Master plan meet turns to Sisto talk

The sole public hearing on the proposed master plan for Rahway, held on Tuesday before planning board members, was a sharply attended affair at which the controversial Sisto plan drew the most attention.

Democratic councilman-at-large Tor Cedervall praised the plan prepared by Robert E. Sisto Associates of Edison, in particular he saluted the planners for making protection from flooding damage a high priority in their design.

He also had praise for proposals to use flood plains as recreation areas and suggestions that land adjacent to Robinson's Branch be purchased for such use.

Councilman Cedervall said the planners noted the Rahway Public Library lies in a flood plain and additional pumping equipment is needed in the library basement to combat the flooding danger. He hailed this proposal.

Also drawing his praise were recommendations that Union County park commissioners purchase city land for use as parks and further construction be prohibited in flood plains along Robinson's Branch.

The contested landfill operation is under way at the Sisto Realty Company property along Robinson's Branch east of St. George Avenue and councilman Cedervall's comments, as he has been opposed to the operation and has called for a council hearing on the matter, were understood to be a criticism of such work in a flood plain in opposition to master plan recommendations.

Mrs. Tor (Stephanie) Cedervall attempted to tackle the Sisto permit issue head on but was ruled out of order by board chairman William Rack after an objection from board member and Democratic councilman-at-large Francis R. Senkowsky.

Mrs. Cedervall also tried to read a letter dated August 22, 1973 from John M. O'Dowd, a supervisory engineer with the state department of environmental protection, which supported her interpretation of the city flood ordinance.

According to Mrs. Cedervall the granting of a new encroachment line by the state to Sisto property owners did not automatically ally qualify them to receive a landfill permit. Such a permit was given after the state ruling.

A ruling by city attorney Alan Karcher has since closed the possibility of a hearing being called because of the complaints of local citizens.

Mr. Karcher ruled that, according to the city ordinance, the only "aggrieved person" who can request a hearing would be the property owners.

Mrs. Cedervall later made arrangements with planning board members to address them on the permit issue at their next meeting. Additional information on the Sisto squabble will be found on page 5.

Alonso W. Lawrence, president of the Rahway Taxpayers Association, stuck more to the point as he warned of a "trend in the master plan toward a higher maximum density requirement."

He said the current city requirement of 30 living units per acre was already in excess of neighboring municipalities. If any change is made, he said, it should be downward.

The fate of the master plan will be announced at the Tuesday, April 22, board session.

Earlier in their meeting board members unanimously agreed to solicit from city department heads their suggestions on what to do with the Old Elizabethtown Gas Company building owned by the city.

It was also agreed that the Cherry Street minimal should be the city entry into the Union County planning board award competition for municipal improvements.

Members of the Rahway Jewish community ushered in the Passover holiday, commemorating the exodus of the Jews from Egypt, by lighting candles and holding their first seder last night.

Today members of Temple Beth Torah of Rahway marked the first day of Passover with morning services and a meeting of the Junior Congregation. There will be evening services at 7 o'clock with candle lighting and a seder to follow at home.

Tomorrow morning services for the second day of Passover, according to Rabbi Jacob Rubenstein, will be held at 6:45 o'clock. The Junior Congregation will gather at 10:30 a.m.

The Sabbath candle lighting should not be later than 6:59 p.m., explained Rabbi Rubenstein. Friday evening services will be at 7 o'clock.

The Sabbath morning service will be at 9 o'clock.

City budget foes, fans clash at public hearing

There was supposed to be a public hearing on the proposed city budget on March 20, but most of the speakers were more concerned with a proposal advanced by second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh which called for the elimination of 86 city jobs and other action for what he called a savings of $1,353,022.

The largest contingent in the audience consisted of city employees apparently concerned about their jobs. They applauded loud and long after every expression of support for the budget or attack on councilman Marsh's recommendation.

There was also a small group of budget critics in the standing-room-only crowd in council chambers at city hall. Many people lined the walls and crowded the outside hallway leading into the chambers.

Prior to the start of the public hearing, Democratic council president Wilson D. Beauregard asked for a show of hands from those wishing to speak on the proposed expenditures.

After an estimated 25 people raised their hands, he allocated five minutes to each speaker. This drew strong protest from the audience, some of whom viewed the measure as a gag rule.

Despite the anticipated rush of speakers, only 17 arose to address the meeting. Of these seven spoke either in favor of the budget or against the proposal of councilman Marsh.

Eight residents spoke against the budget while the remarks of two others leaned in neither direction. Earl Ruppert of 873 New Brunswick Avenue, president of Rahway local no. 31 of the Honorary Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Daniel Stone of 425 Linden Avenue, president of the city Patrolmen's Benevolent Association and William J. Dietrich of 691 Jaques Avenue, president of the city Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association attacked the cuts offered by councilman Marsh.

Mr. Ruppert spoke against cuts for the police department citing the rising amount of crime. His words were echoed by Mr. Stone, who noted eliminating $10,800 from police appropriations, as councilman Marsh suggested would cut police appropriations by 27%.

Support also came from Leonard Conte, head of local no. 866 of the Teamsters union which represents city clerical employees and public works department workers. He noted two-thirds of councilman Marsh's cuts would affect city employees in his union.

He said it was "untenable" that people "should have to go through this torture every year." His appearance was criticized by sixth ward councilman Louis G. Boch who said the hearing was only for city residents and taxpayers.

Mrs. Kenneth (Mary Ellen) Sides of 879 Westfield Avenue, president of the Rahway Policewives Club, supported the budget and attacked the proposals of councilman Marsh.

After her comment council president Beauregard, also a councilman-at-large, reminded the audience that the only item under discussion was the city budget, but comment

After a three-day recess Rahway councilmen by a 6-3 vote approved a series of amendments to a resolution to amend the city budget. The amendments reduced the budget by about $51,000 or two points.

The resolution itself lowered the total amount of money to be raised by taxes for support of the budget by $522,550.22 from the originally proposed $4,396,980.60 to $4,017,821.38.

A public hearing will be held on the amendments on Monday, March 31, in council chamber at city hall beginning at 8 p.m.

The first part of the council session began at the close of the public hearing on the budget on Thursday, March 20, at slightly past 11 p.m.

The first snag was an objection by second ward councilman John C. Marsh who spoke against a $140,000 bond ordinance for the extension of Hart Street and the purchase of articles for city departments.

He called the resolution "a case of gerrymandering figures which would add unnecessary expenses" and said the councilmen were only pushing payment into future years.

The ordinance called for the purchase of a generator for the fire department, flashing stop signs for the police force, two bookkeeping machines for the office of revenue and finance and one street sweeper plus a miscellaneous equipment for the public works department.

It passed 7-2 with Republican councilmen Marsh and Peter M. Donovan of the fifth ward in opposition.

The next four resolutions were passed unanimously. One called for the anticipation of $141,600 in industrial solid waste charges as revenue in the budget and another the anticipation of $69,400 as payment in lieu of taxes from lower Main Street Associates as revenue.

The other two were in the same extent, one anticipating $1,920 in revenue from a child health conference reimbursement and the other $7,000 from the state for multiple-dwelling inspections.

Councilmen Donovan and Marsh voted against the anticipation of $5,000 in revenue in the budget from the sale of city property located between Jefferson and St. George Avenues.

Unanimously passed was the anticipation of $6,000 as revenue in the budget to be obtained via the emergency employment act of 1971.

The resolutions approved by councilmen raised the total miscellaneous line item in the budget by an estimated $45,141.22 from $2,028,858.79 to $2,073,999.11.

Despite the quick beginning councilmen soon became entangled in legal and mathematical difficulties after third ward Republican councilman Richard L. Voynik proposed a series of amendments to a resolution amending the budget.

Councilman Voynik explained city officials had three options: fire personnel, reduce wages or freeze salaries. He and his fellow Republicans chose the third course and attempted to eliminate pay raises in various departments.

Both city business administrators Joseph M. Harnett and mayor Daniel L. Martin noted the Republicans' actions may not have the desired effect since councilmen can say how much money department officials may have to spend but not how to spend it.

Thus, he explained, a few hundred dollars may be taken out of a department's appropriation with the cut eventually coming in overtime pay and not out of the salary for the head of the department.

Undaunted, the Republicans, by a 5-4 majority, voted through 22 separate reductions in line items, Democratic councilman-at-large Tor Cedervall, Francis R. Senkowsky and Wilson D. Beauregard, council president, joined with Democratic fourth ward councilman Walter McCleod in opposing the motions.

After about half the cuts were voted city attorney Alan Karcher noted another snag and informed the councilmen their changes required drafting a new resolution in which total figures reflected the alterations. Apparently no councilman was willing to undertake the mathematics involved.

Council cuts $51,000; budget falls two points

Mr. Karcher and Mr. Horner reminded the councilmen further that the amended resolution would need to be reworked in time for the March 31 hearing, thus excluding the possibility of approving a changed resolution at that second hearing.

Changes could be made on March 31, they said, but not changes exceeding 10% which would call for reauthorization and a new hearing.

The councilmen then called a 20-minute recess. When they returned nothing was resolved, but the Republicans voted through the remainder of the reductions.

At the conclusion of the vote at about 1:45 a.m., the councilmen took the advice of Mr. Karcher and recessed the meeting until Monday, March 24. Mr. Karcher noted a postponement would mean revoting all the reductions.

At the second hearing on Monday a revised resolution, with all total figures corrected, was presented and accepted by the councilmen by a 6-3 vote.

A discussion centered on the addition of $5,000 to the budget for the tax office to compensate for the retirement of a bookkeeping machine operator with 38 years of service.

The matter was discussed for over half an hour in caucus. It lost in a 4-5 partisan vote with Democrats Cedervall, Beauregard, Senkowsky and McCleod supporting the measure.

Among the reductions approved by the councilmen was the complete elimination of $5,000 from the line item for equipment purchase for the fire department and the removal of $6,700 from the "other expenses" item under dog regulation.

The currently vacant position of assistant to the mayor, attacked by councilman Marsh as a patronage plum after it was defended by mayor Martin, was eliminated. It carried a $3,000 salary.

A $22,120 reduction was obtained in the police department with the elimination of two vacant patrolmen's positions. An estimated 8% increase in the department of the city engineer was sliced by $1,040.

City Federal president offers mortgage hints

When the national unemployment rate hit 8.2% last January, a level far above that forecast by government economic experts, congressmen began to look at an issue seldom explored since the Great Depression, forbearance to homeowners.

According to Gilbert C. Roessner, president of City Federal Savings and Loan Association, forbearance has to do with providing some kind of economic relief to homeowners who, for reasons beyond their control, are having trouble meeting their mortgage payments.

During the depression of the 1930s, he explained, forbearance took the form of massive government support. It resulted in the establishment of the federal housing authority and end of the federal system of savings and loan associations plus a host of other federal aids to families without jobs.

Today the situation is nowhere near that critical, the head of the Elizabeth-based bank said, but congressmen nonetheless are eyeing the possibility of legislation which would effectively provide funds to families who either lose their jobs or find themselves with substantially reduced incomes.

Apart from the possibility of some congressional aid, the federal agencies involved with housing—the department of housing and urban development, the federal home loan bank board and others—all are watching delinquency and foreclosure statistics closely to determine if there is a need for immediate relief.

If so officials of these agencies might ask lenders to try to work out some kind of mortgage relief for economically-troubled homeowners, Mr. Roessner noted.

Until government officials actually take some positive steps with respect to allowing federally-supervised lenders to allow some leeway in mortgage payments, he continued, there is little a lender is really able to do on his own.

There are, he noted however, several important steps homeowners can take to insure they will be able to work out of a mortgage problem if the need arises. For instance, Mr.

Roessner said while they find it possible to secure home financing with very little money down it is much easier for a lender to help the borrower to work out of a mortgage problem if they have some equity in their property in the form of a more substantial down payment.

Another important means of boosting homeowner equity the bank head told of is through home improvements which add to the value of the property and thus provide the lender with another avenue for providing forbearance when and if needed.

Likewise, Mr. Roessner continued, borrowers may find it more convenient to spread out their loan to 30 years. But if they secure a mortgage for 25 years they again have some added leeway which can be used later, if needed.

City police apprehend FBI suspect after halting suspicious automobile

In the course of checking a suspicious automobile city police found the four occupants of the vehicle were carrying concealed weapons. A further check revealed one of the occupants was being sought by agents of the federal bureau of investigation.

City police stopped the vehicle on March 21. One of the men used an alias when questioned by the officers but a check with the national crime investigations computer revealed him to be an FBI suspect wanted in San Diego, Calif.

Other crime news follows.

Recipe for Babka bread reflects old world tradition

Babka is a cake-like bread many have eaten but know little about. The word means old woman, because the bread-like cake, which is tall and wide, looks like an old woman with wide eyes.

It is also served in Czechoslovakia where young girls put love messages on Easter eggs and present them with babka to their boyfriends.

Babka is a yeast-type bread which is gaining popularity. The rising concern with additives in food and the cost of many foods have encouraged more people to spend Saturday afternoon in the kitchen.

A recipe follows.

BABKA
Two cups unsifted flour.
One-quarter cup sugar.
One package active dry yeast.
One-half cup milk.
One-quarter cup or one-half stick margarine.
Three eggs, room temperature.
One-quarter cup mixed candied fruits.
One-quarter seedless raisins.
In a large bowl thoroughly mix three-quarters cup flour, sugar and undissolved active dry yeast.
Combine milk and margarine in saucepan and then heat over low flame until liquids are warm. The margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add dry ingredients and beat for two minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.
Add eggs and one-half cup flour or enflour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed for two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Add remaining flour and beat two minutes at high speed.
Cover and let rise in a warm place free from draft until bubbly. It should take about an hour.
Stir in candied fruits and raisins and turn in greased and floured two-quart Tork's head of tube pan. Let rise uncovered in warm place free from draft for 30 minutes.
Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F, for about 40 minutes or until done.
Before removing from pan immediately prick the bread surface with a fork. Pour rum syrup over cake. After syrup is absorbed removed the bread from the pan and cool on wire rack. When cool, if desired, frost with confectioners' sugar.
For rum syrup combine one-half cup of sugar, one-third cup of water and two teaspoons of rum extract in a saucepan and bring ingredients to a boil.

Can nuclear energy hold down the cost of electricity?

It can and it does. Nuclear fuel is a great deal cheaper than oil and coal used in generating electricity in PSE&G's system. In fact, PSE&G presently pays nine times more for oil and six times more for coal than the equivalent amount of nuclear fuel. These savings in nuclear fuel costs are automatically passed on to you in your monthly bill.

Growing reliance on nuclear power. In a recent month, nuclear power produced 23% of the electricity produced for PSE&G's customers. This growing nuclear influence helped to stabilize your electric bill in the face of increasing costs for both oil and coal. So it's obvious that nuclear power will continue to play an important role in producing electric energy economically. This is true even though nuclear plants cost more to build than ordinary coal or oil burning units.

Nuclear power also plays an important conservation role. Nuclear-produced electricity for PSE&G's customers saved the equivalent of 32 million gallons of oil during a recent month. Savings like these will become especially important in the days to come as heavy new taxes are now being added to PSE&G's fuel oil. Naturally, these new extra taxes for oil will show up in your electric bill, and only nuclear power presently holds the promise of at least providing some counter-balance to rising fuel costs.

PSE&G's nuclear construction program. PSE&G is committed to an increasing reliance on nuclear energy in New Jersey. The first of two units at our Salem Generating Station will go into operation in 1976. Nearby, the Hope Creek Generating Station should be in operation in 1981.

These new plants will produce no air pollution. So PSE&G's increasing reliance on nuclear energy marks the beginning of a new era of clean power generation in New Jersey. It also represents one of the few bright hopes in keeping fuel costs and your electric bills down.

Officials receive state funds to help pay for Oak Ridge

A "green acres" grant of $1,253,500 was received from state officials by members of the Union County park commission on March 20 to help defray the purchase of the Oak Ridge Golf Course in Clark.

Approval of the grant, which will cover almost half of the cost of the November acquisition, was announced by state environmental protection commissioner David J. Bardin.

The grant reportedly came from funds from the $40 million green acres bond issue approved in 1971.

George T. Cron, superintendent of the park commission, said the 133-acre, 18-hole golf course will continue to operate as a public facility and the adjacent 23 acres will remain in their natural state for the present time.

The course is located on Oak Ridge Road, a 156-acre tract containing an 18-hole golf course and parkland, was acquired by commissioners for $3 million from Oak Ridge Associates.

It adjoins commission-owned Ash Brook Reservation and Golf Course in Scotch Plains and overlaps into neighboring Edison.

Wine not? By Enrico

Wine is a delightful party drink... But if you're looking for a change, something different, here are a few ideas:

Mulled wine is just right for a cool evening. Boil a cup of sugar in a quart of water for fifteen minutes, then add a bottle of burgundy or claret, but do not boil. Serve hot in mugs, sprinkled with allspice and cloves and garnished with a stick of cinnamon.

For warmer days -- a sparkling wine cooler. Half-fill a large glass with wine and cracked ice, then fill with soda. A slice of lemon or lime is nice.

Add a splash of fruit liqueur to sparkling white wine. Attractive, and not too sweet.

Classic champagne cocktail: a cube of sugar in a champagne glass, plus a dash of bitters and an ice cube. Fill with champagne and garnish with a twist of lemon.

Members of the mayor's bicentennial committee of Rahway will meet Tuesday evening, April 8, at 8 o'clock in the conference room on the second floor of city hall, according to chairman Herbert H. Kiehn.

Mrs. Ford out of line with constant meddling in state prerogatives

By E. Sidman Wachtel

While the popularity of America's first unelected president, Gerald M. Ford, continues to plummet in the opinion polls, his wife is doing her best to increase antagonism toward the present tenants of the White House by her ill-considered meddling with state prerogatives.

Mrs. Ford has been personally promoting the ratification of the "Equal Rights Amendment" in whatever state a vote is pending. The ratification of a Constitutional amendment is a process reserved by the Constitution to congressmen at the federal level and to the state legislatures. Since there is no legal warrant for White House tenants to become involved in the process, the temerity of the president's wife in pressuring state legislators has caused anger and concern.

For example, Mrs. Ford called two Missouri Republican state legislators just before the final vote was taken in the state on the amendment. When the amendment was first considered by the Missouri legislature two years ago one of the state legislators had voted in favor of it. Since then her constituents had convinced her that owing to the dangerous consequences of the amendment, she should vote against it. The others' constituents had gone on record by telephone and letter in the ratio of 1,000 to 1 against the amendment. Yet thanks to the meddling of Mrs. Ford, both state legislators voted for the "equal rights" measure, and it was ratified by a bare Constitutional majority. Is it representative government for White House residents to dictate the votes of state legislators?

An estimated 200 women in Joplin, Mo., sent Mrs. Ford a telegram objecting to her intrusion into a purely state affair. One leading conservative sent her a telegram requesting an accounting of how much taxpayers' money had been spent on long distance calls to state legislators and on the salaries of the aides assisting the first lady in her pro-passage campaign. Female opponents of the amendment have even picketed outside the White House, but this has made no impression on Mrs. Ford.

Not since the days of Eleanor Roosevelt, a highly controversial figure, has a president's wife dabbled so deeply in controversy. Do the Fords really need to stir up discussion at this time?

Surely neither the president nor his wife has found time to study the ramifications of the "equal rights amendment." It is past credibility that either could be so off base as to espouse a legal requirement that: —wife and husband should have an equal obligation for financial support of their family, —women should be subject to the draft and assigned to combat duty, —policewomen should be assigned to patrols in high crime areas, —single sex colleges like Wellesley, Mt. Holyoke, Wells, Bryn Mawr, Smith and Sweet Briar, with their long traditions of excellence in education, should be abolished, —sororities should be compelled to admit men and fraternities should be compelled to admit women and —all state laws affording women protection from dangerous work and providing them with chairs and special rest areas should be invalidated.

One would imagine that just the spectre of co-educational toilet facilities would give a charming lady like Mrs. Ford pause for reflection.

Right of privacy bill would let people know if they are kept on file

By representative Matthew J. Rinaldo

Computers were practically unheard of in government 10 years ago. Information about individuals was stored, if at all, on paper in filing cabinets.

Yet a survey on federal data banks by the senate judiciary committee last year discovered at least 858 federal data banks, which are operated by 54 executive branch agencies contain over a billion pieces of personnel information about Americans, most of it stored in computers. I suspect there are many more such data banks which have yet to be discovered.

Among the results of the survey are that at least 29 federal data banks are concerned primarily with maintaining derogatory information, such as agency blacklists and intelligence and civil disturbance files. These are maintained by the departments of justice, agriculture, defense, treasury and housing and urban development plus the small business and general services administrations.

Only 10 of the 858 data banks were specifically authorized by law and, according to the senate government operations committee report, more than 40% of them do not tell individuals that records are being kept on them. Only 30% specifically notify the individuals. Half the data banks do not allow the individuals on whom data is being collected either to review or correct the files and more than half the banks regularly share their information with other agencies.

The security of many data banks is minimal with many using only locks on doors while few employ services to prevent electronic tapping into the system.

I have co-sponsored a right to privacy bill to guard against unwarranted intrusion into the privacy of Americans by government and private organizations. Safeguarding data stored in the computer is a procedural and technological problem which can be resolved but determining what information may be collected, by whom and to whom this information may be made available is a social, political and legal question.

The bill on privacy I have co-sponsored would permit individuals to have access to information about themselves in record keeping systems, consistent with certain legitimate exceptions involving national defense matters, criminal law enforcement, prison files and certain information specifically exempted by executive order where congress is duly informed.

My bill would establish a five member federal privacy board to collect and publish information about the data systems, issue regulations, check their compliance with the law, hear requests for exceptions and transmit annual reports to congress and the president. Only congress could grant exemptions or exclusions. States and localities would be encouraged to establish privacy authorities with the same duties as the federal board.

Business and non-profit organizations also would comply with the new safeguards. Individuals would have the right to know the files exist, inspect them and correct inaccurate statements. Personal information would include anything which describes an individual, such as his or her education, financial transactions, medical or employment records and lifestyle.

Information collected would be appropriate only to the needs of the organizations seeking it. Personal information could not be given to third parties without the individual's consent. People involved in handling personal information would be under a code of professional secrecy and be subject to penalties for any breaches. The bill also requires organizations using personal information to give annual public notice describing their information systems.

An individual would receive at reasonable cost a copy of his file including investigative reports, which must show any transfers to third parties. Also an individual would be able to challenge inaccurate or undocumented information and have his or her position in a dispute added to the file.

One important protection against the invasion of privacy is the requirement that individuals be notified that information is being maintained about them.

Letters to the editor

N. J. Uminski joins in criticizing

Clark judge Joseph A. Postizzi

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an open letter in reply to a letter from chief justice Richard J. Hughes of the New Jersey supreme court published on March 6.

I was completely overwhelmed to read in the March 20 edition of The Clark Patriot that you had written an open letter to the editor bestowing accolades on our local municipal magistrate Joseph A. Postizzi. The basis for your accolades was not "first hand" information derived from your own observations but based on "second hand" or hearsay information from someone other than yourself.

My astonishment was based on your apparent

Prasser criticizes prison policies; cites obscene telephone calls case

Here we go again! An inmate at Rahway State Prison, a repeated sex offender, was caught making obscene telephone calls on the taxpayers' telephones using taxpayers' money!

Do not we taxpayers, law-abiding citizens have any rights? It seems a large percentage of the crimes being committed against us lately are done by people who are supposed to be locked up for doing it previously. If it is obvious that our entire penal system for a complete overhaul of our entire penal system. A good place to start would be to fire Mrs. Robert (Ann) Klein, head of the department of institutions and agencies, and replace her and all the other bleeding-heart dogooders with some tough, no-nonsense enforcers.

At a time when 10% of the work force is unemployed perhaps those few of our legislators who are truly serious about budget balancing can begin to cut useless expenses by taking away the telephones, video, tools, etc. etc. etc. that the prison inmates are using to commit more outrages. Why should taxpayers subsidize those who are assaulting us?

I realize there are two sides to every issue and that some prison inmates are sincerely repentant, wishing to pay their debts to society and find a productive place on the outside. However there must be priorities, and the rights of the decent, law-abiding citizens must come first.

It seems the only thing our wishy-washy governor and his allies in Trenton will listen to is a long and loud yelp from the voters. How about it citizens?

Support for administrative posts draws fire from Mrs. Munson

At the last Rahway board of education meeting Mrs. Charles (Miriam) Hull, Edmund Hoener, reverend Orrin T. Hardgrove, doctor John J. Sprows and Donald Kennedy arrogantly and blatantly displayed to city taxpayers their "taxpayers be damned" attitude.

Their callous refusal to vote for the elimination of unnecessary administrative positions certainly vindicates the assertions of Barry D. Henderson, Paul A. LoRocco and Paul M. Geyer that the five above people are excessive and wild spenders.

Student enrollment has declined from 6,000 students in 1964 to 4,800 students in 1975. Yet in spite of this substantial student decline in enrollment these five have seen fit to add 25 new administrative positions.

They find it easy to squander the taxpayers' money on useless administrative positions at a time when city taxpayers are struggling to keep their jobs and pay their bills and taxes.

This is too much! City taxpayers have heard the message loud and clear from these five. The message is: "We will spend the taxpayers money as fast as they pay it."

Rahway pair in second try as promoters

Bad economic times often kill the ambitions of many speculators but two Rahway men, despite economic conditions in the music industry and a past failure, tried their hand a second time as rock music promoters.

Michael Canfield and Peter Chicarielli tried again when they presented the Chambers Brothers and two lesser known blues groups on March 21 at the Liberty Theater in Elizabeth.

Mr. Canfield works as a truck driver for Canada Dry in Orange while Mr. Chicarielli works for Perry Sportswear in Rahway. The pair, friends since childhood, are graduates from the city school system.

They say they decided to try their luck as rock music

Ladies group holds concert

Members of guests of the Rahway Woman's Club were entertained at a musicale and tea on March 21 at the home of Mrs. James B. Zimmerman of 80 Devon Road, Colonia.

It was noted at the short business meeting conducted by Mrs. Herbert

H. Klein that the spring concert at the home of Mrs. Zimmerman has been a tradition for over 30 years.

The musicale encompassed duos and quartets from the early classical era to modern times.

ATTAINS HIGHEST RANK ... Ernest J. Pauliny, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Pauliny, Sr. of 136 Thomas Drive, Clark, received the highest rank in scouting, eagle scout, on March 17. Ernest, a 10th-grade student at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark, received the honor from Union council representative Donald Farnoff, left, at a court of honor of Clark troop no. 45. He also received the gold quill, president's trail and axeman awards.

Allaire wants $200,000 cut from Clark school budget

A total of $200,000 can be eliminated from the Clark board of education school budget which was rejected by township voters on March 11, according to defeated school board candidate John F. Allaire, Jr.

Saying the $2 budget loss was a bellwether of things to come, Mr. Allaire stated his proposed cuts "cannot and will not penalize the children or affect the teachers' or employees' salaries."

Mr. Allaire's recommendations call for the elimination of $20,000 worth of appropriations in each of the following areas: audio - visual and physical education equipment, a bond for Charles H. Brewer School, maintenance and buildings and grounds improvements.

He also said $20,000 could be saved through the utilization of nurses in all offices and other areas." He said the nurses started at approximately $7,000 and now earn from $11,000 to $12,000.

Mr. Allaire said the removal of existing lockers in the existing Brewer gymnasium and their replacement with new ones will cost $8,000.

Also a rescheduling of bus routes to reflect the declining student enrollment could result in the elimination of one bus, Mr. Allaire concluded.

Mrs. Cedervall resigns city library post, charges Martin with conflict of interest

Mrs. Tor (Stephanie) Cedervall charged mayor Daniel L. Martin with conflict of interest in awarding of a landfill permit for the Sisto property and resigned her post as mayor's alternate on the board of trustees of the Rahway Public Library in protest.

At the same time her husband, Democratic councilman-at-large Tor Cedervall, asked city councilmen to hold a public hearing on the awarding of the permit and called for a representative of the federal insurance administration to be present.

Mrs. Cedervall, secretary of Rahway Citizens for Flood Control, reported mayor Martin appeared before the group on March 12 to say the request for a public hearing was under study.

It was said city building inspector Robert Cotte issued a permit on February 10 allowing a landfill to be dumped on property owned by Sisto Realty Company. Mr. Cedervall described the land as being the flood plain bordering the north bank of Robinson's branch east of St. George Avenue.

It was noted by Mrs. Cedervall the permit was granted after the firm received an altered encroachment line of 90 feet, formerly 100 feet, from the center of Robinson's Branch.

She explained Mr. Cotte later issued a stop order following protests filed by flood group members who claimed the property in question is located in a flood hazard area.

Mrs. Cedervall said city attorneys are studying the municipal flood plain ordinance in an attempt to find a definition for "aggravated" person as a prerequisite to the demanded public hearing.

The flood group secretary charged the mayor was involved in a conflict of interest because he both serves on the planning board which granted the permit and owns property abutting Robinson's Branch on the Hamilton and New Church Streets banks of the waterway.

with your action which endangers my home, property and general well being," Mrs. Cedervall wrote.

"She and her husband also own property in the area under discussion. They explained the property suffers from periodic flooding.

Councilman Cedervall said "to permit the filling of a natural detention basin of several acres makes a farce and a fraud of our flood ordinance."

In a letter to the insurance administration he wrote, "Your agency has been misled into granting our residents access to subsidized flood insurance. The action by city officials also would destroy residents' eligibility for disaster relief loans in event of flooding."

The councilman argued the landfill permit was in violation of the 1972 flood plain ordinance.

"If city officials are correct in their interpretation of the ordinance, then the only purpose achieved by the legislation is its prescription that future structures be 'flood-proof,' albeit with certain efficiency in event of a torrential test," he said.

Howard E. Baker, president of the citizen's flood group, announced group members would seek court action if the matter was not satisfactorily resolved within the city.

No conflict says mayor

Mayor Daniel Martin denied the allegation that his membership on the city planning board and the granting by that board of a landfill permit which allegedly would increase the value of his property constituted a conflict of interest. He explained his board membership is required by law.

"Needless to say I shall continue to support you on other matters as warranted; however, I cannot agree

Cladek made acting tennis coach during confusing board session

It took five resolutions plus a 15-minute recess but Rahway board of education members finally approved the appointment of William Cladek as acting joint boys and girls tennis coach at the senior high school by an 8-4 vote.

William Roesch began it all by introducing a resolution under new business calling for the creation of a girls' tennis team and appointing Mr. Cladek acting coach "with compensation to be determined at a later date."

An amendment was then added specifying it would only be to the close of the school year on June 30. Mr. Cladek was boys tennis coach at $468 a year.

It was noted by Mr. Roesch the team was organized and a schedule established but officials of the Rahway Education Association refused to waive normal posting requirements to fill the coaching position. It was felt creating a post of acting coach would circumvent the problem.

However audience members, angry over what they felt has been reckless spending by board members, jumped on the clause leaving Mr. Cladek's salary unspecified.

Some audience members also doubted the necessity of granting Mr. Cladek an extra salary since practice sessions for boys and girls would fall at the same time on certain dates.

To avoid this new problem Mr. Roesch withdrew his motion and introduced another exactly the same, except it did not mention compensation for the work. This was still objected to by audience members.

At that point Mr. Roesch again withdrew his motion and board members recessed to discuss their next move. As it was already past 11 p.m. the overwhelming majority of the audience took the opportunity to depart leaving behind only a small body of board critics.

When board members returned they had three resolutions to offer. The first two called for the abolition of the position of boys tennis coach and the establishment of a joint boys and girls tennis coach at a salary of $702.

They passed unanimously. The $702 figure was arrived at by taking the normal $468 salary for boys coach and adding half of the same to it as compensation for coaching the girls.

When it came time to appoint Mr. Cladek acting joint coach the members were only too happy to resolve the problem and he was appointed 8-1.

Paul A. LoRocco objected saying earlier in the session John C. Geissel ruled ineligible for the post of softball coach because he did not meet the posting deadline and yet no acting coach position was established for him.

Board members apparently agreed and before the session ended he was appointed acting softball coach at an annual salary of $300.

Earlier Dale Rice was made golf coach at a $237 salary and Charles Spiewak was made freshmen track coach at a $706 salary.

The resignation of Ralph Morrell as golf coach was unanimously accepted. Also a correction was voted in extra service compensation to freshman baseball coach James Ladley.

Due to a clerical error the figure had to be re-adjusted from $468 as passed at the September 16 meeting to $706.

Larson, Geyer extend praise to Rahway Ice Hockey Club

Members of the Rahway Ice Hockey Club, who took the championship in the B league of Union County hockey play, received congratulations and praise from B league commissioner Carl O. Larson and city board of education member Paul M. Geyer.

Mr. Larson began by recapping the boys' 10-4-6 season which yielded them 26 points in meets against boys from Union, Summit, New Providence, Roselle Catholic, Newark, East Hanover and Rahway.

Organized October 1973, coach Dale Rice's squad consisted of about 20 youths from 14 through 17 years of age and included players who had never skated before, the commissioner noted.

With only partial membership the first season the city iceboys just won three contests. He noted most of their matches that year were held between midnight and 6 a.m. in distant rinks.

Last season the reversed this, the commissioner said. After two opening losses the boys skated to 12 games in a row without a defeat. They then dropped the next two but won the following pair to put them one point behind the league champs.

They then downed the first-place Union Eagles, last-year's champions, the commissioner related, by 2-0 and went on to destroy hard-skating New Providence 6-3 for the league title.

Mr. Geyer noted the club is an independent organization operating without support from either the city recreation department of the school board.

"The boys had to finance their own operations through paper drives or individual efforts as each boy had to pay $80 to play in the league and also had to furnish his own playing equipment," Mr. Geyer noted.

"My heartiest congratulations to these young men, their fine coach Mr. Rice and their long suffering parents," said the commissioner.

Mr. Geyer said the championship "is an achievement of which the boys, their parents and our community can well be proud as it is indicative of the fine qualities of teamwork, sportsmanship and persistence which abounds in Rahway youth."

Bill Cladek's Rahway High School boys tennis team will open its season on Wednesday afternoon, April 2, when they travel to Springfield to meet Jonathan Dayton Regional High School at 4 p.m.

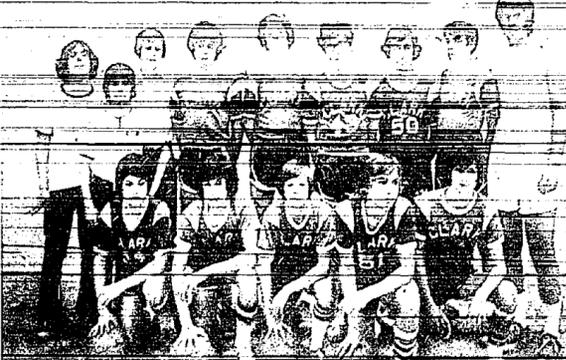

The team will engage in 13 meets and will be entered in the Union County conference championship.

The girls will open their season at home against the Union Catholic Terriers on Thursday, April 3. Complete schedules follow.

All-Stars win Tigers finish season 13-2, against Reds drop tourney to Westfield in city action

Members of the seventh- and eighth-grade boys' basketball team of Carl H. Kumpf School in Clark, under the direction of coach Dave Chinchler, ended their season with a record of 13 wins and two losses.

City high school graduation requirements introduced at board meeting

A policy on graduation requirements from Rahway Senior High School was adopted on first reading by members of the city board of education at their March 17 session.

The policy requires a student complete 75 credits of high school work approved by the school administration. In addition the student must have carried a minimum of 25 credits, including health and physical education, every year.

Those wishing to graduate must have completed three years of English and three years of health and physical education, two years of American history and one year of mathematics.

The policy also states those students who were certified as successfully completing the graduation requirements may leave school prior to the normal graduation of the class.

Early graduates may, if they wish, attend the regular June graduation ceremonies. It was also noted that participation in the graduation exercises will be governed by the provisions of the behavior code and administrative rules.

Board policy on textbook aid to non-public schools, which was passed 5-3 at the March 17 board session, carried by a complex 4-3-1-1 vote on second reading. The policy change was authorized by the state.

The negative votes were cast by board president Orrin T. Hardgrove, Donald L. Kennedy and Paul M. Geyer. Reverend Hardgrove described it as a bad law which he thought the courts would soon rule unconstitutional.

Barry D. Henderson registered as not voting and Paul A. LoRocco abstained from the balloting. Board members unanimously voted to prepare plaques of appreciation for retired board members Larry Lockhart, Harry W. McDowell and Eric H. Beckhusen. The first two lost the March 11 school board race while the third chose not to run.

At the February 17 board session, Alonzo W. Lawrence, president of the Rahway Taxpayers Association, attacked an unsigned letter mailed to select members of the school system saying it was libelous against him.

At the March 17 meeting board attorney Leo Kahn, after taking the matter under consideration as he promised Mr. Lawrence he would, ruled the letter was an association privilege guaranteed by contract.

Board members unanimously awarded a contract to Peterson and Sons of Warren for their low bid of $758 for the installation of lightning rod protective equipment on the chimney at Franklin School.

Willie Gramby was unanimously approved as custodian at the senior high school effective April 1 through June 30 at the first step on the salary guide.

The resignation of a special education teacher at the senior high school and the retirement of a kindergarten teacher at Roosevelt School were accepted unanimously by board members. Both will be effective June 30.

The appointment of Robert Cochran as acting science department chairman at an annual salary of $600 effective March 18 and for the balance of the school year was unanimously approved.

Also unanimously accepted was the resignation of Geo. Borcia as department chairman of special subjects at the junior high school effective March 1.

With no opposing votes Robert Brown was reappointed assistant principal of the junior high school, Warren Hanson administrative assistant to the principal at the senior high school and Charles Hull assistant principal at Franklin School.

By the same 8-0 vote, with Mrs. Charles (Miriam) Hull absent from the balloting, Ralph Manfredi was returned as assistant principal of the junior high school and Ronald Ward as board business administrator and secretary.

In a 6-2 vote, with Messrs. Henderson and LoRocco in opposition, Frank Lukaszewicz was reappointed assistant principal at Grover Cleveland and Franklin Schools.

Three police attend college

Three members of the Rahway police department are among 38 patrolmen and other law enforcement personnel enrolled in the 30th annual session of the Union County Basic Police Training Academy at Union College's Cranford campus.

In addition to instruction in the fundamentals of police work the academy offers recruits the opportunity to earn up to 12 college credits which may be transferred to a degree program in criminal justice offered at Union College and other schools.

The members attending the spring session are Peter James Grzywacz, John H. Kaczor and Edward Gerard Monstret.
