and the duty of every man to labor; that labor should be the standard of worth; and that when the divinely intended opportunity to labor is given to all men, the great evils of the present world, suffering and destitution will be removed. The methods of the association are defined as prayer, service on the labor platform, the proper use of the press and of labor lectures, the encouragement by precepts and example of a conscientious use of the ballot, and study of social questions in the light of the laboration.

Right Rev. Dr. F. D. Huntington, bishop of central New York, was the first to speak in support of the foregoing platform. He dwelt eloquently upon the necessity of bringing the high truth, the poor in spirit, to the masses. While not especially declaring any approval of their political platform, he paid a very high tribute to the earnestness, persistence and unselfish devotion which he ascribed to the association and its members.

Dr. C. O. DODD, IND.

was a manifest desire to avoid any action committing those present, as representatives of the church, to any one political movement. This was accomplished by the unanimous adoption of a resolution offered by Rev. Father J. O. B. Huntington, president of the Order of the White Cross, declaring that the association had nothing to do with politics. A resolution offered by Rev. John W. Kramer was then adopted endorsing the aforementioned platform of the association.

Among those who joined in the discussion of the general subject were Mr. J. L. Dunham, of Sharon, N. Y., a farmer who is active in the Order of the White Cross; and several of the clergyman present, among whom were Revs. Messrs. Tiffany, Burlington, McKelvey, Jones, Tompkins, Warner, Dow, Adams, Kimball, Duffy, Harris, Perkins, McKay, Smith, Davenport, Barker, Dorman, Wilson, Tuttle, Kinney, Mitchell, Goodwin, Roberts, Dunsell and Townsend. Dr. Davenport criticized the platform as raising a theological question touching the incarnation of Christ. Another thought it too elastic. Another feared that its adoption would cause them to drift into the political fight.

Father Huntington was asked to explain the United Labor platform and did so, declaring that this was a matter of life or death to the poor, and he felt intensely on the subject. He was kind to all, and devotedly interested. He would not let his clergy wear in the habit of commanding the sins of rich men, but he kept them with some of these a rich good man was a little less than a poor good man.

A Veteran's Graduate.
 LOCK HAYES, Pa., Oct. 27.—An article at Marlboro, Mass., informs R. G. Clair, of Mill Hall, this county, that Thomas H. Hinton, of Marlboro, who died recently at that place, has left property worth $10,000 to Clair out of gratitude to the fact that he having saved his life during the civil war. Both were soldiers, and Hinton, who was wounded at Hatcher's Run, Va., was assisted off the field by Clair.
