Feasibility study on dam and spillway structure on Robinson's Branch ordered by city councilmen

During a brief lull in a four-day stretch of rain, Rahway councilmen met July 14 and unanimously passed a resolution calling for a study on a possible dam and "spillway" type structure on Robinson's

Branch of the Rahway River in an attempt to alleviate flooding. Earlier that day heavy rainfall in effect created a lake in the area of the intersection of Central and St. George Avenues near the city public library. The water forced traffic off of Route no. 27 and on to city side streets. The area effected was in the vicinity of the controversial Sisto landfill project on Robinson's Branch, a project which was the topic of a June 25 special hearing by the councilmen. Although it was hoped the spillway structure would alleviate some of the flooding citizens complained about at that hearing, it does not constitute the councilmen's response to the landfill. Action on that matter was said to be awaiting receipt of the transcript of the hearing. The resolution approved called for the city director of public works, Frank Koczur, to begin an immediate study of the feasibility of the dam and spillway to be situated above the Maple Avenue bridge. The purpose of the project was said to be "to control flow downstream and utilize the Milton Lake tract of the Union County park commission as a retention basin." The measure also called upon city officials to investigate the possibility of obtaining state and federal funds for the project in view of the fact that "increased flooding of Robinson's Branch is due in part to increased flows from upstream communities." Prior to the vote second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh said for the past four to five years very little has been done in the city to curb flooding. Sixth ward Republican annual event, now in its 10th year, which is sponsored by the city recreation department and the Alpine Wheelmen. The location is in front of the Rahway Young Men's Christian Association on Irving Street. For pictures of the winners please see the sports section.

City employees' summer working hours prove to be hot topic at council meet

The legality of summer working hours for city employees was questioned by various Rahway councilmen at their July 14 meeting with some of the strongest opponents calling for a special council session for the purpose of hiring an outside attorney to rule on the matter. The question was first raised by third ward Republican councilman Richard J. Vojnik at the completion of the regular agenda for the meeting. He noted hours for city hall employees were reduced from the regular 40 a week to 35.

According to business administrator Joseph M. Hartnett, the employees work from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. instead of the regular 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. hours. There is no change in salary although overtime is still computed on the basis of a 40-hour week. At that time city attorney Alan Karcher was elsewhere in the building at a hearing of the alcoholic beverage control board. Mr. Hartnett noted the legal director had upheld the legality of the reduced hours.

Second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh then made a motion calling for the special session for "the sole purpose of retaining an attorney to see if the city can afford summer hours." The call for retaining an attorney was first sounded by councilman Vojnik. The motion was stopped by Democratic council president Wilson D. Beauregard who ruled the floor was only open to comments from citizens. However following the public session councilman Vojnik again raised the subject. Although the councilmen appeared to be in favor of the session, there was a great deal of difficulty over how to summon it and when it should be held. The meeting was finally adjourned with the understanding president Beauregard would select a date suitable for all. As of press time no date was announced. Earlier mayor Daniel L.

Martin noted the reduced hours were not an innovation but a common practice in past years and past administrations. He said the real change came last year when he did not grant the reduced time. The mayor explained there would be a savings in terms of utilities and that there was a reduced work load because of less visits to city hall by the public. He also noted the reduced hours would soon become a negotiable item with the employees' union. When Mr. Karcher returned from his hearing he expressed his agreement with Mr. Hartnett's letter explaining the legal basis for the action. Councilman Marsh argued work hours and salaries were set by ordinance and contract and "do not change by the whim of the mayor or business administrator." Councilman Vojnik called the shortened hours "a deplorable example to set for the people of Rahway" and said until it was resolved he would vote against every administrative policy and expenditure when it would not affect the public good. Mr. Hartnett said the only reason the council votes on salaries and the budget is because such items involve monetary transactions. When no such transactions are involved, he said, the administration is free to deal as they wish with employees. He also said, when ques-

Rule complaints of community residents may restrict transfers of liquor licenses

A New Jersey supreme court ruling saying local alcoholic beverage control boards can restrict the transfer of liquor licenses under opposition from community residents is expected to have a wide impact in future license transfers. Among the licenses which might potentially be effected are the 17 licenses in Clark and 47 in Rahway. The township licenses include nine consumption, two retail and six club permits. The city licenses include 29 retail, eight distribution and 10 club permits. The court ruling on July 10 overturned a state appeals court decision which allowed the transfer without conditions of the license of Lyons Farms Tavern in Newark to its newly-acquired Chancellor Delicatessen and Restaurant. The owner, Alexander Neu, testified before the alcoholic beverage control board of Newark that he planned to maintain essentially the existing operation at the delicatessen, a package store with a small bar where sandwiches were sold.

However members of the community expressed opposition to what they called the influx of liquor licenses into the central ward. The local board denied the application and the case was appealed to the director of the division of alcoholic beverage control. During a public hearing a division examiner said that the license can be transferred on the condition that the bar not be expanded. The examiner said that the delicatessen must be operated as a "delicatessen-restaurant" and the bar could not be longer than its present eight feet. Officials in the appellate division of superior court then ruled in favor of Mr. Neu saying the only question was whether Mr. Neu can transfer his license and no conditions may be imposed. On appeal by the local board to the state supreme court, the high court judges said "community sentiment may properly be heard and should be given thoughtful consideration in person-to-person license transfers." "This court has found community sentiment to be a proper consideration," the court judges stated. "Indeed it makes little sense to hold a public hearing unless one is prepared to give due consideration to expressions from the community," the judges wrote. Notices of license transfers must be published in the official legal newspapers of the municipalities involved. In Rahway this would be The Rahway News-Record and in Clark it would be The Clark Patriot.

Residents may express their opposition when transfers arise through their local beverage control boards. In Clark the township council comprises the board, in Rahway the board is headed by Mrs. Kenneth (Madeline) Kirkbright.

HUD officials seek objections to city's use of $560,000 in grants

Objections to the proposed use by city officials of $562,000 in federal funds, the first installment in what will amount to an estimated $2,245,000 community development grant, are being sought by officials of the federal department of housing and urban development. The projects include $25,000 for a senior citizens mini-bus transportation program and $140,000 for a combined storm and sanitary sewers separation and intersection project involving sewers along West Grand Avenue and adjacent streets plus intersections at West Grand Avenue and Irving and Whittier Streets. A total of $115,000 will go toward a $230,000 project for land acquisition and park development known as East Hazelwood Project no. 2 and $100,000 of the grant will go toward construction of the Main Street firehouse, estimated by city officials to cost $750,000. On the three remaining projects $100,000 will be used to provide interest payments on loans, $12,000 will go for the administration of a community development program and $20,000 will be used for the construction of a security fence around the existing senior citizens complex at 224-250 West Grand Avenue. Environmental review records on the projects are on file at city hall, 1470 Campbell Street, where they are open for public inspection and copying, according to legal notices published by city officials in this issue of The Rahway News-Record. Objections will be heard solely on the basis that proper certification regarding the city's acceptance of the jurisdiction of the federal courts was not made or that there was an omission by the city in the environmental review process. Such objections should be delivered to the department, Gateway Building no. 1, Raymond Plaza, Newark, 07102, no later than Wednesday, August 6.

Charity triumphs over grief: Revelers to donate church bell

Despite their grief over the loss of their home to fire, members of the Revelers' Theater of Rahway have briefly put aside their fundraising to rebuild their home in order to perform an act of charity for a group of neighbors. In ceremonies scheduled for 11:30 a.m. today, the bell which hangs in the steeple of the fire-gutted theater, the former home of the Rahway Russian Orthodox Church, will be removed and donated to the congregation. The church turned theater, located at 1696 Irving Street, has been the home of the 40-year-old acting troupe for 10 years. The group was formed in Union and performed in an old barn there until the structure was destroyed by order of township officials. The actors moved into the city church when the orthodox congregation moved to a new structure on West Grand Avenue only a few blocks away. At that time removing the bell was structurally and financially prohibitive. But on May 26 the playhouse was gutted by a fire which is believed to have started in the basement dressing room and destroyed all but the exterior walls and the steeple of the building. When asked, theater members agreed to donate the bell. Officials of the Commercial Union Insurance Company, which has salvage rights, also agreed to the donation. The problem of how to deliver the bell to its new home was resolved when officials of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company promised both the transportation and manpower needed. Members of the theater group are trying to raise $40,000 to rebuild their playhouse in time to stage "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off." In the fall, if work is not completed in time they hope to stage the show elsewhere in the area.

Members of the community expressed opposition to what they called the influx of liquor licenses into the central ward. The local board denied the application and the case was appealed to the director of the division of alcoholic beverage control. During a public hearing a division examiner said that the license can be transferred on the condition that the bar not be expanded. The examiner said that the delicatessen must be operated as a "delicatessen-restaurant" and the bar could not be longer than its present eight feet. $3 million for Rahway announced by Rinaldo

Three federal grants totaling nearly $3 million for flood control, housing rehabilitation and school assistance were awarded to Rahway, according to representative Matthew J. Rinaldo. The largest amount, $1,259,600, covers a federal contract for flood control work at the Rahway River. It will provide for flood protection in the city's urban renewal area under sponsorship of the army corps of engineers. Cross Bay Excavators, Incorporated, of New York City was the successful bidder among nine firms seeking the contract, the 12th district legislator stated. Representative Rinaldo said that it removes one of the last physical barriers to the city's long-planned urban renewal project while also extending flood control work on the Rahway River. The Republican legislator also said the Rahway housing authority is receiving $509,000 for improvements at its project at Capobianco Plaza and the senior citizens apartments at West Grand Avenue. The work, previously announced by city officials, includes improvements to the heating system, water lines, painting and waterproofing of buildings, bathroom modernization, windows and termite control. The authority previously was granted $417,300 to begin the improvements, the representative for Rahway noted. The third federal grant is $427,267 to the Rahway board of education to aid educationally disadvantaged students. The grant was made under the emergency school aid act.

OF DAYS LONG PAST... This drawing of the residence of A. C. Watson of Rahway graced the pages of Ballou's Pictorial Drawing-Room Companion about 1860 when the editors commissioned a two-page pictorial essay on Rahway. The drawing was said to have been done by a city artist who signed his work "Neutral Tim." In the essay accompanying the artwork he described the house as one of "three ornate private residences in the vicinity" and said it was located at "Milton Avenue facing Fourth Street" and was "encompassed by every variety of fruit and ornamental trees and shrubbery." It is believed the location is somewhere between St. George Avenue and Esterbrook Avenue on West Milton Avenue.

A 24-year-old, unemployed Rahway deliveryman confessed to murdering an 82-year-old city woman and mugging a 70-year-old city man while on parole from Bordentown State Reformatory. He was sentenced to 45 years in prison. Union County court judge John P. Walsh on July 11 sentenced Leroy Cain, Jr. for the fatal beating and stabbing of Mrs. Elizabeth Kucsera of 1763 Montgomery Street and the hearing and robbing of Arnold Pritz of Washington Street. Cain pled no defense to the murder charges on May 26 as part of a plea bargain agreement with the Union County prosecutor's office. He admitted he broke into the old woman's home on November 26 of last year with another man known only as Broadway. In pleading to the murder charge, he said the robbers surprised Mrs. Kucsera as she was watching television. After she screamed, "I know you, I know you," Cain told the court, he started beating the woman and then stabbed her to death.

Cain also pled guilty to the November 11 of last year robbery and beating of Mr. Pritz in his Washington Street home. He admitted breaking into Mr. Pritz's residence with his alleged accomplice in the killing of Mrs. Kucsera and, while going through the house, heard the man snoring in his bed. He admitted the robbers woke the man up, putting a pillow case over his head and beat him before fleeing the house with cash. According to assistant prosecutor Rudolph Hawkins, Cain was on parole from the reformatory at the time of the crimes. He was serving a term on robbery and receiving stolen property charges and was sent back while awaiting sentencing in the county on the murder charge. Mr. Hawkins, who called Cain "a professional break and entry man," urged the court to give the defendant the maximum term under the plea bargain agreement. "There was no mercy shown by the defendant on November 26 when he killed Mrs. Kucsera," he said.

Members of the community expressed opposition to what they called the influx of liquor licenses into the central ward. The local board denied the application and the case was appealed to the director of the division of alcoholic beverage control. During a public hearing a division examiner said that the license can be transferred on the condition that the bar not be expanded. The examiner said that the delicatessen must be operated as a "delicatessen-restaurant" and the bar could not be longer than its present eight feet. We Have the Strength

"The outlook is for the second or third best year in U.S. or any other economic history, with about 85 million men and women at work; record or near-record consumer financial assets; minimal excess capacity in basic industries; a topping off of the government's time-tested enlarged kit of help for the unemployed and underemployed; more comparative U.S. advantages over most nations in energy, inflation, capital markets, and financial system strength; unrivaled management expertise; the best educated people in the world in a mood wanting to understand our problems and participate in their solutions; and no war."

"This is a pretty hefty set of strengths to help us find a solid bottom to this recession close to where we are now--if we'll only demonstrate the willingness to weigh the factual evidence of strengths and not insist on stressing only weaknesses. The key point is whether but when the outlook will improve."

County Revenues Up, Says Census Bureau

Revenues collected by the nation's county governments during fiscal 1972-73 totaled $27.5 billion, an increase of $3.3 billion, or 13.7 per cent, over the previous year's total, the Census Bureau reports.

County government expenditures totaled $26.7 billion that year, up 9.3 per cent from the 1971-72 total of $24.4 billion.

Public welfare, education, highways and hospitals, in that order, were the leading county functions in terms of expenditure for general government purposes and accounted for about 61 per cent of the total.

Some Good News

The Best Regulator

"My experience has led me to conclude that the free enterprise system is the best regulator of all. Ginfrida to appeal ruling upholding his suspension

A departmental ruling upholding the suspension of Clifford J. Ginfrida from his job as a city public works department foreman will be appealed by the 59-year-old city employee pending the resolution of criminal charges brought against him last month. Ginfrida was suspended by Mayor Daniel L. Martin after a Union County grand jury returned an indictment accusing the veteran of 13 years' service with the city of involvement in an alleged kickback scheme. The kickbacks allegedly were made by contractors on deliveries of goods to the city.

Ginfrida, who had reportedly suffered a heart attack and was on sick leave at the time of the suspension, challenged the mayor's action saying he could not be suspended while on sick leave until he had used up his accumulated sick time. He also contended there was no basis for his suspension.

After a departmental hearing, director Frank Koczur ruled that the suspension will stand. He said Ginfrida will be restored to his position with full back pay and benefits if he is acquitted.

Joseph M. Hartnett, city business administrator, said on July 10 that Ginfrida has filed a grievance through local no. 866 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and a second hearing is expected to be conducted within the next two weeks.

He said if Ginfrida is dissatisfied with that decision he may either appeal it to the civil service commission or ask that it be arbitrated by the public employment relations commission.

THE FIRST OF MANY ... Changing times are reflected in the industrial arts program at Charles H. Brewer School in Clark, part of the summer school sponsored by the township board of education. Among the growing number of female students who have enrolled in the class, taught by Ronald Barone, are, left to right, Gina Soricello, Ellen Siegel, Kim Lovejoy and Lori Lefebvre. Most significant of all, we are told not all of the girls are making grades.

Find body of dead man near city animal hospital

Rahway police identified the body of a man found dead in a stolen car parked near an animal hospital on West Grand Avenue in Rahway on July 9 as that of Rocco W. Condoto, 19, of 126 Clifford Street, Newark.

Positive identification was established July 10 by the youth's father, who told police he last saw his son when the youth left the house the night of July 6.

STARTING AT BEGINNING ... Students in the industrial arts classes taught by Ronald Barone at Charles H. Brewer School in Clark start by learning the basics, such as how to select the right tools for the tasks they have undertaken. The program is part of the summer school sponsored by the township board of education. Three students making their selections are, left to right, Anthony Migliaro, William Hinkelday and David Rowinski.

Comedy show of Rahwayans set for radio

Madness will rule the airwaves of Seton Hall University's radio station, WSOU-FM, in the form of a comedy hour called "Harold" on Wednesday, July 23, from 8:05 until 9 p.m.

The show, conceived and written by Rahway High School graduates Steven Pender and Dennis Freehand, will consist of satirical sketches, commercials and songs performed by the duo plus cohorts Karen Heiss, Theodore Raicer and Al Petras.

Some of the targets for lampooning will include the nursing home scandal, William Shakespeare, highway restaurants, toy stores and public service announcements.

Mr. Pender is a disc jockey at the university where he is a communications major. He jokingly explained the title by saying, "We named it after my uncle. He is dead. We hope the show will not have to be."

Mr. Freehand served as features editor for the city high school's newspaper, Rho Eta Sigma, and as drama critic for "Quo Vadis," the newspaper at Middlesex College in Edison.

The show may be heard by dialing 69.5 FM.

Detective Kenneth Sides, who is heading the investigation, said there was no evidence of foul play. Although narcotics have not been ruled out, an autopsy on July 10 proved inconclusive and toxicological tests have been ordered to determine the cause of death.

PROPER FIT FOR PROPER LOOK ... Making a garment requires proper fitting procedures at various stages of the work. In a summer school sewing course Wendy Conklin, center, helps fit Tracy Makow's, right, overalls which are still in the beginning stage. Rose Dembrowski lends a hand with the pins. The instructor is Mrs. Lawrence (Lillian) Liskevce. The program is sponsored by the township board of education.

County Young Republicans to hear freeholder hopeful

A member of the Union County Republican freeholder slate of Walter Ulrich, Mrs. John (Rose Marie) Sinnott and Herbert Hellmann will address the Rahway Area Young Republican Club at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 23, at city party headquarters, 384 Raleigh Road, Rahway, according to club chairman B. Robert Blitzer of Rahway.

"All three team members have served the people of the county well during their tenure as freeholders, achieving progress in fiscal control, narcotics control, fiscal economy and necessary social services," Mr. Blitzer said. The appointment of Robert E. Rooney, Jr. of 374 Raleigh Road, Rahway, as the Young Republican representative to the city party committee was also announced.

Mr. Rooney is a former chairman of the county Young Republicans and a former legislative aide to former assemblyman Louis Bassano.

Rahway area residents under 40 years of age and interested in joining the Young Republicans may telephone chairman Blitzer at 388-4378.

Mayor calls state of emergency in Clark following heavy rainfall

A state of emergency was declared in Clark by Mayor Bernard G. Varusavage at 6 a.m. on July 15 because of flooding brought about by heavy rain.

Power had to be curtailed by Public Service Electric and Gas Company on James Avenue at about 8:15 a.m. when flood waters in the basements of homes began to reach dangerous levels.

At about 7 a.m. the northbound exit off of the Garden State Parkway into Clark was closed to traffic by the joint action of state police and township officials. The road was opened by 9 a.m.

High water was reported on Caroline and Georgia Streets, said to be the result of overflow in a creek in Westfield. Flooding was also noted on Tudor Drive and Meadow Road where an anti-flooding project is slated to begin Monday.

John Waterson, acting police chief, was in charge of emergency operations. He and Mayor Varusavage spent the morning touring the township, making on-the-spot inspections.

Clark auxiliary police and civil defense units were also called out. Sergeant Anton Danko was in charge of civil defense operations. Members of the Clark Volunteer Emergency Squad and volunteer fire department were called out for standby service.

With the cooperation of township superintendent of schools doctor John T. Farnella, Charles H. Brewer and Frank K. Heintz, schools were opened for standby use as emergency shelters.

Officers of aid were received by township officials from the county civil defense organization and Thomas W. Long, director of the Union County board of chosen freeholders, who offered generators and pumps.

Flooding was also reported on Oak Ridge Road and to a lesser extent on Orchard Terrace. Observers stated the water in the Middlesex County reservoir was "flowing like a river."

Very high water was also noted near Jackson Pond Bridge. Emergency units were stationed there at 6 a.m. in case it was necessary to close the bridge, but the need did not arise.

New position for Henderson

Rahway police sergeant Harry O. Henderson, a member of the city board of education, was transferred from a post as director of the juvenile bureau to the uniformed division.

While Mr. Henderson,

35, was told that the transfer was made because he could serve better as a "road supervisor," some believe he was moved because of his election to the board in March.

First Federal assets grow

Record growth in assets for the six-month period ended June 30 was announced by Charles L. Harrington, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Westfield.

According to Mr. Harrington, First Federal's assets exceed $135 million, an increase of almost $17 million over those reported as of December 31 of last year.

Approximately $5 million of that increase reflects the recently announced merger with Garden State Savings and Loan Association of Plainfield, now operating as the Garden State division of First Federal.

With the addition of the Plainfield office First Federal now serves Union, Monmouth and Middlesex Counties through eight offices including one in Clark.

City Federal deposits rise 28%

City Federal Savings and Loan Association president Gilbert G. Roessner reported a record $94,952,000 increase in savings deposits for the six-month period ended June 30.

"The increase represents an annual growth rate of almost 28% and brings the total deposits for the association to $776,954,000 as compared to $682,002,000 as reported December 31 of last year," the chief executive officer said.

Mr. Roessner attributed the increase primarily to "the consumer's reluctance to spend during an inflationary economy and in times of high unemployment." He also said many government rebate checks were deposited.

Total resources for the Elizabeth-based association were reported at $985,504,000 as of June 30, versus last year's end figure of $913,575,000. The $69.7 million increase represents an annual growth rate of more than 15%.

Claim vendor pushed drugs

Rahway police charged the driver of an ice cream truck with selling marijuana on July 8 to strollers in a park at Seminary Avenue and Irving Street.

Carl Seeman, 19, of Somerset, an employee of the Middlesex Ice Cream Company, is being held in lieu of $2,500 bail. The charges are possessing more than 25 grams of marijuana and possessing it with intent to distribute.

Detective Kenneth Sides said he placed Seeman under arrest after watching sales made.

VW Rabbits down Beetles in sales race

The Volkswagen Rabbit got off to what was described as a fast start at Jenewein Volkswagen, 900 East Elizabeth Avenue, Linden, with the sale of 22 automobiles during the first full month of sales.

According to a dealership spokesman, the new model outsold the traditionally popular Beetle which accounted for 16 sales in February. Nationwide 10,995 Rabbits were sold to 9,344 Beetles.

It was said the Beetle regained the lead in sales in May and will most likely keep it during the summer months as the supply of Rabbits dwindles.

Since the beginning of the year 47,680 Beetles were sold to 48,473 Rabbits. Locally Jenewein salesmen sold 135 Beetles to 149 Rabbits.

Wine-makers are noting a trend to half gallons and magnums in wine. For best results, put leftover wine in smaller bottles, filled to the brim to keep air away.

A Chicago doctor reports that wine produces a more sustained and gentle tranquilizing effect than a highball of the same strength. He attributes this action to slower absorption in the stomach, especially when wine is taken with food.

For better barbecues, add "red" wine and salad oil to barbecue sauce.

Parents must beware of humanist education and resulting alienation

By E. Sidman Wachter.

Some busy parents may not yet be aware that the present thrust of public school education is to change and create our children's values and instill "new" humanist values in them.

The questionnaire seeks information about the effect revenue sharing has had on the local tax structure in the county, ways in which revenue sharing funds have been used, the extent of new programs stimulated by revenue sharing...

Humanists have a right to their beliefs and goals, but they do not have a moral or a constitutional right to inflict their "educative" audience of school children.

To the parents, who have been instrumental in bringing their children into the world, belongs the God-given responsibility for their nurture.

The terms, "humanizing education," "humanistic education" and "open education" should be warning signals to parents.

Any course in a school curriculum can be used as a tool for social changes through "values changing."

To be specific, 13 years of sex education are obviously not needed to teach the simple facts of sex, it is really "values education."

Beware of the "role playing" and group discussions so often used to develop "awareness" (of humanist values).

Any analysis of the estranging influences brought to bear on America's six-to-18-year-olds in government schools makes it all too clear why a "generation gap" has developed.

Parents and taxpayers should personally contact the superintendent of schools and several members of the board of education and inform them that they distrust "values clarification" and all programs intended to alter attitudes and values and want them eliminated from the school system.

Everyday there is an arts and crafts workshop beginning at 10 a.m. Many homes in the neighborhood have had new decorations added to their decor such as wall hangings from yarn and tie-dyed pictures.

A little bit of both athletics and art is part of the pre-school session. The youngsters are kept busy with paper pinures and lots of physical education.

The Hehnlly special education recreation program conducted by Gail MacMillan is providing trainable youngsters with academics, arts and crafts, physical education training, music and social activities.

The 1975 edition of "Camping in the National Park System" has been released for sale. The pocket-sized booklet describes camping facilities in 96 areas of the National Park System.

The new guide also contains information on fees, regulations and safety concerns. It may be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, for 65¢ (check or money order).

A charge of $1 was set by the councilmen without discussion as the fee for the issuance of duplicate tax bills. Previously such bills were issued at no cost.

Parents must beware of humanist education and resulting alienation serious consideration given to ways in which the allocation and use of revenue sharing funds might be improved.

My questionnaire seeks information about the effect revenue sharing has had on the local tax structure in the county, ways in which revenue sharing funds have been used, the extent of new programs stimulated by revenue sharing...

The questionnaire applies itself also to the extent of citizen input in the use of revenue sharing funds and to difficulties municipalities have experienced in obtaining or using available funds.

I feel strongly that the views of all municipalities, large and small, should be sought and considered before any decision is made on formula changes for revenue sharing.

As things now stand, revenue-sharing accounts for 1-3.2% of an average state budget and from 5-10% of local budgets.

More than have the money has gone for public safety, education and public transportation.

These conditions still exist today but were heightened in 1971 by additional drainage from Linden being emptied into the Maurice Avenue culvert, creating a greater flooding hazard.

President Miller said it would cost about $3,000 to remove and reposition the backdrop to place it further from neighboring homes as residents want. He also said the fence sought by the residents would cost between $2,000 and $3,000 dollars.

Board members had doubts about their ability to meet such expenses under current economic conditions but said they would give further consideration to plans to alleviate the problems.

Dam, spillway study eyed by councilmen councilman Louis G. Boch said "the type of flooding we have now is the type this measure would control."

He conceded the measure would probably not stop all flooding but halted it as "a good first step."

Republican councilman Peter M. Donovan of the fifth ward, noting he ruined a pair of shoes during a flood inspection, said it appeared the course of the river was beginning to be rerouted as a result of the Sisto landfill.

The regional aspect of the problem and the fact that the city is downstream from many communities was stressed by council president Wilson D. Beauregard, a Democratic councilman-at-large.

While conceding the point, Democratic councilman-at-large Tor Cedervall, a severe critic of the Sisto landfill, noted some parts of Rahway are upstream from others.

A resident of Central Avenue, he arrived at the meeting late causing councilman Marsh to earlier quit—he was probably absent because he was balling out his house.

In their resolution the councilmen noted flooding in the area "creates impassable streets and traffic congestion which could affect the well being and safety of numerous citizens through the temporary loss or delay of life and property and first aid protection."

The measure, sponsored by councilmen Boch and Cedervall, passed 8-0. Fourth ward Democratic councilman Walter McLeod was absent from the session.

Corporate Funds Still Aid the Arts

In 1973 American business spent about $144 million in support of the lively arts, compared with $110 million in 1970.

In a talk at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., Goldwin McLellan, President of the Business Committee for the Arts, said large companies provided the major share of the funds and that consumer-oriented companies gave more than others.

Museums received the biggest share of the money, followed by symphony orchestras.

McLellan said some 87 percent of the ten companies studied said they would continue their contributions to the arts in the years ahead.

Rashkin criticizes board approval of subdivision at Maurice Avenue

For approximately 18 years the residents of Maurice Avenue in Rahway have had the threat of developers applying for approval to build a major subdivision adjoining Rahway Park with access from Maurice Avenue.

Over the years these applications have been denied many times by fair-minded planning board members, city councilmen and officials, for good reasons.

These conditions still exist today but were heightened in 1971 by additional drainage from Linden being emptied into the Maurice Avenue culvert, creating a greater flooding hazard.

About six months ago a new applicant filed for a major subdivision adjoining Maurice Avenue. After many public planning board hearings a new group of politicians, which we have with us today, decided everything is kosher and gave their approval. Why? All of a sudden it is okay after it has been unanimously rejected in previous applications.

If this is allowed it will be a colossal rip-off to the residents of Maurice Avenue and very costly to the city. This could also set a precedent which will effect other areas in the city with housing developments being accepted and built in flood-prone areas.

Councilmen postpone Harrison measure, limit daytime parking on School Street

Rahway councilman postponed final passage of an ordinance which would have made Harrison Street one way westerly for its entire length from Whitler Street to St. George Avenue. The action came at their July 14 meeting.

According to second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh, the postponement was the result of confusion among residents of the street on what direction the traffic would flow after the one-way designation.

The ordinance, being considered on second reading, will be open to public discussion at the August 11 city council meeting which will commence at 8 p.m. in council chambers in city hall, 1470 Campbell Street.

Unanimously passed on second reading was an ordinance limiting parking on south side of School Street to two hours from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. along the entire block from St. George Avenue to the parking lot of Huffman-Koos Company.

The portion of Oliver Street between Jackson Avenue and River Road will be vacated by order of an ordinance passed on second reading by the councilmen without discussion or public comment.

The action, basically a legal formality, is part of an agreement with the Union County park commissioners which will allow the city to lease property in the county park for a low level water storage tank.

Such action was recommended by members of the city planning board at their May 27 session, according to the resolution.

Another ordinance passed on second reading without any comment from the public and by a unanimous vote of the councilmen called for the establishment of a police, fire and other emergency alarm system.

The measure also specifies how connections are to be made to the system, how licenses are to be issued and what penalties are to be enforced for violations.

The ordinance applies to any city resident who operates, maintains or owns an alarm device designed to summon the police or fire departments or any other city agency for aid.

It does not prohibit a private firm from providing such services so long as the instruments involved are not connected to the system and providing they are registered with the proper authorities.

A portion of the city ordinances concerning sidewalk encumbrances was suspended to allow downtown merchants to conduct a sidewalk sale from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on

Fix new date for public meet on school cut

A public hearing on the $564,000 reduction in the Rahway board of education school budget, scheduled for July 15 in the offices of the state commissioner of education in Trenton, was postponed until Tuesday, August 26.

The hearing was reportedly rescheduled because city attorney Alan Karcher was unable to attend. Mr. Karcher is an assemblyman from the 19th district in Middlesex County and was required to attend a meeting in Trenton.

The postponement was approved by Eric Erickson, assistant director of the state board's division of controversy and disputes.

The hearing is being conducted on the reduction of the school budget made by council last March.

Hot dog day, volleyball lead Brewer activities

July 14 was "Hot Dog Day" at the Charles H. Brewer School playground. Over 40 frankfurters and sodas were consumed by the children.

Later the teachers beat the students in a close game of volleyball. In a girls table hockey tournament, June Dietze beat Kathy Donlin taking first place. Michelle Zizza came in third.

A double-game team competition took the form of girls versus boys. The boys overwhelmed the girls 7-0 in whiffleball but the girls came back to defeat them 11-6 in a crab soccer match.

Frank Hanley and Timmy Dietze edged out two teachers, college aid Steve Petrozelli and head teacher Alfred Smith, in a doubles horseshoes contest.

Animal contests were held. Dawn Troden's dog Misty won first place as most athletic. Veronica Haber's dog Lassie won most obedient. Eric Spielman's dog Dickie won most lovable. Sue Garbinski's dog Missie won the smartest award and Frank Hanley's dog Rex won for best trained.

A cat named O-Chuck belonging to Kris Baeck won the cutest animal award. A rabbit called Pepper and owned by Roseann Tapovic was best dressed. Tim Schnal and Robert Baeck bested all challengers in a badminton contest.

Bowling was a big success as Lisa Rutledge, Kathy Donlin, Michelle and Jennifer Zizza, Robert and Kristen Baeck and Donna O'Neil tried their skill.

Mr. Petruzelli is attracting many boys interested in his basketball program. They use both gymnasium and outside playground courts to practice their games.

The children are making various items in arts and crafts under the guidance of Margaret Campbell.

Hospital auxiliary members make $70,000 donation

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of Rahway Hospital pledged $70,000 to purchase an ultrasound diagnostic system for the x-ray department of the city hospital.

The ultrasound system, unlike x-ray equipment, emits no radiation and therefore can provide diagnostic photographs of pregnant women without endangering the fetus. Particularly helpful in high risk pregnancies, it can reveal images of the condition of the placenta and the growth of the fetus.

The system uses sound waves which pass through the body, are picked up by a receiver and recorded on film.

As it can be used to differentiate between solid and liquid matter, the ultrasound system is especially useful in tumor diagnosis and can often reveal whether an internal mass in the pancreas, kidney or other area is a tumor, which is more solid, or a cyst, which is more liquid.

In the head area it is useful in determining mid-line shifts of the brain due to tumors or bleeding.

The ultrasound system is also especially useful in the diagnosis of some heart diseases because of its ability to provide images of heart valves and chambers. It is also useful to obstetricians and gynecologists because of its ability to reveal the position of an intrauterine device.

The auxiliary pledge, made at the members' July meeting, followed the completion of a $65,000 pledge for a scintillation camera in the hospital's x-ray department. It will be the first ultrasound diagnostic equipment in the x-ray department.

Vending machine measure of Case wins senate okay

United States senator Clifford P. Case expressed gratification over senate passage of his amendment to the national school lunch act and the child nutrition act of 1966 to restore to the department of agriculture the authority to regulate so-called competitive foods in the school lunchroom.

The amendment won by the Rahway legislator also includes the admonition of congress that empty calorie or junk foods should not be sold in schools participating in the school lunch program.

In addition the amendment of the New Jersey Republican creates a new section in the national school lunch act aimed at providing assistance to schools for programs of nutrition education.

Senator Case's amendment does not ban vending machines but regulates what may be sold in them. He said the soda, candy and cake sold in some school vending machines are not consistent with the purpose of the school lunch program.

He expressed his hope that the house and senate conferees will agree to include his amendment in the final version of this legislation.

Rain marked June weather along with fog, hail, thunder

Raindrops not only fell on your head during June, they poured to the tune of 7.48 inches.

Fog, hail and thunder also characterized June in the central New Jersey area, according to professor Patrick J. White of the Union College meteorological station in his monthly report to the national weather service. It is a cooperative station of the United States weather bureau.

The 7.48 inch rainfall during June is 4.82 inches above normal, professor White noted. The heaviest rainfall fell on June 6 when 1.76 inches were measured.

In addition to the heavy rains professor White reported fog on June 14 and 18 and hailing on June 6. Thundering accompanied the heavy rains on June 1, 6, 8, 16, 17, 19, 20, 25, 28 and 29.

June 1972 holds the record for the heaviest monthly rainfall at the college station, professor White commented. At that time 8.76 inches were measured. The driest June on record was in 1963 when 1.08 inches fell.

Professor White added the June rainfall brings the total precipitation for the year to 25.07 inches. At this time last year rainfall totaled 20.53 inches.

Temperatures for the month were slightly below normal, the professor stated. Although the mercury hit 92 degrees on June 24 the mean temperature was 68.9 degrees, which is 1.5

Doctor Smith was active on his school's newspaper, as president of his class for two years and as president of the Pennsylvania Podiatry Student Association. He served on the executive council of the association for four years.

He was elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" and was selected as one of the "outstanding young men of America" from the state.

Doctor Smith resides in Blackwood with his wife, the former Miss Judith Lynn Rhoads of Rahway. He is serving a surgical residency at Parkview Hospital in Philadelphia, Pa.

Fonic spelling? So wrote doctor C. W. Larison, eccentric 19th century, New Jersey physician

"Fonic Spelling, Eufonic Words, Fitness of Words, The Enwring of a Popul Mold 'Thar Langwag,"

No there is nothing wrong with our typewriter. Those words actually flowed from the busy pen of doctor Cornelius Wilson Larison, a physician who practiced in Hunterdon County from about 1850 until his death in 1910.

Doctor Larison is described by his biographer, doctor Harry B. Wells, in the 1953 book "Country Doctor" as "Physician, farmer, educator, author, editor, publisher and exponent of phonic spelling."

He was all that and more.

In his later years doctor Larison once described himself as "publisher, busseter and stamper, publisher of wures in fonic orthography," but he was primarily a physician. As time went by however he became more and more wrapped up in phonic spelling.

This is described in great detail in his biography and in his own reminiscences, "Reminiscenses of Seal Liff" and "Reminiscenses of a Teacher," and other works.

All are in the possession of the special collections department of rare books, magazines and other material at the Archibald Alexander Library at Rutgers, the State University in New Brunswick.

As Donald A. Sinclair, curator of special collections at the library, noted doctor Larison's writing was amazing, both in its volume and in its diversity. He wrote on the abuses of English language, history, geography, chemistry, geology and philosophy.

Doctor Larison was particularly interested in the soul. One of his essays is entitled, "Hwot is the Sol? Hwot is the Dog a Sol?"

By a logic which doubtless eluded most of his contemporaries, doctor Larison came to the conclusion that the soul was plastic. In support of this he wrote that the training of a colt developed in the animal some faculty of the soul higher than the faculty would be if the colt were left untrained.

Mr. Sinclair said that even though doctor Larison was apparently highly educated, his writings do not reflect this. They are often trite and mundane to the point of being downright boring. One critic, reviewing his "Reminiscenses," remarked "If brevity is the soul of wit, the doctor often misses it."

And yet the doctor is not to be underrated. He apparently was a fine physician and a hard working and conscientious teacher. Moreover his students were often quite devoted to him.

Miss Susan M. Phillips changed her last name to "Phillips" in accordance to his spelling ideas and worked with him for 20 years.

Doctor Larison's, he sometimes spelled his name "Larison," real trouble was that he just got completely carried away on the subject of simplified spelling.

He did not claim his alphabet was his own invention but instead represented the consensus of his patrons as they made their opinions known. His argument was that there were only 26 letters in the alphabet but 40 sounds and that this lack of 14 symbols resulted in uncertainty in pronunciation.

He recalled bitterly his own experiences as a nine-year-old school boy at Van Dolah's hexagonal school house at Sandy Point.

His biographer recounts that "No one was as stupid as Cornelius W. Larison. The boy always recited alone and when he met a new word he had difficulty pronouncing it until the master told him. He did not like to guess and refused to learn the pronunciation of syllables and words that were not pronounced as printed."

"The master would then get out the dunce cap, put it on Cornelius' head, put leather spectacles on his nose and lead him around the room or sit him on the dunce block."

"Such," doctor Larison later wrote, "were the ill consequences of a bad alphabet and the abominable spelling of English words."

Still as a man often unappreciated in his own time doctor Larison was remarkably good natured. There was only one class he despised, the rich, and how they must have rankled him.

He is only a small part of what he had to say about the "Nabobs" of Long Branch.

"The ugliest specimens of humanity that I have ever noticed I have seen at Long Branch. Here is a fellow 25 years old. He is four feet, 10 inches tall, he is hump-backed, high shouldered, bow-kneed, 'parrot-toed,' with a corn on every toe, head upish, nose enormous, mouth awful, chin sharp, high cheek bones, forehead receding, occiput prominent."

"He appears best when sitting covered with a large cloak or shawl under broad brimmed hat, well drawn down over his face, late in that period which the Scotch call the gloaming. He is the son of a Wall Streeter and he has 'the dimes'."

Doctor Larison's attitude toward the rich may have been shaped in part by his own modest income. Late in life he seemed to have turned somewhat bitter. He complained that he was told the whole phonetic spelling project "was based on over-rating of small things."

In addition, he was informed that many who formerly valued his company and advice now suspected him of insanity.

Fetal early warning system grows at hospital with two new monitors

What happens when a routine delivery and birth goes wrong? How can the doctors know trouble has developed before it is too far advanced to be irreversible?

One instrument which informs doctors of incipient danger is a fetal monitor which records the number of fetal heart beats a minute in relationship to the frequency and intensity of the mother's contractions.

The recent addition of two such monitors, making a total of four at Rahway Hospital, insures the availability of fetal monitoring for most deliveries and births, according to the hospital's supervisor of maternal and child health.

Introduced a few years ago, the fetal monitor plays an important role both in increasing the fetal survival rate and the likelihood that a healthy baby is born.

Although generally most helpful and most often used in high risk pregnancies such as cases where the mother has diabetes or high blood pressure, hospital personnel say they have found it advantageous to use fetal monitoring in most cases.

In some births which are thought to be routine the fetal monitor may detect difficulties early enough to begin immediate action to prevent unnecessary death or permanent injury to the infant.

The information from the monitoring is obtained by placing two sensors on the mother's abdomen. These sensors transmit the impulses to the monitor's oscilloscope and recorder unit. The monitoring is painless to both the fetus and the mother.

Besides indicating how well the fetus is responding to the stress of labor, the monitor indicates how an infant is reacting to anesthesia or sedatives given the mother, the adequacy of the oxygen supply and how the placenta is functioning.

Sometimes, in a high risk case, an obstetrician may send the patient to the hospital during pregnancy to be monitored as an outpatient. The record provided by the fetal monitor can give an indication of the health of the fetus.

Cranford, Clark stop city Recreation following 10-game string of victories

The Cranford Cobras handed the Rahway Recreation their second defeat of the season on Saturday afternoon when they broke a 3-3 tie in the top of the seventh.

Cranford scored four times in the top of the innings. With one down Jim Carsey singled to right, Len Dolan doubled to left center and Jim Sheehan squeezed the go ahead run home with a perfect bunt.

Don Hardman then tripled to left to score two more. Bo Hahn got the fifth hit of the inning to score Hardman.

Len Zolito was the starting pitcher for the Recreation. He was the victim of poor support as the Cobras jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Rahway committed three errors.

Lead-off batter Len Dolan fanned but reached first as the ball was thrown away. Sheehan's base hit was mishandled allowing Dolan to score and putting Sheehan on third with no out. Sheehan then scored on an infield out.

Rahway came back in the last of the first to score when Don Rutter walked, stole second and raced home on Vic Kurylak's

Cranford added another run in the second when Greg Walter's line drive to left was played into a triple with one down. Dolan singled him home for a 3-1 Cranford lead.

Rahway cut the margin to 3-2 when Dave Stephens belted a long triple over the left fielder's head with one down and scored on Don Rutter's sacrifice fly.

The Recreation tied the game in the last of the third when Kurylak led off with a base on balls and moved to second on an infield out. Billy Young singled to put runners on first and third and Stephens hit a long sacrifice fly to center to score the run.

Zolito and Jim Carsey pitched shutout ball until the top of the seventh.

Rahway left eight men on base. Len Zolito lost his first game after 10 straight wins.

Cranford is 8-5. Rahway is 10-2 and leads the league ahead of Scotch Plains which is 9-3.

Clark's recreation team snapped the city Recreation's winning streak of 10 games on July 12 by the score of 3-2.

Rahway jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the last of the first. Gary Irving singled to open the inning and stole second. With one down Don Miller drew a base on balls and Kurylak lined a single to left to score Irving.

Stan Wojcik then drew a pass to load the bases. However, the fielder's choice and a fly out ended the threat.

Clark got even in the top of the third with a double down the line which scored Mike Jasman, the Clark pitcher, who had singled to open the inning. The go-ahead run was scored when a double - play ball was thrown away.

Rahway tied the game when Irving walked to one down, then stole second and third and scored when Miller singled to left center.

Jasman and Rahway's Joe Tkac were breezing along when in the top of the seventh, with one down, when Clark's first baseman drew a base on balls. Jasman bounced to the pitcher and Tkac threw the ball into center field allowing the winning run to score.

Rahway left 13 men on bases in the game. Jim Toma, who relieved Jasman in the sixth inning with runners on first and second and one out, was the winning pitcher.

Rahway threatened in the seventh when Miller singled, Kurylak hit into a fielder's choice and Wojcik was given an intentional pass with two down. Billy Young hit a shot back at Toma who knocked it down and threw him out at first.

Tkac pitched well allowing five hits and three walks while striking out nine. Jasman and Toma kept the city hitters off stride by changing speeds. They allowed seven hits and five walks and fanned five.

The city stars had extended their unbeaten string to 10 games on July

FLOWERS PLUS CHAMPIONSHIP... Thomas Schuler of the Wolverine Cycling Club of Birmingham, Mich., produced that proverbial little bit extra 1,000 yards from the finish line to win the 10th annual, 50-mile Freddie Spencer bicycle race held in Rahway on Independence Day. Miss Katherine Cregge, Miss Recreation Title... of the city recreation department presented the winner with flowers. Schuler completed the race in one hour, 22 minutes and 18 seconds.

AFTER SETTING NEW RECORD... John Chamberlain of the Franklin Bicycle Club set a new record of 22 minutes and 12 seconds to win the 10-mile junior competition in the 10th annual Freddie Spencer bicycle race held in downtown Rahway on Independence Day. Chamberlain has won the Ohio State University championship for the last four years. Awarding him the trophy is Joseph Hoviss of the Amateur Bicycle League of America.

A team of 15 women from Colonia Country Club scored wins over teams from Menchen and Roselle in an interclub competition.

Constance Peronella contributed nine of the winning team's 72 points. Evelyn Zaccaro was low scorer for the winners with a round of 89.

Roy Faber, the host pro, won his division's competition by shooting a 74.

Eight members of the Rahway Recreation will play in the annual all-star game of the Intra-county baseball league on Sunday, July 20, at 10 a.m. on Tenner Field in Union.

The American division team will be under the direction of Rahway's coach John Chussler. Members of this team who will be in action are pitchers Vic Kurylak and Mickey Kaminski, catcher Stan Wojcik, outfielders Don Miller, Dan Miller and Gary Irving and pitcher's Len Zolito and Dave Thornton.

The team will face the national division all-stars.

The opening round of the annual Colonia Country Club golf championship saw defending champion John Zaccaro lose to Lou Petrozziello, who came back to win one up in the 18-hole match.

Zaccaro was from up with six holes to play but lost five straight holes.

Petrozziello won the 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 17th with pars and clinched the upset win with another par on the 18th.

Zaccaro, who was three up at the turn and went four up with a birdie three on the 12th, started playing cautiously and got caught in a bogey swirl.

Petrozziello shot a commendable 76 on the damp, heavy course. He will meet veteran Rahway player Vincent Murphy in a second round match next weekend.

The odds against pitching a no-hitter are high, but how about two no-hitters in the same game?

It happened last week in the suburban fast-pitch softball league with Dick Geldel of Merck and Company, Incorporated of Rahway matching Gil Calavano of the Elizabeth Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

Geldel had one advantage however, defense, and he won the game 2-0.

Merck scored in the third on a walk, a passed ball and an error and a sacrifice fly and again in the fourth on three errors and a sacrifice fly.

Clark's Billy Martin, the furniture tycoon, drove his Bounty Hunter, a 40-foot Cigarette powered by two 496 - cubic - inch Merck Cruisers in the annual Benthana Grand Prix out of Point Pleasant.

Last year's runner-up Gary Friend also was a first-round victim losing a 20-hole thriller to Bill McEntee, former president of the club. Former champion Ray Covino won with a four and three decision over Jim Murphy.

Rich Sachs defeated Archie Leonardis two and one, George Christensen scored over Bill Martin three and two and Vincent Murphy won over Joe Villardi three and two.

At Oak Ridge in Clark a hole-in-one was scored by Pat Troisi in the 160-yard 13th-hole using a no. 6 iron.

Kowal captures championship by defeating Merck Braves

Kowal Association captured the championship of the Rahway recreation department's 14-16 year olds' division with a 5-3 win over the Merck Braves.

Kowals won the international division with a season mark of 8-5 while the Braves, who had a 11-2 record, won the picknorn league.

The game played at Veterans Memorial Field was all but won in the last of the first when the Kowals scored four times as Tom Sella walked and advanced to third on John Bodnar's hit. Mike DeCarlo was intentionally walked to fill the bases.

But Wayne Wojcik blasted a 3-2 pitch to right center field for a three-run triple. Two walks loaded the bases and Mike Hodoske was hit by a pitch forcing in the fourth run of the inning.

Merck Braves came back with two runs in the second on Vincent Addona's single and a walk to James Dwyer. Kurt Schimmel reached on a fielder's choice as Addona was cut down trying to score.

Pat Walsh walked, Dwyer stole home and Schimmel scored on an error.

The American Plumbers sum-bert Klwanis 2-1 and managed to keep the no. 1 spot in division no. 1 of Clark baseball play but not without a fight.

On the night of July 8 they were trounced by Corky's 11-0. On July 11 they encountered a much-improved Muzzy's Baritan Exxon team and narrowly achieved a 3-2 victory after 10 innings.

The Amorelli Mets downed McDermott Paint 4-0 to win the Rahway recreation department 9-10-year-olds' city baseball league championship.

The Mets, seaboard league champions with a 12-2 record, played the painters, coastal league victors with a 7-3 mark, in a match at Tully Field.

The Mets scored their first run in the top of the first inning as Enrique Moore walked on a 3-2 pitch, Victor Ricci singled and Joseph Vastallo was hit by a pitched ball to load the bases.

Ralph Rosenkranz flied out to Dave De Sordi who made a great catch, but Moore tagged up and scored after the catch.

The painters threatened in the second as De Sordi singled and raced to third when the ball went through the outfield. A strike out ended the challenge.

Amorelli's aces scored two more runs in the fourth on walks to Mark Mika and Edward Mack, Jr. Both scored on a long single by Ricci who was two for three.

The McDermott men managed to tally a double courtesy of Chris Neacosia in the fourth but they could not score.

The final score for the Mets came when their winning pitcher, Rosenkranz, blasted a long homerun to left center field to aid his own cause.

A final bid came from the painters when John Costantelos and Brian Wittek walked, but a double play ended the game.

Rosenkranz gave up two hits, walked four and struck out seven. Albert Pierce served as his catcher. The losing battery of Neacosia and Raymond Nieves gave up four runs on four hits with Neacosia striking out nine, walking five and hitting one batter.

The umpires were Norman Rakett and William Gritschke. The sound truck was provided by civil defense officials and operated by Ron Diego.

The Mets were managed by Rudolph Vastallo with Raymond Mika as coach. Team members were Glenn Barrett, Michael Jack, Douglas Lewis, Jr., Mika, Mack, Moore, Verne Olson, Price, Ricci, Rosenkranz, Vastallo and Chris Zaccaro.

The painters had Kevin Witte as manager and Steve Alves as coach. Players were Arthur Angelo, Fred Bizzazaro, Costantelos, De Sordi, James Jackson, Thomas Keyworth, Salvatore Manro, Brian Meehan, James McDermott, Neacosia, Nieves, John Rodger, Marc Smith, Anthony Withers and Brian Wittek.

League director Richard Gritschke presented trophies to all members of both teams following the game.

WINS CYRC TROPHY... The baseball team from JBN Company in the 7- and 8-year-olds league won the Rahway Citizens' Youth Recreation Committee trophy. Accepting the honor from committee representative Mrs. Richard (Reine) Allen is Joseph Naulty, company president.

Panthers tie with township

The Clark Recreations and the Roselle Park Panthers battled to a 2-2 tie in an intra-county league contest.

The township pitcher was Jim Toma with Jim Grygiel behind the plate. The game will be replayed later this season.

Association captures crown for 14-16 year olds

Second-round winner Kowal Association captured the championship of the recreation department's 14-16 year olds' international baseball league by defeating the first-round winner PBA local no. 31 10-3.

Kowal's jumped to a 7-0 lead with one run in the first, two runs in the second and four runs in the third. A triple by Scott Sukar and a double by Mike DeCarlo were the big hits.

PBA came back with two runs in the third inning on a single hit by Eugene Forza. The patrolmen's boys scored their final run in the fourth inning on a walk to Jim McArde, a stolen base and Robert Bernoski's single.

Kowal scored two more runs in the fourth on hits by Tom Stueber, DeCarlo and Mike Hodoske and finished scoring in the sixth on Wayne Wojcik's hit, a stolen base and Sukar's double.

The winning pitcher was Stueber with relief help by Wojcik in the fifth. Hodoske was the catcher. The losing battery was Robert Bernoski and Michael McLeod.

The champion Kowal boys were managed by William M. Roessel. Team members were Stueber, Wojcik, DeCarlo, Victor Virginio, Brian Senkowsky, Tom Seiler, Ron Jones, John Bodnar, Hodoske, Peter Halvis, Sukar, James Madas, James Russo and Don Zrinski.

Burglars dine after working

Burglars had a party after ransacking a house in Clark and apparently finding few valuables.

Claude Varinakis, 44, of 6 Linda Lane, returned home the night of July 7 to find the rear door to his house pried open. He told patrolman William Zdarko a checkbook may have been stolen.

Patrolman Zdarko brought the evidence to headquarters. It consisted of two drinking glasses, a half-filled bottle of Scotch and a bottle of whisky. Police said an omelet was in a frying pan.

Roselle beats Rahway post 7-6 after tie in prior game

The bid of Rahway's American Legion post no. 5 team for the Union County league title went up in smoke when Roselle came from behind in the last of the seventh to score a 7-6 win at Simpson Field.

Rahway, the second-place team, scored four times in the sixth inning for a 6-4 lead. Dave Thornton singled home the first of the four and Gary Maljeri the second. Frank Leo's base hit gave his team the two-run lead.

That outburst finished Roselle starter Joe Gachko who tied after striking out 10 and walking one. A run in the bottom of the sixth and two more in the seventh made reliever Colin Boyle the winner.

Chip Tesora cut the lead to one with a sacrifice fly. Mike Hamilton's sacrifice fly tied the game. Then Tom Zagorski's liner won the match.

Thornton was the loser for a season mark of 2-1.

Vic Kurylak had a double for the locals.

In a prior Legion league match, Rahway and Roselle battled to a 3-3 tie in a game called after eight innings because of darkness.

Mark Blenkowski, the Roselle Rams pitcher, gave his team a 3-2 lead in the seventh inning when his squeeze bunt brought in Zagorski.

Rahway tied the game in the last of the seventh as Mickey Kamansky walked, took second on a wild pitch and third on a passed ball. Mike Mika's shot through shortstop sent in the needed run.

Kamansky was cut down attempting to score in the fifth when Joe Gachko threw a strike from left field to catcher John Piekarz.

Rahway left 13 men on base and had seven hits. Len Zolto allowed only four hits. Al Rawdow served as catcher.

Susan Patla tallies victory in county play

Sue Patla pitched a six hitter and played exceptional ball in the field to lead Rahway to a 26-5 win over the Elizabeth A team in a Union County girls' softball league game.

Sue also hit a double to drive in two runs. Homers were registered by Maryanne Brennan and Patty Brennan. Dobby Karnal tripled and Bernadette Dank and Patty scored doubles.

Vicki Wilkens was the losing pitcher in a match against Linden. The out-of-towners had the city girls to five hits and four runs to trounce them 22-4.

Delivery of bicentennial automobile plates stalled

Due to the large advance order for New Jersey bicentennial auto-plates, delivery has been postponed for later this summer, reported Mrs. William O. Rhoads, president of the Rahway Woman's Club which is sponsoring such sales for the benefit of the club's community improvement projects.

Trenton officials ran into difficulty meeting the rush of orders but were assured the plates will be ready as soon as possible.

Meanwhile we encourage all who are interested to order," said Mrs. Rhoads. The plates designate New Jersey as the "crossroads of the revolution" in red. Below is a circle of blue stars around the letters NJ, also in blue and "76" in red.

Plates may be placed over the front license plate of a car and displayed throughout the bicentennial period to February, 1977.

Those who wish to order a plate should send a check for $3 made payable to the club to Mrs. Edward A. Saliga of 1105 Milton Boulevard, Rahway. Subscribers will be notified when plates are ready.

Sales will help raise funds for continued furnishing of the historic Merchants' and Drovers' Tavern at the corner of St. George and Westfield Avenues in Rahway.

Also funds will be used for landscaping in front of the new Pennsylvania Railroad station in Rahway according to Mrs. Tor Coder-
