flatley was attracted to the Stites home
by cries of "Murder" and Police!
Filmore was represented in court this morning by Robert Newton Crane.

"THE CARNIVAL OF FLOWERS" PRESENTED AT HOPE CHAPEL

A large audience greeted the children who presented the cantata concert at Hope chapel, last evening, the entertainment being presented under the title of "The Carnival of Flowers." The children showed evidence of being well trained by the committee from the Girls' Monday Club, under whose auspices the event was held. The costumes represented
the products of nature in the realm of flowers. The committee in charge was composed of the Meses Eunice Eckert, Agnes Leighs, Jessie Duncan, Mrs. F. L. Greene, Mrs. Frank Rimmer and Mrs. William Baker.

Up to a late hour last evening no improvement had been noted in the condition of Miss Mayola Smalley.
"Amateur Night" proved to be a big drawing card in the local theatre, last evening. Every seat in the house was taken early and there was no remaining standing room after 7:45. From the time James McNeil, of the "Mutt and Jeff," Plainfield team, made his appearance until the last, in the person of another Plainfielder had made his exit as "Old Black Joe" by the hook route, the house with rare intervals of silence was filled with hoots, yells, whistles, laughter and cries of "get the hook," "give him the hook," etc. The appearance of the "Pride of Dunellen" in the person of Goodwin Lawrence, was greeted with cries of derision, and although "Goody" as he is commonly called hereabouts, commenced at once to jig in a strenuous manner, the noise that his clogging must have been making was drowned by a regular bedlam and after five full minutes, every second of which must have tortured him, "Goody" was finally withdrawn with the hook. "Goody" was finally brought forth again and after the announcement had been made that he had jokes to unfold, "Goody" attempted to spring them but the hearing faculties of the house were rendered deaf to what he was saying and the moving of his lips was all that could be discerned. The two little mite daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiddler, of Rock avenue, together sang "Maryland, My Maryland," in a manner which took with the house and they would surely have taken the first prize that was awarded by acclamation to Patrick Honan, of Clinton avenue, Plainfield, who played the harmonica, if they had been allowed to compete.
Stephen T. Kennedy, of Washington avenue, on account of the prevailing dull times enjoying a slight respite from his duties at the plant of the Watson-Stillman Company, at Garwood.

The local schools will reopen Monday for the spring term after being closed the past ten days for the annual Easter vacation. The school children are in the middle of a campaign to better the punctuality and attendance records and are succeeding. Among the fourteen school districts in the county not included in cities, Fanwood township stands third in punctuality and tenth in attendance, a jump of four places in the first and two in the latter. It is harder to maintain a good standard in this district as the pupils are scattered over a area of about ten miles, making it difficult to attend in bad weather.

THE TANGO.
Tango parties have taken the country by storm. Everywhere by everybody is this dance now attempted. The dancing pump was dressy; it was also light, and, therefore, not tiresome to the feet, and so the most practical dancing shoe. Now this dancing pump was found to be very slippery on highly polished dance floors and so was practically worthless in dancing the tango. However, the PACKARD people have overcome this feature by equipping the soles of the

Studebaker

The Studebaker "FOUR" Touring Car, $1050

The Studebaker "FOUR" Touring Car is an electrically lighted and started five-passenger automobile. The $1050 price alone, however, does not begin to indicate the car's real value, for its mechanical qualities are quite as satisfying as the price.

From motor to rear axle the mechanical design, materials and construction of the Studebaker "FOUR" can be properly compared only with the same features in cars of much higher price. It is a trustworthy, service-giving car.

The "FOUR" motor is especially powerful, so that the car responds instantly to acceleration. For the same reason, and because of its light weight in proportion to its power, the "FOUR" is a very unusual hill climber. The long stroke motor is efficient at all speeds, silent, vibrationless and very economical in gasoline and oil consumption.

The rear axle is of the full floating type, with all parts completely accessible. There are nine Timken bearings in the transmission and drive unit, and two Timken bearings in the hub of each front wheel.

In appearance the new Studebaker "FOUR" fills the eye. It is a big, handsome car, with plenty of room for five passengers. The seats are deeply upholstered; the paint and finish exceedingly handsome and durable.

The excellent balance of the car, due to the proper distribution of its weight, and also to its splendid spring action, give it great "road-ability."

And best of all, the "FOUR" is equipped with a long tested, and exceedingly efficient electric system. A push of your heel starts the motor; a touch of a button lights the lights. Central control and left hand drive add to the owner's convenience.

The equipment, as in all Studebaker cars, is thorough. The rims are demountable and detachable, with an extra rim carried on tire irons in the rear. Studebaker Jiffy curtains are provided, which can be quickly put in place from inside the car. The furnishings include robe rail, tool box, tools, electric horn, etc.

From every standpoint—comfort, durability, economy, appearance, efficiency—the Studebaker "FOUR" is a car to be sought for and purchased, because in its field it has no equal.

It is perhaps the greatest achievement among all those which stand to the credit of Studebaker factories that such a car as the electrically lighted and started, seven-passenger Studebaker "SIX" can be sold to the public completely equipped for $1575.

The time is past when anyone can well question the desirability of owning a "SIX." The mechanical advantage of a six-cylinder car can be easily demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt, both in theory and in actual experience; in fact, it is not too much to say that when you have gotten acquainted with such a car as the Studebaker "SIX" it will be impossible to persuade you that four-cylinder car of the same horsepower can equal it.

Let your mind dwell for a moment upon the striking fact that you can purchase the Studebaker "SIX" for $1575. Here is a car of unexcelled design, simple, accessible construction, highly efficient, skillfully designed, and honestly built. It is a seven-passenger car, with rich body upholstery, whose luxury is enhanced by the very unusually efficient electric starter and electric lighting system.

The remarkable nature of this achievement becomes clear when you realize that amongst comparable six-cylinder cars there is practically none to be found within $400 to $800 of its price.

There is also this additional advantage in the Studebaker "SIX." That its light weight makes it very easy on tires, and exceptionally economical in the use of fuel.

The principle of the "SIX" motor produces continuous flow of power. There is no lag in the engine. For this reason the wear on the motor, as well as on the transmission and rear axle is much reduced.

The finish and equipment of the Studebaker "SIX" is superb. The long lines of the body are exceptionally handsome. The paint work is lustrous. The detail of the two disappearing seats, as a small example of careful work, is particularly good; they fold forward into a recess at the back of the front seat, leaving the tonneau clear when the auxiliary seats are not in use.

Measure against the Studebaker "SIX" any car which may be suggested to you, and the predominance of this "SIX" will force itself upon you convincingly.

AFRAID OF THE DENTIST?

Here Are Some Hints That May Help You Through Your Ordeal.

Everybody dreads the dentist. The bravest heart quails at the thought of the man with the forceps. One who has been through many trying experiences with the dentist, and who has made a study of efficiency in all directions, claims to have made some discoveries that ought to be helpful to all. Here are some of his suggestions. Your siege in the dentist chair will be greatly lightened if you will remember a few things.

Keep the throat moist by gargling from time to time as you sit in the chair with water mixed with some anesthetic preparation of an ordinary character such as every dentist has at hand.

It is not a bad idea before you go to a dentist to take a bit of chewing gum in the mouth to promote a free flow of saliva. If the gum has a flavor, that will be helpful and will check the tendency to dryness of the throat and the tickling sensation that follows.

Carry a large handkerchief with perfume or cologne on it which you can hold in your hand and inhale the cologne whenever you have a moment's rest. You will find it very refreshing. While the dentist is not working the handkerchief will give your fingers something to do. This may help to divert your attention from the work on your teeth.

Relieve the strain upon your throat at every opportunity while the dentist is changing his instruments by lifting your head from the chair for even a single moment—and taking a deep breath. Shut your eyes and think of some problem, some particular friend or of some one in whom you are deeply interested. This will divert your thought from the dentist's work.

Remember that most of the pain we fear we can escape. In these days dentistry is less painful than ever before. It will probably never be entirely painless, yet much of the work of the dentist is now done without inflicting pain, though, of course, it is always unpleasant to have any one operating with steel instruments in your mouth.

If a painful moment comes while you are sitting in the chair you can relieve it instantly by taking a long breath. Try it and see.—Leslie's Weekly.

YACHTSMEN'S MAGIC EIGHT.

That Number of Letters Favored For Name of Vanderbilt Cup Racer.

Sentiment is taking hold in the matter of providing a name for the Vanderbilt syndicate cup yacht, designed by Nat Herreshoff, and it is a matter of public discussion about the Herreshoff boat shop at Bristol, R. I., that the new racer, yet in the initial stages of construction, will have a name of eight letters, conforming to a sentimental policy of long standing relative to cup yachts. A multitude of names has been suggested informally, but the naming of the yacht may not take place for weeks to come.

It is pointed out that the Reliance, Vigilant, Defender and Columbia, all successful cup yachts, had each only eight letters in their names, while the Constitution, a cup candidate in 1903, had several more letters in her name. She was not selected.

It is said that having eight letters in a yacht's name is a good omen.

THE BEAUTIFUL CITY OF MEXICO IN DANGER OF FURTHER DAMAGE

The Most Historic Spot on Our Continent.

May Soon Again Become a Battlefield.

ON to the City of Mexico" is the cry that is inspiring the Constitutional forces in Mexico, who are gradually drawing nearer to the goal of their desires. The eyes of the world are turning to this beautiful and historic city, which apparently is so soon to be plunged again into the horrors of civil strife. Already the foreign legations are making full preparations to deal with any emergency as well as possible, so far as the protection of foreign lives is concerned. Machine guns have been taken from a British cruiser and consigned to the British legation. All the legations are working in accord, although the United States embassy is not specifically included in either the plans or the organization. It is probable that some plan will be made by

of the Grasshopper, on which is Chapultepec castle, today a beautiful building with a famous outlook and the permanent quarters of the National Military school—the West Point of Mexico. Though the interior of the castle is interesting, with its relics of Cortes and Maximilian, it is outdoors that one lingers, for below lie the historic city and nearby numerous battlefields and shining lakes framed by snow white mountains.

One of the most interesting of the old buildings in the city is the Municipal palace, which overlooks the Zocalo, and like most of the structures in this Aztec city, it has a history. The present building dates back to 1632, but before that Montezuma and Cortes had official houses there. It has a frontage of nearly 700 feet, is built around several courts, contains the state rooms of the president, senate chamber and official residences and is the headquarters of the army. Three entrances are guarded by soldiers, and it is necessary to obtain a permit to enter. It contains a famous hall of ambassadors, whose walls are hung with portraits of patriots, among them George Washington. It is here the president receives diplomats, and here the late President Madero was placed under arrest by General Huerta. Over the main gateway to the palace hangs the famous liberty bell of Mexico, which was rung in 1810 by the priest Hidalgo—called the savior of his country to start his people to fight for liberty. The Independence monument is a beautiful structure, 130 feet in height, commemorating the throwing off of the Spanish yoke. The National museum is a fine building, rich in ancient treasures and Aztec specimens.

There is always variety in Mexico City. The street scenes are odd to Americans, as are the magnificent am-which Americans may assist in a non-combatant capacity. The measures are being carried out with extreme secrecy. The diplomats refuse to discuss the arrangements in any way, although they admit that they have taken such measures as they consider necessary for the protection of their nationals. It is generally known that rifles have been sent to the City of Mexico by the British, German, Spanish and other governments for police and defensive purposes.

In spite of Mexico's internal troubles, its capital still ranks as one of the most attractive cities of North America. Few cities of this western world compare in historical interest and beauty of setting with this ancient capital of the Aztecs.

In many respects the present City of Mexico, with its beautiful parks and asphalt streets, resembles Paris. It is an easy place to get around in, the center of the city's busy life and also of the fine electric street car system being the Zocalo or Plaza Mayor, a square surrounding or near which are the cathedral, thieves' market, municipal palace and large store and street booths. phitheatres erected for bullfights. Side by side stand the historic and the new, the ancient and modern in architecture. In the best residence section there are a few modern flat buildings, but the better class, as a rule, live in houses built around beautiful patios. The cathedral overlooks the Zocalo and is an ancient landmark and one of the historic and famous structures of the world.

This building was erected on the site of an Aztec temple in which human sacrifices were offered. Its construction began in 1573, and it is not yet finished. The outside walls are very thick, there is a wonderful facade, the towers are over 200 feet high, and the interior is grand and severe. There are many chapels besides the main church, in one of which Huertibide, "the liberator," the first emperor of Mexico, lies buried. The altars and choir are beautifully carved, and the latter is enclosed by a remarkable and handsome railing of tumbago, a composite metal of gold, silver and copper made in Spain. This same material is employed to embellish the inside of the city's most fashionable clubhouse, the Jockey club house, whose facade is incrustated with blue and white tiles imported from China and whose members are the most exclusive of Mexican society. The Americans, English, Spanish, Germans and French also have clubs, but none is as elegant as this. Many of the most beautiful and historic buildings were badly damaged in the battles between Diaz and Madero in the heart of the city.

There are many French, Germans, Spaniards and other nationalities besides Americans in Mexico City, which is a most interesting and magnificent capital. Its past is rich in history with its associations of Aztec, Spanish and successive Mexican regimes. What will its future be?

space for the common people and was the heart of the fighting zone during the civil strife in the city.

The Alameda is in the center of the city, situated on a main street, once the causeway of the Spaniards. It was the Indian market place in the time of Montezuma and used by the Spaniards for their auto-dafes. Today it is a beautiful grass and flower garden, named from the alamos, or poplars, which fill it.

The Paseo de la Reforma was planned by Empress Carlotta. It is nearly a block wide, three miles long and level as a floor. Along its side are auto paths, wide walks, hundreds of bronze figures of illustrious men, and it widens into circles in which are hand stands and statues which rank among the world's works of art.

A BIT OF HISTORY—THE COOPER SHOP.

What was it? When was it? Where was it?

Lest we forget, I give this short story to my fellow town-folk. The Cooper Shop was a building in Philadelphia formerly used for barrel making, but bought in May 1861 by some public spirited citizens of that city to be used as a refreshment saloon for soldiers hurrying from the north, east and west to active service in the south.

On the nineteenth of May, 1861, President Lincoln issued his first call for 75,000 troops, a call which was responded to by some 300,000 men from Maine to the Pacific coast. By such the Cooper Shop was used during the war of the Rebellion. It furnished refreshment for the hungry boys from the north. It also gave refreshment to some 15,000 refugees. The Presbyterians supplied the room with Bibles, prayer books and religious reading in abundance.

The newspaper at first printed glowing columns in description of favorite regiments, but as time wore on the eye and mind tired of the constant pageant. Through the hot summer days and nights the men and women in the kitchens and dining sheds of the "Union," many of them of advanced age, worked unceasingly. At this time the three months regiments were returning, adding greatly to the almost daily demands upon the volunteer committee and its workers.

Many famous regiments stopped at this eating house. The Eighth New York Volunteer Infantry, Colonel Blenker's sturdy German command; the Second and Ninth New Yorkers; the stunning Garibaldi regiment eleven hundred strong, clad in their picturesque Italian uniforms; the heavy ranks of the men from Maine, contrasting with Colonel Cameron's Seventy-ninth New York Highlanders, more than a thousand with their kilted legs swinging to the drone of the bag pipes. Those were gloriously inspiring days, and there was plenty of work in the old navy yard and outside, helping the soldiers who were on their way to help the nation.

All through June and July the troops poured through the city, infantry, cavalry and artillery, Hussars, Zouaves and voltiguers; whole brigades of less showy, but quite as resolute regiments in the plain blue of the citizen volunteers. In July, the "Union" fed 22,000 men, but that was light work compared with later on.

It was a typical November day when the regiment with which I was connected, marched from Elm Park down Broadway, embarking at the battery to a steamboat for South Amboy, where we started by the Camden and Amboy Railroad for the front. Weary and quite tired out we reached the hospitable Cooper Shop and were well cared for by the generous men and women of Philadelphia before we again boarded the cars for Washington. Perhaps no better description of this shop can be found than in the following letter sent home by a soldier boy:

Washington, June 1, 1863.

"Dear Parents:—I will endeavor to give you a faint description of our reception in Philadelphia, but I know that my pen cannot half do justice to the subject, but I do know that the remembrance of it will live in the hearts of our brave artillery boys as long as they are able to train a gun or draw a sword in the defence of their country. As soon as we reached the city we marched to the dining saloon, about ten or fifteen rods from the ferry. As soon as we got there we entered the wash-room, a room large enough to accommodate sixty or seventy men to wash at a time. Then we marched into a splendid hall, with room enough to feed five hundred men at a time. There were gentlemen to wait on us, and they would come around and ask if we had plenty and urge us to eat more. We had nice white bread, beautiful butter, cold boiled ham, cheese, coffee, with plenty of milk and sugar.

"After we had eaten our fill, which was considerable, for we had eaten nothing since morning, we returned to the streets. Our knapsacks on the sidewalk were left without a guard, but they were almost covered with little children who were watching to see that no one disturbed them. One little fellow found a tin canister and he was hunting around from rank to rank until he found the owner. We were allowed a little time to rest, during which little girls in white went all around through the ranks giving the men flowers and saying kind things to them. It seemed that the people could not do us enough honor. One little girl, about ten years old, came up to me and gave me a half-blown rose, and stayed and talked with me until we started, and then she put her little face up for a kiss with as much confidence as she would to a brother.

"I never saw so many handsome girls in my life. We had nearly a mile and a half to march, and of all the sights I ever saw, that march beats them all. The sidewalks on each side were lined with old men and matrons, young men and maidens, girls and boys, and every one was trying to see who could shake the most soldiers by the hand. It was the very best class of people who were out to meet us. In some places the streets were completely blocked with them. It was like so many people bidding good-bye to their own sons and brothers, anyone who thinks there is any lack of support for the war has only to march through Philadelphia. FOSTER, Co. B."

WILLIAM D. W. MILLER.

WIFE DESERTER LET GO.

Sidney Judson, of Plainfield, who was arrested for deserting his wife and who was convicted in a trial before Judge James C. Connolly, last week, was released under a suspended sentence in the Court of Quarter Sessions, at Elizabeth, yesterday. Counsel for him said that his health was poor, that he had already spent considerable time in jail and that his wife had brought an action for divorce against him, all of which moved the court to leniency.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Mrs. Josephine Dentz entertained a party of friends last evening at her on Duer street. The home was prettily decorated in green and white. The evening was spent in playing games, dancing and singing. A solo was rendered by Oscar Philpott and was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Dentz. Friends were present from Brooklyn, Newark and this city. Refreshments were served.

"HUMANAPHONE" ENJOYED BY A LARGE AUDIENCE

The "Humanaphone," the latest in the musical instruments to be "invented," was presented to a large number of music lovers, last night, at the First M. E. church, under the auspices of the Epworth League. The new instrument is built on much the same lines as a pipe organ, but excels by far the usefulness of the latter as vocal and stringed instrument selections may be enjoyed from the one machine.

Fifteen of the young people of the church assisted in "operating" the machine, which proved to be very entertaining. The affair was arranged by Miss Helen Joy. A portion of the proceeds will be used in aiding the M. E. church at Kenilworth.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

William Burtis, '06, has presented the High School with a pennant representing the Navy. He is an ensign on the battleship New Jersey at the present time.

At a meeting of the senior class yesterday it was decided to have class day and commencement combined as was done last night. The committees have started work on the various features and the prophecy will be especially fine. The class flower was changed from the black-eyed susan to the American beauty. Plans will be started soon for the regular senior dance that comes during the last week of school.

The first copies of the senior essays were returned to the students yesterday, with corrections made by the English teacher. The final copies will be handed in next month.

Mr. Saunders, who was head of the manual training department nine years ago, made a visit to the school yesterday.

The showers that were installed in the new lavatory are now in working order and the ball players will be able to refresh themselves after practices and visiting teams will find this an added privilege.

The chorus for the commencement exercises will resume practice Monday and will sing three times at the graduation. Miss Uter has selected some excellent pieces.

THRILLING CURTAIN RAISER ANNEXED BY
PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL BALL TOSSERS

With three men on the cushions and two down in the ninth inning of the Central High School clash on Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, Donald Sminck, of the Plainfield High School nine, put a fitting finale on a masterful exhibition of the twirling art by making the batter entrusted with the task of driving a couple of tying runs across the platter, roll an easy one to the keystone territory. This ended a contest replete with thrills of every variety and gave the hard and consistent. The opening struggle was waged against a team of unusual calibre and the locals had to face some glib edged twirling during the greater part of the game. It was a pitching battle from start to finish with Sminck holding the upper hand because of his ability to deliver the goods in the pinches.

The Central lads outthit the home team five hits to four, but when the necessary bingle was needed it was not forthcoming. In the fifth Lehr-

FOR 14.1 BALKLINE TITLE.

New York, April 18.—Something new in professional competitive baseball is about to be given a trial, in the form of a 14.1 balkline tournament to begin at the Hotel Astor next Monday night. There has been criticism of the 18.1 game that it is so difficult that even when the leading professionals are involved, the game drags and the spectators lost their interest. The new standard game has been adopted, therefore, as a sort of a compromise between the 18.2 and 18.1 balkline play. The competition will be 400 points, 14-inch balkline, one shot in balk and one in anchor, the spaces for which will be seven square. Half a dozen of the leading balkline artists of America and Koji Yamada, the trim little Japanese from Tokio, compose the field which will compete for the new championship title in next week's tournament. Of the American players Willie Hoppe and George Slosson are from New York, Harry P. Cline from Philadelphia, and Ora Morningstar from Pittsburgh. Chicago will be represented in the tournament by George Sutton, Calvin Demarest and possibly young Jacob Schaefer.

Indianapolis	10,000

WOODBIDGE AT N. P. H. S.

The Woodbridge High School baseball team will appear on Hyde Oval Monday afternoon and play the boroughites. Last year the local team won with a ten run lead, but they will not have such a cinch this time. Wand, the tall pitcher that opposed the borough boys last season, will again be on the mound and has a strong set of men behind him.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can a person ascertain the age of another person over or under twenty-one?—C. B. J.

Answer—That depends on circumstances. If you can obtain from any official a sight of his birth record, or get the information from someone who has known him from infancy, those would seem to be the surest ways.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly inform us through your paper which is the right way to express the following sentence: "Your outfit and material was shipped" or "Your outfit and material were shipped"?—V. E. T.

Answer—The last given sentence is the correct one. Two names connect the conjunction and require a plural verb.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there such a paper as the Irish-American Weekly? If so, where can we secure it?—K. D. T.

Answer—We can locate no such paper.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When was the aquarium in New York opened? How many different kinds of fish does it contain? How many people have visited it since it was opened?—H. J. T.

Answer—The New York Aquarium was opened in December, 1896. It has 200 different kinds of fish. It is estimated that fully 2,000,000 people have visited it.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In a day's edition of the Daily Press would the paper weigh less if not printed?—G. R.

Answer—It takes a number of pounds of ink to print the paper, so you can see that the paper is lighter without the print.

JACK MARTIN PERFORMED
WELL FOR BOSTON BRAVES

Jack Martin, the local ball player, was in the lineup of the Boston National League team, yesterday, and covered third base during the entire game with Brooklyn. He made three putouts and three assists and figured in a double play. Martin is taking the place of Deal who is out of the game with a "Charlie Horse," and if the local boy keeps up the good work that he has started he will have a fine chance of staying with the team. Brooklyn won 5 to 0.

DAVE DRISCOLL'S TEAM WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK

The New Brunswick baseball team will open the season next Sunday, when Joe Burns' fast going Abstiners, of Elizabeth, will appear at the place. The Brunswick aggregation is managed by Dave Driscoll, who played first base on the Plainfield team for two years and also captained it. He has a fine set of ball players this year and will make any team in these parts go the limit. He has signed up many of the players that have played on the Plainfield team for some years back and the names of Joe Harter, Eddie Stallings and Cosgrove will appear on the score-book.

Another familiar name is that of Jimmy Clinton, the pitcher that has given local teams so much trouble in previous years and he will probably be on the mound for Driscoll's nine. Jimmy has defeated the Plainfield team on a few occasions and also took the Abstiners into camp last season.

BATTIN H. S. TENNIS TEAM
FACES HARD LIST OF GAMES

Richard Pery, manager of the tennis team of Battin High School, of Elizabeth, has just completed a very hard schedule that will make the team work during the whole season. Although there are only six matches booked the players will meet some of the fastest racquet wielders in the State. As yet the Battin-Pinky contest has not been arranged and it is doubtful whether these schools will meet on the court this year. The Plainfield High School team is on the list and the Battin team will appear on Parker Field, Monday, May 11.

The coaches of the teams are much pleased with the present outlook and expect a fast team. Both of last year's regulars will again play and there are a good number of new candidates who will report. The manager is trying to get the El Mora Country Club courts for all home games. Only two of the games on the schedule are away from home. The complete schedule follows:

Tuesday, May 5—Kingsley School at Essex Falls.

Monday, May 11—Plainfield High School at Plainfield.

Monday, May 18—Rosell High School at Elizabeth.

Friday, May 22—The E. M. M. Club at Elizabeth.

Tuesday, May 26—Cranford High School at Elizabeth.

Wednesday, June 3—Dickinson High School at Elizabeth.

—It pays to use the advertising columns of The Press.

GAME POSTPONED.

The second game with the Roselle team that was to be played next Wednesday was postponed by Manager Beckman, of N. P. H. S., yesterday because of the final practice for the athletic association play on that date. The game will be played in Roselle on the following day.

N. P. H. S. A. A. READY FOR ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT

Final arrangements for the annual play of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association have been made and next week the final dress rehearsals will be held in the Park Club where the entertainment will be given on Friday evening, April 24. The play cast has been working for the past six weeks on Charles Townsend's comedy, "All Tangled Up," and under the skillful coaching of Miss Helen Kay, has it ready for presentation.

The play upholds its name from start to finish and many original lines have been added. After the entertainment there will be dancing till 2 o'clock, with Halboerster's orchestra. Those who will take part in the play are the Misses Lucille Ewart, Katherine Giddings and Mary Martin, and Atwood Giddings, Ashley Burner, Charles Beckman, Dinos Van Mater and Edson Day.

FIRE AT BOUND BROOK.

Bound Brook, April 18.—The home of Archibald I. Coddington, on West Union avenue, was damaged this morning by fire to the extent of $1,500. The flames started on the third floor and consumed the entire roof. The furniture was saved. The entire department of the town responded to the alarm.

red and blue a 2 to 0 verdict in the curtain raising battle of the school's schedule. Sensational fielding and some timely bingling made the encounter an interesting one and the result of the game remained a toss-up until Victorson pocketed the final putout.

The schoolboys sporting the Queen City regalia supported Sminck in excellent style and cut off a number of rallies that looked exceedingly dangerous for the time being. While the local moundman's support was of the Class A calibre his delivery was on a par with the rest of things that went to bring the victory to Plainfield and he displayed a form

hoff walked and went to third on a bad peg by Sminck only to be called out under the new ruling, Brokaw declaring he had been touched by "Beals" Becker, who was coaching at third. This killed a sure run, as Wagner, the next batter, singled to right. Wagner stole second but when trying to score on Lefkowitz's one timer to right was nipped at the plate by a gr-at throw from Peacock. In the ninth there were three on base and two out when Lewis Lefkowitz stepped to the plate, but he ended the game by going out on a roller to Rosenon.

The Plainfielders scored once in the third and again in the fourth. Ap-seldom seen in a high school heaver at this time of the spring. He had enough pounds of steam with him to keep the Newarkers ducking at regular intervals and his curves were breaking in a manner that spread terror in the visiting camp.

The Plainfield combination was composed of only a small part of veteran material and around the small nucleus a sterling aggregation has been moulded. There was not a single weak spot in the Plainfielders' battle front and their hitting was gar and VanDeventer crossing the plate. The first count was made by Aggar when he beat Dubois' slow throw to the platter. It was a hard game for the Central pitchers to lose. "Digger" Smith started for the visitors and allowed but one hit in two innings and a part of the third when he was derricked by Coach Sargent to put "Sammy" Lehrhoff in. The latter twirled in great style allowing but three hits in six innings, striking out seven batters and not walking a

General Pancho Villa
Coins Own Currency,
Issues Paper Money

GENERAL PANCHO VILLA, upon whom the eyes of the world have been focused of late, though undoubtedly a bandit and probably a murderer, is still a man who seems to be equal to any emergency and who meets it, whether he fully appreciates it or not, after his own peculiar fashion—in fact, in a way, it may be said that he makes the emergency meet him.
Finding the currency exceedingly scarce in the state of Chihuahua, a territory twice as big as New York state, which he overran and conquered in a month's campaign, he set to work to make currency of his own. He immediately issued $100,000 in paper currency, signed with his own name and secured by $100,000 worth of confiscated property. Finding the prices for food very high, he proceeded to fix the price of beef at 15 cents a pound, milk at 7 cents a quart and bread at 2 cents a loaf. The acceptance of the new money was made compulsory, and storekeepers were forbidden to advance prices on that account by the most severe penalties.
Villa's currency was valueless in American banks. Mexican silver fell to 45 cents, and the bills of the National bank, the Bank of Sonora, the Banco Minero and even the Bank of London and Mexico dropped to 32 cents on the dollar. But still this comparatively good money refused to be lured from its many hiding places. So Villa boldly issued a proclamation stating that after a certain date all the good money would be absolutely without value. It must be exchanged before that time at the state treasury for Villa money and after that date would not be accepted even there.
And yet, strange to relate, no panic has befallen the state of Chihuahua.

Photos by American Press Association.
GENERAL PANCHO VILLA AND SAMPLES OF THE MONEY HE MAKES.

In Chihuahua City the market is now thronged every morning with buyers and sellers. There are practically no destitute people in the streets, and the banks of El Paso quote Villa currency at 45 cents.

More lately he has taken to issuing copper coins as well as paper money. The amount of copper available for his mint is only limited by the amount of electric light, trolley and other copper wires in the state. The coin shown in the illustration is a two-centavo piece, 2 cents in Mexican and approximately one-quarter of a cent in the United States. It is intended for general circulation, but the number stamped out is very small.

This coin was made out of five miles of copper wire belonging to the Parral Electric Light and Power company, an American corporation controlled by William W. Stewart, an American. When Villa went into Chihuahua and swept down to Parral he appropriated the copper wire, informing Mr. Stewart first that he would pay for everything the stern necessity of war would require him to take and, further, that he wanted Mr. Stewart to continue the operation of his plant. Mr. Stewart arose to inquire how he was going to transmit light or power without wires, but that was a detail with which General Villa did not bother himself. He did pay for the wire, it is reported. He sent Mr. Stewart just forty of the new two-centavo pieces with his compliments, which broke the price of copper somewhat. Coin collectors of the United States, hearing of the new issue, are now besieging El Paso for early samples of the new mint, and they are selling at a premium.

When Villa first entered the city of Chihuahua in triumph his first act was to seize the authority in Chihuahua and proclaim himself military governor of the state. Then he set about securing order.

But Villa soon found he needed money, and needed it badly, for the purchase of ammunition and arms and other necessities and to pay his soldiers. But there was no money in sight. Those who had possessed any had buried it in the ground, and so Villa met this emergency by proceeding to make money in his own arbitrary fashion.

News of Interest in Building World

CONTRACTORS ARE MORE OPTIMISTIC

Building Trades Get Another
Boost Toward Normal Conditions.

OUTLOOK IS HOPEFUL

Ten Permits Granted by Building
Inspector T. O. Doane During the Week Aggregating a Total Expenditure of $24,715.00.

Building trades received another boost this week in their endeavor to regain normal conditions. While the conditions are not yet what they might be, a vast difference is noted in the feeling which was so prevalent less than two weeks ago. Contractors today are somewhat optimistic as against the pessimistic attitude which was keeping prospective builders under cover for several months. From present indications, the building industry in Plainfield and vicinity should enjoy a prosperous season. No doubt the industrial conditions in other lines of work has held up considerable work in the construction world, but the time has now, or is about to come, when improvements must come, and building will, of a necessity, come into its own. Prosperity as has been known in this city is not only a thing of the past, but of the future as well, if the estimates for which local contractors are being asked are to be taken into consideration.

During the past week, ten permits have been granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane, five calling for the erection of six houses, three calling for garages, and two for alterations. The cost of the dwellings will be $22,350; the garages $1,165; and the alterations $1,200, making a total expenditure of $24,715. Of this amount, $20,850 will be spent in the First ward.

The permits as issued during the past week by Inspector Doane are as noted below.

First Ward.
The permit issued to Andrew Olsen calls for the erection of two dwellings on East Second street, just off Hillcrest avenue. The structures will be two and a half stories high, frame in structure, and heated with steam. The foundations will be of concrete, and the roof shingled. They will cost $3,000 each. The contract has been awarded to Oscar Peterson, of Dunellen.

The frame dwelling to be erected by Russel Doeringer on East Front street will be two and a half stories high and will cost in the neighborhood of $4,700. Hotwater will furnish heat. George N. Nolte is the architect and carpenter, while Howard D. Huff is the contracting mason.

Salvatore Parrette will erect a terra cotta block dwelling at a cost of $2,700. The structure will be two stories in height, and will have a concrete foundation and a shingled roof. W. H. Clum is the architect and Aubrey Lambert the carpenter. Mr. Parrette will do the masonry work.

Mrs. Caroline Dougherty, of Jersey City, has been granted two permits, one for a dwelling and the other for a garage at 42 Leland avenue. The former will be a two and a half story frame structure, heated with hot water. The foundation is to be of concrete and the roof shingled. The cost will amount to $6,950. The garage will be a 20 by 26 foot frame building with a concrete foundation and cement floors. The cost will be $500. John Simpson is the architect of both buildings. The contracts have been awarded to Howard Huff, mason, and George W. Nolte, carpenter.

Third Ward.
Orra S. Rogers will erect a one story frame garage at 645 West Seventh street at a cost of $425. The building will be 20x22 feet, will have a concrete foundation and a shingle roof. L. F. C. Beck has the contract.

Mrs. Bertha LaRue will erect a two story frame dwelling of the semi-bungalow type at 426 Spruce street at the cost of $2,000. Fred L. Lancaster is the architect, J. S. Kerwin the mason and Walter S. Scriven the carpenter.

Dudley S. Miller will construct a one story frame garage at 929 Union street at a cost of $240. The masonry work will be done by James Gunn, while the carpentry will be accomplished by H. H. Bohl.

W. H. Rogers is to add an extension to the rear of his dwelling at 990 Central avenue at a cost of $1,000. The work will include the enclosing of the rear porch to enlarge the butler's pantry and building a new porch. The addition will be 11x7 feet.

Fourth Ward.
The only permit in this ward has been granted to Mrs. Thomas Cullen to construct a 12x12 extension to the dwelling at 436 Orchard place at a cost of $200. The contracts have been awarded to John Hubbard and S. M. Titus.

IN THE SUBURBS

Clarence M. Haight has sold 10.65 acres at Maltby and Sherman avenues, New Market, to Edward Bialla. The work on the addition to the Whittier School, Dunellen, was started this week and is expected to be finished in sufficient time to be furnished for the next fall term.

William H. Hill, of New York, has purchased several plots at Garwood through the New York Suburban Land Company.

C. D. Nonemaker, of Dunellen, has erected a garage in the rear of his residence on Dunellen avenue.

GREAT PROSPERITY
WAVE FOR EAST
Statistician Edward J. Cattell, of Philadelphia, Makes a Prediction.

Rochester, N.Y., April 18.—A great wave of prosperity within eighteen months was predicted Wednesday night by Edward J. Cattell, statistician, of Philadelphia, in an address at the annual dinner of the Clearing House Association. Mr. Cattell took a strongly optimistic ground regarding the future, declaring the original thirteen States would receive the larger portion of the business boom. Mr. Cattell said, in part:

"I can see nothing but prosperity for the old thirteen States, and I believe the past year of slow progress, forcing economies in production and a careful reconstruction of the whole machinery of commerce and manufacture will, in the end, prove a great advantage."

"The East is waking up. Intensified farming is nowhere receiving closer attention than along the Atlantic seaboard, more particularly in the southern section. Political power now lies with the East and South. The cities of the East and South are showing wonderful activity in the matter of developing the great tools of trade."

"The new banking system, about to be inaugurated, is an event of the first importance. Indeed, no testimony could be greater to the wonderful courage of the American people than the way in which they have calmly faced, without excitement, a complete reorganization in the banking, currency and tariff systems of the country, and the courage with which the great commercial situation is being met is convincing proof that it will be successfully solved."

Omaha, Neb., April 18.—The Union Pacific Railroad, it is announced at headquarters in this city, has just placed an order for nearly $1,000,000 worth of locomotives for delivery before the opening of the San Francisco Exposition.

Pittsburgh, April 18.—Rush orders for forty-one all-steel box cars have been placed with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's car shops at Altoona. In view of the fact that the cars are for quick delivery, the order is taken as an indication that business is improving.

JUST NOTES

The Common Council of Elizabeth recently appropriated $200 for the improving of the 175 by 200 foot lot immediately adjoining Recreation Pier at Elizabethport. This improvement will mean a great deal for that section of the city as far as real estate values are concerned. The action is a result of work and agitation by the First Street Association.

St. Stephen's Parish House on Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, is undergoing extensive repairs. The contracts for the work have been awarded to John Dahl, carpenter; John Caulfield, mason, and Johanson Brothers, painters. The overhauling will be complete in every detail.

Reports in metropolitan newspapers indicate that building operations on Manhattan Island have taken a great slump, a drop of over fifty per cent, being experienced during the first quarter of the year over the same period of 1913. Brooklyn, however, shows a slight increase. The fact that many of the home-seekers are leaving Manhattan Island for Long Island indicate that suburban sites will shortly experience one of the greatest booms in the history of real estate in this section of the country.

Sarah G. Ross, as the complainant in a mortgage foreclosure action, was the buyer of property located on Prospect avenue, this city, sold at vendue by Sheriff Wright at Elizabeth on Wednesday. Hannah M. Dunsen was the defendant.

Ground was broken Wednesday for the New Jersey building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The ceremony was in charge of the New Jersey Society of California. The building, which is to cost $50,000, will be the headquarters of President Wilson on his proposed visit to the fair.

A bill authorizing the renaming of the New Jersey section of the Lincoln Highway, has been passed by the Senate of that State. The entire length of the Way across New Jersey is now officially designated, "Lincoln Way." Action of this nature is giving the great memorial project an added impetus through the East.

Announcement was made early this week of the sale of Glimpsewood Manor, the residence of the late Alfred R. Whitney, steel magnate, at Morristown, to George R. King, of New York, for $250,000.

The interior of the Hand Storage Rooms, on Somerset street, the borough, is undergoing a remodeling.

The work on the six room, hollow stucco dwelling on Cedarbrook place, belonging to Ralph Dilaboro, was started this week. The structure will be a two and a half story affair and will cost $2,300. McCullough and Rhodier are the carpenter contractors; Alphonse Ciochi, the mason, the W. H. Clum, the architect.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SPRING DESSERTS OF FRUIT.

THERE are so few fruits now available that a fruit dessert must at this season be planned with care. Some suggestions along this line are the following recipes, which include delicious combinations of the fruits now in the market:

With Fresh or Canned Fruit.

Pineapple Pudding.—This is a frozen dessert which can be made from fresh or canned pineapples. To make it with fresh fruit, pare, remove eyes and cut into dice a ripe pineapple; put it in a bowl and pour over it two cupsful of cold sirup made by boiling together equal parts of sugar and water for about ten minutes. Let the fruit stand in the sirup four hours; then put it in the ice cream freezer and freeze it until it is thick. Add a pint of stiffly whipped cream and let it stand in the freezer a little longer.

Made With Nuts.

Surprise Cream.—Many varieties of this dessert can be made. To begin, dip blanched and split almonds, candied cherries cut in halves or strips of candied fruit of various colors in uncolored jelly. This is gelatin dissolved and slightly sweetened. Place the nuts or fruit about the sides and bottom of the mold and pour in a thin layer of unsweetened jelly. Put the mold in chopped ice and turn it around until the jelly is hardened and the nuts or fruit are in place. Then put in a coating of jelly or cream, harden it in the same way, and finally fill the center cavity with cream of a different flavor.

A Fruit Medley.

Chartreuse of Fruit.—This can be prepared from such fruits as may be obtained. To make it, prepare a quart of lemon or orange jelly. Line a jelly mold which has a pipe in the center or an angel's foot tin with glass fruits cut into neat pieces, quartered slices of bananas, orange sections with the thin connecting skin removed, skinned and seeded grapes cut in halves and candied violets and rose leaves. Pour in a layer of jelly. When it is set put in a layer of fruit and cover it with another layer of jelly. An occasional thin layer of plain jelly can be used. When the mold is full place it in a pan of cracked ice until it is solid. At serving time put the mold of jelly on a cold dish, hold a warm, damp cloth about the sides and bottom until the jelly is loosened and fit the hollow center with slightly sweetened, whipped cream.

Daddy's Bedtime

How the Keeper Saved the Fawn's Life.

Put Her Head on the Keeper's Shoulder.

JACK and Evelyn sometimes went on trips to the zoo with daddy, but they hadn't been there for ever so long. So when daddy came home they spoke about it.

"I know," said daddy, "we haven't been for a long, long time, that's very true, but we'll surely go soon."

"First, though, I must tell you the story I heard of one of the deers in the zoo."

"This mother deer had a beautiful young fawn, and, oh, she was so proud of her beautiful child! She gave the fawn all the attention that any devoted mother deer could."

"One day, alas, the fawn, who was somewhat delicate, caught a terrible cold. The mother deer was frightened, and by evening the fawn's cough was dreadful. Now, the keeper had fed all the animals, and they had gone to bed for the night. But the deer cried so pitifully that the good, kind keeper, whose own home was near by, knew that something was the matter."

"When he reached the little home of the mother deer and her beautiful fawn he found the mother deer leaning her head sadly against the wire door, and the fawn had her head by her mother's side."

"Oh, my child, my beautiful child, is ill! She has such a dreadful cold, and I'm afraid she'll die! Oh, what can you do for her?" wailed the deer.

"The keeper understood perfectly, and he took a big warm rug and put it right over the fawn. Then he went back to his home and heated some milk, which he came back with and fed slowly to the deer."

"The keeper sat up all night with the fawn, giving her warm milk and keeping her well covered. She did look so sick, and her big eyes looked so pleading! They seemed to say:

"Oh, Mr. Keeper, save me so I won't have to leave my mother!"

"And as the keeper began to soothe the fawn the mother deer looked on and seemed so relieved."

"In the morning the fawn's cold was ever so much better. It had almost entirely disappeared, and by afternoon, when the fawn had been in the sun all the morning, she was really quite herself again."

"Once more her big eyes looked happy, and the mother deer, when the keeper came to bring them their supper that night, put her head on the keeper's shoulder and cried a very different cry from the night before. She cried for joy because her lovely fawn was alive and well, and she cried on the keeper's shoulder because she knew the keeper had saved her beautiful child's life."

Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman in a recent lecture on Feminism in New York said that home is a check upon the growth of humanity. It is a relic of the harem. "You talk of the home as holy," she said, "why, the postoffice is holier than the home. The postoffice is a proof of an exalted civilization. There are many women who call home their field of expression. Well, God pity those women!"

Mrs. Gilman's views on the economic independence of women are well known. A writer in the Boston Post of March 18, says: According to Mrs. Gilman, since female animals are not dependent on male for food, why should women be? "The female cat supports herself and her young—why cannot humanity regain this lofty state?"

Dr. Stanton Coit, who is lecturing to Suffrage audiences around Boston, is a very ardent admirer of Mrs. Gilman, and urges the importance of spreading the knowledge of her teachings. His own views on wifehood are expressed as follows: "Wifehood has all the characteristics of slavery, work without wage, no specified wage, no specified hours, no right to change employers."

The Suffragists tell us on all occasions, that if women had the ballot, much better laws for the education and welfare of the child and youth of our country will be enacted. Let me cite a few instances to disprove such a theory.

At Berkeley, Cal., April 12, 1912, for the issuance of bonds for playgrounds only about 1,500 of the 8,000 women of the city voted. The Mayor, who has been a zealous worker for woman suffrage, reprimanded the women for their negligence of this particular issue, which of all others should interest them. In a news paper article he asks "Where were the mothers?" Berkeley has 1,300 more women than men over 21 years of age. Letter, February 28, 1914.

Director of U. S. Census at Pasadena, Cal., where there are 2,888 more women than men of voting age, the playgrounds that were the pride of Pasadena, and were established before women had the ballot, were discontinued last July on account of the failure of voters to vote money for the purchase of the grounds. (See Los Angeles Times, July 27, 1913). No other playgrounds have been purchased or been provided for the children.

At an election Nov. 12, 1913, Pasadena, Cal., failed to vote bonds to repair leaky roofs and make sanitary repairs on schoolhouses, to complete new schools under construction and to make it possible to provide school for the entire school year. Superintendent of schools said the school year would have to be cut a month or two, and some schools will have to close when rains begin. (See Los Angeles Times, Nov. 13, 1913).

It happened to rain Nov. 12 in Pasadena, and some thought the bonds might have carried, had the vote been taken on a fair day, when the ladies could more conveniently get to the polls. So it was decided to have another election to vote for bonds in a less amount than was voted on Nov. 12. So on January 16, 1914, a fair day, another election was held, and the bonds again defeated. So the voters of Pasadena have decided that the repair of leaky roofs and sanitary improvements, etc., of school houses as well as playgrounds for the children are to be indefinitely postponed. Letter dated Jan. 12, 1914, from director of U. S. census states there were in 1910 9,262 males and 11,950 females over 21 years of age. The total vote for and against the bonds was 4,832, only 22.7 per cent. of the voters of Pasadena (population 30,281) was interested enough to go to the polls at election Jan. 16.

Much has been said by Suffragists about the recall of a Mayor in Seattle (who has since been renominated and elected) and the abolishing of the barbery coast at San Francisco. Mayor Harper was recalled at Los Angeles about four years before women voted, on account of not enforcing the law against vice, etc., and more than 50 cities in the country have abolished segregated vice districts in the past two years. Los Angeles abolished their segregated vice district about six years before women had the ballot, but it took Denver nearly 20 years after women voted to do away with its segregated vice district.

Helen M. Forster, in Los Angeles Times, Nov. 7, 1913, under head of Woman Lectures Women, commends Senator Works for daring to call attention to the neglect of citizenship by women voters which she says are facts backed up by data and registration lists.

Denver Post, Oct. 17, 1913. Report of Mrs. Stewart Walling and Dr. Elizabeth Cassidy, Colorado Reformatory: "Rotten, nothing but filth and graft found at Beuna Vista. Merely a preparatory school for the penitentiary. The reformatory submerged in politics is a monument to graft, ignorance, stupidity, extravagance and mismanagement. Building so infested with vermin that only fire could purify it."

The Daily News of Denver, of Oct. 3, 1913, says the Rev. A. E. Shattuck of Grand Junction, has stirred up the animals in fine shape by a public denunciation of conditions which he alleges exists in Grand Junction, Colo. Here is a few of the opinions he expresses.

"Lawlessness is pronounced among us."

"Illicit liquor selling is notorious."

"Gambling joints are in full swing."

"Boys and girls roam our streets late at night in unrestrained violation of the curfew ordinance."

"The mothers are possibly away from home attending to political affairs."

"Officials who hate unjust gain we need."

The above statistics from the asterisks are taken from a report prepared and read before the Senate committee in Washington and are absolutely accurate.

They do but corroborate the statements of the Californian quoted in this column a few weeks ago. In the same report we find confirmation of the statements of that famous Suffragist, Dr. Helen Sumner, of the failure of the women to support prohibition in suffrage States.

In the annual report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue we find that Jan. 1, 1912, in the six suffrage States—California, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho and Washington—there were 26,232 liquor dealers paying special license to the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913.

The combined population of these six States being 5,163,472, there existed one liquor dealer to each 196 people.

In the remaining forty-two States and the District of Columbia, to a combined population of 88,808,796, there were 226,009 liquor dealers, or one to every 392 people, half the number per capita of those in the woman suffrage States.

Sixty-five of one hundred and four counties in Missouri have no saloons and about one-half of the people in the United States outside of suffrage States live in dry territory.

Miss Merion H. Drake, who was nominated for Alderman in the First ward in Chicago in the recent campaign (Feb., 1914) was quoted in the newspapers as standing for "free unches and the saloons."

In the Washington Star, Feb. 3, 1914, Congressman Dyer is quoted as promising the National Liquor Dealers' Association: "If I get a chance I will vote for woman suffrage and if suffrage is obtained, I will stop my following worrying about prohibition."

The figures and statements quoted above, are not ways of surprise to Anti-Suffragists, or others who keep themselves informed regarding such issues.

The surprise is, that despite such facts, the Suffragists still claim—and find believers, especially in the W. C. T. U.—that prohibition will automatically follow the granting of the franchise to women, and furthermore that in no other way can it ever become an accomplished fact.

Such unsubstantiated statements on the part of some women, finding ready credence on the part of others, goes far to show that women cannot be relied upon unflinchingly to handle the ballot scrupulously and intelligently.

CHAPTER IV.

Patience and Impatience.

PATTY had been searching for eggs in the barn chamber and, coming down the ladder from the haymow, spied her father washing the wagon by the wellside near the shed door. Cephas Cole kept store for him at meal hours and whenever trade was unusually brisk, and the Baxter yard was so happily situated that Old Foxy could watch both house and store.

There never was a good time to ask Deacon Baxter a favor, therefore this moment would serve as well as any other; so, approaching him near enough to be heard through the rubbing and splashing, but no nearer than was necessary, Patty said:

"Don't answer me back!"

"Father, can I go up to Ellen Wilson's this afternoon and stay for tea? I won't start till I've done a good day's work, and I'll come home early."

"What do you want to go gallivanting to the neighbors for? I never saw anything like the girls nowadays—highly tight, flaunting, trappings, trifling trollopes, every one of 'em, that's what they are, and Ellen Wilson's one of the triflinest. You're old enough now to stay to home where you belong and make an effort to earn your board and clothes, which you can't, even if you try."

Spunk, rool! Simon pure spunk, started somewhere in Patty and coursed through her blood like wine.

"If a girl's old enough to stay at home and work I should think she was old enough to go out and play once in awhile." Patty was still too timid to make this remark more than a courteous suggestion, so far as its tone was concerned.

"Don't answer me back! You're full of new tricks, and you've got to stop 'em right where you are or there'll be trouble. You were whistling just now up in the barn chamber. That's one of the things I won't have around my premises—a whistling girl."

"'Twas a Sabbath school hymn that I was whistling." This with a creditable imitation of defiance.

"That don't make it any better. Sing your hymns if you must make a noise while you're working."

"It's the same mouth that makes the whistle and sings the song, so I don't see why one's any wickeder than the other."

"You don't have to see," replied the deacon grimly. "All you have to do is to mind when you're spoken to. Now run 'long 'bout your work."

"Can't I go up to Ellen's, then?"

"What's goin' on up there?"

"Just a frolic. There's always a good time at Ellen's, and I would so like the sight of a big, rich house now and then."

"Just a frolic." Land o' Goshen, hear the girl! "Sight of a big, rich house, indeed! Will there be any boys at the party?"

"I s'pose so or 'wouldn't be a frolic," said Patty, with awful daring, "but there won't be many—only a few of Mark's friends."

"Well, there ain't goin' to be no more argyfin'! I won't have any girl o' mine frolickin' with boys, so that's the end of it. You're kind o' crazy lately, raddin' yourself out with a ribbon here and a flower there and pullin' your hair down over your ears. Why do you want to cover your ears up? What are they for?"

"To hear you with, father," Patty replied, with honey sweet voice and eyes that blazed.

"Well, I hope they'll never hear anything worse," replied her father, flinging a bucket of water over the last of the wagon wheels.

"They couldn't!" These words were never spoken aloud; but, oh, how Patty longed to shout them with a clarion voice as she walked away in perfect silence, her majestic gait showing, she hoped, how she resented the outcome of the interview.

"I've stood up to father!" she exclaimed triumphantly as she entered the kitchen and set down her yellow bowl of eggs on the table. "I stood up to him and answered him back three times!"

Waitstill was busy with her Saturday morning cooking, but she turned in alarm.

"Patty, what have you said and done? Tell me quickly!"

"I argyfin'd, but it didn't do any good. He won't let me go to Ellen's party."

Waitstill wiped her floury hands and put them on her sister's shoulders.

"Hear what I say, Patty: You must not argue with father, whatever he says. We don't love him and so there isn't the right respect in our hearts, but at least there can be respect in our manners."

"I don't believe I can go on for years holding in, Waitstill!" Patty whimpered.

"Yes, you can, I have!"

"You're different, Waitstill!"

"I wasn't so different at sixteen, but that's five years ago, and I've got control of my tongue and my temper since then. Sometime, perhaps, when I have a grievance too great to be rightly borne, sometime when you are away from here in a home of your own, I shall speak out to father; just empty my heart of all the disappointment and bitterness and rebellion. Somebody ought to tell him the truth and perhaps it will be me!"

Waitstill bent over the girl as she flung herself down beside the table and smoothed her shoulder gently.

"There, there, dear! It isn't like my gay little sister to cry. What is the matter with you today, Patty?"

"I suppose it's the spring," she said, wiping her eyes with her apron and smiling through her tears. "Perhaps I need a dose of sulphur and molasses."

"Don't you feel well as common?"

"Well? I feel too well! I feel as if I was a young colt shut up in an attic. I want to kick up my heels, batter the door down and get out into the pasture. It's no use talking, Waity. I can't go on living without a bit of pleasure and I can't go on being patient even for your sake. If it weren't for you I'd run away as Job did, and I never believed Moses slipped on the river, and so should I if I had the courage!"

"Stop, Patty, stop, dear! You will have your bit of pasture at least. I'll do some of your indoor tasks for you, and you shall put on your sunbonnet and go out and dig the dandelion greens for dinner. Take the broken knife and a milk pan, and don't bring in so much earth with them as you did last time. Dry your eyes and look at the green things growing. Remember how young you are and how many years are ahead of you. Go along, dear."

Waitstill went about her work with rather a heavy heart. Was life going to be more rather than less difficult now that Patty was growing up? Would she be able to do her duty both by father and sister and keep peace in the household, as she had vowed in her secret heart always to do? She paused every now and then to look out of the window and wave an encouraging hand to Patty. The girl's bonnet was off, and her uncovered head blazed like red gold in the sunlight. The short young grass was dotted with dandelion blooms, some of them already grown to huge disks of yellow, and Patty moved hither and thither, selecting the younger weeds, deftly putting the broken knife under their roots and popping them into the tin pan. Presently—for Deacon Baxter had finished the wagon and gone down the hill to relieve Cephas Cole at the counter—Patty's shrill young whistle floated into the kitchen, but with a mischievous glance at the open window she broke off suddenly and began to sing the words of the hymn with rather more emphasis and gusto than strict piety warranted:

There'll be something in heaven for children to do.
None are idle in that blessed land.
There'll be work for the heart, there'll be work for the mind
And employment for each little hand.

There'll be some-thing to do,
There'll be some-thing to do,
There'll be some-thing for children to do!

On that bright, blessed shore
Where there's joy evermore
There'll be some-thing for children to do.

Patty's young existence being full to the brim of labor, this view of heaven never in the least appealed to her, and she rendered the hymn with little sympathy. The main part of the verse was strongly accented by jabs at the offending dandelion roots, but when the chorus came she brought out the emphatic syllables by a beat of the broken knife on the milk pan.

This rendition of a Sabbath school classic did not meet Waitstill's ideas of perfect propriety, but she smiled and let it pass, planning some sort of recreation for a stolen half hour of the afternoon. It would have to be a walk through the pasture into the woods to see what had grown since they went there a fortnight ago. Patty loved people better than nature, but failing the one she could put up with the other, for she had a sense of beauty and a pagan love of color. There would be pale blue innocence and blue and white violets in the moist places, thought Waitstill, and they would have them in a china cup on the supper table. No, that would never do, for last time father had knocked them over when he was reaching for the bread and in a silent protest against such foolishness got up from the table and emptied them into the kitchen sink.

"There's a place for everything," he said when he came back, "and the place for flowers is outdoors."

Then in the pine woods there would be, she was sure, Star of Bethlehem, Solomon's Seal, the white spray of ground nuts and bunch berries. Perhaps they could make a bouquet, and Patty would take it across the fields to Mrs. Boynton's door. She need not go in, and thus they would not be disobeying their father's command not to visit that "crazy Boynton woman."

Here Patty came in with a panful of greens, and the sisters sat down in the sunny window to get them ready for the pot.

"I'm calmer," the little rebel allowed. "That's generally the way it turns out with me. I get into a rage, but I can generally sing it off."

"You certainly must have got rid of a good deal of temper this morning by the way your voice sounded."

"Nobody can hear us in this out of the way place. It's easy enough to see that the women weren't asked to say anything when the men settled where the houses should be built. The men weren't content to stick them on the top of a high hill or half a mile from the stores, but put them back to the main road, taking due care to cut the sink window where their wives couldn't see anything, even when they were washing dishes."

"I don't know that I ever thought about it in that way." And Waitstill looked out of the window in a brown study, while her hands worked with the dandelion greens. "I've noticed it, but I never supposed the men did it intentionally."

"No, you wouldn't," said Patty, with the pessimism of a woman of ninety, as she stole an admiring glance at her sister. Patty's own face, irregular, piquant, tantalizing, had its peculiar charm, and her brilliant skin and hair so dazzled the masculine beholder that he took note of no small defects. But Waitstill was beautiful—beautiful even in her working dress of purple calico. Her single braid of hair, the Foxwell hair, that in her was bronze and in Patty pale auburn, was wound once around her fine head and made to stand a little as it went across the front. It was a simple, easy, unconscious fashion of her own, quite different from anything done by other women in her time and place, and it just suited her dignity and serenity. It looked like a coronet, but it was the way she carried her head that gave you the fancy, there were such spirit and pride in the poise of it on the long, graceful neck. Her eyes were as clear as mountain pools shaded by rushes, and the strength of the face was softened by the sweetness of the mouth.

Patty never let the conversation die out for many seconds at a time, and now she began again: "My sudden rages don't match my name very well; but, of course, mother didn't know how I was going to turn out when she called me Patience, for I was nothing but a squirming little bald, red baby. But my name really is too ridiculous when you think about it."

Waitstill laughed as she said: "It didn't take you long to change it. Perhaps Patience was a hard word for a baby to say, but the moment you could talk you said 'Patty wants this' and 'Patty wants that.'"

"Did Patty ever get it?" She never has since, that's certain! And look at your name. It's 'Waitstill,' yet you never stop a moment. When you're not in the shed or barn or chicken house or kitchen or attic or garden patch you are working in the Sunday school or the choir."

It seemed as if Waitstill did not intend to answer this arraignment of her activities. She rose and crossed the room to put the pan of greens in the sink, preparing to wash them. Taking the long handled dipper from the nail, she paused a moment before plunging it into the water pail; paused, and leaning her elbow on a corner of the shelf over the sink, looked steadfastly out into the orchard.

Patty watched her curiously and was just going to offer a penny for her thoughts when Waitstill suddenly broke the brief silence by saying: "Yes, I am always busy. It's better so, but all the same, Patty, I'm waiting—inside! I don't know for what, but I always feel that I am waiting!"

RENO'S KNELL AS DIVORCE MECCA

Six Months' Residence Law
Made Little City Famous.

BUSY MART FOR FOUR YEARS

During That Period 2216 Actions Were Filed There, and the Final Rush Was Heavy—More Recently the Number of Men in Quest of Quick Freedom Showed Marked Increase.

The Reno divorce colony isn't what it used to be. No longer will dissatisfied married folks be able to settle in the Nevada city for six months and then obtain freedom from their mates. That procedure will hereafter take one whole year.

With this change the foremost incentive to divorce seekers from other states is eliminated and the advantages of short residence requirement, as may yet be enjoyed in two other states, under equally broad bases for causes of action, can have its only sequel—the diverting of future divorce activities from Nevada.

Last Minute Rush.

For four years, from 1910 to 1914, Reno has occupied a spot light position in the attention of the world. The divorce colony during this four year period numbered 2,250 men and women. Ninety-one persons rushed in just as the curtain was about to fall during December, the last day breaking all daily records for the four years in the history of the "colony."

The last rush brought the number of divorce seekers from other states up to approximately 650—330 women and 290 men—making the proportion 60 and 40 per cent greater in favor of the men than it previously was. Until then fully 75 per cent of the total were women.

Reno's Four Years' Record.

The total number of actions filed during the colony's period of greatest activity extending through the past four years to Jan. 1, 1914, follows: 1910, 492 cases; 1911, 546 cases; 1912, 588 cases; 1913, 590 cases; grand total, 2,216 cases.

Eighty per cent of the total number filed were granted decrees; 95 per cent of the prominent applications from the Atlantic coast secured decrees. The greatest number of actions filed in any one month was 102 in December, 1913. Communities furnishing the greatest number of colonists stand in the following order: New York, California, Canada, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

There have been recently about thirty divorces at Reno under assumed or using their maiden names, for the purpose of covering their identity. A year ago this number was double what it is now. Many gave up this effort to prevent identification, learning from the experience of others who preceded them that it is generally useless.

About 120 of the colony have immediately remarried, at Reno in most instances, to their "affinities," who have been simultaneously living there, either also for divorces or to be with their prospective husbands or wives. In several instances each never met the other until one or the other arrived in Reno.

Chalmers
The Master "Sixes"

Master Light Six
$1800
Coupelet $2050

Ride Behind the Wheel of This "Six" and You Will Never Again Want to Drive a "Four"

The "Six" has long been supreme in the high priced field. For the first to recognize six-cylinder luxury were those who could pay any price for the best. They demanded cars of highest efficiency. And they found the "Six" smoothest, most silent, and easiest for both car and passengers.

Our problem was to build a car with the silence, flexibility, luxury of the high priced "Sixes" to sell at a medium price. The 1915 Master "Light Six" is that car.

Building this new "Light Six" in thousands we are the first to be able to give the real quality of a high priced "Six" at a quantity price. It has what "Sixes" in the past have lacked; a low first cost which makes it easy to buy; a low operative cost which makes it easy to keep.

Six-Cylinder Value—at Less Than Four-Cylinder Price

Many have waited for this day to come. They want a car of low first cost; yet a car of generous size and ample power. A light car, but not a little one.

But that car must be a "Six." For they know that means a car easy to ride in, easy to run and easy to keep.

In the 1915 Master "Light Six" at $1800 weight has been lessened but strength has been preserved. Everything is reduced to simplest form, yet nothing essential has been omitted. It gives the luxury and economy of the "Six" at less than the price of any comparable "four."

Safety First Always

When you ride in the 1915 Chalmers "Light Six" you can trust it. Frame and axles are heat-treated steel with a four-fold margin of safety. Gears and roller bearings have withstood a crushing test of fifty tons. Its brakes will stop it within its own length.

Its electric starter prevents the motor from going dead at a critical moment. The gears lock themselves in mesh. The shifting device won't let you go wrong. The assurance of safety is the corner stone of motoring pleasure.

A Lighter "Master Six"

What the Master "Six" at $2175 is among high powered cars, the 1915 "Light Six" at $1800 is among medium powered cars.

It has the same flexibility; the same silence; the same six-cylinder smoothness which make the appeal of the Master "Six" irresistible.

For the man who wants a lighter car—one of low first cost and minimum upkeep, there's none better than the 1915 Master "Light Six."

Ride once behind the wheel of this new Chalmers "Six," say for 10 or 15 miles, and you will never again be content to drive any "four."

Let us give you the Chalmers Standard Road Test which proves every claim.
