He has characterized the wool sched-ule as 'indefensible" and he has admitted that the cotton schedule did not meet with his approval. Minority Leader James R. Mann introduced a bill last session creating a long free list, and while he did so merely as an neident to a filibuster, it will be hard for him to explain now that he was not in good faith. Thus it will be difficult to justify a presidential veto for any of these bills.

Herbert Stiles presented the matter in such a clear and convincing way that there was not a dissenting voice when the question was put to vote. The new sewer will also include a part of Newton street and will furnish great relief to those who have been compelled to use cosspools and other crude methods to dispose of refuse. The opposition which developed when this matter was up for discussion before has now been withdrawn and the work will be put through as soon as possible, Mr. Stiles, with apparent justice, criticised some of the wealthy property owners who live on sewered streets themselves and enjoy all the modern conveniences but are unwilling to

Value of Testimony

The value of testimony as to the quality of a piano is only useful in so far as it confirms one's own judgment. Taken in conjunction with the opinion a person forms for himself, it is of great value, for it confirms, or otherwise, one's own judgment and helps to eliminate error.

A lady visited a dozen piano enporiums recently, and then came back to purchase a LAUTER. " I am almost afraid of my own judgment," said she, " but it seems to me none of the dozen or more other makes I have examined compare with the LAUTER in singing tone and sympathetic quality. I wonder if I am right?"

The lady judged better than she knew. Any unbiased expert would at once confirm her verdict. Indeed, much of the prestige enjoyed by the LAUTER PIANO is the result of the admiration expressed by tuners and other practical pianomen. and by pianists, professional and amateur. who are quite unknown to us.

The LAUTER PIANO is an exquisitely beautiful musical instrument. It is made to meet the requirements of people of discriminating musical taste. These three excerpts that follow, taken from the "Lauter Piano Book," epitomize profeseional opinion :
