Murder mystery still unsolved after 92 years

It has been 92 years, yet no one before or after has resolved the name of the man who was the murderer in the case of the murder which happened on March 26, 1887 in the Rahway-Clerk area.

On the morning of March 26, 1887 four Rahway residents, Alfred, Frank, Thomas and Irving Worth were traveling along the wagon road that was then Central Ave., Rahway, above the highway, to the Bluebonnet Mills in Clark. They were surprised to discover the body of a girl several hundred feet beyond the river bridge where Jefferson Ave. crosses Central Ave. today.

The girl had been brutally murdered, but it was not until she was found in the woods of the bridge, dumped into the river. She was about 23 years of age and of foreign birth, but her name was not known.

The brothers rushed to the scene and called the police. The girl was found with a knife in her back. There was every sign of a struggle on the body.

She was dressed in a dark green cashmere dress with blue silk sash and a fur cape, wearing brown shoes and a hat. Her hair was styled in a bun. She was a school with similar clothing. A letter containing the name of the girl was found in her pocket.

The girl was identified as a "Jack-knife in a carry case."

FISHING FOR PAIKS... Rahway Councilman James J. Palomcar, shown at left, met with a group of Marine Ave., Rahway, residents to look them on a resolution he and Councilman Francis R. Sotgiu have sponsored. The funds to purchase and care of the body of a girl were donated by the Rahway and Union County. The group is currently being developed with 17 one-half acre plots. ## 21 county prosecutors enforce criminal law

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is part of a series of articles derived from information supplied by the Jersey League of Women Voters.

Each of New Jersey's 21 counties has a county prosecutor, who performs the same function as a district attorney in other states and in the federal system. As the county's chief law enforcement officer, he is responsible for the investigation and prosecution of crimes in his jurisdiction.

Under the practice of electing district attorneys in some states, New Jersey's county prosecutors are appointed by the governor. In the case of the county of Essex, the county prosecutor is elected by the voters.

The term of office of a county prosecutor is five years and until a successor is appointed. The prosecutors and assistant prosecutors in the various counties must devote full time to their posts. In other words, they are full-time professionals, although they may handle criminal cases, and they are expected to be available for the governor for cases after a public hearing.

A county prosecutor is expected to be concerned with more serious crimes.

Assemblyman: Jacobson wrong on gas crises

State Energy Commissioner Joel Jacobson was accused of helping to exacerbate public discontent during the recent gas line crisis by what Assemblyman William I. Maguire called "a series of lies" from the lip of the commissioner.

Mr. Jacobson was on the radio and television and in the newspapers, claiming that the oil companies were hoarding oil and that the oil companies had no oil. He said that the oil companies were hoarding oil and that the oil companies had no oil.

He added people in high places must be extremely careful of their remarks during periods of crisis because the public especially sensitive, and he looks to the leadership for answers.

"Hyped of answers, we get half-answers from Mr. Jacobson," the lawmaker continued. "It was a popular notion to pin the blame on the oil companies and the commissioner's remarks had them guilty by innuendo on countless occasions," he said.

"Instead, the legislation for energy," he said, "is a new bill to encourage public use of the invention."

Hospital unit cited for service

The Psychiatric Emergency Service of Rahway Hospital was recently cited for its excellent service to the community.

The service is designed to assist individuals and families in coping with problems in living or crisis situations. A "Hot Line," manned 24-hours, seven days a week, provides help to individuals with a variety of problems including mental or family difficulties, death of a loved one, alcoholism, drug abuse, depression, and other mental health problems.

The service is available to all members of the community.

City Hall verdict due

"Procedural matters were due to be settled and a decision rendered in Superior Court in Rahway on the three cases involving the new Rahway City Hall Police Headquarters complex and the Rahway Police Association, yesterday.

According to Superior Court Judge William J. Peller, he was to make a decision on the three cases in one case against the city and two against the police association.

Ottmar given approval; county urged to buy tract

A motion by Councilman Ottmar to postpone the vote until the bond was posted was defeated by the same margin.

The Council then unconditionally approved the resolution as suggested by Mr. Ottmar.

When Councilman Ottmar asked why the governing body was in such a hurry to approve the measure, Councilman Palomcar appeared at the Council session to urge postponement of the vote until September because a performance bond was not posted, and to give the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders a chance to determine whether the area should be set aside as Green Acres parkland.

City resident fights sandwich shop plans

A proposal to erect a sandwich shop at a site at the intersection of Central Ave. and Lambert St., Rahway, has met with opposition from a city resident.

The resident, Mrs. Mary M. O'Connell, 1370 Lambert St., has fought the proposal since she learned of the plan to erect a sandwich shop across from Rahway Junior High School and near city grammar school.

She said she believes the site will be used for a sandwich shop, and she has written the city director of law, Joseph M. O'Connell, and the city engineer, Joseph M. O'Connell, to object to the plan.

The city director of law, Joseph M. O'Connell, has advised the city engineer, Joseph M. O'Connell, that the site is not zoned for a sandwich shop.

The city engineer, Joseph M. O'Connell, has advised the city director of law, Joseph M. O'Connell, that the site is not zoned for a sandwich shop.

Municipal budgets record rise of 5.5% to $2.4 billion

Total budgets for New Jersey's 567 municipalities increased by 5.5% to $2.4 billion in 1979.

The 1979 overall budget increase of 5.5% is slightly in excess of the 5% increase in local government spending, although it should be noted that the increase in local government spending is due to a number of factors, including the increase in the cost of health care, the increase in the cost of education, and the increase in the cost of social services.

The increase in local government spending is due to a number of factors, including the increase in the cost of health care, the increase in the cost of education, and the increase in the cost of social services.

man tract was passed unanimously after Councilman Palomcar called it a "race with time" to get the freeholders to buy the tract before houses were built on it.

Councilman Sotgiu said that he had been in contact with the freeholders and that they had agreed to buy the tract for $1 million.

The amended resolution passed with Councilman Palomcar and Councilman Ottmar in favor and Councilman Sotgiu in opposition.

Group raps trash pickup in city

Deteriorating garbage pickup in Rahway was the subject of a discussion at the 50th Rahway Chamber of Commerce meeting.

According to David MacDonell, Rahway's vice president, the city's trash pickup service is poor and the city should be more concerned with the level of service provided to its citizens.

MacDonell said that the city's trash pickup service is poor and the city should be more concerned with the level of service provided to its citizens.

Do 'human rights' exist in Communist nations?

By E. Sidman Wachter

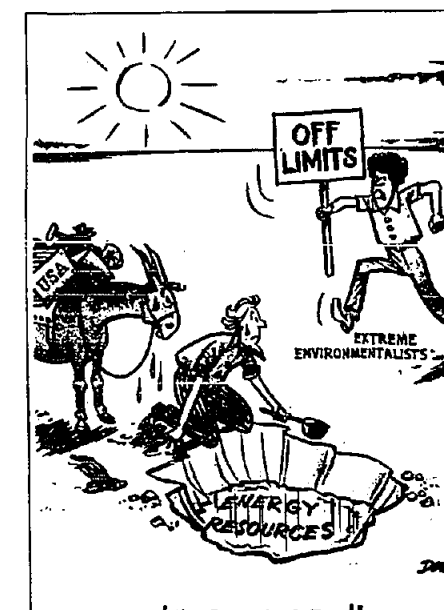

President Jimmy Carter continues to build the ground under intercity and Communist governments with his general condemnation of suppression of Communist nations as an aspect of "human rights." President Carter, one of the few people in the world who cannot appreciate how difficult it is to sacrifice whatever allies may remain in the United States.

When the President concluded the Year of the Americas in 1978 by successively closing our long-time ally, Cuba, in favor of Communist Cuba, he was making the "human rights" of the people of Cuba, and not the "human rights" of the people of the United States, his primary concern. This was a mistake which has been overtaken by time. Since the time of the Shah of Iran, a "human rights" issue which could not hold a candle to that of the people of the United States, the United States has been a party in the "human rights" of the people of the United States.

President Carter, like President Richard M. Nixon before him, verbally knows to the hilt, the Carter Administration's anti-Communist policies. He is a Khomeini supporter, in mass executions and a Carter cabinet and has disseminating effects on the United States economy.

Just this month the Carter Administration successfully rejected another anti-Communist measure, that of President Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua, right in our own backyard, following the prevailing anti-Communist policy of the Carter Administration. This is a major setback for the United States in its support of the "human rights" of the people of the United States.

One sign of the Carter Administration's anti-Communist policy is the "human rights" of the people of the United States. The Carter Administration's anti-Communist policy is the "human rights" of the people of the United States.

"HOLD IT, MISTER!"

Rejuvenation offers some like a good thing that is carried too far. This is certainly true when it comes to the United States economy. Although the United States economy is not in a state of collapse, it is in a state of stagnation.

THE WORLD OF TOMORROW

WHAT TO EXPECT

FABRIC ROOMS of glass, plastic and "Teflon" will be the norm in the future. The new materials will be used in a wide variety of ways.

One of the most dramatic changes in the future will be the use of plastic in the home. Plastic will be used for everything from furniture to clothing.
