

grain subject to state approval. Whatever we do, we must stand together."

The state last year passed legislation giving the board the right to exercise its own views on the policy by the Sept. 1, with implementation of a curriculum scheduled for Sept. 1983.

Guidelines for drafting the policy and curriculum, which would be taught in all schools, would be mandated by the state, formulated by a cross-section of each district, including parents, teachers, principals and members of the clergy.

State guidelines also would allow parents to request a child be excused from the class if the curriculum violated their conscience or religious or moral beliefs.

Board member, Rick Proctor, who voted in favor of the policy, said he felt sex education should be left to the school's local board of health officials in Scotch Plains and Plainfield.

The second education board member to vote in favor of the family life curriculum was James J. McGowan, Jr. Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobsen

Monyek: Let's return to US-made goods

Apple pie, Chevrolet and baseball were used as part of a jingo several years ago to promote the sale of American-made automobiles.

Well, quite frankly, blueberry pie isn't bad either, or perhaps strawberries or peach if there's no apples around.

It's no secret Chevrolet has lost a lot of foreign competition. As a desperate measure they have introduced Japanese-made diesel motors to stimulate business.

Well, alas and alack. What's to become of the great American game of baseball, or business, as it presently is? Is it also to be the way of foreign imports?

Anyone that enjoys competitive team sports could easily be moved to tears or some other important sport.

Americans, let's get on the "ball" and promote "American" baseball, cars, and, if you can stand the calories, apple pie.

 by Congressman Matt Rinaldo
 12th District, New Jersey

High interest rates hurting car industry

High interest rates, not the Japanese producers, have become the No. 1 enemy of the United States automobile industry.

The big three automakers collectively lost over $1.5 billion in 1980, and lost just three quarters of a billion dollars in the first quarter of 1981.

Car sales are down over 20% from 1979, and a quarter of a million automobile workers are out of work. General Motors has announced postponement of a $4-billion, five-year capital investment plan.

Many automobile dealers are verging on bankruptcy, with car lots cluttered with unsold cars. It now costs them about $500 a month for each unsold car that stays on their lot. This is precisely the entire profit margin of an automobile dealer for an average model car that costs $7,500. The result is 1,600 automobile dealers were forced out of business last year, which represents 5% of the total dealers.

The cancer of high interest rates does not stop at the automobile show-room doors. Wholesale and retail car part distributors have reduced their inventories from 25 to 35% nationwide in an effort to avoid the tremendous burden of interest costs in maintaining normal inventory levels.

The steel industry also is suffering a tremendous blow from the drop in automobile sales. The automobile industry consumes 25% of the steel produced in America. The combined loss of the automobile industry and interest rates is a crushing blow to the U.S. steel industry to make a comeback.

What if all this were to be a depression in the American automobile industry that is undermining chances for President Ronald Reagan's economic recovery program. Counting up losses, the American car industry is the nation's largest private employer. It sustains three million workers and touches the economy of every state.

Unless the situation changes, thousands of riders

Explore all costs before buying home

With their resources stretched to the limit to meet the down payment and anticipated monthly mortgage payments and taxes, homebuyers may find themselves coming up short if they do not estimate closing and settlement costs early in the homebuying process.

Here's a run-down of just some of the costs you should anticipate:

The loan origination fee is a payment to the lender for expenses incurred in originating the loan, prepaids documents and performing related work. In Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgage transactions this fee is limited to no more than 1% of the mortgage amount.

"Points" are a one-time charge made by the lender. Each point is 1% of the loan. Points are, in effect, part of the cost of the loan. A lender who charges two points on a $75,000 loan would receive $1,500 at the time of the closing.

Title search costs and title insurance costs are incurred to insure the property to be sold or mortgaged is the legal owner of the property with the power to sell it. In many transactions, the search of the title records is performed by the title insurance company. Title insurance usually protects lenders against any loss of the interest in the property if it turns out the seller in fact did not transfer good legal title. The homebuyer can protect his interest by purchasing a separate title insurance policy.

Appraisal fees may be charged by the lender in connection with an inspection of the property to determine its value. The lender may also charge you an application fee for processing your loan application. This fee may include the cost of obtaining a report about your credit history from a credit reporting bureau.

Another fee which the homebuyer may have to pay is the lender's cost of the mortgage. The lender will record the mortgage in the public records, and recording of legal documents. In addition, there may be recording or filing fees to be paid.

Automobile workers face layoffs in an industry which has been suffering from severe unemployment for too many months.

Once one of every seven jobs in the nation is directly or indirectly related to the car industry, the impact could be severe in terms of unemployment rates and the benefits that must be paid to jobless workers and their families. We already have more than 225,000 automobile workers out of work, and the unemployment rate in the car industry is around 12%.

The only encouraging news last month was the continued, but slow, recovery of Chrysler Corp. Its sales were up 16.5% above the level of July, 1980. But unless the automobile industry as a whole gets back on its feet, Chrysler's gains could be short lived.

Relaxing pollution safety standards would only provide a little more breathing room without solving the underlying financial problems of the industry.

Detroit's plans for a massive re-tooling and design of new cars to meet the mileage goals set by Congress may cost at least $35 billion in the next five years.

The Reagan Administration has won some concessions from the Japanese automobile industry to cut car shipments to the United States by almost 8% in 1982. Japanese imports account for almost 20% of U.S. automobile sales, compared to only 2% in 1969. The Japanese have agreed to voluntarily cut back on imports to the United States. Otherwise, Congress and the Reagan Administration are prepared to impose more restrictions.

But import restrictions are not the real cure. U.S. car makers must be able to compete in the American market. Also must be incentives to invest in the American automobile industry in order to produce better, more energy efficient cars.

In addition, current and future regulations which will affect the industry for the next 10 years must be reviewed by Congress.

Really, interest rates must come down sharply through a combination of federal spending restraint, tighter control of the money supply, less government borrowing and action by the Federal Reserve Board to lower interest rates as soon as possible.

A mortgage lender may also require a survey of the property to be prepared, showing the location of the house and the boundaries of the property. The fees in connection with the preparation of such a survey may also be tacked onto the closing and settlement costs.

In addition, local housing codes or even individual lenders may require the house undergo an inspection. In any case, you as the homebuyer will probably want to have, and will have to pay for, at least a termite inspection.

Insurance costs are another aspect of homebuying which some consumers may not immediately consider in deciding whether they can afford a particular house. Most mortgage lenders will require you carry homeowners hazard insurance for the house at least in the amount of the mortgage loan.

This is one area where the consumer has the greatest leeway to shop around for the best deal. Be sure to check several insurance companies for different coverage packages at the lowest possible cost.

In addition to regular homeowners insurance, you may be required by federal law to obtain flood insurance. You are subject to such a requirement if the house is located in a flood hazard area and the town in which the house is located participates in the National Flood Insurance Program.

Under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, your lender must give you an advance estimate of your one-time closing costs due at settlement. Be sure you review this estimate carefully to determine if the costs are within your means.

Juvenile justice needs balanced law

Over half of all crime in New Jersey, 54%, is committed by juveniles. It is a shocking and unavoidable fact, but statistically you are more likely to be the victim of a child than of an adult.

Ask the average citizen what sort of crime it is that he fears the most and he will tell you it is the kind generated by juveniles. It is a shocking and unavoidable fact, but statistically you are more likely to be the victim of a child than of an adult.

Ask the average citizen what sort of crime it is that he fears the most and he will tell you it is the kind generated by juveniles. It is a shocking and unavoidable fact, but statistically you are more likely to be the victim of a child than of an adult.

At the other extreme, the community's ambivalence toward the problem of juvenile justice is reflected in the fact that juvenile crime is often seen as and, frequently, treated as a social problem rather than a legal one. Last week my colleagues in the Assembly Judiciary Committee approved a package of bills designed to bring the state's juvenile justice system into line with the rest of the nation.

Just how much of a social problem juvenile crime is, however, is a matter of debate. On the one hand, juvenile crime is a real and growing problem. In the past few years, juvenile crime has increased in every state. In New Jersey, the number of juveniles arrested in 1980 was up 15% from 1979. In many states, the increase has been even more dramatic.

At the same time, however, juvenile crime is also a problem that is often misunderstood. Juveniles are not "born criminals." They are not "evil" or "irretrievably bad." They are simply children who are often in need of guidance and discipline. The juvenile justice system should be designed to help them, not to punish them.

That is why the bills I introduced last week are so important. They are designed to create a balanced law that treats juveniles as children, not as criminals. They are designed to give juveniles the same rights and protections as adults, while also giving them the guidance and discipline they need.

These bills are a first step toward creating a juvenile justice system that is fair, just, and effective. I hope they will be passed quickly and put into effect.

Look at mortgage through bank's eyes

By David S. Pottruck
 Vice President of Citibank

In this article we'll tell you the things the bank considers before it makes a mortgage loan to you.

Let's start by backing up the process a bit. You've taken the time to determine how much you can borrow, you've checked your credit, and you've decided to buy a house. Now you're ready to apply for a mortgage.

The bank will look at your credit record, your income, and your assets. They will also look at the house itself, including its location, its condition, and its value.

Once the bank has all this information, they will decide whether to approve your mortgage application. If they do, they will set the terms of the loan, including the interest rate and the length of the term.

Bradley to FCC: Move WOR now

RKO General evidently is now willing to operate WOR television Channel 9 from New Jersey instead of New York if its license for the station is renewed reports New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley. Sen. Bradley also said that means there is no longer any reason to delay transfer of Channel 9 to New Jersey.

The senator made his remarks in a written statement submitted to the Federal Communications Commission after he learned RKO had presented its "new position" to the regulatory agency in documents filed in late June and early this month.

Because the FCC has refused to renew RKO's license for Channel 9, and New Jersey has no commercial very high frequency television station of its own, the senator wants the FCC to relocate the station to his state as soon as possible. He and Sen. Harrison Williams of New Jersey formally requested such action in a petition to the FCC in May, 1980 and the FCC served notice last November it favored the change.

The commission decided to postpone a final order until RKO has exhausted its appeal of an FCC ruling in a broad case affecting the company's broadcast operations. The United States Court of Appeals in Washington D.C. is still considering that case.

But Sen. Bradley said today, "It now appears RKO itself no longer objects to relocation of Channel 9, whatever the final decision of the Court of Appeals may be."

He noted RKO informed the commission on June 19 if its license for the station is renewed, the company would accept any appropriate conditions imposed by the commission with respect to service to New Jersey.

Then, on July 6, he added, RKO submitted another document to the FCC stating the conditions could include "modifying WOR-TV's license to specify, as the city of license and the location of the main studio, a New Jersey community located within 15 miles of New York City."

After citing that language from the RKO documents, the senator told the FCC, "Given RKO's new position on relocation, there is now no reason for the commission either to condition relocation of Channel 9 on the result of the WOR television appeal, or the commission should decide here and now to relocate Channel 9 to New Jersey no matter what the ultimate judgment of the Court of Appeals."

Brewer softballers keep summer hot

Clark's Charles H. Brewer School playground continues to be a hot spot for summer fun. One hundred sixty-four youngsters have registered to date.

Brewer's softball teams, under the direction of Coach Tracy Hayden, enjoyed a successful week. The senior team is currently in a three-way tie for first place with Valley Road and Carl H. Kumpf School.

Brewer's floor hockey squad captured the championship by winning two crucial games against Kumpf and Valley Road.

In a defensive battle against Kumpf, Brewer jumped out to an early 4-1 lead, and held on to win, 5-1.

In the Valley Road game, Brewer led by only one goal as the teams entered the final period. A seven-goal outburst kept the victory, 16-9.

Twenty-seven youngsters sharpened their basketball skills by competing in Brewer's two foulshooting tournaments. The first contest saw Kevin Shackleton capture the senior title by sinking 12 of 20 foul shots.

Down DeSantis finished second with nine, and Chris Meehan placed third with seven. Mark Hayden clinched the junior title by sinking seven shots. Pat Slowey was second with six, and Lori Pereira was third with four.

The second tournament, a doubles event, saw Lynn Kosowicz and Karen Parlatoski capture the senior title by swishing 11 of 20 foul shots. Second place went to Paul Grystich and Todd Slinger with eight. Kevin Shackleton and Pat Grady were a close third with seven. The junior event was won by Bill Shackleton and Pat Slowey, who sank six. Scott Anger and Jerry McDade were second with three.

With the heatwave still in progress, youngsters at the Brewer School playground have sought shade and fun by playing indoor volleyball. Veronica Hnat, a standout on the high school volleyball team, has been kind enough to offer some tips on the basic skills.

"Watermelon Day" was a success as the children devoured over 50 pounds of watermelon.

Brewer's next two party days will be "Ice Pop Day" and "Ice Cream Day."

Youngsters should give educators who promote it will put more opportunities in their future.

TAKING CARE OF YOURSELF

"You're really taking your life in your hands."

Smoking is hazardous to your health—and the health of everyone around you. That's why Blue Cross and Blue Shield are offering a free Stop Smoking program to enrolled groups. Based on the American Cancer Society program, it's an effective method of helping cigarette smokers break the habit for good.

Which means drastically reducing their chances of developing lung disease, stroke, cancer of the lung, larynx, esophagus, mouth and bladder—not to mention emphysema and chronic bronchitis. And sharply increasing their chances for a longer, more productive life. In fact, after ten years, death rates of ex-smokers from all causes are almost the same as those for people who never smoked.

Let us put our Stop Smoking program to work at your place of business if you are enrolled with Blue Cross and Blue Shield. We'll "thank you for not smoking." And so will everyone else! For details, contact Anne Starham at (201) 456-2500. Or write her at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey, 55 Washington Street, Newark, N.J. 07102.
