of the board, and Anthony D. Schoberl, president, announced this week-that interest rates on certain types of loans were reduced on Jan. 1 by Franklin State Bank All collateral loans, whether secured by marketable securities or savings accounts, are reduced by 1/2 of 1% but the loans must -meet legal requirements. The bank is continuing to pay the maximum legal rate possible on its savings accounts. The rate is 5-3/4% on two-year accounts and 5 1/2% on one-year accounts. To stimulate borrowing, the bank also recently announced a substantial reduction in its auto loan rates. Residential mortgage interest rates have been cur to as low as 6 3/4%. Rahway High School students will have the opportunity to see a special Atomic Energy Commission program on nuclear energy and its peaceful uses in May. The 40-minute assembly presentation, followed by visits to classrooms, is scheduled for May 15. 'This lecture-demonstration program covers highlights of basic nuclear physics, radioactivity, chain reactions, reactors and various applications of radioisotopes," Rep. Gallagher said. He noted that a specially trained science teacher accompanies the mobile unit and is responsible for the demonstration. The program features both live demonstrations and direct student participation. The devices used by the lecturer include a radiation counter, a reactor model and electrically activated
