School post draws protest on Board

A long running controversy about the expansion of the administrative staff in the Rahway public schools was brought to light again on Jan. 18 when a motion was made by Board of Education members to appoint James G. Savage, Jr. as an accountant in the business office.

One Board member, James Cadigan, said his opposition to the position went back three to four years, and he could see no need for it.

Mr. Cadigan was joined by Barry G. Henderson, who said the post was unnecessary, in voting against the appointment.

However, Board member, Victor Kurylak, said he supported giving help to the business office.

The Board did approve the appointment, however.

In other action, the Board:

-Re-appointed Joseph Downey as the custodian at Rahway High School effective on Jan. 18 to Wednesday, June 30, of this year, at an annual salary of $10,650, pro-rated.

-Approved the resignation of Mrs. Patricia Knight, a teacher at the high school, effective on Jan. 6 of this year.

-Authorized the retroactive resignation of Mrs. Patricia Knight, a teacher at the high school, as of Dec. 23 of last year.

Gave a 30-day notice of termination to a clerk in the business office with Tuesday, Feb. 16, to be the last working day.

Granted Mrs. Victoria Shockley, a teacher, a pregnancy leave starting on Monday, May 24, to be followed after the birth of her child by a child rearing leave for the 1982-1983 school year, without salary.

Appointed Miss Kathleen Aurenemma, an English teacher at the high school, retroactive to Jan. 12 at an annual, pro-rated salary of $13,625.

Named Mrs. Marsha Watson as the eighth grade class advisor at Rahway Junior High School for the 1981-1982 school year at the extra-services compensation of $1,000.

Hired Edward Hyman as the choral director for the 1981-1982 school year at the high school extra services compensation of $475 and junior high school extra services compensation of $244, pending approval of the county superintendent of schools.

LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE - Assemblyman Raymond J. Lesniak, left, who represents Rahway in the State Legislature, is congratulated on his appointment as the chairman of the Assembly Agriculture and Environment Committee by Assembly Speaker Alan J. Karcher, who is also the city's director of law.

Assemblyman Lesniak chairs agriculture unit

Because of his "broad legislation dealing with New Jersey's hazardous waste disposal problems," Assemblyman Raymond J. Lesniak, who represents Rahway, was appointed the chairman of the Assembly Agriculture and Environment Committee by Assembly Speaker Alan J. Karcher, who is Rahway's director of law.

The committee maintains oversight responsibilities over the state's Depts. of Environmental Protection and Agriculture, and reviews legislation regarding the environment, air and water pollution, hazardous material disposal, water supply, agriculture, open space preservation, public parks and recreation and other related issues.

As chairman, Assemblyman Lesniak will be responsible for monitoring the flow of legislation through his committee, and set the agenda for consideration of various bills.

"I expect an active agenda in dealing with the continuing problems of solid and hazardous waste disposal, sewage and water treatment, depletion of natural resources and other environmental threats to the air we breathe, and the water we drink and our rich farmland," stated the legislator, who was sworn in to his third term in the lower house.

The legislator first joined the committee in April, 1979, under special appointment by then Assembly Speaker Christopher Jackman to participate in an investigation concerning the suitability of existing sites for the storage of hazardous or chemical wastes in New Jersey.

The primary focus of the investigation was the storage of more than 60,000 drums of highly flammable and toxic chemical wastes along the waterfront adjacent to the city of Elizabeth, which was to become the scene of the infamous Chemical Control Corp. fire in April, 1980.

He became a full member of the committee in 1980. During his tenure in the Legislature, the lawmaker has sponsored a number of bills to clean up the state's hazardous waste sites.

These include the Spill Compensation Fund which taxes the petrochemical industry to raise revenues for cleanup operations; the $100 million Hazardous Waste Discharge Bond Act that was approved by the voters in November, and more recently the Hazardous Waste Health Care Task Force. He was the first in the U.S. to establish an epidemiological unit for the purpose of monitoring and evaluating the adverse health effects suffered by individuals exposed to toxic discharges.

Lesniak was also selected as a featured speaker at the National Conference of State Legislatures this past July in Atlanta, Georgia. He addressed the conference on New Jersey hazardous waste site problems and how it is financed in addition to discussing state and federal responsibilities under the Superfund program.

In addition to his legislative activities encompassing hazardous substances, Lesniak sponsored the emergency interconnections between reservoirs during the recent drought emergency in New Jersey. The measure appropriated $8 million from the Natural Resource Bond Issue.

As an environmentalist, Lesniak was the only member of the committee to vote against legislation in 1980 that would have weakened the Pinelands Preservation Act. The veteran legislator also led a much publicized canoe expedition through the Pinelands region in an effort to acquaint his colleagues in the legislature with the "beauty and delicacy of the ecological balance" of the area.

Parents attack Board for suspension plan

By Joan Gorzenik
Parents of Rahway school students confronted Board of Education members on Jan. 18 in efforts to convey their objection to the existing suspension policy.

Mr. Kenneth Secor, a parent as well as a member of the Rahway Special Education Parent School Assn., cited Rahway's "embarrassingly high" suspension rate as a reason for seeking changes in the two-year-old policy.

As a representative of the group, Mr. Secor presented a number of grievances obtained from a poll of area parents. He claimed the rate of suspensions within the school system was found to be four times as high as those in surrounding communities.

Mr. Secor particularly denounced the suspension of special-education students, although the dismissal of other students under "an unjust body of rules" was of major concern, he said.

As a result, the group may seek legal action against the Board for the suspension of special students.

Rahway Board members wholeheartedly defended the existing policy.

Board member, Louis G. Boch, said he has always pushed for adequate disciplinary measures in the school. He likened the school environment to the work world, saying those who cannot follow rules will not make it on the outside.

Another Board member, James Cadigan, reminded those present the policy has been in effect for two years, and had been approved by the Board.

The parent spokesman commended Linden's policy of in-school suspension.

However, Linden maintains a minimum of four teachers in their suspension program, according to Mr. Cadigan.

Rahway's in-school suspension was discontinued due to budgetary reasons.

"Of the people I have spoken to, most wish more discipline," interjected Board member, Barry D. Henderson.

"A small group of students should not be allowed to disrupt the education of the other students," he continued.

However, Mr. Henderson felt the present policy is in its "infancy stage." He was quick to point out the policy is reviewed each year, and would be looked at before then, if necessary.

The Superintendent of Schools, Frank Brunette, contended figures may be deceiving when reporting the school's suspension rates. He cited instances where only one student was suspended per year. He also made mention of current educational workshops as a means of "doing something" to involve parents and students alike.

Mr. Secor was most outraged at the fact Rahway suspends elementary school children. He said they were "just babies," while neighboring schools do not suspend at this stage.

According to his figures, 449 students were suspended from the high school last year for at least one day. He said 16 students alone were suspended this day.

"Who are we educating?" he asked.

Several parents said what they objected to most was their children were not in school. They said they were critical of the demerit system where students accumulate points for "minor infractions," eventually leading to suspension. One parent maintained his child was suspended in this manner for "forgetting his gym shorts."

Mr. John Resch, the parent of a child diagnosed by the district's child study team as having behavioral problems, was most distressed at the suspension of his son. He claimed his child was not getting an education as required by law.

The Board told parents the matter would be addressed, especially in regard to special education students.

Congress plan separates area

The area's two municipalities, Rahway and Clark, which have been represented by the same member of the House of Representatives for a number of years, will apparently be placed in two new and separate Congressional districts, if a bill approved by the State Legislature on Jan. 18 and signed by Gov. Brendan T. Byrne just before he left office the following day is upheld by the courts.

Because of a loss in population discovered in the 1980 census, New Jersey is now left with 14 districts instead of the previous 15.

Under a redistricting plan proposed by Assembly Speaker Alan Karcher, who is also the director of law in Rahway, Rahway would be placed in the new Sixth District, where the incumbent is Rep. Bernard J. Dwyer of Edison, a Democrat.

Like Assemblyman Karcher, the new district would include Linden, Rahway and Winfield in Union County and Carteret, East Brunswick, Edison, Helmetta, Highland Park, Metuchen, Milltown, New Brunswick, Perth Amboy, Piscataway, Sayreville, South Amboy, South Plainfield, South River, Spotswood and Woodbridge in Middlesex County.

The new Seventh District, where there is no incumbent, would include Clark, Cranford, Elizabeth, Fairwood, Garfield, Plainfield, Roselle, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains, Westfield, Freehold, Freehold Township, Marlboro, Millstone, Cranbury, Dunellen, Jamesburg, Middlesex, Monroe, North Brunswick, South Brunswick, Princeton and Princeton Township, along with portions of Somerset County.

Rahway and Clark are now in the 12th District, which is represented by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, a Republican.

Under the new proposal Rep. Rinaldo would be the incumbent in a new 12th District, which would include municipalities in Passaic and Somerset Counties along with Union, the home of Rep. Rinaldo, Berkeley Heights, Kenilworth, Mountainside, New Providence, Springfield and Summit.

Both Republican Gov. Thomas H. Kean, who took office on Jan. 19, and GOP members of the Legislature have said they are considering challenging the new alignment in court.

The election for representative will be held this year.

A. P. Pascale in 'Who's Who'
A Rahway student, Anthony P. Pascale, was one of 24 students at the University of San Diego School of Law named to the 1982 "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," a selection which recognizes him as being among the country's outstanding campus leaders.

AUTHOR'S HOMESTEAD - This house, sometimes described as Civil War Victorian architecture, is believed to have been built in Rahway in the 1870's. The original owner, Lydia E. Williams, sold the home, which is located at 196 Elm Ave., in the 1880's to William E. Wells, a New York insurance man. In 1901, the house was inherited by his daughter, Miss Carolyn Wells, who was to become a well-known Rahway author of juvenile books and mystery novels. It served for many years as the medical offices and home of Dr. Stuart Orton and his family. It is especially unusual because it contains Victorian-style marble fireplaces.

City groups memorialize Dr. Martin Luther King

The Second Annual Memorial Tribute to The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., sponsored by the National Council of Negro Women, whose president is Mary McLeod, was held at the Second Baptist Church in Rahway.

The Rev. James W. Ealey is the pastor of the church. Braving the freezing weather to hear the opening prayer by Elder Bragg, the pastor of the Holy Mountain Church of God in Christ in Rahway were 200 people. Elder Bragg was accompanied by his combined choirs.

Hymns of praise were sung by the Male Chorus of the Ebenezer African Methodist Episcopal Church of Rahway, the Progressive Baptist Youth Choir of Rahway, under the direction of Mrs. Shirley Parks, the past president and the current chaplain of Unit No. 499 of the American Legion Auxiliary of Rahway and the Male Chorus of the Second Baptist Church.

Dr. King's biography was given by The Rev. Rudolph P. Gibbs, Sr., the pastor of Ebenezer.

Two solos were sung by Mrs. Elvora Dabney and Mrs. Ida Caldwell, and the recitations were given by Mrs. Sarah Ross and Mrs.

Maggie Fair, all of the Second Baptist Church.

The Master of Ceremonies, The Rev. Ealey, recognized the distinguished guests, Councilman-at-Large, Walter McLeod, the former councilman-at-large, Tor Cedervall, the Fourth Ward Councilman, Harvey Williams, the president of the Rahway Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, John Robertson, Charlie Brame, the commander of Rahway Post No. 499 of the American Legion, and Mrs. Edith Perkins, the president of Unit No. 499's Ladies Auxiliary.

Creating full employment should be society's goal

By D. DiFrancesco

It is the responsibility of society to create a full employment environment for all its citizens. This is not a new idea, but it is one that has been largely forgotten in our modern, materialistic society. The goal of full employment is not just to provide jobs, but to provide a meaningful and dignified life for every individual.

The current economic situation in the United States is a stark reminder of the consequences of a society that has lost sight of this goal. Unemployment is at an all-time high, and the lives of millions of people are being ruined. The government has a responsibility to create a policy that ensures full employment for all its citizens.

One of the most important steps in creating full employment is to invest in education and training. This will ensure that our workforce is equipped with the skills and knowledge needed to succeed in a competitive economy. It will also help to reduce the unemployment rate by creating new job opportunities.

Another key element is to support small businesses and entrepreneurs. These are the backbone of our economy and are often the most innovative and dynamic. By providing them with the resources and support they need, we can create a more vibrant and growing economy.

Finally, we must ensure that our social safety net is strong enough to support those who are unable to find work. This includes programs like unemployment insurance, food stamps, and housing assistance. These programs are essential for maintaining the dignity and well-being of our citizens during difficult times.

Creating full employment is not just a goal, it is a moral imperative. It is the responsibility of our government and our society to ensure that every individual has the opportunity to work, to learn, and to live a meaningful life. This is the only way to build a truly just and prosperous society.

The program is scheduled to meet one night a week for two hours for eight weeks from 7 to 9 p.m.

Ex-smokers, who as volunteers are trained by the Union County Unit of the society, guide participants through the eight week sessions, and under the guidance of the society, employ materials and methods designed to ease the smoker's attempt to kick the habit.

The initial cost of the program is $25 payable to the American Cancer Society. However, participants are eligible for a $20 refund if they attend at least six of the eight sessions.

Registration is necessary since the group is limited to 20 people.

Those interested in signing up for the "Helping Smokers Quit" program or who need additional information, should telephone the Rahway Adult School at 382-1361.

Chamber sparks pride in Rahway: Eggers

In a few short years of its existence the Rahway Chamber of Commerce has helped to spark a new pride in our downtown community, with the planting of trees at the curb, a paint-up, fix-up campaign, and its help in setting the Victorian home which is now reflected in the brick-paved, gas-lit, tree-lined downtown area.

The chamber's sponsorship of the Fourth of July Picnic and Holiday at Home, and its third year of conducting a downtown Christmas carol sing have added to the spirit of the community.

The recent conversion of the local movie theater to a pornographic movie house quickly girded the chamber members, City Fathers and Council of Churches into action, and at least for the moment, the theater is closed.

Little happens without some people getting out of their own way. We're glad we have a Chamber of Commerce where citizens and businessmen band together to show pride in and to improve our city.

By the time this is published you will start to see the brand new Rahway Chamber of Commerce membership book. Those who will display it include business, industry, professional citizens and such corporate citizens as the Rahway Hospital, the First Aid Squad, the Rahway Lions Club, the Young Men's Christian Assn. and the Rahway Education Assn. Show your care—display the book.

Last, we forget, the Luminaria sale, which was the most recent project of the chamber, was most successful. Over 4,000 lanterns were sold and the proceeds from the sale and a breakfast exhibition did many areas of our city.

The profits will be placed back into community projects.

Firemen: Cop law may cause fire hazard

We, the members of the Rahway Local No. 33 of the Firefighters Local Union, are concerned over the implementation of the law which allows a police officer to be a member of a fire company. This law is a violation of the health and safety of the community, brought about by the fact that a police officer is not a trained fireman. Initial training was supposed to put a control on the level of safety, but in fact, has resulted in serious safety hazards. The law is a public safety hazard, specifically, fire protection.

All Rahway fire companies have a minimum of three pumpers and an engine. The law allows a police officer to be a member of a fire company. This law is a violation of the health and safety of the community, brought about by the fact that a police officer is not a trained fireman. Initial training was supposed to put a control on the level of safety, but in fact, has resulted in serious safety hazards. The law is a public safety hazard, specifically, fire protection.

Consumer News

Consumer director outlines his legacy

This is my final column as the director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs. I am leaving my position at the end of January after serving in it for four and a half years.

I am leaving a well-trained and dedicated group of people who will continue to work hard for the consumers of this state.

I want to take this opportunity to share with you some of the accomplishments of which I am most proud so you will understand why you, as a New Jersey consumer, are considered by many to be the best protected consumer in the country.

Our Consumer Affairs Local Assistance System is known nationwide as the finest network of consumer affairs offices in the country.

Twenty of our 21 counties and 56 municipalities have local consumer affairs offices. This year alone, our state and local offices handled over 36,000 complaints and returned over six and a half million dollars to consumers.

Our Weights and Measures offices were responsible for 6,184 prosecutions and collecting over $373,000 in penalties. Seasonal task forces continued to monitor compliance with state law in the areas of heating oil, gasoline, lumber, and supermarkets.

The Bureau of Securities has completed major investigations of securities fraud and has obtained permanent injunctions against companies operating in the state which could have cost New Jersey millions of dollars in lost economic times, securities scams abound, and the state bureau has an excellent record of prosecutions.

Our Charities Registration and Investigation Section has conducted a major crackdown on police and firefighter "journals" that defraud the public by collecting money which allegedly is for police and firefighter charities but really goes into the pockets of the journal owners. We are successfully prosecuting these journals, and we are well on our way to ridding the entire state of them.

Since 1978, we have adopted some important new regulations. These are full disclosure regulations, not economic regulations, so they provide protection to the public and the honest retailer against unscrupulous business people and unfair competition without adding burdensome costs to doing business.

Our Consumer Education programs have been successful because people like the editor of your newspaper have greatly assisted us in getting important information out to you.

By running my column and by printing our advisory letters, you are helping to make you the best informed, and best protected, consumers in the country.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

by Congressman Matt Rinaldo

12th District, New Jersey

All should battle epidemic of crime

Every reliable statistic confirms Americans have good reason to be fearful of crime. One out of three households in the United States was touched by crime last year. Some experts claim over a five-year period virtually every household in the country will be victimized.

In a more personal way, an American male born today is more likely to be murdered than an American soldier in World War II was to die in combat.

While the statistics are not yet available for 1981, the murder rate is expected to surpass the 1980 record of 23,000, an increase of more than 15% since 1960.

Since 1963, crimes by children have been rising faster than the juvenile population. About half the crimes involve theft, breaking and entry and vandalism. But serious, violent crimes are going up at a startling rate. Juvenile authorities warn there is a new breed of juvenile who kills with no remorse and no sense of feeling for the other person.

The need for rethinking some of the well-intentioned laws that distinguish juvenile offenders from adult criminals is indicated by the escalating figures of murder, rape, and armed robberies committed by teenagers. It is dangerously unrealistic to forbid the criminal justice system from keeping records on juvenile offenders.

Neither does it make sense to deprive the courts of the option to separate from society juvenile criminals until they can be safely released.

The criminal justice system is so overwhelmed by the sheer volume of crime it has almost lost the capacity to protect the public. While the role of the federal government focuses on national and international aspects of enforcing the drug laws, fighting organized crime and enforcing other federal criminal statutes, it also can provide training, information and technical services to local police.

While the federal government cannot constitutionally exercise police powers on the local level, it can exert a major influence in directing the nation's resources and enforcing the drug laws, fighting organized crime and enforcing other federal criminal statutes, it also can provide training, information and technical services to local police.

Fulcomer reports on recycling study

A newly-appointed City Council Recycling Committee has begun its study of the feasibility of a recycling program for the city. The purposes of the program, if implemented, would be to establish a more environmentally sound garbage-collection system for Rahway, and to save the taxpayers thousands of dollars in increased garbage-collection costs, reports the Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer, the chairman of the committee.

Other committee members include Councilman-at-Large Vincent Addona, First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine, and Councilman-at-Large Walter Medwood.

As presently envisioned, according to Councilman Fulcomer, the first year of a possible recycling program in Rahway would mandate curbside separation of all paper products from curbside garbage collection.

During the second year, a recycling collection center established in the city for glass products and other materials would be set up.

Other committee members include Councilman-at-Large Vincent Addona, First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine, and Councilman-at-Large Walter Medwood.

Wojkowski saves day for Rahway

By Ray Hoagland Stan Wojkowski hit a foul shot with nine seconds left in the game to give the Rahway Indians a 61-60 win over the Kearny Kardinals at the Indians' home court on Jan. 19. The game was tied at 60-60 when Bill Gallagher of the Kardinals fouled Wojkowski, who calmly strode to the line and hit the winning throw with nine seconds left in the game. For Rahway Wojkowski scored 15 points, but teammate Bryan Caldwell led all scorers with 19 points and six assists, while Greg McLeod had eight points and 15 rebounds. Tom Burke had five and Royal Green, and Nate goals to 20 for the Kardinals, while the losers had the edge from the line 20-13. Rahway moved in front 16-12, then held onto a 34-32 lead at the half-way mark. Then Kearny took a 45-40 lead into the final period, where Coach Jim Ladley's team outsourced its rival 21-15. Rahway grapplers surprise to coach

By Ray Hoagland Rahway's high school wrestlers, winning eight of the 12 matches, rolled to a 39-20 win over the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Bulldogs of Springfield. "With any luck we would be 6-0," Lorenzen said. "Against Elizabeth in a 28-24 loss, Leroy Mack, at 107 pounds, and Peter Ramos, at 121, were the winners. Peter Ramos won over Brett Walsh 10-3. Eli Miller, at 157, won by a pin. Tracy Miller, in the 170-pound class, won by decision, and heavyweight Manny Yarborough, won by forfeit. Rahway is now 5-3, while the Bulldogs are 2-4. Clark had the edge from the line 17-3. He was pinned by Al Nicareta of Bridgewater. Counting the loss, Yarborough has wrestled since the ninth grade. Another surprise has been senior, Leroy Mack, who is 9-1 at 121 pounds. "Leroy had trouble losing weight last year, got disgusted and quit the team," Coach Lorenzen explained. "But this year he has an excellent attitude. The way he works in practice, and everything seems to have fallen in place. His 6-4 record shows he is beginning to understand the mental things as well as the physical thing." The leaders of the Indians, however, are Pete Ramos at 107, Eli Miller at 157 and his brother, Tracy Miller at 187—the nucleus of the team for the last three seasons. Ramos has a 9-0 record that includes five pins. Only a junior, he holds a 4-5-7 career mark, and is the defending district champ at 107. "The good thing about Peic is he is willing to experiment on his own," the coach explained. "He'll get into a certain position than think about what he has to do. He looks around and combines moves. He works on situations as well as chain wrestling, which makes him a pretty smart kid on the mat," he added. Seniors, Eli and Tracy Miller, were voted co-captains by their teammates. Eli is 100 with a team high of eight pins. The defending district champ at 147, he holds a 4-1-1 career mark. "The guy is perpetual motion," Lorenzen said. "Eli moves so fast he is counter-acting an opponent's move before it really sinks in. Eli has set goals this year, and is working toward them. He has the strength, speed and proper mental attitude to attain them." Johnson had 12 flowers in addition, John Miller had nine assists. Darrell Carroll scored nine of his 15 points during the third period. Henry Trani had 18 points and Craig Esser 10. The Rams had the edge from the line 26-20 and 5-4 in rebounding, and Nate Double first place winners for Rahway were Darlene Chapman, who had 12 markers, led with six pointers, and Nancy Vill, who had 10. Coach May's team moved to a 3-1 lead in the first half, and were never threatened. Rosalyn Owens led the Indians with 14 points and 14 rebounds. The Comets were topped by Vanessa Mosley with 10 points and Kelly Jonson with 14 rebounds. Hillsdale is now 3-11.

Indian wrestlers pin Tigers to mat

By Ray Hoagland The strong Rahway Indians Wrestling Team won its sixth match in eight starts, a 4-1 victory over the Linden Tigers at Linden on Jan. 23. Four members of the team remained undefeated this season, when at 107 pounds, Peter Ramos scored a pin over Ron Rodriguez in four moves, and 46 seconds for his 10th straight win and 46th win in his high school career. Eli Miller won his 11th straight this winter, and had his 45th career victory. He won a decision over the Tigers' Max Schaefer 9-3. RAHWAY YMCA

This is the week to celebrate with us

Jan. 24 to 30 is National YMCA Week. It seems an appropriate time to step back and review some of our history.

The YMCA began in London in 1844. It was founded by a young drapery clerk named George Williams and 11 other young men who, like him, were appalled at the corrupt and immoral life which prevailed in 19th century London. The idea took hold in Boston in 1851, and rapidly began to spread in this country.

From its formative years, the United States YMCA has pioneered across a wide front, and developed educational programs serving youth, such as Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, to get started.

The YMCA's James Naismith in 1891, invented basketball, and in 1895 a "Y" physical director, William Morgan, invented volleyball.

The YMCA led the way in disaster-relief efforts, organized community and public recreation, developing the concept of man's unity of body, mind and spirit, and reinforced it with a nation-wide health-education and physical-fitness emphasis. Today it is the nation's leader in such activities.

Youth camping was first started by the YMCA in 1844. Today U.S. YMCA's operate over 600 resident camps and 800 summer day camps, serving over 600,000 people of all ages each year. Pack-and-travel camping programs are increasing.

In addition to the above-mentioned activities, YMCA's provide a wide range of cultural activities, informal education classes, gymnastics, body building, sports education and competition and group club activities for grade school, junior high school and high school age youth.

It involves total family groups in steadily increasing numbers, and although some local YMCA's provide services largely for teenagers, most have as members persons of all ages. Many, in addition, provide special-skills instruction for infants.

In the 1920's and 1960's all new YMCA's were organized as family-serving YMCA's, as the movement gave recognition to the needs of American families in their attempts to cope with the increasingly diverse forces which society thrusts upon them.

The YMCA's leadership in aquatics is well known, since it provides more swimming instruction than any other organization. Each spring special learn-to-swim campaigns are conducted across the country. Over a half million persons complete swimming and life-saving courses each year.

The YMCA is the recognized leader in development of standards for scuba diving and other aquatic activities. Beginning in the 1960's, YMCA's began providing stepped-up guidance and education for youth and adults in drug abuse, physical conditioning and personal health and fitness.

In most communities the YMCA is the recognized authority in the fields of recreation, aquatics, health and physical fitness.

The game was tied at 60-60 when Bill Gallagher of the Kardinals fouled Wojkowski, who calmly strode to the line and hit the winning throw with nine seconds left in the game. For Rahway Wojkowski scored 15 points, but teammate Bryan Caldwell led all scorers with 19 points and six assists, while Greg McLeod had eight points and 15 rebounds. Tom Burke had five and Royal Green, and Nate
