All running hoofed beasts have horse and down inch. If the hoofs are even the horse are even; if odd, as in the rhinocene, the horse are odd, that is, single or two placed one behind the other. Recent creatures with feathers always have beaks. Pigeons with short beaks have small fort, and those with long beaks have large feet. The long limbs of the hound are associated with a long head.

Speaking of the supposed poisonous properties of sulfite of yets. the Births Medical Journal states that since the arenie acid process of their consudents that been supended the collary sulfiles, such as fuchsing, Hofman's violet, Nicholosu's bite, and the maroons and browns have never produced uncassed by heaviery dyes with sulfiles has been traceable to the use of installic mordannts.

33.000 fest above. Professor S. F. Langley concludes that the mean absorption of light and best by the atmosphere is at least double the usual estimate of twenty per cent. He believer also that dust particles play a sore important per in this absorption than is generally supposed.

professor B. Wolley concludes that the deep plantinn of seeds and tubers is usually unstrovable for their development. This most sailable depth depends on the kind of plant, on the nature of the soil and on the weather. The smaller the seeds or tubers, the less favorable the weather, and the more compact the soil; the more essential is shallow soving.
