AHWAY, NEW JERSEY, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1979 Lack of funds from city may kill Ottmar Tract swap Although the Union County Board of Freeholders approved a swap of a county park in Rahway for the consested Ottmar Tract. Sept. 27, the deal "probably" won't go through, Freeholder Eugene J. Carmody said.

"The city apparently had some problems raising the money," the freeholder said at the freeholder meeting held in the municipal building in Cranford.

The tract, abutting Rahway River Park, would cost about $280,000 because it is now being cleared by the Ottmar Construction Co.

But a disappointed Joseph M. Hartnett, city business administrator, asked the county to give the city primarily use of Green Field near Madison Ave., Rahway, anyway, offering to maintain the park, which is used mostly by city residents.

City Council, fearing the imminent development of the 3.23-acre tract, asked the freeholders two weeks ago for a trade of the county-owned Green Field for the Ottmar Tract, which the city would acquire by condemnation.

GOP hopefuls pledge welfare mess' attack

Union County freeholder candidate, Mrs. Blanche Banasiak of Elizabeth, Jack Meeker of Westfield and Frank H. Lehr of Summit mday pledged, if elected, to use their appointing authority to "Clean up the welfare mess" in the county and rapped "the poor hidgment" of their opponents in appointments to the County Welfare Board as "the cause of the waste of thousands of dollars in county welfare Board move to the old Levy Brothers building in Elizabeth, noted Mrs. Banasiak, in coeting the tarpayers tens of thousands of dollars more per year in rem alone. She also observed the failure to move out of the Bridge St., Elizabeth, offices on time forced the public to pay double rem at the old offices and Board minutes indicate the estimated cost of moving was over $20,000.

Outside planners have billed the Welfare Board about $15,000 so far for the move. About $30,000 was paid the landlord for renovations, and because the floors of the new offices could not hold the old filing units, the Board had to spend $28,500 for three new mechanical filing units, she added.

However, Mrs. Banasiak noted, as of last week the sixth floor had not yet been modified by the landlord to take the weight of the new files.

"A factor in this Welfare Board mess is the absenteelsm of our opponents' appointees, A majority of the members were absent from the meeting at which the Board one to engage in the wasteful lease with the new landlord. An example of this absenteelsm is the disgraceful record of our opponent, Freeholder Everett C. Lattimore, who was absent from nine out of the first 16 Welfare Board meetings of this year," stated Mr. Meeker.

"Three criteria to be considered in any move, of the first 16 Welfare Board meetings of this year," stated Mr. Meeker.

"Three criteria to be considered in any move, namely cost, staff morale and building conditions, were sadly ignored in making this decision. It is not surprising over 150 professional employes walked out of the new welfare offices to protest the increased rental costs, the uneste and hazardous building conditions, the poor ventilation, and the inadequate heating and air conditionally system. The stupidity of this disaster is symbolized by the fire that hroke out on the second floor during the second day there and the breakdown in the building's plumbing shortly thereafter," noted Mr. Lehr. Mrs. Banasiak added the costly move of the offices ist just one example of waste on the Welfare Board. She cited the existence of too many Welfare Board attorneys and poor policing of "welfare cheaters" as representing tens of thousands of wasted dollars.

To solve the problem, the Republican hopefuls will appoint people with good attendance records, with different party affiliations, with a proven business sense, with concern for the taxpayers, and with a concern for the taxpayers, and with a concern for the taxpayers, and with a concern for the taxpayers, and each they pledged they would end the policy of "simply appointing the party fathful and of permitting high absenteelsm on a Board that controls a $31 million budget."

Regional government seeking more control

By E. Sidman Wachter six different audit organizations over a two-year period.

One of the problems is the extraordinary length of time required to complete an audit. For example, under present government auditing methods, it would take 20 years to completely audit all the activities of the scandal-plagued General Services Administration.

By and large, the auditing of $35 billion in federal grants a year has been left up to state and local authorities. In some cases, they have scrupulously protected federal funds.

Many times, however, local pressures to continue and even expand programs using federal assistance have caused local officials and community boards to apply the most liberal interpretation of the regulations as possible. Seldom do these local authorities and non-profit organizations turn back unused funds to the federal government.

Legislation enacted by Congress authorizing the appointment of inspectors general in 12 federal departments and agencies will make it easier to conduct independent spot audits. In addition, the legislation directs the White House to appoint a group of highlevel executives in the government to combat fraud and waste.

But the single most important stee Congress and the time required to compare and utiling methods, it would take 20 years to completely audital transcriptions. The continuition, they insisted on a "government of the people," but people and for the people. That is to say, a government administered by chosen representatives of the majority of the voters, who could be turned out of office after a comparatively short tenure.

As we all learned in school, the federal government of the people by the people aupteme power in only carredity-stated areas, leaving to the sovereign attacks and the people all powers not specifically delegated and the people all powers and required to the specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and required to the specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and required to the people and the people all powers and required to the specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and the people all powers not specifically delegated and the people and the rested the power to control the use of your land, the land on which you pay real estate taxes every quarter and for the purchase of which you have paid, or are now paying, a boodle.

As it such potential tyranny were not bad enough, the House bill would specifically permit the funding of experimental child development programs which thus far the Congress has wisely refused to permit.

Such a new political assiem "co-ordinating." read. "controlling." the rest of government would bring an end to our free market economy. In its place, Americans would be subjected to the controlled economy which stultifies socialist states.

The cost of the proposed Regional Development Act is estimated at $3,765,000 for the years 1980-1983. What a hey-day for graft, corruption and political payoffs. Note the Appalachian Regional Commission established in 1965 for one area reports having funneled $5 billion of taxpayer monies into depressed areas, but the General Accounting Office states $1 billion of this expenditure, 20%, cannot be accounted for.

State governors would have no input into plans for the regions in which their states may fall. National economic and land use policy would be dictated by the federal co-chairmen of the regional commissions, and the specifies by the commissioners themselves, Yes, by appointed bureaucrats.

There is one place the federal government skimps on spending. With a budget of $552 billion spread out over hundreds of agencies, the government devotes very little of its resources in finding out how the money is spent. The General Accounting Office, for instance, reported to 35 government agencies and units responsible for more than $250 billion a year here for attended for three coordinating audits of all federal departments and agencies. Others include the Occupational Safety and Health Administration; division of the Departments of Agriculture, Defense, and Interfor; the Peace Corps and Volumerers in Service to America.

Recent congressional bearings disclosed approximately $55 billion a year fing grants is spent on early, 11,00 federal programs. Recent congressional interfor; the Peace Corps and Volumerers in Service to America.

The hearings revealed auditing procedures to check on these being outlays are far from adequate, and billions of the larguard of dollars may be lost every year through fraud, waste, mismangement and mapsplication of money for programs and individuals do not qualify for federal payments.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Copies of the following letter were submitted by James E. Kchoe of 45 Wendell Pl., Clark, the president of the Clark Taxpayers Coalition, to the president of the Clark Board of Education, the president of the Clark Township Council and to the New Jersey School Boards Assn.

Moreover, with Several members on the Board who have over a decade of experience, the indispensability of the administrator/secretary. Under the present setup the administrator/secretary does, in fact, run the entire operation, giving the Board merely the illusion of control.

There is a pervading disease infecting America which depresses our spirits. The symptoms of the sickness are seen in our paychecks and when we go to the store. The illness is inflation.

Although much has been written about this malady lately, further that the state of the stat study needs to be done if we are to shake inflation's grip. One area study needs to be done if we are to shake inflation's grip. One area that is receiving a lot of attention lately is productivity and its relationship to inflation. The Joint Economic Committee of Congress says that the relationship is double-edged; i.e., neither acts independently of the other.

For that reason it is important that all of us know what productivity is and how it affects inflation. Productivity is that output which results from one hour of labor input. That translates into the amount is all the productivity is the control of the productivity in the productivity is the control of the productivity in the control of the productivity is that output which results from one hour of labor input. That translates into the amount and the rise of inflation. The National Association of Manufacturers quotes figures showing that in 1955 wages increased 3.7 per cent and productivity rose 4.1 per cent. That means the unit labor cost dropped 0.4 per cent. That same year, the Consumer Price Index (CPI), a key inflation indicator, dropped 0.4 per cent. Correspondingly, in 1978 wages rose 9.3 per cent against a productivity increase of only 0.4 per cent. Unit labor costs, then, increased 8.9 per cent. Inflation for 1978, as measured in the CPI, rose 9 per cent. From this one sees the tie between productivity and inflation.

In order, then, to keep inflation down, we have to keep productivity up. But since World War II, America's productivity has been slipping. Many causes account for this slowdown — personal savslipping. Many cauces account for this slowdown — personal savings are down, energy prices are up, government regulations are increasing and service-oriented jobs are growing, taking workers out of production jobs.

The path before us is clear. America lags behind almost every industrialized nation in the world in her productivity growth rate.
The ravages of inflation demand that our policymakers in Washing-

A bonding ordinance to appropriate $325,000 from capital funds for the acquisition and installation of community of the freeholder, who is tion and installation of computer software came up for linal adoption before the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders on Sept. 27.

According to Freeholder Harold J. Seymour, Jr., the ordinance will allow for future development of all coding and instructions to the computer.

The freeholder explained the initiation of the project would probably necessitate an increase in staff personnel in both the Dept. of Finance and the Division of Electronic data Processing, although a shifting of personnel from other county departments would undoubtedly suffice.

He added Union County had been successful in its LESSON IN GOVERNMENT. One of the representatives of Rahway and Clark, Assemblyman Donald T. DiFrancisco, spoke to fourth-grade classes at Grover Cleveland School in Rahway on Sept. 25. Assemblyman DiFrancesco explained how a hill becomes law and the role of state government. One of the things that has saved the county money over the years, he continued, was the attainment of a AAA credit rating and long-term MIG-1 and short-term bond ratings on the county's capi-tal debt program.

lllegal fight movie led

Edison to 'cinema'

Heavyweight champion of the world, Gentleman Jim Corbett, "defended" his title on Sept. 7, 1894, in West Orange before a crowd of about 10 persons and Thomas A. Edison's movie camera.

The studio, which revolved on wheels to catch the sun, was covered with black tarpaper. It was quickly dubbed "the Black Maria," the nickname for the black vans police used to pick up prisoners in cities. On Sept. 7, 1894 that symbolic nickname link to the criminal element was not farfetched, for prizelighting was illegal in most of the United States. The illegality added spice: Any film showing the forbidden sport was greeted by cheering crowds in movie parlors.

Corbett's opponent was ponderous Pete Courtney of nearby Newark. Unknown to Courtney, a "fix" was on: Corbett was acheduled to knock out Courtney in the sixth round, but not before, since the movie parlors demanded a six-round fight.

Each round supplied about one minute of film, followed by a one-hour wait while the film was being changed in the camera. Filming had begun at 9 a.m. The sixth round of the Corbett-Courtney "colc" was ready to start at 4 p.m.

son's ventures in the motion picture hall, there without success to convince Edison plotted movies would find a ready audience.

Mr. Dickson ich Edison in 1895, and soon thereafter filmed the "Empire State Express," a movie with a simple plot. When it was shown in October, 1896, at Hammerstein's Theater in New York, the sight of the great locomotive apparently roaring into the theater caused viewers to dive under sease or to stampede into the aisles. Movies were getting better.

Edison correctly believed plotted movies needed some kind of dialogue to reinforce the action. He originally had hopod to combine his phonograph with the film, thus anticipating the "talkies" that finally appeared in the late 1930's.

Falling in synchronized sound experiments, the inventor ploneared printed captions, testing them on audiences of all ages and occupations. Edison concluded six to eight words was an average attention span for captions.

captions. Edison's captions, plus better projectors and film spliced together for up to a 14-minute show, helped some. But the movies languished. The once-thrilling

Crusaders face crucial Conference vie Saturday

Clark's Crusaders will travel to Simpson Field in Roselle on Saturday, Oct. 6, 21 1:30 p.m. for an im-portant National Division Watchung Conference watching Conserence game.
Clark, who won 43-0 over cranford, have to stop the good passing of John Cummings, who completed 10 of 21 for 157 yards against the Rahway indians last week.
The Rams have a new coach in Lou Grosso. They are now switching to the "I" formation from the pro set offense.

AT ROSELLE The 12th game between the teams sees the Rams on top 6-5, Last year the Crusaders won a high-scoring game, 34-27,

Here's the rundown of roaring Wildcats

Ann Marie Walsh of Rahway was the only winner, as she defeated Cathy Mulvaey 6-2 and 6-1 in her tennis team's 4-1 loss to the Flainfield Cardinals.

Other results were: In singles, Sue Madsen over Rahway's Lealie Talbot 6-1 and 6-1 and Tyraina Myers over Pat Bascik 6-2 and 6-1.

In doubles, the Cardinals won both matches, Corinne Mulivaney and Cynthia Reese beating Dervise Dortzas and Kelly Lavin 6-5 and 6-2; and Heather Farconne and Alicia Gipson winning over Andrea Wright and Karen Vove 6-1 and 6-0.

A year later, Porter made the first story picture ever filmed, "The Great Train Robbery," still recognized as the classic among all old-time films, Porter used the New Jersey countryside for his "Westerm" scenes and packed adventure, sin and violence into 1,000 feet. He had found the formula.

Soon after, Porter made "Rescued from an Eagle's Nest," filmed in the Palisades overlooking the Hudson River. it was motable became and low. Griffith, who himself soon would become an esteemed movie director.

Edison's interests swerved away from the motion pictures just at the time when swarms of new movie makers were entering the field. That inattention, plus his carelessness with his original patents, caused Edison's influence to wane in moviedom.

Across the land as the movies flourished, planists played imaginative background music for the silent illms. One popular favorite, "Hearts and Flowers," was rendered for the sad scenes, and lost loves.

By World War I, that was Edison's song, as far as the movies were concerned.
