AMUSING FARCE TO BE PRESENTED

Comedy Club of Plainfield Has Selected Unusually Funny
Play This Year.

HAS SCORED BIG HIT

"The Arrival of Kitty," Cleyer Three Act Show Has Record of Success for Eight Years—To Be Produced
Under Author's Direction.

Although "The Arrival of Kitty," which will be presented by the Comedy Club of Plainfield at the Plainfield theatre on Thursday and Friday nights of this week, is a new play to local theatre-goers, it is by no means being given a tryout. It is from the pen of Norman Lee Swartout, who is also acting as the coach for the local players, and it has been presented 2,000 times in this country. The play is a screaming three act farce comedy, and it is handled by the most talented group of amateurs that has ever gotten together. The show has a record of eight years on the road, and a single act has played the part of Bobbie Baxter, which will be taken by Brown Rolston in the local production, more than 2,000 times. The show is soon to be produced in England, and is being translated into German by Herr Kersara, the best known woman impersonator in that country.

The show, which is being produced for the first time by amateurs, has received splendid criticisms by the nation's leading newspapers. The New York World said of its first performance, "The large audience at the West End theatre was kept constantly in laughter by 'The Arrival of Kitty.'"

Another newspaper which printed commendatory articles about the play was the Rochester Times Democrat, which said: "The play is a very clever and swiftly moving farce—it is all as light as air. The lines are very bright and the quips well turned." The Toledo Blade says the show is funnier than "Charles's Aunt," and that it goes with a snap and vim that ought to attract big crowds.

The Boston Globe describes it as "Sparkling with a breezy, wholesome comedy vein and teeming with unique situations." While the show is said to have "played a return engagement at the Academy last night, it is just as bright and snappy as ever, its humor is just as infectious and everything goes with the same swing and verve," in the Philadelphia Star.

Two of the leading parts are taken by Mr. and Mrs. Alston Abbott, both of whom have delighted Plainfield audiences in "His Lord and Master" of 1913, "The Henrietta" of 1912, and "Trelawney of the Wells," of 1911. Mr. Abbott plays the part of a sporty uncle of Jane and friend of the musical comedy star, Kitty (Miss Elizabeth McGee). Mrs. Abbott in the play is irresistibly funny, as his sister-in-law, who offers him ten thousand dollars to get her married off.

COLLECT $50 IN FINES FROM AUTOISTS

Violators of State Law Arraigned Before City Judge DeMeza Today.

Fines aggregating $50 were imposed by City Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on six defendants charged with violating the State automobile laws, Sunday afternoon, April 19, when they were caught in a "drag-net" laid by Inspectors Shedd and Shinn near the Netherwood station. Leniency was shown by the court in each of the half dozen cases because of the fact that none were found to be flagrant. Carelessness in taking out licenses and vastly divergent ideas of speed were put up as a defense by the various offenders and all were shown clemency on their first appearance.

The drivers were apprehended here on April 19 by Patrolmen Kelley, Welsh, Flatley and McGinley and ordered to appear for hearing today. Seven were arrested but one failed to appear this morning and he will be brought to court tomorrow morning. The seventh offender is W. T. Powell, of Short Hills. In disposing of the cases Judge DeMeza reprimanded all of the offenders and told them that a second appearance would result in a much heavier fine and possible imprisonment. Inspector Shedd was in court this morning as complainant against the prisoners.

The following sentences were imposed: Ralph Snyder, driving automobile without a license, $5; R. A. Young, driving auto without a license, $5; Charles Humphries, driving auto without a license, $5; Otto Holmes, driving auto without a license, $5; Charles Dzeiksan, exceeding speed limit, $10; Vincent Terry and Leslie Lambert, exceeding speed limit on motorcycles, $10 each.

MUTINOUS OUTBREAK IN THE COUNTY JAIL

Prisoners Protest Against Food Being Given Them
by the Warden.

Bedlam reigned in the prisoners' quarters in the Union county jail shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, shrieks and protests being lodged by the inmates against the food being given them. When the usual supply of rations was dealt out this morning the prisoners refused to touch it, claiming the bread was sour and the liquid food was not what it ought to be. The cries of the enraged prisoners attracted much attention from the residents in Union street, which adjoins the jail yard, and a crowd soon gathered outside the prison expecting an attempt to break jail by the inmates.

Order was soon established by the wardens, however, and an investigation on the part of the jail committee of the Board of Freeholders followed. During the time the fracas lasted the prisoners aroused the neighborhood by their protests but made no attempt to get away. The principal complaint appeared to be against the bread, which the inmates say has been sour for some weeks past.

During the last month many individual complaints have been filed by prisoners but the action on the part of the combined forces this morning was wholly unlooked for. The warden in the jail claims that the charges are groundless and that the inmates are receiving good, substantial food three times a day. The investigating committee returned a similar verdict this morning. The county provides forty-two cents a day for the maintenance of each prisoner in the institution and with this amount the jail authorities are supposed to provide adequate sustenance. A newspaper man who tasted the food this morning said that the part he was given was faultless.

BORO ENGAGES NEW PRINCIPAL

J. Frederick Aungst to Supervise North Plainfield Public Schools.

SUCCEEDS A. B. VOSSLER

New Appointee Comes From Hamburg, This State, and Has Had a Wide Experience—Pupils to Have Chance to Attend Charity Circus.

J. Frederick Aungst, of Hamburg, this State, was appointed supervising principal of the North Plainfield public schools, at a meeting of the Board of Education, last night. He will succeed A. B. Vossler, who will retire at the end of the school term after a service of two years in that capacity. The board announced that the selection of Mr. Aungst was made after careful consideration and a thorough investigation. Mr. Aungst has been holding a similar position at Hamburg. There were a large number of applications for the position.

Mr. Vossler recently announced that he would not be a candidate for re-appointment for another year. This action led to the rumor that he had had trouble with the corps of teachers in the borough schools, but no confirmation of this was to be had at the meeting of the board, last night. According to information obtained at the meeting last night Mr. Aungst has had an extensive experience in teaching school as well as supervision and the board expressed its gratification in being able to secure his services.

The board decided that in view of the fact that the circus to be given here on Monday is for the Open-Air School of Plainfield, but one session of the schools will be held so that the children who desire can attend the circus. The session as planned for the regular two session classes will be from 8:30 to 12:30, thus giving the pupils plenty of time to see the street parade as well as attend the matinee performance.

The other business of the evening was chiefly of a routine nature, there being an informal consideration of plans looking toward commencement to be held in June. There was also further discussion regarding proposed improvements to be made at the schools for the coming year. This work will be done during the summer months.

BOARD OF EDUCATION AWARD COAL CONTRACTS

The Board of Education at its meeting last night, awarded the contracts for supplying coal to the schools of the city to Wadley & Goodenough. The Consumers Coal Co. and the Bolce, Runyon Co., all of Plainfield.

Wadley & Goodenough will supply the pea and stove sizes, the Consumers Co. got the contract for the buckwheat coal, and Bolce, Runyon Co. will furnish the egg coal used. Between $2,500 and $3,000 is involved in these contracts.

BOARDS OF TRADE ARE AGITATING TROLLEY EXTENSION

Representatives of the Boards of Trade of this city and South Plainfield met at the office of Lamar Van Syckle, on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, and arranged the details for their appearance before the Public Utilities Commission at Newark on Thursday. The question of the South Plainfield trolley line is to come before the Commission at that time for discussion.

The local representatives hope to be able to secure an extension of the trolley to South Plainfield, by presenting a weight of evidence before the Utilities Commission.

"DAVID COPPERFIELD."

Another treat is promised lovers of the best in motion pictures, when Dicken's "David Copperfield" will be shown at the Y. M. C. A., Friday and Saturday of this week. This great picture succeeded "Les Miserables," at Carnegie Lyceum, New York, where it is now being shown. It ranks high among the masterpieces of animated photography. It was made entirely in England and therefore visualizes not only the immortal characters of Dicken's great story, but also the quaint old English surroundings in which the story is set.

PLANNING TO RESUME HIGH SCHOOL WORK

Final Arrangements to Be Made at a Special Meeting of Board of Education.

Prospects for an early resumption of work on the High School addition looked bright last night, when the committee of local creditors of the P. J. Exner Company, the former contractor, attended a meeting of the Board of Education and the whole situation was thoroughly discussed. It is reported on good authority that work will be resumed next week and pushed forward rapidly until completion. Three local builders of responsibility have indicated a desire to bid on the unfinished work on the building and the board will hold a special meeting next Friday night to receive their proposals.

In the meantime the legal aspects of the situation will be passed on by Judge Gilbert Collins, the counsel for the board, and matters pushed to a speedy settlement with the former contractor and the bonding company which guaranteed his contracts.

While protesting its legal and financial rights fully, the board has striven for the past two weeks to so arrange matters that the local creditors should receive fair treatment from the Exner Company claimants when the balance due on the completion of the building is distributed among them; and its action will undoubtedly result in much better terms for those who have put their labor and materials into the building than would have been the case if no opportunity had been afforded the creditors to learn the full facts of the situation and organize for their own protection.

SERVANTS THOUGHT THEY HEARD STRANGE NOISES

Servants in charge of F. O. Herring's home, 811 Third place, notified William F. Arnold, a neighbor, of an early hour this morning, that someone was prowling about the first floor of the house. Mr. Arnold notified the police department and an investigation followed, but no trace of the intruder could be found.

QUESTION OF ALIMONY HELD UP

Special Master Instructed to Complete Inquiry in Hood Case.

DECISION ON JUNE 15

Permanent Allowance for Mrs. Hood Not to Be Made Until Property Matter is Settled on Appeal—Lively Argument of Counsel.

Newark, April 28.—The question of temporary alimony and counsel fees in connection with the divorce proceedings of Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood against Richard Haden Hood, was up on notice before Vice Chancellor Stevens here, today. It was shown that former Judge Clark McK. Whittemore, who as special master, appointed to inquire into the financial standing of Mr. Hood, had not completed his work, although his report to date comprises more than one thousand pages, and following an argument, the Vice Chancellor directed Mr. Whittemore to proceed with his work and requested him as well as counsel in the case to have the whole matter before him on June 15.

Chauncey G. Parker, of counsel for Mr. Hood, by his remarks cast some doubt on the efficacy of Mr. Whittemore's report now, since the divorce decree was granted on March 4 last. He said that Mr. Hood admitted being worth $85,000, and his counsel suggested $25 a week as a fair compensation as temporary alimony.

R. H. McCarter, of counsel for Mrs. Hood, said that Mr. Hood was reputed to be worth between $300,000 and $400,000, and he thought the allowance of alimony should be commensurate with the station of the couple.

The question of permanent alimony will not be decided by the Vice Chancellor until a decision in the property matter is reached. Mrs. Hood was given the residential property on Stelle avenue, by the court, but an appeal has been taken and until that is determined the question of permanent alimony will be held up by the Vice Chancellor.

COUNCILMAN STAHL SEEKS RECRUITS FOR MEXICAN WAR

Julius Stahl, of Somerset street, the borough, threw a scare into several of the borough male inhabitants of that "burg" within the course of the past few days by inviting them to enlist as marines for service in the Mexican War. Many were invited, but few responded. Mr. Stahl, however, secured a number of names of those who are interested. The present indications, however, seem to relieve the boroughites of any immediate worry.

HUERTA ACCEPTS MEDIATION; SEES HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Fighting Stopped Pending Discussion of Terms—Americans Reported Safe Throughout All Mexico—Border Fight Over Powder House.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, April 28 (Central News Dispatch).—General Huerta accepts in principle the offer of mediation. He thanks the Spanish ambassador for his service in the negotiations. He voices his appreciation of the good offices of the representatives in Washington of Brazil, Argentina and Chile and accepts them as a demonstration of the solidarity of the Spanish American peoples of the Western Hemisphere.

Washington, April 28.—General Huerta has seen the handwriting on the wall.

This is the belief of those who are of the optimistic clan in the Mexican crisis, but many officials here are skeptical that the dictator's acceptance of mediation is anything more than a subterfuge to get in time. Over night there has been a setting in of belief that the wily Huerta is preparing to tangle up the whole situation in clever and ingenious diplomatic red tape. He did it before, until the snarl was cut by President Wilson's sharp demand for a "yes or no" reply to this government's demands.

This promised to be a day of conferences and deliberations. The Brazilian ambassador, with the ministers from Argentina and Chile, were expected early at the State Department. Senor Don D. Riano, the Spanish ambassador, who is looking out for Huerta's interests, also was looked to later in the day to bring important dispatches from Mexico City. Secretary Bryan appeared happier than he has been in weeks. The White House alone showed only a mild interest in the matter, apparently waiting until the sincerity of Huerta's eleventh hour decision was established by the diplomats. Brig. General Frederick Funston and his force of 4,000 troops will be landed today at Vera Cruz. It was announced at the War Department. The troop transports arrived off Vera Cruz last night, but did not land until this morning for reasons best known to General Funston. It is believed he did not care to essay a landing in the gathering darkness and, besides, it is possible that accommodations ashore had not been completely prepared for him.

"We are not hampering General Funston with orders," said Secretary Garrison. "There was no necessity for a hurried landing, and undoubtedly Funston was guided by his knowledge of conditions." The Navy Department has taken on an air of complacent calm in marked contrast to its feverish activity of the past ten days. All the ships of the fleet are concentrated off the Mexican coast or are under orders to proceed there, and nothing remains to be done except to keep moving carefully organized commissariat. Indeed, as Rear Admiral Badger reported from Vera Cruz, "The navy's work is nearly done, and well done."

Interest naturally centers in the work the diplomats are now about to undertake. Foreign representatives here, while non-committal are known to look upon the negotiations as foredoomed to failure. Huerta's announcement that he under no circumstances would he relinquish power, it is pointed out, knocks the props from under any mediation that can be attempted, for this is President Wilson's chief demand.

There are many women and children among the prisoners, and they have been huddled together in the jail with nothing to sleep on except the hard flags and entirely without sanitary provisions. The food, too, has been scarce and not of a good quality. Drunken jailers have not hesitated to insult the women, and the lives of all have been in danger constantly.

Vera Cruz, April 28.—If General Maas keeps his promise, the American and other foreign refugees held prisoners at Cordoba will be released today.

There are many women and children among the prisoners, and they have been huddled together in the jail with nothing to sleep on except the hard flags and entirely without sanitary provisions. The food, too, has been scarce and not of a good quality. Drunken jailers have not hesitated to insult the women, and the lives of all have been in danger constantly.

Vera Cruz, April 28.—It was reported General Maas and his men are retreating from Soledad, where they stopped after evacuating Vera Cruz. Mexicans entering this city today said Maas is tearing up the railroad tracks and intends to destroy bridges as he retreats. Naval aviators will be sent up today to make a reconnaissance in that direction.

Vera Cruz, April 28.—A court composed of United States army and navy officers today began the disposition of about 5,000 cases, the men having been held prisoners by the Mexican Federals, and having been found in the dungeons of San Juan de Ulua.

Many of the men found in cells had been there for long periods, and some were thought dead by relatives in Vera Cruz. Many had been imprisoned without trial, and hundreds are charged with political offences.

Prisoners already released were Fernando Iglesia Calderon, formerly of Monterey, a Liberal leader; Julia Hernandez Serrano, Herberto Casas, Alejandro Avila, Lieutenant Branja, Mario Olivares, and Jose Vasquez Olivares.

Colonel Aurelio Vigil, commander of the prison, voluntarily released the men, following an inspection of the place by the American officers. After the release of these men, the Mexican standard was drawn down, and the Stars and Stripes unfurled over the military prison and fort. Colonel Vigil surrendered his sword.

San Juan de Ulua was built in 1528 by the Spaniards. The foundations, sunk into the sea cost $4,000,000. The entire cost of the castle was $400,000,000.

Washington, April 28.—The entire Atlantic fleet will be sent through (Continued on page 4.)

Behold! "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" is in our midst—at least it will be a hard job for any person to convince the local freight agent, S. C. Seals, that he is not, Mr. Seals purchased a rosebush over the counter of one of the large and reliable New York seed houses last summer, brought it home and planted it in front of his residence on Front street. And, lo and behold! this very same bush, which still resembles what it was purchased for, has burst forth with cherry blossoms.

A typical New York newsboy dropped off the 1:14 train yesterday afternoon with an arm full of New York newspapers and aggressively wended his way through the principal streets of the borough crying "War Wuxtra! All about the burning of the American flag by the Mexicans." He quickly dispensed with all of his papers at three cents a piece, as against one cent, the regular price for the paper, and left the borough by the back-door route. It is safe to assume that the fellow will not venture within the borough limits again to dispose of his papers as the article which he was featuring contained no more than three inches of solid reading matter.

Company M, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., of Somerville, held an interesting smoker in its armory last night, in commemoration of the sixteenth anniversary of the call to arms for the Spanish-American war of 1898. The exercises followed the regular weekly drill. Incidentally, it was mentioned that the exercises also commemorated the birthday of General Ulysses S. Grant.

The exercises also were in the nature of a farewell reception to Captain Albert E. Case, who recently resigned as commander of the company, after a service of six years as its head, although he had for fourteen years been a member of the company. His resignation as captain has as yet not been accepted, but it is thought that he will receive his release in a few days, and in the meantime First Lieutenant Andrew G. Kohler is in command of the company.

Lieutenant Kohler presided at the exercises which followed the drill, and addresses were delivered by Captain Case, who spoke at some length of his connection with the company; Second Lieutenant Herbert L. Davis, Captain S. F. D. Meffly, of Company M, Second Ohio Infantry; S. A. Holmstrout, formerly of the Connecticut Coast Artillery, and a member of the Danish regular army, and now a generalissimo in the Ancient International Guard, and now a resident of Somerville, former Sergeant Roy Houston, representing the Spanish-American war veterans, now a resident of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; William S. Woodruff and others, of Somerville.

An abundance of refreshments were served, and a general social time followed. The company is now recruiting a number of new members in anticipation of being called out for active service in the Mexico war, and a number of the Spanish-American war veterans have also expressed

SLIDES DOWN POLE WHILE BALANCED ON HIS HEAD

So much has been said about the local features in the circus which is to be given next Monday for the benefit of the Open-Air School, that the professional end has been somewhat neglected. The committee in charge of the affair have arranged with the Frank A. Robbins Shows, one of the best known tented organizations in the country, with a thirty-four years' record, to furnish the performance, and the acts which they will provide are all of the highest class. The feature this year is a slide for life by The Great Charbino, who balances on top of his head and slides down a long pole from the top of the tent to the ground. The act is an entirely new one to the Robbins show, and has never before been seen with a circus in this country. The act has been secured at great expense by Mr. Robbins, but is only one of many unusual things which will be seen with the circus when it comes here. The show has been greatly enlarged and improved this year. The parade, which takes place every morning at 10 o'clock, has many new features, the menagerie has been nearly doubled in size, and the program of acts provided by a big group of stars of the circus keeps the audience interested for a straight two hours. Prior to both the afternoon and evening performances there will be concerts by the Robbins Concert Band. Reserved seat tickets for the performance are on sale at the Daily Press office, and there has been a lively demand for them, but there are many good seats left for both afternoon and evening performances.

BARONESS VON TURK-ROHN TO GIVE POPULAR PROGRAM

Baroness Olga von Turk-Rohn, the world's famous soprano, "Europe's greatest songbird," will give a joint recital in Columbus Hall tomorrow evening with Professor Hermann Spielter, the noted composer and piano soloist. The Baroness and Professor Spielter will appear in the Somerville Theatre this evening, prior to their appearance here. After their Plainfield engagement they give concerts in Montclair, Elizabeth, Newark, Princeton, Red Bank, Morristown, Trenton and Carnegie Hall, New York, which closes their engagement for the season. The Baroness sails for Germany in June where she gives three concerts, returning in the month of August, when she will fill the following engagements which are now booked. Newport, Marthas Vineyard, Asbury Park, Atlantic City and other coast resorts, and will then make a tour of the United States and Canada beginning next fall.

Some surprise has been expressed regarding this eminent artist's plan to abandon even but temporarily, the operatic stage for the concert platform. The Baroness is not a stranger to concert audiences, she having given any number of recitals in the royal castles and palaces of the Old World, in fact, before every crowned head of Europe. One of her engagements when she appears in Germany this summer is at the Imperial palace at Wilhelmshe. The many press tributes that she has received and favors bestowed upon her by the royalty of Europe speak eloquently of the esteem in which she is held abroad. The beauty of her voice has been compared to that of Patti and Melba, and we wonder if her appearance in Somerville this evening is not to compare her voice with that of one of their local artists, who is now singing in Grand Opera, and where the audience would naturally be prejudiced in favor of the local idol, if public opinion there would be in favor of the Baroness it certainly will be a great victory for her.

ESTABLISH A POLICY.

Members of the City Council have a splendid chance to commit themselves definitely on the liquor question, in the ordinance which has been introduced by Councilman Calkins. Any one who says that he believes in the city's excellent policy of regulation and then votes against the Calkins' measure brands himself as insincere, by showing that he is against a clear definition of the entire question, as provided in the proposed ordinance.

The principal protests against any extension of the number of licenses in Plainfield during the past two years have come from the Federation of Men's Clubs, representing the various churches of the city. That federation numbers among its membership hundreds who do not believe in prohibition, and who think that the Plainfield system of regulating the liquor traffic is as near perfect as it is possible to have such regulation. Probably a large majority of these men have little or no use for liquor, but they recognize that it is impossible to stamp out the traffic entirely, and that strict regulation is the next alternative. That we have in the city of Plainfield now, but with the natural growth, there is sure to be a demand for more licensed places.

It is to provide for this growth, and yet to keep the number of new licenses down that Mr. Calkins has introduced his measure. It cannot be defined as anything but a temperance move. Any one knowing Mr. Calkins knows that he would not be identified with any legislation which is not meritorious.

It seems to us that a good plan might be for the executive committee of the Federation of Men's Clubs to hold a meeting, and have Mr. Calkins and perhaps some of the other councilmen speak to them about the proposed ordinance. It is our belief that when the men in this organization realize just what the measure means, they will give it their undivided support, and they have influence enough to have it passed. If they become convinced that it is really a temperance measure, as its introducer believes, the only opposition that will be left will be that of the liquor interests. They, perhaps, would prefer to leave the matter open, hoping some day to get six votes for more licenses, thus breaking up time-honored custom in Plainfield, and perhaps throwing down the bars to such an extent that several new places will be permitted to open. And this is not so impossible, either, for we understand that twice in two years the liquor interests have had five votes in a Council conference, so our splendid temperance policy is by no means free from danger, even now.

Even if the Federation of Men's Clubs does not see fit to take up the matter with Mr. Calkins, the City Council members have an excellent opportunity to show whether or not they are at heart in favor of the present splendid Plainfield policy, which for the sake of the fair name and reputation which this city enjoys, should be permanently maintained.

LONG WINDED PHONE USERS.

Telephone manners are sometimes not all they should be. People who would not think of being impolite, and who never get impatient when talking face to face with others, sometimes display rudeness over the phone, which would not be the case if they gave a second thought to what they were saying. People on party wires have a habit of calling up friends elsewhere, and carrying on conversations which last anywhere from five minutes to three-quarters of an hour, and during which they ignore the rights of others who may be unfortunate enough to be on the same party wire. This latter, is probably the rudest thing of all, and is often the result of thoughtlessness and nothing else. There have been cases in Plainfield, we are told, where some people have been so longwinded in their conversations that others on the wire have had to ask the telephone company to put them on another wire.

Up in Massachusetts the Public Service Commission has received so many complaints from telephone users about the "friendly visits" which are paid via the telephone, that the Commission has asked the phone company to admonish its patrons. If this fails, it is said that the commission will put regulations into force which will prevent long drawn out conversations. The trouble seems to be that no one likes to offend another by ringing off. If two persons are face to face they have their say, and then stop the conversation, but everyone seems to be afraid of offending the person on the other end of the line by shutting off a phone conversation. The wire is kept busy hundreds of times daily by persons who really have finished saying all they had to say, just because they do not wish to be impolite.

The proverbial clam has nothing on "our Jim" so far as silence is concerned when he is tackled on the postoffice question.

WAR NEWS

the Panama Canal should the Mexican situation warrant the removal of the ships from this coast. The purpose is believed to be to assemble the entire naval strength of the United States on the Pacific to test the usefulness of the canal, and also to demonstrate to Japan how formidable our navy is. Colonel Goethals says they can go through by May 1 and that all ships can go through by July 1.

Washington, April 23.—The Federal and the Constitutionalist are still fighting at Tampico, Admiral Mayo cabled the Navy Department today. The Federal forces are using every effort to persuade the rebels to join them against the United States, but without success.

Major Clarke, in command of the marines on the British ship Hermione, has gone to Orangeville, forty miles inland, to rescue eight Americans stranded there.

Washington, April 23.—Secretary Daniels explained today that the naval forces of the United States have been withdrawn from Tampico because persons intimately in touch with the situation told Admiral Mayo that the safety of foreigners depended on the fleet lying well away from the town. The Mexicans think that war is in progress and were trying to get rebels and federals together.

Vera Cruz, April 23.—It is expected that General Funston will land the 4,000 troops he brought with him and which are now on the vessels in the harbor, today.

The entire land force will come under the command of General Funston. The blue-jackets will return to their ships, but it is likely that the marines will remain ashore at least for some time yet. With his own forces, this will give General Funston about 7,000 men.

Paris, April 23 (Central News Cable).—Ex-President Reyes, of Colombia, who is in Paris, informed the correspondent of the Central News today that he had despatched telegrams to President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and Provisional President Huerta, of Mexico, suggesting the advisability of their using the undoubtedly powerful moral authority of ex-President Porfirio Diaz in the task of reaching an amicable solution of the Mexican embroglio.

The Brazilian minister says that all Americans in Mexico City are being treated with consideration, none are in danger, and only one has been arrested and that was the result of a judicial proceeding.

Consul Canada at Vera Cruz says the Americans are being treated O. K. at Cordoba. The American women are quartered in the hotel, and the men in the Commandancia.

London, April 23.—Foreign Secretary Grey said today in the House of Commons, in reply to a question: "The Mexican situation is giving the British government great concern, owing to Great Britain's enormous commercial interests in Mexico. This government will encourage any proposal to mediate the difficulty between the United States and Mexico."

New York, April 23.—The report that there would be mediation with Huerta did not in the least check operations at the Brooklyn navy yard. The gunboats Maclachlan, Marlette and Isla de Luzon were placed in commission. Finishing touches were put on the cruiser Washington, and she will probably sail this morning.

Work on the Texas and the Wyoming is being pushed with all speed. They will be ready to leave the yard by May 11 at the latest, and it is thought that the Wyoming will be ready by May 7.

The steamship Washingtonian is loading supplies for the fleet. The armored cruiser Tennessee, now at Philadelphia, is expected to Brooklyn today, and the Tonopah, a monitor and tender for submarines, is expected from Norfolk.

The commandant has been in constant communication with the New York between here and Newport and, so far as is reported, she made the trip all right.

It is intended to hold drills each day in Prospect Park, at which the sailors and marines from the vessels will manoeuvre.

PRESIDENT CONFERS ON STRIKE SITUATION

Seven Guards Killed Today in Fight Among Colorado Miners.

Washington, April 23.—Just before the cabinet met today President Wilson had a lengthy conference on the Colorado strike situation, with Secretary Garrison and Chairman Foster, of the House mines and mining committee. No decision on sending Federal troops into the disturbed district was reached. Mr. Foster related to the President the flat refusal of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whom he appealed to in New York yesterday, to interfere with the campaign against the striking miners being undertaken by the managers of his mining property.

The Colorado delegation in the House and Senate will stick to their original proposition that the only way to quell disturbances in the mine regions in Colorado is to send Federal troops there.

Denver, Colo., April 23.—Fighting resumed in Walsenburg at McNally mine, captured by strikers, and at Watson mine this morning. Sheriff Farr says seven mine guards were killed according to the guard captain. Fifty militiamen arrived at Walsenburg early from Ludlow but are outnumbered ten to one. Sheriff fears for their safety. At Louisville, 20 miles north of Denver, according to phone from the District Attorney, streets are filled with a mob of miners, who are shooting in every direction. Operators have machine guns in hills nearby but fear shooting into the city unless non-combatants be killed. Attack is directed against Hecla mine.

Riots and battles between strikers, mine guards, strike breakers and with the Colorado State militia, blazed forth early today all through the coal fields in the southern part of the State.

All during the night there was desultory firing on the part of the strikers, and at dawn, the guards started their daily clean up to dislodge the "shiners" from the hillsides and tent cities about the various camps.

In a number of cases telegraph and telephone wires between the small coal camps, and the larger communities were cut sometime during the night, and details of proceedings cannot be obtained. It is not known if the wires were cut by order of the mining companies, to prevent news of the battle reaching the outside world, or if strikers were responsible in an attempt to prevent the mine guards from getting outside help.

Sheriff Farr, of Huertano county, reported four men had been killed near the Walsen mine. It was reported Louisville was on fire.

Several breeds of dogs never before shown in California are included among the exhibits. The show will continue three days.

MONEY INVESTED

Fred Stern Institutes Proceedings Against the Vitaphone Company.

Newark, April 28—Fred Stern, of 193 Grand street, Newburg, N. Y., president of the Newburg Chamber of Commerce, has brought suit against the Vitaphone Company, a Delaware corporation, with a factory in Plainfield, in which he seeks to recover money invested in the stock of the company.

In the suit which is brought in the Supreme Court, through his counsel, Jacob L. Newman, Mr. Stern sets forth that the company "invaded" Newburg, selling stock giving the impression that it intended to build a factory at that place to build cabinets for its machines. The motors and metal parts being made in Plainfield it was planned, it is alleged, to ship the parts to Newburg to mount on the cabinets.

The complainant, according to the papers in the suit, states that he purchased fifty shares of stock for $500 receiving twenty shares as bonus. The company did not locate at Newburg, hence the suit to recover money invested.

The defense of the company, which is represented by William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, is said to be that the people of Newburg did not support the proposition as expected and that it was not warranted in erecting a factory in that city.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

Announcement of Fred Ritter's death comes as a shock to the many friends he made among local baseball fans while performing in Queen City regatta. When last seen in this city he was the picture of health and was an object of considerable admiration in a baseball uniform because of his Herculean frame. As a twirler he had few equals in semi-professional baseball prior to his mishap in the Baltimore park in the spring of last year and all who saw him, hailed him as a twirler of great promise. Ritter was twenty-two years of age and started his career as a pitcher while a member of the Stuyvesant High School aggregation. Ritter's promising career has been flung in the bud and the youngster has passed away while in the prime of youth.

According to a Plainfield High School news correspondent "The girls of the P. H. S. basketball team will hold a reception next Saturday night and each member of the squad will be invited to bring two gentlemen admirers of the sport." Those feminine athletes will have to do some tall figuring to keep the surplus of male talent busy during the evening. We wonder how there're going to make things break even.

Jupiter Pluvius mediated with the baseball managers yesterday and as a result the Plainfield High School ball chasers took up the sport where it was suddenly curtailed Saturday afternoon. The scholastic diamond season is all too short to be interrupted by the rain god and unless he keeps hidden in his berth behind the clouds some serious trouble is pretty likely to result. Now's the time to stage the scholastic battles, why not take advantage of the good weather conditions?

Plainfield has a number of expert canoe paddlers enrolled for its midst and these water sports should come to the fore now that an opportunity has opened up in this branch of sport. The New Jersey canoe championships give promise of setting a precedent in this popular summer pastime and it might be appropriate for Plainfield to break into the list of "among those present." Several local paddle wielders have captured prizes at summer resorts in other years and the State title regatta should be tempting to these athletes.

Hats off to New Brunswick High School cinder path representatives. The athletes from the little town by the old Rar-tan showed up strongly in the Penn Relay carnival Saturday afternoon and brought some country wide prominence to their alma mater. Taking first place from the Ocean City, Camden and Philadelphia School of Trades High Schools, was no sinecure, but the Brunswick fliers came out with colors flying. No wonder our Plainfield High School track team is steering clear of this bunch of huskies from Middlesex. We would like nothing better than to see them in action on Parker Field, however, and it would probably not be hard to induce them to show themselves in the wilds of the Queen City some Saturday afternoon.

Mordecai Brown, better known as "Three Fingers" Brown, often attributed his wonderful curves to his lack of digits. The latest pitcher for whom a physical peculiarity is said to work wonders is Burr, the young recruit of the Yankees. According to Charlie Barrett, the former Detroit player, Burr throws a natural curve on account of a bend in his right arm. This bend is not the result of a break, but simply due to the fact that the young man's arm chooses to grow in a curve rather than in a straight line. The drop, which, it is said, most pitchers find difficulty in throwing, is declared to be easy for Burr. His team mates have christened him "The man with the bowlegged arm."

The fact that the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basketball team was one of the three aggregations able to defeat the Deaf Mute College team of Trenton, during the past season reflects with credit on the work of the local Association five. The schedule of the silent workers was an unusually formidable one and they may well be heralded as a set of the speediest basketball players in the State.

TWO BIG ROUNDS WON THE GAME

North Plainfield High School Pitcher Weakens and Relief Comes Too Late.

GAME WAS A SWATFEST

Both Combatants do Some Hard Slugging—Stahl Sent to the Rescue All Too Late to Stem the Tide of Defeat—Denny not in Best Form.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team met a bunch of hard sluggers yesterday afternoon, when the Rutgers Prep nine appeared on Hyde Oval. They went home with the long end of a 10 to 3 score. The team could both hit and field and after the first inning they had things their own way up to the finish. The game was fast in every respect, the locals being guilty of only four errors and the visitors of but two. Denny started for the boroughites and went six periods before he was benched by Captain Smalley. The "Canadians" had a change in their lineup, Burner on first, Dilts playing short and VanMater behind second base.

Denny started off well and blanked the invaders in the opener while the locals scored once in their half of this inning. The opposing pitcher was wild at the start and pitched ten balls to the first three batters before he managed to put one over the center. The "Prep" boys tied the score in the second and both teams were goose-egged in the third. The fourth proved to be an unlucky inning for the borough team and with one error and three hits their opponents scored four times. Nothing more happened until the sixth came around and then the home team took on a balloon ascension. Six hits in a row, one of which was a double, went all over the field and this time there were five runs to the visitors' credit. The local boys were blanked for five straight innings and in the sixth they came across with a pair on two hits and a stolen base.

When the seventh inning started Stahl was in the box for the boys across the brook and he had all the stuff that a pitcher needs. Steam and perfect control were his standbys and he proved that he could pitch by striking out the first three men to face him. Only one hit was made off his delivery and that was a single in the ninth. The locals had a fine chance to score in the seventh, but McGovern's fine catch and double play retired them. After the first inning Landsburg twirled invincible ball and had his opponents swinging in all directions. He was also given great support by his teammates. McGovern and Hasbrouck each pounded out three hits for the Rutgers team, while Smalley did the best batting for the locals, getting a single and a double.

EARLY LEAD NO HELP TO RIVAL

Plainfield High School Twirler Steadies Down After First Round and Wins.

HITTING A FEATURE

Both Teams Clouted the Ball Hard During the Nine Innings—Local Team's Fielding a Revelation—Roselle Poor on Fielding.

The Plainfield High School baseball team broke its losing streak yesterday afternoon by defeating Roselle High School by the score of 7 to 5. Neither team played a very fast game of baseball, although Plainfield only made two errors, while the Roselle boys had eight scored up against them. The hits were plentiful, Roselle getting ten, including a three bagger by H. Davis and a two-base clout by Ostrander. Plainfield clouted out nine hits, one of which was a two bagger by Apgar. There were few sensational plays, although VanDeventer came across with a pretty one-hand stop in left field.

Plainfield was given a big scare in the first inning before Smnick had struck his stride, when Roselle had three runners cross the plate. Simpson, the first man, walked, and Chynowith struck out. Simpson then went to third on G. Davies single. H. Davis singled, scored Simpson and G. Davies. G. Benedict hit to Smnick who knocked the ball down, but Benedict reached first and H. Davies scored. Wheeler singled, but H. Davies was caught at the plate. W. Benedict hit between first and second and Meyer singled to left field scoring G. Benedict. Ostrander then ended the rally by flying out to Victorson. In the second inning Smnick struck his stride and Roselle never became dangerous during the rest of the game, but they scored a run in the third and seventh innings.

Plainfield scored in the first, second, fourth and sixth innings, but their big inning was the sixth, when they scored four runs. VanDeventer, the first man up, hit a long fly to center field which Meyer muffed. He stole second and scored on Rosen-son's single. Butler flied out to left field. Victorson reached first base on an error by H. Davies. Rosen-son going to second. Apgar doubled to center field scoring Rosen-son and Victorson. Smnick struck out and Apgar stole third and scored on Dunham's single. Dunham stole second, but O'Leary grounded out. G. Benedict to G. Davies, ending the rally. This ended the scoring for Plainfield, but it had put them in the lead and they had scored enough runs to sew up the game.

TRIPLE TIE FOR TOP RUNG PERCH

Campbell, Stout and Cose Teams Floating Their Colors on First Notch.

Three teams are now tied for the top rung honors in the Elks' Club bowling tournament, Cose, Campbell and Stout being the leaders of the first rung occupants. Campbell and his crew crept into the Hall of Fame, last night, by snatching two out of the three encounters with the Stout array of talent, the first and third issues going to the former combination.

The first game last night resulted in a fifty-five pin verdict for the Campbell men and the rival combination came back with a win by a margin of twelve pins in the midway issue. The rubber contest went to the Campbell contingent with a margin of seventy-five iron men. Campbell hung up the individual high score mark of the evening with a 205 recorded in the second tilt.

YEA BO! THERE'S BEEN AN ERUPTION

Smalley Fires Becker and Becker Says "I'll Hand in My Resignation."

A wordy fracas that for a few minutes resembled a clash on the Mexican border, took place preceding the stretch stanza of the North Plainfield-Rutgers Prep. baseball game on Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon, between Captain Ralph Smalley, of the borough ball nine, and Coach Fred Becker, until yesterday affiliated with the same combination. When young Denny took an aerial ascension near the midway post Smalley dispatched "Germany" Stahl post-haste to the warming up pit.

So wild did Denny become in the sixth cantor that Smalley requested Coach Becker to send the rescue artist to the rifle pit, but Becker pulled off a piece of dramatics at this suggestion in which he intimated that he was "running the team and Smalley (although captain) had nothing to do with the ousting of played-out material." Smalley took this announcement with a grain of salt for the time being, but when Denny got to the stage where he started heaving the globe a mile and a half over the home dock the borough captain came through with a piece of strategy that put a different aspect on the whole encounter.

Smalley hung out the red flag and with proceedings halted he sent the "C. Q. D." signal of distress to Stahl, who by this time had his hook, slant, sinker, bend, twister and roundhouse working in excellent style. The big German's advent on the playing arena caused Becker a little distress and when he announced that he would quit should Smalley send Stahl to the slab the N. P. H. S. catcher retorted "Then quit."

Here ended the tale, for Becker wended his way from the diamond and was lost forever in a few minutes to the cohorts of the red and black.

Becker's retirement left an athletic plum unpicked over in "Canada" and the discovery of one Tommy Mullin lurking around the village loose last night solved the tangle that resulted from the upheaval to the satisfaction of all concerned. Henceforth Mullin will handle the destinies of the boroughites and will direct the pastiming of the North Plainfield High School color-bearers in the shoes vacated by Becker yesterday afternoon.

Smalley's convictions were proven beyond a doubt in the next and succeeding rounds, however, when Stahl stepped to the mound and proceeded to mow down the opposition on strikes. Three men in the seventh fell by the wayside after putting three big dents in the atmosphere and the first man in the eighth repeated the stunt.

GODD CHANCE FOR DENNY.

Daniel Denny, pitcher for the North Plainfield High School baseball team, has a good chance of making the position of mascot of the New York Giants for the coming season. Denny has been to New York several times for interviews with Secretary John B. Foster and Manager McGraw and was in the Polo Grounds, Saturday, and played for some time with the big men. There is only one other person against Denny for the position and it is very likely that the local boy will land the job. He is going to the city for the last time next Saturday and then he will get the final decision.

HIGH BRIDGE TOMORROW.

The borough High School baseball team will go to High Bridge tomorrow afternoon to cross bats with the team of that place. The boroughites are especially anxious to meet this team as it is coached by B. J. Phelps, who was formerly principal of the local school.

cal school. He has put out a good team this year and expects to make his old scholars go the limit. The team will leave on the 2 o'clock train.

LOCAL PILOT WILL ENTER BIG MEETS

"Skipper" Woodhull Expects to Have One of the Fastest Boats at the Lake.

Edson Woodhull, of this city, is making preparations to compete in the weekly motorboat races of the Lake Hopatcong Boat Club during the coming season and will leave shortly for the lake to put his racing boat in condition for the schedule of events. Woodhull is the owner of the "Skipper," a boat that has a reputation as a speeder on the Hopatcong waters and made a formidable showing in racing events last year.

The local pilot expects to install a new engine in the boat this summer and when completed the water steed will be capable of thirty-one knots an hour, according to the owner. Last year the boat cut the water at a clip of twenty-eight knots and the overhauling is expected to add at least three knots to its ability.

Saturday afternoon meets are conducted throughout the summer season by the yacht club of that place and some especially tempting trophies have been offered for the racing during June, July and August. Woodhull anticipates getting into the prize list and will leave several weeks before the season opens in order to have his craft tuned up for the prize tests.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL STILL HOLDING DOWN SIXTH PLACE

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus pinners, are still holding down sixth place in the Knights of Columbus Eastern Championships Tournament now being conducted on Thum's alleys in New York city. With only one more week to go the Castilian team, of New York city, is leading.

None of the local bowlers are among those recorded in the leading list of individual record holders. Star of Bethlehem team, of Newark, has recorded the high team score mark with a 959.

DUNN SIGNS M'AVOY. WILL RELEASE LIDGATE

Manager Johnny Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, has finally succeeded in landing Jim McAvoy, one of the surplus catchers on Connie Mack's string this year, and it is now probable that Eugene Lidgate, the Fanwood boy, will go back to the Raleigh team for further seasoning. Dunn has been dicker for McAvoy's services all spring and made a statement last week to the effect that he intended to let Lidgate go as soon as he found a man with more experience.

In the two games in which Liddy participated last week he did some good backstop work but Dunn harbors the opinion that the Fanwood youth needs further training before breaking into the International League. McAvoy reported to Baltimore yesterday and caught one of the games of a double header.

ROD AND REEL

Willow Brook, in Monmouth county, is a good stream to try for big trout just as soon as the weather settles. This brook is in a sparsely settled section, about two miles from Bradevelt, on the Central Railroad. Brod Brook is another good one in the same direction.

Swimming river and its several tributaries is producing some fine trout fishing for the knowing ones these days. Automobile parties reach the Yellow Brook tributary from Freehold and Colt's Neck, and they report plenty of big fish.

Every line the writer receives about the weakfish brings them closer to New Jersey. They are now being caught south of Hatteras, and would have been further north if the wind hadn't come out of the north-east Saturday morning.

Our man-o-war boys now in Vera Cruz harbor may not find time to do any fishing, but they are just in a spot for pompano and big bullheads. The latter are a specie of catfish that grow to weigh forty and fifty pounds, and when hooked on a bluefish squid, baited with salt pork, they put up a great fight if the angler is in a row-boat. The pompanos are not much for sport, but they are fine eating.

Flounder fishing, wherever it was indulged in, was very good last week, and it will be even better this week, as the weather is sure to become a trifle warmer, although a cold wave is predicted for tomorrow and Thursday. Flounders are now all out of the mud, and as long as the weather is not too warm they will stay with us. Bergen Beach, The Raunt, Goose Creek and Hammels Station in Jamaica Bay were well fished last week and thousands of flat fish were taken.

The salmon is one of the most fastidious fishes concerning its surroundings. That is why there are fewer salmon in the Penobscot every year, despite all that the State and Federal governments have been able to do in the way of artificial propagation.

All species of Pacific salmon have been hatched in the Government plant in East Orland, the latest experiment, now in progress, seeking to introduce the humpback salmon, but up to this time all efforts in that direction have failed. Should the present experiment prove a success, the Penobscot will have plenty of a smaller and rather inferior fish, but the scientists seem unable to arrest the steady diminution of the native species.

The tools for trout fishing are simple and not necessarily expensive, although some spend hundreds of dollars upon their outfit. If one limits his sport to bait fishing he saves considerable expense upon special casting lines, leaders and flies. Indeed, while a casting rod is admirably adapted for bait fishing, one can do very well in the latter line with a cheap rod, which could not possibly be used for fly casting.

Those who, through economy of time and expense, do not wish to go far out on Long Island for trout may visit the stream feeding Kissena Lake, between Jamaica and Flushing. It can be reached by trolley from the city to Jamaica, and then for an additional nickel to Kissena Lake. For the first half mile above the lake the stream winds through a bad marsh and is difficult fishing, but it holds many good trout. Further up it is more easily fished. Last season some eighteen-inch trout, as well as many smaller ones, were taken from that stream.

GAME POSTPONED.

Manager Charles Beckman, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, received word yesterday that the Bernardsville game that was to be played at that place on Thursday would have to be postponed because of confusions of the other man's schedule. The game will be arranged for a later date. This is always a popular trip with the local team as it is always made by stage and a large crowd of rooters generally accompany them.

Two reasons why these shoes are offered for so little: First, they are made up of broken sizes of three different lots of higher priced shoes; second, they are last year's styles, which are so little different from this year's styles as to make them practically no difference at all.

They are all low shoes—pumps, oxfords and strap sandals. They are of patent leather, dull calf, kid, bronze and black satin, with a very few tans and white kids. Heels are mostly Cuban, and a small proportion have the Spanish heel.

Not all sizes in any one kind or style, but all sizes in the entire collection.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse, again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

A DAISY DESIGN FOR BUREAU-SCARF AND PIN-CUSHION.

One should always have a dainty hand-embroidered bureau-scarf with a pin-cushion to match, for the guest-room. This is quite essential, for nothing improves the appearance of a room as dainty, fresh coverings for a bureau.

This daisy design, No. 14603, should be developed in solid work and eyelets in white on a scarf of fine linen or lawn. It is also appropriate for use on a sideboard-scarf of fine, firm, round-thread linen. Mercerized cotton should be used for the embroidery, as it launders much better than silk and does not turn yellow.

The bureau-scarf design is 21 by 42 inches and the width for the pin-cushion-cover is 5 inches in diameter. This simple little design for the pin-cushion-cover may be stamped on linen, to fit the cushion, and finished with a narrow hem, or it may be hemstitched. If a less elaborate design is preferred some of the dots may be easily omitted in the scarf. These, however, should be cut away from the pattern before it is stamped. Guaranteed, hot-iron transfer pattern can be supplied to readers for 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The day of the old fashioned wrapper is long since past; the trim little one-piece house dress has taken its place.

Gingham, percale, madras, cotton voile or crepe are all suitable, as they launder well and always look crisp and neat.

No. 7054 is a design closing on the side-front, with a seven gored skirt and a set-in, full length sleeve, which is also perforated for elbow length. The neck may be finished with a standing or round collar or may be cut square and edged with a band of embroidery, white or colored.

When plain madras is used it is pleasing to have the trimming bands of a contrasting color or a design worked out in cotton braid. This dress requires for size 36 5/8, yards of 36 inch material. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 34 to 44.

Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XII.

Uncle Bart Discourses.

UNCLE BART and Cephas were taking their nooning hour under the Nodhead apple tree as Waitstill passed the joiner's shop and went over the bridge.

"Uncle Bart might somehow guess where I am going," she thought, "but even if he did he would never tell any one."

"Where's Waitstill bound this afternoon, I wonder?" drawled Cephas, rising to his feet and looking after the departing team. "That reminds me I'd better run up to Baxter's and see if anything's wanted before I open the store."

"If it makes any difference," said his father dryly as he filled his pipe, "Patty's over to Mrs. Day's spendin' the afternoon. Don't s'pose you want to call on the pig, do you? He's the only one to home."

Cephas made no remark, but gave his trousers a hitch, picked up a chip, opened his jackknife and, sitting down on the greenward, began idly whittling the bit of wood into shape.

"I kind of wish you'd let me make the new ell two story, father. 'Twouldn't be much work; take it in slack time after layin'."

"Land o' liberty! What do you want to do that for, Cephas? You 'bout pestered the life out of me gittin' me to build the ell in the first place when we didn't need it no more'n a toad does a pocketbook. Then 'nother would do but you must paint it, though I shan't be able to have the main house painted for another year, so the old wine an' the new bottle side by side looks like the old driver an' makes us a laughin' stock to the village, an' now you want to change the thing into a two story! Never heard such a crazy idee in my life."

"I want to settle down," insisted Cephas doggedly.

"Well, settle I'm willin'. I told you that afore you painted the ell. Ain't two rooms, 14 by 14, enough for you to settle down in? If they ain't, I guess your mother'd give you one of the chambers in the main part."

"She would if I married Phoebe Day, but I don't want to marry Phoebe," argued Cephas. "And mother's gone and made a summer kitchen for her self out in the ell a'ready. I bet yer she'll never move out if I should want to move in on a sudden."

"I told you you was takin' that risk when you cut a door through from the main part," said his father gently. "If you hadn't done that your mother would 'a' had to go round outside to git in the ell, and mebbe she'd 'a' stayed to home when it stormed, any how. Now your wife'll have her troopin' in an' out, in an' out, the whole 'durin' time."

"I only cut the door through to please mother, sot she'd favor my gittin' married, but I guess't won't do no good. You see, father, what I was thinkin' of is a girl would mebbe jump at a two story, four roomed ell when she wouldn't look at a smaller place."

"Pends upon whether the girl's the jumpin' kind or not. Hadn't you better git everything fixed up with the one you've picked out afore you take your good savin's and go to buildin' a bigger place for her?"

"I've asked her once a'ready," Cephas allowed with a burning face. "I don't s'pose you know the one I mean?"

"No kind of an idee," responded his father with a quizzical wink that was lost on the young man, as his eyes were fixed upon his whittling. "Does she belong to the village?"

"I ain't goin' to let folks know who I've picked out till I git a little mite forrarder," responded Cephas craftily. "Say, father, it's all right to ask a girl twice, ain't it?"

"Certain it is, my son. I never heard there was any special limit to the number o' times you could ask 'em, and the more power o' sayin' 'No' is like the mercy of the Lord-it endureth forever. You wouldn't consider a widder, Cephas? A widder'd be a good company keeper for your mother."

"I ain't put my good savin's into an ell jest to marry a company keeper for mother," responded Cephas hotly. "I want to be No. 1 with my girl and start right in on trainin' her up to suit me."

"Well, if trainin' 's your object you'd better take my advice an' keep it dark before marriage, Cephas. It's astonishin' how the female sex despises bein' trained. It don't hardly seem to be in their nature to make any changes in 'emselves after they once gets started." "How are you goin' to live with 'em, then?" Cephas inquired, looking up with interest coupled with some incredulity.

"Let them do the trainin'," responded his father, peacefully puffing out the words with his pipe between his lips. "Some of 'em's mild and gentle in discipline, like Parson Boone's wife or Mis' Timothy Grant, and others is strict and firm like your mother and Mis' Abel Day. If you happen to git the first kind, why, do as they tell you, and thank the Lord 'tain't any worse. If you git the second kind jest let 'em put the blinders on you and trot as straight as you know how, without shyn' nor kickin' over the traces, for bolotin', 'cause they've got control o' the bit and 'tain't no use fightin' ag'in their superior strength. So far as you can judge, in the early stages o' the game, my son—which ain't very fur—which kind have you picked out?"

Cephas whittled on for some moments without a word, but finally, with a sigh drawn from the very toes of his boots, he responded gloomily:

"She's awful spunky, the girl is; anybody can see that; but she's a young thing, and I thought her married would kind o' tame her down."

"You can see how much marriage has tamed your mother down," observed Uncle Bart dispassionately. "Howsomever, though your mother can't be called tame, she's got her good points, for she's always to be counted on. The great thing in life, as I take it, Cephas, is to know exactly what to expect. Your mother's gen'ally credited with an onsanter temper, but folks does her great injustice in so thinkin', for in a long experience I've seldom come across a temper less onsanter than four mother's. You know exactly where to find her every mornin' at sunup and every night at sundown. There ain't nothin' you can do to put her out of temper, 'cause she's all out aforehand. You can jest go about your regular business 'bout any fear o' disturbin' her any further than she's disturbed a'ready, which is considerable. I don't mind it a mite nowadays, though, after forty years of it. I would kind o' gill me to keep a stiddy watch of a female's disposition day by day, wonderin' when she was goin' to have a tantrum. A tantrum once a year's an awful upsettin' kind of a thing in a family, my son, but a tantrum every twenty-four hours is jest part of the day's work." There was a moment's silence, during which Uncle Bart puffed his pipe and Cephas whittled, after which the old man continued: "Then if you happen to marry a temper like your mother's, Cephas, look what a pow'ful worker you gen'ally get! Look at the way they sweep an' dust an' scrub an' clean! Watch 'em when they go at the dish washin' an' how they whack the rollin' pin an' maul the eggs an' heave the wood into the stove an' slat the flies out o' the house! The mild and gentle ones like 'er enough will be settin' in the kitchen rocker readin' the almanac when there ain't no wood in the kitchen box, no doughnuts in the crock, no pies on the swing shelf in the cellar an' the young ones goin' round without a second shift to their backs!"

Cephas' mind was far away during this philosophical dissertation on the ways of women. He could see only a sunny head fairly rioting with curls, a pair of eyes that held his like magnets, although they never gave him a glance of love; a smile that lighted the world far better than the sun, a dimple into which his heart felt headlong whenever he looked at it.

"You're right, father; 'tain't no use kickin' ag'in 'em," he said as he rose to his feet preparatory to opening the Baxter store. "When I said that 'bout trainin' up a girl to suit me, I kind o' forgot the one I've picked out. I'm considerin' several, but the one I favor most—well, I believe she'd fire up at the first sight o' trainin', and that's the gospel truth."

"Considerin' several, be you, Cephas?" laughed Uncle Bart. "Well, all I hope is that the one you favor most—the girl you've asked once a'ready—is considerin' you!"

Cephas went to the pump and, wetting a large handkerchief, put it in the crown of his straw hat and sauntered out into the burning heat of the open road between his father's shop and Deacon Baxter's store.

"I shan't ask her the next time till this hot spell's over," he thought, "and I won't do it in that dogged old store again, neither. I ain't so tongue tied outdoors, an' I kind o' think I'd be more in the spirit of it after sun down some night after supper!"

Waitstill found a cool and shady place in which to hitch the old mare, loosening her checkrein and putting a sprig of asler in her headstall to assist her in brushing off the flies.

One could reach the Boynton house only by going up a long grass grown lane that led from the high road. It was a lonely place and Aaron Boynton had bought it when he moved from Saco simply because he secured it at a remarkable bargain, the owner having lost his wife and gone to live in Massachusetts. Ivory would have sold it long ago had circumstances been different, for it was at too great a distance from the schoolhouse and from Lawyer Wilson's office to be at all convenient, but he dreaded to remove his mother from the environment to which she was accustomed and doubted very much whether she would be able to care for a house to which she had not been wonted before her mind became affected.

Here in this safe, secluded corner, amid family and thoroughly known conditions, she moved placidly about her daily tasks, performing them with the same care and precision that she had used from the beginning of her married life. All the heavy work was done for her by Ivory and Rodman, the boy in particular being the fleetest footed, the most willing and the neatest of helpers; washing dishes, sweeping and dusting, laying the table as deftly and quickly as a girl. Mrs. Boynton made her own simple dresses of gray calico in summer, or dark lacy-woolsey in winter by the same pattern that she had used when the first came to Edgewood; in fact, there were positively no external changes anywhere to be seen, tragic and terrible as had been those that had wrought havoc in her mind.

Waitstill's heart beat faster as she neared the Boynton house. She had never so much as seen Ivory's mother for years. How would she be met? Who would begin the conversation and what direction would it take? What if Mrs. Boynton should refuse to talk to her at all? She walked slowly along the lane until she saw a slender, gray clad figure stooping over a flower bed in front of the cottage. The woman raised her head with a fawn-like gesture that had something in it of timidly rather than fear, picked some loose bits of green from the ground, and, quietly turning her back upon the oncoming stranger, disappeared through the open front door.

There could be no retreat on her own part now, thought Waitstill. She wished for a moment that she had made this first visit under Ivory's protection, but her idea had been to gain Mrs. Boynton's confidence and have a quiet friendly talk, such a one as would be impossible in the presence of a third person. Approaching the steps, she called through the doorway in her clear voice: "Ivory asked me to come and see you one day, Mrs. Boynton. I am Waitstill Baxter, the little girl on Town House hill that you used to know."

Mrs. Boynton came from an inner room and stood on the threshold. The name "Waitstill" had always had a charm for her ears, from the time she first heard it years ago until it fell from Ivory's lips this summer, and again it caught her fancy.

"Waitstill!" she repeated softly. "Waitstill! Does Ivory know you?"

"We've known each other for ever so long—ever since we went to the brick school together when we were boy and girl. And when I was a child my stepmother brought me over here once on an errand, and Ivory showed me a humming bird's nest in that lilac bush by the door."

Mrs. Boynton smiled. "Come and look," she whispered. "There is always a humming bird's nest in our lilac. How did you remember?"

The two women approached the bush, and Mrs. Boynton carefully parted the leaves to show the dainty morsel of a home thatched with soft gray green and lined with down. "The birds have flown now," she said. "They were like little jewels when they darted off in the sunshine."

Her voice was faint and sweet, as if it came from far away, and her eyes looked not as if they were seeing you, but seeing something through you. Her pale hair was turned back from her paler face, where the veins showed like blue rivers, and her smile was like the flitting of a moonbeam. She was standing very close to Waitstill.

"Waitstill! Does Ivory know you?"

closer than she had been to any woman for many years, and she studied her a little, wistfully yet courteously, as if her attention was attracted by something fresh and winning. She looked at the color ebbing and flowing in the girl's cheeks, her brows and lashes, at her neck as white as swansdown.

CHORUS OF SIXTY VOICES IN COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

Sixty members of the North Plainfield High School have been organized into a chorus which will take part in the commencement exercises of the High School in the Plainfield Theatre on June 19. The four parts are about evenly divided and the chorus rehearses every week. Miss Jessie Utter, the singing instructor, is in charge of the chorus and has selected three good pieces for the pupils to sing. They are "Who Knows What the Bells Say?", "Song of the Vikings" and another short one.

FEDERATION OF MEN'S CHURCH CLUBS TO MEET

Under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Clubs the first public meeting of the members will be held in Grace church parish house tonight, it being the nature of a "get-together." Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield public schools, will address the gathering on the local school question, after which there will be ample time for an open discussion of the subject which appears to be quite timely at present.

In addition there will be a fine program of music by the quartet from Grace church choir and selections by the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church, to be followed by the serving of light refreshments and a social hour. It is hoped that so far as possible all of the members of these clubs try to be present.

Formerly they were regarded as a luxury, or for athletic wear; but now they have come into general popularity for all around use.

They are very sensible shoes to wear. The flat, low heel lasts are not only natty looking, but so comfortable that you can tramp for miles, golf or "tennis" all day without tiring.

The leather welt and leather insole between the upper and the rubber sole prevent "burning." Made for flexibility and serviceability.
