

PRACTICAL WORK FOR P. H. S. PUPILS

Teachers Described New Courses at Parent-Teacher Association Meeting.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN

Mrs. F. St. John Fitch Heads Organization—Principal Best and Aids
Told Fully of the New Courses
Proposed for Next Year.

Description of the new courses
which will be provided in the High School next year, when the increased facilities are provided by the new addition, and the election of officers for the coming year occupied the time of parents of High School pupils who are members of the Parent-Teacher Association at the annual meeting last night. It was one of the largest attended meetings ever held under the auspices of the organization,
three hundred or more people filling
every available chair in the library of the school. The new officers are:
Mrs. F. St. John Fitch, president;
Principal Lindsey Best, vice-president; Mrs. Joseph H. Blanchard, second vice-president; Mrs. E. J. Berrien, recording secretary; Mrs. A. T.
Runyon, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Charles A. Dall, treasurer. The financial condition of the organization was shown to be good, and there are now one hundred and forty-five members.

Principal Lindsey Best presided
after the business session, and told about the new courses which will be added next year, as well as briefly
mentioning the old ones, making six in all. He said that it was the purpose of the school authorities to provide some course that will appeal to every child, and urged the parents to permit their children to take the full
four years' course if it was a possible
thing to spare them from the home,
so that they would have something of distinct value for the future. He briefly described the new courses in the home arts curriculum, saying that they were divided into three parts, domestic science, domestic art and domestic drawing, and then called on teachers to further describe each of the branches, which are especially planned for the girls.

Miss Clifford took up the domestic science topic, telling of the practical instruction it is planned to give in cooking and similar things, saying that it was planned to give the girls four hours a week for four years in this work, or four times as much as is the case at present. Miss Hill told of the art course, saying that it was one which would permit the different girls to work out their own ideas,
and teach useful topics, and how to accomplish the most in the way of dress and appearance with the least possible expenditures of time, energy and money. Miss Burnett described what is planned for the drawing course, saying that it would be worked out with the idea of developing taste in everything the pupil does.

Charles R. Bostwick was the first speaker on the industrial arts topic, saying that it was planned to teach
how to get the most value from food,
household management, keeping simple household accounts, the arrangement of furniture to get the best service and similar things. He said that Plainfield is coming to its proper place in presenting a course of the kind, which is much broader than any which a trade school might give.

Mr. Hubbard briefly described the course in general science and Miss Ball and Mr. Lord of the plans for teaching mathematics to the girls and boys respectively. The addresses by teachers were concluded when Mr.
Beers described the course in household chemistry and industrial physics.
Mrs. Fitch urged stronger support of the association in the future, and Miss Ball told what is being done to ret the merchants to close their stores on Saturday afternoons during August, urging all to sign petitions and do what they could to bring it about.

To the Public Utility Commission, Newark, New Jersey.

Gentlemen:

The undersigned, a citizen and resident of Plainfield,
N. J., respectfully petitions your Honorable body to direct the Public Service Railway Company to extend the trolley system from Plainfield to South Plainfield and to furnish adequate means and transportation to and fro, as such extension is an absolute public necessity.

COURT UPHOLDS TRUSTEE'S ACTION

Judge Connolly Says Their Accounting of Dreier Estate Was Reasonable.

VICTORY FOR DEFENSE

Decision States That Litigation Was Prompted by Bitter Feelings—Report Allowed to Stand in Its Entirety.

Garret Dreier, of New Brunswick,
and Harry Dreier, of this city, trustees of the estate of Samuel Dreier,
were successful in defending the action brought by their sister, Mrs. Bertha Senger, of this city, who took exceptions to the accounting of the trustees of the estate. The decision, which was given today by Judge James C.
Connolly in the Union County Orphans' Court, sustains the trustees.
After reviewing the case somewhat in detail, Judge Connolly concludes by saying that "the accounting appears to me to be fair, just and reasonable,
and is allowed to stand in its entirety."

This decision by Judge Connolly brings to an end litigation which has been in progress for some time and which has been marked by considerable personal feeling on the part of the litigants. William Newcorn was counsel for the trustees and William R. Wilson, of Elizabeth, represented
Mrs. Senger. The decision follows:
"The trustees in this matter have filed an account to which exceptions are made by Bertha Senger, one of the beneficiaries. Nearly all of the exceptions question expenditures
made by the trustees, on the ground that the account does not show upon
what properties, held by the trustees,
the expenditures were made, and that such expenditures were excessive and unnecessary. A few other exceptions question the amounts expended for legal services for the estate, and allege that the trustees have allowed the property to deteriorate.

"I am of the opinion that there is absolutely no ground to sustain the exception in her contentions. All of the property which came to the trustees was old and much in need of repairs as were made in every instance reasonable.

"I am also of the opinion that the amounts charged for legal services,
some of which were incurred in eject-ment proceedings brought against the exceptant and her husband, were reasonable. A bitter feeling, as is shown by the testimony, exists between the exceptant and the trustees,
who are her brothers, and I am satisfied that this bad feeling prompted the exceptant in filing her objections to the report. But aside from this the accounting appears to me to be fair, just, and reasonable, and is allowed to stand in its entirety."

The Plainfield Flower and Fruit Guild met last night at the Friends'

siring to make contributions to this affair should notify Joseph Harper, of 107 West Fourth street. The sale will be an all day affair, and will be held on the lawn of the Friends' Meeting house.

ing of the league, will be held at Debele's Auditorium.

NO PROTEST AGAINST SCHOOL

Evergreen Avenue Residents
Fail to Appear at Board of Education Meeting.

SEE NEW SCHOOL PLANS

J. T. Simpson Impressed Board with Suggestions Made, and Drawings of Buildings Elsewhere—Creditors of Exner Company Have Hearing.

Although notice had been sent to them in writing and through the newspapers, not one of those who petitioned the Board of Education not to erect a schoolhouse on the Evergreen avenue site, appeared at the meeting of the Board, held in the High School building, last night.
Only one signer of the protest was seen in the High School building and he was attending the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. The school body held a conference with the committee representing the creditors of the P. J. Exner Company, and discussed plans for completing the new addition to the High School.
This committee consists of W. A.
Garrigue, former Councilman C. C.
Randolph and Charles E. Loizeaux.
J. T. Simpson, a Newark architect, took up much time describing proposed plans for the Evergreen avenue school, and routine business was transacted. Included with the latter was the passage of a resolution by the Board in which it was generally voted to have one session of the schools on May 4, when the circus will be given for the benefit of the open air school, as it was thought that many of the pupils would stay away anyhow.

Mr. Simpson shed much new light on the subject of new school buildings. The Board has been contemplating the erection of a twelve room
school at a possible cost of $125,000,
and Mr. Simpson, whose specialty is the erection of such buildings, and

BROWN ROLSTON TO IMPERSONATE WOMAN

Well Known Local Amateur
Has Amusing Part in Comedy Club Show.

Brown Rolston's impersonation of a girl will be one of the most amusing incidents in "The Arrival of Kitty," to be presented by the Comedy Club, of Plainfield, on April 13 and May 1, at the Plainfield Theatre. His is one of the principal male parts, as a matter of fact. As Bobby Baxter he is in love with Jane (Miss Eva Browne) and in the course of his intending to defeat her father's will
and prevent her marriage to the old bachelor, Benjamin Moore (Frederick W. Goddard), he pretends to be a certain notorious lady of the musical comedy stage.

Any one who remembers seeing him in the Princeton Triangle Shows will know him plausibly and cleverly he does it. He was inimitable in the leading feminine parts of the Triangle Club and became famous for his skill in them far beyond Princeton,
some five years ago.

Anyone who sees him in this part,
in costume, will easily believe in the success of the clever deception he is represented as perpetrating in the play.

Tickets for the two performances of "The Arrival of Kitty" will be put on sale tomorrow at the Plainfield Theatre.

CHANGE PLACE FOR SALE BY SUFFRAGE LEAGUE NEXT WEEK

The members of the Plainfield
Branch of the State Equal Suffrage League decided to change the place where they will hold their suffrage sale next week. It was first announced for the building formerly occupied by W. L. Smalley and Company at the corner of Park avenue
and Fourth street, but those in charge
have decided to change to the Stillman building, in the store formerly occupied by Mme. Tytus as a millinery establishment, just west of Madison avenue. The sale will be held as announced, on each day next week except Friday.

CALL FOR RECRUITS.

The armory of Co. K on West Front street will be opened every night this week for recruiting purposes. It is desired to increase the present corps to sixty-five and applicants may receive further instructions by applying at the armory. Aplicants must be between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years.

DEATH FOLLOWS A LONG ILLNESS

David E. Tittsworth Passes Away at His Home on Madison Avenue.

LIFE-LONG RESIDENT

Was Identified With Plainfield in All Its Transitions From Village
to City—Active in Church Work—Wife and Two Sons Survive.

David E. Tittsworth, one of Plain-field's foremost citizens, died at his home on Madison avenue, about 8 o'clock last night. He had been in poor health for several months, and while his death was not unexpected
by the family and friends, it brings a feeling of loss to many people in this city.

Mr. Tittsworth came of old New Jersey stock, on both his father's and mother's side, running well back into Revolutionary war connections. His father was Edward Burke Tittsworth, son of Louis and Rebecca Dunham Tittsworth, and his mother was Anne,
daughter of Mary Holton Dunn, of New Market. His father was one of the pioneer clothing manufacturers,
an industry which, at that time, covered a wide extent of territory, situated in Plainfield.

Mr. Tittsworth was born in Plainfield on October 10, 1850, in the house on West Front street, that stood opposite the present site of the Stillman building, and he has thus been identified with Plainfield in all its transitions from a village to a city. His education was obtained in the public schools of the city, chiefly in the white frame building that formerly stood on the site of the Franklin School; his principal was Michael F. Marley. After leaving the Plainpleting arrangements so that everything is ready except the gathering of the dancers.

ent, and these will be announced to-

will consist of Mrs. Henry C. Irons,

MANY ATTENDED CLUB'S BANQUET

First Annual Affair Held Under the Auspices of West End Civic Association.

STATE SENATOR SPOKE

City Officials Present Last Work
of Organization—President Thomas
C. Vail Acted as Toastmaster—Consolidation Discussed.

Men actively engaged in promoting the civic welfare of Plainfield
and North Plainfield were the guests of the West End Civic Association at its annual banquet held in the Waldorf, last night, and the affair proved to be a far greater success than was originally anticipated by the organization under whose auspices it was conducted. Included in the assemblage of fifty diners were Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield; State Senator Carlton B. Pierce; President William Jeffery, of the Board of Trade; Councilmen John H.
Cose and Richard A. Claybrook, and the officers of the association.

William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who was expected to act
as toastmaster at the occasion, was unable to be present owing to the death of a friend and his place was taken by President Thomas C. Vail, of the civic association. Mayor Stewart, the first speaker of the evening, reviewed the history of the organization from its inception, and commented on the work being done
along many lines by the members.
The speaker lauded the non-partisan spirit that has been evidenced by the association's members and outlined the various channels along which the body could conduct its work in a way that would be beneficial to the community. He spoke of the vast amount of time given over to the city by the

CHIEF KIELY NAMED TO SECURE CONNORS

Requisition Papers Were Issued by Governor Fielder Yesterday.

Charles Connors, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors, of Chicago, who broke into the home of former State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, and stole $17,785 in cash and jewelry, is to be brought from Chicago to Union county for trial. Governor Fielder has just issued a requisition upon the Governor of Illinois for the purpose of getting Connors back to New Jersey. The requisition was issued at the request of Prosecutor Alfred A. Stein, of Union county, and designates Police Chief Patrick S. Kiely as the officer to go to Chicago after the prisoner.

The robbery of the Ackerman home took place on January 3 and was remarkable for the fact that although Connors got away with the large sum named in cash and jewelry, he did not disturb the very valuable collection of postage stamps
owned by ex-Senator Ackerman.
This collection is one of the finest in the whole world, and contains many stamps that are priceless. Some time after the burglary Connors was captured in Chicago, where he has since been under arrest, awaiting extradition from New Jersey. He has already been indicted by the Union county Grand Jury on the charge of breaking, entering, larceny and receiving.

LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHER'S ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Henry W. Rankin, of Central avenue, gave a "Rose Dinner" to a number of friends at her home yesterday, at which time the engagement of Miss Gladys Teasdale to Norman Dudley Fulton was announced. Covers were laid for sixteen. The dining-room was elaborately decorated with pink roses and sweet peas.

Miss Teasdale is a teacher in the local public schools and is well known to a wide circle of acquaintances.
Mr. Fulton formerly lived on Central avenue and was formerly employed in the engineering department of the Public Service Gas Department. He was recently transferred to a similar position in the corporation's plant in Camden. Mr. Fulton is a graduate of Drexel Institute in Philadelphia,
in the class of 1910, and was a popular member of his class in athletics and collegiate endeavor.

AMERICANS CONTROL VERA CRUZ; PRESIDENT GIVEN WAR POWER

Firing in Mexican City Practically Ceased This Afternoon—
O'Shaughnessy Given Passports — Wilson Signs
Resolution Making Him Commander-in-chief of Forces.

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS.

Fighting has about stopped in Vera Cruz. No more casualties are reported. Americans in possession of the city.
Rear Admiral Fletcher reports four Americans killed and twenty wounded in the first fighting. Two hundred Mexicans were slain.

Defiant, General Huerta says he has 400,000 men who will fight twenty-five years, if necessary, to repel the Americans.

Refugees in Mexico City have been cut off from Vera Cruz
by the blowing up by the Mexicans of a railroad bridge fifteen miles from Vera Cruz.

By a vote of 73 to 13 the Senate today adopted the committee substitute for the House resolution, justifying the use of arms in Mexico.

The constitutionalists under General Carranza are expected to support the United States and take Tampico.

An unconfirmed report has been heard in Washington that Arnold V. Shankin, United States Consul General at Mexico
City, had been shot during rioting in Mexico City.

Fifteen members of Troop B, Tenth cavalry of the United States, are reported today in an unconfirmed rumor to have been seized by rebels when they unintentionally crossed the border line into Mexico.

(By Telegram to The Daily Press.)
Washington, April 22 (Bulletin).
—The President has asked Congress to appropriate immediately $500,000 to get Americans out of Mexico. The Senate has adjourned until tomorrow.

Washington, April 22.—President
Wilson at 2:05 o'clock this afternoon attached his signature to the joint resolution of Congress empowering
him to employ the military strength of the U. S. in the Mexican crisis.
The President, by his action, thus became in actuality the commander
chief of the army and navy of this nation. The signing of the resolution was devoid of ceremony.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—The Senate adopted the substitute Mexican resolution by a vote of 73 to 13,
at a quarter past three this morning.
The substitute was adopted after a substitute to it, proposed by Senator Lodge, had been defeated by a vote of 47 to 35.

It was passed unanimously in the House before noon today.

The resolution, which was proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate was printed in last night's Daily Press and is as follows:
"Whereas, In view of the facts
presented by the President of the United States in his address delivered to the Congress at the joint session on the 20th day of April, 1914,
with regard to certain affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico;

"Resolved, That the President is justified in the employment of armed forces of the United States to enforce his demand for unequivocal amendments for affronts and indignities against the United States.

"Be it further resolved, That the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose
to make war on them."

The thirteen Senators who voted against the resolution are R. publi-cans. They are Senators Brandegee, Connecticut; Bristow, Kansas; Dil-lingham, Vermont; Gallinger, New Hampshire; LaFollette, Wisconsin; Lodge, Massachusetts; Lippitt, Rhode Island; Norris, Nebraska; Oliver, Pennsylvania; Root, New York; Smoot, Utah; Weeks, Massachusetts, and Works, California.

The Lodge substitute resolution, which was the subject of debate for hours, recited outrages committed on Americans by Constitutionalists as well as the Tampico incident, as a reason for giving the President authority to use armed force. The resolution provided for the use of the army and navy in Mexico upon the general conditions instead of the flag incident alone. Senator Root led the Republicans in demanding that the general conditions in the country be the basis for use of the army and navy.

Following the defeat of the Lodge
resolution an amendment offered by Senator Gallinger, justifying the President in the use of force to protect American citizens in Mexico "as well as to demand reparation for the Tampico incident, was defeated by 43 to 40.

By a vote of 44 to 39, the Senate defeated the amendment offered by Senator LaFollette to provide that after the subjugation of Mexico the United States should retire from that country, leaving Mexico "and every portion of it to its own people."

DEATH FOLLOWS LONG ILLNESS

field schools, he spent some time in Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., and in Milton College, Milton, Wis.

He entered the sash and blind trade with Spicer & Ross, and was in charge of Spicer & Hubbard's shop, which is now the Spicer Manufacturing Company, at Madison avenue and West Third street. In 1878 he became associated with Charles Potter, Jr., & Co., being admitted to partnership in 1890, and when the company was incorporated in 1892 he took the office of secretary and general manager, which he held at the time of his death.

Among the civic connections, Mr. Tittsworth was a member of the State Geological Survey of New Jersey; the National Civic Federation; director of the Dime Savings Institution and a member of the National Arts Club of New York.

Mr. Tittsworth has been prominently connected with the work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of which he was a member, and with the denomination of which it is a part. He had a long experience as superintendent of the Sabbath School, as trustee of the church, and served as president of the General Conference of the churches of that denomination. He was also vice president of the American Sabbath Tract Society, and member of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, and also of the Educational Society, and director of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund.

Mr. Tittsworth never sought public office, but there are few activities that have the purpose of uplifting the life of the city, in which he has not at one time or another participated over. He was deeply interested in musical affairs, and had a share of the work of fostering and developing those interests in Plainfield. As chorister of the Seventh Day Baptist church for over thirty years, his direction of the music of that organization was most helpful.

On November 11, 1883, he was married to Nettie Potter, daughter of Charles and Sarah Potter, of Plainfield, and is survived by her and his two sons, Charles Potter Tittsworth and Roy Edward Tittsworth.

Mr. Tittsworth, in his modesty, expressed a desire that it should be said of him simply that "he was a man of kindly disposition, and was a great lover of children," but those that knew him cannot be content with that simple statement, for no one ever knew him who did not count him as a strong and helpful friend, no one ever went to him for help without getting it, and no worthy interest for public benefit lacked his support.

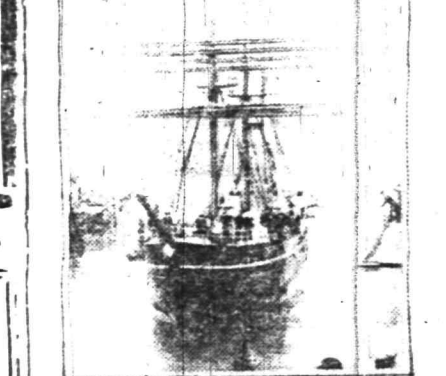

The funeral will be held at the late home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, will officiate.

SCOTT'S TRAGIC STORY TOLD.

Commander Evans, Second in Command, is Giving Illustrated Lectures. The story of Captain Robert F. Scott's march to the south pole—a story whose record of accomplishment thrilled the world and whose closing chapter swept the nations with sorrow—is being told in various cities of this country at first hand. Commander E. R. G. Evans, second in command of the British antarctic expedition, who was the last man to see Captain Scott and his party alive and who received the last verbal instructions and messages of his superior officer, is now on an extended lecture tour in the United States and Canada.

Photos by American Press Association.

COMMANDER EVANS AND SCOTT'S SHIP, THE DISCOVERY.

The lectures are illustrated by still and moving pictures by H. G. Ponting, who accompanied the expedition, and by Dr. E. A. Wilson, who perished with Scott on the return trip from the south pole.

It was Commander Evans who led the party that discovered the bodies of Captain Scott, Dr. Wilson and Lieutenant Bowers. This was eight months after the tragic event took place. Wilson and Bowers died first and were in the attitude of sleep, their sleeping bags closed over their heads as they would naturally close them. Scott and his men found the bodies of the sleeping men and opened their eyes. He wrote farewell letters and messages until death overcame him. A little wallet containing three notebooks was under his shoulders, and his arm was thrust around Wilson.

Over the bodies the finders built a great cairn and surmounted it with a rude cross made from two skis—a most fitting monument and tomb. Other monuments have been erected to Scott, but there is the antarctic wastes is his real monument, for it marks the spot where he died—a gentleman unafraid; there where his comrades found him in the field of his chosen labors; there where they fittingly enshrouded him in a white winding sheet of snow and left him "alone with his glory."

When the receipts come in from the annual play the treasury will be well supplied for next year.

In the games of the Dunellen Baraca Class Two-man Tournament, on the Presbyterian alleys, last evening, Braun and Parker took four games, losing none, thus making their hold on first place more secure. Parker took the high man score of the tournament away from Arthur Voorhees by one pin, when he rolled 213. In their second game with Runyon and Fagely, the Parker and Braun team took the high team score of 364 away from C. Braun and Hodge, when they rolled 381.

FRANK GLASER WILL HAVE TO DEFEND COUNTY TITLE

Frank Glaser has been matched to defend his title of Union county trap-shooting champion against George Everett at the Tremley Gun Club traps on Memorial Day. The usual week-end crowd of gunning enthusiasts were out at the traps Saturday and some good scores were established. Wally Laing broke twenty-one and led George Everett by two points in a twenty-five bird match. Frank Glaser cracked nineteen out of twenty and defeated J. B. Pride and Charley Willis. Others at the traps were Arthur Roden and Billy Moore. All eight gunners turned in good scores.

The Tremley Club has picked a team composed of George Everett, Billy Moore, Wally Laing, Charley Willis and Frank Glaser and are out with a challenge to any five-man combination in the county. A new Western automatic trap has been installed at the suburban range.

BASEBALL NOTES

Miller, Wilson, Butler and Dolan, all former Pirates, are delivering in great style for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Frank Chance has several likely looking youngsters who may be able to boost the Yankees a notch or two.

Tom Daly, the boy who showed the King of England how to break up a game with a hit, is still denting the fence for the White Sox.

Because they defeated several big league teams this spring the Columbus team is being touted as a winner in the American Association race.

If the Robinson Robins and the Bradley Tiptops continue to pastime so brilliantly the Brooklyn fans will have the time of their lives this season.

Some accounts say the Baltimore fans have given the Orioles the frosty shoulder since the Federal League Terrapins came to town.

Manager Clark Griffith, of the Senators, is sticking close to the dugout these days, leaving "Dutch" Schaefer and Nick Altrock to do the coaching.

Boston fans are already proclaiming young Scott a wonder. The St. Paul rookie is filling Heine Wagner's place at short and seems to be making good.

With Herr Hoblitzel, Herr Niehoff, Herr Herzog, Herr Groh and Herr Berghamme, Cincinnati has der glassiest infieldings yet.

The Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves seem to be weak in the pitching department. With a reliable finger added to each staff O'Day and Stallings would be able to command attention.

Another pitching marvel named Johnson has broken into headlines. Recently he showed the home folks in Jacksonville, Fla., how a no-hit no-

run game is produced.

Dr. Flaherty has severed his connection with the Tewksbury insane asylum to join Hugh Duffy's baseball team in Portland, Me. It is not known whether the Doc has been engaged to play ball or to give the Portland players the "once over."

And then again, there were to be no more baseball stories written by star players, neither were the cut-ups to be permitted to do stunts on the coaching lines. But since that old Federal League butted in all kinds of major league rules seem to have been forgotten.

TEAM MINUS CAPTAIN BREAKS THE RECORD

Cose Outfit Took Three in a Row and High Team Score From Nash Quintet.

Though he was not on hand to boost his aggregation's average in the Elks Club League series with the Nash quintet, last night, John Cose's aggregation hung up the high team score record of the tournament and copped three in a row from the rival combination. Cose did not figure in the actual pinning but was granted an average mark of 165 in the series.

The Nash aggregation was overwhelmed by some phenomenal pinning on the part of their opponents in the first and final clashes but managed to advance within thirty pins of the Cose outfit in the middle battle. McCullough is credited with the high individual score mark of the evening, taking a 203 in the second contest.

The scores:

SWIMMERS' CORNER

Prospects were never brighter for keen competition and record performances in the national aquatic championships of the Amateur Athletic Union. The indoor season has been a remarkable one throughout, and the titular clashes will bring to the mark more and far better candidates than every before.

The first event to be competed for, the 500-yard swim, will be held in Pittsburgh on Saturday. It should be a great contest. Harry Hebner and Perry McGilivray, of the Illinois Athletic Club, are not favorites, but they will have to be at their best to defeat Joseph Wheatley, their Mercury Foot rival and new figures are likely to result.

After this event the scene will shift to Chicago, where all the contests but the relay race and fancy dive—to come off in New York on May 4—are scheduled to take place.

On Monday, the 220-yard swim should furnish a sensational race. Hebner is conceded the victory if he shows the speed he did in creating a world's mark of 2 minutes, 21 seconds, and his teammates, McGilivray and Rathel, as well as Huzzagh and White, of the Cherry Circle Club, and Wheatley, New York A. C., are close on his heels, so that the least break on Hebner's part may allow any one of them to capture first place.

On April 23 the schedule calls for the 50-yard dash and the 200-yard breast stroke contest. The former defies predictions. With Small, of the Pittsburgh A. A.; Hebner, McGilivray and Rathel, of Illinois, and Huzzagh, Harless, Buck, Mallen and Rawleigh, of the Chicago A. A., all traveling around 24 seconds, there is absolutely no telling who will finish in front.

In breast stroke swimming Michael McDermott, the Illinois holder ranks foremost, but his clubmate Schlemm, and Taylor and Blouke both Cherry Circle wearers, all have a look-in.

The following days will see titles awarded in the 100-yard sprint and 150-yard back stroke swim. Practically the same field will report for the free style century as for the 50-yard dash and the result is equally in doubt. Hebner, McGilivray, Rathel, Small and Huzzagh have a trifling advantage over their rivals, their own best performances are covered by a margin of one second, so it is anybody's race. The back stroke championship is generally conceded to Hebner, the Olympic champion, but rumor has it that Russell Dean, of the Brookline (Mass.) Swimming Club, will give him the race of his life, and may possibly beat him.

The likeliest candidates for the places are H. Buckland and M. Malsack, of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, and C. Paviecke, of Chicago University.

The laurels in fancy diving should go to the Mercury Footers, Arthur McAlenar, if he exhibits his best form, but he has proved rather erratic of late, and competent judges believe that C. Wohlfield, H. Heyn and H. Burton, of Chicago; F. Joannett, of Boston; T. Barrett, of Columbia, and A. E. Downes and J. F. Dunn, of the New York Athletic Club, may take his measure unless he does his finest work.

The plunge for distance contest was asked for by the M. A. C. of St. Louis, alone, and as its building has since been destroyed by fire this feature will probably go by default.

GERMAN BARONESS TO GIVE A RECITAL

Will Appear With Prof. Spielter at Columbus Auditorium April 29.

Baroness Olga von Turk-Rohn, soprano, one of Europe's greatest song birds, will appear at Columbus Auditorium, Wednesday night, April 29, in a high class joint musical recital, with Prof. Herman Spielter, composer and piano soloist, former professor of piano instruction at the New York College of Music, and winner of the great Mendelssohn first prize at the Conservatory of Music, Berlin, Germany; also the first prize recently given by the Ladies' Home Journal for the best musical composition.

Prof. Spielter will render several selections of his own composition on the piano, among which will be the two above-mentioned prize winners. This is the first concert tour of Baroness Olga von Turk-Rohn in America. This wonderful soprano, who is a great favorite among the Royal Courts of Europe, is a versatile artist, who sings with the same perfection as grand opera arias or colature. Her voice is a broad rich soprano of columnar sound and beautiful sweetness. She has been decorated by more kings, cities and societies than any other living artist. She received a grand medal for art and science from the Emperor of Germany, the Empress of Austria, the kings of Roumania and Bulgaria. Upon her appearance here she will wear the handsome pearl necklace presented to her by the Czar and the decorations of the several kings and queens who honored her in Europe.

PLAINFIELD BANKS HOLD UP RESOLUTION

Will Await the Decision of Tax Board on Validity of Act.

Only one-half of the banks of Union county, affected by the Pierce bank stock taxation measure passed by the last Legislature, filed resolutions with the County Board of Taxation asking that the tax on their stock be assessed against the bank instead of against the individual stockholders. The remaining eight banks, including the four of Elizabeth, will await a court decision as to the validity of the act. If the legislation is held by the courts to be valid, these banks must furnish a statement of their stockholders and the number of shares owned by each when the tax assessments are levied next autumn.

The National Bank of Westfield, yesterday filed a letter with John R. Connolly, secretary of the Tax Board, which may be interpreted to meet the requirements of a resolution such as were filed by other banks, but until the matter is passed on by the tax board members they will be classed with the seven other banks which did not file resolutions.

In this class are the Elizabeth Trust Company, National State Bank, Union County Trust Company and Elizabethport Banking Company, of Elizabeth; Plainfield Trust Company, of this city, and the First National Bank, of Roselle.

Ard, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Monday Afternoon Club, has still a number of guests' privileges in connection with the annual entertainment scheduled for tomorrow evening in Hartridge Auditorium. members of the council for the discussion of current topics and pertinent questions that are brought to their attention from time to time, but declared that the beauty of the government in a city does not lie in the officials alone. Mayor Stewart urged a co-operation on the part of citizens with the officials they have selected to represent them in the council and other departments and declared that the city government rested entirely on the individual's conception of good civic service.

He reviewed the question of consolidation since it was first introduced in 1907 and suggested that the association appoint a committee to go over the old records and revive interest in the proposition so that citizens may be appraised of the facts as they exist today. He concluded his talk by lauding the Board of Trade's trolley committee in the work being done to provide transportation of passengers between here and South Plainfield.

Mayor Clark confined his remarks to the consolidation question and showed the various benefits that would be derived by the combining of the two communities. He stated that the increasing property values in the business section of Plainfield were due largely to the patronage of North Plainfield people to the local merchants. Mayor Clark declared that he would willingly resign his office as Mayor of the borough if he knew that this action would assure annexation.

President Jenery, of the Board of Trade, outlined the work being carried on by the organization of which he is the head to secure trolley service to South Plainfield. He also stated that a committee from the Board of Trade would appear at the next meeting of the North Plainfield council to request a special election to be held on the consolidation question, believing that the first logical step is to get the borough voters in line.

Senator Pierce declared that there is now, and has been for a long time past, an inequality in taxation in this State and various suggestions have been offered to him as possible solutions to the problem ever before the people of New Jersey. Senator Pierce was a member of the commission that investigated the tax problem recently in this State and he said that when the report had been turned over to the Governor and approved by the latter official it was suggested that a law be enacted creating a permanent Board of State Tax Commissioners. He claimed that this body should have charge of all tax matters, formulate the rules, and fix the tax rates.

He suggested that the personnel of the commission change with the administration, but that the routine officers be secure in their employment and protected by Civil Service. According to the speaker the routine officers would be county assessors and local assessors would be eliminated. The county would be cut into several districts and each would be large enough to keep assessors busy the year round. Senator Pierce said that the objection had been made to the elimination of local assessors by those who claimed it interfered with "Home Rule," but that so long as the county and State taxes are collected from individual taxpayers the county is the home and the State is the home, consequently the elimination of local assessors would not abolish "Home Rule."

who guarantees to keep them within the cost set or not receive any fee showed pictures and designs of attractive edifices which he has erected in other cities for $60,000 to $90,000. He showed one plan of a building recently completed in Worcester, Mass., under his supervision, containing twelve rooms, a gymnasium and an assembly room, the latter convertible into a study room, at a cost of $60,000. Another was erected in Mechanicsville, N.Y., to accommodate 600 pupils, for $83,000, and another in Millbury, Mass., at a cost of $47,000 accommodates 350 pupils in fourteen class rooms.

The members of the Board displayed much interest in the figures and plans shown by Mr. Simpson. They were especially interested in the fact that if a building, such as that shown in Worcester were built level with the ground, that is without depressed basement, two more school rooms would be available on the street level, making it a fourteen, instead of a twelve room building. While no formal action was taken by the Board in the matter, Mr. Simpson was asked to leave his sketches, and it is probable that his work will have careful consideration.

The committee of creditors of the Exner company, the general contractor for the High School addition came to ask the board to give them an opportunity to investigate the affairs of the contracting company and their own legal rights in the matter before calling in the bonding company to complete the contract. While the creditors have not yet had time to formulate a definite plan of action it is hoped that an arrangement can be made to enable them to reduce their losses by carrying out the Exner company's contract.

The board assured the committee of their wish to assist them in every way consistent with the protection of the taxpayers, and fixed next Monday night as the date to which they would wait before availing themselves of their rights under the contract so that the creditors might have a chance to decide what they wished to do.

A conference has been arranged this week between former Judge Gilbert S. Collins, counsel for the Board of Education and Judge Isaac Runyon, who is the attorney for the creditors' committee. It is probable that after this conference the creditors will agree on a proposal to be made to the board for completing the building under an arrangement with the creditors' committee.

Three local coal dealers were on hand at the meeting last night to bid for the coal supply which the board will purchase next year. Boice, Runyon Company, Wadley & Goodenough and the Consumers Coal Company all presented seal bids for supplying the nine hundred tons which the schools consume each year.

The lowest prices on pea coal were made by the Boice, Runyon Company, and their bid for buckwheat coal was the same as that of the Consumers' company. On the egg and stove coal Wadley & Goodenough had a shade the better of the bidding.

The bids were referred to the fuel committee who will later announce the award after a comparison of the prices and quality each grade offered.

ANOTHER GAME.

Manager Beckman, of the borough High School nine, has secured the Rutgers Prep. team that was to have played here two weeks ago, for next Monday. The game was postponed because of the interference of the Easter vacation. The locals will play a return game in New Brunswick in the early part of next month. The game that was booked for Woodbridge yesterday has been indefinitely put off because the managers have not yet been able to agree on another date.

SPELLING BEES.

When President Jeffery of the Board of Trade queried some of the local business men who are employing graduates of the local schools, as to the ability of those young people, several of the answers indicated that the greatest trouble encountered was to find good spellers. In a half joking way it was suggested that two teams, one of business men and the other of high school students, be formed, and an old fashioned spelling bee held. Perhaps that suggestion is not so much of a joke as was intended when it was made. We believe that the people who are not good spellers are not confronted entirely to recently graduated pupils
of the public schools, but are found among men who have college educations, and who occupy high positions in the community. Not long ago the Daily Press received a communication from a well known educator in which the word trousers was spelled with a "w" in place of the "u," and frequently in correspondence written in long hand misspelled words are found, much more frequently in fact than in letters written by recently graduated stenographers. Many famous men are said to have been notoriously bad spellers.

The Newark Evening News sums
the matter up editorially in such a way as to show that bad spelling can almost be said to be the rule, rather than the exception, when they make a plea for the old fashioned spelling bees. Says the News:

"Any one who can advance a good reason why the old spelling bee
should not be revived as a means of entertainment, of pleasure and of profit will kindly stand up, raise the right hand in an assertive manner and speak promptly. Spelling apparently is becoming a lost art.
There was a spelling contest among the schools of Sussex county a short time ago and several hundred pupils attempted to spell correctly 250 words. Only four were successful.
Two of the winners were students in grammar schools of Newton, and the other two were from rural schools.
High school pupils all failed.

Time was when to have a reputation as a quick and accurate speller was to be envied known as an educated individual. The trouble is nowadays that spelling is skimmed
over like a lot of the other elementary and foundational branches of schooling. Perhaps the requirements that in later life await the worker after knowledge may have something to do with this. The business man has a stenographer to whom he dictates his correspondence. The business man leaves the detail of spelling to the stenographer, and the stenographer keeps a dictionary in her desk. Some day spelling will come back into favor
again, and then there will be general regret that the old spelling bee was abolished.

It is extremely unfortunate that the contractors for the new high school building have become bankrupt. If there is one thing more than another that is needed in this city it is more school room, and if any complications should arise to delay the completion of the new addition before the schools open in the fall, the present crowded condition
will not be a circumstance to what will then be encountered by the Board of Education. The committee, consisting of C. C. Randolph,

William A. Garrigues and Charles E.
Loizeaux, representing the creditors,
is one of able local men, and if it is possible for them to arrange to complete the work, rather than have the Board of Education fall back upon the bonding company who guaranteed the Exner firm, the probabilities are that the building will be ready in the fall.

The proposition of the Public Affairs Committee of the City Council that the garbage men be put under strict regulation is a splendid one,
and is the next best thing to having a system directly under the supervision of the city government. It is to be hoped that such regulation will be brought about speedily. Probably the best suggestion of all is that hereafter all ash carts be required to use one type of wagon, to be approved by some local authority.
That is much desired, for the present carts are in most instances sifting ashes on every street they use.

Some members of Congress never lose the opportunity to talk, no matter how important may be the business which they are delaying. That seems to be the sum and substance
of the holding up of the resolution authorizing the President to proceed with his Mexican policy. Every delay gives Huerta more courage, and makes him think that the people of this country do not approve of the action of President Wilson.

The Daily Press has completed
arrangements for a complete news service during the Mexican difficulties, following its usual custom of only printing news regarding Plainfield except in matters of national importance. The service secured is second to none, as has been demonstrated during the past two evenings
by the exclusive stories printed in Plainfield only in this newspaper.

It's a toss-up as to whether the Mexican war or the baseball scores attract more attention.

DURING SUFFRAGE WEEK

The Junior Suffrage League met yesterday at the Plainfield Public Library and completed plans for the observance of "Suffrage Week," in this city. It was decided that the league should serve tea every afternoon at headquarters in the Stillman building on West Front street.

Those who will be in charge of the tea on the different days are as follows: Monday, Miss Marjorie Robinson; Tuesday, Mrs. C. Loomis Dana;
Wednesday, Miss Dorothy Lyon;
Thursday, Miss Helen Hyde. The juniors will also take part in the big celebration on Saturday, May 2, and sell copies of the Suffrage edition of the Daily Press.

RECREATION NOTES.

The Civic Club will meet in the auditorium of the Stillman School tonight to read and discuss some of Roosevelt's stories of African hunting especially the lion hunt. Papers will be submitted for the choice of subject for the next meeting from the National Geographical Magazine.
The Folk Dance Class will meet
this evening and earnest work in preparation for their next exhibition will be begun.

ter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Waldron,

by Dr. F. C. Ard. The child is doing as well as can be expected.

uel Taub, of North Plainfield, be-

The most striking speech of the whole debate was made by Senator Root of New York, who attacked the administration's foreign policy in harsh terms.

The speech of Senator Root held the attention of the senate for more than an hour. As he proceeded railing at the Democrats for conspicuous inefficiency and deplorable ineptitude in their handling of the international relations of the United States the Democratic members of the senate squirmed in their seats.

The speech was wormwood and gall to the men who have followed the administration blindly from triumph to triumph in the course of moving through the halls of congress the earlier administration measures of the Wilson program.

Following upon the speech of Senator Lodge, in which the Wilson-Bryan foreign policy was warmly attacked, the Root speech came as salt in a raw wound.

Mr. Root's Prediction.
Mr. Root declared that when the senate had acted on the resolution reported by the senate committee on foreign relations the country would be plunged into a war with consequences that no man could foretell.

In withering language Mr. Root denied that the Tampico incident mentioned in President Wilson's address was the provocation for the administration's rushing to arms. He declared, with emphasis, that the real cause back of the president's action was the destruction of American lives and property during long months that anarchy and riots prevailed in Mexico.

The New York senator intimated in language that was not lost on Secretary Bryan or other Democratic leaders present that in employing the armed forces of the government against the Mexican republic the administration was attempting to lull the American people into a state of forgetfulness that the policy of "watchful waiting" had proved an utter failure.

Protesting against the "war" resolution reported by the senate committee at the instance of the administration, Mr. Root declared that it was inadequate in its statement of the reasons given for turning loose the dogs of war against Mexico.

Lodge Opens Debate.
Senator Lodge opened the senate debate.

"In a situation of the highest seriousness, such as now confronts the country, it is well to remember that the responsibility of the senate is greater than any other branch of the government," he said.

"When the president comes to congress and lays before it a controversy with a foreign nation," he added, "he comes to the branch of the government in whose hands rest peace or war. When he submits it to congress he takes the last step that precedes peace or war."

"He has come to us. I think that he has a right to do so. With congress in session it would have been unwise for him to have proceeded further without the sanction of congress."

Mr. Lodge asserted that it took congress longer to pass the Spanish war declaration than was planned in the present case. Senator La Follette refreshed senatorial memories by stat-

charge of the American government. Mexico, he says, has done all possible in honor to prevent such a situation. The army of four hundred thousand men will be in readiness in twenty days, he says, and Mexico will be defending not only her own sovereignty, but that of all Latin America. This Mexico will do even should the war last twenty-five years, he says.

Measures were taken today by sending detachments to protect all legations.

Vera Cruz, April 22.—Naval forces of the United States took possession of the port of Vera Cruz, but in the fighting that followed the unopposed landing of nearly 1,000 marines and bluejackets four Americans were killed and twenty were wounded.

The loss of the Mexican garrison which resisted the American occupation from noon until evening is believed to have been heavy. One report says 200 Mexicans were killed. The American forces have complete control of the business district and most of the other sections of the city. The federal garrison is reported to be in flight toward the west.

Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, in command of the warships here, the battleships Florida and Utah and the transport Prairie, gave the port officials notice of his purpose to seize the city. To a request, sent through Consul Canada, that he surrender the city without resistance, General Maas sent a curt refusal.

The Peaceful Landing.
The landing movement started in the most calm and peaceful manner possible.

The first detachment, comprising fourteen marines, landed at pier No. 4 without meeting any resistance. Thousands of the Mexican population now swarmed to the wharves in a spirit of idle curiosity to see the general landing of the American forces, which proceeded swiftly and without a sign of disorder or the slightest objection from the federal authorities, civil or military.

Inside of fifteen minutes after the first boatload reached shore the Americans were in possession of the cable and telegraph office, the postoffice, and almost all the public buildings in the lower part of the city near the property of the Terminal company.

The number of marines and bluejackets who had been put ashore had reached about a thousand, who were spread all over the lower part of the city.

Not Sure About Fighting.
Up to this moment there had been not the slightest evidence of action by the Mexican authorities.

Evidently the Mexican officers made up their minds very quickly, for in less than fifteen minutes desultory firing at the landing force began, but apparently without concerted action or in accordance with any general orders.

Real Conflict Begins.
At 12:30 o'clock, however, the federal garrison of 800 men left their barracks and scattered in small detachments through the central portion of the city.

Some of the Mexican soldiers took positions on the roofs of houses. Others did their sharpshooting from second story windows. Still others peeped out from street corners.

The Mexican soldiers were joined in their resistance by some of the more courageous citizens, who took occasional pot shots at the Americans from their own houses.

The American forces had not been idle. Moving the first shots from the Mexican side. Detachments were posted at the heads of all the streets in the section of the city they occupied and kept up a sweeping fire with machine guns down the principal streets. They also returned the fire of marksmen, whom they spied on the roofs. All this was in the way of self defense.

Soon the Mexicans opened fire with artillery. Then the Prairie went into action with her guns, of which she has ten, all less than four inch. So accurate was the fire of the Prairie's marksmen that the Mexicans were shelled from their positions, retiring slowly toward the western part of the city.

At 1 o'clock the first wounded American was brought to the railroad terminal.

The firing continued with some briskness most of the afternoon. Soon after 4 o'clock a force of bluejackets advanced to the barracks of the city garrison and found that it had been completely evacuated.

Fletcher Warns Garrison.
Captain H. McLaren P. Huse, Rear Admiral Fletcher's chief of staff, came ashore in the midst of the fighting to try to get into communication with General Gustavo Maas, commander in chief of the garrison here. He carried a warning from the American commander to the effect that his patience was exhausted and that if the Mexicans continued to resist the fleet would shell the city.

When William W. Canada, the American consul, notified General Maas that marines were about to be landed and requested him to co-operate with the American forces to maintain order in the city, the Mexican commander replied that this was impossible.

Mexican resistance in the presence of such an overwhelming force can be explained only on the ground that they desired to save their faces by making a show of fight, however futile.

The cargo of war munitions for the federal government aboard the Ypiranga, which arrived here this morning, was captured by the United States landing force. It consists of 250 machine guns, 20,000 rifles and 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition.

Captain Huse tried to ascertain where General Maas was so that he could send somebody under a flag of truce to propose an armistice and inform the Mexican commander that the purpose of the landing of United States troops had been accomplished by the capture of the Ypiranga's cargo.

Campaign Planned.

Washington, April 22.—Now that open hostilities have begun between the United States and Mexico plans are being rushed for the actual opening of an extensive campaign, which probably will end only after Mexico City has fallen and the entire country has been pacified.

As viewed in Washington the shots fired at Vera Cruz will inflame all of Mexico against the United States. Army and navy officers are certain that it will be only a short time when differences between the Constitutionists and Huerta will have vanished and the United States will find itself confronted by all Mexico reunited against a common enemy.

Although Carranza up to this time has refused to indicate his attitude toward an invasion of Mexico by the United States, it may be only a question of a few days when some deprecation upon American life or property along the border will inflame sentiment in northern Mexico, and the United States will be confronted with the necessity of dealing with northern Mexico just as firmly as it is now dealing with Huerta and the so-called federals.

Diplomatic Conferences Held.
Up to the time of the firing upon Americans at Vera Cruz President Wilson and his advisers had in mind a plan which they hoped would lead to a peaceful settlement of the Mexican troubles. Secretary Bryan outlined this plan to foreign representatives in Washington in a series of conferences at the state department. These conferences, however, took place before the news had been received that the federal forces had killed four Americans and wounded twenty others.

The diplomats who were summoned to the state department included Sir Arthur Spring Rice, the British ambassador; Amador de Irujo of Spain, Von Bernstorff of Germany, Jusserand of France, Chida of Japan and Dr. Dumba of Austria. The Italian ambassador also was invited, but was unable to attend. These ambassadors were representatives of the countries most interested with the United States in Mexico.

Secretary Bryan saw them one at a time and informed them that the United States had landed marines at Vera Cruz and was about to establish a blockade of that port. Mr. Bryan gave them to understand that the ships of neutrals would not be interfered with, but that all munitions of war, including such supplies as Huerta might use in the support of a campaign, would be seized by the United States at the custom house. This property would be held subject to the desire of the consignee to remove it from the country.

The president's decision to act on his own responsibility grew out of his impatience at the delay of congress in approving his stand by a joint resolution.

In order to strengthen the naval forces at Vera Cruz for any test of strength that may be involved in holding that port after its seizure, the navy department has ordered all but four ships of the torpedo flotilla to abandon Admiral Badger's command and steam for Vera Cruz at twenty-two knots.

A report, as yet unverified, has been received at the state department that Huerta is tearing up the railroad tracks between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

Huerta showed his teeth when the United States warships prepared to seize the custom house and halt a vessel of the Hamburg-American line with 10,000 rifles and 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition. The local commander, General Maas, by Huerta's orders posted strong forces with machine guns on the islands before the city. They have been ordered to resist to the last any attempt to land American forces.

It is known here that the shipment which the administration is so anxious to prevent reaching Huerta consists of 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and 200 of the latest models of Krupp rapid fire machine guns.

Huerta, it is understood, ordered these munitions specifically to hold and defend the railway from Mexico City to Vera Cruz. The seizure of this line is the very first step contemplated by army and navy strategists to follow occupation of Vera Cruz and the initial warlike measures. If Huerta gets arms to defend it the task of the United States would be infinitely hard.

Orders Approved.
The Vera Cruz episode completely overshadowed every other development in Mexico. It was the subject of a long conference of the cabinet, and it was plainly a cause of grave concern to the president and his advisers. It resulted in a series of wild rumors.

It is known that the president has approved a series of general orders dealing with Mexico. These, it is understood, outline in every essential detail the procedure to be followed in blockading the Mexican coast.

Copies have been transmitted to the admirals commanding on the east and west coasts and also in confidence to the representatives of foreign governments here. These orders will be released by wireless immediately after the president signs the joint resolution authorizing his use of the army and navy dealing with the Mexican situation.

Secretary Daniels left the cabinet meeting and hurried to his own office. He was plainly very much concerned and when told of the various reports concerning Admiral Fletcher and the action to be taken or already taken at Vera Cruz said:

"It would be very unwise for me to say anything at the present moment. The resolution authorizing the president to use the armed forces of the United States is now before the senate. Until it has acted and this matter has cleared we can make no announcement."

TROPHIES AWARDED FOR

CLUB'S BOWLING MEET

One of the most successful and best attended receptions yet conducted in the new Columbus Club on West Front street, was held last night, three hundred members and friends of the organization taking advantage of an elaborate program of social amusement planned by the house committee. While dancing proved to be the leading feature with excellent terpsichore music furnished during the entire evening, many of the guests engaged in other forms of entertainment. The bowling alleys were frequented by many as were also the billiard and pool tables.

During the evening the committee in charge of the Columbus Club Bowling League that has just closed made the awards to the prize winners.

TROUT PLENTIFUL
IN JERSEY LAKES

Anglers From This City Have Succeeded in Landing Good Catches to Date.

A FEW LIVE "TIPS"

Fish Biting Well in All of the State Stocked Ponds—Bait to Use for the Speckled Beauties—August's Sult-
try Days Looked Forward to.

Many Plainfield anglers are taking advantage of the season in which anglers for trout can participate in their favorite sport under the wing of the law and some excellent catches have been reported in nearby streams. Several local fishermen returned home last night with good catches and others started out this morning. The small lakes near Watchung and other streams at the head of the Watchung lake are stocked and the speckled beauties are biting readily.

Later in the season, in August's sultry days, "the kind we are after" seek the deep pools under the banks of some small river in the vicinity (third in size upward from the tiny rivulet), or sojourn at the bend, where the great trees cast a grateful shade all day and the waters are tempered to the nice requirements of this finny aristocrat by sub-aqueous springs.

Here the lads "in swimming" will often see several great trout at one time lying motionless near the bottom in very deep water, absolutely refusing the hook, which may be even dragged across their bodies by the urchins in their desire to "hook one of 'em up."

Should a sudden shower come through the notch and roll the water, the knowing angler may successfully invade their realm by wading down stream and using a long line without sinner with a good-sized chub tail on a rather large hook.

Such a bait floating on the swelling flood and carefully guided from side to side will often fill a basket in a short while on a dark or rainy day, for it is then that the great brook fish feed.

Then, too many big brook trout go out of cold water lakes and ponds during the early spring and run down outlet streams for a mile or two in search of food which is there in great abundance at such times.

The fishermen then wonders how such large fish can expect to find food in waters that will shortly hardly feed the local "shorts" and place that stay there. He takes "the gifts that the gods provide" with the usual philosophy of the craft and fills a basket with these strangers in half an hour that it generally requires hours of fishing in the best waters of that particular stream to accomplish.

The wise trout that thus escape the chance angler in such unfrequented localities soon find the food supply growing scarce, so they migrate back to the hidden pond, where they were planted by some sportsman a few years before when they came to him from the State hatchery.

There the persistent fly fisher will seek them in August among the lily pads at the mouths of cold inlets if he will row up there in the old punt formerly used for the water killing of hounded deer, a "sport" now happily ended forever in this State. These will generally be large fish, and furnish great sport, quite a change from the more rigorous river trouting.

ROD AND REEL

Ex-Governor Franklin Murphy was one of the first of the New Jersey fishermen to cast a fly on the Long Island streams on the opening day. He has made it a practice for years to be one of the first over there, and he has a special stream that he delights to fish.

One of the Sheephead Bay boats came in from the fishing banks Sunday with fully a hundred codfish on board that were caught by fishermen from the cities, who had a lot of fun. Some of the codfish weighed over thirty pounds, and the captain said that he had probably struck a school that was on its way north, as it is rather late in the year to catch such big fish in this section.

SHIFTS IN BORO LINEUP
FOR ROSELLE ENCOUNTER

Captain Ralph Smalley, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, will take his team to Roselle for the second meeting of the season, tomorrow afternoon. The boroughites' first game was with this team and the locals scored a 10 to 6 victory as an opener. The Roselle boys will be out for revenge tomorrow and the invaders will find things hot. Several changes have been made in the borough lineup and if the team takes the field in the game as it has in practice Burner will be on first base, Dilts in the shortstop and VanMater in one of the gardens.

Whether or not this change will help the team remains to be seen. Denny will probably start for the "Canadians" on the mound and Benedict will oppose him. The team will be accompanied by a large crowd of rooters.

"BIG JEFF" SUEDE.

Jeff Tesreau, the Giants' big pitcher, was greatly surprised at Ebbets Field, yesterday afternoon, when he was served with papers in a breach of promise suit. The matter was kept very quiet and last night Tesreau refused to divulge the name of the plaintiff in the action. None of the officials of the New York Club knew any of the details of the suit, as Tesreau refused to discuss the matter. Tesreau was married last year shortly after the world's series.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Disappointment was expressed yesterday by athletic experts over the rules sent out to govern the relay races at the meet of the University of Pennsylvania on April 25, which this year becomes of international importance because of the entry of a team from Oxford University, England. The announcement was made some time ago, that for the first time at this meet the passing of the baton from one runner to another would be insisted on instead of merely requiring the men to touch hands. This was regarded as a good move toward educating American runners in the style of racing demanded at the Olympic games, and was welcomed accordingly by all those interested in the success of the United States at Berlin. In the last Olympic games the American team was disqualified for not relaying in the proper manner, and lost the title, though the quartet was without doubt the fastest entered. It appears that the management of the relay carnival instead of selecting the rules in vogue at the last Olympics, and almost certain to be followed at Berlin, has picked up from somewhere an old set of A. A. U. rules which although generally disregarded look imposing. Unfortunately these differ materially from the Olympic conditions, and therefore will not carry out the scheme of Olympic education so thoroughly as expected.

Followers of polo in this country are already expressing doubt over the possibility of the American team retaining the championship this year. The Englishmen have been bafled at work for about a month at Madrid, and already reports come that the team has been picked and that from now on practice will consist in the development of team work. While the Americans have been doing considerable work this winter at various places in the South and West, those that are likely to make the team have only had a few days together at Lakewood. The ponies, too, need the work, and there again the English have the lead, for the string of fifty at Madrid have been getting plenty of practice, while some of the animals for the team here have not yet been chosen. The defenders have the advantage, however, in being at home, and there is no doubt that at least Milburn is a superior player to any of those who will represent Great Britain. The others that will make up the American four are at least the equals of the Englishmen. It is more a question of condition of the animals and of team work than anything else, and in these the four across the water have the lead at present.

In about one month more there will be more ball players out of a job than one can throw a stick at. Nearly all the Federal teams are recruited up to thirty or more players, and many of the major leagues are carrying more than that number, some even as high as forty-five. When the weeding out season opens there is sure to be a wholesale canning bee, in which the class AA, A, B and C leagues will join.

Ironies of small town baseball—A local sporting scribe contends that in order to be credited with a hit the batter must smash the ball out of the infield. Whaddayamean bunts don't count?

A new one on medical science—"Jack Ricketts was well able to—(get this now)—endure the X-ray yesterday when he learned that his collection of players had bested the First Baptist boys."—Some pain killer.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there any way I can prevent the street department from laying the tarrya in front of my house when the rest of the street is being done?—K. H.

Answer—There's not a chance in the world for you to do this. Better think the matter over seriously and not make any hasty requests along this line. If the tarrya did not do the street some good the authorities would probably not put it there.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a law against shooting crows in the city limits? There are several pine trees in my yard and the crows nest in these, eating the seeds have planted in my garden.—J. Y.

Answer—Shooting firearms is prohibited within the city limits.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is the Columbus Club Auditorium on West Front street available for social gatherings? If so, to whom should I apply to charter the place for one evening?—B. D. T.

Answer—You had better address a letter to the house committee of the Columbus Club and secure full information. The place is available for certain classes of social functions.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the best bait for trout?—B. O. S.

Answer—"Nightwalkers" are probably the best. Read the article on trout fishing in another column of this issue.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How many miles of roads has Plainfield at the present time?—N. N.

Answer—Approximately seventy miles.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has Plainfield a city flagpole, and if so, where is it located?—V. B.

Answer—At one time Plainfield had a city flagpole at the intersection of Park avenue and Front street, but this has since been taken down and a part of it removed to the city High School building's premises on West Ninth street. The High School flagpole serves as a city pole at the present time.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What make of baseball is used in the American League?—H. D.

Answer—The Reach ball is the American League's official ball.

MAY LAUNCH TWO BOOMS AT ELIZABETH DEMOCRATS DINNER

Elizabeth, April 22.—Two "booms" are scheduled to be launched tonight at the Democratic dinner in Turn Hall, to which Governor Fielder has been invited. One is that of Mayor Percy Stewart, of Plainfield, who wants to be State Senator, and the other is that of General Dennis F. Collins for Mayor.

The dinner is announced as a "harmony" affair, and members of the party have been urged to attend. General Collins will be toastmaster. While he has declared that he will support any Democrat nominated for Mayor and that he is not seeking the place, the rank and file believe he is ready and willing and that his "boom" will start when he is introduced as toastmaster. No serious opposition to him exists apparently.

The same cannot be said of Mr. Stewart, however. He has been active at public functions in all parts of the county of late, as has General Collins in this city, but there are at least two others who have an ambition similar to that of the Plainfield man. William A. Leonard, of Elizabeth, and Francis Dobbins, of Rahway, members of the Assembly, would also like to serve in the upper house, their friends say, and a quiet boom has been started.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Allen Gibson

7889

There is no reason this season why the woman who makes her own dresses should not make her coats also. The day of the notched tailored collar and rever is practically past except for certain garments, such as the riding habit and other strictly tailored garments. With a little care a coat may be turned out at home quite as satisfactorily as if made by a tailor.

This design, 7889, is excellent for serge, cloth, moire or any favored suiting material. In cutting a coat greater care must be taken, perhaps, than with any other garment to see that the pattern is placed properly on the material. The perforations showing the straight of the material should be followed implicitly for if the grain of the material does not run in the right direction the coat will never fit as it should; the fronts will fall apart when it is unbuttoned, and there will be various other little annoying defects that mark the garment "home-made." In stitching the seams begin one at the top and stitch down; the corresponding seam must be started at the bottom and stitched up; this will prevent any twist which might otherwise occur.

This coat may be made in size 36 with 2 1/2 yards of 42 inch material. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 34 to 42. This Is a Perfect Pattern. Be sure to state correct size; measure over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

BY KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm"

CHAPTER VII. Cephas Speaks.

IT was June and the countryside was so beautiful it seemed as if no one could be unhappy, however great the cause. That was what Waitstill Baxter thought as she sat down on the millstone step for a word with the old joiner, her best and most understanding friend in all the village.

"I've come to do my mending here with you," she said brightly, as she took out her well filled basket and threaded her needle. "Isn't it a wonderful morning? Nobody could look the world in the face and do a wrong thing on such a day, could they, Uncle Bart?"

The meadows were a waving mass of golden buttercups; the shallow water at the river's edge just below the shop was blue with spikes of arrow weed; a bunch of fragrant water lilies, gathered from the mill pond's upper levels, lay beside Waitstill's mending basket, and every foot of roadside and field within sight was awash with long stemmed white and gold daisies.

The June grass, the friendly, humble, companionable grass, that no one ever praises as they do the flowers, was a rich emerald green, a velvet carpet fit for the feet of the angels themselves. And the elms and maples! Was there ever such a year for richness of foliage?

And the sky, was it ever so blue or so clear, so far away, or so completely like heaven, as you looked at its reflection in the glassy surface of the river?

"Yes, it's a pretty good day," allowed Uncle Bart judiciously as he took a squint at his T-square. "I don't know I should want to start out any try to beat it! The Lord can make a good many kinds of weather in the course of a year, but when he puts his mind on it to an kind of gives himself a free hand he can turn out a June mornin' that must make the devil sick to his stomach with envy! All the same, Waity, my cow ain't havin' herself any better'n usual. She's been rampagin' since sun up. I've seen mother chasin' her out o' Mis' Day's garden patch twice a ready! It seems real good an' homely to see you settin' there sewin' while I'm workin' at the bench, Cephas is down to the store, so I s'pose your father's off somewhere."

Perhaps the June grass was a little greener, the buttercups yellower, the foliage more lacy, the sky bluer, because Deacon Baxter had taken his luncheon in a hall under the wagon seat and departed on an unwilling journey to Moderation, his object being to press the collection of some accounts too long overdue. There was something tragic in the fact, Waitstill thought, that whenever her father left the village for a whole day, life at once grew brighter, easier, more hopeful. One could breathe freely, speak one's heart out, believe in the future, when father was away.

The girls had harbored many delightful plans at early breakfast. As it was Saturday, Patty could catch little Rod Boynton if he came to the bridge on errands as usual, and if Ivory could spare him for an hour at noon they would take their luncheon and eat it together on the river bank as Patty had promised him. At the last moment, however, Deacon Baxter had turned around in the wagon and said: "Patience, you go down to the store and have a regular housecleanin' in the stockroom. Gilt Cephas to lift what you can't lift yourself, move everything in the place, sweep and dust it, scrub the floor, wash the winder and make room for the new stuff that they'll bring up from Milltown 'bout noon. If you have any time left over put new papers on the shelves out front and clean up and fix the show winder. Don't stand round gabbin' with Cephas, and see he don't waste time that's paid for by me. Tell him he might clean up the terbaccer stains round the stove, black it and cover it up for the summer if he ain't too busy servin' customers."

"The whole day spoiled!" wailed Patty, flinging herself down in the kitchen rocker. "Father's powers of invention beat anything I ever saw! That stockroom could have been cleaned any time this month, and it's too heavy work for me anyway; it spoils my hands grubbing around those nasty, sticky, splintery boxes and barrels. Instead of being out of doors I've got to be shut up in that smelly, runty, tobacco, salt-dried, peppermint place with Cephas Cole! He won't have a pleasant morning, I can tell you! I shall snap his head off every time he speaks to me."

"So I would," Waitstill answered composedly. "Everything is so clearly his fault that I certainly would work off my temper on Cephas! Still, I can think of a way to make matters come out right. I've got a great basket of mending that must be done, and you remember there's a choir rehearsal for the new anthem this afternoon, but anyway I can help a little on the cleaning. Then you can make Rodman do a few of the odd jobs; it will be a novelty to him. And Cephas will work his fingers to the bone for you, as you well know, if you treat him like a human being."

"All right!" cried Patty joyously, her mood changing in an instant. "There's Rod coming over the bridge now. Toss me my gingham apron and the scrubbing brush and the pail and the tin of soap and the cleaning cloths. Let's see. The broom's down there, so I've got everything. If I wave a towel from the store pack up luncheon for three. You come down, and bring your mending. Then when you see how I'm getting on we can consult. I'm going to take the 10 cents I've saved and spend it in raisins. I can get a good many if Cephas gives me wholesale price, with family discount subtracted from that. Cephas would treat me to candy in a minute, but if I let him we'd have to ask him to the picnic. Goodbye!" And the voluble creature darted down the hill singing "There'll be something in heaven for children to do" at the top of her healthy young lungs.

The waving signal a little later on showed that Rodman could go to the picnic, the fact being that he was having a holiday from 11 o'clock until 2, and Ivory was going to drive to the bridge at noon anyway, so his permission could then be asked. Patty's mind might have been thought entirely on her ugly task as she swept and dusted and scrubbed that morning, but the reverse was true. Mark Wilson had gone away without saying goodbye to her. This was not surprising perhaps, as she was about as much sequestered in her hill-top prison as a Turkish beauty in a harem. Neither was it astonishing that Mark did not write to her. He never had written to her, and as her father always brought home the very infrequent letters that came to the family Mark knew that any sentimental correspondence would be fraught with danger. No, everything was probably just as it should be, and yet—well, Patty had expected during the last three weeks that something would happen to break up the monotony of her former existence. She hardly knew what it would be, but the kiss dropped so lightly on her cheek by Mark Wilson still burned in remembrance and made her sure that it would have a sequel or an explanation.

Mark's sister Ellen and Phil Perry were in the midst of some form of lovers' quarrel, and during its progress Phil was paying considerable attention to Patty at Sabbath school and prayer meeting, occasions, it must be confessed, only provocative of very indirect and long distance advances. Cephas Cole, to the amazement of every one but his (constitutionally) exasperated mother, was "toning down" the oil of the family mansion, mitigating the lively yellow and putting another fresh coat of paint on it, for no conceivable reason save that of pleasing the eye of a certain capricious, ungrateful young hussy, who would probably say, when her verdict was asked, that she didn't see any particular difference in it one way or another.

Trade was not especially brisk at the deacon's emporium this sunny June Saturday morning. Cephas may have possibly lost a customer or two by leaving the store vacant while he toiled and sweated for Miss Patience Baxter in the stockroom at the back, overhanging the river, but no man alive could see his employer's lovely daughter tugging at a keg of shingle nails without trying to save her from a broken back, although Cephas could have watched his mother move the house and barn without feeling the slightest anxiety in her behalf. If he could ever get the "heft" of the "dog-gone" cleaning out of the way so that Patty's mind could be free to entertain his proposition; could ever secure one precious moment of silence when she was not slanting and banging, pushing and pulling things about, her head and ears out of sight under a shelf and an irritating air of absorption about her whole demeanor; if that moment of silence could ever, under Providence, be simultaneous with the absence of customers in the front shop, Cephas intended to offer himself to Patience Baxter that very morning.

Once, during a temporary lull in the rear, he started to meet his fate when Rodman Boynton followed him into the back room, and the boy was at once set to work by Patty, who was the most consummate slave driver in the state of Maine. After half an hour there was another heaven sent chance, when Rodman went up to Uncle Bart's shop with a message for Waitstill, but just then, in came Bill Morrill, a boy of twelve, with a request for a gallon of molasses, and would Cephas lend him a stone jug over Sunday, for his mother had hers "soakin' out in soap suds 'cause 'twasn't smellin' just right." Bill's message given, he hurried up the road on another errand, promising to call for the molasses later.

The minutes dragged by, and again there was perfect quiet in the stockroom. As the door opened, Cephas, taking his last chance, went forward to meet Patty, who was turning down the skirt of her dress, taking the cloth off her head, smoothing her hair and tying on a clean white ruffled apron, in which she looked as pretty as a pink.

"Patty," stammered Cephas, seizing his golden opportunity, "Patty, keep your mind on me for a minute. I've put a new coat o' paint on the ell just to please you. Won't you get married and settle down with me? I love you so I can't eat nor drink nor tend store nor nothin'!"

"Oh, I—I—couldn't. Cephas, thank you. I just couldn't—don't ask me," cried Patty, as nervous as Cephas himself now that her first offer had really come. "I'm only seventeen, and I don't feel like settling down, Cephas, and father wouldn't think of letting me get married."

"Don't play tricks on me, Patty, and keep shovin' me off so an' givin' wrong reasons," pleaded Cephas. "What's the trouble with me? I know mother's temper's onstrin, but we never need go into the main house daytimes, and father'd allers stand up ag'in her if she didn't treat you right. I've got a good trade, and father has $100 o' my savin's that I can draw out to-morrow if you'll have me."

"I can't, Cephas. Don't move—stay where you are. No, don't come any nearer. I'm not fond of you that way, and, besides—and, besides—"

Her blush and her evident embarrassment gave Cephas a new fear. "You ain't promised a'ready, be you?" he asked anxiously, "when there ain't a feller anywheres around that's ever stepped foot over your father's doornill but jest me?"

"I haven't promised anything or anybody," Patty answered sedately, gaining her self control by degrees, "but I won't deny that I'm considerin'—that's true."

"Considerin' who?" asked Cephas, turning pale.

"Oh—several, if you must know the truth," and Patty's tone was cruel in its faintness.

"Several!" The word did not sound like ordinary work-a-day Riverboro English in Cephas' ears. He knew that "several" meant more than one, but he was too stunned to define the term properly in its present strange connection.

"Whoever 'tis wouldn't do any better by you'n I would. I'd take a lickin' for you any day," Cephas exclaimed abruptly, after a long pause.

"That wouldn't make any difference, Cephas," said Patty firmly, moving toward the front door as if to end the interview. "If I don't love you unlicked I couldn't love you any better licked, now, could I? Goodness gracious, what am I steppin' in? Cephas, quick! Something has been running all over the floor. My feet are stickin' to it."

"Good gosh! It's Mis' Morrill's molasses!" cried Cephas, brought to his senses suddenly.

It was too true! The gallon measure, forgotten by Cephas, had been filled to the brim ten minutes before, and ever since the treacherous liquid had been overflowing the top and spreading in a brown flood, unnoticed, over the floor. Patty's feet were glued to it, her buff calico skirts lifted high to escape harm.

"I can't move," she cried. "Oh, you stupid, stupid Cephas! How could you leave the molasses spigot turned on? See what you've done! You've wasted quarts and quarts! What will father say and how will you ever clean up such a mess? You never can get the floor to look so that he won't notice it, and he is sure to miss the molasses. You've ruined my shoes, and I simply can't bear the sight of you!"

At this Cephas all but blubbered in the agony of his soul. It was bad enough to be told by Patty that she was "considerin' several," but his first romance had ended in such complete disaster, that he saw in a vision his life blasted—changed in one brief moment from that of a prosperous young painter to that of a blighted and despised bungler, whose week's wages were likely to be expended in molasses to make good the deacon's loss.

"Find those cleaning cloths I left in the back room," ordered Patty, with a flashing eye. "Get some blocks or bits of board or stones for me to walk on so that I can get out of your nasty mess. Fill Bill Morrill's jug, quick, and set it out on the steps for him to pick up. I don't know what you'd do without me to plan for you! Look'd the front door and hang father's sign that he's gone to dinner on the doorknob. Scoop up all the molasses you can with one of those new towels on the counter. Scoop and scrape and scoop and scrape; then put a cloth on your oldest broom, pour lots of water on, pull after pull, and swab. When you've swabbed till it won't do any more good, then scrub. After that I shouldn't wonder if you had to fan the floor with a newspaper or it'll never get dry before father comes home. I'll sit on the floor barrel a little while and advise, but I can't stay long because I'm going to a picnic. Hurry up and don't look as if you were going to die any minute! It's no use crying over spilt molasses. You don't suppose I'm going to tell any tales after you've made me an offer of marriage, do you? I'm not so mean as all that, though I may have my faults."

card announcing Deacon Baxter's absence at dinner was removed from the front doorknob, and when the store was finally reopened for business it was a most dejected clerk who dealt out groceries to the public. The worst feature of the affair was that every one in the two villages suddenly and contemporaneously wanted molasses, so that Cephas spent the afternoon reviewing his misery by continually turning the tap and drawing off the fatal liquid. Then, too, every inquisitive boy in the neighborhood came to the back of the store to view the operation, exclaiming: "What makes the floor so wet? Hain't been spillin' molasses, have yer? Bet yer have! Good joke on Old Fogy!"

Daddy's Bedtime

The Mother Goose Story—Entertainment For Robbie.

A NUMBER of children who went to a Sunday school belonging to a big city church used to enjoy meeting together every week," said daddy. "The head teacher of the Sunday school said that all the lessons were made so interesting that the children looked upon going to Sunday school class as a great pleasure."

"But one Sunday one of the class was not present. It was a very unusual thing for any one to miss Sunday school, and all the children wondered what had become of Robbie Goldsmith."

"The teacher, too, was worried and eager to know what had happened to Robbie. So she promised to find out during the coming week if Robbie was ill."

"When the next Sunday came all the children, seeing that Robbie was absent again, asked:

"Teacher, did you see Robbie?"

"Yes," replied the teacher sadly; "I saw Robbie and his mother."

"What has happened to him?" they all cried.

"A dreadful accident occurred. Robbie was on his way to school Monday, the day after he was last here, and in getting off a car a little before he stopped he fell and broke his leg. He managed to hobble into another car and went right home again. When he got home his mother sent for the doctor, who said that Robbie had hurt himself very badly—in fact, quite seriously—and he would never be able to walk again unless he had an operation. He would have to go to the hospital, and the operation would be very expensive, so expensive that his mother and daddy can't afford it, and yet they feel he should have it so he may be able to walk."

"I'll tell you what we can do," said one little boy. "We'll give an entertainment and charge the children 25 cents and the grownups 50 cents. We'll get every one in the church to come, and then we can help Robbie get well."

"What kind of an entertainment could we give?" asked another child.

"Why," continued the little boy, "we could have a Mother Goose entertainment. We could all dress up as Mother Goose characters and sing and act Mother Goose songs."

"That's a splendid idea," said the teacher. "I'll help you get it up."

The entertainment was arranged and finally given. It was a huge success, and after it was all over Robbie's classmates put the money in a large yellow envelope, which the teacher said, she would take to him. On the envelope was written, "So Robbie can walk and come to Sunday school before long, from his classmates and teacher."

WOULD BAR CIRCUSES FROM RAHWAY SATURDAY NIGHTS

Rahway, April 22.—Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe has initiated a movement against permitting any outside shows, such as circuses, to give performances in Rahway on Saturday nights.

The Mayor declares a circus in the city on Saturday has a demoralizing effect upon business, injuring the local merchants, who largely rely upon their Saturday night trade.

The Wheeler Brothers show is booked for Rahway, Saturday.

NO INDICTMENT IN CASE OF HOPATCONG POSTMASTER

The Federal Grand Jury at Newark returned no indictment, yesterday, against William S. Richards, for fourteen years postmaster at Lake Hopatcong, who has admitted the embezzlement of $3,021.23 of the office funds.

Richards, on April 9, turned over this amount to Postoffice Inspector Robert H. Aldous, who unearthed the shortage in the postmaster's accounts. When the shortage was revealed, Richards admitted taking the money, the inspector says, and then raised enough to make up his shortage by mortgaging his property.

MAN'S INABILITY TO TELL HEAT OR COLD COSTS $1,250

New Brunswick, April 22.—John W. Widdis' inability to distinguish between hot and cold cost the Public Service Railway Company $1,250 Monday, when he proved to the satisfaction of a jury in the Circuit Court that the company was responsible for the failure of his sense of touch.

Widdis' contention was that one arm was partially paralyzed when, while working on a bridge for the Pennsylvania Railroad, he was shocked by an electric wire.

For some time past Major General Winterspoon has been assistant chief of staff, in which position he is succeeded by Brig. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, late in command of the troops at Fort Bliss, Texas. BOUND BROOK TRAIN VICTIM HAS UNION PRINTER'S CARD

Bound Brook, April 22.—Crushed and cut, the body of a man, in the pocket of whose coat was a Typographical Union card made out by Local No. 6, of New York, to Joseph W. Seely, was found at daybreak yesterday morning in front of the Central Railroad station. He had evidently been struck by a freight train and knocked against the railing near which he was found.

The victim was about forty-six years old, five feet nine inches in height, weighed about 200 pounds and was neatly dressed. The station agent discovered the body and notified the police. They summoned Coroner John T. Leahy, who ordered the body taken to the morgue and that the New York police be notified. The man was seen about town Monday afternoon.

ASKS METUCHEN PRINCIPAL TO RETURN PART OF SALARY

Metuchen, April 22.—The Board of Education has adopted resolutions inviting Principal Thomas G. Van Kirk to give up his claim to a salary of $2,250 a year and to pay back to the town the money he has received on that basis for five months beginning last September. This invitation, said the board in its resolution, was extended to the principal to avert court action in the matter. Should Mr. Van Kirk accept the offer it is understood he will continue as principal at his old salary of $2,000.

The alleged unauthorized increase in Mr. Van Kirk's salary was inadvertently voted by the board, it is charged, after the citizens at two elections went on record against the raise. The controversy over the question of how the raise could have been voted without the board's knowledge has been waged for more than a year and has led to threats that the matter would be taken to the Grand Jury.

Mr. Van Kirk was at the meeting and asserted that he felt the resolutions were unfair and were not inspired by the best of motives. All the members of the board voted in favor of the resolutions except Robert Bruce Crowell, clerk, who asked to be excused.

45 KILLED IN MINERS' BATTLE

Most of Them Are Women and Children.

OVER SCORE ARE WOUNDED

Labor Men and Troops Are Lined Up Ready For Another Big Battle. Strikers Are Sheltered in Hills Behind Bowlders.

Trinidad, Colo., April 22.—Forty-five dead, more than two-thirds of them women and children; a score missing and more than twenty wounded is the toll in tragedy and death known to have been taken by the fourteen hour battle which raged with uninterrupted fury between state troops and striking coal miners in the Ludlow district.

With arms ready both sides after a day of ominous quiet now await the coming of darkness, when, it is forecasted, the battle will be resumed with greater bloodshed than than which has occurred.

The militia, which drove the strikers from their tent colony and it is charged, fired it, involving thereby the greatest loss of life, are preparing for a machine gun sortie at daybreak from their position along the Colorado and Southern railroad tracks at either side of the Ludlow station.

On the surrounding hills, sheltered by rocks and bowlders, 400 strikers await their coming, while their ranks are being swelled by grim faced men who tramped overland in the dark, carrying guns and ammunition from the neighboring union camps.

Italians, Greeks and Austrian miners have appealed to their consular representatives for protection, and John McLennan, president of the local union district, wired the Red Cross in Denver to be prepared to render aid.

On the outcome of the engagement may depend the fate of the strike. Both sides face it as a battle to the death, with no thought of quarter asked or received.

SALIENT FEATURES IN MEXICAN CRISIS.

Four marines killed, twenty wounded. Admiral Fletcher has seized Vera Cruz.

Huerta offered a strong resistance. This is the first step toward a blockade of that port and was taken to prevent the landing at Vera Cruz of 30 field guns and 15,000 rounds of ammunition destined for General Huerta.

Administration officials said that the president had ample authority for such action without the approval of congress and that immediate action had been imperative. Officials in Washington say that Huerta played for time in order to get this shipment of arms into Mexico.

There was a general exodus of Americans from Mexico City to Vera Cruz, where many Americans went on board the refugee steamship Esperanza.

The senate engaged in debate over the Mexican resolution. Senator Lodge asserting in a speech that the resolution should set forth the murders of Americans as a cause for action, while Senators Shively and John Sharp Williams maintained that the Lodge resolution would mean nothing short of war, while the foreign relations committee's resolution specifically disavows any intention to declare war.

BRIGADE READY TO EMBARK.

Transports at Galveston Taking Supplies in Case of Order to Sail.

Galveston, Tex., April 22.—Five thousand men who, army officers say, would be the first to be dispatched should the United States army be ordered into Mexico were ready here to embark in less than six hours. They are the Fifth brigade of the Second division, hurriedly recalled from Houston early by orders from Washington. While the Fifth brigade, or practically half the division, was returning to Galveston by train four army transports waiting here were being provisioned for a thirty days' voyage.

"LES MISERABLES" TELLS STORY OF A GREAT HERO

Jean Valjean, the hero of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," which will be presented in moving pictures at the Plainfield Theatre on the afternoons and evenings of next Friday and Saturday, the proceeds to go to Wellesley College, is a character who is sure to attract the interest of all those who see the film play.

"Les Miserables" is especially timely, coming as it does when all the reading public is aroused by the recent events in the case of the gunmen to consider the lot of the man who is regarded by society as a criminal.

The story which the films tell of the life history of Jean Valjean is one which not only arouses intense interest in the dramatic life but a deep sympathy and appreciation of his struggles.

Arrested for stealing a loaf of bread for his starving mother, the hero is sentenced to five years imprisonment and hard labor. He escapes and finds shelter in the house of a good priest, but is tempted to steal some valuable silver plate from his benefactor. When charged with his theft and brought before the priest, the latter declares he gave Jean the silver, thus shielding him from prison.

This action on the priest's part gives the guilty man a new start in life. Of his struggles, temptations and success from this time on the pictures tell a thrilling story which cannot fail to appeal to every person who sees them.

FIRST PANEL OF JURORS WILL BE DRAWN MONDAY

The first panel of petit jurors and the Grand Jury for the May term of the Union county courts will be drawn by the jury commissioners before Judge Connolly on April 27. The term will open May 5, when the inquest will be charged by Supreme Court Justice Bergen, and trials of cases in both the civil and criminal branch will begin the following day.

In addition to the "hatchet murder" in Elizabeth a few weeks ago, when Stefano Miglioroni was killed near his home by being struck on the head with an axe by some person still a fugitive from justice, the inquest will be charged with investigating the death of Charles E. Thompson, electrocuted in Meadow street, Elizabeth, ten days ago by a "live" wire. An indictment against the Postal Telegraph Company or some of its responsible officers, charging them with responsibility for Thompson's death, probably will result. The coroner's jury last week held the company liable.

IN ONE MINUTE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN---COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Stops Nasty Discharge, Clears Stuffed Head, Heals Inflamed Air Passages and You Breathe Freely.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which clogs the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.
