Governing Body introduces ordinance to bring cable television to city

An ordinance granting Suburban Cablevision of East Orange permission to install and operate a cable television franchise in Rahway was introduced by the Rahway City Council Monday.

The firm will be granted a 10-year franchise which may be renewed 60 days before the emiration of the 10 years, if the ordinance is adopted at the public hearing scheduled for Monday, April 9, at 8 p.m.

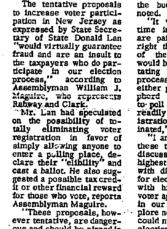

Among other requirements the company would be obligated to pay a franchise fee of 2% of its gross recenues and to complete 9% of the proposed conrevenues and to complete 90% of the proposed con-struction of facilities within a year of the date it re-ceived a registered statement to operate from the Fed-eral Communications Commission, and to complete all construction in the service area six months from that

The restoration of any pavement, street services, sidewalks driveways or other surfaces in the natural topography of the city disturbed by the construction would have to be done at the company's expense.

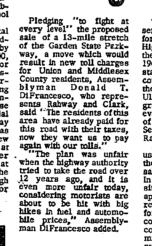

Relocation of any utility lines or thoroughfares, which would require the relocation of company squipment, would require the city to give sufficient notice and pay for the relocation at its own expense. In the case of a relocation request by relyste parties, that

A relatively small bur important part of the nearly $3.7 billion General State Fund budget for fiscal 1980 is for capital construction and debt service, reports a New Jersey Taxpayers Assn. Spokesman. The governor recommended a total of $350 million for construction and reconstruction of highways and buildings, a decrease of $8.9 million, nearly 20% from fiscal 1979 authorizations.

The largest portion—$30 million, $8% of the total, is for the Transportation Dept., a reduction of $1.7 million from the current year's appropriation. The remaining $5 million would go to seven other departments and two interstate agencies.

Of the $30 million transportation total, $16.6 million would be for construction engineering and $1 million would be for construction of highways and public transportation systems, $12.4 million would be for construction of highways and public transportation of $30.20 funding for bould highway mainmenance facilities. In his Feb. 12 letter entitled, "Immoral Liberals," Don Pfister seems to say it all — so clearly, in fact, it is probably not understood by a good many people. My response toMr. Pfister's pointed question: "What, if anything, do you intendeding about the rape of the land you call your own?" — is this: What can we do? For example, in Rahway, we have been extempting for many months to obtain a referendum to determine the true wishes of the people relative to a new municipal complex on which our mayor and City Council have put their stamp of approval. We have petitioned twice within five months on the same issue. In both cases, our petition was rejected by our city clerk, thus forcing us to court action.

was rejected by our city clerk, thus forcing us to court action.

The cost of this project to the taxpayer's of Rahway will greatly burden many of its citizens — over $4.5 million, not including interest. We are petitioning for referendum on an addition of $1.5 million. It was our thinking perhaps the people themselves might like to determine whether or not they felt the addition of such a sizeable sum was reasonable and met with their approval. We thought they might feel, as we did, the previous amount of $3 million should be adequate. Our first petition was rejected because the city administration did not want a referendum on the matter. During the latter part of our first petition drive, the mayor, through the generosity of the Rahway Police Benevolent Assn., sent a lengthly letter to every citizen in the city stading his position on our effort. His totally unflattering comments were not effective so far as damaging our drive was concerned. I wonder what that letter cost the PBA.

Despite our petition, this mayor was re-elected for a third term this past November. One week later, his attorney appeared in court with a letter from the mayor which he read to the court. This letter stated rather than continue with the endless and purposeless dilemma in which they found themselves, they felt it beet to retire from the case, repeal the ordinance and subsequently introduce a new ordinance. This they did. However, they added another $100,000, making the total package $4,550,000.

Our second petition was greeted at the start by a letter from the mayor to every citizens, at taxpayers' expense, of course. This letter warned everybody to beware of the invading petitioners who would be bothering them and even suggested how they might get rid of them.

Positive action needed to reduce government

Way back when the popular song, "Accentuate the Positive," came into vogue people began to realize negativism, as of the bored teenager or the blase collegian, is really neither smart nor constructive. For many, it was then easier to denigrate and deny than to praise and affirm.

At the time, the firm toward the "positive" was desirable, but the pendulum has long since swung too far in the opposite direction. It has now become the general view criticism or abandonment of a concept or a program, even after it has been tried and proven of no value, is destructive rather than salutary.

Thus, the mass media today habitually tag the rare politician with the common sense and courage to vow against big spending at whatever level of government as "lacking in compassion" and "merely negative." Incredibly, the big spenders of taxpayers' money are usually halled by the major media as "compassionate" and "positive."

Let us take a look at "positive," so-called.

Is it "positive." for the United States Government to run annual deficits of over $50 billion and print paper to "finance" them?

Is it "compassionate" for fedgov to destroy half of our life-savings every 10 to 12 years through a 7% inflation rare?

Is it "positive" for our educational system to seend over $1,500 per pupil per year to num out high school graduates incapable of reading, writing and figuring?

Is it "compassionate" for our welfare system to convert millions of Americans into wards of the state and encourage other millions to choose dependency over working? By E, Sidman Wachter convert millions of Americans into wards of the state and encourage other millions te choose dependency over working?

Is it "postive" for this welfare system to permit the squandering of $4$ hillion of taxpayers' money through abuse, fraud and error?

Is it "compassionate" for U.S. leaders to create energy shortages by foothardy and discredited policies and then demand billions in new taxes; plus more "controls," to "alleviate" these shortagee?

Big government is a menace, not a boon, to this country or to any other. "Big" is not necessarily "beautiful," as even a bureaucrat can comprehend when banks and oil companies are concerned. Big government is arrogant, extravagant, wasteful and usually corrupt. The bigger, the corrupt. The coin a word. Big government is, moreover, a constant threat. A threat to our individual freedom, to our privacy, to our self-reliance.

What government needs is to be put on a strict diet. No more goodies, no new powers, no further hiring, even for replacement purposes. Attrition will be to the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. America. The average government worker is, basically, a parasite, and the body politic is well rid of him. Perhaps the Postal Service may be needed — although taxpaying free enterprise would perform more efficiently and less expensively. But we most assuredly do not need the vast, overpaid, clumsy bureaucracy which is rapidly tying Americans into knots with its red tape.

We recall candidate, Jimmy Carter, promised to pare the bureaucracy. Regrettably—but not unprehens simply expanded it.

The current taxpayers' revolt is aimed at lopping off big spending at all levels of government. Here, gentlemen of the media, may be found "positive" action, highly applauded by most Americans, if not by you.

No one wants it, but paperwork grows

More than a year has passed since the Commission on Federal Paperwork issued its final report and emphasized its aim of reducing government-generated paperwork by covering its typewriters and going out of business.

What kind of response has there since been to recommendations of the commission? In short, how goes the battle against the federal fervor for paperwork? mendations of the commission? In short, how goes the battle against the federal fervor for paperwork?

There was an initial flurry of reaction with high-level promises being made of dramatic reductions in the outpouring of government forms. But the enthusiasm dwindled, and America's forest of paperwork appears as dense and tangled as ever.

For a while, President Carter seemed eager to take on the battle against excessive paperwork as a personal crusade. He called on federal agencies to reduce the number of regulations and to make sure that remaining forms are kept short and are written in easy-to-understand language. stand language.

But the torrent of paperwork pouring from federal offices, and the continuing complexity and verbosity of federal forms, shows that the battle is far from being won. of federal forms, shows that the battle is far from being won.

The very way in which the federal govornment has itself become absorbed and snarled in red tape undermines much of the President's effort.

For instance, under proposals made by the Paperwork Commission, all government forms should be cleared by the Office of Management and Budget. But a long-established regulation exempts internal Revenue Service forms, and certain others, from review or clearance by any other federal agency.

The implication of this exemption can be judged by the fact that, according to commission estimates, 78% of the total federal paperwork bursen on individuals and business is generated by the IRS.

Another setback was experienced when the Office of Management and Budget found that existing restrictions prevented it from hiring temporary workers to simplify The Rahway City Council

In this respect, two imperatives face the 96th Congress:

--Consideration must be given to revoking the exemption from CMB review that protects IRS-generated nanerwork. At the same time, Congress should set to improve the clearance procedure.

--An ombudsman operation that the commission had going until it went out of business should be restablished. The ombudsman program was one of the most beneficial programs of the commission and records show that it was widely and effectively used. Anyone with a federal paperwork problem could telephone the ombudsman's office toil free. The ombudsman handled the matter direct or used his influence to cut through bureaucratic red tape and get a speedy solution.

The new Congress should also consider and act on recent reports of the General Accounting Office Indicating that millions of dollars and considerable paperwork bould be saved by consolidating nearly 1,000 federal grant-in-aid programs into a few broad categories. Within these categories, local governments could be given more control over how funds provided for them are spent.

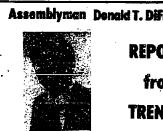

The United States census operation provides an example of excessive paperwork. Some of the census forms prepared for next year are extremely complicated, running to 61 pages with instructions.

We should look into the need for so meany questions and find whether this in-depth probing intrudes unnecessarily on privacy and burts business, it certainly would hurt the nation's economy.

One of every six homes is scheduled to receive the long form from the Census Bureau. Others would get a simplified census questionnaire. To cut down on paperwork, the long form should be considerably shortened.

Cutting out any excessive annoying federal red tape would not only reduce resentment against the growth of bureaucracy but aid the nation's critical fight against inflation.

Government spending, particularly wasteful costs, contributes substantially toward inflation. Reducing federal spending wherever possible --including adoption of the

The past several weeks have seen increased attention focused on what has become a national debate over a proposal we amend the United States Constitution to require the federal government to operate with a balanced budget.

Twenty-nine out of a necessary 35 State Legislatures have already passed resolutions petitioning Congress for a Constitutional Convention. New Jersey's "balanced budget" resolution, which I sponsored, is stalled in a Democratic-controlled committee, and I will continue efforts to move it.

Supporters of the balanced budget proposal include California Gov. Jerry Brown, United States Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker and conservative economist, Milton Friedman, who has been working on a draft amendment.

This grass roots movement to amend the Constitution represents a little-used but perfectly legitimate ploy to force action at the federal level. Columnist William F. Buckley, also a supporter of the balanced budget plan, explains the Founding Fathers provided this method of Constitutional amendment in the case of "a bottleneck in the nation's capital which could be uncorked only by the people through their State Legislatives." This is the course we are on, just five states short of forcing Congress to act.

It is not surprising, considering that we have not held a Constitutional Convention in 200 years and that many opponents of the movement hase their objections on the mechanics of the amending process — that is, calling a convention, selecting delegates, drafting a proper amendment and limiting the focus of the convention to the balanced budget proposal.

Most criticism comes from those who fear a Constitutional Convention would open up our fundamentai law to every group with a gripe and thus run quickly out of control.

These are legitimate concerns but not insurmountable obstacles. With properly drafted rules and a carefully worded amendment, order and reason can prevail. The problem of bringing our free-spending and delictiridden government under control is too important to put off with The past several weeks have seen increased attenpur off with a wringing of hands over technical difficulties.

The point of the whole story, and one our elected representatives in Washington seem reluctant to recognize, is many Americans are tired of runeway governmental spending and the inflation which results from it. Through this drive for a convention, people are sending a message.

If those on Capitol Hill and in the White House are so concerned about the problems of a convention, they can heed the spending message in another way, Congress can act now, through means other than those in the Constitution, to limit spending. There would be no need for a convention if we could see serious efforts to control the federal budget.

Until the alternative of voluntary spending limitation is evident in Washington, the national effort to mandate a balanced federal budget will undoubtedly continue.

Out of over 50 people participating in our first petition drive, five people did admit they had not witnessed all signatures. Four of these five were either running for office in November or campaigning for those running. There is no way on earth to trail around after 50 people to insure perfect compliance with all rules which were well known to all. However, at the outset, we were pictured as though we were a hand of rengades who had nothing better to do than disrupt the strategy and planning of our most benevolent, tolerant and, cert. inly, bening administration.

We, nevertheless, managed to obtain a sufficiency of signatures. We did this with less than half the number of people who had petitioned during the summer—not one individual from the group running for office in November who had joined enhusiastically in the first petition drive showed even the slightest interest in assisting the cause the second time around—the cause so badly damaged by their indifference to the rules—thereby giving the present administration 90% of the ammunition directed against us in our second effort.

On presentation to the city clerk of this city these thousands of signatures were not accepted.

Our city gave away a building worth, at the very least, $10,000, one month following the third-term inauguration of the present administration.

In Rahway, there is little point in a two, three, four or five-party system. In Rahway, we have a one-party system. It is the party which offers the best give-away program. This policy works on the national level very effectively, also.

I see why so many people told me the first time around this city would never change. The people just won't change it. Luncheon No. 2: Bologna sandwich, au grains possession on the Senior Citizen at the Seni slaw and fruited Jello.

With the constant rise in beef prices this year the consumer often asis the question, "Do I have to put up with this?" Try alternative sources of probein instead of the expensive meat.

Canned tuna and salmon often have "specials" in which their prices could be quite attractive. There are differences in canned tuna and salmon.

The most expensive tuna is lighest in color and mildest in flavor. The only species that may be called white is the albacore tuna. Several other species, the huefin, yellowfin and skipjack, are referred to as light. The color and taste of light tunas will vary, and a can of light tuna may contain any or a mixture of these species. Tuna may also be packed in a solid, chunk or grated or flaked style and is available packed in either oil or water.

Five species of salmon are commercially canned, but these live are called by a variety of names, usually peculiar to the price differences. Chinock or king salmon has the softest texture, is richer in oil and is the most expensive of the salmons.

The species which is variously called red, sockely or hueback has a firmer texture than the chinook, it is deep red in color and has considerable oil.

Coach Harry Reiser's Rahway High School Bowling Team finished third in the Union County Bowling Tournament held at Echo Lenes in Mountainside. Union's Farmers presented a balanced performance.

The Farmers, coached by former baskethall star and coach, Ed Beach since 1969, came through with a three-game total of 2,736 to win by 119 pins. The Lions of Roseite Catholic were second by the Indians.

The original starting field of 22 had been cut to six finalists in preliminary competition last week. Rahway was the defending champion and led the qualifying round with Union's first unit taking second.

Sophomore, Glenn Nicol, sparked the Farmers with a 576 series. Jerry Veglia, lone senior on the team, added a 572. Marty Loughney rolled a 548, Bob Kroschinski 532 and Mary Ellen Famula had a 509.

High individual series in the tournament was a 638 by Bob Eichborn of Roseile Catholic. Mitch Sacks of Union's second unit turned in a 632, Jerry Scardaville of Arthur L. Johnson a 614 and Brett Duca of Rahway had a 604.

Final team scores were: Union, 2,735; Roseile Catholic, 2,616; Rahway, 2,611; Union No. 2, 2,577, and Johnson Regional, 2,518.

Bichard Alexander of Rahway a member of the Manhattan College Indoor Track Team, competed in the 58th Annual Intercollegiate Amatur Athletic Assn. Track and Field Championship at Jadwin Gymnastum on the grounds of Princeton University. He finished at six-feet, 10-inches in the high jump and was a runnerup in the Metropolitan Championship, also held at Princeton several weeks ago.

RAY'S CORNER

Mike Pilot of the Rahway High School Bowling Team won the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Assn. Individual Bowling Champlonship at Edison. Lanes in Edison. The Rahway bowler rolled a high series of 565 and his team finished in third place of the 13 qualifying teams. The winning team was Cherry Hill East, who edged Englewood by 26 pins, 2,656 to 2,630.

"I haven't practiced in 12 days," said Pilot, after capturing the state title with a 210 in his last game, "I never expected to win with the score I had. I bowled 30 pins better two weeks ago and lost by one pin in the Section B finals."

Pilot, who led his team to the third-place finish, isn't quite as dedicated to bowling as a state champion might be.

Baseball is definitely my favorite sport," noted the senior third baseman for Coach Bill Donain's baseball club. "Bowling is a lot of fun, but I usually don't have much time to practice. The only time I play is with the team." The city athlete, who led the Indians to their highest finish ever, was almost overtaken by Joe Goertz of Lekewood. Goertz scored eix strikes in a row to take high-game honors with a 233 in his game and fell short of tying Pilot by just one pin with a 564 series.

The Rahway boy, who sports a 180 average, had a and fell short of tying Pilot by just one pin with a 504 series.

The Rahway boy, who sports a 180 average, had a high series of 638 and a high game of 246.

"It started bowling when I was eight years old with the guys who are on the team now," said the bowler. "I only bowl three games a week. When you're going right everything feels good. It's really a lot of fum."

Although playing baseball is his favorite pasttime, Pilot still sees bowling as a sport he will continue to enjoy.

On paper, Mark Slonaker of Rahway's statistics aren't that overwhelming. But to his coach and teammates, Slonaker's steady play has been invaluable to the Georgia University baskethall program.

"He's not a shooter or a big rebounder," Coach Hugh Durham said, "but he does so much more. He's a smart player, doesn't make a lot of mistakes, and he's a leader."

Coming off the bench is a tough assignment for many players. Most would prefer to start, but Slonaker has been the "sixth man" for most of his career at Georgia.

"Mark can analyze the situation on the floor when he comes in and make good decisions," Durham said.

"I see my role as a stabilizer," Slonaker said. "I come in and settle things down. I just try to make good passes, set things up and play good defense."

Slonaker feels this year's team has worked harder than any he has playedonat Georgia.

"We've gone out and paid the price every day in practice. Coach Durham told us we should always concentrate 100% of the time, even when we feel bad, I believe the hard work has paid off. This team is cohesive and we work together on the court," Slonaker said.

Being moved from guard to forward this season has made the city cager work a little harder too...

"I had trouble at forward early in the year, but I worked hard in practice, watched what Lavon Mercer and Ron Webb did on defense, and I learned the position better," he said.

"I like forward better than guard now because I feel I'm a little quicker than most forwards, It's still tough a lot of times when you're trying to guard someone as big and strong as Reggie King of Alabama. But, enjoy.

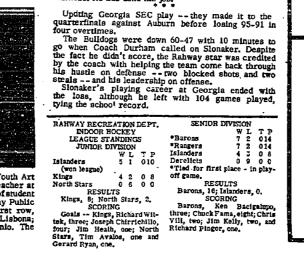

"I'd love to make some money professionally, some day," revealed Pilot. "I know it takes a lot of practice and time, but I think I'd like to try it."

Linden held the lead after two games with a team total of 1,768, but fell to eight in the final tally. Englewood, which had the highest team score with a 947 in the final game, finished second. Rahway was third with a total of 2,585.
