PROCLAIM OLDER AMERICANS MONTH... Freeholder Walter E. Boright of Westfield, chairman of the health and social services committee of the Union County board of chosen freeholders, announced passage by board members of a resolution proclaiming May "Older Americans Month." Reviewing a copy of the Fourth ward people protest Randolph Avenue extension

Mayor Daniel L. Martin, Democratic councilman Walter McLeod, the latter gentleman said if the meeting was closed to the public, it should also be closed to planning board members. His statement drew strong applause from the 40 or so people assembled in the room. At one point during the debate there were cries of "open it or close it" from the audience.

President Beauregard, who is also a Democratic councilman-at-large, finally backed down and said he would first permit the board members to speak and then he would hear from the public.

At Linden of the county board said it was "not the intention of my invitation to become involved in a public hearing." He also said, "We are not here to grand stand or get involved with a political football."

He said the meeting with council was suggested by George Cannon of Rahway, a member of the board, who sought to have increased "input" from the city before any final county plans were made.

Mr. Linden said the extension of Randolph Avenue, which he claimed was to combat heavy truck traffic on Hazelwood Avenue, originally had the support of the city although he noted "the opinions and people involved have changed."

He explained the controversy began when city officials first asked the designation "county road" be removed from East Hazelwood Avenue and placed on Randolph Avenue.

The move was done because of noise level requirements established by officials of the department of housing and urban development for a housing project being built on Hazelwood Avenue.

After the switch, Mr. Linden said, opposition surfaced from Randolph Avenue dwellers over the proposed extension to Route no. 1. Nobody wants a county road, he said, but it has to go somewhere.

Noting the undercurrent of hostility in the room, he said board members "do not want a circus; people can meet with us later."

Mr. Linden emphasized no action had been taken by board members on developing a plan and future action would only come after a public hearing.

Councilman McLeod, noting the plan is part of an agreement between Union and Middlesex Counties plus officials of Woodbridge and Rahway, said the agreement involved had a five-year life.

"It was understood, and mentioned by participants, that if the five years were allowed to elapse, all designations would automatically revert to their former status. Plus the housing project would be completed."

One of the most persistent critics was Mrs. Stanley C. (Marion E.) Curry of 1014 Randolph Avenue, wife of the president of the Community Homeowners and Tenants Association.

She recommended using Hart Street as an alternate truck route with the construction of a bridge over the river. County traffic engineer Walter W. Gardner said the proposal would be too expensive.

He also said another alternate route, this one through Woodbridge, would be opposed by Middlesex County officials who he said refuse to bear any of the cost of the project.

Residents later got Mr. Gardner to admit he never broached the subject to Middlesex officials because he thought they would oppose it. But Middlesex opposition was noted by the mayor who said he heard it at a meeting and could obtain it in writing.

The mayor said there had to be a county road at that portion of the city. He also said there was, to the best of his knowledge, no plans to connect Randolph Avenue to the Garden State Parkway, a fear expressed by many in the audience.

He then called sergeant McKewen to the podium to discuss traffic figures. Angry residents shouted opposition to each figure presented saying they either concerned areas not connected with the project or were distorted by lack of comparison figures from elsewhere in the city.

Harvey L. Williams of 1628 Park Street labelled council approval of the change in county road designation and the later plans to extend Randolph Avenue "another rip-off of the black community."

A total of eight people, including an Avenel resident, spoke at the session. All opposed the county plan.

"The stage is set for the county engineer to present his master plan for an east-west corridor through Rahway using Inman Avenue connecting onto Randolph Avenue," declared councilman McLeod in a statement read at the session.

"There would be an interchange for the parkway on Inman Avenue and Randolph Avenue would be continued on to the New Jersey Turnpike but widened considerably," he said.

Dietz challenged by Menza for job traditionally in city

A battle over whether incumbent Democratic assemblyman John T. Gregorio should again be the party candidate may have only the unexpected result of removing the post of party chairman from Rahway.

Although few actually expect current chairman Christopher J. Dietz to be unseated, still a challenge has been sounded by state senator Alexander J. Menza of Hillsdale with the apparent support of Elizabeth mayor Thomas Dunn.

Mr. Dietz has been chairman since 1972. Prior to him the post was held by James J. Kinneally and before that by Edward Whelan, both Rahway gentlemen. Mr. Dietz estimated the post has been occupied by a city man for over 40 years.

The uproar began on April 21 when Mr. Dietz demanded either party officials rescind their April 19 endorsement of Gregorio or the Linden mayor voluntarily decline it. If not, he warned, party officials would have to find a new chairman.

Gregorio, who is also mayor of Linden, refused to give back the endorsement. His stand drew the support of fellow mayor Dunn, who is also a state senator from the 21st district.

Mr. Dietz wanted Gregorio dumped because the 21st district assemblyman was indicted on April 16, on charges he attempted to extort a $25,000 payoff from a builder who two months later won the general contract to construct the $3.5 million Linden Vocational and Technical High School building.

Earlier Gregorio was indicted on charges of perjury, obstructing justice and conspiracy involving the purchase of land from Elizabethtown Gas Company.

According to a policy established by Mr. Dietz in 1973, party officials are not to endorse candidates under indictment. The measure followed the indictment of John J. Wilson, former Clark business administrator under former mayor Thomas A. Kaczmarek.

Despite Gregorio's threat to stay in the race as an independent his endorsement was revoked on April 23. The next day the same officials voted to keep hall the Democratic assembly state blank by not voting a replacement for Gregorio.

Mr. Dietz allegedly tried to push Theodore Jacqueney as a candidate although he failed to get party backing. Another candidate who entered was Henry Kellbasa, an unsuccessful United States senate aspirant.

Both men withdrew after Gregorio challenged the validity of their nominating petitions. Thus, despite the long fight, it appears Gregorio will obtain the party nomination.

Democrats select William Wolf to replace D'Ambrosia in primary

William A. Wolf of 537 Bramhill Road, Rahway, well-known in county labor circles, was selected by officials of the Democratic Party to replace fallen incumbent assemblyman Arnold J. D'Ambrosia in the 22nd district race.

Assemblyman D'Ambrosia, also a Rahway resident, bowed out of the race. After having endured two indictments, the 39-year old state legislator said he could not subject his family to what he called the emotional pressures of a reelection bid.

In selecting the 57-year-old city resident the party officials also obtained a man with strong union credentials. Mr. Wolf served 28 years with the Carpenters' Union local in Elizabeth.

He served for six years as president and vice president of the local and for six years as vice president for the Union County council of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Mr. Wolf also appears to be a strong party man having served for 15 years on the Democratic county committee. He is a past president of the Third Ward Democratic Club.

The Democratic aspirant in the Tuesday, June 3, primary has sat for four years as chairman of the mayor's citizens committee of Rahway. He is also a past president of the Inman Heights Association.

The new candidate is a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church of Rahway and the former Miss Grace Haverly for 34 years. They have two daughters, both married, and one granddaughter.

He is a member of the Quarter Horse Association of New Jersey and the state agricultural association. He is honorary vice president of the Bramhill Riding and Driving Club.

He notes that he and his wife were once professional roller skaters. Mr. Wolf has resided in Rahway for 29 years.

His running mate in the primary will be assemblywoman Mrs. James (Betty) Wilson of Berkeley Heights. They will be unopposed.

On the Republican side a battle has arisen between party-backed hopefuls William J. Maguire of Clark plus Donald T. DiFrancesco of Scotch Plains and Arthur A. Manner of Berkeley Heights plus Mrs. William (Linda) Wnuck of Rahway.

Regina workers strike; first in 80-year history

The first strike in the 80-year history of Regina Company, a Unit of General Signal, of Rahway began on May 1 after what was described as a unanimous vote by the 375 company employees.

The plant may be closed for an indefinite period of time, according to Regina president Earl Seitz. He stated no meetings with union officials are scheduled or contemplated.

The strike was called by officials of local no. 411 of the International Union of Electrical Workers. John Stevens is president of the local.

Claiming Regina wages and benefits were among the highest in the industry even before negotiations began, Mr. Seitz said "the offer made by the company represented the highest single contract proposal ever extended by Regina management to company employees."

According to both Mr. Seitz and Union Local 411, vice president of the local, management has offered an increase in wages and benefits which would amount to a $1 an hour hike spread over three years.

Mr. Finer explained 87% of the dollar would be a straight increase while 13% would consist of "roll-up," increases in built-in benefits. He also said there was no increase in pension in the company proposal.

The base rate at Regina was said by Mr. Finer to be $4.04 an hour.

Rabies clinic for city noted

City health department officials announced the annual rabies clinic will be held Tuesday, May 13, at the East Milton Avenue, Wednesday, May 14, at the Seminary Avenue and Thursday, May 15, at the Maple Avenue firehouses from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

"In addition to a significant wage increase, our offer provided for improved fringe benefits, holidays and vacations," Mr. Seitz said.

Mr. Seitz declared this "highest ever offer" comes at a time "when the company profits have been eroded by the general economic decline and when the entire vacuum cleaner industry is in a very depressed condition."

"It seems ironic," he continued, "that the first work stoppage in our history in Rahway occurs at a point when the company is making no profit. Yet the monetary proposal to the union is the highest we have ever made."

According to a company spokesman the Regina work force is down from a peak of 692 employees at about November of last year.

President Stevens said the value of the package covered by the company was 87% not $1 an hour and that "compared to settlements elsewhere the offer is an actual disgrace to the people."

He further said the union has asked for a 37% pay increase during the first year of a new three-year contract, 30% the second year and 25% in the third year.

In addition, president Stevens said the union was asking for improved benefits which would have brought the total of the wage-benefit package to $1.12 an hour.

The company, which reported a 20% drop in sales during the first quarter of this year compared to the same period last year, is said to have a weekly payroll of $90,000.

Firemen note day

City fire chief George G. Link reported Rahway fire department personnel will celebrate "National Fire Service Recognition Day" on Saturday, May 10. All fire stations will be open to visitors on that day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Business administrator tells of economy moves, stresses importance of morale among employees

The elimination of part-time summer clerical help at city hall and examinations of expenditures in all city departments are at the forefront of a major economy move by Rahway business administrator Joseph M. Hartnett.

"With this city budget behind me I expect to devote the bulk of my time and energy to devising policies and controls which will insure tax stability in the community," he said in an interview.

Declaring his top priority will be saving the taxpayers money, Mr. Hartnett announced city government will operate this summer for the first time in a decade without the benefit of six part-time employees.

He explained the only part-time summer help will be a $1,500 employ in the municipal court to allow for an extra court session. He noted the session would allow policemen to testify during regular duty thus eliminating much overtime.

The administrator noted some guards must be on duty only to cross three or four children at lunch time. He said talks with school administrators would be sought to rectify the problems.

Mr. Hartnett said his economic policies have reduced his office to two full-time secretaries. The ladies are Mrs. Bernard (Charlotte) Channel and Mrs. Clifford (Anne) Ginfreda.

"People are economy-minded," he said, "and government has to show it is willing to lead the way."

One of the areas Mr. Hartnett expects to investigate with an eye toward savings is city insurance. He said the possibility of municipal self-insurance, or even partial self-insurance, should be seriously examined.

The administrator noted $200,000 is spent on insurance. One problem he noted was the temptation, which has appeared in other communities, to dip into the risk fund to finance other city projects.

Other areas he cited were sewage assessments and the possibility of establishing a central purchasing system. He noted in the latter case a full-time purchasing agent would be necessary but confident the resulting savings could offset the cost.

The city should also get away from the concept of having one secretary for every administrator, Mr. Hartnett observed. He said a secretarial pool and use of a central dictating machine could eliminate the practice.

The city official, appointed at the January reorganization meeting, said most changes would come gradually over a period of perhaps two years.

The administrator said he is personnel-oriented and the key to economy in government is the morale of city employees.

"I for one am fed up with the harangues of certain politicians and critics that employes of the public works and water departments are lazy, that city hall employes do not have enough to do, that police officers care only about their salaries and that firemen sleep half the time," he said.

He declared the vast majority of city employes are dedicated, hard-working people.

"They have been criticized so strongly for so long I am surprised more of them have not developed

State investigation requested over mayor's Sisto position

Claiming the mayor first attempted to block a public hearing on the Sisto landfill operation and then tried to sabotage the session when it was held, Democratic councilman-at-large Tor Cedervall called for an investigation from the state attorney general.

In a letter dated May 5 and sent to attorney general William F. Byland, councilman Cedervall said mayor Daniel L. Martin persuaded the plan president of the city council to ask the city director of law for an opinion to bar the hearing. "This opinion was conveniently supplied,"

Noting a council hearing was held on April 25, the councilman said "the mayor ordered all city personnel involved in the Sisto matter not to appear."

The mayor's actions were, according to the councilman, "intentional to collude and suppressions of the public's right to know."

The original request for a hearing was ruled improper by city attorney Alan Karcher who said it did not conform to requirements set in article no. 8 of the city flood plain ordinance. The council session was held on the "inherent right" of councilmen to call a hearing on anything they wish.

The councilman sought both an investigation of the mayor's actions and an interpretation from the attorney general of article no. 8.

The landfill operation is being undertaken on property owned by officials of Sisto Realty Company of Linden on the northeasterly bank of Robinson's Branch in the vicinity of New Church Street and Central Avenue.

President of City Federal wants equalized treatment
The government practice of placing tax and loan accounts into commercial banks came under fire from Gilbert G. Roessler, president of City Federal Savings and Loan Association of Rahway. "A multi-billion dollar interest free bonanza" was his description of the practice. The deposits are composed of federal income tax withholding funds taken out of employees' pay checks. "It is a monopoly on these funds which ought to be eliminated. Not one penny goes to thrift institutions which place the bulk of their funds into the housing market," he said. "On any given day the balance of these tax and loan accounts totals in the billions of dollars. Some of these funds should be deposited in thrift institutions where they could indirectly aid the hard-pressed home mortgage market," Mr. Roessler continued. He also said interest should be paid on the account.

William Maguire and Donald DiFrancesco blast Democratic state officials: Arthur Manner, Mrs. William Wnuck obtain Young Republican endorsement

"It is high time the Democratic leadership realized the people simply do not want a new 'open cash drawer' for increased state spending," declared William J. Maguire and Donald T. DiFrancesco, candidates for the Republican nomination for the 22nd district assembly seat. "It is time the leadership in the assembly re-assesses its constitutional duties by proposing a separate measure to meet the court mandate regarding 'thorough and efficient education and another reduction of the budget gap," the duo said. In other action Arthur A. Manner of Berkeley Heights and Mrs. William Wnuck of Rahway, also aspirants for the Republican nomination for the 22nd district assembly seat, were endorsed by the Young Republicans of Union County. The endorsement was made at a 20 convention in Rahway.

Manner hits party backing as denial of equal chance
"Equal opportunity? Not in politics!" declared former assemblyman Arthur A. Manner who is making a machine shop at the nomination to the assembly seat from the 22nd district. Mr. Manner says he is critical of the political procedures which discourage candidates like himself. "Political party leaders have used an organization line on the ballot for years and any candidate not willing to play their game is excluded from a place on the line," said the Berkeley Heights resident. He noted until recently party organizations were prohibited by law from endorsing candidates in primary elections. Mr. Manner says he is incorporated line was a means of circumventing the law. The former Berkeley Heights mayor went against governor Brendan T. Byrne and the Democrats in the state legislature.

Reduced state spending, not state income tax, best budget deficit cure

The survey published in the May 1 issue of The Rahway News-Record and The Clark Patriot, which showed 55% of New Jersey residents oppose plans for a state income tax, gives factual support to a well-known belief: the people do not want and the state legislators should not pass a state income tax.

Even more significant than the large-scale opposition revealed was the fact 63% of the people responding to the opinion Research Corporation poll felt $500 million was not needed to balance the state budget. This is the amount of the expected state budget deficit most often released by state officials. Perhaps the people realize this "deficit" is really a paper tiger, one which can easily be blown away by the winds of economy.

With this in mind it is interesting to note while the state population has increased 75% in the past 30 years, government expenditures have increased over 2,500%. This increase did not happen all at once. As of June 30 last year the state had a surplus of $382,400,918.09. Why the sudden turnaround? Could it be because 30 new spending bills were passed last year by state legislators? Could it be because those bills included raises for cabinet members and judges plus future financing of gubernatorial campaigns, for a total of $50 million a year?

When governor William T. Cahill left office 16 months ago only 20 state officials were earning over $40,000 a year. Now 59 are in this bracket.

Consider these increases: deputy treasurer Clifford Goldman from $35,901 to $41,368, first assistant attorney general Robert Del Tufo from $38,786 to $42,500, governor's special advisor Lewis Kaden from $37,400 to $40,000, governor's executive secretary Don L. L. from $37,400 to $40,000 and "confidential aide" Richard Goldman in the department of labor and industry from $29,000 to $30,740.

Consider also that 35 high-ranking bureaucrats, excluding the governor, are given free residences. In most cases these are with free utilities, maintenance and ground-keeping services. On May 1 education commissioner Frederick Burke became the latest official to be given free housing.

If state officials want a balanced budget, why do they spend $100,000 a year for an unnecessary state office in the World Trade Center in New York City? Why were 191 non-civil service employees hired within 15 months at a cost of $28,692,900 a year?

Maybe if an independent audit by a firm from outside the state were taken, state officials would have a lot of questions to answer and state residents a much smaller tax bill to pay.

The governor wants an income tax to balance the budget. The people want an immediate curbing of wasteful spending for the same end. When state legislators are again called upon to choose between the two, we hope they consider the results of the above-mentioned survey.

Best solution to future Vietnam: beat socialism, elect conservatives

Cambodia and Vietnam should prove the only way to coexist with communism is to surrender to it, which is exactly what the pink 94th congress has done in Indochina. That gang of political, moral and spiritual assassins will go down in infamy. They will rank with Pearl Harbor and the "war on poverty" as national disasters.

Actually Vietnam was not lost on the battlefield any more than it was lost at the Paris peace talks in 1973. Vietnam and Cambodia were lost in 1933 along with a large slice of the rest of the free world when President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided to recognize the Soviet Union which was on the verge of collapse.

Since that tragic day our foreign policy has been based on the Utopian delusion that enough love and kindness will contain and civilize communism.

The reds are winning everywhere because our "liberals," socialists, pacifists, the same old tools in high places have succeeded in liquidating western influence in every quarter of the globe. They have transferred one billion human beings from the western world to the armed camp of communism. They have established a communist beachhead 90 miles from Florida.

We will avoid more Vietnam only by defeating communism. The way to beat socialism is to get out of office the socialists (liberals) in our government.

We need legitimate conservatives in government who will put an end to bipartisan treason, domestic exploitation, no-win warfare, crime in the streets, free love, abortion on demand,

Mayor Dunn, commenting on Mr. Dietz' renomination, said, "he had it sewed up. Nobody would have opposed him. Then he antagonized everyone with his handling of the Gregorio affair and the role he played in getting a newcomer to the county, Ted Jacquency, to file."

"I feel there is an awful lot of dissension in the party," commented 20th district state senator Menza. "We have had two victories in a row and there is no reason why we should have this kind of dissension."

Ethics may be defined as a set of moral principles or values governing one's conduct and in the absence of accepted, uniform, written ethical standards certain values can be subject to varying interpretation among individuals, according to a spokesman for the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

This is particularly true as it relates to duties and actions of public officials, he said. Certain actions by an official may not be acceptable ethically, he noted, and thus conflict with the proper conduct of the office.

Does New Jersey need stronger, broader and more specific conflict of interest legislation which would extend to officers and employees of counties, municipalities and school districts not now covered under the present law?

Should this legislation include state lawmakers, thereby strengthening law enacted in 1971 applying primarily to state government officers and employees and to the legislature in lesser degree?

These general questions and many others involving much detail were considered at a recent public hearing by the assembly state government federal and interstate relations committee in Trenton on pending legislation, assembly bills no. 3052 and 3193, the spokesman said.

While both bills have similar provisions relating to local government employees, the tax group representative explained the latter would apply to the legislative branch and impose rigid constraints on stated activities of legislators.

For example, he said, no legislator could serve as chairman of a legislative standing committee or commission nor could more than half the membership of a committee be persons who derive more than 25% of their income from sources which fall under the jurisdictional responsibility of such committee.

Under this provision no school teacher could be chairman of either the Senate or Assembly Education Committee.

Each local governmental unit would be required to formulate and adopt a code of ethics following general standards set forth in the bill.

Such code would be applicable to both elected and appointed, salaried and non-salaried officials and employees, and independent contractors.

The code would have to be approved by a state commission on ethical standards before it would be effective. The size of and representation on the commission is different in each bill depending on the governmental agencies to which the legislation applies.

It was further explained the administering agency would have a fulltime executive director to enforce the law and related regulations as does the present executive commission on ethical standards.

Local ethics codes would have to contain standards like those now required for state government governing official conduct for dealing primarily with contracts, personnel and the public, the spokesman explained.

Two controversial provisions in the new bills prohibit officials and employees from conducting business with their former employing agency until one year after retirement and forbid officials soliciting political contributions from employees on the premises of governmental employment.

Work outside of the regular governmental employment would have to be approved in writing by agency heads, but reaching at higher educational institutions would be authorized.

Table with 2 columns: Category and Value. Includes Neighborhood areas (0.50 to 0.70), Residential: Single-family areas (0.30 to 0.50), Multi-units, detached (0.40 to 0.50), etc.

The range of coefficients for each land use and surface type reflects differences in land slope, intensity of development, amount of impervious surface, and degree of ground saturation due to antecedent precipitation.

(3) The runoff coefficients shall be determined for each site for both existing and proposed conditions and the difference in the two shall be used to compute the volume of rainfall excess for design of storm water detention facilities. The volume for design is equal to the depth of the rainfall excess multiplied by the area of the site.

(4) If the proposed development is too small to warrant professional engineering services or if the cost of securing professional engineering services would impose an undue economic hardship on the developer, the (Municipal) Engineer shall determine the required type and size of storm water detention facilities. This is not to guarantee adequate performance of such systems since it is for the convenience of the developer and is based on conditions that may vary.

(5) In the case of detention facilities utilizing porous media for ground absorption, such as drywells, porous pavement, or the like, the volume of the porous media shall be large enough to contain the total volume of rainfall excess within the voids. Ground absorption systems shall be used only where the infiltration rate of the receiving soil is acceptable as determined by percolation tests and soil borings, or as determined by the (Municipal) Engineer. Provisions shall be made to contain the overflow of such systems on-site or to surface drain the overflow in such a way as not to adversely affect any other property.

(6) If detention facilities utilizing surface impoundment, such as detention basins or rooftop storage, are used, sufficient volume to fully contain the total volume of rainfall excess shall be provided. The outlets of such facilities shall be designed to limit the maximum discharge rate of storm water runoff to what occurs at the site under existing conditions and shall discharge in such a way as not to adversely affect any other property.

(7) If a combination of different storm water detention techniques is used, sufficient volume to fully contain the total volume of rainfall excess shall be provided.

(8) Storm water detention facilities shall be maintained regularly by the owner to insure continual functioning of the systems at design capacity and to prevent the health hazards associated with debris buildup and stagnant water. In no case shall water be allowed to remain in any facility long enough to constitute a mosquito breeding, disease, or any other type of health problem. If the land containing the storm water detention facility or facilities is dedicated to the Municipality, then, the (Municipality) shall be responsible for maintenance.

(9) Detention and sediment and erosion control facilities shall be designed in conformance with the "Standards for Soil Erosion and Sediment Control in New Jersey" of the New Jersey State Soil Conservation Committee and administered by the Somerset-Union Soil Conservation District, except where the (Municipal) Engineer has determined that conditions peculiar to a certain site warrant an exception.

(10) Sediment and erosion control measures shall be installed prior to any other site development, shall apply to all aspects of the proposed development, and shall be in operation during all stages of development. Increased runoff and sediment, resulting from modified soil and surface conditions caused by the proposed development, shall be minimized and, where possible, retained on-site.

SECTION 6. TIME LIMITS

The Planning Board shall set upon any Site Plan provided for in Section 4, within sixty (60) days of the date of the filing thereof, or other extension of time agreed to by the applicant. Failure of the Planning Board to act within the time limit or limits shall be deemed an approval of any Site Plan submitted under this Ordinance.

Planning Board disapproval shall include written findings upon any Site Plan element found contrary to the provisions or intent of this Ordinance.

SECTION 7. FLOOD INSURANCE

Flood insurance, in accordance with the National Flood Insurance Program of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, shall be required for all development in the flood plain.

SECTION 8. ISSUANCE OF PERMITS

No building permit shall be issued by the Building Inspector for any proposed structure or development to be located within the Township of Clark unless the Planning Board shall have approved a Site Plan submitted in accordance with Section 4 and which complies with all of the provisions of this Ordinance.

No Certificate of Occupancy shall be issued by the Building Inspector unless proof has been submitted to him that all conditions of Site Plan approval have been fully complied with.

SECTION 9. APPEAL

If any person shall be aggrieved by the action of the Planning Board or Building Inspector, appeal in writing to the Township Council may be taken within ten (10) days after the date of such action.

SECTION 10. FLOOD HAZARD MAP

For the purpose of this Ordinance, the Township of Clark is hereby divided into two areas to be known and designated as follows on a map entitled "Department of Housing and Urban Development, F.I.A. Flood Hazard and Boundary Map" dated December 23, 1971; and its revision entitled "Interim Map Revision" dated July 1, 1974:

FLOOD-HAZARD AREA-NON-FLOOD HAZARD AREA

SECTION 11. SEPARABILITY

If any provision of this Ordinance shall be adjudged invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction such adjudication shall not affect the validity of the remaining provisions, which shall be deemed enforceable herefrom.

SECTION 12. DESIGNATION OF ORDINANCE

The Provisions of this Ordinance shall be inserted in the Revised Ordinances of the Township of Clark, New Jersey, 1968, and designated as Chapter 28.

SECTION 13. APPLICABILITY

This Ordinance shall take precedence over any conflicting laws, ordinances or codes.

SECTION 14. PENALTY

Any person, firm or corporation who or which shall violate any provision of this Ordinance shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, or the imprisonment for a term not exceeding Ninety (90) days, or both, and each day in which such violation continues shall constitute a separate violation or offense.

SECTION 15. WHEN EFFECTIVE

This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon final passage and publication as required by law.

Advertisement of public meetings sought by state assembly measure

A major provision of a new "Open Public Meetings Bill," assembly bill no. 1030, which recently passed the assembly more than 15 months after its introduction, is a requirement for adequate notice of meetings of public bodies.

The inclusion of this section, absent from the existing open meetings law intended for repeal by the act, should increase citizen awareness of and participation in local and state governmental affairs, claimed a New Jersey Taxpayers' Association spokesman.

He said the much amended legislation mandates that all regular, special or rescheduled meetings of public bodies, with a few stated exceptions such as the judicial branch, grand and petit juries, parole boards, the state committee of investigation and political party committees, be advertised at least 48 hours in advance.

Both the time and place of the meeting, he continued, as well as information on the agenda and the nature of action of the meeting must be posted in a public place reserved for such announcements.

In addition, he said, notice of the meeting would be forwarded to at least two newspapers which members of the body concerned think would have the greatest likelihood of informing the citizens in the jurisdictional area of the public body of such meetings. The notice would not need to be a legal advertisement.

Statement of notice would have to be entered into the minutes of every meeting, the taxpayers spokesman stated.

If a public body conducts an unscheduled or unforeseen meeting without supplying 48 hours advance notice, such as in an emergency, the public body would be obliged to give notice of such a session as soon as possible and state the reason adequate notice was not provided and the nature of the issues deliberated at such meeting, he said.

It was said the bill also lists special subjects which a public body may consider in private session such as collective bargaining, personnel matters which could invade privacy and deliberation on real estate to be purchased by public funds.

A private meeting would have to be preceded by a resolution at a public meeting stating the intention.

The notice provision of the proposed act, particularly concerning publication of meeting agenda, should encourage citizens to participate in governmental activities and possibly increase voter turnout as issues become better known, the spokesman claimed.

He said one assemblyman debating the measure prior to its passage in the assembly claimed although the bill may not insure a great surge in citizen involvement in local government, "the crutch that he did not know about the meetings and could not get the information will be gone."
