THE VIEW FROM ACACIA ... This attractive home, said to have been located on Fourth Street opposite the foot of Cherry Street, was printed in "Ballou's Pictorial Drawing-Room Companion" published about 1860. The home was said to have received its name from the numerous evergreen trees which surround it. "Modesty forbids me to enlarge upon its attractions," the author and sketcher noted, "as it is the property and home of your artist Neutral Tint."

Move against administrators fails at school board meet

The debate over whether the Rahway school system is "top heavy" with administrators continued at the May 19 board of education meeting with no resolution.

With 4-4 votes which came in rapid succession a motion to eliminate one position of supervisor of curriculum instruction for the next school year and another motion to give doctor Neil Ellman a 60-day notice of termination of employment failed.

Doctor Ellman is a supervisor of curriculum and instruction. He was reappointed at a stormy March 17 board session by a narrow 5-4 vote. The same session saw the end of the newly-established post of director of personnel occupied briefly by Robert A. Searles.

At the Monday meeting board president Everett Orlin T. Hardgrove joined with Mrs. Charles H. (Miriam) Hull, doctor John J. Sprowls and Donald L. Kennedy opposing the two motions.

Supporting the elimination of the administration post and the removal of doctor Ellman were Paul M. Geyer, Barry D. Henderson, Paul A. LoRocco and William M. Rosenthal.

Board vice president Edmund L. Hoener was absent for both votes but arrived immediately afterward.

Prior to the vote on eliminating the supervisory post, Mr. LoRocco moved to have the matter postponed until next business. His motion failed by the same 4-4 vote.

After being questioned by board and audience members, board attorney Leo Kahn said the two items could only be reintroduced at the session by the unanimous consent of board members.

To this end a recess of about half an hour was called at the conclusion of the regular agenda. Unanimous consent was not forthcoming and the earlier actions stood.

However an earlier request by Mr. LoRocco to insure the motion seeking to eliminate the supervisory position would be discussed at a special board meeting to be held Monday, June 9, in the auditorium of Roosevelt School at 8 p.m.

The special session will also cover redistricting plans for elementary schools and could possibly include approval of a new behavior code, according to city superintendent of schools doctor Edward L. Bowes.

Also courtesy of another request from Mr. LoRocco, a proposed school calendar for the next school year will be discussed. He noted there was some questions surrounding spring recess and the proper observance of holidays.

Even if the matter of administrators is not resolved at the special session there is little chance the issue will die, judging from comments made by board members when they returned from their recess.

Speaking of the proposal to eliminate the supervisory post, Mr. Henderson said he intends to bring the motion up at every board meeting "until we get a board decision."

He said the system was top-heavy with administrators and declared "we are not getting enough productivity out of administrators."

His view was shared by Mr. LoRocco who said the motion would be "brought up every month, every month until February."

Mr. Hoener, who voted to reappoint doctor Ellman at the March 17 session, said something needed to be done about the administrative structure but an opportunity should be given to administrators to develop a new administrative chart.

He emphasized he had voted against a third administrator in the past. He had voted against the original appointment of Mr. Searles and for the elimination of his post later.

Mrs. Hull said she too felt there were too many administrators but said board members should look into all administrative areas before any cuts are made.

Her statements were countered by Mr. LoRocco who, speaking of a review, asked, "What have we been doing all this time? Where were we two or three months ago?"

President Hardgrove read a statement by county superintendent of schools doctor William West which

Graduation requirements set for Rahway Senior High School

After a review prompted by public criticisms of the original proposal, Rahway board of education members unanimously approved graduation requirements for Rahway Senior High School.

The requirements call for three years of English, a health and physical education course for each year enrolled, two years of American history and one mathematics course.

It was explained every student must carry a minimum of 25 credits, including the health and physical education course, for each year enrolled.

Doctor Edward L. Bowes, city superintendent of schools, noted this was the first set of graduation requirements for the school.

The set presented at the April 21 board session was criticized for what audience members saw as "deficiencies" such as the lack of a mathematics requirement.

Also passed was a board policy governing equal educational opportunities for students. The alteration involved the inclusion of the word "sex," according to William M. Rosenthal.

The policy reads board members support "equal educational opportunity for students free from limitations based on ethnic or racial background, sex, religious beliefs or economic and social conditions."

Chief Polhamus answers critics of loitering laws

"It is not the intent of the police department to prevent nor harass those who gather together for recreational, educational or any other purpose which does not create annoyances for residents," declared Rahway police chief Theodore E. Polhamus.

His statement came after city councilman passed an ordinance on May 12 prohibiting the consumption of alcoholic beverages in public places or on private property without the permission of the owner of the property.

It also set prohibitions on the discarding of liquor containers and fixed penalties for violation of the law.

The chief seemed to be addressing himself to that law and criticisms of it and an earlier township ordinance prohibiting loitering, which was amended at the council session.

"It is not the intent of these ordinances to stop gatherings," the chief stated, "their sole purpose is to insure that peace and good will be maintained so the rights of all residents are upheld.

"Those who choose to ignore police warnings must realize they will be prosecuted," he stated.

Speaking of loitering, chief Polhamus said "An amended loitering ordinance coupled with ones which prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages on any public or private places without express permission of the owner, plus a noise ordinance, have provided the police with the vehicles with which they can control and prosecute violators in these situations."

"The police department will be taking a firm and positive approach to the 'loitering problems' which are reportedly encroaching on the peace and good order of many area residents," he said.

Television visiting service introduced at city hospital

A hospitalized mother or father whose children are under the hospitals permissible age limit for visitors can still visit with their youngsters through Rahway Hospital's "visitor vision."

"Visitor Vision" made operational through a donation from members of the Rahway Area Junior Woman's Club, is a closed-circuit television system which allows patients to see visitors in the lobby on the television screens in their hospital rooms.

It is available free of charge to all patients except those in the hospital's intensive care and coronary care units.

To visit with the patient the visitor sits before a closed-circuit television camera in the hospital's lobby and, on an adjacent telephone, calls the patient's room.

The visitor instructs the patient to tune the television to the hospital closed-circuit channel no. 6 which will allow the patient to see the visitor, while having a conversation with him or her on the telephone.

"Visitor Vision" operates daily from 2 to 9 p.m. Instructions for operating the system, as well as a list of telephone extensions for patient rooms, are located at the chair in front of the hospital camera.

The system, while available for all patients and their visitors, is especially convenient for patients with children or grandchildren under the hospital's per-

City senior class members preparing for prom

The prom of the senior class of Rahway High School will be held tonight at the Wayne Manor in Wayne under the supervision of advisors Felix Iralano, Mrs. Edward (Veronica) Zalinkankas and John DiBlasio.

Both the class song and prom theme will be "Oh Very Young." Chosen as class flower was the sweetheart rose and as class colors pink and burgundy.

The affair will commence at 8 o'clock and last until 1 a.m., according to prom chairlady Miss Mary Jean Gruszynski and co-chairlady Miss Tanya Palmer.

Administrators in attendance will include city superintendent of schools doctor and Mrs. Edward L. Bowes, assistant superintendent and Mrs. Frank Brunette, Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kagan, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Delmonaco and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hansen.

Faculty members will include Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Swiere, Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeVirgillis, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Samis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyton.

Others attending will be Edward Zalinkankas, Miss Elaine Chilikos and Joseph Martorello, Thomas Lewis and Miss Lois Parona and the nine members of the Rahway board of education and their guests.

New policy on sale stories necessitated for newspaper

Articles reporting garage or rummage sales, Chinese auctions, flea markets or similar sale events will have to be accompanied by an advertisement in order to be published in The Rahway News-Record and The Clark Patriot.

The new policy will take effect as of the issue of May 22. It will cover sales conducted by all civic and social organizations including charitable and religious societies.

According to a spokesman for the newspaper, the new policy is necessitated by rising costs and an increased demand for editorial space. "It was noted such articles are in a sense already advertising."

While no dollar value will be established as a standard, the smallest advertisements which will be possible are classified or small display notices.

Regina strike concludes; workers get $1.08 pact

A settlement was reached May 16 in the two-week old strike at Regina Company of Rahway, the first strike in the 80-year history of the city firm which manufactures floor-care products.

The strike began May 1 after a unanimous vote by members of local no. 411 of the International Union of Electrical Workers of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The strike ended with the acceptance of a three-year contract said to offer a wage and benefit package worth an extra $1.08 an hour over the life of the pact. The contract was reached during negotiations on May 14 and 15 and was unanimously accepted by union members.

A skeleton crew reportedly returned to work the afternoon of May 16 at the Regina Avenue plant with the remainder of the 375 union members resuming work on May 19. In addition an estimated 90 workers laid off before the May 1 strike reportedly have been recalled to work by company officials.

Regina president Earl Seitz said, "It was unfortunate the strike had taken place because the settlement that was finally reached could probably have been reached without a strike."

He said William Bywater, an official from district no. 3 of the union, who joined the negotiations before an agreement was reached, was "instrumental in bringing the union and the company together."

Mr. Seitz said the company would resume production immediately.

Union president John Stevens expressed satisfaction with the settlement.

Mr. Stevens said the agreement represents about a 20% an hour increase over the final offer made by the company before the union went out on strike.

The settlement will increase the hourly wage of the average production worker at the plant to more than $5 an hour, including the value of benefits, at the end of the three-year period, it was said.

Mr. Stevens originally attacked what the union called a $1 an hour wage and benefit package with a three-year life. He said the offer included "a phony roll-up proposition which would automatically subtract 14¢ from the company offer making the final proposal only 86¢."

Mayor calls for public meeting to discuss Rahway flood laws

A public meeting for a complete review of city flood control laws was called by mayor Daniel L. Martin for Tuesday, May 27, at 8 p.m. at city hall.

He said the move was prompted by the controversy surrounding the granting of a landfill per-

Mayor Martin gives order to start new civic complex

Mayor Daniel L. Martin issued formal notice to the architect-firm of Southern and Cramer to commence work on the new city hall and police headquarters complex.

"With this order we insure a great future for Rahway," mayor Martin said. "With the fire headquarters nearly half completed and the civic complex officially under way our city will have all new facilities by the end of 1976, our nation's bicentennial year."

The complex will be located on the southeast corner of the East Milton Avenue and Main Street intersection, across from the post office. It will be funded by a $2 million appropriation passed last year by city councilmen.

Mayor Martin expressed the hope city citizens would give their full support to what he called "these exciting improvements to our community."

The meeting will not be restricted to the Sisto landfill operation but will be open to all flood-control issues.

Drums and creative writing occupy time of 'Little Linnell'

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the latest installment in a continuing series of articles highlighting the talents of local youths. Each month a different youngster is profiled.

Robert Craig Linnell may appear to be small but hearing him spend a session with his drums gives a better indication of the energy the Rahway youngster possesses.

Born in Perth Amboy on April 15, 1960, Robert is the youngest son of Henry and Lillian Linnell with whom he resides at 401 Sycamore Street.

Robert said he first became interested in playing the drums when he was seven years old and he decided to adopt his older brother Jeffrey's hobby.

While in elementary school he studied drums with Carmine Guastello and in fourth grade he earned a scholarship to the Rahway school system's summer music school.

When he reached eighth grade Robert was chosen to play a snare drum in the Rahway High School Redskin band, the name of his band jacket reading "Little Linnell."

He still plays for the high school and has traveled to Canada with other band members to take part in competition, Robert said.

Robert said he has also developed an interest in rock music which absorbs a great deal of his time.

According to the youth, he spends a lot of time listening to records and "picking up the beat."

Evidently he has done well for last year he won third place in the junior high school annual talent contest when he and two friends performed several rock selections.

In 1973 Robert won first place in the junior high school yearly creative writing contest with a poem he wrote about a cousin who was killed in Vietnam.

Robert has been in the creative writing club for three years and is a past club president.

At the present time Robert lists fishing, good music, being with friends and camping among the things he enjoys in addition to drumming.

His future plans include joining the United States navy and possibly training to become a computer technician. He also hopes to form an instrumental combo to provide music at weddings and other formal occasions.

Maguire, Di Francesco call for 'fiscal conservatism,' rap redistricting; councilman Marsh endorses Manner, Mrs. Wnuck in June 3 primary

An appeal for "fiscal conservatism" and an attack on Democratic legislative redistricting plans were issued by William J. Maguire of Clark and Donald Di Francesco of Scotch Plains, organization-backed candidates for the Republican nomination for the state assembly.

Their opponents, Arthur A. Manner of Berkeley Heights and Mrs. William (Linda) Wnuck of Rahway, meanwhile continued to gather support including an endorsement from city second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh.

The opposing pairs of aspirants will clash in the Republican phase of the Tuesday, June 3, primary. On the Democratic side incumbent assemblywoman Mrs. James (Betty) Wilson of Berkeley Heights and newcomer William A. Wolf of Rahway will be unopposed for their party's nomination in the 22nd district.

"There is a desperate need in state government for the moderating influence of fiscal conservatism, especially in these times of economic recession," Messrs. Maguire and Di Francesco said.

"The free-wheeling, free-spending liberalism

MARSH ISSUES ENDORSEMENTS . . . Second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh of Rahway, center, endorsed the candidacy of Arthur A. Manner of Berkeley Heights and Mrs. William (Linda) Wnuck of Rahway for the Republican nomination for the assembly seats from the 22nd district. He said the duo would help "restore economy" to New Jersey and stop the proposed state income tax. The pair are candidates in the Tuesday, June 3, primary.

budget gap and belt-tightening, there has been no talk about reducing the state payroll, the elimination of political patronage and the secret campaign contributors list used for political job seekers."

"Another brazen deal which smells of partisanship at the expense of proper representation" was the way Messrs. Maguire and Di Francesco described what they called the Democratic attempt to "carve Union County into three congressional districts spread over five counties."

The pair said the plan would not only put two incumbent Republicans against each other, it would also place the Union County municipalities of Union, Springfield, Mountaineer, Hillside and Roselle Park in a district with the central and south wards of Newark and East Orange.

They criticized what they called the silence of the two incumbent Democratic assembly members on this issue. They are assemblywoman Mrs. Wilson and assemblyman Arnold J. D'Ambrosia who decided not to seek reelection and was replaced by Mr. Wolf.

Union County Republican chairwoman Mrs. Arnold (Barbara) Claman of Westfield urged support for Messrs. Maguire and Di Francesco saying they earned the endorsement of the district candidate recommendation committee and the "overwhelming" endorsement of the county party executive committee.

TRIO APPEAR OPTIMISTIC . . . Union County Republican chairwoman Mrs. Arnold (Barbara) Claman of Westfield and regular organization Republican assembly candidates William J. Maguire of Clark, Tenn. and Donald T. Di Francesco of Scotch Plains take time out for a chat as the Tuesday, June 3, primary election draws near. Mrs. Claman urged all Republicans to support Messrs. Maguire and Di Francesco as the strongest and best qualified candidates to return the assembly to Republican control this year.

"I believe strongly if the voters want to say no to governor Brendan T.

Byrne and his rubber stamp assembly these men are the best choice," she stated.

Councilman Marsh endorsed Mr. Manner and Mrs. Wnuck saying they are the "only candidates in the primary who favor the economy essential to stop the enactment of an unnecessary state income tax."

"Their experience in public affairs is superior to that of their opponents and they are free of the stigma of the illegal, rigged and unrepresentative screening committee which chose their opponents," the councilman said.

The award was presented by members of the Young Republicans of Union County.

The memorial is in memory of the late assemblyman LaCorte. Previous recipients included representative Matthew J. Rinalso and Herbert H. Kiehn of Rahway.

Comments made by Mrs. Claman to a local daily newspaper came under heavy attack from Adam A. Mackow, president of the Rahway Republican Club.

He claimed she "misrepresented the facts, deliberately omitted at least eight crucial facts and is using cry-baby tactics in her desperate defense of the scandalous selection process of her assembly candidates."

Mr. Mackow claimed the March 26 screening committee was convened "in blatant defiance of the Camden County grand jury presentment against such bodies."

He also said past sessions, held before the ruling, were broader based and the March meeting excluded four voting representatives who were on past committees.

"Certain irrational factors entered into the process," he claimed. One of these he said was "Mrs. Claman's vendetta against a very able former county Republican vice chairman."

On the opposing side Charles Cruder, described as a close friend of Mr. Maguire and superintendent of manufacturing at New Departure - Hyatt Bearing Division of General Motors Corporation, met with Messrs. Maguire and Di Francesco to discuss plans for obtaining a strong Republican turnout at the primary.

Hold evening of music for city senior citizens

Over 200 senior citizens from Rahway attended a turkey dinner and music program co-sponsored by Rahway Kiwanis Club members and the city board of education on May 15 at the city high school.

Members of the club and two school organizations sponsored by Kiwanis, Key Club and Keywanettes, served the turkey dinner to the senior citizens in the school cafeteria. The club members donated the food.

Board members provided the entertainment which included several numbers by the school orchestra and a presentation of songs by various school choral groups.

School principal Roy M. Valentine, Kiwanis president, served as master of ceremonies for the evening. Mayor Daniel L. Martin and board president reverend Orrin T. Hardgrove addressed the group.

This marked the second consecutive year club and board members joined together to sponsor an evening of music for city elders.

Degrees for city girls

Miss Maureen B. Mulrannan of 2106 Price Street and Miss Theresa H. Smailowicz of 151 Jensen Avenue, both in Rahway, are among 35 students from the school of nursing of Elizabeth General Hospital who are candidates for the associate in science degree to be conferred Friday, May 23.

On restaurant tour

Members of the second-year food service class at Rahway High School were given a tour of the kitchens and banquet rooms of Town and Campus restaurant in Union on March 18. They also shared in the daily buffet-luncheon.

Robbers hit city bank, escape with $7,000

Two males, one apparently disguised in a long-haired wig, robbed Community State Bank and Trust Company, 1515 Irving Street, Rahway, on May 14 and escaped with $7,000.

City police say they have no suspects in the holdup which occurred at 1:37 p.m. The wig was said to have been later found behind St. Paul's Episcopal Church located at the corner of Irving Street and Elm Avenue.

According to police the men fled in a late-model, brown automobile.

One of the men was described as being six-foot and the other between five-foot, eight-inches and five-foot, 10-inches tall. Both were said to appear to be in their 20s weighing between 150 and 160 pounds.

New banking service noted

The acquisition of a small loan subsidiary to provide financing for personal loans plus funds for consumer items was announced by Alfred J. Hedden, chief loan officer of City Federal Savings and Loan Association of Elizabeth.

Wine not? By Enrico

People who live in the grape country of California say the pungent smell of fermenting grape fills the air in the fall. Sounds lovely.

Despite all the wines that are labeled "Chablis," the whole Chablis wine district in France is scarcely 5,000 acres. In Texas, that would be a small truck garden.

One California firm now markets a Beaujolais Nouveau wine. This past year they sent it to France at the traditional time, just as France was sending its Nouveau here.

1974 will be an outstanding vintage year, say experts. But it will be ten to fifteen years before some of the best wine is ready to drink. Early determination is made on the basis of growing weather, the look of the grapes, and early tasting.

Home rule of schools threatened by new act of state school board

By E. Sidman Wachter

One shoe does not fit all feet! Equally obvious is the fact one set of regulations for "thorough and efficient education" cannot possibly fit all school systems even in a small state like New Jersey.

Nevertheless the "t and e" regulations promulgated by members of the state board of education in Trenton, an appointive group not responsible to the electorate, is laying down directives for every single public school system in the state's 21 counties. Under them before local school budgets are even seen, much less accepted, by the local voters they will have to be approved by the state commissioner of education.

The "thorough and efficient education" regulations have been duly published in the New Jersey register and will become law automatically on July 1 unless something is done. There are two possibilities. The regulations could be voluntarily withdrawn by the state board or state legislators could pass an act nullifying the "t and e" regulations. But time is very, very short and no such measure is even in the hopper.

Under the "t and e" regulations, with budgets handed down from Trenton, only token consideration will be given to local needs or the wishes of a local school system. All sorts of specialists, special programs and courses of study will be mandated. For example, guidance counselors from kindergarten up will be compulsory even though most parents consider the high school ones a waste of money. So-called "experimental programs," also called tinkering with children's psyches, will have to be developed by every school system if it wants to get on the "approved list" of schools to be prepared by the office of the state commissioner of education.

Anything goes if it is to enforce conformity with the dictates of the educationists!

Needless to say the "t and e" regulations will create an enormous bureaucracy to make check-up visits on all school systems in the state, to correlate and compile the data thereby obtained, subtract it, take its square root and otherwise be a nuisance.

On the local level too needless expense will be caused by hiring all the specialists and instructing all the required programs which may or may not relate to the needs of the students. School populations in Rahway and Clark for example have different problems from those in large urban areas, but one shoe will be forced onto all the feet.

If the "t and e" regulations are permitted to become operative the result will be over-all mediocrity for state school systems. The quality of education will not be improved.

How much simpler, wiser and less expensive it would be if state board members would simply withdraw these disputed "guidelines." Why not just furnish some specialists to urban schools and let the rest of the schools alone?

We stress if state board members do not withdraw the "t and e" regulations before July 1 they will become law without implementing legislation. Although such regulations are ordinarily prepared by a state board only after an enabling act has been passed by state legislators, in this instance governor Brendan T. Byrne simply asked the board members to proceed. Legislators have sat supinely on the sidelines but it is time they became responsive to the concerns of their constituents.

Anyone who cherishes home rule in education should write to the president of the state board, 228 West State Street, Trenton, 08623, and to his three state legislators.

Hippocrates statue prompts Smith to note changing stand on abortion

Your photograph of the beautiful statue of Hippocrates, "the father of medicine," which was donated to Rutgers Medical School at Piscataway prompts these remarks. To honor his memory was a wise act. Anthropologist Margaret Mead believed the Hippocratic oath was a turning point in the history of man as the life of a slave or handicapped child became just as valuable and important as the life of the rich and powerful.

Medicine was separated from the realm of magic and religious sorcery. Disease was recognized as stemming from natural causes and not because the patient had offended the wrath of the gods.

Hippocrates established ethics whereby the physician would not take advantage of his position to indulge in promiscuity or divulge to the public any private matters of the patient.

The oath also had prohibition against giving a deadly medicine to anyone when requested or giving an abortion for all life was important.

Today euthanasia is being promoted in many circles as was predicted after the abortion decision of the United States supreme court. When one life becomes expendable everyone's life becomes less valuable.

The beautiful statue of Hippocrates seems to me to show him in a contemplative mood. With 900,000 abortions each year in our country, with millions of dollars of the taxpayers helping to support this billion-dollar destruction of human life, the noble Hippocrates seems to be saying "over 2,000 years ago I knew someday I would be betrayed by some members of my profession!"

Johnston questions cost of strike; questions figure from councilman

With regard to an article in The Rahway News-Record of May 15, I was amused to note that councilman Cedery incorrectly stated the weekly expenditure of $3,800 in overtime for two city police officers to cover the strike at Regma Company.

According to my figures this would mean in the Wagenhoffer criticizes Fulcomer on committee hopefuls' ballot listing

As the sixth ward Republican leader I would like to use your newspaper to communicate with the Republican committee people who filed petitions to be on the ballot in the Tuesday, June 3, primary and to inform interested Republican voters of the sorry state of affairs in the city party organization under the leadership of James J. Fulcomer.

When the sample ballots are mailed out from the Union County election board you will notice your name will not be on the regular organization line. From all the information I have been able to gather this was a deliberate attempt by Mr. Fulcomer to use the local committee people as a tool to get votes for the candidates running in opposition to the slate picked by the county organization. This is an affront to Walter Ulrich, the freeholder candidate from Rahway.

At no time was I asked or consulted about having my name placed on any other line than the regular organization line. To my knowledge no other committee hopeful was consulted or asked this either. I bitterly resent this bit of political chicanery and abuse of power.

In canvassing sixth ward committee people seven, including myself, resent the misuse of their names in this fashion. The eighth person could not be reached for his opinion.

This is in no way to be construed that I oppose a primary fight. The primary is a perfectly legitimate vehicle to air and ascertain party differences. However committee people should not be used as pawns in the municipal chairman's squabble with the county organization.

Rahway Republicans have nothing to gain by this slick maneuver on Mr. Fulcomer's part. I am sure the city chairman has all the answers to try and cover himself for this incident. In fact some of the excuses have already surfaced.

The unalterable fact is the filing last year was done properly under his direction. He is well aware of the proper procedure. Further, I am sure his unseen cadre of letter writers will be busy in time to make next week's paper to offer excuses and attack me from whatever angle they can. I can only say that I have done my homework on this matter and my powder is dry.

In response to Mr. Fulcomer's misuse of the committee aspirants trust I ask:

--the not put his name in for reelection as municipal chairman, since to ask for his resignation at this late stage would serve no useful purpose, and

--the county chairwoman attend the next Republican city committee meeting scheduled for Tuesday, May 27, and explain what results could be forthcoming from Mr. Fulcomer's irresponsible action.

In conclusion I want to emphatically state under no circumstances am I offering myself as a candidate for city chairman. I will do all I can to help anyone who could bring our party together again and return integrity and the proper use of power to the post, rather than have this one-man majority which has ruled the city party for the last two years.

Allaire criticizes John Bodnar, Jr. for continuing race for committee

Responding to the numerous inquiries which I received it seems to me the concern and voice of Clark taxpayers is an important, long-overdue plea for those of us who try to respect our local governmental system but who have been intimidated into silence as we watch the many forms of political vandalism which are ultimately our expense.

One would need a Ouija board these days to determine the actions and reactions of council president John Bodnar, Jr. This fourth ward councilman, who played Russian roulette and renounced his party in the Christmas edition of The Clark Patriot, referring to them as a "contagious element" and later denied this at a Democratic club meeting. Is currently off on another strange tangent.

President Bodnar has decided to continue as a Democratic committeeman in his district, thus denying an opportunity for any other qualified individual to run in his stead. However Charles Walano, township party chairman, interpreted this and did obtain a man to run on the regular Democratic organization line for this post and removed president Bodnar from the line.

This did not deter president Bodnar one iota. He filed his petition without the blessing of the municipal chairman or approval of the committee. His lust for power, and that is what it is, along with the deflated, procrastinating and vacillating Richard Burger plus an attorney, the ever ready composer of political musical chairs John Pisanosky, are continuing their combined efforts to gain control of the Democratic Party and eventually the township and its citizens.

To others who have submitted statements and questions and have not received a reply, be assured satisfaction is forthcoming.

Rinaldo aims measures at nursing care homes

Saying "we have some fine nursing homes but all too many are ripping off taxpayers and patients," representative Matthew J. Rinaldo announced he would co-sponsor a package of bills in the house of representatives aimed at nursing homes.

The 12th district representative said he would seek the establishment of a government rating system for the homes and what he called an office of inspector general for health administration.

"State medical agencies would be given the power to stop payments to nursing homes pending a court review of alleged abuses," the Republican national legislator stated.

"The program I am supporting," representative Rinaldo said, "would require all nursing homes to be enrolled under medicare in order to receive benefits paid under the state-supported medicare system."

Noting home operators can apply under either program under the present laws, he said "it is clear state medical programs are poorly administered and in many cases riddled with fraud."

MEMORIAL DAY

We Pay Tribute to Those Who Gave Their Lives...

Today we pause to remember...with gratitude and respect...the men throughout this nation's history who answered the call to arms and lost their own lives so that we can live in freedom and dignity. Today we count our blessings; we also consider their cost. Nobody ever said it better than Abraham Lincoln: "from these honored dead we take increased devotion...to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

Today let's pledge ourselves to just and lasting peace.

Southwest Civic group placed into hibernation

After 25 years of serving the township in general and the residents of the southwest section of Clark in particular, members of the Southwest Civic Association voted to eliminate their group as an active organization.

At a May 12 session what was described as a handful of association members unanimously voted to end organization activities but retain their executive board to serve as trustees so the association legal fund could be kept intact.

Mrs. Michael (Betty) Arnold, a spokeswoman for the group, explained the legal fund could be the starting point for a revitalized association at some future date.

She said dwindling participation from the members brought the action on. The move was said to have been under consideration by executive board members for the past couple of months.

Mrs. Arnold noted the membership had decreased from about 850 or 900 member households last year to 627 households this year.

While open to all township residents, the only voting members were residents residing in the southwest portion of Clark, an area roughly encompassing land between the reservoir and the border with Scotch Plains, Columbia and Edison.

The area encompasses all of the first and parts of the second and fourth wards.

Mrs. Arnold explained association members had, in addition to retaining the legal fund to protect area residents, presented speakers, sent representatives to township meetings and sponsored an annual winter dance.

She especially noted the association role in the fight to prevent the industrialization of Oak Ridge golf club.

There are no plans for future activities, she said, but executive board members will sponsor such events as there is manifested interest in.

One of the major organization activities was the publication of a newsletter sent to all members. The first few issues of the bulletin each year were sent to an estimated 2,000 homes in Clark.

On the executive board are president Michael Arnold, vice president Mrs. Robert J. (Carole) Lovejoy, recording secretary Mrs. R. T. (Dorothy) Treslender, corresponding secretary Mrs. J. A. (Dolores) Caruso, treasurer Thomas Keane and advertising manager Edward Zukowski.
