

Quarters for All Officials

Although the new City Hall will be formally dedicated tomorrow afternoon it is not likely that it will be ready for occupancy before next fall at the earliest. In it will be located all city offices and departments except the fire and police departments, these being retained in their present quarters because of the amount of space each requires. The Board of Health, tax collector, city clerk, mayor, street commissioner, Charity Organization, G. A. R. Common Council, City Research and Planning Commission and District Court have been provided for.

The completion of the building will offer the city its first opportunity to house its most important municipal departments under one roof. There are certain branches of city government that have been designed purposely to co-operate with other departments and it is desirable that they have the close connection that will be available under the new plan. The City Hall is located within easy reach of the central or business portion of the city and it will be more convenient for the public as well as the officials.

There will be available for officers four floors, including a sub-basement and a first, second and third floor above the ground. These will house the following departments and offices: Sub-basement, rooms and vaults for the tax assessor, drawing rooms and offices for the street department, over-seer-of-the-poor's office, store rooms, janitor's quarters, boiler rooms and vaults for the use of various departments; first floor, city clerk's office, tax collector's office, mayor's office, library and reading room and vaults; second floor, Common Council chamber and committee rooms, coat room, public committee rooms, District Court chamber and clerk's office, and filing room; third floor, Board of Health offices, City Research and Planning Commission's office, Charity Organization office, store rooms, G. A. R. headquarters and one room that has not yet been assigned.

The plans are designed to bring the various departments that work together as close to each other as possible. The heads of departments having the most business dealings with the public are located on the ground floor and those departments having regularly appointed times for meetings and requiring greater privacy are placed on the second and third floors.

A number of minor changes have been suggested by those who will use the different offices, and these will probably be attended to at once so that no alterations will be necessary when the building is turned over to the city.

The city has occupied the Kenney building on North Avenue for about seventeen years. When the new City Hall is completed it will be possible to vacate the entire portion of the structure the municipality now leases.

Formation of Civic Parade and Route it Will Go Over

According to a statement issued by Mayor Calkins this morning people who arrive at the new city hall site before 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon will be shown positions on the platform erected primarily for officials and invited guests. This platform will occupy all of the first floor of the building but no one will be admitted to it after the ceremonies are started.

The escort will assemble at 2:30 o'clock, Troop D forming on Fifth street, between Watching Avenue and Sycamore street; and Company K on Fifth street, between Park Avenue and Sycamore street. The G. A. R. veterans will form directly behind Company K on Fifth street; the Spanish War Veterans will form on Sycamore street, between Fifth and Sixth streets. All of the above formations will face toward the intersection of Sycamore and Fifth streets.

The platoon of police and the band will form in front of police headquarters and this formation will be under the direction of Chief of Police Kelly. About 3:45 will be in line and the parade will start promptly at 4 o'clock in the following order: Platoon of Police Troop D; Company K; G. A. R.; Spanish War Veterans; Boy Scouts.

The line of march will be from police headquarters on Fourth street to Park Avenue; thence to Front street; thence east to Watching Avenue; thence down Watching Avenue past the site of the new municipal building where the parade will be viewed by the Mayor; thence around the triangle in front of the Crescent Avenue church and back to the site.

Upon arrival at the site, Company K; G. A. R.; Spanish War Veterans; Boy Scouts and the platoons of police will take positions on the platform; Troop D will form in front of the building.

The ceremonies will start promptly at 4 o'clock and will be made very short, without any long addresses. The invocation will be pronounced by Dr. Zelle. There will be a chorus of fifty public school children led by Charles L. Lowe. After the invocation everybody will unite in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The words of welcome will be delivered by Francis J. Blatt, president of the Common Council; Laurence F. Peck, of Peck & Bottomley, the architects.

will turn over the document box and travel to Mayor Calkins, who will immediately proceed to lay the stone and will make a very short address on behalf of the city to the people of Plainfield. Everybody will reply with a short address on behalf of the people of the city to the mayor. All will join in singing "America" and then the benediction will be pronounced by Father Bogan.

Plainfield's New Municipal Building

Mayor Will Set the Stone

All is in readiness for the ceremonies marking the cornerstone laying of Plainfield's new City Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. An elaborate program has been drawn up by the committee in charge and it is expected that both Plainfield and North Plainfield will have a representative crowd of citizens on hand. A platform has been erected for those who take part in the program and for the invited guests, over three hundred invitations having been sent out to prominent official and civic workers.

The dedication ceremonies will be started promptly at 3 o'clock and the program is short, interesting and snappy. Music and short speech-making will be the features. In order that he might be qualified to handle the trowel on the occasion to set the cornerstone Mayor Leighton Calkins has been made a member of the local council of the Bricklayers' Union. It was desirable to have all of the work on the structure done by union labor and for this reason the Mayor was made an honorary member of the union, it being considered that his part in the program was a portion of the actual construction work.

All trolleys running from Plainfield or North Plainfield go within two blocks of the new City Hall and the Union and Netherwood cars carry passengers within a block of it, the getting off point being the intersection of Watching Avenue and East Fifth street. The building is located at East Sixth street and Watching Avenue.

Ample room has been set aside for the throng that will probably attend and it will be possible for all to get a good view of the cornerstone laying.

The document box is made of copper and was presented to the city by David S. Dunavan. It bears the inscription: "Document box laid in the cornerstone of the Municipal Building, Plainfield, N. J., February 17, 1917." The following contents will be placed in the box in the presence of the Mayor and Common Council: City charter and ordinances, minutes of the meetings of the building committee and resolutions of the Common Council relating to the municipal building project, annual reports of officials and departments for the year 1915, annual report of the Board of Education for 1914-15, program for the selection of the architect, copy of construction contracts, photographs of exterior and interior plans, Richmond's directory of Plainfield, souvenir booklet of the city of Plainfield published for the State Letter Carriers' Convention held in May 24, 1916, Plainfield Record and Courier-News, issues of February 15, 1917, also New York Times of same date, coins, fifty, twenty-five, ten, five and one cent (latest), roster, Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and a copy of the dedication program.

Credit Due Mayor Calkins; Ackerman Represents City

There is probably no individual deserving of more credit for the erection of a new municipal building in Plainfield than Mayor Leighton Calkins.

While the formation of plans for the building rested, primarily with the Common Council, Mayor Calkins did more to provide for the erection of a thoroughly modern and ideally adapted structure than anyone else.

Since the possibility of a city hall seemed the reality, Mayor Calkins visited various other cities where such an asset is in use and has consulted with municipal officials conversant on the subject.

Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman will be the main speaker of the day. It will be his duty to represent the city in a reply to the mayor after the cornerstone is laid. Plainfield citizens are acquainted with Senator Ackerman and know that he is vitally interested in all that concerns the municipality. Probably no other man is better qualified to take this part of the program than he.

During the time the program is in progress all traffic on Watching Avenue, between Fifth and Seventh streets, and on Sixth street, between Sycamore and Washington streets, will be discontinued. Automobiles arriving before 3 o'clock may be parked on both sides of Sixth street and Watching Avenue except in front of the relieving stand on Watching Avenue.

Mayor Leighton Calkins, kins. He has been an advocate of the scheme to house all city departments under one roof for a number

National Guard News

ALL TROOPS PREPARING.
The First Squadron Cavalry, Major Hobart B. Brown commanding, is making preparation to respond to a call for service. Since returning from border service this organization has lost some men but it is expected the vacancies in the ranks will be filled by new men if the organization is called on. Troops A and C of New Jersey are pretty well recruited, but many men will be needed to bring Troops B and D up to full strength. Troop D is located in Plainfield and Troop B at Red Bank.

Dr. William C. Fielding of Newark, attached to the sanitary detachment of the squadron, recently resigned, but in view of the fact that his resignation has not yet been accepted, it is probable he will remain in the service until the present crisis has passed.

NATIONAL GUARD READY.
Momentarily expecting a call to arms in the event of war against Germany, the National Guard of New Jersey stands ready to respond. At the armories of the several arms of the service great activity is being shown. Practically everything is now in readiness if the call comes. Since the breaking off of diplomatic relations by the United States and Germany a week ago, officers and enlisted men of the Guard have attended to their private affairs at home and are now prepared to jump into their uniforms and give up their time, ability, strength, yes, their lives, for the honor of the Stars and Stripes.

Strict guard is being kept over all the armories and their administration buildings. Only members of the respective organizations are admitted. Visitors who seek admission must be identified, and unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the officer of the guard that their visit is of an official nature they are not admitted.

Governor Walter E. Edge, as commander-in-chief of the Jersey forces, and Adjutant General Barber have taken every precaution that the State troops are fully equipped for service, if needed. Requisition has been made for equipment that any of the organizations have not in their home armories at the present time. They expect that the State may be called on at any time by the Federal government to supply troops or that emergencies may arise for the State calling out the Guard as protection for railroads, bridges, water works and munition plants.

INTEREST INCREASED.
Interest seems to be growing in the pool and billiard tournaments now proposed at the Elks' clubhouse on Watchung avenue and the race is growing closer with each match played. Tonight Boos will play in the billiard tourney and Monday Force will tackle Boos. The next pool in the pool tournament will be played Tuesday when Anders and Geiger get together.

MRS. JULIA RYAN.
The funeral of Mrs. Julia Ryan, who died Friday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Frank Conner, of Madison avenue, was held Monday morning at St. Mary's church, and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Resident of this vicinity since coming from Ireland nearly forty years ago, Mrs. Ryan enjoyed a wide acquaintance. She was a communicant of St. Mary's church. Besides a son, Andrew Ryan, of this city, she leaves a daughter, Miss Margaret Ryan, of New York, and several nieces and nephews.

Boro Fire Laddies Active All the Time

Acting upon the theory that men must have recreation, the members of the North Plainfield Fire Department have established a gymnasium at the headquarters and can be seen daily going through various physical culture exercises as prescribed by thorough gymnastic experts. It is said that the physical prowess of the North Plainfield fire laddies is now unequalled.

The new gymnasium has been fitted up in what used to be the hay loft. Lieutenant Al Fritz and his men retreat to the loft during the mornings and evenings and indulge in a little light work. They claim that it is unusually beneficial to them. But the gymnasium is not the only source of recreation at the disposal of the Plainfield firemen. The Domino Club is conveniently situated directly across the street from the borough headquarters and the members of that club are conducting various tournaments—euchre, domino and pinocle contests. In these contests, the firemen are more or less successful and even the barber-shop boys have a hard time keeping pace with them.

Altogether all is "cozy" at the borough headquarters. One gets an opportunity to work and play, sleep and eat. Lieutenant Al Fritz and his men retreat to the loft during the mornings and evenings and indulge in a little light work. They claim that it is unusually beneficial to them. But the gymnasium is not the only source of recreation at the disposal of the Plainfield firemen. The Domino Club is conveniently situated directly across the street from the borough headquarters and the members of that club are conducting various tournaments—euchre, domino and pinocle contests. William L. Saunders Reserve Board Member

Washington, Feb. 14.—The resignation as a government director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York of Charles Starck, recently removed as chief national bank examiner by the New York district, was announced by the Federal Reserve Board. William L. Saunders, of Plainfield, N. J., has been elected as a director to succeed him.

STATE BAR FAVORS CRIMINAL LAW CHANGE.

To make participation in murder plots more dangerous for those who plan them but do not actually take part in the killing the State Bar Association at its mid-winter meeting in Newark Saturday favored an amendment to the criminal laws so that an accessory may be tried irrespective of whether or not the principal in the case has been tried. The change was suggested to the association by Judge William P. N. J. last June.

The association also took action looking to preventing trust companies and persons not members of the Bar from performing the duties of a lawyer, such as drawing wills. Another suggestion offered by Judge Martin, providing that judges be allowed to refuse bail to persons who are apprehended from convictions, was disapproved.

OVERZEALOUS ALLIED PRESS PROVING NATION'S REUTUS.

The United States will refuse to be stampeded into war. The overzealous allied press, with its apparent jingoism to pull America into the hole it has helped to dig, must realize this now. President Wilson has made it apparent to the world that the United States will enter the war when it is absolutely necessary to right a great American wrong. He is preparing the nation for any emergency that may arise and should war come, and may a kind Providence forbid, America will be ready. The proli press of the country, unconsciously is proving a bane to the nation. Its propaganda is both unwise and unpatriotic. The hatred it is attempting to instill in American hearts toward the Teuton nations is a violation of the sacred American principles that have long helped a suffering European humanity to our shores. Any one can employ the foulest of billingsgate. It takes a man with honor, with courage and steadfast principles to hold aloof. And these are supposed to be embodied in the hearts of Americans. Any attempt to destroy or put out this glowing and world wide fame, will start the crumbling and decay of American institutions. We don't want any hymn of hate. If we ever go to war it's the "Star-Spangled Banner," that will re-echo around the nation. If we ever go to war, it will be the Stars and Bars that will float at the head of our army, not some dirty linen. It will be a war for justice and humanity, not trade and expansion. It will be an American war, declared by an American people for an American cause, not a conflict where the flower of American youth is pushed into the cataclysm's flames to pull out the obstinists for a few other nations. We don't want war, but blessed peace. And a higher power than that gifted to man, can alone give the verdict and with peace rains from the heavens, put out the watch fires of war, that already seem to glow on the highlands of America.

War between Germany and the United States would spell peace for the world. America's entry into the arena would hasten the end. The Kaiser knows it. And because he knows it, and because he desperately needs peace to save his face and to save his throne, war between the two nations seems more than a possibility. "Ninety days after the United States and Germany declare war, it will all be over, and the war in Europe will be over, too." That is the declaration of Charles Edward Russell. No man in America is better entitled to opinions concerning the war than Russell. He has seen the fighting, and he has talked to the common people of Europe about the war. It is his idea that the moral support of America is alone sufficient to show the German masses the hopelessness of the cause into which the Kaiser and the Prussian militarists have led them. The German common people may still believe the promise of the emperor to defeat the allies, but few will believe in the war lord's ability to lick the entire world. With America in, it would be the men and money of practically the whole world against Germany. We are proud of America, but even in our pride we do not realize how wonderfully strong this nation is—what a gigantic weight of money-power and man-power America would place in the scales against a foe. In wealth we have: Nearly double the wealth of Great Britain; five times the wealth of France; six times the wealth of Russia; twelve times the wealth of Italy; sixteen times the wealth of Japan. Our resources are nearly a match for the resources of all the allies, big and little, put together. Our resources are two and a half times those of Germany, Austria and Turkey combined. Add Uncle Sam to the forces fighting Germany, and the balance of resources against that unhappy nation would be about 5 to 1.

CITIZENS' TICKET HERE NEXT FALL?

Developments during the past month have been strongly indicative of a Citizens' Ticket for next fall's elections. Plainfield has a lion's share of the county's voters who are at odds with the administration for wrongs they allege have been done them in the selection of officeholders and more trouble is feared when several attractive appointments are made in the first part of 1918 if the present incumbents are returned. The Citizens' Ticket element has particular designs on the nomination of a new State senator and a bitter campaign against the present officeholder is certain to develop. Mr. Carlton B. Pierce has ruffled the feathers of the county Republican leaders and there is every reason to believe that he will suffer the consequences next fall. Between now and next September he can do sufficient damage to the popularity crown to win certain defeat for himself.

He has indicated that Plainfield has been eliminated from his calling list. Plainfield Republicans expect no further favors from him and admit that he has been the welcome from the mat. Where necessity demands he will of course do the recommending for a local office but henceforth the Republican workers who fought for his re-election and Governor Edge's election last fall will not be disappointed if he fails to reappear.

Next year will mark the retirement from office of several county officials holding remunerative jobs. The Republican senator will be expected to recommend successors but unless the Citizens' Ticket is successful in retiring Mr. Pierce, Plainfield may rest assured that none of the juicy fruit will fall within its boundaries when the plum tree is shaken.

COMMENDABLE WORK OF NATIONAL SPECIAL AID.

Women active in the interests of the National Special Aid Society have risen nobly to the call of the hour. The last few days have been productive of gratifying results in the well organized campaign to enlist women of Plainfield and surrounding suburbs in various callings for emergency duty in war time. When the opportunity for service presented itself at the first intimation of possible conflict with Germany Plainfield women sacrificed time and energy in preparation for a systematic program of enlistment.

Recruiting offices located in the business section have been placed in charge of well informed workers; the patronage to date has been large; and the attitude assumed toward the movement by womankind in general has been exceedingly encouraging. The prescribed lines of duty for volunteers are many and varied; it is an easy matter for the applicant to single out a branch in which she is proficient; and the careful attention being devoted to the cause by the prime movers is enabling the volunteers to sign for work in which they are capable of producing the greatest degree of efficiency.

In short, the movement is one that should have the support of the community. War is inevitable but until it actually comes upon us, we have no way of accurately measuring the value or number of the women who are willing to do a man's work. It takes a crisis of this nature to determine who the woman patriots of a municipality are and the activity of the National Special Aid Society members is sufficient indication of the commendable spirit that prevails in Plainfield.

MEGALOCEPHALIC MICROBE ATTACKS GERMAN NATION.

If a man grows rich very rapidly he is apt to be attacked by the "megaloccephalic microbe" and suffer from what is popularly known as "big-head." The symptoms are a rise in egotism and arrogance, and a disposition to assume as personal merit a result due to luck and to the institutions of the country which make business safe and profitable. It is not infrequently accompanied by jealousy of the old families who have been wealthy for generations, and look down on the newly rich. The entire German nation (at least the ruling class) are suffering from this malady. In 1870 they got a lot of money from France. They went into business in a systematic and thorough way, like the Japanese. They were troubled by no inherited prejudices. They hired Scotch engineers to show them how to build a steel ship and they learned thoroughly. They made everything that would pay, so that ten years ago the profits from their outside trade were conservatively estimated at half a billion dollars yearly, exclusive of the profit from carrying freight and passengers over sea. They invested these profits prudently for the most part, with the exception of some outlying real estate in Africa and China which did not pay much at first but might come in usefully as the children grow up. The inventive age increased the wealth of the world many fold and the Germans availed themselves of every new discovery. In consequence, they grew rich with wonderful rapidity and came to the conclusion that they were a favored nation, a chosen people. They then made their great mistake, for every nation is a favored nation to its own people. In fact the big head or megaloccephalic mania led them into one mistake after another, mistakes of a kind that men too proud to repent, and never acknowledge till the big head has subsided.

It takes a very well balanced, level headed man to stand a sudden influx of prosperity of any sort, and a nation is never entirely made up of such men. There are found feather-weights and balloon minds even among sensible people as we Plainfielders.

CLEAN ADVERTISING! WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Advertising of a questionable or objectionable nature is neither solicited nor accepted by the Plainfield Record. This statement has previously been made but like all other weekly newspapers the Record gets its share of applications for white space from firms whose sole object is to fool the public. Weekly publications for some unexplained reason are particularly desirable as prey for these fakirs. Twentieth century weeklies are waking up to the necessity of establishing a "dead-line" for the protection of their readers but there still remain hundreds of "weeklies" that will take anything at any price.

The Plainfield Record has maintained a policy designed to encourage home trade and boost the enterprises of the home city. The few dollars sacrificed in turning down advertisements that carry a tinge of suspicion are dollars well spent. By adhering strictly to clean-cut principles the paper has earned a right to compete in a field that has an old established daily. Few weekly publications are bucking the class of competition that the Record has been facing since it was started five months ago and still fewer have existed that length of time under such conditions.

When the Record was first issued certain interested competitors gave it a month's life, others were charitable enough to extend the period to two months. In the face of this opinion it has struggled along until now it is established on a rock bottom basis and is here to stay. A large part of its success may be attributed to its stand for clean advertising.

CITIZENS SHOULD BE ON HAND TOMORROW.

Citizens of Plainfield will have an opportunity to demonstrate their civic pride tomorrow afternoon when the new municipal building is dedicated. Elaborate and impressive ceremonies have been arranged by a committee of city officials and the event is certain to be one of the bright spots in the municipality's history. Mayor Leighton Calkins, members of the Common Council, and various other city officials have worked hard and untiringly to make the city hall a reality and tomorrow's dedication is considered the first actual step toward occupancy. It will probably be a year before our municipal departments are housed under one roof but when that time arrives it is certain to produce an atmosphere of co-operation that will prove highly beneficial to the city.

Mayor Calkins and his co-workers are to be congratulated. It is the duty of every Plainfield taxpayer to be on hand tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and participate in the dedication. A representative gathering will act as an expression of citizen approval of the efforts of those responsible for this creditable city improvement.

COUNCILMEN SHOULD BE PAID ANNUAL SALARY.

Suggestion made by the Business Men's Association that the members of the local Common Council be paid an annual salary is worthy of serious thought. Considering the fact that our City Fathers devote twenty-five per cent of their evenings during the year, and in some cases fifty per cent, to their work, their services are well worth any remuneration the municipality may feel able to appropriate. There has been no tendency on the part of the councilmen to solicit pay and it is possible that they would refuse it if offered.

Councilmanic work consists of more than the routine so many taxpayers imagine it to be. It requires a conscientious sacrifice of time and energy and those elected to the office oftentimes are subjected to undeserved criticism.

Other cities of Plainfield's size have established a plan for the payment of councilmen and city government officials. There is every reason to believe that Plainfield could adopt a similarly satisfactory system. In Elizabeth the question was brought up about a year ago and the subject was left to the councilmen themselves to decide. The result was a refusal of pay.

However, this is not a matter that should be placed before those who are to be affected. In voting on a salary issue the councilman finds himself confronted with an embarrassing situation and in a class of men such as compose our governing body salary is almost certain to be turned down.

During the past week the Record had occasion to pass upon the advisability of publishing a signed communication brought to this office by a citizen who has proven himself to be a crank of the first order. The columns of the Record are open to its readers for the publication of signed articles, but it is necessary at times to distinguish between the right and wrong kind of publicity.

Newspapers must not be used as a medium through which private grievances may be aired by vindictive individuals. No matter what the standing or moral reputation of the writer may be in the community the newspaper has no right to publish slander for which he guarantees responsibility. The publisher is responsible for what appears in print and if he is foolishly enough to sympathize with a crank to the extent of wasting white paper in assisting him to seek revenge he must take the consequences.

The article referred to was written by a property owner and an apparently responsible individual. He admits he has an ax to grind but presents only flimsy proof to back him in his attack on prominent city officials. He may be well informed, this we do not deny, but at the same time the newspaper must first be convinced before it attempts to convince its readers.

It is reported in New York that it is so hard to find domestic servants that many private houses will be closed, and their occupants will be found in hotels, or outside the city. The explanation offered is that during the summer and fall, while these people enjoyed themselves in the country or at the seaside, a multitude of women servants were tempted into the munitions factories and other shops where they obtained better pay and a more independent life. Employment agencies declare that they have never before known such a shortage of domestic service as exists now. Speaking particularly of the nurses and governesses, one paper declares that "men have recently been employed to wheel baby carriages," taking the place of nurses who have left to work in the factories. But what sort of men take the leaveings of the women is not explained.

A bill is pending in Congress to give control of every wireless telegraph company in America to the Navy Department. In time of war control of land telegraph lines is a comparatively simple matter. The army simply seizes the telegraph lines and mans them. But the message that may be flashed through the trackless air—perhaps to an enemy—more difficult to control. The wireless may be such a source of peril in war time that it should be controlled and operated by the Government in peace time. A very good thing for Congress to do would be to make an emergency measure of the pending bill, and pass it quickly.

In an address before Congress Monday afternoon Senator "Jim" Martine declared: "I realize what money is. I know. I have earned every dollar I have by struggle and hard knocks. I have no desire to fritter away public money; but we sit here and vote almost flippantly, millions of dollars on projects the benefit of which is so remote as to be almost intangible."

The "Farmer Orator" has but a few more weeks to serve but his principles are worthy of emulation by his successors.

Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson has introduced to the Legislature a bill which, if passed, will make it a punishable offense to drive a horse drawn vehicle at night without displaying a tail light. Jerseyites will no doubt be surprised in most cases to find that such a law has not been enacted before this time. It is just as important that lights be displayed on the back of wagons as it is to have them on the rear of autos.

Russian papers point out that the entrance of the small neutral nations in the war against Germany would handicap rather than aid the Entente Allies, as they already have enough troops and it would only mean the feeding and equipping of more men without material gain.

THE WEEK'S REVUE

Sarah Bernhardt has requested that a Simplex, Pierce-Arrow or Packard automobile be at the station to meet her when she arrives tomorrow morning. Considering the fact that the "Divine Sarah" is of French extraction it was real charitable of her to select three of America's highest priced motor vehicles in preference to Daimler O'Brien's deep sea going hawk.

It's just about a year ago since they laid the cornerstone of Plainfield's new postoffice and it is still impossible to predict when it will be ready for occupancy. At this rate the city officials now in office should have no cause to worry about the interior decorations of the new city hall for they'll all be on the pension list when this structure is turned over to the public.

It was too cold to stand on the street corners and argue war in Plainfield during the past week but this is the only nice thing we can find to say about the weather-man.

Criticism to the effect that the new city hall is too far from the heart of the city is sufficient proof to make the average citizen believe that the location is ideal. The party who balks at a three blocks' walk is just the type of a loafer we don't want hanging around the city hall.

As the possibility of compulsory military service dawns brighter there are a lot of young fellows, who evidently don't relish the idea of working for the government eight hours a day for six months at the rate of five dollars a month, trying to cultivate a twenty-eight year old appearance.

"Can you fill a man's place?" is the slogan of the recruiting officers in charge of the National Special Aid Society's activities here. Here's a chance for our "sniff" friends to store up some publicity cross fire for next fall's campaign by volunteering their services as assemblymen, councilmen, mayors, etc.

Charles E. Hughes, who was retained by New York city to pass on the constitutionality of the proposed west-side contract with the New York Central, held that the contract would be constitutional. He was paid $7,500 for the opinion.

WALBOROUGH PIE.—Make a pie sauce enough to measure a pint when strained and add to it half two tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add a cupful of sugar, half the rind of a grape lemon and the juice of a whole lemon, half a cupful of fine cracked crumbs and a pinch of salt. Mix thoroughly and bake in a pie plate lined with crust. When firm add a meringue made from the whites of three or four eggs sweetened with a tablespoonful of sugar for each white and beaten thoroughly. Brown and cool. A little lemon juice may be added to the meringue.

Apple Pie.—A cupful of hickory or walnut meats, two cupfuls of apple chopped fine, a cupful and a half of granulated sugar, a cupful of seed-cake, half a cupful of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Mix the spices dry with the sugar, then thoroughly mix all the ingredients together. This makes two large pies.

Squash Pie.—This is a rival to pumpkin pie in some estimations. Boil the squash slowly, drain thoroughly and mash through a strainer. To a quart of the pulp add a quart of milk, four well beaten eggs, half a teaspoonful of ground ginger, a little mace, a salt-spoonful of salt and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Line pie plates with a good paste and pour in the filling. This is enough for two pies.

Old Pap Pinkham

He Hears From a Volunteer

THE following letter was written some time last summer, but as the hand of the pen which wrote the letter did not reach me till the other day, I published it in the papers without loss of time and also read it aloud to a large audience in Liberty hall.

Dear Old Pap:—When I left Jericho to go to the war with Mexico sixty of the Jericho rangers calculated to take the train with me. When they got to the depot, however, they were all, except me, taken with pains in their stomach and went back home.

I was determined to go to it by myself. I arrived in Mexico in due season, and, hunting out General Funston, I told him I wanted a position as captain. He said he was sorry he could not even take me as a volunteer, but if I would let my own horse and gun and ammunition he would see what could be done for me later on. I was all outfitted in two days, and then I was ready to go on a scout.

I had proceeded about three miles when I was surrounded by twenty-six Mexican soldiers. They called upon me to surrender and I should be trusted well, but I leaped from my horse, took shelter behind a tree and opened fire. When I got through with them the twenty-six Mexicans lay dead in a row. I had not missed a shot. I was sure that the boys back at camp would get believe my story without good proof. I therefore cut off the ears from twenty-six heads and slipped them into my pocket as evidence. The boys had begun to grin and I knew that I had pulled out the ears, and they never saw such a creature in all their lives.

General Funston sent for me and wanted to know how I did it. He said that killing one was a brave act, but killing twenty-six at the same time was more than heroic. He said he would keep his eye on me after that, and he would be greatly disappointed if I didn't become a general within a month.

My next adventure took place at night. I was peacefully sleeping and dreaming when a noise like a rat in a trap awoke me. When I looked out of the tent I caught sight of fifteen bandits advancing upon me. I might have called for aid, but I did not. I felt confident that I could swing the job myself, and I swung. My shooting alarmed the camp, but I was as cool as ice. General Funston himself came running in his pajamas and called out:

"Lanky Longbody, what the mischief are you doing? Don't you know you've got the whole army around?"

"But I had to shoot these bandits, general!" I protested. And thereupon hundreds of soldiers and officers grasped my hands and patted me on the back. Shortly after that General Funston heard that the Mexican army was trying to come in on our flank and gobble us all up. He wanted somebody to go out about ten miles and bring a report back. No one but me volunteered. They were all mending holes in their stockings or sewing buttons on their trousers. I at once told the general that I would be most happy to go, and away I sped. It was a false rumor, but I had my adventure just the same. I was creeping carefully across a ravine when I came across twenty-two Mexicans who had a camp there and were taking an afternoon nap.

My first thought was to kill them as they slept, but I didn't happen to feel mad at anybody that day, and so I put another plan into force. I got a quantity of buckskin things and tied all their hands behind them. Then I woke them up and gave them the boot to help them on their way. Never was a lot of greasers more surprised. They loudly claimed that I must have had at least fifteen men with me. When I marched them into camp there was cheer after cheer, and General Funston came down and laid his fatherly hand on my shoulder and said:

"Lanky Longbody, you can't keep sneaking down here. By thunder, I have been a soldier for fifty years and you haven't been quite a month yet, and yet you have killed four times as many greasers as I have. I don't know what I am going to do with you unless I make you commander in chief."

I have had other adventures, Old Pap, and I want you to let the people at home know all about them. I was considered a sort of hero around our town, but I will show them when I get home what sort of a young man I am. I shall end the war just as soon as possible, as eggs and butter are going higher and higher every day. Love to all.

HARD TIMES AHEAD

THE adored daughter was said. "Father," she said, "what has come over you? Since I can remember I never had a wish you were not anxious to gratify, and you even anticipated my wants and handed me money for all sorts of things that I hadn't even thought of. But now I have to ask you for every cent I need, and you growl and grunt and ask if I think you are made of money and you tell me that the war just as soon as possible, as eggs and butter are going higher and higher every day. Love to all."

"My dear little girl," he answered, "I love you as much as ever. But you are soon to be married, and I am trying gradually to prepare you for the change."—New York Times.

"For forty years have my good wife and I traveled hand in hand down life's stormy path," he said. "In all those years not one single harsh, hasty, unkind word has passed our lips. Isn't that true, mother?"

Mother had quietly fallen asleep on the sofa, and as he laid his hand carefully on her shoulder she snored defiantly and said sharply:

"Get up yourself and light the fire, Sam. I'll be in it, and I'll see you far enough before I'll do it this morning, you—Oh, oh, I—I—why, I must have dropped off to sleep!"

"And I think you'd better have stayed asleep, you old fool!" blazed parental fire at her.—London Tit-Bits

GO TO CHURCH. What Would the Country Be Without Its Churches?
If you are an unbeliever and don't go TO CHURCH, don't be a scold. While the GO TO CHURCH movement has been sweeping the country like a prairie fire, there are found in every community men who seek to belittle it. To these men a special appeal here is made. What would the country be without its churches? What would it be without religion? Just ponder for a minute. There would be no lawlessness and crime that would be awful to contemplate.

TRINITY REFORMED
The Young Women's Bible Class, of the Trinity Reformed church, met last week by electing the following officers: President, Miss Nellie M. Clark; president, Miss Margaret E. Barker; treasurer, Miss Margaret E. Barker; and chairman, Miss Margaret E. Barker.

GO TO CHURCH. What Would the Country Be Without Its Churches?
If you are an unbeliever and don't go TO CHURCH, don't be a scold. While the GO TO CHURCH movement has been sweeping the country like a prairie fire, there are found in every community men who seek to belittle it. To these men a special appeal here is made. What would the country be without its churches? What would it be without religion? Just ponder for a minute. There would be no lawlessness and crime that would be awful to contemplate.

LECTURE SERIES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE
During the Lenten season, the social activities of the young men of the parish of St. Joseph will be continued and will be replaced by a series of lectures on the "Passion Play" of Jesus Christ, as told by the Gospels, in 1910. These lectures will be accompanied by stereoscopic slides and will be given by various members of the Bible Class.

ST. STEPHEN'S
St. Stephen's R. C. Stansfield in charge. The services will be as follows: Holy Communion, 7:30; Sunday school, 8:30; morning prayer and sermon, 9:00.

GRACE EPISCOPAL

Tabs Assume Lead Tonight

At the Knights of Columbus bazaar this evening, the members of the Total Abstinence Brotherhood Society will be in charge. A number of unique features have been arranged by the Tabs. The Grand Order of Hiobians were in command last evening.

President Joseph T. McCue has appointed the following committee to assist this evening: John Force, John J. Hines, Rufus La Roche, James Hines, Michael D. O'Keefe, Thomas P. Hines, Peter Sheridan, Charles Schuch, Timothy Lyons, Hugh McDonald, Frank Donnelly, James McFarland, Daniel J. Guiney, Peter McDougall, Albert B. La Roche, Joseph Carroll, Charles Holloway, Jerry Walsh and Daniel Cregar. This committee was assisted by a number of the city's women of the Social Club.

East End School Still Unfinished

The date for the formal inspection of the Emerson Avenue School in the East End of the city has not as yet been set. Had the work of construction on an undisturbed, the formal inspection would now have been the time. However, the Manhattan Engineering Company, located out of funds and thereby hampered the work.

While the classrooms are now occupied by the pupils for whom they were intended, the school is not to be found open evenings when the various civic organizations of the residents of that end of the city could be held. Part of the electrical contract, now ended by the New York Power Co., has been completed by Ryder & Graves, of this city. Until the Board of Education and the engineering company are given definite word as to the course to be followed as a result of the state of bankruptcy in which the electrical company exists there will be no further orders issued to Ryder & Graves or to any other electrical firm in the city, unless the city authorities decide to stand the additional expense. The Manhattan Engineering Company is the same concern whose contract to supply electric fixtures for the City Hall is being completed by the firm of Ryder & Graves.

Plainfielder Held for Injuring Man

When Robert Johnson, a chauffeur of this city, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Noah Woodruff in the Roselle Park police court last night he was held under bail by the magistrate to appear before the next term of the Grand Jury and answer a charge of reckless driving. Johnson was housed in the borough lockup for several hours but during the night secured a local man as his bondman.

Johnson was arraigned before Judge William G. DeMena in the local police court yesterday morning at the request of the Roselle Park authorities and held under $300 bail to appear for trial there last night. It is stated that he was driving an automobile through East Roselle Park Sunday night and struck John Mulvaney, who was confined at the home of his nephew, William G. Nelson, of 19 Union avenue, that place, with serious injuries, that place.

RECORD HOUSE WILL WELCOME NOTED ACTRESS

Narah Bernhardt and her entourage will arrive in Plainfield tomorrow forenoon for the performance to be given in the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night. She has made a special request of Manager Shannon to have at her disposal while here either one of three well known makes of automobiles. This will be used to meet her at the train, take her to and from the theatre, and back to her hotel at night.

One of the largest seat sales of the season is reported by Manager Shannon and Treasurer David Rogers for this production, but there are still a few desirable seats left. Application for these should be made at once for by tomorrow noon the supply will probably be exhausted. Society is well represented in the seat sale and the audience will be one of the wealthiest as well as the largest.

There is much curiosity, of course, to discover just how much the recent affliction, the amputation of her leg—the right to be exact—has brought the distinguished star's movements upon the stage. To answer with truth, no one, seeing her act, would ever imagine that she had been thus physically distressed. In the afternoon of her art the motion picture industry in its disclosure the fact that so material a misfortune had befallen her, she shares each of her roles with her heavy draperies or the folds of loose-fitting gowns—appropriate to the character—as so deftly that it is impossible to discover the absence of a limb. Occasionally she rises from her chair, moves slightly, but immediately resumes her sitting position.

NEW APARTMENTS

One of the most important building deals in the business section of the city came to light this week when it became known that Edson J. Martin is having plans prepared for a new apartment house to be constructed at Church and Front streets. Bids on the work have not as yet been asked, but it is said that the structure will cost in the vicinity of $50,000. It will be the largest of its kind in the city, of fireproof construction and have all modern improvements. There will be six ensembles, three on Church street and three on Front street. It is planned to build a four-story structure with accommodations for several hundred.

Another Cop Goes to N.Y.

John Henderschott, for five years a member of the Plainfield police force, has accepted a position with the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York. Henderschott makes the fifth member of the police force who has resigned in the past few years to go with the New York concern and several others are now on the verge of resigning to do so.

It keeps the police board busy filling vacancies that occur in the force continually on account of the men leaving to take the better paid positions in New York. A man has to be a member of the local force five years before he gets a month and at the same he gets $74 a month and has to buy his uniforms.

Borough Church Making Bazaar Plans

Immediately following the close of the Lenten season, a bazaar for the benefit of St. Joseph's church in North Plainfield will be inaugurated. Preliminary arrangements for this stroke several months ago caused the expectation that the bazaar will be a success and will raise a considerable sum.

Patrick McDougall has been appointed chairman of the chief committee in charge of the bazaar and it is expected that he will announce the names of those who will comprise the executive committee in the near future. The various church societies will unite to make the bazaar a financial as well as a social success.

BUSINESS BODY IN LIVELY SESSION

Katharine was the predominating feature of the annual meeting of the Business Men's Association held Wednesday night, a number of important topics being presented for discussion. Herman Schved, former president of the association although not in attendance, forwarded a resolution for consideration. This document advocated the appropriation by the city of an annual salary for Common Council members. It met with the unanimous approval of the business organization and it was voted to submit a copy to the Council for consideration.

The resolution in full follows: "Whereas Common Council of our city is giving much of its valuable time and energy to matters of municipal government without any compensation; and

"Whereas, Very generally governing bodies of cities are paid nominal sums, only as public recognition of their ability and experience as public servants;

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Business Men's Association of the City of Plainfield, N. J., that the Common Council receive a salary, governed in amount as found to prevail in other municipalities in this State."

"Resolved, That our secretary be directed to prepare a copy of these resolutions to our Common Council."

It was pointed out during the discussion that followed the introduction of the proposition that councilmen devote between twenty-five and fifty per cent. of their nights each year to the transaction of city business and are just as much entitled to compensation as other city officials.

The establishment of a public comfort station in the central portion of the city also came in for its share of attention. This item was related with the business association and every effort has been made to arouse interest among the members of the Common Council Public Affairs Committee. Another attempt to secure an appropriation for the erection of such a convenience will be made soon, a committee having been appointed to see that the resolution moves rapidly through the proper channels.

J. Van Vorst has been the prime mover in this addition since it was started and he assured the organization that he would lead every effort to see that it becomes a reality in the not far distant future.

During the evening an address delivered before the association by De Witt Rapalie, a resolution was authorized petitioning the Common Council to inquire into conditions existing in the sanitary equipment of the east bound Central Railroad depot.

Mr. Rapalie pointed out a number of evils now in existence and stated that they be brought to the attention of the Central Railroad with a demand for proper improvement.

During the next two months the constitution and by-laws of the association will undergo a complete change to meet certain conditions that have been brought to the surface of late. There will have to do principally with the regulation of donation work by the merchants and the expanding of the credit department of the organization. Over a year ago the Plainfield Credit Association became affiliated with the Business Men's Association with the understanding that the distinct work of the former body would be carried on in the latter association by its official personnel and committee heads.

However, since the amalgamation the credit department has become a dead issue and there is every need of reviving interest in it.

A. D. H. BAIL

The Ancient Order of Hiobians will hold a ball and dance on St. Patrick's night. Preliminary arrangements for this annual affair are now being made. Music for Irish dancing will be furnished by out-of-town talent.

MID-LEANS OVER

Mid-year examinations have just been completed at the Plainfield High School and the regular schedule of hours has been resumed.

Housewives Will Study Economics

The women of Plainfield are to take action part in the conservation of food campaign which is to be put into operation in New Jersey in a short time. Under the direction of the National Special Aid Society, local women will study the methods of food conservation and will put in practice immediately the lessons learned.

It is said that the local conservation campaign will be under the guidance of food experts and will be open to any housewife who desires to become acquainted with the secret nutritive values of staple bread. In other cities the plan has been operating with the assistance and cooperation of the Board of Health of the community and it is believed that the aid of the local board will be enlisted in the campaign here.

Appeals to Press for Co-operation

Captain W. R. Rush, U. S. N., commander of the First Naval District, of New England, today issued an appeal to newspapers for co-operation in keeping the defense of the North Atlantic coast line from "the enemy." The expression, "the enemy," is used in a naval technical sense as representing the indefinite eventualities against which war develops.

The commander recognizes the unusual resources of American newspapers for gathering the news and the public response to anything that savors of an attempt to limit the freedom of the press. Accordingly, he suggests a "censorship from within" to avoid exaggeration or thoughtless publicity contrary to the common good.

"Lacking the intelligent co-operation of the newspapers from the aspect of security and information is impossible," says the commander. He adds:

"The public's right to news from his newspapers is clearly recognized by every one, but the public cannot properly insist on having news through the public press that might jeopardize its own interests or furnish information to the enemy. Criticism of government officials for not giving out news to be expected, not those officials that make correct orders from the highest authority, or so in the shade-minded desire of keeping information from the enemy. To this end—and since their interests are identical—the press and the government officials should move together in serious, intelligent co-operation."

JUNIOR S. P. C. A.

Work has been started on the formation of a junior branch of the Plainfield S. P. C. A. among the Boy Scouts of the city. A meeting of those interested will be held at Hope chapel Monday night, when a group of boys interested in the work will be formed. Mrs. R. G. Van Hoesen, local S. P. C. A. agent, will speak.

HILLARY-STIMMER

Mrs. Julia Stedler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stedler of New Market, and Frederick Hillier, of Ringwood, but formerly of Danville, were married at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the German Reformed church, North Plainfield, by the Rev. Dr. George Hauser officiating. There were no attendants, only the parents and a few invited guests witnessing the ceremony. The bride was attractively gowned in a traveling suit with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet. E. C. Krause, the church organist, played the nuptial march. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hillier will make their home on a farm which the bridegroom recently purchased near Ringwood.

MAKING EXTRA EFFORT.

An effort is being made by the January grand jury to complete its labors by this afternoon and report to Judge Connolly at that time. If the final report is not ready this afternoon the jury will have to return Tuesday afternoon, when Judge Connolly will sit for the morning of indeterminate.

Indictments returned Wednesday by the January Grand Jury will be moved before Judge Connolly next Tuesday afternoon. There were thirty-six indictments in the first batch. Several indictments from the October term are still pending, but none are expected in all but three of them.

MRS. HENRIETTA BOVY.

Advanced age and a paralytic stroke several months ago caused the death yesterday morning of Mrs. Henrietta Bovy, eighty-four, at home of her daughter, Mrs. William Demarest, of Somerset street. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:05 from the home of her daughter, Rev. Joseph O. McKeever, pastor of Warren chapel, officiating. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

Mrs. Bovy had been a native of this country for sixty years, coming here from Switzerland. She had first located in New York, but for the past thirty years she had resided in the borough. She was the widow of Jules Bovy, who died some five years ago and was a member of Warren chapel. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. T. H. Anthony of New York, and the one with whom she lived. There are also three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

MRS. CAROLINE COCKS. Funeral services will be held Sunday night for Mrs. Caroline E. Cocks, who passed away at the age of ninety-six on Wednesday, at her home on Western avenue. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Cocks was one of the best known and oldest borough residents and until the time her frailties began had enjoyed excellent health. She was the widow of the late John S. Cocks, who was at one time colonel of the Twelfth Regiment, N. Y. S. G. Two sons and a daughter survive her, they being Charles, John and Mrs. Louis Spangenberg. Four grandchildren are also remaining.

INVITATION DANCE.

The third annual invitation dance of the Bachelor Club will be held in Debe's Auditorium this evening. Over five hundred invitations have been issued for the affair. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Berrell's orchestra of Bernardsville.

VATERLANDSHILFE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Vaterlandshilfe was held in Saengerbund Hall, North Plainfield, last evening. Routine business occupied most of the session.

SAINTER DANCE.

Under the auspices of the Sauer Mutual Aid Society a dance will be held in Saengerbund Hall, North Plainfield, this evening.
