As it seems to be the general impression that am interested in the Wood Yard over the river formerly run by Mr. John Bennett, this is to notify all those that wish to buy their Wood of me. that I have no interest in that Fard in any pai ticular. It is run exclusively in my Brother's in-terest. I am at the old stand on Hazelwood ave-nue, near the Columbian school house, where I keep on hand a full supply of Wood, Locust, Cedar and Chestnut Posts, Hean Poles in their season. The "Old Gray Mare" will be a full guarantee that you are getting your Wood from me.

DARING AND SUFFERING.

A History of the Andrews Railroad Raid Into Georgia in 1862.

The Most Heroic and Tragic Episode of the Civil War.

of the Secret Journey to the Heart of the Confederacy, the Capture of a Railway Train in a Confederate Camp, the Terrible Chase That Followed, and and Ris Party.

The expedition, in the daring of its inception, had the wildness of a romance; while in the gigantic and overwhelming results it sought and was likely to obtain it was absolutely sublime.— It was all the deepest laid scheme, and on the grandest scale, that ever emanated from the brains of any number of Yankees combined. THE SOUTHERN April 15, 1862. Despite its tragic termination, it shows what a handful of brave men could undertake in America.—Cours de Paris, History of the Civil War

IN AMERICA, VOL. 2, p. 187. By WILLIAM PITTENGER, A MEMBER OF THE EXPEDITION.

CHAPTER VII. -CONTINUED. Fuller and his party were now not many iles away, and were making more rapid time toward us than had ever been made on that road before. But we knew nothing of that—supposed that we were still an hour ahead of any pursuit that could be imagined. We had been at this place one hour and five minutest it seemed to those shut up in the box car nearer half a day! and when the whistle of a train was heard, which fortunately for us was first from the north-not the pursning train : which we expected to be greeted in the evening when our work was done. This last extra came up to the platform as the , pause for moranzing; we nited again and others had done, and was no once ordered by Andrews to draw on down the road that we might have room to go out. The conductor obeyed without hesitation, and this obstruction was removed. It only remained to adjust the swatch so that we might again get on the main track. This Andrews directed the old switch tender to do, but he had been ! getting in a worse and worse humor for On and after Sunday, Nov. 20th, 1887, trains up his keys, and now roughly declared pass the trains above.

LESSON V, SECOND QUARTER, IN-TERNATIONAL SERIES, APRIL 29. reat of the Lesson, Matt. xxv, 14-30. Golden Text, Rev. II, 10-Memorize Verses 20-21-Comment by Rev, H. S.

(From Lesson Helper Quarterly, by permission of H. S. Hoffman, Philadelphia, publisher.) Notes -V. 14. A man traveling, Jesus leaving earth and returning to heaven. V. 15. Several ability, different gifts and endownents of men, the foundation of respondent sibility and reckoning. V. 16. Traded, did business, worked. V. 19. Long time, implies that coming of the Lord came later than was expected. V. 24. Hard man, impossible to satisfy. V. 27. Exchangera bankers, who would safely keep and pay in erest on the money. The virgins are represented as waiting fo their Lord; here we have the servants working for him. The contemplative and active sides of Christian life are presented in the two parables. The foolish virgins failed from thinking their part too easy; the wicked servant fails from thinking his too hard. Christ exhorts us in this parable not to "wait than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be so d fin come," but "occupy till I come."

V. 14 Christ, at the close of his earthly hife, left his disciples and ascended to heaven.
