A tea honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller was given by the Rahway Historical Society on Peb. It at the city's Merchants' and Drovers' Taverm on St. George Ave.

Mr. Miller and his wife, Mrs. Garrie Miller, helped found the society in 1969. They were residents of Metuchen until recently, but they will be moving to a home built in 1760 by the royal governor of North Carolina,' Benjamin Smith, in New Bern, N.C., sometime this mouth.

Mrs. Miller, who is a co-ordinator for the Rahway Recreation Dept. and the city's official historican, has served the city government for 28 years, and her husband is an art teacher who holds classes in the Rahway Public Library.

When the cobbler came to make shoes at the isolated farmhouse in New Jersey around the time of the Revolutionary War, it was a special occasion.

Few members of the farm family ever left the homestead, except to go to church, and usually none read a newspaper. Since the cobbler knew many families over a wide area, lived in town and read, it was he who brought the goesip and the area, britished, deaths, marriage and the going on inthe area. For many of the families he visited.

Tradesmen therefore had to be able to keep extensive records of transactions, which were frequently not paid on the spot, he added.

"Because they could read and write, tradesmen were frequently community leaders," he said. "And since they wanted their children to be able to follow them in their craft, it was in the third generation of New Jersey settlers that one-and two-room schoolhouses began to appear."

The teachers were usually the daughters of tradesmen who had been taught by their fathers to read and write, and developed their teaching skills by making handwritten copies of school-books, which, at $1.50 each, were quite expensive for those days, Mr. Landsaid. said.

By the Revolutionary War, although life was far more civilized than it was when New Jersey was first settled, the principal struggle was still that of mere survival, he added.

Radio telemetry may sound like it has nothing to do with National Wildlife Week's 1979 theme, "Conserve Our Wildlife," but it does. Telemetry—keeping track of "tagged" animals by means of tiny radio transmitters—is one of many techniques used in wildlife management to help conserve the nation's dwindling wildlife population.

During the 42nd annual observance of Wildlife Week, sponsored from Sunday, March 18, to Saturday, March 24, by the National Wildlife Federation, more than 15 million students, educators and conservation—minded citizens are expected to learn a litrile about the science of wildlife management.

This is the science practiced by Dr. Maurice Hornocker, a biologist, telemetry expert and the nation's top authority on the cougar, National Wilflife Week's poster animal.

As a result of wildlife management researcy by Dr. Hornocker and others, attitudes about the cougar have changed.

"Ten years ago, the big cat was bianted for a myriad of problems, including diminished deer herds and livestock destruction," the doctor pointed out. "Currently, it no longer is vicwed as 'vermin' by most people, 'ut rather, as a desirable and important part of natural coosystems."

The hologists, leader of the idaho Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at the University of Idaho in Moscow, Idaho, first began what is now considered pioneer work on the cougar in the 1960's, when most western states padd bountles to cougar killers. He and veteran Idaho woodsman, Wilbur Wiles, began by capturing cougars, measuring, tagging and veleasing them—then recapturing them later to log new data.

The two men accumulated a wealth of information on the growth, range, population density and precator patterns of cougars. After five years of the tedious capture—recapture method, the researcher found he could obtain better information by tagging his cars with radio transmitters. Felemetry is now commonly used in wilddlife research.

"This kind of research revealed the shy and secretive animal rarely strays from dense cover or rocky, inacce Physicians' favorité mode of treatment were blood-letting and the administration of pain-killing pillis, the implements for which are on display in the museum. The Museum of Early Trades and Crafts is at Main St. and Green Village Rd. and is open Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m. Admission is free, but group tours must be arranged in advance. the doctor worked, cougars had little effect on deer and elk populations.

According to Dr. Hornocker, the future for cougars looks good. "Outside of the Southwest--where livestock-depredation of cougars continues to be a problem --cougars will probably be managed for enhancement and preservation of populations. One useful took in this form of management may be sport hunting, which also solves the problem of depredation when it does occur," he explained.

The techniques used by the scientist in his studies of the cougar can be adapted to other animal research. Dr. Hornocker is now immersed in several other wild-life projects involving the wolverine, black bear and otter. otter.

To help spread the word on the valuable lessons to be learned from wildlife research, the federation will be distributing during National Wildlife Week more than 600,000 posters, 300,000 education kits and 55,000 students kits to schools and conservation groups in all 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. A color-slide show which focuses on the cougar and the techniques of wildlife management is also available to participating groups.

For more information, please write: The National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036. Inquiries concerning the slide show, which sells for $8.95, should be addressed to Dept. WSS9.

Religious freedom hurt by government rulings

How free is religious freedom in America?
Judging by the wave of government regulations and threats of lawsuits involving church-affiliated colleges, hospitals, schools, housing and charittes, the answer is there is much less now than a decade ago and there will probably be a lot less in the future unless Congress acts to restrain the regulators.

Some of the recent federal edicts to church-owned institutions make one wonder how the Pilgrims would have felt in their quest for religious freedom if they arrived in America this year. Under today's regulations, the Pilgrim founders would not be able to operate religious schools unless they first certified they had a sufficient quota of Indians from the surrounding neighborhood enrolled in their classes.

The early orthodox religious communities which separated men and women in various religious activities, including schools, would certainly be in trouble with federal officials responsible for enforcing sex discrimination laws.

The Clark Volunteer Fire Dept, would like to express its sincers gratique to all the Young to Clark who assisted us by shoveling out a fire hydrant near their home during the snow storm last week.

It is our policy during a heavy snow storm to aleep in our firehouses to speed up a fire response. After the storm is over, we go around the township shoveling out fire hydrants.

When the township is back to normal, we go nome and shovel our our own driveways and sitewalks. This has been as long as two days after a storm has passed.

So, when a resident chovels a hydrant, it gets us home earlier, and we appreciate that.

trimming new budget

In a continued effort to provide a budget which is both economically feasible to the Rahway taxpayer without affecting educational services to the children of Rahway, the Rahway Board of Education had several public working sessions in which educational priorities were established. Several areas of the budget were reworked in order to reduce costs, reports Board member, Richard B. Proctor.

The status of the school budget for 1978-1979 is still in limbo because of the Municipal Council's filing of an exception to the recommended restoration or $505,343. This is making it extremely difficult to prepare a budget for the 1979-1980 school year, because the administration and Board are working with anticipated figures,

The State Board of Medical Examiners adopted a new regulation to protect consumers who take advantage of examinations and testing procedures offered to the public by centers, clinics, mobile units and other facilities.

The basic purpose of the regulation is to insure the tests are administered competently under the supervision of licensed physicians. The regulations are also designed to insure the results of any tests are promptly brought to the attention of the patient and his physician. The new regulation takes effect on Wednesday, March 14, and covers two types of facilities which are under the supervision of licensed physicians. Automated Health Testing Centers (AlTC) and diagnostic clinics. An AHTC is a facility using screening methods which are less complete than physical examinations performed by licensed physicians. The screening methods used by an AHTC are not meant to be a substitute for a complete physical examination. Diagnostic clinics, however, have the facilities for a diagnosis which may result in a recommended course of treatment for the patient.

The regulation is not intended to cover special services in which single tests are performed, such as community chest X-ray examinations and community blood pressure examinations. The regulation does cover, for example, mobile van-type units where persons walk in off the street without being referred by a physician.

If you use the services offered by a diagnostic clinic or AHTC, the licensed physician in charge is responsible for obtaining from you the name of the physician to whom you wish all reports to be sent. Either of these units, however, must clearly inform you at the time you are tested if you provide the name of a physician with whom you have established no physician-patient relationship, that physician will be under no obligation to take any action concerning the report.

When an abnormality is apparent from a test, you must be notified. That notification must be accompanied by an express recommendation you contact the appropriate physician for clarification. All abnormalities must be clearly identified in the report for the attention of the physician.

Diagnostic clinics and AHTC's must submit full test reports to the designated physician and to the patient, or to a third party designated by the patient, no more than three business days from the date when the diagnostic clinic or AHTC receives the report.

The United States Dept. of Energy has established a toil-free number which you can telephone, if you have a complaint concerning home heating oil supplies and prices.

The number is (800) 424-9426.

Personnel at the department will answer calls on the special line from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday to Friday. The line will be monitored nights and weekends by a recording device with regular checks for messages.

This is making it extremely difficult to prepare a Budget for the 1979-1980 school year, because the administration and Board are working with anticipated figures, Mr. Proctor added.

It was found by initiating a special education class for perceptually impaired students a savings would be realized and also provide more room for such classified students. At the present time $15,200 is paid in tuition for four student placements outside of the district in addition to transportation costs, the Board member noted.

Since there is a decline in enrollments in the schools, cuts-are anticipated in the administrative as well as instructional staff. The Board will decide in the near future on exactly where these cuts will take place.

During the present school year, the pilotprogram for academically-gifted students in the fifth grade has proven to be highly successful. Because of this success, it was recommended the program be expanded to full-time status for the 1979-1980 school year. The Board is considering hiring a full-time toacher-co-ordinator in order to increase the capacity of the program. Again, a savings would be realized because at the present time the program is being handled through the resource rooms. The teachers presently involved would be able to work full time with classified children, he concluded. IT'S THE MOST The most weighty of all publications is probably the full-yolume set of British Parliamentary Papers of 1800-1900. The complete set costs 165,000, would take years to sead, and weight 3.6.; tom. The total print run was only 500 sets. The publishers didn't expect it to become a best seller.

Rahway Chapter No. 607. 01 the American Assat. 12
Retired Persons held its first United Nationsprogram on Feb. 22.
Presiding was the president of the chapter, Mrs. Bernadette Acierno. Assisting her were Mrs. Josephine Swartz and Mrs. Mary Venezia. Mrs. Acierno narrated the history of the United Nations and U. N. flags were presented. As each flag was presented, Al Gehrum, official musical director of the chapter, played appropriate music.

Representing the United Stated was Mrs. Alice Factr, and Mrs. Lillian Finer represented the United Nations. Guests of honor were Mrs. Genevieye Brods, assistant state director for the A.A.R.P., Mrs. Dovald J., Bauer, associate publisher, and Kurt C. Bauer, publisher, of The Rahway News-Record and The Clark Patriot.

The following served as honorary ambassadors and presented the colors for the countries they represented: Germany, Mrs. Grace Wolf; Poland, Mrs. Renee Gehrum; Demnark, Mrs. Margaret Poulsen; Finland, Mrs. Sophie Frank; Norway, Mrs. Ann Doyle; United Kingdom, England and Wales, Mrs. Ima Castor, Ireland, Miss Charlotte Tester; Hungary, Mrs. Elizabeth Martin; Ukraine, Ida Zukowski, Russia, Mrs. Ann Hnatt; Spain, Mrs. Doris Vosa; Italy, Mrs. Gertrude Heeney, and Czechoslavakia, Mrs. Mary Speanski.

Alec. France, Mrs. Harriet Cwiekalo; Greece, Mrs. Isabelle Mahon; Yugoslavia, Mrs. Valorie Lewis; Netherlands, Mrs. Marie Mayte; Scotland, Mrs. Evelyn Enot; Israel, Mrs. Nellie Burke, and Switzerland, Mrs. Hazel McGuinness.

Mrs. Brods was elected by the ambassadors to serve as the official AARP representative to the Mini UN, and she in thrn presented the flag of Chapter No. 607. As each country's flag was presented, Mrs. Acierno called out the name of each member of that particular country, and they stood at attention for their country's presentation.

Mrs. Jeanette Lewig, who is 75% Cherokee Indian, was recognized as the member closest to the claim of true Americanism and was presented with an Indian necklace. Each of the ambassadors was presented. It is the plan of the c Report its the store manager or employes, if the garment does not have a label.

Care content, manufacturers and union labels help the consumer in making a purchasing decision. The care label tells how much time will be needed for the proper care of the garment.

The content, manufacturer and union labels help the consumer decide how long the garment will last and how well it is constructed.

It is extremely important to follow the care instructions on the labels for best results. The only label which may be misleading at times is the "dry-clean-only" label. Most of the garments labeled this way should be dry cleaned. If in doubt, snip a small piece of fabric from the inside seam or hem, draw the outline of the fabric swarch on a piece of paper. Wash and dry the fabric and then place it back on the paper.

If it is larger or smaller than the outline, your garment would shrink or stretch if washed by this method. If it in the same size and looks and feels the same, it can be laundered, This procedure may also be used in testing launderability for unlabeled materials, but labels are the consumers best bet for identification.

Direct state services

The largest of the four major sections in the 1980 New Jerrey General Fund bidder promoted by the sovernor is direct state services, formerly general state operations, which has a recommended total authorization of $1,953.3 million, reports a New Jersey Tarpayers Assn. spokesman: This budget section represents 53% of total proposed General Fund spending of $3,687.5 million;

Direct state services include the daily operating costs of the governor's office, 19 executive departments, miscellaneous executive sgencies, the Legislature and the Judidary. The section is further classified into nearly 80 programs and by objectof expenditure, such as personal services, materials and supplies and employe pensions and health benefits.

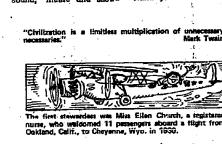

Direct state services, together with capital construction, are subject to the State Expenditure Limitation ("cap") Law, while state aid and debt service are excluded. The proposed $149.1 million, 8.3% increase in direct state services over fiscal 1979 is well under the 9.69%, growth permitted under the cap. Most of the growth in direct state services is the result of mandated cost increases for pensions and benefits, employe services and Medicaid assistance.

The largest item by object of expenditure for fiscal 1980 is personal services, employe salaries and wages, $705.9 million, $63.1 million more than fiscal 1979. In this includes $45 million for salary increases for state amployes total $240.6 million, on the hence the costs for employes total $240.6 million, on the hence the subject to final negotiations. Final continues and benefit costs for employes total $240.6 million, for the Medicaid program and $7 million for the Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged program. Other significant increases in direct state services includes $16.9 million, for the Medicaid program and $7 million for the Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged program. Other significant increases in direct state services continues as the largest spending departments, all but the Dept. of Labor and Industry have proposed

City crime bureau offers programs on prevention Many citizens throughout the city do not get involved with the programs offered by the Rahway Police Crime Prevention Bureau until after they become the victims of chains, augustic aposition and the programs of the residents of Rahway. One program is Operation identification. It is a simple process of engraving your valuables with the engraving tool and stencil provided by the bureau. Record all the valuables you have engraved with the coded estencil, place the identifax "Warning Shield" on all your doors and windows — this shield is a deterzent to thieves. It warns them your valuables are marked and can be easily traced — and mall your computer registration cird to the Identifax Nationeside Corp. in Connecticut. Should your bome be burglarized, Operation Identification serves as solid evidence for prosecution of the criminal and also serves as identification for your property. Operation identification is free of charge to the residents of Rahway. It takes about an hour of your time.

Another program offered to the residents is Neighborhood Watch. The bureau designed this program to reduce criminal activity throughout the city and make the citizens more aware of the crimes being committed. Neighborhood Watch members are taught how to protection for women and senior citizens protection against the con-artist, safety for children, how to describe a suspect, vacation security, holiday security, what to do if you are the victim and awareness.

Each neighborhood will have a chairman who will call a meeting when ecessary to discuss the problems and the session. The Crime Prevention Bureau will also call a meeting when ecessary to discuss the problems and the session. The Crime Prevention Bureau will also call a meeting when ecessary to discuss the problems and try to solve them.

American brandles are lighter and, in general, sweeter than the brandles of Cognac, Armagnac, and Calvados. One reason (aside from soil, climata, grape varieties, and wood used for aging) is the types of stills used for distillation.

In France, old-fashioned pot stills are used, huge copper kettles fired by furnaces that give a heady, aromatic spirit, rich in the higher aircolois that impart strong, complex flavors and aroma.

American brandy makers use the more modern continuous still, the same type used for whitships and other liquors, that gives a slightly more neutral, or "rectified", spirit.

Billy Martin of Clark won his second straight offshore powerboard title when he took the South American Continental Championship. The three-race South American circuit contest zipped by like Speedy Gonzales. It started Jan. 13 and ended Jan. 27.

On Jan. 13 the first Rio del la Plats race off Buenos Aires was won by Juan Taylor of Buenos Aires in his 28foot Class No. 2 "Pira Pira" in four hours and 24 minutes at an average speed of 43 miles per hour. This followed dropouts by England's Michael Doxford and Martin because of mechanical troubles in their higger, faster boats.

Only four of the 10 starters in Class No. 1 and No. 2 made it all the way in the 189-mile race. Taylor's boat was powered by a single SSO horsepower MerCruiser engine. was powered by a single 550 horsepower Mercruliser engine.

By the second Rio del la Plata race, run Jan. 29 over an identical 189-mile course off Buenos Aires, the township racer had his 39-foot "Bounty Hunter" houking again, covering the course in three hours and five minutes at an average pace of 61.6 miles per hour. This edged out England's Tim Powell in Doxford's second hull, the 40-foot "Limit Up" Cigarette. Doxford had to retire when a crack was discovered in his 35-foot craft. All three boats were propelled by pairs of 625 horsepower fuei-injected Mercruiser stem-drive ensisted.

Six of the starting Class No. 1 and No. 2 fleet were able to make it home in the required time. It was Martin's 16th career victory. Last year he won eight races, one shy of the all-time record of nine set by Doxford in the two "Limit Ups" in 1977.

The victory earned the 35-year-old Martin his second straight South American Continental Championship. On Jan. 27, Doxford's "Limit Up" was the only Class No. 1 boat to show for Uruguay's Punta del, Este race, averaging 54.2 miles per hour for the 198-mile event. Martin took the South American title because the race he won had more open-class competitors, three, than the other two races.

Martin, Doxford and Powell all qualified for the Class No. 1 world championship at Venice, Italy in October.

A first, Jan. 20, and two thirds in Class No. 2, gave the township racer had his 39-foot "Bounty Hunter" honking again, covering the course in three bours and five minutes at an average pace of 61.8 miles per hour. Cigarette hulls and MerCruiser engines continued to dominate the scene, as they have since their introduction in the late 1960's. Two of the three winners were Cigarettes — all three were powered with MerCruisers. Jim Stewart became Rahway High School's 1,000-point scorer on Feb. 24 against the Westfield Blue Devils at the Rahway High School gymnastum.

Stewart, a six-foot, five-inch power forward and team captain, needed seven points to reach the 1,000-point plateau before game time. Midway through the second quarter, with the pressure of needing only one more point, Stewart hit a jumper from the base line to become No. 3 on Rahway's all-time scoring list.

Since then this supposed dweller in Scotland's Lock Ness lake has purportedly been seen by many people, including ministers of the Church of Scotland, Roman Catholic monks, divers, tourists and scientiats uning submarines, echo sounders and other sophisticated equipment. LETTERHEADS ENVELOPES other sophisticated equipment.

The monster is known in Scotland as Nessie, but some scientists feel there is not just cane monster, but a whole family of them living in the lake. This, suggests the Teacher's Scotch Information Centre, could possibly explain why the monster's dimensions differ in the eyes of the people who have reported seeing it. Although many photographs have been taken of the monster, every one of them is blurred. Echo sounders, it is said, have detected the presence of a large man moring below the surface of the loch. Nessie remains a mystery. FLYERS NEWSPAPERS IMPRINTING BROCHURES OF MUSIC Getting Into the Act

Questions and Answers DISHWASHERS

DISHWASHERS Question: I have several serving pieces that I would like to wesh in my dichwasher, but I'm siraid to take the chance. Can you give me an idea of what can and can't be washed in a dishwasher?
Answer: Most pans, caseroles, glasses, utensils and fine china can be safely washed in a dishwasher. Some items such as hand-painted china, cast iron, wood of, pewter should be hand washed to avoid fading of hand-painted designs, rutting of fron, drying out of wood, or darkening of pewter.

WITHOUT WASTING ENERGY by using your dishwasher properly.

Question: How can I find out if my china is dishwasher safe?

Answer: Home economists at Whirlpool Corporation, a leading manufacturer of inome appliances, suggest that you test one piece by washing it daily in the dishwasher for several weeks. Then compare it with the rest of the set to see if colors have changed.
