and the future of the city itself by passing a Track Elevation Ordinance to suit the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and ignoring the wishes of the people of Rahway.

These are the men who ignored the pleadings of the citizens of Rahway, whose interests they are sworn to protect, and voted to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the most valuable franchise that this city ever had or ever will have.

Of these nine men, three are employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad, one is the son of an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and still another in close business relations with the company. Of another it is reported he has been promised a lot of business by the Pennsylvania Railroad if the ordinance went through as they wanted it.

These are the men who ignorantly believe that they are far greater than all the other citizens of Rahway combined, and in their ignorance have saddled themselves with a responsibility that the man of average civic intelligence would shudder at. It may be that in the near future they will awaken with a jolt.

There was a time in the history of the profession this feeling has been when the country newspaper man especially was generally supposed to be a kind of object of charity, to be maintained or sustained by the bounty of the people, a sort of necessary evil, so to speak, in the minds of the people with whom he cast his lot and for whose every interest he labored if governed by the proper ethics.

I know from experience that Fels-Naptha is the only kind of soap that will wash things clean in cold or lukewarm water. It isn't just soap; it is a different and easier way of washing."

"Soap is soap" said a woman. Her only idea of soap was something to mix with hot water in order to make a steaming suds. She thought it didn't matter which kind she used—and it didn't.

But if she had used Fels-Naptha in the way it should be used, in cold or lukewarm water, she would have learned that Fels-Naptha is not only a soap but a different way of washing.

A sewing machine is of no use to a woman who doesn't know how to use it. Neither is any other labor-saving device.

Before you use a cake of Fels-Naptha. then, read carefully the directions printed on the back of the red and green wrapper. The directions will tell you how to make Fels-Naptha do the hardest part of your washing, without hot fires, without steaming suds, without boiling or back-breaking hard labor. It will save your clothes, savetime, save fuel, save your health and the clothes will be cleaner and whiter than.

COMMUNICATED

I enclose herewith a poem from th pen of some unknown writer which I think contains a message especially fitted for the graduates of the different classes in our public school and it is something that can be taken away with them and made of great use in their lives as they start out in their various paths to fame and fortune. This peom contains a warning and an incentive, depicting to those who would be wise that fame and riches last but the day, and to those who have not been favored by Dame Fortune that there are brighter things to come, for surely all things shall pass !

As is the case most times with the Erandates as well as the pupils who: tatt getreets exercises that apirit of the occasion and do not take full heed to the words apoken from the experience of others and so they loss advice which would have stood them in great stead in years to come, but this little poem when once read always remains with the reader for it tells in brief but simple language that some things perish with the using while others are immortal and it which please the eye for the day only while the larger virtuse of love kindness and service, things that will live on forever and prove of matchless worth, are neglected. Life before these graduates is very bright and it seems that the world i welcome them to their fold, but alas when the horror of the cold critical cialism, values them in dollars and cents and places on them a value far below what they ever dreamed of, then it is well to read this poem over again and learn the lesson that true worth must at all time have a proper value placed upon it and if they will but enter into the world's work and prove to its satisfaction that they are true mon it will be impossible to keep them down and the world will sooner or later place the proper value upon every one and that there is no escaping this valuation, so if disheartened;

by the present valuation of the world they can learn this lesson that in the
