Constitution Week, celebrating the 184th anniversary of the signing of the American Constitution in 1787, will be observed for one week beginning tomorrow. The American flag should be flown each day in recogntion that ours is a society of laws, not of men. When President Richard M. Nixon was a student at Whittier High School in California, he made a prizewinning speech about our Constitution, which was featured in the Aug. 5, 1969 issue of Christian Economics. This ....The success of the Constitution can only be judged by the subsequent progress of the United States ....Such progress in the course of 141 years is truly remarkable, and the basic cause for that progress, undoubtedly has been the Constitution... (It) has been the underlying force in America's progress. We know that our forefathers have championed this document to the extent of giving their lives == that we might enjoy its benefits. Yet in view of these facts, at the present time, a great wave of Indifference to the Constitution's authority, disrespect of its law, and opposition to its basic principles threatens its very foundations. "Shall we of the present generation allow this inresponsible for its downfall. If this nation wishes its progress to continue, this wave of indifference to the laws of the Constitution must cease, For as long as the Constitution is respected, its laws obeyed and its principles enforced, America will continue to progress; but if the time should ever come when America will consider this document too obsolete to cope with changed ideals of government, then the time will have arrived when the American people as an undivided nation must come back to normal and change their ideals to conform excuse for rampant expansion of bureaucracy. In the haste to do something, laws, regulations and agencies, at every level of government, are multiplying with bewildering rapidity. Both big and little businesses that provide jobs and security for millions of people, as well as tax revenue, have been caught in a blizzard of costly and time-consuming paperwork. In one community on the West Coast, a small fish plant is given a deadline for filling out voluminous reports and acquiring permits having to do with certain fuse littering the property marek failed to explain that 388-0500. waste discharges, Much of the work is useless and overlapping. In a nearby community, a large corporation is confronted with a similar situation--forms and more forms, litigation, changing rules, conflicting old law has been "exhumed" which was designed originally to protect navigation in waterways. As this law now applies, communities may dump sewage into waterways, but businesses are faced with the choice of fighting the battle of forms or closing.
