

HOUSING IN CITY DECLARED GOOD

Investigation for C. O. S. Says Only 8 Per Cent. of People Live in Tenements.

WATER DECLARED FINE

One Pressing Need is Municipal Collection of Garbage and Ashes—Tuberculosis Control is Splendid Here.

After a careful study of conditions in the city of Plainfield, taking two typical sections for example, Miss U.
D. Brown, working for the Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Charity Organization Society, has submitted a report which was made public today by the two organizations in a printed pamphlet of thirty-six pages, full of pictures which illustrate the conditions in some parts of the city. While the report makes a number of recommendations for changes which it is promised would materially better things, it also contains a substantial number of statements about the excellent conditions here.

Under the heading "Good Conditions," the report says:

"Plainfield is fortunate in taking up the problem of housing conditions at this time. At present only about 8 per cent. of the families are living in tenements, and in North Plainfield less than 4 per cent. Many suburban cities have been far more seriously affected by the bad example of New York.

"Now is the time to save Plainfield from tenement conditions. Other cities are realizing the great opportunity and either by local measures or combining for State laws, are assuring healthful living conditions to their children.

"Plainfield's problem is simplified by the fact that her people have not yet acquired the 'tenement habit'.
Small houses are plentiful and land abundant.

"Another condition to the credit of Plainfield, is the small number of dwellings with dark rooms. To this must be added congratulations that the Board of Health can and has required alterations in some of the houses marred by this form of construction. Many cities which have few windowless rooms have rooms which are gloomy because houses are built too close together. Narrow, dingy spaces between dwellings are rare in Plainfield, adequate courts and spaces and yards are usual; this is a good building habit which should be made permanent by proper housing regulations.

"A good and adequate water supply such as Plainfield enjoys, is a potential factor for good living. The method of charging for this necessity, which does not penalize its plentiful use, is to be commended.

"Too much cannot be said for the control of the tuberculosis situation in the city of Plainfield. Co-operation of the Board of Health, Anti-Tuberculosis League and the Visiting Nurse, has resulted in excellent supervision of patients, and careful supervision of children who have been exposed to infection. Bonnie Burn is caring for many of the patients, a care which would be more effective if the patients did not so frequently return too soon, and to bad living conditions. Often only a serious re-lapse will convince such people that a prolonged stay at the sanatorium is absolutely their only hope for recovery."

The report says in part:
The districts selected for special study were, in Plainfield, Cottage place, and West Third street between Plainfield avenue and Liberty street.
In North Plainfield, one district including both Harmony and Race streets.

"The most immediate, pressing need of Plainfield is a method of collecting garbage and other refuse thoroughly.
This need is felt throughout the city; no one is exempt. He who manages his own problem satisfactorily suffers from his neighbor who is more careless, thoughtless, or possibly only more unfavorably situated than himself. At present each householder disposes of his ashes, garbage and rubbish as seems to him best. Several collectors, licensed by the Board of Health, make a farce of removing garbage and ashes for a small fee.
There are complaints all along the line. From the negro gardener on Third street and the professional man in a first-class resident section comes the same query: "What can we do? How can we compel the collectors to carry out their bargain?" Some people make no attempt to have the refuse removed but instead throw it into the street or yard, a method of disposal which is open to many objections but is easily accounted for. When a family budget of $10 or $12 a week must house, feed and clothe two adults and seven children, the surplus to be expended for garbage removal is so small that the

REVILLE'S FRIENDS SAY HE HASN'T WITHDRAWN

Senator Martine Not Authorized to Say He Did Not Want Postmastership.

Patrick J. Reville has not withdrawn as a candidate for the Plainfield postmastership, statements attributed to United States Senator James E. Martin, in which he said that Reville had withdrawn, being denied by friends of the latter in this city today. What is more, according to John Caulfield, chairman of the Democratic city committee, Reville has no intention of withdrawing until someone else is named for the job.

According to a dispatch to the Newark News of Tuesday night, from their staff correspondent in Washington, which was reprinted in last night's Press, Senator Martine stated positively and emphatically that Mr.
Reville was no longer a candidate for the place, but was seeking vindication because of his removal from the postoffice service some years ago, on what he and his friends say will be proven to be a lot of "trumped-up" charges.

The interview attributed to Senator Martine means that the postmaster situation is more complicated than ever, and that the original "peck of trouble" which the senator has gotten into over the matter may amount to a whole lot more than anyone ever anticipated. Reville has a large following of friends in this city, and they will not be pleased to hear that he has been told through the newspapers that he is out of the running even before the charges now being investigated, are cleared up.
When the story appeared in the News everyone in town took it for granted that it was given out by the Senator with Mr. Reville's consent, and as the latter was out of town on business at the time no efforts were made to verify it locally.

Whether Mr. Reville remains in the race or not it is very evident from the Senator's remarks that he will not be appointed, unless Mr.
Martine has a change of heart after he hears of the howl that has gone up from Reville's friends.

WILL ADDRESS TWO MEETINGS IN THIS CITY

Booker T. Washington, the well-known colored educator, will be present at and address two meetings in this city next Tuesday. In the afternoon, Mr. Washington will address a gathering of colored people at Washington School, this meeting being under the auspices of the Dunbar Social and Educational Club.

In the evening a meeting will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock. The following honorary committee is announced for the evening meeting:
Ernest R. Ackerman, E. M. Cave, George S. Clay, R. Henry Dewey, Leslie R. Fort, George H. Frost, Charles W. McCutcheon, Walter M. McGee, Alexander Millar, Herbert E. Parker.

MANY MOURNERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF MRS. BROWN

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Sarah L. Brown were held this afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter A. Emmons, of 303 Grant avenue. Rev. John Y. Broek, of the Trinity-Reformed church, officiated. Many floral tributes, including several sets of pieces, were sent by a host of friends of Mrs. Brown.

The bearers were four grandsons,
Walter and William Emmons, Arthur E. Smith, Gilbert D. Fletcher, a nephew; Harry Wright, of Philadelphia, and John P. Emmons. The interment was made at Hillside cemtery. Beside the daughter, Mrs.
Emmons, Mrs. Brown is survived by one son, Walter H. Brown, of Bayonne; and granddaughter, Mrs. Arthur E. Smith, and five great-grandchildren.

LINDLAU M. LEAK ELECTED.

A special business session of the congregation of the Trinity-Reformed church last evening to elect one member of the Board of Deacons, which was left vacant by Frederick E. Smith, who declined to serve after having been elected to that position at the annual meeting of the church held April 22. Lindlau M.
Leak was elected to fill the position.

DEATH OF INFANT.

Duane Hantke, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hantke, aged twenty-three days, died last night at the parents home, 737 West Second street. Interment will be private.

Fancy New Jersey asparagus is now being offered at Neuman Brothers Watchung avenue market. The quality is improving every day and the price will be lower than at any time thus far this season, tomorrow.

M'ADOO-WILSON NUPTIALS TODAY

Secretary of Treasury and President's Daughter to Be Married at White House.

TO BE QUIET CEREMONY

Rev. Sylvester Beach Will Officiate —Bride's Veil Same That Was Worn by Sister and Was Part of Her Mother's Wedding Dress.

Washington, May 7.—This is the wedding day of Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo and Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, youngest daughter of the President of the United States. The historic blue room of the White House is a bower of spring blossoms today, and there at 6 o'clock this evening, the final chapter in the second White House romance of the present administration will be written. The previous one was that of Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, now Mrs. Francis Bowles Sayre.

Those who attended the rehearsal say that the wedding ceremony promises, though simple, to be one of the prettiest events the White House has ever known. To Miss Sallie Mc-Adoo, daughter of the bridegroom, is to be given the place of honor in the procession to the altar. She is to lead the bride and her attendants.

The procession is to proceed from the main stairway to the Blue Room, where a platform has been erected in the south bow window. Immediately following Miss McAdoo will come Mrs. Sayre and Miss Margaret Wilson. Miss Nancy Lane, daughter of the Secretary of the Interior, will directly precede the bride, who will enter on the arm of her father. The party will be met at the altar by Mr.
McAdoo and Dr. Cary T. Greyson, the President's physician.

During the progress of the proce-sion the U. S. Marine Band will play the Wedding March from Lohengrin.
After the ceremony, the band will furnish music during the supper, which is to be served at small tables in the State dining room.

The Wilson-McAdoo nuptials will be in marked contrast to those of Miss Jessie Wilson and Mr. Sayre. They could scarcely be more dissimilar than they have been planned with a view of making them as different as possible.

Miss Jennie Wilson's wedding day was a cold, bleak day in November, and with her husband she departed on her honeymoon under the leafless branches of trees through which the winter wind was whistling. Today's bride is to be married in the evening, in the balmy warmth of spring, with all nature budding.

Nearly a thousand guests were formally invited to the Wilson-Sayre wedding. Scarcely a hundred have received invitations to today's ceremony, and they were asked verbally and without the slightest formality
The November wedding took place at 5 o'clock; this one will be an hour later.

More or less sombre dress marked the guests of the Wilson-Sayre wedding. Today's ceremony is set at an hour which will permit the women to wear their prettiest gowns, and the men to wear either evening clothes or bright military uniforms.

The actual ceremony which is to make Miss Wilson the bride of Mr.
McAdoo is to be very brief, and will probably consume not more than ten minutes. The Rev. Sylvester Beach is to officiate, and the Presbyterian service will be used.

Miss Eleanor Wilson is probably the most vivacious of the three daughters of the President and Mrs.
Wilson, and has manifested more interest in the ordinary routine which society life offers in the capital than either of her older sisters, both of whom have devoted much of their time to philanthropic and charitable work. She is talented and widely read and a good linguist. She has all the domestic accomplishments of young women in her state of life, has traveled considerably, rides, plays tennis and enjoys outdoor life in all its phases.

Mr. McAdoo is fifty years old and is a native of Georgia. He was admitted to the bar in 1885 and practiced law in Chattanooga until 1892, when he removed to New York city.
Soon after he became a resident of New York he came into prominence as the organizer and chief director of the company which constructed the Hudson river "tubes," connecting Manhattan with the New Jersey side.
Mr. McAdoo took an active part in the campaign that resulted in Mr.
Wilson's election to the presidency and was rewarded with the treasury portfolio in the President's cabinet.

Since he came to Washington, Secretary McAdoo has had his home at 1709 Massachusetts avenue, which has been presided over by his second daughter, Miss Nona McAdoo. He has two other daughters, one married and living in the West, and a younger one, Sally, still a little girl. He has a married son, Francis H. McAdoo, and two younger sons in college.

LEAL ALUMNI WILL HAVE A FAST TEAM

Fine Array of Talent Secured to Take Part in Annual Baseball Game.

Unusual preparations are being made for the annual baseball game between the Leal school undergraduate team and the nine representing the Leal Alumni, on Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon. This yearly clash has been a big feature at Plainfield's historic old ball field for years past and the 1914 battle will be no exception as a producer of some good sport.
There is a general opinion in Plainfield that the Leal teams of years ago were far superior to the ones that have represented the local institution during the last few years and the game Saturday will give those interested an opportunity to gather a verdict on real performance.

It is a well-known fact, however, that the Front street school was known throughout the State in athletic circles for the calibre of teams turned out long before Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools came into prominence as promoters of sport. Today the High Schools have a superior grade of athletes and experience little difficulty in winning from Leal School in any branch of athletics. There is a commendable spirit of true loyalty among the Leal graduates that enables the Alumni to form a team of unusual strength and if pitted against the graduate nines of either Plainfield or North Plainfield High Schools the result would undoubtedly be a one-sided one in favor of the Front street graduates.

Each year a delegation of former stars, now prominent in business circles in various parts of the country, get together for re-organization and play their annual contest with the present day students. The undergraduate team this year is a formidable one and the old timers will not have the walkover they found awaiting them last year. If the early season work of the 1914 team may be taken as a criterion, it is expected that Mayor Percy H. Stewart, '88, will find time from his official duties to be on hand to give his wise counsel and well known ability as a ball tosser to the cause. Clifford W. McGee, '90, president of the Alumni Association, feels that the only way the Alumni can be assured of a victory is by his coming out and serving up the ben-dictors to the juvenile swatmiths.

The Schoonmaker family, a prominent group of huskies in Leal School athletic circles some years ago, will be in line again as has been their annual custom. The Schoonmaker boys have earned a name for themselves in semi-professional baseball since leaving school and will be a great factor in the organization of this year's team. George Schoonmaker is the particular star of the family and he has announced that he will be right back on deck when needed to teach the schoolboys a lesson.

"Bob" Tilney, '01, captain of one of the greatest baseball teams Leal School has ever turned out, and Dave Griggs, a member of the same team, who made many victories possible through his wonderful fielding, are also mentioned as players to take part in Saturday's contest.

The teams will present the following lineups for the game:

Alumni—Bob Tilney '01, catcher;
Will T. Glenney '05, captain, pitcher; Morris J. Dumont, first base; Will Schoonmaker, '03, second base; Arthur Lovell '88, third base; Ralph Schoonmaker '02, shortstop; Ed Daniels '05, left field; George Schoonmaker, center field; Dave Griggs '01, right field; substitutes, W. L. Glen-ney '98, and Bob Abbott '04.

Leal School—Lawrence Schneider
'16, catcher; Stewart Faber '14, captain, pitcher; Fred Stevenson '14, first base; Stewart Lyon '14, second base; Gus Van Deventer '14, second base; Chauncey Stewart '15, shortstop; Roy Voorhees '16, left field; Fred Dickerson '15, center field; Clarence Garrigues '16, right field; substitutes, Duncan Mellor '16, and Orton Dale '14, manager.

RECEIVE INVITATIONS.

The Board of Governors of Muhlen-berg Hospital has received an invitation from the Board of Trade of Westfield to attend the opening of the town exhibit at that place on Tuesday, May 12, by Governor James F. Fielder. The board has also received an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of the training school for nurses of the Orange Memorial Hospital on Thursday evening, May 7, at 8:30 o'clock. Both invitations have been accepted.

SPOKE AT HARRISBURG.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire of the Park Avenue Baptist church addressed the Baptist Association of Harrisburg, Pa., last night, the meeting being held in the Market Street church that city. There was a capacity audience present.

J. D. EVERETT CO. GET THE BONDS

City Council Sells $30,000 Issue to New York Concern for $30,175.

FIVE OTHER BIDDERS

Engineers Contract Considered by Joint Sewer Commission—Completing Details for Purchase of Darling Farm.

The Common Council at an adjoined meeting, last night, sold $30,000 worth of the $300,000 authorized issue of sanitary sewer bonds to the J. D. Everett Company, of New York, its bid being the highest, $30,- 175. There were five bids in all, those in addition to the successful ones, being as follows: R. M. Grant & Co., $30,163.50; Rhoades & Co., $30,156.00; Hornblower & Weeks, $30,972; Harris, Forbes & Co., $30,- 924.30. All of the bidders are from New York. Arthur M. Harris, of this city, is the head of the last named firm.

Earlier in the week it looked as though the action on the part of the Borough of Middlesex in applying for a certiorari to review the acts of the city in selling bonds, would hold up the sale, but following Justice Bergen's decision on Tuesday to dismiss the stay, the council was advised to go ahead and sell the bonds as proposed. Both sides in the court action have been requested to submit briefs, Justice Bergen promising an early decision.

There is a belief that Justice Bergen's decision will not be against the city's action, but if it is the city can easily take the money from the sale of bonds to pay them off, so that no great risk was attached in disposing of them last night.

After the Council meeting last night, the Joint Sewer Commission met, but practically nothing could be done, as the engineer's contract was not ready for presentation and adoption and there are a few minor details to be attended to before the title for the Darling farm can be passed and that deal closed. The commission adjourned to meet on Monday night, May 18, when it is expected these matters will be ready for action.

The Weldon Contracting Company, of Rahway, being the lowest bidder for street work on contract, a resolution was adopted last night, authorizing the street committee to have as much street work done as in its judgment was thought best. The company's bid was $1.70 a ton for underfilling; 29 cents a square yard for re-surfacing and 1 3/4 cents a square yard for sacrificing, which is considered very low. The plan of doing street work under contract is a new departure here, and by many it is believed will be more economical than the former method whereby the city has been doing the work.

The resolution awarding the contract to John E. Keely to clean and sprinkle the brick pavements and other streets, was rescinded to allow for certain minor changes in the contract.

SENATOR O'GORMAN OPPOSES PANAMA TOLLS REPEAL

Washington, May 7.—In a masterly presentation of the case of free tolls, which showed careful study, Senator O'Gorman, of New York, today addressed the Senate in opposition to the Panama Canal Tolls Repeal Bill.
Senator O'Gorman told the Senate that in his opinion the exemption of American coastwise vessels constituted a wise economic policy, that it was not affected by the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty; that if coastwise vessels fall within the terms of the treaty the exemption does not constitute a violation thereof, and that the canal has been constructed on territory over which the United States exercised sovereignty, while the canal contemplated in the treaty was to be built on alien soil, and therefore the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty is inapplicable.

APPROACHING WEDDING.

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Laura Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hunter, of West Fourth street, this city, to Rev. James Howard, of New York, is announced for 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 29. The ceremony will be performed at the Madison avenue Presbyterian church, New York, where both of the young people have been engaged in institutional church work.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 68 degrees; 11 a. m., 'ICE-WAGON' CONNORS HELD IN $8,000 BAIL

Prisoner Arraigned in Elizabeth Yesterday is Unable to Secure Bail.

Arraigned before Judge James C.
Connolly in Elizabeth, yesterday, Charles, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors, entered a plea of not guilty to an indictment found against him by the January Grand Jury. He was held in bonds of $8,000 to appear for trial when wanted. Up to noon today the prisoner had been unable to secure a bondsman, but it is understood that influential friends of his in Chicago are rushing eastward with the necessary amount of cash.

Connors was removed to the Union county jail from this city yesterday morning and he was arraigned in the afternoon in accordance with his request. The prisoner is represented by William Newcorn, of this city, and Prosecutor Albert A. Stein is handling the case for the county. The amount of bail asked by the court came as a surprise to Connors and his relatives who have come East were unable to meet the figures.

WILL BE MARRIED IN ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Popular Young Couple to Leave Immediately Afterward for Long Trip.

Miss Elsie L. Knowlton, daughter of James R. Knowlton, of West Fifth street, and Charles Earl Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moran, of West Fifth street, will be married tonight in St. Mary's church by Father B. M.
Bogan. The couple will be attended by Miss Catherine O'Connor, of New York city, as bridesmaid; and Frank May, of Bayonne, as best man.

Following the nuptials a wedding supper will be served at the bride's home and the couple will leave immediately afterwards for Washington, D. C., where they will spend a two-week honeymoon. From Washington they will go to Baltimore and as far west as Denver, Col., to be gone one year. The bridegroom is employed as an accountant for the American Smelting and Refining Company in New York City, and has been traveling in the west for that concern. He returned home last night for the wedding.

The couple are well known to a large circle of acquaintances in this city both being natives of Plainfield.
The bride was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1909 in which she was one of the most popular students. She is an accomplished pianist and has appeared in a number of local musicals and High School affairs in which she has taken an active interest since her graduation. Mr. Moran was also a Plainfield High School student, later taking a position with the New York concern, with which he has been affiliated for four years. He is well-known locally, having played left field on the Plainfield baseball team last season and has been assistant manager of the Holy Cross football team for two years.

BRENT SUCCESSOR TO BISHOP SCARBOROUGH

Trenton, May 7.—Bishop Charles H. Brent, now stationed in the Philippine Islands, was elected on the fourth ballot yesterday to succeed the late John Scarborough as Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey.
Out of ninety clerical and seventy-two lay votes cast Bishop Brent received seventy clerical and sixty-one lay votes. His election was made unanimous.

Immediately after the formal announcement had been made the delegates to the diocesan convention sent a cable message to Bishop Brent informing him of his election and advising him that a letter would follow.

When the balloting for the new bishop started with a test vote Tuesday night a number of the clericals, particularly those with high church tendencies, started a movement to bring about the election of Bishop Sheldon M. Griswold, now at Salina, Neb. The movement was opposed by most of the lay delegates, and was practically abandoned when balloting was resumed. On the last ballot taken Bishop Griswold received only three clerical and four lay votes. The remainder of the vote was scattering.
Although no definite assurance had been received the convention seemed hopeful that Bishop Brent would accept the bishopric of New Jersey. It was recalled, however, that in 1906 he declined a similar election to the bishopric of Washington.

LINES EXTENDED AT VERA CRUZ

But Censor Refuses to Permit Sending Out of Detailed Dispatches.

TROUBLE IS EXPECTED

O'Shaughnessy Arrives in Washington But Will Not See President Until Tomorrow—Preparing to Combat Fever at Vera Cruz.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)
Vera Cruz, May 7.—General Funson is gradually extending his lines and fortifying his position. Detailed news of his movements are impossible owing to the action of the censor. Only brief general announcements are permitted. There is a noticeable increase in the watchfulness of both the navy and the army in anticipation of trouble which is hourly expected to come.

Washington, May 7.—Nelson O'- Shaughnessy, late charge of affairs at Mexico City, arrived here early today. He made a brief call on Secretary Bryan, but will not see President Wilson until tomorrow. The President's personal engagements in connection with the wedding of his daughter will keep him so busy as to prevent his giving proper attention to Mr. O'Shaughnessy's report today.
Mr. Bryan arranged for a conference at the White House. The short duration of Mr. O'Shaughnessy's call on the Secretary of State is taken as an indication of the bitter feeling said to exist between the administration and the newly arrived diplomat. Neither would discuss the call or whether the Mexican situation was even touched upon.

Minister Naon, representative of Argentina Republic, in Washington, speaking for the mediators today said no word had yet been received from General Carranza, strengthening the belief expressed by them yesterday that the mediation plan would proceed without a representative of the Constitutionalists being present.
Minister Naon would say nothing of his conference today with Secretary Bryan and also maintained his usual silence.

Preparations to combat fever among the Americans at Vera Cruz and other points in Mexico, and to provide food for the destitute refugees have been about completed by the American Red Cross. At the headquarters of the organization here it was announced today that 10,000 five grain quinine pills had been ordered by cable by the representative of the Red Cross on the east coast of Mexico in addition to 500 tubes of smallpox vaccine, 100 tubes of typhoid vaccine and 10,000 tubes of cholera tablets. Tons of food supplies also have been ordered.
Some smallpox is reported from the vicinity of Vera Cruz, but sanitary conditions are greatly improved.

Mazatlan, Mex., May 7.—Four persons were killed and eight injured today when a bomb dropped from a rebel aeroplane exploded in the streets of the city. The besieging forces have the better of the artillery duel which has been proceeding for some hours.

Washington, May 7.—Having killed three Mexicans in attempting to repulsed a mob that stormed their home,

BRICKS LOOK TOO MUCH LIKE BOMBS

So Declares Nicholas Cavanza, a Missionary, as Complainant in Court.

Religious competition among members of the colored race in this city caused the appearance of Leander Brown, of Arlington avenue, in the city court, this morning, to answer charges of alleged assault preferred by one Nicholas Cavanza, a missionary. According to the defendant certain members of the Church of God and Saints of Christ have been making strenuous efforts to put an end to his good work among the heathen by throwing bricks at his head on public thoroughfares. Cavanza, who is an individual of Herculean stature, decided that to further hazard his life would be doing an injustice to missionary work and had Brown, who he claims is one of the offenders, haled to court.

Testifying on the stand this morning, Cavanza stated that genuine red bricks of the regulation size and weight had whizzed by his ear on several occasions when he least expected them and he alleged that Brown was the perpetrator of the deed. The complainant said that his life had been placed in jeopardy as the result of what he termed as jealousy on the part of the defendant. Reciting a long tale of woe in which were hairbreadth escapes from certain death and vivid descriptions of dodging bricks that closely resembled bombs the complainant urged that his would-be assailant be placed behind the bars so that he could carry on his good work unmolested. The account related by Cavanza would make excellent material for a motion picture scenario. He appeared greatly unnerved at the sight of one of the alleged seekers of his life and related to the court how the trouble came to a climax this morning in the road in front of his home, 1255 Arlington avenue. Brown, according to the complainant, was hidden in a clump of bushes at 5 o'clock this morning and as he (Cavanza) passed the secluded spot a brick grazed his ear, which he claims Brown threw. Cavanza further testified that Brown and the latter's mother called him "harsh names" using everyone of the fifty-seven varieties while the fracas was in progress.

Taking the stand in his own behalf Brown admitted that he owed the complainant fifty-five cents and because he couldn't pay it to him when the two met this morning, he claimed, that Cavanza "jumped" on him. In self-defense Brown said he struck the complainant and some boisterous protests resulted.

In an effort to corroborate her son's testimony to the effect that he was in bed at 5 o'clock this morning when the deed was alleged to have been committed, Mrs. Carrie Brown took the stand, making a short preliminary speech in which she proclaimed her devotion to the "Foot-washers" cause and her disbelief in the creeds taught by the complainant.

Taking exception to Mrs. Brown's statement that her son was in bed at 5 o'clock, Cavanza recited certain phrases in the "Foot-washers" creed, in which he says the members are duty bound to get up at sunrise and take part in a none-too-quiet prayer march. The complainant alleged that the entire neighborhood was awakened by praying in the Brown home this morning.

Mrs. Brown retorted: "Nay, we arise at the sixth hour and our prayers disturb none."

In summing up the case City Judge William G. DeMeza reviewed the conflicting circumstances presented by the parties concerned and suspended sentence on the prisoner.

JR. ENDEAVOR RALLY.

Hubach, District Superintendent of the Methodist church, will be the speaker of the afternoon. The remainder of the program will be conducted by the members of the various societies and leagues. A cordial invitation is extended to the parents of the children, as well as to their friends, to attend this service.

garbage rarely gets far beyond the front gate.

If this method of collection by private concerns could be made thorough and complete there would still be objections to the practice. The employment of several collectors in the same street is wasteful and extravagant, the unsavory carts are continually passing through the streets and the method and place of final disposal is objectionable.

Conditions resulting from the present haphazard state of affairs disfigure the city; yards are strewn with ashes; boxes, cans and other receptacles, filled to overflowing with garbage, litter the rear porches and sheds. Unsightly as such conditions are, there is a greater menace when sickening odors and filthy flies bespeak a long delayed collection.

Many of the homes visited show that even in the poorest families strenuous efforts are made to dispose of both ashes and garbage. The garbage is usually burned, which is a good solution of the problem if thoroughly carried out, but all too often half-burned garbage is thrown out with the ashes, a practice which increases with the advent of warm weather, when the amount of garbage increases and the kitchen fire decreases. The ashes are sometimes carted away, but more often they are thrown out the lowest part of the yard in a vain attempt to get rid of the water which always appears at the first suggestion of warm weather. As for the discarded bottles and tin cans which accumulate so quickly, vacant lots and rear ends of deep yards are disfigured with them, and the presence of broken glass and jagged tins is a constant danger, especially where shoes are non too thick and strong.

Collection of garbage, ashes and all rubbish by the city is a legitimate function of government. Only by such governmental activities can a wholesome, cleanly, and attractive city be obtained. The advantages of city collection are too numerous to be more than touched on here. The first and most important is that such collection can be made thorough, reaching into every home and place of business in the city, so that the entire community will be sweet and clean. Another aspect of the subject is the question of economy. It cannot be doubted that the city as a whole can make a better bargain for this service than can the individual householders; the contractors would plan to collect from house to house without duplicating, whereas now the several collectors go over the same routes, causing waste and extravagance, not to mention the almost continuous presence of numerous unsightly carts which give forth the odor of decaying waste as they pass through the streets. Because of the amount involved, the city would be in a position to enforce the terms of the contract and to control the method and place of final disposal as no individual can do. Any effective contract of this kind calls for a penalty for delay in collection or other violation of the terms of the contract. A small part of the time now spent by the Board of Health in trying to have isolated cases of extreme filth cleared up should suffice to supervise the work of the contracting collector.

A company supplies the water for Plainfield and for much of North Plainfield. So adequate and good is the supply that almost all of the old yard wells are done away with. Only two houses of all those visited in Plainfield are still unconnected with the city pipes, and a very few still keep a pump for use in addition to the usual supply. That old familiar tale of the summer coolness and sweet taste of the well water was heard again and will continue to be heard so long as there is a well in the land. As a good water supply is available in both the districts inspected in Plainfield, the wells should be closed. Contamination can take place quickly; a well which has been recently tested may be the source of an epidemic a few days later. The danger of such contamination increases with the crowding of population.

The problem in North Plainfield is not so easily solved, as it involves the question of waste disposal also. Many of the houses on Harmony street are connected with the pipe supply, only to be overwhelmed by the problem of the waste water. There are no sewers and the yards are frequently too small for adequate cesspools. The only permanent solution of the problem is the installation of a sewer system. The use of wells in this district is especially perilous because the small yards bring the wells and privies so near together, a condition not improved by the addition of cesspools.

Any bell-f that this problem is purely a local one, affecting only the tenants and owners of the small houses and lots, is founded on lack of thorough knowledge. The people of this district work in both the borough and city. Disease, breeding among the cottages of Harmony street, would menace the whole community. Already the burden of partial support of several of these families is borne by the public—how much of this debt is due to the conditions no one can say. The present lack of typhoid and kindred ills in this locality is a miracle, but it is only a few years since dysentery demanded toll, and who shall prophesy when the next epidemic will occur?

In addition to the kind of water supply, the location of the supply is of importance to the health of a family. Under the best conditions, heavy trucking work is the lot of the poor man's wife, especially when the children are too little to help them selves. Inconvenient and awkward arrangement of sinks and stoves may be the added burden beneath which the wife and mother fails and leaves the burden of the family to community care.

It cannot be too strongly asserted that tenement construction menaces Plainfield with all its attendant evils of overcrowding, lack of family privacy, the breaking up of home life and the train of vice and crime that follow in their wake. Local ordinances strengthening the State laws are most necessary. Local support for the State law and to improve that law are demanded for the good of the city and the State. Wider courts and better fire protection are two urgent amendments needed in the present requirements. Only a State department, adequately equipped with men and money, can obtain the best results in those outlying districts so difficult to reach by local measures.

The problem of the disposal of garbage, ashes and rubbish is one which has been put off too long. The situation is serious and the problem calls for immediate solution. There is no alternative to city collection worthy of consideration. In no other way can this responsibility be adequately met. The city has shirked the issue too long. Bad habits will have to be made over and a civic pride aroused before the city can hope to present a clean, well-groomed appearance to the world.

The extension of the sewer system to the "West End" and the immediate installation of sewers in North Plainfield cannot be too strongly urged. It is encouraging to learn that this work is under consideration. Its early completion is necessary to the health of the community. Under no consideration should tenements or two-family houses be permitted on unserved streets. One-family houses, built on the outskirts, will frequently precede the extension of sewer and water pipes, but these improvements become necessities as soon as any street or section has more than a scattering of dwellings.

Certain sanitary provisions should be made a part of a city housing code. The prohibition of cellar and yard closets and of hopper fixtures, together with the requirement for a separate toilet for each apartment are standards below which no city can aim with impunity. The absolute enforcement of the ordinance requiring windows to the outer air is called for. Again it must be pointed out that violations of this ordinance are more likely to occur in apartments in "brick blocks" than in detached houses. The wording of the ordinance should be changed so that there will be no doubt that all rooms in dwellings must have windows opening directly to street, yard or wide court.

The ordinance prohibiting the use for sleeping purposes of a cellar room, the ceiling of which is less than two feet above the curb, is far too lax. Many cities much more congested and overcrowded than Plainfield prohibit the use of cellar rooms for dwelling purposes and allow the use the basement rooms (i. e., rooms one-half or more above the curb) only under certain conditions. Cellar rooms are always poorly lighted and ventilated. A good cellar is excellent for the storage of fuel, but for wholesome living, rooms entirely above ground, well lighted and ventilated, are necessary.

Certain minor streets in the "West End" lend themselves to small house development under careful supervision. These streets may be narrow, but the houses should be set back so as to give 40 feet from building line to building line. Sewers should be laid as soon as possible, so as to avoid the condition found in Harmony street. Small lots on these minor streets should furnish opportunity for one-family houses which could be owned or rented by the man of small means.

In addition to these recommendations which are properly the business of the city, there are two activities which might be made the business of some group or society. One is the work of a practical visiting housekeeper, who could show the newly-arrived immigrant our ways. A woman of boundless tact and patience would be needed for the work. The other field of work is rather different. It is the encouragement of gardens, small ones in the yards, larger ones in the vacant lots and waste places. Such gardens add to the quantity and quality of the food used, and at the same time save money and do away with the bare spots and unsightly dumps, which mar the appearance of so many of our cities.

The color scheme was pink and white with a large white birthday cake lighted by six pink candles. Miss Cowling received many pretty and useful gifts.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Housing conditions in Plainfield may not be all that they should be, but the report made public today by the Charity Organization Society and the Anti-Tuberculosis League does not give cause for alarm. In fact we believe that a careful study of the report will lead to the general belief that conditions on the whole in the city are excellent. It shows that the Board of Health is doing all that it can to make things better for the people here, and that there are comparatively few spots which are seriously objectionable.

The investigator intimates that because of a few tenement conditions in the city a train of vice and crime is left. We do not believe that there is any excuse for such an assertion, as there is probably no better regulated city in the State of New Jersey, where these evils are reduced to the minimum. "Local support for the State law and to improve that law are demanded for the good of the city and State," says the report. Will the investigator please advise an interested public what laws are not being enforced in Plainfield?

The contention that there should be a better method of collection and disposal of garbage and ashes is right, and the Board of Health has been trying for years to bring about needed reform in this line, but the Common Councils have balked because of fear of the expense. A method is now being worked out that will improve this condition, but until there is municipal collection and disposal it will never be made right in the poorer sections of the city. That is beyond contradiction, and perhaps the report will have some influence on the work of the City Council in future years.

It is gratifying to know that the water supply is so excellent, and that the sewer system, except in a few isolated places seems to be satisfactory. It is also pleasing to know that Plainfield really has no tenement conditions worth worrying about, and that the people here do not seem to have acquired the "tenement habit."

On the whole it would seem that the report gives a pretty clean bill of health for a city of the size of Plainfield.

THE FILM INDUSTRY.

Some idea of the enormous growth of the moving picture industry can be gained by an examination of statistics which were made public today at Washington. The film exports from the United States, which have been increasing rapidly in recent years scored a remarkable advance during the month of March this year, the total having been 23,000,000 linear feet, as against 3,000,000 during the same month in 1913. During the nine months ending with March last, exports aggregated 146,000,000 feet, or four times the amount exported in the corresponding period of 1913, and nearly treble the amount exported in the same period for the former high record year, 1912. A continuation at the average maintained in the last nine months, will make the total for the fiscal year 195,000,000 feet, enough film to encircle the globe and leave strips left over long enough to reach from the Equator to the North and South Poles.

Prices of motion picture films are falling steadily. In March, 1912, the average export price was a little less than 10 cents a linear foot. In March of the present year it was about 3 1/2 cents. Unexported films dropped from 12 cents to three cents since last year. Formerly most films were exposed before exportation, now about four-fifths of the entire quantity exported consists of unexported films, available for camera use in foreign countries.

Our foreign sales of motion picture films are chiefly to England, which takes about 90 per cent. of the shipments. Next largest countries are Canada, Australia, Cuba, France, Japan, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela and China. In many other countries motion pictures are being taken with cameras equipped with films manufactured in the United States.

It may be truthfully said that this is the greatest and most popular form of amusement, not only in the United States, but in most of the civilized countries of the world. And the demand for the pictures seems to grow greater, rather than less. The people of the world are able to purchase more amusement today for a dime or its equivalent than ever before in the history of the world, for the greatest theatrical stars are to be seen on the screens in all of the famous and most successful plays of the age. They are also able to take "travel trips" and see much of the world without leaving their home towns. Truly the films are great educators.

PAINT UP!

There is one feature of the report on housing conditions in Plainfield which puts many of the city property owners to shame. It regards a part which only indirectly affects the comfort and health of the people of the city, but reflects discredit on house owners, and not only those who have inexpensive houses, either. It refers to the lack of paint to keep things bright. As the report says:

One bit of negligence is noticeable throughout the city and is not at all limited to the less expensive houses. This is a lack of paint, which makes the whole city rather dingy and dreary—a defect doubtless less apparent in the summer when grass and trees lend much natural beauty to the country side. Another small city of New Jersey, Asbury Park, might well be taken for a model in this respect. Every spring the paint pot is brought out and at least the trimmings are "touched up"—frequently the whole house is "gone over." Because this is done so often, the expense is never very great but the result is that the city has an air of prosperity rarely equalled and never surpassed in a "wooden city" to my knowledge. There is an old Dutch saying that "paint costs nothing," meaning that whatever is expended on paint is saved in deterioration.

The report was made by a disinterested outsider, and the effect on such a person, visiting the city is not good. A clean-up and paint-up campaign, such as is being conducted in other cities in the country, is apparently needed in Plainfield.

It is with pleasure that we correct a statement made in these columns last night regarding the appropriation for the Public Recreation Committee. It was said that there had been no appropriation for the purpose made, after we had read a copy of the tax ordinance, from which an amount of $500 for the committee had been unintentionally erased while preparing it for the printer. The City Council was unable to give the Recreation Committee $1,500 which was asked for, but they did give them one-third of that sum, which will make it possible, by the aid of money raised in other ways, to carry on the work for another year.

highways, but I see that I am mistaken. Now, as a citizen of Plainfield I should think if Mr. Atterbury was to take the brick wall from in front of his property at the corner of West Seventh street and Central avenue, he would be doing the public more good than by complaining about the heavy traffic on some streets, as the way the wall now stands it is a dangerous corner. It was only a short time ago that there was a very serious accident there, and it is a wonder that there has not been more, as it is almost impossible to see any vehicle coming before you get to the corner. Now, if heavy traffic is stopped on West Seventh street, why not stop heavy traffic on all residential streets in the city of Plainfield, or in other words put the merchants out of business?

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

There is now before Congress a bill entitled, "The Civil War Volunteer Officers' Retired List," which should enlist the interest and support of every intelligent, loyal citizen. A few relevant facts concerning same may interest the readers of the Daily Press.

On May 15, 1828, and June 7, 1832, Congress passed acts which not only cared for all surviving enlisted men who had served in the Revolutionary War, but also provided a retired list of all surviving officers, and granted full pay of their rank, at maximum pay not to exceed that of captain. (Three forebears of your correspondent served as officers in the Revolutionary War and were retired at full pay.) This should have for the bill now before Congress the full force of a valid precedent.

When Congress, by act of July 21, 1861, authorized a call of 500,000 men to serve in the Civil War, fought to maintain "One Country and One Flag," President Lincoln, as well as Congress, made a solemn promise, which has the force of a valid contract, that "The volunteers authorized by this act, shall be put upon the same footing in all respects, with similar corps of the United States Army," and that "footing" was not only pay for service, but also specified pension for service for a term of years for enlisted men, and retirement pay for officers. This pledge, made in a time of great peril to the nation, has been more than made good to the enlisted men. Common justice, and the honor of the nation require that the volunteer officers be accorded, in the terms of this promise, the same "footing" that others have received for like services.

The officers of the regular army are retired at the age of sixty-four years. To June 1, 1909, Congress had retired 617 regular army and navy officers with rank and pay one grade above that held by them, solely on account of services in the Civil War, and at least one volunteer officer of the Spanish-American War has been placed on the unlimited retired list of the regular army.

The average age of the officers of the Civil War is at least seventy-fourteen years beyond the time promise that was given for retirement, and but very few remain to whom the nation can render tardy justice. Surely no loyal citizen can approve such discrimination.

This legislation is generally favored by our citizens. The States were made a party to the above promise, and at least fourteen States have unanimously approved the passage of this bill. The Grand Army of the Republic has in its national encampments unanimously urged its passage. The bill is in perfect line with established precedent, common justice and faithfulness to a solemn pledge given by Congress in time of dire need, and should be promptly passed.

RECREATION NOTES

The Folk Dance Class which meets under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee in the Washington School held a short business meeting last night to plan for the next exhibition. They decided to give an exhibition the last week in May or the first week in June. The club voted to use blue and white as the color scheme for the next party, and that blue ribbons and blue neckties should be in evidence.

The Civic Club gave its first party in the auditorium of the Franklin School, last night. About thirty-five people were present. The company enjoyed round dancing and the Paul Jones and a short musical program. Refreshments were served. A short business meeting was called, at which Story Rowland presided. Six new members signed the constitution. A. B. Jones, chairman of the Recreation Committee, and Walter H. P. Veysey, secretary of the Recreation Committee, both were present and addressed the club. It was decided that the next meeting should be devoted to a debate, "Resolved, that the United States should use more stringent measures in dealing with the Mexican situation." The teams will be announced later. Mrs. P. C. Osborn assisted Mr. and Mrs. Story Rowland.

The Stillman Douglas Club which meets on Friday afternoons will hold an election tomorrow. Five members of the club of girls and boys are voted for by the club membership to assist in the conduct of the club activities, these forming what is known as the executive committee. This club is preparing soon to give an exhibition before the Dunbar Social and Educational Club.

The Municipal Orchestra rehearses tonight in the Franklin School in preparation for its concert. A full attendance is urged. Players of orchestral instruments are invited to join. The concert will be given the last Thursday in May or the first Thursday in June.

John R. Gates, president of the Dunbar Club, has completed arrangements for a brass band to assist in the activities on the afternoon of May 12, when Booker T. Washington is to speak at the Washington School for the members of the Dunbar Social and Educational Club. The recreation is especially gratified that Booker T. Washington is coming to Plainfield at the suggestion of John R. Gates himself. Last winter when the great colored leader was visiting in a New Jersey town, John Gates went to hear him speak and took with him letters which he had requested from Miss Anne Delia Melvin, supervisor of recreation, and from Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools. All are cordially invited to come to hear Washington speak on Tuesday afternoon, May 12, at 3 o'clock.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

N. P. H. S. ball tossers appear to have developed a deplorable habit of taking aerial ascensions in the last few innings. Both in yesterday's and in Saturday's contests the boroughites had things pretty well sewed up until the final half of the game when the visiting team came through with a great spurt that overwhelmed the local boys. Saturday's game came as a lucky verdict in the eleventh, but the N. P. H. S. boys were not so fortunate yesterday. Although they played better ball in a majority of the innings they had to be content with a defeat inasmuch as the visiting combination took advantage of opportunities to count in the seventh.

Bennie Rosenson's home run in the seventh inning of the P. H. S.-Leals game on Parker Field yesterday afternoon came as a revelation to the red and blue backers who were compelled to sit through a majority of the rounds with the Leal nine playing ball of the same calibre as their rivals who went on the field popular favorites. Rosenson's four decker, with two on, gave the Plainfielders a win after the private school youths had launched several big scares.

According to the returns hung up after the initial interscholastic league battle Captain Rosenson is the leader in the race for the silver loving cup offered for the best batting average. Three clean ones went to the P. H. S. leader's credit. Butler and Stevenson were runners-up with two each.

It becomes necessary to note that those Leal School ball tossers have but two errors intermingled with their box score while the P. H. S. youths have five. Looks as though the Front street players were really a formidable proposition after all.

There's plenty of talent in the Watchung Council for a Knights of Columbus League ball nine this season, and we look forward to some good games between the Plainfielders and other councils in the State. The K. of C. League is now a certainty and the Plainfielders will probably be "among those present" when the first bell taps.

From what we have seen of early season scholastic baseball Morris Brokaw and Frank Coriell seem to be the popular favorites in the umpiring role. Both have done good work during the first games and the local teams are fortunate to have a couple of good officials available at any time.

Some people are born knockers others acquire the habit. Our friend, the would-be sport scribe, acquires not only the habit but a severe case of sore-headedness which goes hand in hand with the remainder of his make-up. Not knowing enough to "Let Well Enough Alone" he seeks to exploit the fact that a contemporary has put something over on him in the way of originality and seeks to ridicule a feature that is far beyond his field of comprehension to inaugurate. Angered by the degree of popularity with which a Daily Press innovation has met the would-be scribe takes his spleen out in printer's ink. We're mighty sorry old man that we had to slip such a good one across at your expense, but we simply had to do it. Life is short and the quicker you find out that advertising your wrath does you no good the better off you will be. Of course we take into consideration the fact that you are yet an infant in the profession and have yet to learn that typographical errors are not unknown in newspaperdom. Terrible music, of your own special variety, would be far more pleasing to your readers than the angry hum of your spleen but even that gets undesirable in hot weather. Cheer up, old man, you may be able to keep your feet from interfering with one another's progress on a waxed surface, but you've got a whole lot to learn about newspaper work before you can throw a scare into our camp. Come again.

BERNARDSVILLE CANCELS.

The manager of the Bernardsville High School baseball team has cancelled the game that was to be played with the North Plainfield High School team on Hyde Oval next Saturday. He stated that the team had no way of getting here as they cannot travel in stages the way the boroughites go there. Manager Beckman will schedule another team to fill this vacancy and he will probably sign up some local aggregation.

LOCAL KNIGHTS WILL ENTER STATE LEAGUE

Plainfielders Expect to Put a Formidable Combination in the Field.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, of this city, will be represented at the first meeting of the Knights of Columbus baseball league Saturday night, at the Columbus Club on Broad street, Newark. This session has been called for the purpose of organization and besides the Plainfield council the following have signified their intention of falling in line: Jersey City, Bayonne, Montclair, Carteret, Orange and Newark. Those at the helm are planning to interest another team in the race and before the end of the week expect to have an eight team circuit.

A wealth of excellent baseball material is available at the local club and the several preliminary tryouts held during the last few weeks have aroused considerable enthusiasm in the proposition. A home meeting will probably be called prior to the session on Saturday night and a captain and manager will be elected at that time.

CAPTAIN ROSENSON'S HITTING ANNEXED FIRST INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE GAME

Rosenson Introduced a Genuine Homer and Broke up the Old Ball Game.

The first interscholastic league baseball game of the season was played yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, between the Plainfield High School and Leals School. Plainfield won by the score of 5 to 1. Both teams put up a fine game and had it not been for Plainfield rallying in the eighth inning the outcome of the game might have been different. The Leals School boys played fully as good a game of ball as the High School nine, making only two errors while Plainfield High School made five.

Leals also showed class with the stick outbating Plainfield by seven hits to five, until High School bunched things in the eighth and came across with four more.

In the eighth inning High School solved Faber's delivery and all but knocked him out of the box, getting four runs and four hits. Hetfield doubled to right, Peacock grounded to Faber, who hesitated to throw to first expecting Hetfield to go to third and Peacock reached first. Van Deventer hit a high infield fly, Hetfield taking third, Peacock scoring; Van Deventer was declared out. Rosenson then cleaned up with a pretty home-run over the left field fence, netting his third hit of the game.

ROD AND REEL

This is a fish story. Having absolved ourselves from the consequences by the foregoing announcement, here goes the yarn: Two fishermen went fishing for suckers at St. Cloud Sunday afternoon. They worked the streams for three hours without getting a sucker. However, they succeeded in getting lost in the woods and it was three hours more before they discovered themselves. All this time the men, according to the tale, were ravenously hungry. Having forgotten their lunch, they ate water lilies and drank water. We repeat this is a fish story.

Sea bass will be caught at the fishing banks Sunday if the weather is fair. We base this assertion on the fact that quite a few have been caught in the pound nets during the past week and they will work out to deep water in a few days.

The few minutes of warm weather yesterday made some of the boys loosen up and remove the closest things next to them for new material, and that gave them the fishing fever. They could be seen looking over the tackle stock in the stores, which is a sure sign that the Mexican war isn't worrying them.

Two fishermen were enjoying the scenery from the deck of a fishing boat yesterday, when one of them suddenly asked: "Say, John, what has become of that crowd who were shouting for disarmament a few months ago?" Jake said that the leader in the movement was working his shops overtime making steel for war vessels.

Hunting 150-pound snapping turtles with a derrick is not exactly an everyday happening, yet this is what occurred yesterday afternoon at a point this side of Bayway on the Trenton fast lane, according to two eye witnesses. Both were working on a Public Service flat car when they came upon four turtles feeding in a field near a big flat rock. When the rock developed legs, a head and tail, Bohrent fastened the chains of his derrick about it and hauled it up on the car. There the turtle upon being released, cut up scandalously, frightening the men with its vicious snapping and finally flopping off the car and making good its escape in a nearby pond. Behrent, however, captured a little fellow weighing nearly twenty pounds and this he displayed to his friends.

SEVENTH NOT A LUCKY ROUND FOR BORO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WHO LOSE HARD GAME

Burner Had First Covered in Great Style in the Early Rounds.

After playing a fine article of ball and holding its opponents scoreless for six innings, the North Plainfield High School baseball team went to pieces in the seventh period and lost out by one run to the team from High Bridge on Hyde Oval yesterday afternoon. The contest was fast throughout and the local team pulled two tallies over the plato in the early stages of the game only to have their rivals score three times in the seventh. The final score was 3 to 2. Denny was on the mound for the boroughites and pitched in great shape, holding his opponents hitless and scoreless for the six innings. His support was perfect and the local batters were hitting the opposing twirler in great shape.

The visitors were put out in quick fashion in the first and only one of the local team saw a base in this inning. Neither side scored in the second and High Bridge was blanked in its half of the third. With one down, Smalley cracked a two-bagger into left field and scored the first run of the game when Denny singled over third. Denny was air-tight in the next three innings and in the sixth the home team ran another tally over. Dunning doubled in deep center and scored when Townley sent a sizzler through short stop. This was the end of the locals scoring. In the fatal seventh Denny threw the first man out at first and hit Dineen who went to first. He also hit the next batter and Dineen went to second. Dorland, the visiting pitcher, singled into right, scoring Dineen. The next man doubled to left and two of the runners scored on the hit, putting the visitors in the lead. Dorland could not be hit safely after that and the score could not be changed by the boroughites. Denny allowed only four hits while the local batters gathered five off Dorland. Each pitcher passed one man and struck out five. This is the second defeat of the local team by High Bridge. The score:

PLAINFIELD POLICE WILL PLAY BASEBALL

Crack Team to Be Formed by Local Patrolmen for Summer Competition.

Members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association are completing arrangements for the placing of what promises to be a fast baseball team on the diamond this season and have secured the sanction of Police Chief Kiely for the organization of the fine at once. Practices will be held every Monday and Friday afternoon on Parker Field and the association has a roster of thirty members to pick from.

A committee composed of Cornelius McCarthy, chairman; Martin Flatley, Fred Baeder, Arthur McGinley and William R. McNeely has been selected to take charge of preliminary arrangements and samples of the material to be used in the suits was received today. The uniforms will be white with blue colors and will be provided by the association. The local department has some excellent material among its members and some fine fielders and batters have made their appearance. The bluecoats will play the Plainfield baseball team and the Elizabeth police among others and all teams of like calibre in this section of the State will be taken on during the summer months.

LINDEMAN SUCCEEDS RANDOLPH

Ernie Lindeman, at one time the pride of Central New Jersey as a slab artist, has been signed by the Suburbs, of Brooklyn, to take the job vacated by Cliff Randolph, who gave up the Brooklyn berth to join the Perth Amboy team, of the Atlantic League. Lindeman at one time pitched for Plainfield and on other occasions twirled for Somerville, Dunellen and Bound Brook. Johnson, former local backstop, will catch Lindeman's slants.

DRISCOLL IN ELIZABETH

Dave Driscoll's New Brunswick ball tossers are due to lineup against the T. A. B. nine of Elizabeth, next Sunday afternoon, on the latter team's diamond. The Brunswick outfit will be composed of practically the same ball tossers who appeared in Plainfield uniforms two years ago.

PLAINFIELD PAIR SWIM THREE MILES

W. L. Perrin, Jr., and Arthur Perrin Perform Daring Aquatic Feats.

W. L. Perrin, Jr., of the borough, who recently took possession of his summer camp, "Sans Souce," at Edgemere, L. I., astonished a crowd of 500 spectators by some daring aquatic feats, Sunday. Although the water register showed 52 degrees and a stiff breeze blew along shore, he plunged into the surf accompanied by his brother, Arthur, and the pair swam half the distance to Long Beach and back a distance of fully three miles.

The two men were noticed by natives and visitors who hurriedly collected at points of vantage and yelled words of encouragement. When they drew near shore, the brothers halted for a brief rest after which they performed numerous difficult water tricks, greatly to the delight of the crowd. On emerging from the water, the brothers were rubbed down by J. W. Drayton and Frank Hart, well-known Plainfielders, and so far the shivery-surf defiers have suffered no ill effects. They are planning another effort that they believe will get them to Long Beach and back.

LOCAL TEAM OUT FOR STATE BOWLING TITLE IN NEWARK

The Plainfield bowling team, presenting the same lineup as the Elks' team, is scheduled to roll in the New Jersey Sweepstakes on the Weinzarth-Whetton alleys in Newark tonight. The local combination will be composed of the following pin splitters: Johnny Campbell, Bill Nash, Chauncey S'out, P. S. Kiely and Edward Laing.

The Plainfielders will have as their opponents the New Brunswick Elks, one of the local Elks' rivals in the Elks' Bowling League each year. Teams have entered from all parts of the State and the result of the matches will decide the State championship.

SAVE FOURTEEN MORE OF COLUMBIAN CREW

Boat Was Adrift For Sixty Hours.

Sable Island, N. S., May 7.—The second boat which put out from the burning steamship Columbian before day-break on Monday has been found. The steamship Manhattan reports that she picked it up after it had been adrift for sixty hours. It contained Captain McDonald of the lost steamer and thirteen members of the crew.

With the thirteen men and a corpse picked up by the Frankonia, twenty-eight men have been accounted for. The steamships are still searching for another small boat which put out from the burning steamer with eight or ten more men. Captain McDonald reports that three men were killed before he left the ship, so of the crew of forty there are still nine men to be accounted for.

According to the Marconi received at the station here from the Manhattan, the rescued boat contained besides the captain the chief engineer, two officers and the Marconi operator. The rest were sailors.

No details of the rescue of the boatload have been sent out, but Captain McDonald wireless a short account of the fire, which is as follows:

"The fire broke out at midnight Sunday in No. 1 hatch. The alarm was immediately given and the hose turned into the burning hatch. A terrific explosion occurred a few minutes afterward, which burst all the hatches and skylight, wrecked the engine room and destroyed the Marconi outfit. The crew left the Columbian at 12:30 o'clock in the small boats. The ship was then a mass of flames and aft. The fifth engineer died on the boat, and the second engineer was killed in the first explosion, while one donkeyman was drowned in taking one of the boats."

The Manhattan is still searching for the other boat.

A PIONEER IN AVIATION.

G. K. Hamilton Was One of America's Foremost Air Men.

Charles K. Hamilton, who died very suddenly at his home in New York city the other day, was one of the pioneer aviators of this country and noted for his skill and daring. He was born in New Britain, Conn., and was only thirty-two years old. In the days when aerial navigation in heavier than air machines was young Hamilton made a name for being one of the most daring of air pilots and at the same time one of the luckiest. Before there were the loop the loop and the dip of death there was the Hamilton dip, and the young aviator did many daring stunts in the air that made his name known from coast to coast.

From his earliest childhood he gave evidence of his desire to leave the earth and invade the skies. When he was only eight years old he borrowed his mother's parasol and jumped on the eaves of the barn with it, expecting it to break his fall, but succeeded only in breaking the parasol. He was uninjured.

Hamilton did his first aeroplane work in 1908, and one of his earliest flights was over Lake Washington at Seattle. He planned to make a long glide from a height of 800 feet, striking the water so as to skip along the surface like a flat stone. He miscalculated his distance and, with his machine going seventy miles an hour, struck the lake surface at too sharp an angle. Hamilton had barely time to climb to the upper plane before the machine plunged into the water. It was the breaking of his engine when he was flying at a height of 600 feet that taught him how to negotiate his aerial dive.

One of his most notable exploits was his flight from New York to Philadelphia and return in June, 1910. He flew to the Quaker City in 1 hour and 50 minutes and returned in 1 hour and 44 minutes.

There was one record of which Hamilton was particularly proud. While giving an exhibition at San Diego, Cal., in January, 1909, he flew twenty-five miles across country and sea to the Mexican border, crossing it, and then back without making a stop. On this trip he flew out of sight of land over the Pacific ocean.

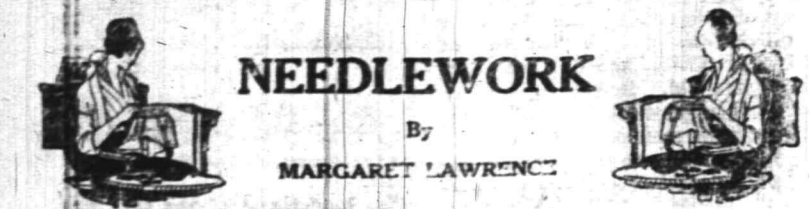

During the siege of Juarez in the Mexican revolution in Mexico Hamilton flew over the beleaguered city. In 1911 he flew around the dome of the state capitol at Hartford, Conn.

Hamilton made flights in various quarters of the globe and at times during his career had nearly every bone in his body broken. For the last two years he had worn a silver plate in his head as the result of a fall in Pennsylvania, when he fractured his skull.

DAINTY BORDER DESIGN APPLIED TO A BUREAU SCARF

14065-14528

Plenty of dainty bureau scarves are in necessity to the housekeeper, as they should always be kept fresh to give a neat appearance to the room. Just a bit of hand embroidery, such as a border, initials or sprays, gives a touch of individuality to the scarf. This border, No. 14065, illustrated on a bureau-scarf, is 1 1/2 inches wide, and the pattern contains 6 yards for 10 cents. The flowers may be developed in solid work and the dots in eyelets. The bureau-scarf may be made of fine lawn, batiste or handkerchief linen and embroidered in white or a color. This simple design is also suitable for trimming waists, dresses, neckwear and underwear.

Initials or monograms are used for decorations as well as marking household linens, and the monogram P. L., used here, is taken from pattern No. 14528. This pattern includes 375 transfers of one initial

Some Cookery Suggestions

SIMPLE FRUIT DESSERTS.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Chicken on Toast.
Lettuce Salad.
Banana Dainty.
Rolls. Cocoa.

FRUIT should be eaten freely in the spring. Such fruits as pineapples, lemons, oranges, bananas and apples may be obtained at this season and combined to give variety to the desserts of the season.

An Iced Delicacy.
Banana Dainty.—Take four ripe bananas and a small can of pineapple, a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and one pint of custard. Take your bananas and peel them, then cut into thin rounds, chop the sections of pineapple small, place a layer of bananas and a layer of pineapples and then sprinkle the sugar. Let this stand in a glass dish for half an hour before you pour the custard over. If kept for a few minutes in a cool place it will taste almost as though iced.

Pineapple and Rhubarb.—Take five pounds of rhubarb, six pounds of sugar, a gill of water and a can of pineapple. Cut rhubarb into dice and cover with four pounds of sugar and let stand twelve hours; then take two pounds of sugar, add water and part of the rhubarb and sugar and set to boil. When nearly boiling add the remaining rhubarb and pineapple. Boil till it jellies.

Baked Fruit.
Buttered Bread and Apples.—Take round slices of bread, one for each apple, some butter and sugar. Pare and core the apples, have slices of bread buttered, place an apple on each piece of bread and fill the core space with sugar and butter, placing a little lump of butter and sugar on the top of each. Bake in a moderately hot oven for about twenty minutes or until tender. More butter and sugar may be added while the apples are cooking.

Orange Fritters.—Mix half a pound of flour and half a pint of milk into a stiff batter, add two ounces of melted butter, two eggs well beaten and a very little salt. Peel two oranges, divide into sections without cracking the skin, have ready a pan of thoroughly boiling fat, put in a teaspoonful of batter with one piece of orange in the center, fry a nice golden brown, drain on kitchen paper; then dish on lace paper, sprinkling powdered sugar on the top. They should be cooked and sent to table as quickly as possible.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Tame Canary Bird and His Mistress.

DADDY had heard that afternoon the story of a very tame canary bird. The little girl who owned the bird and who was a friend of Jack and Evelyn had told daddy about her little pet. So when daddy got home in the evening he was ready at once to tell the story of the little bird.

"I am going to tell you about the little bird Elizabeth has. Her daddy gave him to her several weeks ago, and he is just as tame as tame can be," said daddy. "She has named him Bubsie, and he knows his name too, for whenever she calls 'Bubsie' he replies with a little 'Peep, peep'."

"Every morning, bright and early, he wakes up and begins to sing the most beautiful songs. He sings so steadily that Elizabeth says it is a surprise to her that he doesn't burst his little throat."

"After Elizabeth gets up she always gives him a little piece of apple before she begins her breakfast. She puts it on her finger between two wires of the cage, and he hops right over on his little bar and takes it from her finger."

"The next thing is his bath, which he takes soon after breakfast. He loves that. He splatters the water about and has just the best time in the world. He acts as if it were the most wonderful game. After his bath he has a treat of delicious lettuce to eat, and then he sits in the sun and smoothes down his feathers."

"In his cage there is a swing, and he swings on it and hops down one perch to the other. In fact, he has a fine romp. He usually does this right after his bath, for then he feels so energetic."

"In the afternoon Elizabeth lets him out of his cage. Of course she sees first that there are no windows up or doors ajar before she opens the door of the cage. When the cage door is open Bubsie flies out and makes a tour of the room. Not only does he enjoy flying around and pecking back of the different pictures and on the window sill. The thing he likes more than anything else is to play with Elizabeth. He perches on her shoulder and walks around on her hand. And he loves to tease her too, for if there are any flowers in the room he will fly over to them, peck at them and begin munching at them. Then he won't let Elizabeth catch him. He thinks this a huge joke, and he always flies to some high spot in the room and begins to sing."

"Elizabeth told me many number of tales of the tricks that he does, but she told me to invite you two children to come and see her, and then she promises you that Bubsie will entertain you."

"Oh, that's fine," said Evelyn. "Do you suppose we can go tomorrow?"

"Yes, I think so," said daddy. "For as a matter of fact, I believe I told her to expect you both tomorrow."

"Hurray!" shouted the children. "You always think of such nice things for us to do."

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mothers' Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Bryant-Lincoln Schools met yesterday afternoon and were entertained by songs charmingly rendered by Mrs. Grace Robison, accompanied by Mrs. Schuyler.

Dr. Corbuser, in speaking of the defects in the framework of the body, laid much emphasis of flat-foot. Children are often afflicted with this when they complain of pains in feet or legs and it is often caused by badly formed shoes. The doctor exhibited samples of good and bad shoes. The seats used in schools are often responsible for round shoulders and flat chests—and the waists found on the market for growing children are not what they should be. The waist should be made of pliable material and hang from the shoulder, near the neck. The tape waist is the best now made. Children should be watched and not allowed to form bad habits in sitting and standing.

Mrs. Smith, who was sent as delegate to the International Congress of Mothers in Washington gave a report of that conference.

In speaking of child welfare work before the International Congress of Mothers in Washington, Edward J. Ward, of the University of Wisconsin, said that civilization began when men and women united and remained together for the education of the child and that in this the home spirit was born. That out of this primitive group, in widening circles, the clan and the tribe came to be. From that rootage grew the old patriarchal forms of government and in our day the circle has reached the child-welfare movement which means community co-operation. He gave this test of our civilization: "How shall we learn to feel our membership in the larger community group in which our life is now done, in which our lives are now lived, as we have learned to feel our membership in the little household group."

"A society which engages men to patrol its ways, to keep its members in order with clubs, has not begun to find itself. All our education tends to widen our intellectual comprehension of our membership in this larger group. So to develop our capacity to think in terms of the wider circle of our association."

Mrs. Winifred Stoner, of the University of Pittsburgh, whose own daughter at the age of eight could recite many classic poems of literature, and do other remarkable things, which Mrs. Stoner ascribed to her system of education, gives these rules for mothers:

- "Never spank."
- "Never scold."
- "Never say don't."
- "Never say 'must'."
- "Keep child's self-respect and your own."
- "Never allow a child to say I can't."
- "Never frighten a child."
- "Never refuse to answer questions."
- "Never ridicule or tease a child."
- "Never banish the fairies."

Within five minutes after Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, of New York, had made an appeal to the delegates to the International Congress of Mothers for a fund to be known as the "Mrs. Schoff Fund," $250 was volunteered. The fund is for the purpose of bringing into closer co-operation the State and national organizations with the Parent-Teacher Associations.

Warrenville.

While Ethel Allgor was playing with the children at the home of Henry Albert, Sunday afternoon, a dog which is allowed to run unchained attacked her and throwing her down severely lacerated her right leg. It was necessary to call Dr. McGrath, of Sterling, to attend to the child's wounds. The girl is now confined to her home under the doctor's care and it will be some time before she will be able to return to school. It is not believed that the dog was suffering from rabies as it is known to have vicious tendencies.

The honor roll at the Warrenville School contained the following stars for the month of April: Florence Quince, Elsworth Bowers, George Scheurman, Anna Zwimer, Pauline Zergibel, Myrtle Williams, Teddie Cooper, Milton Williams, Alice M.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

In No. 7895 an effectively draped, attractive dress for afternoons is shown. It may be made up in a soft silk, one of the new taffetas, moire, or silk poplin; if a wash material is preferred, one of the new cotton crepes, striped or in flowered design, would be most attractive. Vest effects are still favored in many of the dark frocks; these are developed in a brightly colored silk or silk gauze showing Indian or Japanese designs. In this model we have a surplice closing, pleated waist, which may be made of silk, chiffon or organdy. It is quite a fad to make this vest separately of organdy, mousseline de soie or a sheer crepe. When fashioned in one of these materials, it gives a very dainty appearance to a dark dress; colored buttons, tassels and other ornaments are also used to give the required bit of color contrast. In this instance, if dark silk were used it would be very pleasing to have the buttons in Chinese coloring. To copy this dress in size 36, 5 1/2 yards of 36-inch material is required.

The pattern is cut in five sizes: 34 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern. Be sure to give right size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

CHAPTER XIX.
Lois Buries Her Dead.

THE replies that Ivory had received from his letters of inquiry concerning his father's movements since leaving Maine and his possible death in the west left no reasonable room for doubt. Traces of Aaron Boynton, in New Hampshire, in Massachusetts, in New York and finally in Ohio all pointed in one direction, and although there were gaps and discrepancies in the account of his doings, the fact of his death seemed to be established by two apparently reliable witnesses.

That he was not unaccompanied in his earliest migrations seemed clear, but the woman mentioned as his wife disappeared suddenly from the reports, and the story of his last days was the story of a broken down, melancholy, unfriended man, dependent for the last offices on strangers. He left no messages and no papers, said Ivory's correspondent and never made mention of any family connections whatsoever. He had no property and no means of defraying the expenses of his illness after he was stricken with the fever. No letters were found among his poor effects and no article that could prove his identity, unless it were a small gold locket, which bore no initials or marks of any kind, but which contained two locks of fair and brown hair, intertwined. The tiny trinket was enclosed in the letter, as of no value, unless some one recognized it as a keepsake.

Ivory read the correspondence with a heavy heart, inasmuch as it corroborated all his worst fears. He had sometimes secretly hoped that his father might return and explain the reason of his silence or in lieu of that that there might come to light the story of a pilgrimage, fanatical perhaps, but innocent of evil intention, one that could be related to his wife and his former friends and then buried forever with the death that had ended it.

Neither of these hopes could now ever be realized nor his father's memory made other than a cause for endless regret, sorrow and shame. His father, who had begun life so handsomely, with rare gifts of mind and personality, a wife of unusual beauty and intelligence and, while still young in years, a considerable success in his chosen profession. His poor father! What could have been the reasons for so complete a downfall?

Ivory asked Dr. Perry's advice about showing one or two of the briefer letters and the locket to his mother. After her fainting fit and the exhaustion that followed it, Ivory begged her to see the old doctor, but without avail. Finally, after days of pleading, he took her hands in his and said: "I do everything a mortal man can do to be a good son to you, mother. Won't you do this to please me and trust that I know what is best?" Whereupon she gave a trembling assent, as if she were agreeing to something indescribably painful, and, indeed, this sight of a former friend seemed to frighten her strangely.

After Dr. Perry had talked with her for a half hour and examined her sufficiently to make at least a reasonable guess as to her mental and physical condition, he advised Ivory to break the news of her husband's death to her.

"If you can get her to comprehend it," he said, "it is bound to be a relief from this terrible suspense."

"Will there be any danger of making her worse? Mightn't the shock cause too violent emotion?" asked Ivory anxiously.

"I don't think she is any longer capable of violent emotion," the doctor answered. "Her mind is certainly clearer than it was three years ago, but her body is nearly burned away by the mental conflict. There is scarcely any part of her but is weary—wearied to death, poor soul! One cannot look at her patient, lovely face without longing to lift some part of her burden. Make a trial, Ivory. It's a justifiable experiment, and I think it will succeed. I must not come any oftener myself than is absolutely necessary. She seemed afraid of me."

The experiment did succeed. Lois Boynton listened breathlessly with parted lips and with apparent comprehension to the story Ivory told her. Over and over again he told her gently the story of her husband's death, trying to make it sink into her mind clearly, so that there should be no consequent bewilderment. She was calm and silent, though her face showed that she was deeply moved. She broke down only when Ivory showed her the locket.

"I gave it to my husband when you were born, my son," she sobbed. "After all, it seems no surprise to me that your father is dead. He said he would come back when the mayflowers bloomed, and when I saw the autumn leaves I knew that six months must have gone and he would never stay away from us for six months without writing. That is the reason I have seldom watched for him these last weeks. I must have known that it was no use."

She rose from her rocking chair and moved feebly toward her bedroom. "Can you spare me the rest of the day, Ivory?" she faltered as she leaned on her son and made her slow progress from the kitchen. "I must bury the body of my grief and I want to be alone at first. If only I could see Waitstill! We have both thought this was coming; she has a woman's instinct; she is younger and stronger than I am and she said it was braver not to watch and pine and fret as I have done, but to have faith in God that he would send me a sign when he was ready. She said if I could manage to be braver you would be happier too." Here she sank on to her bed exhausted, but still kept up her murmuring faintly and feebly between long intervals of silence.

"Do you think Waitstill could come tomorrow?" she asked. "I am so much braver when she is here with me. After supper I will put away your father's cup and plate once and for all, Ivory, and your eyes need never fill with tears again as they have sometimes when you have seen me weeping. You needn't worry about me; I am remembering better these days, and the bells that ring in my ears are not so loud. If only the pain in my side were less and I were not so pressed for breath, I should be quite strong and could see everything clearly at last. There is something else that remains to be remembered. I have almost caught it once and it must come to me again before long. Put the locket under my pillow, Ivory; close the door, please, and leave me to myself. I can't make it quite clear, my feeling about it, but it seems just as if I were going to bury your father, and I want to be alone."

New England's annual pageant of autumn was being unfolded day by day in all its accustomed splendor, and the feast and riot of color, the almost unimaginable glory, was the common property of the whole countryside, rich and poor, to be shared alike if perchance all eyes were equally alive to the wonder and the beauty.

Waitstill Baxter went as often as she could to the Boynton farm, though never when Ivory was at home, and the affection between the younger and the older woman grew closer and closer, so that it almost broke Waitstill's heart to leave the fragile creature when her presence seemed to bring such complete peace and joy.

"No one ever clung to me so before," she often thought as she was hurrying across the fields after one of her half hour visits. "But the end must come before long. Ivory does not realize it yet, nor Rodman, but it seems as if she could never survive the long winter."

Thanksgiving day is drawing nearer and nearer, and how little I am able to do for a single creature to prove to God that I am grateful for my existence! I could, if only I were free, make such a merry day for Patty and Mark and their young friends. Oh, what joy if father were a man who would let me set a bountiful table in our great kitchen; would sit at the head and say grace and we could bow our heads over the cloth, a united family, or if I had done my duty in my home and could go to that other, where I am so needed—go with my father's blessing! All the woman in me is wasting, wasting. Oh, my dear, dear man, how I long for him! Oh, my own dear man, my helpmate, shall I ever live by his side? I love him, I want him, I need him! And my dear little unmothered, unfathered boy, how happy I could make him! How I should love to cook and sew for them all and wrap them in comfort! How I should love to smooth my dear mother's last days, for she is my mother in spirit, in affection, in desire and in being Ivory's."

Waitstill's longing, her discouragement, her helplessness, overcame her wholly, and she flung herself down under a tree in the pasture to a very passion of sobbing, a luxury in which she could seldom afford to indulge herself. The luxury was short lived, for in five minutes she heard Rodman's voice, and heard him running to meet her as he often did when she came to their house or went away from it, dogging her footsteps or Patty's whenever or wherever he could waylay them.

"Why, my dear, dear Waitstill, did you tumble and hurt yourself?" the boy cried.

"Yes, dreadfully, but I'm better now, so walk along with me and tell me the news, Rod."

"There isn't much news. Ivory told you I'd left school and am studying at home? He helps me evenings and I'm 'way ahead of the class."

"No, Ivory didn't tell me. I haven't seen him lately."

"I said if the big brother kept school the little brother ought to keep house," laughed the boy. "He says I can hire out as a cook pretty soon! Aunt Boynton's 'most always up to get dinner and supper, but I can make lots of things now—things that Aunt Boynton can eat too."

"Oh, I cannot bear to have you and Ivory cooking for yourselves!" exclaimed Waitstill, the tears starting again from her eyes. "I must come over the next time when you are at home, Rod, and I can help you make something nice for supper."

"We get along pretty well," said Rodman contentedly. "I love book learning like Ivory, and I'm going to be a schoolmaster or a preacher when Ivory's a lawyer. Do you think Patty'd like a schoolmaster or a preacher best, and do you think I'd be too young to marry her by and by, if she would wait for me?"

"I didn't think you had any idea of marrying Patty," laughed Waitstill through her tears. "Is this something new?"

"It's not exactly new," said Rod, jumping along like a squirrel in the path. "Nobody could look at Patty and not think about marrying her. I'd love to marry you, too, but you're too big and grand for a boy. Of course I'm not going to ask Patty yet. Ivory said once you should never ask a girl until you can keep her like a queen. Then after a minute he said: 'Well, maybe not quite like a queen, Rod, for that would mean longer than a man could wait. Shall we say until he could keep her like the dearest lady in the land? That's the way he said it. You do cry dreadfully easy today, Waitty. I'm sure you barked your leg or skinned your knee when you fell down. Don't you think the 'dearest lady in the land' is a nice sounding sentence?"

"I do, indeed," cried Waitstill to herself as she turned the words over and over trying to feed her hungry heart with them.

"I love to hear Ivory talk. It's like the stories in the books. We have our best times in the barn, for I'm helping with the milking now. Our yellow cow's name is Molly and the red cow used to be Dolly, but we changed her to Golly 'cause she's so troublesome."

"We had a cross old cow like that once," said Waitstill absently, loving to hear the boy's chatter and the eternal quotations from his beloved hero.

"We have great fun cooking too," continued Rod. "When Aunt Boynton was first sick she stayed in bed more, and Ivory and I didn't get used to things. One morning we bound up each other's burns. Ivory had three fingers and I two done up in buttery rags to take the fire out. Ivory called us 'soldiers' dressing their wounds after the battle.' Sausages spatter dreadfully, don't they? And when you turn a pancake it flops on top of the stove. Can you flop one straight, Waitty?"

"Yes, I can; straight as a die; that's what girls are made for. Now run along home to your big brother, and do put on some warmer clothes under your coat. The weather's getting colder."

"Aunt Boynton hasn't patched our thick ones yet, but she will soon, and, if she doesn't, Ivory'll take this Saturday evening and do them himself. He said so."

"He shall not!" cried Waitstill passionately. "It is not seemly for Ivory to sew and mend, and I will not allow it. You shall bring me those things that need patching without telling any one, do you hear, and I will meet you on the edge of the pasture Saturday afternoon and give them back to you. You are not to speak of it to any one, you understand, or perhaps I shall pretend you to a jelly! You'd make a sweet rose jelly to eat with turkey for Thanksgiving dinner, you dear, comforting little boy!"

Rodman ran toward home, and Waitstill hurried along, scarcely noticing the beauties of the woods and fields and waysides, all glowing masses of goldenrod and purple frost flowers.

Patty was standing under a little rock maple, her brown insey-woolsey in tune with the landscape and the hood of her brown cape pulled over her bright head. She looked flushed and excited as she ran up to her sister and said: "Waitty, darling, you've been crying! Has father been scolding you?"

"No, dear, but my heart is aching to-day so that I can scarcely bear it. A wave of discouragement came over me as I was walking through the woods, and I gave up to it a bit. I remembered how soon it will be Thanksgiving day, and I'd so like to make it happier for you and a few others that I love."

Patty could have given a shrewd guess as to the chief cause of the heartache, but she forebore to ask any questions. "Cheer up, Waitty!" she cried. "You can never tell. We may have a thankful Thanksgiving, after all."

BE PRETTY! TURN
GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray. Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears; and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

FIELDER URGES
HELP FOR POOR

Governor Would Establish State Settlement Work.

SENTIMENT IS APPLAUDED

Fielder at Testimonial Dinner at Scottish Rite Temple in Jersey City Says State Should Provide Something For Poor and Helpless; Also Teach the Young.

Jersey City, N. J., May 7.—"The state would be doing far better work than it is doing at present along some lines if it would establish state settlement work," said Governor James F. Fielder at a testimonial dinner at the Scottish Rite temple, in Park street, to Miss Cornelia F. Bradford, head worker of the Whittier House in Lower Grand street.

"It should provide something for the poor and helpless as well as the young men and young women who have not the opportunities most of us have, so that they would know how to meet the battles of life, rather than provide so many charitable, penal and correctional institutions to take care of them after they go wrong."

The governor's sentiment was loudly applauded by 500 men and women from all parts of Hudson county and the Oranges, who had gathered to do honor to Miss Bradford upon the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the founding by her of the settlement house. Miss Bradford is a member of the board of education and the only woman who has ever served in that capacity in this city. It is conceded that she has done much to improve the public school system.

Former Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins acted as toastmaster. Mayor Mark M. Fagan of Jersey City spoke of the fine work that the Whittier House and Miss Bradford are doing for the city, and Dr. Oliver R. Blanchard, president of the board of education, gave testimony to Miss Bradford's worth as a school director.

Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander of Castle Point, Hoboken, spoke on "Miss Bradford in State Work." Other speakers included the Rev. Dr. James M. Ludlow, Thomas J. Loden, Miss Vladimir Simkhovitch and Dr. John L. Elliott.

ANTIGAMBLING CASE FAILS.

Ministerial Association's Detective Loses With Jury.
Paterson, N. J., May 7.—John M. Ward, counsel for Gustave A. Foehl, who was acquitted before Judge Klenhart in general sessions court, where he was charged in two indictments with bookmaking and pool selling at 224 Market street and 113 Main street, attacked Abraham Weinberg, detective for the Ministerial association, when he gave his testimony.

Mr. Ward asked Weinberg if he was not a professional gambler eight years ago; if he did not blackmail Richard Kennedy of New York three years ago, and if he was not employed by the Westchester club of New York as a professional gambler at a salary of $25 a week. Weinberg denied all these imputations.

Weinberg testified that he had made bets on horse races at Foehl's place in Market street on Jan. 16 last. He said there were twenty-five men in the place betting at the time. The next day he went to the Main street address and made bets.

Foehl was the first of the anti-gambling crusade cases. The jury was out forty minutes.

SAVING SYSTEMATICALLY
Everyone will admit that it is desirable to save some part of his income; also, that if this saving is done systematically, the account will increase more rapidly. Most persons open savings accounts and then promptly forget them.
In order to make saving effective, we have inaugurated a 4 per cent. Installment Bond Plan which has many original features.
Deposits of from $1 to $25 monthly may be made for 36 months, and at the end of that time all you have paid in may be withdrawn together with 4% interest. In the mean time, if necessity requires it, 80% of the amount paid in may be borrowed; or payments may be discontinued at any time and the amount paid in, withdrawn.
This plan will help YOU save. Begin now. Further particulars on application.
