Larger hospital zone rejected by Council

By R. R. Faszczewski
A proposal to expand the hospital zone around the Rahway Hospital to include the entire city block bounded by Madison and Jefferson Aves., Stone St. and Trussler Pl. was defeated on Aug. 9 by the City Council before its introduction and first reading.

Residents on the south side of Trussler Pl., where the hospital owns some property, and may be planning off-street parking, has twice appeared before the Governing Body to oppose the move.

Trussler Pl. residential He cited the increased traffic which would be created by the hospital zone as being detrimental to the area and children playing on the street.

Mr. Kochowski urged the councilmen to let the residents speak, and not take away their basic rights.

However, in a statement he read at the beginning of the meeting, John Yoder, the president of the hospital's Board of Directors, said he didn't want the hospital zone issue to become a political one.

Mr. Yoder added the hospital had referred its request first to the Planning Board then to the City Council, and residents had been given a chance to be heard.

He also said major improvements to the hospital were anticipated, and recognizing the hospital zone as being the entire city block would make for more orderly expansion planning.

Councilwoman-at-Large Irene Pinaldi replied, however, she feared the hospital was trying to acquire land only for the sake of acquiring it.

She added the hospital's parking plans would create small parking lots separated by residences with no definite plan beyond that, and didn't want to give the hospital "Carte Blanche" as it liked in the area.

Mr. Yoder replied the hospital was only asking a zoning change and any change within the zone would have to be okayed by the city bodies. He said the hospital was not seeking to acquire property, but only to use that property it already had for the zoned purpose already existing.

When asked by the Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer whether the hospital anticipated purchasing property owned by the Rahway Young Men's Christian Assn. in the hospital area, for a parking garage, the hospital official replied with the construction of some of the anticipated ancillary facilities to the hospital building itself it anticipated parking problems, and was looking at many alternatives.

Rahway Hospital celebrates 65th this week

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following proclamation was issued by Rahway Mayor Daniel L. Martin in recognition of the 65th anniversary of Rahway Hospital this month.

WHEREAS, August 17th, 1982 marked the 65th anniversary of the incorporation of Rahway Hospital; and
WHEREAS, Rahway Hospital has faithfully sought to be an outstanding community hospital committed to delivering comprehensive health care services, according to its by-laws; and

WHEREAS, Rahway Hospital is committed to educating the public on preventing illness and maintaining healthy life styles; and
WHEREAS, Rahway Hospital is dedicated to meeting the future needs of the men, women and children it serves;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Daniel L. Martin, Mayor of City of Rahway, do hereby proclaim that Tuesday, Aug. 17, 1982, shall be RAHWAY HOSPITAL DAY and urge the citizens of Rahway to take cognizance of this event.

REACHING A MILESTONE - This month Rahway Hospital is celebrating 65 years of service to the community. Governor cites Merck for Phase III plan

Gov. Thomas H. Kean on Aug. 6 signed a proclamation commending Merck and Co., Inc., of Rahway, for its commitment to equal employment opportunity and affirmative action.

The document cites Merck for voluntary efforts to provide affirmative action training and awareness programs to all 16,000 of its employees in the United States, including 4,400 at the company's New Jersey headquarters in Rahway.

It was presented to John J. Horan, the chairman and chief executive officer, and B. Lawrence Branch, the director of equal employment affairs of the $3 billion-a-year health products firm. The Merck program, called Phase III, is characterized in the proclamation as an appropriate effort "to further improve the work place climate in our state."

Phase III follows two previous Merck affirmative action communications programs-Phase I, training for executives and managers, begun in 1977, and Phase II, training for supervisors, shop stewards and union officials, begun in 1979. Phase III consists of full-day forums for small groups of 10 to 15 persons, and is said to be the first such program to include the entire workforce of a major corporation.

The Merck affirmative action program does demonstrate the company's "unyielding commitment to the advancement of women, minorities, the handicapped and all working people," Gov. Kean proclaimed in the document. "Phase III," said Mr.

Horan, "promotes affirmative action through an explanation of our company's policies and goals and through an honest airing of employee viewpoints. It reflects our total commitment to equal opportunity and to the creation of an improved work environment for all Merck people."

Rahway wins go-go case; controls sought

Rahway has won on appeal a legal case regarding go-go dancing at a local tavern, reports Mayor Daniel L. Martin. The city had previously been victorious on the issue in the lower courts.

The case involved Richard's Lounge and Restaurant on Grand Ave. in the city. When the establishment introduced go-go dancing as a form of entertainment, the city issued an order for it to cease as an impermissible expansion of a nonconforming use in actual violation of the community's zoning regulations. The owners then filed suit against the city to be permitted to continue the dancing. On July 29, 1981, Judge Milton Fetter of Superior Court issued a verdict upholding the city's position. Mayor Martin continued.

The owners then filed an appeal before the State Appellate Court. Appellate Judges Theodore I. Botter and David D. Furman in a decision dated May 6, 1982, and recently released, once again upheld the city's position by affirming Judge Fetter's decision.

Mayor Martin commented, "Although the zoning controls now we face the very real danger these types of uses will pop up elsewhere in the community, to the detriment of other businesses and our citizens in general, particularly our youth. We do not want to jeopardize the image and pride of the city. By zoning controls," Mayor Martin said, "we prevent 'first defining what

Mrs. Schroeck seeks 'real' taxpayers' voice

It is unfortunate the more things change, the more they stay the same. The taxpayers are still on the outside looking in, and all we get are promises, promises, promises.

We were supposed to have the peoples' right to petition initiative and referendum out of committee two months after inauguration. Months later it is now too late to get it on the 1982 ballot.

I see town meetings on television with the governor of our state fielding questions from every representative group in the state except one. The taxpayers.

On July 1 we were made aware of a bill in the hopper proposed by Sen. Matthew Feldman to create a tax policy study commission to review the return of taxes. Cost—$75,000. There would be 25 members on this commission representing various budget experts, tax assessors and business and industry.

One other would be, and take notice of this one, from the New Jersey Taxpayers Assn. Now we all know the average tax-paying citizen, but is comprised of lobbyists for all of New Jersey's big business and industry automotive, oil and water companies as examples. Once again you will find the "taxpayer" among the missing.

Lastly, let me mention one more commission which has been formed to study and review the present 5% "CAP" law. I must inject here to say they certainly are consistent. Again the New Jersey Taxpayers Assn. is supposed to be representing the taxpayer. Who, may I ask is going to represent the real payers of the tab?

The "taxpayers" do have a competent, very credible state-wide taxpayers' group, which would be an asset to this state were it given the opportunity to represent us. I speak of the United Taxpayers of New Jersey, whose state chairman is Samuel Perelli of Cedar Grove.

I think its about time when there are "commissions," "advisory boards," "studios" or any other group appointed for a particular task it be made a matter of ethical practice to include representatives of the average tax-paying citizen.

I sure hope our legislators try it—it seems as though our economy hasn't done too well without it. Perhaps, it may be the missing ingredient.

Mrs. Fulcomer refuses residency charges

One of the odious, cruel and untrue statements Mayor Daniel L. Martin has been making a campaign issue also has been repeated in a newspaper of national stature to be attacked for changes in its print in Rahway in the early 1970s.

Attached to this letter are in the words of The Rahway News-Record a copy of the thing title to our former home at 1841 Raleigh Pl., Rahway dated Oct. 21, 1969. Even if the reader might think what on earth is she bothering with this for, my reply is simple when it is possible to so easily refuse to report charge with documentation, the public be notified. The city can sue, but such statements would be so easily refuted and are not only untrue, but also some of the things I have done to be at my best property.

Another interesting attack is a columnist at Large. Aids six charge mayor candidate, James J. Fulcomer, can't see he has been named in Rahway. Jim's mouth is barred over in Hazelwood Cemetery, certainly could have attested to that. The poor woman would have probably felt guilty if she had known that would someone be used against her son in a political campaign.

Or maybe it was her obstetrician's fault! Really, we can't take that away from the mayor, and we don't want to. We just want to take away his job as mayor, for a better Rahway.

Yes, this campaign is really "heating up," but along with our income tax returns and closing statements, I'll keep the marriage and birth certificates handy, just in case the going gets tough.

The deadline for the Thursday, Sept. 9, issues of The Rahway News-Record and the Clark Patriot will be on Wednesday, Sept. 1, at 5 p.m.

The reason for this is the office of the newspapers will be closed for Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 6.

As a time when the Social Security System faces severe financing problems, these older workers are actually contributing money back to our federal, state and local system. In this regard it has proven its worth many times over. It has kept older workers as tax-paying citizens, rather than forcing them into dependency.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

12th District, New Jersey

Nation needs help of senior workers

The House has approved legislation appropriating $210.6 million to continue funding for the Senior Community Service Employment Program to Thursday, June 30, 1983.

This program provides part-time jobs to people over 55, who are poor and unemployed, and gives them a self-sufficient and dignified existence. Presently more than 44,000 seniors, including 1,680 in New Jersey, are working as a result of this program.

They work in libraries, day care centers, schools, hospitals and senior nutrition centers and in homes of frail elderly persons who might otherwise be forced into an institution. They work with the mentally retarded. They deliver meals to the homebound. In short, they provide varied community services, usually to those in great need, for low pay.

As the ranking Republican on the Select Committee on Aging, I strongly support the senior jobs program, and have urged the President to endorse the supplemental appropriations bill, now before the Senate, providing the funds necessary for its continuation. Both the House and Senate overwhelmingly passed resolutions expressing support for the program, and asking it not be weakened or eliminated. This followed reports the administration wanted to see it dismantled.

The jobs program has given 54,000 low-income senior citizens across the nation useful employment to help supplement their incomes, and countless com-

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a copy of a letter written to the Office of the Mayor and the members of the City Council of Rahway by Fred Cheverest of 50 John Pl., Rahway.

So often citizens speak of Municipal employees to complain about one thing or another. I feel if I have the right to complain I have the obligation to compliment.

On Aug. 4, 1982, I telephoned the City Yard to request the shade tree, located in front of my home, be trimmed. My telephone call was answered by a person with a pleasant, professional voice, and I was told my name would be placed on the list, and the tree crew would be there as soon as possible.

Much to my surprise, on the morning of Aug. 5, 1982, I heard the trucks pull up in front of my home. The three men had the vehicles set up, and were hard at work in less than five minutes. They went about their work as professionals, and when the work was complete, only minute traces of their labors were left. When I went out to speak to these men about what they were doing they answered my questions clearly and concisely, explaining why one branch was cut and another left alone.

I feel these men are a credit to the City and to themselves. I, as a citizen and a taxpayer, wish to commend these men for, in my estimation, a job well done.

POLITICAL COWARDICE

By ADAM LEVIN

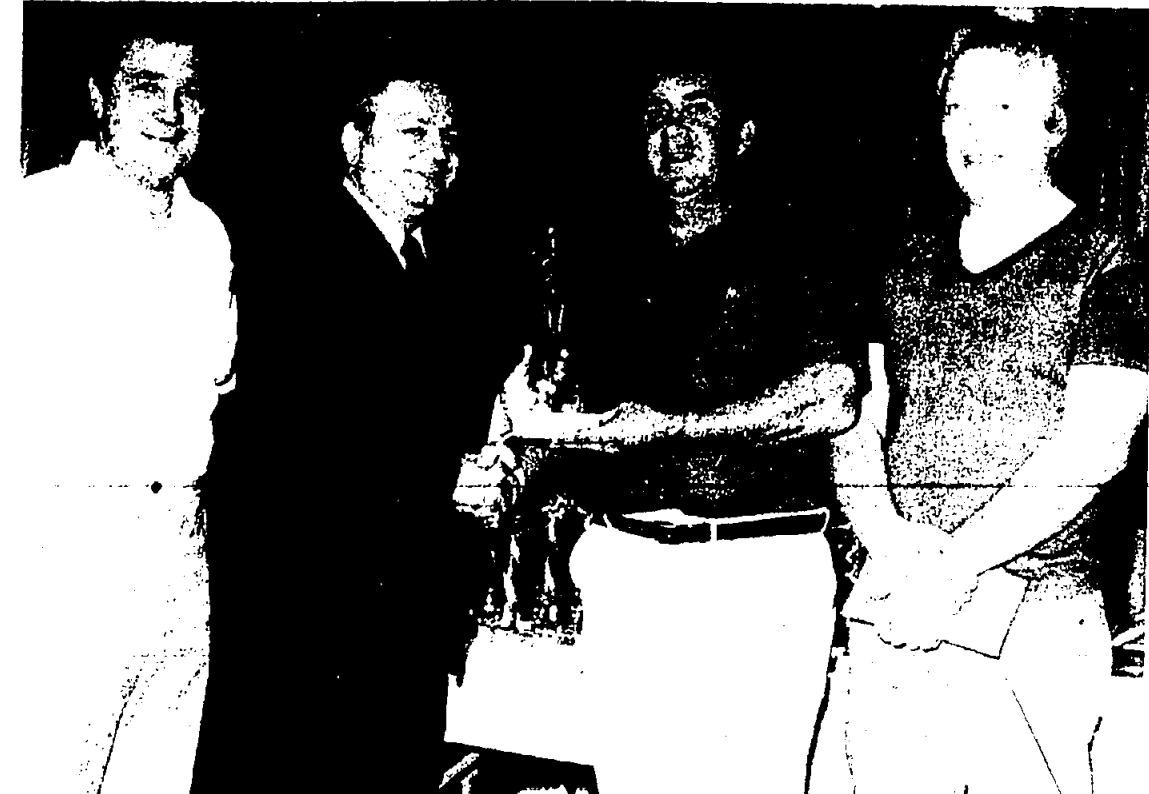

June 10th was an embarrassing day for the people of our congressional district. Congressman Matthew Rinaldo's indecisiveness brought him national attention. In his continuing tradition of non-commitment with which he tries to be all things to all people, Rinaldo has taken no stand on the most important issue Congress has to deal with this year: the budget proposal.

Here's what happened: After months of battling and negotiating, the time came for Congress to make a decision on a budget for next year. Numerous budget proposals had been defeated in the past few months, and the decision came down to a clear-cut choice between two budgets. Congressman Rinaldo voted "no" on both, leading the national Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee to charge him with political cowardice and to call him "spineless."

Rinaldo voted against the Democratic Jones budget amendment which provided funding for such basic benefit programs as Medicaid, Medicare, guaranteed student loans, child nutrition, food stamps, and Aid to Families with Dependent Children. He also voted against the Republican supported Latta budget amendment which provided funding for those same programs. After refusing to choose between the only two games in town, Rinaldo then voted against passage of the final budget resolution. If Rinaldo truly was not supportive of either budget proposal, he could have offered an alternative. Simply voting "no" three times served no useful purpose.

Representative Tony Coelho of California criticized Rinaldo's and the eleven other Republicans who refused to vote for either budget. He said, "Rinaldo and his Republican colleagues were given a choice to take a stand against further drastic cuts that will hurt their districts, and they sat on their hands. If those trustees had put political principle and the public interest above their own political interest, they would have voted in favor of the Jones budget, and it would have passed."

HIGHLIGHTS OF RAHWAY HOSPITAL'S 65 YEARS

Rahway Hospital as it looked in the 1950's.

1915 - Eleven local physicians pool resources for a general hospital fund, purchase a piece of property at 81 Jacques Ave., Rahway, the corner of Hazwood Ave., and buy 12 beds, one operating table, one sterilizer and one gross of sheets and pillowcases. The first health-care institution in Rahway opened its doors on July 1, 1917.

1917 - By now the hospital had gained an excellent reputation, but it was running in the red. The founding physicians were advised to incorporate, and to try to solicit funds from the community to wipe out all indebtedness. The papers of incorporation were signed on Aug. 17, and a Board of Governors took over administration of the hospital.

1918 - The Ladies Auxiliary of Rahway Hospital was established.

1920 - Until this year, the hospital's financial condition had been "critical" and there were times when it was debated whether or not to close its doors. An ambulance was purchased in 1919, and as it began to show a profit, so did the hospital. By April, 1920, the hospital had $500 in its treasury, and all the bills had been paid.

1925 - With the old building bursting at the seams, the Board decided to pursue the issue of building a new facility, and plunged into a fund-raising effort for that purpose.

1927 - During 10 days in June a campaign to build a memorial hospital was launched. On June 3 a kick-off dinner was held at the Young Men's Christian Assn., and more than 500 men and women showed up to volunteer their services. Fred C. Squier donated 7.65 acres of the finest land in Rahway for the new building, and also donated $53,000. In 10 days the building fund reached its goal of $500,000, and even surpassed it by $6,000.

1928 - On July 9, the ground-breaking ceremony took place and five months later on Nov. 5, the cornerstone was laid.

1929 - The new building formally opened on Oct. 26, 1929. The A-wing was constructed. The construction brought about the renovation of the labor-and-delivery suite. The entrance to the hospital was moved from Jefferson Ave. to Stone St. Expanded patient rooms, a new operating suite, expanded laboratory facilities, examination rooms, cardiopulmonary function room and central supply and linen rooms all benefited from this construction.

Overcrowded conditions in 1969 at Rahway Hospital led to further expansion.

1952 - The D-wing was constructed.

1954 - The hospital gained accredited status, and has continued to do so ever since. Accreditation guarantees the standards set up by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals are met in every area of the hospital. When an institution passes inspection, it becomes accredited for two years, and is subject to further inspection at any time during that period.

1957 - The A-wing was constructed. The construction brought about the renovation of the labor-and-delivery suite. The entrance to the hospital was moved from Jefferson Ave. to Stone St. Expanded patient rooms, a new operating suite, expanded laboratory facilities, examination rooms, cardiopulmonary function room and central supply and linen rooms all benefited from this construction.

1963 - Work began on a three-story wing to eliminate overcrowding and bed shortages. The hospital was caring for 175 to 190 patients in a building with basic accommodations for 150. Beds were placed in corridors, and solarium and patient's were converted to patient rooms.

1965 - In August the hospital received a bomb threat, and all patients were evacuated by more than 22 local first aid squads.

1966 - John L. Yoder became the administrator of the hospital.

1969 - Pre-admission testing was instituted, resulting in shorter hospital stays and smaller hospital bills for patients. The Coronary Care Unit opened.

1961 - George A. Van Gemert became the administrator of the hospital upon the retirement of Ivy Livingston Moshier. The in-service volunteer department was formed.

1963 - Work began on a three-story wing to eliminate overcrowding and bed shortages. The hospital was caring for 175 to 190 patients in a building with basic accommodations for 150. Beds were placed in corridors, and solarium and patient's were converted to patient rooms.

1965 - In August the hospital received a bomb threat, and all patients were evacuated by more than 22 local first aid squads.

1966 - John L. Yoder became the administrator of the hospital.

1969 - Pre-admission testing was instituted, resulting in shorter hospital stays and smaller hospital bills for patients. The Coronary Care Unit opened.

1971 - Ground-breaking ceremonies took place for another addition to the hospital.

1973 - Dedication ceremonies for the new wing took place on May 12. The hospital shop was named the "Rose Tree" by the Auxiliary members, and the First Annual Humanitarian Awards were presented.

The hospital adopted the "Patient's Bill of Rights" in November of this year. Rose Hall, the hospital's skilled-nursing facility, opened its doors to provide continuing care for the individual who is over the acute phase of an illness, but still needs skilled medical care and services.

1974 - The Psychiatric Emergency Service and its 24-hour hot-line were established under a grant from the State Community Mental Health Services Act. Major equipment purchased included the telemetry unit, which monitors the heartbeats of ambulatory coronary patients as they gradually resume activities. Children's open house programs were introduced to reduce the fears the children often have of being in the hospital. The Sibling Visitation Program was established on the maternity floor. The Auxiliary opened the snack bar.

1975 - A new room for emergency dental care was opened. The Board of Governors created the Patient-Care Committee. In the emergency-center area, a Security Control Center was established to provide visitor control, information, and lost-and-found service. The medical staff appointed a director of medical education, Dr. Edmon B. Lee, and the Anesthesia Dept. started providing 24-hour in-house coverage.

1976 - Ultrasound equipment was added to the Diagnostic Dept.

1978 - A Cost-Containment Committee was set up to explore ways to hold down health costs. New services for expectant parents included a birthing room and a celebratory dinner. The Education Division was formed to coordinate the activities of community health, continuing medical patients, in-service and audio-visual education. Major renovations took place in the snack bar, the Medical Intensive Care Unit and the Coronary Care Unit.

1979 - The Surgical Intensive Care Unit was opened. New services for expectant parents included a birthing room and a celebratory dinner. The Education Division was formed to coordinate the activities of community health, continuing medical patients, in-service and audio-visual education. Major renovations took place in the snack bar, the Medical Intensive Care Unit and the Coronary Care Unit.

1980 - A new system of billing, Diagnosis Related Groups (DRG), was imposed by the state of New Jersey. The Hospice Program was formalized under a grant from the Union County Office on Aging. Specialty nurses were appointed for endoscopy, radiology and ostomy.

1981 - Three years of intensive planning by the hospital family, with the aid of consumers and consultants, were rewarded when the Certificate of Need for the proposed renovation/modernization program was approved. A same-day surgery unit was opened on the third floor in order to save patients' time and money. A nursing extern program was established to give seniors in nursing school a taste of what working in a hospital is like. By year's end, a memo of understanding had been signed with the Alliance for Health Care, a consortium consisting of Mulhensberg Hospital, John F. Kennedy Medical Center, and the Raritan Bay Health Services Corp., to pool resources to increase the cost effectiveness of consortium members.

City cheerleaders win national title

The Rahway High School Varsity Cheerleaders were awarded the first-place team trophy at the United States Cheerleader's Assn. Camps All-American session held at Rutgers University in New Brunswick.

Diane Isler, the team's captain, was selected as the most outstanding cheerleader at the session, and was awarded the first-place individual trophy.

The squad, by winning the United States Cheerleader's Assn. National Award is now eligible to compete in the Grand National Championship to be held in Lansing, Mich. These championships are the largest held anywhere in the world for cheerleading teams. Some 5,000 participants will compete at the Civic Center in Lansing. The highest bonus in the field of cheerleading will be awarded at this competition.

The squad is coached by Mrs. Jacquelyn Torricchio. In addition to the competitions, the cheerleaders spent four days learning new cheers, pom-pom routines, stunts and pyramids and tumbling skills, and at tending sessions for squad evaluation and leadership.

The coach, if successful, will be the end result of a Five Year Recovery Action Program which included a study and survey of recreational needs in the county. That study resulted in an 18-month grant to implement the program.

The National Park Service, one of the United States Dept. of the Interior, has supplied $21,000 to be matched equally by the county to review current programs, analyze needs and organize the council.

Council to co-ordinate county parks events

The Dept. of Parks and Recreation will act as the co-ordinator for the grant, and as part of the plan, a single co-ordinator to implement these goals was hired. Ellen Unger of Springfield is currently working to promote the viability of the council as a way to bring recreation to all county residents.

She hopes all municipalities will participate in the council to share ideas, increase public awareness of services, prevent duplication and promote participation. The co-ordinator has contacted the mayors of all 21 municipalities in the county, asking for a representative to be sent to future meetings.

She explained, successful budget cuts have had a "reminiscent impact" on parks and recreation services at both the county and municipal level. Meanwhile, people have more leisure time to enjoy recreation, but prefer to stay close to home to conserve energy.

In addition, Union County has received numerous requests over the years from senior citizens, the handicapped, day campers and others for increased recreational activities.

"If we pool our resources," she stated, "all county residents could be better served."

The recreation supervisor with the county department, Richard Marks, also attended the first meeting, at which the planning grant and the goals of the agency were explained.

Those present expressed interest in the goals of the council, and Ellen Unger

The Rahway team which came from a 1-0 deficit with four runs in both the third and fourth innings to give them a 4-0 lead, won the game 10-1.

Curtain Up!

GENIE, GENIE - The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. hopped on its magic carpet, participated in a marketing study that showed customers wanted a telephone that would fit into small places and introduced a new Design Line model that resembles Aladdin's lamp. The new Genie telephone is lightweight and compact. Available in red, peach or blue, the Genie telephone is on the shelves of New Jersey Bell's 41 Bell Phone Centers. Although a rub on its side won't produce a puff of smoke and a genie that will grant you any wish, the new telephone does sport the latest in telecommunications technology, including parts that are totally solid state.

Golf organization offers cheap links

With its major event of the year now completed, the New Jersey Public Golf Assn. has undertaken a membership drive in an effort to spread the word the expensive country club is not the only way to enjoy a season of golf.

The Galloping Hill Golf Course in Kenilworth was the site chosen by the organization for its statewide tournament, the 36th Annual State Public Golf Organization Championships, held earlier this month with some 165 entries. Carl Campanelli of Weequahic was the winner of the four-match tournament, beating out representatives of the 28-member clubs making up the state association.

Galloping Hill, off the Blvd., not only hosted this year's P. G. O. championship, but it is one of the four original member clubs which formed the P. G. O. in 1947. F. S. "Matty" Mathewson, the former recreation superintendent of the now-defunct Union County Park Commission, began the P. G. O. with Ralph S. Young, the first president of the organization.

In these days of rising inflation, even money spent on recreation must be carefully allotted. Equipment, fees and playing charges seem to mount daily and those who traditionally engaged in sports susceptible to these increases may now think twice about joining up. The answer for

For more information regarding auction consignments and/or flea market space, please telephone Mr. Fine at 574-1416 or Mary Gannett at 388-3270.

Mount up now for Watchung Troop

Now is the time to sign up for the Watchung Mounted Troop, the horseriding program for many golfers has been joining the state organization, reports a spokesman.

According to Peter J. Witkowski, currently serving as the organization's president, there are many fine public golf courses throughout New Jersey offering beautiful surroundings and challenging play to duffers at reasonable rates.

Any amateur golfer residing in New Jersey who does not belong to a private club is eligible to join the organization and participate in its tournaments. The organization embraces all the public-fee courses in the state, and is affiliated with the United States and the New Jersey Golf Assns. There is a nominal fee for joining.

For more information about joining the organization, please telephone Pete Witkowski at 388-8153.
