Timely Compliment Gets Mrs. Lederer Fifty Cents More Alimony a Week

DECREE RECOMMENDED

Local Couple, Separated for Two Years, Appear Before Advisory Master in Jersey City-Leave the Court Room Together,

Alleging that her husband, Albert Lederer, a local real estate dealer, living at 52 Craig place, North Plainfield, deserted her in June, 1910, Mrs. Florence Lederer, of 4 Madison ave-Mster Charles H. Hartshorne, in Jersey City yesterday, for an absolute decree of divorce. The couple were married in 1902 and in filing an answer to her application for a separation Lederer said he was not responsible for the legal action, but would not contest the trial.

In court Mrs. Lederer testified that she had made unsuccessful attempts at a reconciliation, and her statements were corroborated by her sister, Mrs. Vida Siegfried, of Newark. Since their separation two years ago she has been conducting a manicuring and hairdressing shop at her Jersey City address and he has been living in this city. Mrs. Lederer is an attractive brunette and was becomingly and stylishly dressed in court, yesterday.

The Advisory Master announced that he would recommend an interlocutory decree for Mrs. Lederer. While the lawyers were trying to settle the limony question, they being $1 apart, Mrs. Lederer walked up to her husmand and smilingly said:

"Split the dimerence. What do you care for a dollar? You're a good sport, make it $7.50."

Lederer's lawyer had previously claimed that $7 would be a sufficient amount and her lawyer contended that $8 a week should be provided. In reply to Mrs. Lederer's statement her ex-husband said: "I'm game and give her the additional fifty cents,"

Five minutes later Mr. and Mrs. Lederer left the court room together but Mr. Lederer did not take his wife's hand when she offered it. They were talking and laughing and appeared to be the best of friends. They have two little girls. Mrs. Lederer was awarded their custody but her whenever he pleases.

SECRECY

Carranza Will Not Agree Terms Which Do Not Eliminate Huerta-All is Quiet Today in Vera Cruz and Mexico City.

Washinton, April 30 .- Greater op imism over the possibility of reaching an agreement between the United States and Mexico than has yet been shown by the A. B. C. mediators, was apparent today. The acceptance last night of the principle of mediation by General Carranza has put new beart into the envoys of Brazil, Argentina and Chila. They went into conference today with smiling faces.

The utmost secrecy marks the progress of the mediators work. An almost ludicrous programme of evasion, of attempted evasion, of the small army of newspaper men who hover in the vicinity of the embassy and the two legations, is being followed and back door exits and "gum shoe" entrances are daily practiced by the diplomats. They are "making progress" they say smilingly, when by good fortune they are discovered escaping through an alley or tip-toeing down a side street.

The aceptance of Carranza has simplified the work of the mediators greatly. It has thrown open the field to the consummation of an under standing not only between the United States and the Huerta government, but also between the warring factions. in Mexico, itself. It is not believed that any terms can be arranged with Carranza, however, that do not include the abdication of Huerta. This the dictator is expected to refuse to that the mediators will have their work cut out for them. What the outcome will be no one here has the Feeling "at home"

Is a nice thing anywhere; because home is a place where you "do as you like." One of our ambitions is to have folks feel at home in the Rothberg store; to cultivate all thru the place an air of geniality and good will; not anxious to sell something, but eager and willing to be of service.

Our customers, we think, feel at ease here. We want them to feel so; they're welcome to our time and attention whether buy or not.

Service here means more than selling; if we can get on terms of mutual confidence and understanding, the buying and selling can take care of themselves.

njury, no matter when or how used. Use it as a top dressing, evenly distributed, both in the garden and on the lawn, and allow the rains to carry it down into the soil. Or, if you don't want to wait for rain you can use the garden hose.

For a garden or lawn, in fair condition last year, use about 100 pounds of the Pulverized Limestone for every 1000 square feet. If they were in poor shape use a larger quantity. Remember, there is no danger from using any amount of Edison Pulverized Limestone. W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE IN SESSION HERE

Interesting Sessions Being Held in the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

The annual spring institute of the nion County W. C. T. U. is being held today at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Mrs. Mary Davis Tomlinson, president of the organization, presiding. A large number of delegates from all parts of the county are in attendance. Mrs. J. L. Manning, of Dunellen, conducted the pening devotional exercises.

Among the features this morning. vas an "anti-cigarette" address by Mr. Jefferies, of Philadelphia, who denounced the business of manufacturing and distributing of that which proved to be a fatal influence in the lives of so many young men. Rev. G. R. Maguire, pastor the Park Avenue church, also delivered a short eddress, commending the work of the Union. "Medal Contest Work and It's Possibilities" was the topic of a discussion by Mrs. Edythe M Currie, of Cranford.

The session adjourned after noon-hour prayer service. Luncheon was served in the Sunday school cuditorium by a committee of women from the union. At 1 o'clock the executive committee met in department conferences. The afternoon session was addressed by Mrs. T. C. Bodine, of this city, and Dr. Eva W. Lake, of Norwood. The intitute this evening will be of special interest to young people, Rev. C. Cain, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, the borough, being the

The rejuvenation of the lawyers baseball team brings to mind a con test staged between the lawyers and the newspaper men several years ago and a similar contest might be in order following the lawyers' disposition of the doctors this summer. Judge William G: DeMeza who is handling the managerial reins of the combination has some good talent in line for picking and we anticipate seeing a fast regiment turned out to meet the pill chasers.

But we are still wondering what is the matter with the ministers.

That double title tonight on the Saengerbund Hall basketball court looks pretty good when "explanationed" on paper and the festivities at that rendezvous tonight will no doubt wax pretty warm. WON LEAL'S CONTEST

Captain Pitches in Fine Form and Clips the Ball for a Two Sack Trip.

Leal School ball tossers smeared the Columbia Grammar School combination on Crescent Oval, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 5 to 1. The Plainfield regiment led the scoring from the early stages of the game and the New Yorkers were completely outclassed during the entire issue. Captain Faber pitched in good form for the winners, holding the hit total and beat it for the bench.

The Metropolitan twirler was effective at times, but when bingles meant runs the locals could usually be relied upon to bring them over the platter. Four errors went down to the credit of the visitors and thre to the local aggregation. Shifts continue to loom up in the Leal fighting front and the array of talent placed as it was yesterday afternoon did some good playing against the speedy invaders.

Faber led the locals with a neat wo baggers in the hitting department, and Lyon, Stevenson, Garrigues and Schneider all pounded out one safety.

SOMERVILLE PLANS FOR BASEBALL TEAM

Manager Parker Announces His Lineup for the Coming Season-Some Dates.

James S. Parker, of Somerville, has taken hold of the baseball situation in that town and is pregaring to turn out an aggregation that will be strong enough to compete with Plainfield and Dunellen during the coming sea-Mr. Parker announced yesterday that he intended to form a strong aggregation and the rumors that have been going the rounds concerning the abandonment of the sport in that burg are eroneous. Jack Torpey will not be connected with the team this season, according to the new manager, but a wealth of local material has been unearthed and he is planning to make the sport a paying proposition, which it has not been for years past.

The season will open May 16 when the Westfield club will be entertained at Somerville and on May 23 the Pennington aggregation will furnish the opposition. A dance will be held May 15 in Germania Hall, Somerville, the proceeds of which will go to a fund for the purchase of pharaphanalia for the team. Several Somerville High School stars are being given a tryout and among the veteran material left to pick from is "Red" Grimes, who will captain the team and play short; Eddie Kraft, who will do the pitching; John Hickey on second base; Cunningham in left field; and Porter in right field. Kershaw and Smith, two Somerville High School performers will cover first base and third base respectively. Lou Dixon, of this city, will do the catching Frezza will play center field and Kelley will act as utility man.

M'NAMEE CHOSEN TO LEAD P. H. S. BASKETBALL TEAM

Following a number of postpone ments the Flainfield High School basketball team met this afternoon and elected Daniel F. McNamee to captain the 1914 team. McNamee, Peacock and Rosenson were the players eligible for election.

The captain-elect has played for ward on the team during the past season and is a member of the junior class.

Wanamaker Summer Sale of White

TOMORROW, MAY FIRST, we shall present a NEW White Sale---this being the thirty-sixth year of Wanamaker White Sales, each one of which we have tried to make better than the last. In this of 1914 we shall introduce the later styles of Paris in underclothes. blouses, negligees, house dresses, corsets and clothes for baby. As many as two hundred and ten American manufacturers are represented and twelve huge Paris cases of special White Sale garments have been opened this week. Brides will find here the New Exclusive Things at prices as low as those charged in some places for the usual and hackneyed---sometimes lower. Heads of families may choose among thousands of fresh garments at the year's minimum cost. Kindly take notice that each garment is made in a sanitary factory--especially to Wanamaker orders.

The New Underclothes

Novelties, we call the underclothes that are exclusively made for the Wanamaker Store, in styles closely copying Paris designs. Such as the—

"I think," said daddy, "I will just tell you a short story, for I am sure you children must be sleepy after such a wakeful night."

"Did you hear anything about the fire last night?" asked Jack. "No one was hart or anything dreadful like that?"

"The fire," began daddy, "was in a deserted barn on the very outskirts of the town. It was quite near some houses and an inn. So the firemen wanted to do all they could to keep the fire from spreading to the houses, for there was quite a high wind. No one minded if the old barn burnt, for it really was of no use to any one, and the owner of it never bothered to keep it up

But the fire engine horses made an awful fuss. They heard, what the firemen didn't hear, one of their dwn kind crying for help in horse language. They tried to break from the engines and kicked their heels and made a lot of commotion. They shook their heads and made all sorts of funny sounds. Finally one of the firemen sale:

"I have a suspicion that the horses hear something in that barn, and I ain going in to investigate, for maybe there is something alive inside. I have never known these horses to make a mistake."

Intelligent animals, especially orses, always attract attention, and nterest those who watch them perorm. With the Frank A. Robbins circus, which comes here for the benefft of the Open-Air School, Monday, is a splendid troupe of 8 imported Belgian stallions. These beautiful black animals, under the direction of Prof. Joseph Beris, provide 15 minutes entertainment during the Robbins show each day, and are without exception the finest specimens of performing animals in the country. They are but one feature of an all feature show, which is declared to be bigger and better than ever this year. The Freat Charbino, who slides from the top of the tent to the ground on a slender pole while balanced on his head; the best known men and women bare-back riders in the country today; famous aerilists, acrobats par excellence: the Cevene troup of wire walkers, who have just returned from into the shed. Lifting the heavy bar a triumphant tour of South America, and many others will be seen when the show comes here. A splendid band gives concerts before each performance; there is a big street parade in the morning, and with the show is a menagerie doubled in size over that of last year.

'DAVID COPPERFIELD" IN PICTURES GREAT PRODUCTION

The film version of Dickens' "Dav d Copperfield," in seven parts, which will be shown at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow and Saturday, is regarded as one of the finest accomplishments of the motion picture industry. It was produced by a splendid company of players under the direction of that master craftsman, Thomas Bentley. For sheer beauty, the picture, with its quaint old English settings, has never been surpassed Photographically, it leaves nothng to be desired. The innovation of having the scenes dissolve into one another instead of the usual abrupt cutting is most pleasing. "David Copperfield" is a picture of such rare merit that it has been selected to folow "Les Miserables" at the Carnegie Lyceum, New York, where it is now being exhibited.

CHAPTER XIV. Locked Out.

AITSTILL was almost stunned by the suddenness of this catastrophe. She stood with her feet rooted to the earth for several minutes and then walked slowly away out of sight of the house. There was a chair beside the grindstone under the Porter apple tree, and she sank into it, crossed her arms on the back and, bowing her head on them, burst into a fit of weeping as tempestuous and passionate as it was silent, for, although her body fairly shook with sobs, no sound escaped.

The minutes passed, perhaps an hour; she did not take account of time. The moon went behind clouds, the night grew misty, and the stars faded one by one. There would be rain tomorrow, and there was a great deal of hay cut, so she thought in a vagrant sort of way. Meanwhile Patty upstairs was in a state of suppressed excitement and terror. It was a quarter of an hour before her father settled himself in bed then an age it seemed to her before she heard his heavy breathing. When she thought it quite safe she slipped on a print wrapper, took her shoes in her hand and crept noiselessly downstairs, out through the kitchen and that held the big doors in place, she closed them softly behind her, stepped out and looked about her in the darkness. Her quick eye espied in the distance near the barn the bowed figure in the chair, and she flew through the wet grass without a thought of her bare feet till she reached her sister's side and held her in a close embrace.

"My darling! My own, own poor darling!" she cried softly, the tears sister so! Don't cry, my blessing, water to wash away the dust of the don't cry! You frighten me! I'll take haymow, laid out some clean clothes care of you, dear. Next time I'll interfere. I'll scratch and bite, yes, I'll strangle anybody that dares to shame you and lock you out of the houseyou, the dearest, the patientest, the best!

Waitstill wiped her eyes. "Let us go farther away where we can talk," she whispered

Where had we better sleep?" Patty we shall stifle with the heat," and Patty moved toward the barn.

"No, you must go back to the house at once, Patty, dear. Father might! wake and call you and that would make matters worse. It's beginning to drizzle or I should stay out in the air. Oh I wonder if father's mind is going and if this is the beginning of the end: If he is in his saher senses he could not be so strange, so suspicious, so uniust."

"He could be anything, say anything, do anything:" exclaimed Patty. "Perhaps he is not responsible and perhaps he is; it doesn't make much difference to us. Come along, blessed darling! I'll tuck you in and then I'll creep back to the house if you say I must. I'll go down and make the kitchen fire in the morning; you stay out here and see what happens. A good deal will happen, I'm thinking, if father speaks to me of you! I shouldn't be surprised to see the fur flying in all directions. I'll seize the first moment to bring you out a cup of coffee and we'll consult about what to do. I may tell you new I'm all for running away!"

Waitstill's first burst of wretched ness had subsided and she had recovered her balance. "I'm afraid we must wait a little longer, Patty," she advised. "Don't mention my name to father, but see how he acts in the morning. He was so wild, so unlike himself, that I almost hope he may forget what he said and sleep it off. Yes, we must just wait."

"No doubt he'll be far calmer in the morning if he remembers that, if he turns you out, he faces the prospect of three meals a day cooked by me," said Patty. "That's what he thinks he would face; but, as a matter of fact, I shall tell him that where you sleep I sleep, and where you eat I eat, and when you stop cooking I stop! He won't part with two unpaid servants in a hurry, not at the beginning of haying." And Patty, giving Waitstill a last hug and a dozen tearful kisses, stole reluctantly back to the house by the same route through which she had left it.

Patty was right. She found the fire lighted when she went down into the kitchen next morning, and without a word she hurried breakfast on to the table as fast as she could cook and serve it. Waitstill was safe in the barn chamber, she knew, and would be there quietly while her father was feeding the horse and milking the cows, or perhaps she might go up in the woods and wait until she saw him driving away.

The deacon ate his breakfast in si lence, looking and acting very much as usual, for he was generally dumb at meals. When he left the house, however, and climbed into the wagon, he turned around and said in his ordinary gruff manner: "Bring the lunch up to the field yourself today, Patience. Tell your sister I hope she's come to her senses in the course of the night. You've got to learn, both of you, that my 'say so' must be law in this house. You can fuss and you can fume if it amuses you any, but 'twon't do no good. Don't encourage Waitstill in any whinin' or blubberin'. Jest tell her to come in and go to work and I'll overlook what she done this time. And don't you give me any more of your eye snappin' and lip poutin' and head in the air imperdence! You're under age, and if you don't look out you'll get somethin' that's good for what ails you! You two girls jest aid an' abet one another-that's what you do, aid and abet one another-an' if you carry it any further I'll find some way o' separatin' you, do you hear?"

Patty spoke never a word nor fluttered an eyelash. She had a proper spirit, but new her heart was cold with a new fear, and she felt, with Waitstill, that her father must be obeyed and his temper kept within bounds until God provided them a way of escape.

She ran out to the barn chamber and not finding Waitstill, looked across the field and saw her coming through the path from the woods. Patty waved her hand and ran to meet her sister, joy at the mere fact of her existence of being able to see her again and of hearing her dear voice almost choking her in its intensity. When they reachrunning down her cheeks. "How wick- ed the house she helped her upstairs ed, how unjust, to serve my dearest as if she were a child, brought her cool for her and finally put her on the lounge in the darkened sitting room.

"I won't let anybody come near the house," she said, "and you must have a cup of tea and a good sleep before I tell you all that father said. Just com fort yourself with the thought that he is going to overlook it this time. Aft er I carry up his luncheon I shall stop at the store and ask Cephas to come asked. "On the hay, I think, though out on the river bank for a few minutes. Then I shall proceed to say what I think of him for telling father where you went yesterday afternoon."

"Don't blame Cephas!" Waitstill re monstrated. "Can't you see just how it happened? He and Uncle Bart were sitting in front of the shop when I drove by. When father came home and found the house empty and the horse not in the stall, of course he ask ed where I was, and Cephas probably said he had seen me drive up Saco hill He had no reason to think that there was any harm in that."

"If he had any sense he might know that he shouldn't tell anything to ta ther except what happens in the store. Patty insisted. "Were you frightened out in the barn alone last night, poor dear?"

"I was too unhappy to think of fear and I was chiefly nervous about you all alone in the house with father.' "I didn't like it very much myself. I buttoned my bedroom door and sat by the window all night, shivering and bristling at the least sound. Every body calls me a coward, but I'm not.

Courage isn't not being frightened.

It's not screeching when you are frightened. Now, what happened at the Boyntons?". "Patty, Ivory's mother is the most pathetic creature I ever saw." And Waitstill sat up on the sofa, her long braids of hair hanging over her shoul ders, her pale face showing the trace of her heavy weeping. "I never pitied any one so much in my whole life. To go up that long, long lane; to come pon that dreary house hidden away in the trees; to feel the loneliness and the forest without a woman to care for her it is heart breaking!" "How does the house look-dread-slience and then to know that she is living there like a hermit thrush in a ful?" "No. Everything is as neat as wax. She isn't 'crazy,' Patty, as we understand the word. Her mind is beclouded somehow, and it almost seems as if the cloud might lift at any mo ment. She goes about like somebods in a dream, sewing or knitting or cooking. It is only when she talks, and you notice that her eyes really see nothing, but are looking beyond you, that you know there is anything wrong. "If she appears so like other people why don't the neighbors go to see her once in awhile?" -

"Callers make her unhappy, she says, and Ivory told me that he dared specialty of Olive Oil not encourage any company in the 211 W. Fel. ST.

house for fear of exciting her and making her an object of gossip besides. He knows her ways perfectly and that she is safe and content with her fancies when she is alone, which is seldom, after all."

"What does she talk about?" asked Patty.

"Her husband mostly. She is expecting him to come back daily. We knew that before, of course, but no one can realize it till they see her setting the table for him and putting a saucer of wild strawberries by his plate, going about the kitchen softly, like a gentle ghost.

"It gives me the shudders!" said Patty. "I couldn't bear it. If she never sees strangers, what in the world did she make of you? How did you begin?"

"I told her I had known Ivory ever since we were school children. She was rather strange and indifferent at first and then she seemed to take a fancy to me."

"That's queer!" said Patty, smiling fondly and giving Waitstill's bair the hasty brush of a kiss. "She told me she had a girl baby, born two or three years after Ivory, and that she had always thought it died when it was a few weeks old. Then suddenly she came closer to me"-"Oh, Waity, weren't you terrified?"

"No, not in the least. Neither would ou have been if you had been there She put her arms round me and all at once I understood that the poor thing mistook me just for a moment for her own daughter come back to life. It was a sudden fancy, and I don't think it lasted, but I didn't know how to deal with it or contradict it, so I simply tried to soothe her and let her ease her heart by talking to me. She said when I left her: 'Where is your house? I hope it is near! Do come again and sit with me. Strength flows into my weakness when you hold my hand." I somehow feel, Patty, that she needs a woman friend even more than a doctor. And now, what am I to do? How can I forsake her, and yet here is this new difficulty with father?" "I shouldn't forsake her. Go there when you can, but be more careful about it. You told father that you didn't regret what you had done, and that when he ordered you to do unreasonable things you should disobey him. After all, you are not a black slave. Father will never think of that particular thing again, perhaps, any more than he ever alluded to my driving to Saco with Mrs, Day after you had told him it was necessary for one of us to go there occasionally. He knows that if he is too hard on us Dr. Perry or Uncle Bart would take him in hand. They would have done it long ago if we had ever given any one even a hint of what we have to endure. You will be all right because you only want to do kind, neighborly things. I am the one that will always have to suffer because I can't prove that it's a Christian duty to deceive father and steal off to a dance or a frolic. Yet I might as well be a nun in a convent for all the fun I get. I want a white book muslin dress; I want a pair of thin shoes with buckles; I want a white hat, with a wreath of yellow roses: I want a volume of Byron's ocems, and, oh. nobody knows-nobody out the Lord could understand-how I want a string of gold beads!"

"Patty, Patty! To hear you chatter anybody would imagine you thought of nothing but frivolities. I wish you wouldn't do vourself such injustice Even when nobody hears you but me, it is wrong "

"Sometimes when you think I'm talking nonsense it's really the gospel truth," said Patty, "I'm not a grand, splendid character, Waitstill, and it's no use your deceiving yourself about me. If you do you'll be disappointed."

"Go and parboil the beans and get them into the pot, Patty. Pick up some of the windfalls and make a green apple pie, and I'll be with you in the kitchen myself before long. I never expect to be disappointed in you, Patty-only continually surprised and pleased."

"I thought I'd begin making some oft soap today," said Patty mischlevusly as she left the room. "We have enough grease saved up. We don't really need it yet, but it makes such disgusting smell that I'd rather like father to have it with his dinner. It's not much of a punishment for our sleepless night."

QUIT MEAT WHEN

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats mea egularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggisl kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take tablespoonful fn a glass oi water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications. -Adv.
