TOU can't begin to know the decorative possibilities of an Oriental Lamp until you have seen the fascinatingly harmonious display of Vantine light bearers on the Main Floor.

Designed primarily to give the maximum amount allumination (electricity, gas or oil), they express the highest degree of art and beauty, blending with most any decorative scheme

The wares of Japan, China, India, Turkey and Persia, are eleverly utilized in fashioning them, which readily accounts for the almost total absence of replica. Prices are NOT by any means excessive: shades are

NEW YORK FASHIONS MISSING MAGAZINES

AND LOVELY FUR CREATIONS—CHINA BEADS THE RAGE If you are making over a last year's party frock-if you want your chiffon waist to be specially elegant -if you desire the latest trimming on almost any dressy garment, do a pattern simple or elaborate in small white china beads. Other beads are modish, but these are a long way in the lead. A waist of gray chiffon over black and white striped silk has a dainty little vine pattern at the nock of the chiffon tucker and at the bottom of the half long sleave, just where the cuffs and white lace chemisette join on, and scattered beyond the pattern at half inch intervals a lot more of the milk white beads, so that the whole band is four inches in width. Two pipings, one of cerise and one of black slik, finish the top of the collar and bottom of the lace Fer Trimming Tiny bands of fur trim even the edges of bows and sashes, and the lightest tulle gowns have bands of skunk or other dark, long-haired furs at the bottom of the Tunic or skirt. Everyone has gone fur mad in designing, but so charming are the results that one only desires to do likewise. Every bit of fur one owns can be utilized to increase the style and attractiveness of one's wardrobe in one way or another.

Combinations Combinations are the order of the day in fashion's realm, not only color arrangements that rival the rainhow, especially for evening frocks. but melanges of odd materialscloth and velvet, brocade and chiffon and satin. Evon upholstery tapestries have been brought into play and make some of the very most at-

Fur sots are rarely of one pelt, except for the most substantial usage. For dressy wear pelfs of all sorts are combined with one another, and with silks, satins, brocades, velvets and chiftons, making up an endless array of fascinating novelties for Milady's adornment. Very beautiful and varied were some sets recently seen. Several of the most attractive had the neck piece in long scart form and the big flat musts that draped thomselves in fascinating folds with every movement of the wearer, made practical in a new way, having pockets front or back of the size and capacity of a handbag and with an inner change pocket, securely clasped, to add to their convenience.

Ermine and Chinchilla

- A set of ermine and chinchilla had the pure white, tailless fur, with bands of the gray fur arranged at intervals, and a lining of white satin brocaded in medallions of violets. A set of seal and the same white fur had the dark fur used for the under part, while the ermine animal skins formed the trimming. More practical and not less attractive were sets of handsome attest. skunk and opossum skins-the new Australian opossum that resembles Chinchilla closely in color and texture. Raccoon is a fashionable favorite for general wear, and bear, in luxurious long soft pelt, makes muffs, scarfs and collars for fur and cioth coats.

Long coats were never so much worn as this season, for dresses are decidedly more in style than coat and skirt costumes, so the extra coat is a necessity. Fur coats lead in fashionable favor, and a really excellent garment may be had at a very moderate figure, taking into account the service rendered. One of the novelties this year is "smoke" colored squirrel skins, that make up charmingly into warm and comparatively light weight garments. These are a late French idea.

Odds and Ends Long wristed gloves are worn for all-dress-purposes, for sleeves are nearly all three-quarter length or shorter. For walking the heavy chamois or dogskins, with spear-point finish, are leaders. The velvet neck bow continues ubiquitous. Lorgnettes of gold, silver, gun metal or shell are used even by very young girls. Hats are small, high as to crown, and meagre in trimming. The bolster skirt has succeeded the hobble, with extreme dressers and is even uglier than its predecessor, so its wearers are in the small minority, as the average woman refuses either to "bolster" or "hobble."

When You Buy Here

Established 1862 - Reorganized 1910

Three Powerful Reasons Why You Should Buy Your Winter Clothes Here

1st—THE STOCKS Are Enormous, Fresh and Absolutely Unbroken in Style, Size, Pattern, Making Selection Easy and Satisfactory.

2d—THE PRICES, Owing to the Long Delay in Our Opening, Are Materially Reduced to Quicken the Dispersal of the Heavy Stocks.

3d-THE QUALITY of the Merchandise is Unequaled and the Store Service is As Nearly Perfect As Modern Ingenuity Can Devise.

Advanced methods of merchandising—wide-awake watchfulness of the customers interests and liberal, generous price-making are cardinal features of the Watson business creed.

The "business" motive is strong in our blood, but aside from our desire to sell you, we urge you to look over our superb stocks of merchandise. Every man is a welcome visitor.

The Suits and Overcoats will give you something to talk over, to compare, to see with your own eyes the standard we have set for ourselves. The prices are stirring the town.
