Perhaps the most active Primary Election race in the state on Tuesday will be that for the Democratic nomination for governor, where six men will be vying for their party's nod to face incumbent Republican Gov. Thomas H. Kean, GOP side for the nomina-

The six Democratic contenders are: Former State Sen. Stephen B. Wiley of Convent Station, State Sen. John F. Russo of Toms River, Essex County Executive Peter Shapiro of South Orange, Elliot Greenspan of Bloomfield: Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson and former United States Attorney Robert J. DelTufo of Morristown.

There will also be no contests for either party's nominations for the two 22nd District Assembly seats, which have two-year incumbents, both Republicans, are Bob Franks of New Brunswick and Maureen Ogden of Short Hills.

Opposing them in ovember will be the Democratic nominees, John F. Tully, Jr. of Caldwell and florence Martone of Maplewood. The only other contests in the Primary will be in the Democratic freeholder, in which in-cumbents, Charlotte DeFilippo of Hillside and Walter Boright of Scotch Plains, and their runningmate on the organization line, Gerald W. McCann of

The winners of the Democratic nomination will face Republican nominees Richard Malgran of Plainfield, the only GOP in-cumbent; William H. cumbent; William H. Eldridge of Summit, the former mayor of Berkeley

Fulcomer. Unopposed for four-year terms on the Republican State Committee are Richard P. Hatfield of Scotch Plains, the former Union County register, and Elizabeth Republican chair-a former freeholder. Democratic nominees for four-year terms on their party's state committee, all unopposed, are: June S. Fischer of Scotch Plains, Union Courty Register Joanne Rajocol-of Springfield and Rent St female side, and Frederic S. Kessier of Cranford, Fred W. Lester of Hillside and Elizabeth Fourth Ward

The focus of township residents after the Primary will probably turn to the councilmanic contests in the Second and Fourth Wards, where Democratic and Republican contenders who are unopposed in the Primary will be squaring off with their foes for the right to serve the year remaining in the terms of Second Wand Democratic Councilman George Nucera, who left when he was of Springfield and Rent streeted mayor last year, and dos of Summit on the Fourth Ward Republican Councilman John Bodnar who resigned when he moved out of the township.

The Second Ward race will be between Democrat William Caruso, 49, of 7 School St., who was appointed to fill Councillant. Councilman John McKenpointed to fill Councilman Nucera's seat until November, and Republican municipal chairman, George W. Crater of 461
