supermarkets on intraday of each week a divertising of food specials appeared in newspapers. The investigators generally discovered no problems getting rainchecks for advertised specials. But these inspections were made on the first day of the sales, it is therefore reasonable to assume, unless we are shown otherwise, many of the supermarkets did not meet their legal obligation to have a sufficient supply to handle the demand which could reasonably be explected to be generated from their advertising. Giving rainchecks should be the exception, rather than the rule, when it comes to consumer requests for ad-vertised specials. In many cases consumers will make special trips to supermarkets to take advantage of sales on particular items. It is a hardship, especially for senior citizens who have difficulty traveling, when these advertised apecials are not available. Stores will be cited for violations where the total of advertised there or more instances. This is a tolerance of error in 12% of the 25 advertised items which were checked at each store. We believe this is reasonable. It is hard to imagine non-availability or overcharges on 12% or more of the items at these supermarkets are due simply to pure random error.

As for gambling losses, which are far more common, they stimulate many soft-headed, weak-willed individuals to "throw good money after bad" and end up embezzling funds so as to "pay the piper." Just ask the Gamblers Anonymous people how gambling disrupts and destroys family life. If 1979 is supposed to be "The Year of the Child," what about his right to domestic security? ment rising in the last two years to a record 95 million Americans, states like New Jersey have been able to put a small dent in the weltzre rolls through the workfare requirement. Or at least they were until a federal judge in Newark ruled this past September the statecould not halt welfare to a family simply because the father refused to participate in the work program. Shortly after the ruling, another New Jersey judge decided it was illegal for Bordentown to impose local work requirements on recipients contrary to the state's welfare laws. The decision was backed by the state commissioner of human resources, Mrs. Ann Klein, who comply with the standards and eligibility guidelines of the state. However, an estimated 434,000 people in New Jersey comply with the standards and eligibility guidelines of the state. However, an estimated 434,000 people in New Jersey are still able to continue receiving welfare at a cost to the state of $580 million a year. Making sense out of this mish-mash of federal, state and local interpretations of welfare regulations lies at the root of the initional dilemma over welfare. It was frustrated the will of Congress and state legislators and has botched up the administration of the welfare program by many well intentioned and capable staff personnel who have been overwhelmed by the complexi-ties in the rules. Needless to say, this confusion also has encouraged welfare cheating. Rather than adopting President Carter's costly plan to scrap the system, Congress should enact a national welfare recipient system which would require states to provide the Dept. of Health, Education, and Welfare with identifying information on welfare recipients.

identifying information on welfare recipients. The double and tripple dippers who run from county to county and state to state would then be more easily identified. Estimates are that as much as 5% of the nation's welfare budget is lost through fraud. H

Letters to the editor

New tax bill will awake residents to actual costs

The Rahway Taxpayers and rempayers will wake up when they get the new tax bill in a few months. Before the election I said most of the cut of the school budget --$700,000 -- would be restored, I was atticked by the newly-elected president of the city Council for saying that, and now it is true. Now, because of this restoration, our taxes will be increased this year to cover last year's, an election year, shortage. The taxes will go up because of the higher school budget; they will go up again because of the $400,000 expense on new equipment; they will go up because of the cost of the addition to be public works building; they will go up because of the normal increase of employe salarises and the cost of materials, and Police Station Complex costs. They will go up and up and up ends you can convince the officials to return to the mayor soriginal planning --ident of renovating the present City Hall building and adding to the Elizabethtown Gas Company building for a police station, costing about one tenth of the cost of the sound and can stand up for 1,000 years if properly construction. The present City Hall building is sound and can stand up for 1,000 years if properly and maintained. The we building too will deterforate if not cared for, new construction. The present City Hall building is sound and can stand up for 1,000 years if properly repaired and maintained. The new building too will deteriorate if not cared for, The present location is by far more practical, only car block from the railroad station, banks, stores and away from the congested traffic intersection of Main St. and Milton Ave. The law breakers in City Hall have circumvented and defeated the law which provides for a referendum upon the application of 25% of the qualified voters. They have withdrawn the ordinance which we sued against and won, then reintroduced an ordinance for more money -- and the brazen nerve of the mayor asyling he is pro-tecting 75% of the voters. I object to the people of Rahway being treated as if they were in a colony of morons. If building you must, then come up with a practical, efficient design. The cells -- six are too many -- should face the rear, not the street, the court clerk's office should be on the side of the Police Dept, the statiwell and tollets abould be located near the Council chambers so the offices can be shut off from the public and they should be to the rear, not facing the street. When you get the new tax bill in the fail, it will be too. late, Crying, cussing and complaining won't help. You can't say we didn't advise you. You listened to the politicians; you pay the bill. The Rahway Tarpayers Assn. cannot protect your interest without your co-operation.

Perhaps if they would stop putting up new branches, maybe interest rates wouldn't have to go up so drastically. Will my grandchildren ever know the America the Beautiful I once knew? I have been a life-long Democrat. It really matters very little, however, if you are a Democrat or a Republican, for you all obviously have little regard for the working-man and the senior citizens. The most recent attempt to rip off the taxpayers hits even closer to home. State Sen. Joseph P. Merlino has proposed a portion of the income derived from the Nuclear Power Plant in Forked River be given to the state. Perhaps Sen. Merlino might like to have a nuclear plant in his back yard, so he could make a further contribution to the big rip-off. Would Gov. Byrne like a nuclear power plant n.: hry also? Perhaps we, the taxpayers, might sacrifice more. We can, for example, help to solve the fuel problem. If every automobile owner would not use his or her car three days a week, we would certainly help to save fuel. The gasoline companies, I would venture to say, would very quickly have gasoline coming out of their cars. What do you suppose would happen to the price of gasoline then? updated; Postizzi . Pozniak amended a section of this ordinance which would permit senior clitzen struchures m be up Chizen structures to be up to six stories in areas where they are allowed to be erected. His amend-ment, which was unani-mously approved, changed to height limitation to three stories and a 39-foot maxi-mum. James Roberts of 17 Starlife Dr., Clark, asked about the change of use for property he owns at the corner of Westfield and Brant Aves. He was told, while his new use would not allow re-tail business even though the area has many of them, his remedy would lie with the Soard of Adjustment, with is claiming of bard-ship.

Planning ahead saves trips to store in snow

As long as you have milk, eggs, and bread in the house, you can eat well for several days. During the winter plan to have foods in your cup-board which will see you through a snow storm or a bout of sniffles. Planning is much easier if you have a freezer, but there are many convenience foods which will keep well in your pantry. Milk is fairly easy to store because it is available in many forms. Collect cake and bread recipes using evaporated milk. It's so easy to store a few cans on your emergency shelf, and it's good for more than just whitening your coffee or tea. If you find yourself snowed in with some fresh whole milk on hand, you can double your supply by mixing

If you had you set a solute your supply by mixing it with the same amount of reconstituted nonfat dry milk. This milk may also be used in coffee and in if with the same amount of reconstituted nonrat ury milk. This milk may also be used in coffee and in recipes. Whole fresh milk doesn't really keep well in the freezer. You may freeze a quart or smaller container for an emergency, that it in the refrigerator, shake it well to mix it and use it up as fast as you can. Never plan to keep milk in the freezer for more than a month. Rather than freeze eggs, it is easier to store a packace of cholesterol-free egg substitute. It can be thawed and used in place of eggs, in pancakes, mufilms, cakes and other recipes or with mixes. The amount to use in place of one egg is specified on the cartor. If you have no freezer, stock a box of pan-cake and waffle mix labeled "complete" and to which only water need be added. The eggs are in the mix. Bread freezes well and will keep for two weeks in its original wrapper and up to three months if you re-wrap it in freezer wrap. You may freeze unbaked bread or roll dough you buy or make yourself for a snowed-is baking. Or set aside a box of hot roll mix or corn for manufilm or nut-bread mix and plan to have eggs or egg substitute for these. If you have no freezer, keep a box of blscuit mix our pantry shelf. As long as you have some form of milk, you can bake biscuits, dumplings for your stew and fruit cobblers or shortcakes made with canned fruits. By planning ahead you can save yourself a trip to store on a snowy day and still keep your kitchen operating in full force.

Natural gas supplies on upswing in U. S. Last year marked a turning point for the United States not only in the increase of natural gas supply but also in energy policy development and in the perception of the role natural gas will play in com-batting America's overdependence on oil imports. This turnabout has had a positive effect for custo-mers of Elizabethown Gas Co. of Elizabeth, accord-ing to the company's president, John Kean. Mr. Kean said Elizabethown's supply outlook for nearly a decade. "This not only means we have enough gas to satisfy the needs of our present customers, but we can expand their usage and addnew residential, commercial and industrial customers as well," he added. He pointed out the availability of additional natural gas for industry would help the area's economic growth by creating new jobs.
