WANTED: PLACE FOR FURBER'S CROSSWALK

Council Finds Out Things About It So
Permit Is Revoked And It Will Go
Elsewhere—Send Along Your Bid

HE GETS MORE LIMELIGHT

Special Committee Appointed To Look
Into Charges—Council Shows Ugly
Mood Toward Misrepresentation

Public business is to be made the business of the public. On the motion of Councilman Armstrong a committee of three was appointed to investigate the charges and insinuations of J. D. Furber that the Council had wilfully allowed the city to be overcharged to the amount of $4,000 on the Main Street paving contract.

That the Council is tired of being the object of malicious and wholly groundless insinuations was made evident at last night's meeting when Councilman Armstrong made the above motion. A special committee composed of Councilmen Armstrong, Walker and Tremblay was appointed by acting President Tremblay. The committee will meet at an early date and will listen to Mr. Furber's accusations at length. This motion was passed without a dissenting voice.

The Council Chamber was shaken by a storm of laughter when Councilman Armstrong exposed the generous offer of J. D. Furber to lay a concrete crossing at Elizabeth Avenue and Irving Street in front of his office when he was out of the city as a clever advertising stunt of a construction company. They had offered to lay the crossing without cost to Mr. Furber with the idea of advertising their method of laying crosswalks in Rahway, and he in turn offered to the city in his own name.

As a result of the facts being known the permit for the laying of the crosswalk at the location mentioned was revoked and a committee appointed to consider another place for installing it.

This came as the result of Councilman Roark's motion, "I move," said he, "that this walk be laid in some part of the city where the company will receive greater equity in advertising for its cement." Councilman Armstrong offered the amendment that a committee be appointed to lay the walk where it saw fit. This was accepted, and the motion was carried unanimously.

To refute the published statement of Mr. Furber that the present Council had secured debts to the amount of $99,000—a statement which was nailed next day by the Record's presentation of the true facts of the case—City Clerk Lambert was ordered to secure from City Treasurer Anglemann a certified statement of the city's financial condition. This is to include the $34,000 authorized by the Common Council for the repaving of Main Street.

Councilman Roark reported that work on the Lawrence Street Bridge approach was fast nearing an end, and that before long he would have the pleasure of taking the Councilman for a drive over it.

City Attorney Dobbin reported that David H. Tremblay relative to the repaving of the city telephone fire alarm system. It appeared from his (Continued on page four.)

PLAN BOOST RAHWAY DAY

Committee Making Arrangements For Celebration In Near Future

It is expected that the Board of Trade committee will have a definite announcement to make to the people before the end of the week. The committee has been doing some hard work on the by-law and constitution and has practically completed the work. William M. Davis said this morning that plans for the "Boost Rahway" day were well under way and the date would be announced at the meeting of the citizens held on a day to be announced later.

Shirley Harris, secretary of the committee, has received a number of letters from Boards of Trade throughout the country. Several of the Boards have forwarded copies of their constitution and by-laws at his request. The announcement of the next meeting of the citizens will be made within a few days.

Those desiring to support the Board of Trade may affix their signatures to the petitions that are now in the hands of the committee. These petitions may be signed on application to the following: T. H. Roberts, Lehman Bros.; Miller Bros.; William M. Davis; Frederick C. Bauer; Gros Bros.; Arthur H. Wendell of the Wheelmen Company; James E. Boden of the Republic Company; John J. Marsh; M. W. Quinn; of Quinn & Boden; and P. W. Hughes of the New Jersey Steel Company.

RAHWAY GIRL STUDENTS

Eight Local Girls Attend State
Normal School At Trenton

Rahway will be strongly represented this year at the State Normal School at Trenton. Six young ladies attend their first year at the school, and two have been advanced from the first to the second year. All of the girls are former pupils in the public schools of this city and of the local high school.

The two girls who began their second year at the school are Miss Marion H. Hark and Miss Loretta. Those who attend the school this year are Miss Jane Springer, Miss Esther Davis, Miss Susie Solvitz, Miss Henrietta Blum, Miss Helen Uhler, and Miss Mildred Watkins.

This is believed to be the largest representation of Rahway girls which ever attended the Normal school at Trenton. All of the girls, when attending the local school, were brilliant scholars and graduates with honor. Rahway will doubtless make an impression this year at the state capital.

BIG SEWER PROBLEM IS CONSIDERED BY BOARD

Pollution of Rahway River
Must Stop By Oct. 1, And
Plans Are Under Way

Rahway will be ready to obey the orders of the State Board of Engineers to stop the pollution of the Rahway River by sewerage before October 1. This was definitely stated by Joseph Smith, President of the Sanitary Commission, this morning.

The sanitary commissioners, Joseph Smith, William A. Hanson, William B. Martin and Mayor Howard have been doing a great deal of hard work on this puzzling question and though they refuse to divulge their plans until October 1, Mr. Smith said the matter was well in hand.

Three years ago the State Board of Engineers ordered the city to stop the pollution of the Rahway river by October 1, 1911. "Three years time," said Mr. Smith, "has been given to the city to make the necessary changes. The turning of the river into an open cesspool by the city was strongly condemned by the State Board as a menace to the public health."

With the natural growth of the population from year to year and with additional number of sewers that would empty into it, the matter became a serious problem for the city to solve.

It is understood that a system of both sewerage and garbage disposal that has met with general favor throughout the country has been advanced as the most efficient way out of the difficulty. It was also said some time ago by an official not connected with the board, that the way to get out of the difficulty would be to ask for an extension of time. This was thought possible because of the amount of city revenue tied up in paying interest on the funded debt of the city. However, these are matters of conjecture and have not been made official. The plans of the Commissioners will not be made public until October 1.

RAHWAY FIREMEN START FOR STATE CONVENTION

The delegates attending the annual meeting of the Lincoln Hose and Ladder Company held last night at the fire house. Practically the entire membership of the Lincoln Company was present, with about thirty visitors who assisted the company at its annual in July.

At the business meeting Chief Toms was honored by being elected a delegate to the city convention which will be held by the local companies in the near future. The other delegates are Edward Leonard, and J. Dunn.

The meeting was an enjoyable affair in every sense of the word. An appetizing supper was served and speeches were made by several well-known firemen. H. B. Meiner was nominated for Assistant Chief of the Department. His name will be voted upon at the city convention.

After a search of several hours the police of Linden and Rahway last night found five year old Irene Orozky the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Orozky of Monmouth Avenue, at the home of Harry Ruddy of 29 Church Street, Rahway, and returned her to her grief-stricken parents.

The child had wandered away from the Linden Annex school at Linden and instead of going in the direction of her own home she walked to Rahway. She was found by Mr. Ruddy on Church Street at a late hour last night and he brought her to his home for the night.

It was not noticed for some time, and then it was commented upon by the teacher that the child was missing. When she failed to return home last night she was found by Mr. Ruddy and returned to her home.

UPSETS LOAD ON TRACKS.
A truck owned by contractor Wins turned over on the P. R. R. crossing yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock and piled up a load of dirt on the tracks. It was feared the train would be delayed, but the driver, Jim Hickey, got busy shoveling.

Section boss McIlwain was soon on the job with his gang and there were no serious results.

MOB RULE CHARGE STIRS GOVERNORS

Wilson and O'Neal In Verbal Battle.

"CAPRICE OF MAJORITY"

Alabama Governor Aronson New Jersey Executive by Attack on Initiative Referendum and Recall—Uniform Divorce Laws Urged by Carey of Wyoming.

Bying Lake, N. J., Sept. 13.—The executive meeting of the governors of twenty-four states, with Governor Carey of Oklahoma as presiding officer, was called to order by Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Governor O'Neal of Alabama regarding the "caprice of the majority" and "mob rule" by a stipulated talk on the divorce bill by Governor Carey of Wyoming and a proposal for a uniform divorce law by Governor Aronson of New Jersey.

Governor O'Neal and Governor Aronson of Montana had read initiative referendum papers on the necessity for amending the constitution of their respective states, when Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Governor O'Neal of Alabama, who had been invited to attend, were called to the floor.

There is a movement that seems to be gathering strength in certain sections of the Union, said Governor O'Neal, "which tends to weaken rather than to strengthen executive authority, and that is the system of initiative, referendum and recall." Governor O'Neal said that it was pleasing to know that this "mob rule" was being met with the almost unanimous opposition of the American bar. He said that the recall would "convert the public office into a spoils office and service involving, stirred by every passing breeze of public opinion," and spoke with contempt of the "caprice of the majority," a catch word that provoked a storm of criticism.

"I have never seen an instance where the national will of a majority could properly be called a 'mob rule,'" retorted Governor Wilson. "Nor is the verdict of the majority 'mob rule' as it is described by some."

The present conference is the fourth conference of governors. It is the third that they have held as an independent body on their own initiative. It is the second to be held at a regular annual session with a permanent organization, and it is the first of the conference to be held in the neighborhood of New York. Spring Lake, N. J., was the great occasion of the coming of the governors. The annual caucus, with its fireworks display and its gala ball, had been postponed from August. So the state heads ran into fireworks even before they had been in the state.

The conference is to last through Saturday. It is to consider in succession a series of subjects on which power-ranged speakers will make addresses, followed by general discussion. The subjects are: Initiative and referendum; the conference suggested that the subject was a little too strenuous for discussion at present, with the state of affairs here now existing, although, he said, there was no doubt that it fell into the class of subjects on which uniform laws were most needed and was, therefore, right in the line of the conference's work.

"Three men are coming on a run!"

"I'll take care of them," I replied.

"Keep yourself under cover!"

It was Payton that I wanted. He being disposed of, I felt in my exaltation equal to dealing with the others. The pirate and his companions ran with the speed of deer.

Presently he was within twenty feet of me. I could not be mistaken in him—a broad-breasted man, making straight for my pistol, leveled toward him.

"Stand back!" I called. "I don't want to shoot you. I don't want to shoot you."

But at that very instant Payton's foot caught and down he fell, his bullet striking over his head. His words of like lightning. He had heard the shot, and instead of rising he rolled into a depression.

Now I had not hit him, but I could not see him where he lay.

The other man came on at full speed, bringing his rifle to his shoulder as he began to ascend the rocks. I shot him down as I would a mad dog.

Cursing the mischance that had made me miss Payton, but not daring to wait longer for a second opportunity.

By this time, although I could hardly credit so trifling a suggestion, I began to think that Payton had slipped away in despair of being able to capture or kill us and fearful of the result.

"He cannot hope now to get the ransom," I argued, "and why, then, should he further risk his life and liberty?"

As I continued to ruminate upon this I became so convinced that I had hit upon the right solution of the problem that I ceased to think of the possibility of his escape.

JOB PRINTING OF ALL KINDS

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1911

The Sanitary Commission has undertaken to solve one of the most pressing problems this city has had to face. While the exact plans for the sewage and garbage disposal have not been given out, the commission has announced that it is prepared to present the State Board at Trenton with a plan to do away with the pollution of the Rahway River.

One of the greatest assets of this city should be its river. In its present state of pollution it is not as much of an asset as a detriment. But when the present pollution is ended and a stream of comparatively clean water takes the place of the present uncleanliness we may look for better things.

It is the intention of the people to appear before the National Congress at Washington some time in the future and urge that the river be made navigable. This one of the things that the Board of Trade, representing the people as a whole, will push when once that body is well under way.

A stream of clean water that is navigable for commerce will make the much-abused river not only a thing of joy and beauty, but one of usefulness. We trust that the scheme of the commission will be all that promises when such men as compose it announce that they have found a solution.

At the end of a description of an alleged assault to the Grand Jury over an alleged boycott, a local paper prints the following:

"Editor Note: The above is substantially correct. It is not known, however, whether the matter will be taken up by the present grand jury."

Football practice was resumed yesterday. Mr. Short introduced simple signal practice and showed the team some new formations. After several weeks work the team should make a very creditable showing, as the average weight of the team is one hundred and forty pounds.

Laboratory work was held in chemistry on Tuesday. Tables and apparatus received a good cleaning, after which a few simple exercises were carried out.

Henry Schubert of last year's Sophomore class has left school and has entered the drafting department of the Regina company of this city.

Miss Edith Terrell of the Junior class returned yesterday from a season's stay at Ocean Grove.

Many of the High school students can be seen afterwards busy engaged playing tennis on the various courts about town.

Some trouble was caused during the marching in the morning, and as a result Mr. Bickett reprimanded the guilty ones.

The outlook for a large senior class this year is most favorable. The number to graduate will be about twenty.

Last year's class consisted of eleven. This year's graduating class will probably be the largest in a number of years.

A new football has been ordered for the team and the Athletic Association promises to get new jerseys.

Our Letter Box

Under this head The Record will be glad to print letters on subjects of public concern or of any interesting general nature. Letters limited to 200 words. Nothing of a personal or controversial nature will be printed. Names of writers must be given but need not be published.

To the Editor Daily Record:
As a reader of your paper, and an advocate of your policies, it appears to me that one of the very first things needed to properly advance this "Rahway" movement is the construction of a theatre or auditorium in our city. It is true that there is an existing community of ten thousand such as Rahway is, cannot support a playhouse in public to hold theatrical performances, which would be a waste of money and time.

Compare our city with other places of similar or even smaller population, and note the auditoriums they can and do boast of. It is true that we are situated a bit near Newark and New York, where one may find the cream of theatricals, but this fact itself is far from strong enough to discourage such an idea, as very few of our citizens are so fortunate as to be able to see the best of the theatre.

Newcomers to our town are first to ask where our theatre is located, and then to ask where they may find the "Theaters of Rahway" have been given up as a lost cause. It is true that the present Auditorium or Opera House, the cynical citizen has been heard to remark that such a venture would never be a paying one, but does not the aggressive citizen who believes in advancement at any disagree with him?

This town surely has enough amusement to give people to entertain themselves, but it is not enough to give the people a bright, up-to-date and cheerful place to go to for their amusement. It is not enough to give the people a place to go to for their amusement, but it is not enough to give the people a place to go to for their amusement.

I never went a ring-few men do nowadays—but I if I were inclined to do so there is an incident in my life that would prevent it. It was during the war, and I was in the army.

At one point a little maid suddenly appeared in the middle of the room. She was a girl of about twelve years of age, and she was very pretty.

She was very pretty, and she was very intelligent. She was a girl of about twelve years of age, and she was very pretty.

During the time of Venetian supremacy when the court of the doge was one of the most splendid and magnificent in the world a young prince, Leonardo di Grand, while residing in his garden on the Grand Canal, was introduced to a woman who at once attracted his attention. She was one of those statuesque beauties with lustrous eyes, a wealth of black hair, full round cheeks and lips. Instead of lowering her eyes as Di Grand passed she brought them to bear upon him.

Di Grand instructed his gondolier to turn about and follow the lady. She disembarked on the steps of a house near the canal. Di Grand shot by as she was stepping from her gondola. She turned and gave him another look. The young man learned that the charming creature was Leonora Lodi. Leonora, recently arrived from Florence, was the daughter of the prominent young man of the household.
