A Momory. A small white hand, whose timld touch Concenled so much, revealed so much; A face lit with the tender pride Of not one wish unsatisfied; And slience that was musical With wordless songs; and that was all.

All; yet our lives may ebb and flow, And loves may come and loves may go Nor life nor love again confess A moment of such perfectness. Life may be long and love abide. Yet neither wholly satisfied. And when there comes the unlilden thought Of you, all else shall be forgot; And I will paint you with the grace Of that sweet hour upon your face (A grace too perfect to abide)

Of love fulfilled and satisfied. -----Left on the Field.

I can remember our rush through the woods, the humining of bullets, the falling of the branches broken by them, and all the trouble it cost us to force our way through the thickets of white thorn. The rifld became heavier. Through the edge of the woods we could see something red, shining at intervals. Sidorof, lo stare at me with his eyes very wide open. Largest Hotel Enterprises Now York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to Cal-Ifornia, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended Aven's Sansarani La in many similar eases, and he has never yet heard of its fallure to offeet a radical cure. Some years ago one of Mr. LuLAND's faim laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulders formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND's direction, was supplied with Aven's Sansapa But the which allayed the pain and irritation healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla after careful observation, declares that, if his belief, there is no medicine in the world
