New elementary school districts, administrative salaries draw fire

A proposed redistricting of attendance areas for elementary schools and a resolution on administrative salaries drew the most attention at a sometimes stormy and well-attended Rahway board of education meeting on June 16 at Roosevelt School.

Angry parents opposed the planned redistricting saying their children are continually forced to switch schools, sometimes having to walk beyond a nearby schoolhouse to attend one more distant.

They say the change puts their children through the emotional pressures of adjusting to new teachers and classmates and thus may hamper their education.

Second ward Republican councilman John C. Marsh spoke against the redistricting plan saying it was a case of "playing dominoes with youngsters."

He presented members of the board with a petition which he said contained the names of "hundreds" of parents with school-aged children who were opposed to the proposal. He further stated he could find no one who supported the plan.

The councilman drew loud applause at the conclusion of his remarks in which he said "kids are more important than figures" and "I see more serious problems developing by changing the lines again."

The redistricting plan was not on the agenda but instead was discussed under unfinished business as it was one of the topics at a special board meeting on June 9.

Many parents complained that they were unaware the plan was under consideration and said their first knowledge of it came from reading stories in the press.

Sixty ward Republican councilman Louis G. Boch, noting many of the parents could not stay for a late session because they have young children at home, asked for a suspension of the rules to discuss the plan early in the session.

The appeal was rejected with regret by board president Orrin T. Hardgrove who said to make an exception for one group would be to establish a precedent for others.

He also noted there were announcements in the press and the special session and said it was announced at the May board meeting.

Later city superintendent Edward L. Bowes explained elementary school lines are changed every year to reflect changed living patterns in the city but that some years the modifications are more extreme than usual.

When asked he said the district lines are based on an attempt to equalize class sizes and maintain racial balance in all schools.

Councilman Boch countered by noting that seven students in five classes would be moved from Roosevelt to Madison Schools under the plan. He asked how this would be essential to the twin aims of the plan.

Some of the parents who rose from their audience seats to address board members said notification of the proposed changes should have been sent home to them via their children.

Another parent called on the board members to make available for public scrutiny the figures upon which the redistricting was based.

The severest critic of the administration salary ordinance, which passed 5-3 after a tallying motion failed in a de vote, was board member Paul A. LoRocco who said the document is "all wet" and "shows prejudice."

According to the board president, the salaries reflect 7.5% increase in salaries plus an average

Clifford Ginfrida, former city councilman, indicted for alleged shakedown conspiracy

Clifford Ginfrida, a former city public works department and a former city councilman, was indicted on June 11 on charges of participation in an alleged longterm conspiracy to shakedown a supplier for kickbacks on deliveries to the city.

The indictment against Ginfrida, who served as head of the city civil defense administration, alleged the so-called conspiracy dates back to the early 1960s when the supplier was directed to kickback $10 for every truckload of supplies delivered.

It was further alleged in the indictment that the money was divided among Ginfrida and other city employees. The indictment says Ginfrida's participation began shortly after he began work as city assistant public works superintendent in December 1962.

The indictment, returned by a special investigatory Union County grand jury, did not specify the others who allegedly received money in the alleged conspiracy. The contractor was listed only as John Doe, an unindicted co-conspirator.

It was also charged in the indictment that during the years following 1962, including shifts in jobs for Ginfrida from assistant superintendent to pumping station foreman and finally as foreman of the public works department, the supplier was consistently hit for kickbacks.

Ginfrida, according to an employe in the Rahway administrator's office, is still on the payroll as foreman but is reportedly on sick leave.

Sometime in 1967, the indictment alleged, Ginfrida demanded the supplier kick back an additional $5 a load thus raising the rate to a total of $15 for each truckload of goods delivered. Again the money allegedly was to be divided among Ginfrida and unspecified others.

The three-count indictment against Ginfrida, charging conspiracy, extortion and unlawfully obtaining municipal funds, additionally claims the foreman conspired with the contractor and others.

Beginning in 1967, the indictment says, Ginfrida told the contractor to submit false vouchers to the city for work and supplies never provided. He further demanded that the contractor give him the payments received for the false vouchers from the city, according to the indictment.

The contractor delivered a $160 payment on September 9, 1966, a $145 payment on July 10, 1969, a $115 payment on September 2, 1969, and a $125 payment on September 3, 1970. The money allegedly was from city payments to the contractor for falsified vouchers.

The indictment follows two for Democratic assemblyman Arnold J. D'Ambrosia, suspended Rahway public works director. His two indictments came last year on a variety of charges of misconduct in office stemming from his former city post.

Education opportunities and graduation policies win approval of school board

A policy on equal educational opportunities and a set of graduation requirements for the senior high school were passed on second reading and without opposition by Rahway board of education members on June 16.

The board supports equal educational opportunity for students free from limitations based upon ethnic or racial background, sex, religious beliefs or economic and social conditions," is now the new policy reads.

The only alteration is said to be the addition of the word "sex."

The graduation requirements said to be the first proposed for the school, demoted three years of English, two years of American history and one mathematics course.

It was noted the slide and tape presentation produced by Miss Filgou was purchased by officials of Rutgers University Vocational and Technical

SALUTED AS TOP CROSSING GUARD ... President of the Rahway Safety Council Harold R. Gjertsen presents Mrs. Frank P. (Virginia) Munsey of 1822 Rutherford Street, Rahway, with the safety council annual plaque for her performance as a school-crossing guard for the past school year. Standing left to right are Wade A. Likins, council vice president and school safety director, Mrs. Munsey and president Gjertsen. (Please see accompanying story on page 3)

Hospital request for use of property on Trussler Place denied by board

The application of Rahway Hospital for continued use of hospital property at 992 Trussler Place, strongly opposed by area residents, was denied by members of the Rahway board of adjustment on June 16.

Board members said the uses contemplated for the house by hospital officials did not fall within what they called the narrow definition of a hospital as established by city ordinance.

They also said using the house for such things as planned parent-teacher classes and sessions to help tobacco smokers drop their habit would cause a substantial increase in traffic in the street.

Board members noted parking restrictions placed on Trussler Place by city councilmen and the narrow definition of hospital implies city officials seek to lessen traffic on the road and restrict hospital growth into outlying areas.

Although calling the hospital objectives "praise worthy," board members said they would over a period of time destroy the residential character of the neighborhood.

Also denied was a hospital request for a 17-space parking lot at the rear of the structure.

Councilman Boch, a former school board member, said councilors are not doing the best job possible because they are not able to get to know the students they work with when they only serve them for one year.

It was announced board members will enter into an agreement with an Elizabethton-based architectural firm at an estimated cost of $38,000 for the replacement of a boiler at Grover Cleveland School, the

City budgets, local property levies rise

As budgets for New Jersey's 567 municipalities increased by 12.5% the statewide total local property tax levies increased 9.4% and broke the $3 billion barrier, according to figures released by a spokesman for the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The adopted municipal budgets totaled more than $1.8 billion for an increase of $262.2 million over original budgets for last year. The hike is slightly more than the 11.7 annual increase in the consumer price index for last year, the spokesman said.

He explained the theory is to have councilors follow a group of students assigned to them from junior high school until they leave the system, as opposed to assigning students to different councilors each time they enter a new grade.

The totals, based in part on preliminary county reports, include taxes required for annual budgets in the 27 municipalities, 21 counties and over 500 school districts, as well as for senior citizens' and veterans' property tax deductions.

In all four categories the dollar amount and rate of increase exceeded those of last year, according to association figures.

Most significant levy increases were for municipalities and counties, both of which set records. The levy for municipalities climbed $86.9 million or 14.9% while for counties and county libraries the increase was $69.3 million or 12.5%.

City councilmen grant variance on June 9 to Giacobbe for 25-unit apartment building

After a brief debate concerning the possibilities of increased flooding and density, Rahway councilmen approved the variance requested by officials of Giacobbe Investment Company of Rahway to erect a 25-unit apartment building on New Brunswick Avenue.

The action came at the June 9 council session. Voting for approval were Republican councilmen Eugene D. Gensch of the first ward and Richard J. Voynik of the third plus Democratic councilmen at-large Francis R. Senkowski and Wilson D. Beauregard, council president.

Fears that the development would increase flooding and create density problems were raised by Democrats Tor Cedervall, a councilman-at-large, and Walter McLeod, the representative of the fourth ward.

The former gentleman voted no and the latter registered as not voting.

The remaining three Republicans, councilmen John C. Marsh of the second, Peter M. Donovan of the fifth and Louis G. Boch of the sixth wards, left the session before the resolution was discussed.

Raymond Giacobbe, the developer, said his proposed structure would be smaller than the two structures already present. He also noted the density was reduced from 29 units by city planning board members.

Mayor Daniel L. Martin explained the variance was postponed from the last council meeting after passage by city board of adjustment members on March 30.

Earlier in the session a motion by councilman Cedervall to postpone the matter again until the next council meeting lost with only the sponsor and councilman McLeod in the affirmative.

In a unanimous vote Philip F. Matarrese was granted approval for his subdivision request for property located at Pierpont Street and St. George Avenue. The application received unanimous approval from planning board members.

The subdivision request of Mrs. Foster (Virginia) Orton of 911 Bryant Street was passed with councilman Cedervall abstaining. He said he wanted more information on the matter.

Passed on first reading was an ordinance ordering the vacating of a portion of Oliver Street. The land would then be exchanged for property donated by Union County park commissioners for city water tank.

Another unanimous vote introduced an ordinance which would make Harrison Street one way from Whittrier Street to St. George Avenue thus forcing traffic onto St. George Avenue. Councilman Marsh said 50% of the residents on the street favored the measure.

A traffic ordinance limiting parking on School Street and a measure providing for a citywide emergency alarm system with provisions for private connection thereto were also passed on first reading with no opposition.

All the above ordinances introduced June 9 will have their second reading and disposition on Monday, July 14, at a public hearing at the end of the council session which will begin at 8 p.m. in council chambers at city hall, 1470 Campbell Street.

A resolution authorizing the city water superintendent to sell scrap material, said to consist of such things as old motors and valves, was passed with no dissent.

Two referrals were made for the overpayment of water bills.

Wine not?

By Enrico

Easy party idea: wine and cheese. No wonder they're so popular!

For 24 people you would want 12 bottles of wine and you could take advantage of case prices. Each "taste" is only about two ounces but then guests go back for more of the wines they like.

Buy about a quarter-pound a person of each kind of cheese. Three to five kinds are adequate for the party. Be sure cheese comes out of refrigerator at least a half-hour early. Add nuts, dried fruit, crackers and breads.

Good wine-cheese combinations: Verdicchio with Provolone, Swiss or Fontina, sparkling rose with herb-cured cheese or Bel Paese; Beaujolais with the spiced cheeses or Roquefort; Valpolicella with Port Salut, Provolone or Gorgonzola; Demestica, a Greek wine, with Feta or Gruyere.

The annual school guard award of the Rahway Safety Council was presented to Mrs. Frank P. (Virginia) Munsey of 1822 Rutherford Street, Rahway, at the June 10 meeting of council members. It was the final meeting prior to the summer recess.

She was presented with a plaque designating her as the outstanding school crossing guard for the past school year.

In making the presentation council president Harold R. Gjersten praised Mrs. Munsey for her punctuality, dedication and devotion to her job as crossing guard at Madison and West Inman Avenues.

Wade Likins, school safety director, reported the May 27 trip to Bear Mountain and West Point in New York, sponsored by the council members for the nearly 200 school patrol members, was a complete success.

He also reported presentation of school patrol awards was proceeding in all Rahway schools.

Herbert H. Kichen of Rahway, a former assemblyman and long-time member of the council, spoke on the need for block watchers and urged council members to register as such at police headquarters.

He also reported on the progress of the bicentennial committee. The possibility of the council members entering a float in the Memorial Day parade will be considered in the near future.

It was noted while the nation will be celebrating its bicentennial next year council members will be celebrating their 50th year of continuous service to the city. They received their charter in 1926. With this thought in mind president Gjersten was asked to appoint a committee whose function would be to arrange activities relative to safety in cooperation with the bicentennial committee, industries, the police and fire departments, city schools and the city administration.

The committee will consist of Louis R. Rizzo as chairman, Salvatore Prezioso as co-chairman and James Daly, Casimer Begler, Mr. Likins, Herbert Freeman, Richard C. Archer and Carl Carlson as members.

STRENGTH AND SKILL ... Budding acrobat Mary Kuzma of Rahway balances on her hands on a flight of stairs designed for acrobatic routines in a position which requires a great deal of arm strength, a good sense of balance and a strong arched back.

Mary T. Kuzma of city dedicated to acrobatics

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the latest installment in a continuing series of articles highlighting talented local youth.

First there is a blur of tumbling-movement rolls, splits and back flips across the stage then, as the music continues, an attractive ninth-grade girl chest-rolls into center stage.

This is the scene when Mary Theresa Kuzma performs one of her acrobatic routines. A student at B's School of Dance on West Scott Avenue, Rahway, Mary has been dancing since she was 12 years old.

Her teachers characterize Mary as talented and hard working.

Mary recently won first place and a $25 United States savings bond in Rahway Junior High School's second annual talent contest. In addition she appeared in numerous dance recitals gaining the experience she feels is necessary to develop a good stage presence.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kuzma, Mary resides with her parents at 1963 Beacon Street. She is conscientious about her acrobatic training and says she intends to become an acrobatic teacher someday. In addition Mary has studied other forms of dance in order to combine acrobatic movement with grace.

Inspired in part by Olympic gymnasts Olga Korbut and Cathy Rigby, Mary says she is determined to continue the hard work necessary to attain her goal.

Air bag, fm radio rules get Rinaldo's red light

Moves to require the installation of air bags and FM radios in automobiles was opposed by representative Matthew J. Rinaldo who led the efforts "Big Brother tactics."

Passive restraint systems consisting of pouches in front of the driver which expand upon impact partially drew the fire of the 12th district representative.

"In an attempt to puncture the air-bag plan," the national legislator said, "I am introducing a concurrent resolution in congress ordering the secretary of the department of transportation to refrain from implementing any regulation requiring such restraint systems."

The Republican official said the practicality of the safety system "is open to question" and said making it a legal requirement would add on to the already high costs for automobiles.

"Congressional moves to mandate FM capability in new car radios are equally unmerited," representative Rinaldo said. "Such a regulation would remove an essential freedom of choice and add sharply to inflationary woes."

He said FM radio is "growing steadily without the intrusion of Big Brotherism." Earlier he said despite the elimination of the seat-belt requirement "Big Brother still casts a covetous eye on the harassed motorist."

Rinaldo wants federal funds to help elderly with taxes

Saying inflation is resting far too heavily on the shoulders of senior citizens, representative Matthew J. Rinaldo said he introduced a bill to provide federal grants covering up to 50% of state costs incurred through state-operated tax exemptions for the elderly.

He said the state-run program, in New Jersey provides a property-tax exemption of up to $160 a year for any householder over the age of 65 with an income of less than $5,000 a year.

A recent study showed because of inflation more than 30% of the income of retired people goes to household costs, much of it to pay rent or property tax," the Republican national legislator stated.

The 12th district representative said having the federal government assume part of the costs of such state programs would encourage their continuation and growth.

"It is unfair to provide aid for homeowners and to withhold it from those who pay rent which includes property tax costs," the legislator for Rahway and Clark said. "My bill allows states to opt out of offset rent relief as well as property - tax exemptions for needy senior citizens," he stated.

"As another service to senior citizens I have introduced a bill protecting them from any 'means test' as a requirement for participation in social-service programs," representative Rinaldo said. He labeled checks on a person's qualifications to receive assistance "a demeaning and senseless invasion of privacy."

Mrs. Claman wins her bid for new term

It was smooth sailing for Union County Republican Party chairwoman Mrs. Arnold (Barbara) Claman who easily won reelection to her party post the night of June 10.

The only small wave came from Rahway county committee-man George Wagenhoffer who took the opportunity during Mrs. Claman's announcement of training sessions for new county committeemen to strike a humorous blow at Rahway party chairman James J. Fulcomer.

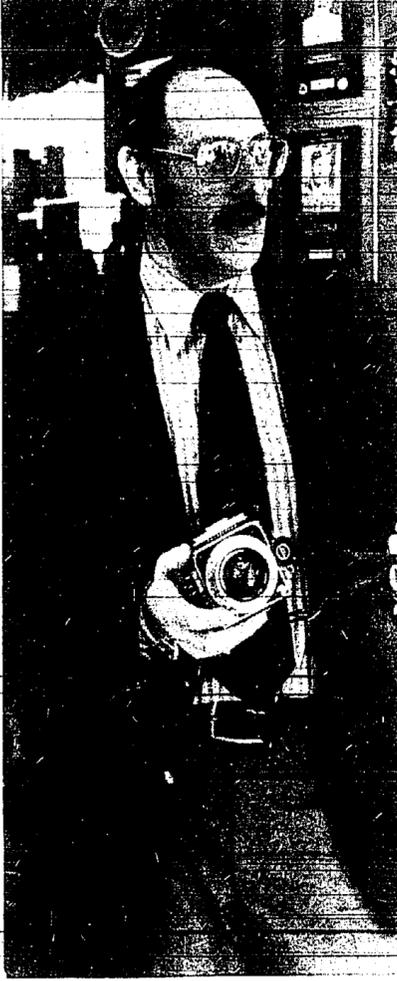

"Make sure the Rahway municipal chairman is instructed on how to file," remarked Mr. Wagenhoffer who has blamed Mr. Fulcomer for the fact that city candidates for the party's county committee were not on the regular organization line in the June 3 primary.

Nuclear power plants needed if Americans want energy tomorrow

By E. Sidman Wachter

People have grown lackadaisical about the energy crisis. They read of a temporary glut of oil on the world market and gasoline price wars and remember, it is more than a year since buying gasoline was a problem. Even the memory of that terrifying evening in the fall of 1967 when the power went off up and down the east coast and people were stranded in elevators, subways and trains in total darkness has faded. That time the power came back on after a few hours. How many realize what it would be like if the power went off everywhere and stayed off?

Last December it was stated in this column the energy crisis could be solved with a program of energy conservation on the one hand and development of new sources of energy on the other. However a happy ending is by no means assured. In some measure it depends on the common sense of the American public. We must refuse to be panicked by unreliable wranglings about defects from nuclear power plants, which must be constructed and put in operation if this country is not to become a casualty of the profiteers of the organization of petroleum-exporting countries. These seven billion barrels of oil we import daily at about $11 a barrel, due to be increased this summer, would mean an outflow of $39 billion just for oil this year. Long before the bottoms of Arabian oil wells could be reached bankruptcy would confront America due to the skyrocketing deficit in the balance of payments. Whether or not you and I can personally afford to spend $09 or 60¢ a gallon at the gasoline pump is immaterial. It is the financial survival of our nation which is at stake.

No disasters have occurred from the 55 nuclear plants now operating in our nation. Impediments must be removed from construction of 50 or 60 others which have been blocked or canceled by anti-nuclear energy activists or by financial problems.

In 1969 nuclear energy met a bare 1% of our energy needs; last year it met 5% thereof. It is desirable that by 1985 some 30% of all United States electric power be generated from nuclear energy so our domestic oil supplies can be used for the production of fertilizers and plastics, gasoline for cars and buses, jet fuels and lubricants and last but not least to build a strategic reserve of oil for potential defense needs.

Nuclear energy electric power is reliable, clean and relatively inexpensive. It is also safe. The following figures were developed in an extensive study conducted by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology under the direction of doctor Norman Rasmussen.

The risk of a fatality from various causes, by individual chance per year are for disease and old age 1 in 100; motor vehicles 1 in 4,000; fire and hot substances 1 in 25,000; drowning 1 in 30,000; firearms 1 in 100,000; air travel 1 in 100,000; falling objects 1 in 160,000; electrocution 1 in 150,000; lightning 1 in 2 million; tornadoes 1 in 2.5 million; hurricanes 1 in 2.5 million; all accidents 1 in 1,600 and nuclear reactor accidents, with 100 plants, 1 in 300 million.

Of all the pressing problems confronting America the Leadership Foundation, incorporation considers the energy problem the most urgent. "Real trouble" could hit by 1990, only 15 years from now. We must plan and build against such "real trouble" now, not only to preserve our standard of living but to survive as a first-class power.

Democratic representative Michael McCormack of Washington, the only scientist in the congress and a member of the joint committee on atomic energy, warned, "If we fail to develop adequate domestic energy supplies the result could be as bad as losing a major war."

Chief Smar warns residents of break, entries into homes

Both attempted and successful break and entries into homes have occurred in the Featherbed Lane, Washington Street, Madison Hill Road, Acorn Drive and Laurel Lane sections of Clark, according to township police chief Anthony T. Smar.

"Residents can be helpful by being observant of any strangers in their areas whose actions are suspicious, particularly if seen going to the rear of their neighbors' houses," the chief said.

Chief Smar also asked residents to be on the watch for loitering youths not from their neighborhoods and suspicious - acting automobiles. The license numbers of such vehicles should be immediately reported to the police.

"Breaking and entering seems to have become a vogue with a certain element of youth in Clark," the chief said. "With the help of residents we would be more capable of identifying and arresting this small group of deviate youths."

New policy on sale stories necessitated for newspaper

Articles reporting garage or rummage sales, Chinese auctions, flea markets or similar sale events will have to be accompanied by an advertisement in order to be published in The Rahway News-Record and The Clark Patriot.

The new policy will "take" effect as of the issue of May 22. It will cover sales conducted by all civic and social organizations including charitable and religious societies.

According to a spokesman for the newspaper, the new policy is necessitated by rising costs and an increased demand for editorial space. It was noted such articles are in a sense already advertising.

While no dollar value will be established as a standard, the smallest advertisements which will be possible are classified or small display notices.

Diagnostic services center true heart of city hospital

The young couple holding hands talk about their coming wedding. The Little Leaguer clutches his mitt and blinks back hot tears. The fragile, faltering grandmother sits down to catch her breath.

They are all patients reporting to the diagnostic services center in Rahway Hospital. Physicians ordered blood tests for the couple, an ankle x-ray for the boy and an electrocardiogram for the grandmother. Others in the waiting room have appointments for a breathing test, a mammogram, a brain scan, a urinalysis and a physical therapy treatment, all of which do not require hospitalization.

Other patients who come to the center are preadmission testing (PAT) patients, but first they check in with the PAT nurse located in an office off the lobby. PAT patients may be scheduled for surgery but they come to the hospital a few days prior to be tested.

There are several advantages to this technique. First it is a time and money saver since patients lose less time off their jobs. In addition their hospital bills are reduced because they spend less time at the hospital. Physicians like the system because the results of the early tests help them plan treatment. Based upon the tests they might even decide to postpone or cancel surgery. Hospital personnel like it because a day saved on one patient's hospitalization means a day available on another waiting patient's stay. However it benefits the patient most of all.

The smiling supervisor directs the young couple to the blood drawing room. The technician engages the boy in baseball talk as he leads him to the x-ray room. The pretty young clerk requests a wheelchair to take the elderly lady to the laboratory. At this hub of the hospital people are always helping people.

Law dean warns conservatives of bad judges, radical attorneys

Members of the Republican Conservative Action Club of Union County voted to endorse two family-oriented bills at their annual meeting and urged their prompt enactment into law.

On the federal level, state bill no. 931, introduced by senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, would insert a section in the communications act prohibiting nudity, obscenity and explicit sexual activity on television.

State senate bill no. 1472, introduced by state senator Joseph A. Marassa of Bergen and passed by state senators and pending in the assembly, would ban from safe a specific list of sexually-oriented materials.

The guest speaker at the session was John H. Tovey of Franklin Lakes, assistant dean and associate professor of Delaware Law School in Wilmington.

Dean Tovey declared the failure of judges to restrict themselves to their judicial functions has created problems with redistricting, racial busing and exclusion of parochial schools from state aid.

Instead of education lawyers in radicalism, dean Tovey said, law school administrators should provide rigid training in constitutional interpretations of the law and the function of the judiciary.

After adopting a revised constitution, members of the 14-year-old group elected S. Dean, president, and retired brigadier general Willard S. Magath as first vice president, Jeffrey Scott Burslem second vice president and Mrs. George W. Mann third vice president.

Also elected were A. Donald Green as treasurer, Mrs. Arch Downie corresponding secretary, Mrs. John H. Wachter recording secretary and Louis B. Marino trustee.

Policewives install officers, review past year's activities

Rahway policewives held their last meeting of the season on June 9 and installed president Mrs. Kenneth Slides, vice president Mrs. Donald Caulfield and treasurer Mrs. William Crawford.

Also installed were secretary Mrs. Edward Hannan, corresponding secretary Mrs. Joseph Cotugno and trustee Mrs. Daniel Stone.

Some of the projects the women had the past year for fundraising were a fair, bowling party, cake sale, jewelry demonstration and flea market.

Throughout the year cupcakes were given to city senior citizens.

to the family of an Edison patrolman who was shot and wounded in the line of duty and to the family of Union City patrolman who was killed.

The policewives also formed their own softball team. The first game was played June 8 against Rahway firemen's wives. The policewives lost 12-0. Other games will be held throughout the summer.

The policewives club has been in existence for one year and three months.

merit increase of approximately 6%, which he said was under the amount budgeted for this item.

Upon questioning from Mr. LoRocco it was revealed all but four of the 24 administrators listed in the resolution received merit increases totaling $7,100.

Mr. LoRocco twice labeled the document a "hoax" which was developed prior to his assuming his post. He further called it a "hoax" and a "give-away program" and claimed you cannot buy education.

Board member Paul M. Geyer said the merit system is an "unfair and stupid way to evaluate administrators," but said board members have a moral commitment to support it.

However, Mr. LoRocco's remarks apparently impressed board member William M. Roesch who said he was going to vote yes but changed his mind after listening to his colleague.

Board member doctor John J. Sprows said the increase under the system preceding merit evaluation would have been much higher, but his figures were challenged by Mr. LoRocco.

Mr. LoRocco's table motion failed in a 4-4 vote with president Hardgrove, doctor Sprows, vice president Edmund L. Hoener and Donald L. Kennedy in the negative. Mrs. Charles (Miriam) Hull was obliged to register as not voting because her husband was among the administrators covered in the resolution.

The final vote for passage saw Messrs. LoRocco and Roesch plus Barry D. Henderson in the negative and Mrs. Hull not voting.

Earlier Mr. LoRocco said he will raise the question of the redistricting plan at a special board meeting on Monday, June 23, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Roosevelt School.

According to the president, the meeting may also involve the appointment of department chairmen, a behavior code for the junior high school, an administrative reorganization plan and other matters.

The final decision on what will be placed on the agenda for the special session will not be made until a caucus meeting tonight.

Board taken over coals by residents

In the Riverside section of the township to have their children bused to Valley Road and St. John the Apostle Schools.

He said the study revealed both that it was not right to bus some students and not others for hazardous conditions, as was charged by Riverside parents, and that the concept of busing for this reason was erroneous.

Democratic second ward councilman Bernard G. Hayden read a portion of a letter he said was written by township superintendent of schools doctor John T. Farinella in which the superintendent was said to have written that the council cut was motivated by political considerations.

Doctor Farinella conceded he wrote the passage quoted and said it was based on his determination "to fight from the opening gun for the children of Clark."

"I said 'political considerations' and I meant it," he also stated although he did not elaborate on what he meant by this statement.

Councilman Hayden criticized the existence of a summer recreation program when transportation cuts were being made. He went on to say, "There is enough money in this budget to bus every child in Clark."

This was labeled a "hoax" by board president Phillip A. Miller. When asked earlier by the councilman if he thought the parents would be present to protest the transportation cut if it were not for the budget reduction, president Miller replied in the affirmative.

Councilman Hayden made a recommendation for calling in an outside auditor to check the board's books to see if money for a full busing program existed. This was later supported by audience members.

Fire-fighting demonstrations slated for Rahway Hospital

Four fire-fighting demonstrations to help Rahway Hospital staff members and volunteers fight and prevent fire will be held in the physician's parking area of the hospital on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 24 and 25.

The demonstrations, which were also held last year, will be at 7 a.m. on Tuesday and at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. on Wednesday. The different times will be to accommodate all three hospital shifts.

Rahway fire department personnel and representatives of Approved Fire Protection Company, fire extinguisher suppliers, will present instructions in four fire protection topics: the theory of fire, the use of fire extinguishers, the use of fire hoses and fire prevention.

The second suspect in the May 14 robbery of Community State Bank and Trust Company of Rahway was caught by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in New York City on June 12, according to city police.

Arrested was Barry Bruce Shephard said to be formerly of East 19th Avenue in Roselle. No details were available on how the man was traced by agents from the Newark office.

Rahway police detectives John DeStefano and Chester Holmes reported the capture of the first suspect, Michael Dantely-of-Rahway, on May 28.
