Safety Council elects 1983 officer slate

At the December meeting of the Rahway Safety Council with Frank G. Reese, the president, presiding, the following were elected to serve as officers who will govern the council during 1983: President, Louis R. Rizzo; vice president, Arthur Wheaton; treasurer, William M. Fec; secretary, Frederick A. Grimaldi; assistant secretary, Andrew Martino, and trustees, Mr. Fec, Herbert H. Kiehn and Mr. Reese.

The installation of officers who will serve the council during 1983, will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 12, 1983, at the council's 42th Annual Dinner, at Albert's Restaurant in Clark at 7:30 p.m. The council will also celebrate its 57th year of continuous service to the city of Rahway.

Continuing Hot Tips For Cold-Weather Drivers, a council spokesman submitted the following hints for safety:

—Fog, Rain And Snow Are Spoilers: Weather conditions affect your ability to see and be seen. They can make the road slippery and reduce your ability to start, stop and turn. Fog, rain and snow all limit your visibility to varying degrees. For best visibility under any of these conditions, use low-beam headlights. The high beams will reflect off the water vapor, and make it harder to see.

—Three Things To Do When Blinded: Avoid the temptation to get back at a driver who fails to switch to low beams when approaching, and bears down on you with blinding high beams. Sure it would be nice to give drivers like that a taste of their own medicine, but the defensive way to go is to (1) switch your lights to low beam; (2) reduce speed, and (3) look to the right edge of the pavement as a guide until the danger is passed.

—What To Do When You Slide On Water: When

water on the road surface is deeper than the tread of your tire, hydroplaning (riding on a layer of water) can occur. You can test for hydroplaning conditions by looking to see if the car ahead is leaving tracks on the road. If there aren't any, look out. Reduce speed immediately to prevent hydroplaning.

SEVEN DANGEROUS DISTRACTIONS
At the same time you must be on the defensive against these seven concentration destroyers:
1. Alcohol
2. Daydreaming
3. Distractions
4. Fatigue
5. Anger
6. Frustration (like in a slow-moving traffic tieup)
7. Finally, if you drive don't drink, and if you drink don't drive.

Council raps coverage-- of beverage containers

By R. R. Faszczewski
Not only will you have to be over 21 to drink alcoholic beverages in New Jersey at the beginning of the New Year—the law was expected to be signed by Gov. Thomas H. Kean this week.

The Rahway City Council has its way you won't be able to cover up the fact that you are consuming the beverages.

Earlier this month, the Governing Body voted 7-2 to condemn the sale of the vinyl covers, which are made to look like soft-drink containers, and whose only use, according to some councilmen, would be to cover up the fact that some people were drinking beer in public—which is against municipal ordinance in Rahway and other municipalities.

Although First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine voted in favor of the Council resolution, which requests the Legislature to prohibit the sale of the covers, he expressed concern the Governing Body might be intruding into the marketplace, and added in Rahway the illegal consumption of alcohol, especially by those not of legal age, would be detected because the liquor would have to be purchased illegally first.

However, Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer, the sponsor of the resolution, said city police will encounter problems because the consumption of alcoholic beverages in public is difficult to stop, and merchants are already complaining about drinks driving shoppers away from downtown Rahway.

Councilman-at-Large Walter McLeod, one of the two Council members to vote against the measure, said those who want illegal liquor will find some way to get it anyway, and the resolution condemning vinyl covers will only give "police another nail to hammer away at someone."

The second person to vote against the measure, Councilwoman-at-Large Irene F. Rinaldi, wanted to get the opinion of the police before voting for the measure.

Councilwoman Rinaldi said she would prefer postponing action until the Governing Body received the chief of police's opinion on the measure.

Both Third Ward Councilman Max Shield and Fourth Ward Councilman Harvey Williams agreed the prohibition against the vinyl covers would deter teens age drinking, and the covers were being manufactured specifically for an illegal use.

The co-sponsor of the measure, Councilman-at-Large Vincent P. Addona, said the Council should definitely be on record as being against the hiding of alcoholic beverages.

Councilman Bodine replied from a moral standpoint he could not oppose the measure, although he doubted it would deter anyone from drinking.

Another resolution directed at the State Legislature requesting it to regulate discounts to gasoline customers who pay cash in stead of use credit cards—was withdrawn for further study and input from gasoline retailers.

The sponsor of that measure, Councilman Bodine, said the stations which offer the discounts are really not charging less because the oil companies which own the stations make up the difference in other ways, and the discounts actually cut down on the amount of margin dealers get in profits.

He noted New Jersey law specifically says dealers can not charge more for credit.

Councilman Shield disagreed. He said those who wanted to sell below their costs should have the right to do so, and the prices they charged should be up to them.

Councilman Fulcomer said prices should be lower both for cash and for credit customers.

Roller skating to begin next week

The superintendent of recreation for Rahway, Richard Grischke, announced the opening of the annual roller skating program for boys and girls from first grade to those in high school.

The program will be held at Franklin School starting Saturday, Jan. 8, of next year.

The schedule is as follows:
—1 to 2:15 p.m.—grades one to three
—2:15 to 3:30 p.m.—grades four and five
—4 to 5:30 p.m.—grades six and up

Skates are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. Those with questions on the program should telephone 381-8000, extension 467, any time between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Historians mark yuletide of yore

The Rahway Historical Society closed its holiday season in a blaze of glory.

The society's two pre-revolutionary war taverns were decorated for the Christmas in the Williamsburg manner with fresh evergreens, an old-fashioned Christmas tree and toys and artifacts of bygone eras.

Two open houses were held, and were very well attended. On display was a new Lloyd Garrison painting of a colonial night scene of the Merchants' and Drapers' Tavern with the single candles in the windows, reports society spokesman Ray Eggers, Jr.

A highlight of the month was the President's Tea and Housewarming Ceremony. This was held in conjunction with the Rahway Chambor of Commerce's tree lighting on Veterans Plaza. Carolers in colonial costume added to the colorful occasion.

The entire Liberty Square area, St. George and W. Grand Aves., was a sea of lights for the holiday season. The single-candle theme was featured by almost all of the old houses as well as many of the merchants' properties in the area, Mr. Eggers added.

Luminaria were featured at the Housewarming Ceremony and again on Christmas Eve. The society facilities will close for January, but will open again with a special Open House display on the first Sunday in February, honoring the 250th birthday of George Washington.

Lions remember eventful 1982

The members of the Rahway Lions Club looked back upon an eventful 1982, where a White Cane Sale, bakeless bake sales and a spaghetti dinner provided the funds to provide eye examinations and glasses for several Rahway residents and contributions to the District No. 16E Eyemobile, the New Jersey Eye Institute and the Union County Sunshine Club, services for the Union County Assn. of the Blind, and to sponsor an Eye Care Seminar at the Rahway Night School.

The club's Program Committee arranged speakers on many subjects: Sight conservation, working with the mentally retarded and community awareness and photographic trips to areas of historic interest.

The club members look back with pride to their participation in the City Hall Dedication Parade with a float that won honorable mention, and working at the city's Health Fair serving with the Lions Clubs Eyemobile.

They pledge their continued service to the community in sight conservation projects in 1983, and wish all a Happy, Prosperous New Year, concluded the Lions spokesman, Ray Eggers, Jr.

Chamber glittered in 1982: Eggers

It is a wonder the members of the Rahway Chamber of Commerce will have enough energy to face a bright and shining 1983, for their efforts to make Christmas shine were absolutely extraordinary.

Phil Carr and his able staff provided sufficient luminaria to light up the entire city on Christmas Eve. It was beautiful, and the Chamber thanks the many citizens who participated to show their pride in this holiday event.

The tree lighting at the City Hall and the activities on the Cherry St. Mall were well-executed and it was a really nice program, but it was almost frozen out by the weather.

The West Grand Ave. tree lighting was a credit to that area of our city and the members of the Chamber successfully encouraged the residents of the area to engage upon the single-candle and clear-bulb theme, which provided a sparkling vista of twinkling lights on the frosty holiday evenings.

The Cherry St. Christmas Caroling added to our community's holiday spirit, and was a most pleasant surprise. Did you notice the 19th-century display in the windows above Delaney's? Our special thanks to the Good Fairy Doll Hospital for the loan of the lovely dolls, Pat Connors and Delaney St. for the loan of their windows, and I provided the nightly side shows.

The most talked-about venture, of course, was the fund-raiser cocktail party for the benefit of the Rahway Landmarks which was held at Huffman-Koos. It was fantastic, and made a profit of over $2,000 for the Rahway Landmarks. It was a truly extraordinary social affair, and reinforced the reputation "The Chamber of Commerce can really throw a party."

What will they be up to next? Did everyone get their Chamber map? Should it be reissued? What else do you want our Chamber to work on? They're a great bunch of men and women—and willing and able. Rahway can be pleased!

Spending cut seen better than tax rise

If the state legislators resist the temptation to raise taxes and instead go ahead with the proposed modest 3% cut in spending, we will have a better, healthier state economy.

Report from Washington

Action needed now to battle crime

Violent crime, increasingly senseless and brutal, is one of the most serious domestic problems facing our nation today.

The inaction on the part of Congress is disappointing and cause for concern. Law-abiding citizens are frightened and are demanding something be done to bring crime under control so they will be safe in the streets and secure in their homes. They want action to curb this reign of terror.

Several bills were introduced during the two-year session to step up the fight against crime. However, only one of them, the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1982, has been passed.

The House and Senate failed to complete action on several major legislative proposals which would have made tremendous inroads in fighting the decline of law and order. Among the pieces of major legislation on which action was not completed were measures to toughen criminal penalties and to strengthen the hand of law-enforcement officers.

One of those bills left to die was a measure I introduced to establish a mandatory five-year prison sentence for anyone convicted of using a firearm while committing a federal felony.

A second bill I was pushing would have reinstated capital punishment for Presidential assassins and mass murderers, and another would have changed the federal criminal code to prevent murderers and assassins from hiding behind insanity pleas.

Additionally, I favored legislation which would have denied bail to violent criminals previously convicted of committing crimes while on parole or bail, and would limit the opportunities of defendants to obtain delays in carrying out sentences after normal appeals are exhausted.

All of these bills will probably be reintroduced during the 98th Congress beginning next year, and you may be assured I will continue to push for action on them and other sound measures which promise to put punishment back into sentencing and deter criminal activity.

While minor compared to the above legislation, several crime-related bills were enacted into law during the session. One of the new laws provides for the personal safety, financial reimbursement and fair treatment of crime victims and witnesses, and a third is intended to deter nuclear terrorism by making it a federal crime to use nuclear materials for intimidation or extortion.

Though these bills are important in our overall effort to fight crime, we must take steps which are more far-reaching and have greater impact if we are to truly protect our citizens. Each year, nearly 23,000 Americans die as a result of crime. Virtually every family and business in America is affected by the epidemic of crime spreading across our nation.

The constitutional right of Americans to domestic tranquility is an empty dream if our system of justice is not able to protect them from criminals. For most of the past two decades, the rights of the accused have been strengthened in our courts while the liberties of our citizens to walk the streets and live in their homes in safety have diminished. It is inexcusable for Congress not to be more resolute and forceful in acting legislatively to reverse this decline of law and order.

FIRE-WISE Don't let New Year go up in smoke

Portable kerosene heaters are safe if they are used properly, but too many people are buying and using these heaters without paying attention to safety requirements, warns Jim Barry, the director of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs.

Director Barry offered the following suggestions to help you keep warm and safe:

- Before you buy a kerosene space heater, make sure they are legal in your city. Residential use of kerosene space heaters is not permitted in Rahway.
- If you have one heater, it should be replaced with a new one. Kerosene heaters can build up carbon monoxide and other pollutants in the room. A window in the room slightly to let in some fresh air.
- When you are refilling the kerosene heater, make sure it is cool. And only refuel it out of doors. That's also where you should be storing the kerosene. Then if some does spill, it is not likely to cause a dangerous fire.

Whatever type of heater you have, don't let children play around it. The surfaces can be hot, and their pajamas, nightgowns or robes could get caught and catch fire.

If you have any questions about the safety of any kind of space heater, you may telephone the Consumer Product Safety Commission toll free at (800) 638-2772.

Dr. Smith's method, however, concentrates on determining at what stage an arm race becomes unstable or "war-prone" as he said. She said her mathematical approach allows her to predict with 82% accuracy which races will end in war. In a recent study, the predictor analyzed 32 arm races covering a period from 1860 to 1977. The starting point of 1860 was not a matter of choice. That's when information on military outlays first became available to the public.

In essence, her mathematical model showed that an abrupt change in the military outlay of one of the competing nations occurred, the risk of war increased. Whether that change was a dramatic increase or decrease in spending didn't matter.

Therefore, by charting the "characteristics of stability" of an arm race, Dr. Smith said she can accurately predict the political outcome of a race.

Assembly approves election revision

A streamlining of the present hit-or-miss notification procedure used to postpone elections due to weather conditions or other emergencies was approved by the Assembly on Dec. 13.

The measure, sponsored by Assemblyman Bob Franks, who represents Clark, was prompted by the "misinformation and costly confusion" experienced in school districts throughout the state last April when a snow emergency forced New Jersey Gov. Thomas H. Kean to cancel the school elections in eight counties.

College president cites 1982's achievements

1982 was a "momentous year for Union County College," according to Dr. Saul Orkin, the president of the college.

Dr. Orkin, in his annual year-end statement, said the year symbolized many things for the college, which was officially named Union County College in August, after Union College merged with the Union County Technical Institute.

Dr. Orkin said the college had been consolidated and expanded on both campuses. Personnel from both locations are rotated and exchanged so there is a consistency to the services they provide, including financial aid, counseling, registration and admissions. The faculties of both campuses are working to form a single organization, and the student governments at each location are contemplating working together, he noted.

Indians run Kearny back to roost

By Ray Hoagland
Las Vegas has its Running Rebels, and Rahway High School has its Running Indians, as Coach Top Lewis' team ran the Kearny High School Cardinals out of the building on Dec. 23 as they posted an 84-57 win over the previously undefeated Cardinals in a conference match.

The Indians scored the first five points of the game, and were on their way to their third straight victory. Rodney Robinson hit on two Robinsons, O. Tom Burke, 14; Luther Johnson, four; Darryl Bragg, two; Rodney Perkins, three; Sun Wojkowski, four; Byron Merricks, four, and Todd Bakerville, four.

Rahway had 32 field goals and 20 free throws, while the Cardinals were 17-23.

Coach Lewis was using a strong 3-and-2 zone defense, and the Cardinals were having a hard time getting good shots.

In the second period, forty-five points were scored between the two teams, eight of them by the Indians. The Indians scored the first five points of the game, and were on their way to their third straight victory.

The Lady of Collingwood
By Carol Diane Breakstone

... goes ago near the shores of the Black Sea lay the Kingdom of Collingwood. It was a kingdom of legends and their skill at riding them. They were the forces that kept the Kingdom of Collingwood from falling to the hands of the East. To the east of Collingwood lay the land of Estagendar. This land was part of the Empire yet it retained great independence. It was ruled by a king who was a great warrior and a great statesman. At the time of our story, the king was old and the kingdom was in a state of decline. The king's son, a young man, was a great warrior and a great statesman. He was the one who would lead the kingdom to glory. He was the one who would lead the kingdom to glory.

MEDIEVAL FANTASIES - Carol Diane Breakstone's fascination with the Middle Ages is reflected in the cartoon strip that she draws for the undergraduate newspaper at Rutgers-Camden campus, where she is a junior. Off campus, the honors student belongs to the Society for Creative Anachronism, whose members act out medieval scenarios, dressing in period costumes and practicing war games in backyards.

Camden student brings Middle Ages back

On campus, Carol Diane Breakstone, who is an honors student, is a seemingly modern young woman whose trademark is a flower in her dark, curly hair. On weekends, however, she transforms herself into a satirical medieval lady of the 14th century who sometimes "roughs it up" in medieval war games. A junior at Rutgers University's Camden campus, Miss Breakstone has long been fascinated by the Middle Ages, and acts out roles of fictitious characters from that period with friends who also enjoy fantasizing. They're part of a group, the Society for Creative Anachronism, that engages in medieval-style activities. But the student also indulges her love of medieval life in another way: She has created a weekly cartoon strip, "The Lady of Estagendar," that she draws for the "Rutgers Gleaner," the undergraduate student newspaper at the Camden campus.

The copyrighted serial allows her to use her remarkable imagination—but at the same time, helps her to keep it under control. "Drawing anchors the mind," she said. "If I were not drawing, my mind would be off somewhere. I tend to be a dreamer, a fancy-oriented person." A top student, she entered Rutgers from Collingwood High School as one of the first winners of the Presidential Scholar Award, the most prestigious undergraduate scholarship awarded by New Jersey's State University. Her high grade-point average has assured the scholarship, which pays full tuition, has been renewed annually, and has also placed her in the top 10 percent of her class.

RAY'S ROUND
By Ray Hoagland

Robert W. Lee, the deputy commissioner of the New Jersey State Athletic Commission, of Scotch Plains, announced this week, the commission plans to implement two rule changes geared to protect boxers while they're in and out of the ring.

Boxers will need a document listing their fights so state officials can monitor the athlete's recovery period between bouts.

In addition, Lee said the state's present scoring system involving two judges and a referee will be abandoned in favor of three judges and a non-scoring referee.

Both changes will take effect on Saturday, Jan. 1, 1983.

Lee said neither change is a result of the death of boxer, Dak Koy Kim.

Synagogue unit elects Hausler

A Rahway resident, William Hausler, was elected to serve as a financial officer of the New Jersey Region of the United Synagogue of America at its 1982 Biennial Convention, held recently at the Concord Resort Hotel in Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

The United Synagogue of America is the congregational arm of the Conservative Movement.

Actively involved in the affairs of his own congregation, Temple Beth Torah of Rahway, serving as chairman of such key committees as membership, fund-raising and the Home and Building Committee, Mr. Hausler became a vice president of the congregation in 1969, and was its president from 1971 to 1975.

For his many years of devoted and active service, Temple Beth Torah presented him with the Sam Robinson "Man of the Year Award" in 1979.

He is presently involved in fund-raising activities for his congregation as the chairman of its Fund-Raising Committee, and represents his congregation on the regional Board of Directors of the United Synagogue.

County College adds to practical nursing

Union County College will expand its part-time practical nursing evening program in 1983 by offering classes twice a year, according to Mrs. Catherine Helmick of Rahway, the coordinator of the program.

The college will offer part-time practical nursing evening classes in January, beginning in 1983, as well as in September, as had been done previously.

The evening courses are in addition to full-time day classes, which are also offered twice a year.

The college's practical nursing program leads to a diploma, and prepares graduates for the licensing examination of the state of New Jersey. Part-time evening students can complete the program in two years while full-time students are enrolled in a one-year program.

The addition of the second cycle of part-time evening classes in January will, according to Mrs. Helmick, "give individuals interested in the program a more flexible schedule to meet their individual needs."

The co-ordinator pointed out many practical nursing students are women or men with jobs or families, who are interested in a career change.

"Now those individuals won't have to wait a full year before coming into the program. By expanding the part-time evening program, we're trying to meet the needs of the community," she said.

Those who complete the practical nursing program, and who are licensed by the state go on to work in hospitals, extended-health-care centers, industry, school systems or physicians' offices, Mrs. Helmick added.

"The role of a practical nurse is dual: He or she can be an independent practitioner for subacute care and chronic care, or may work in an assisting capacity for a condition requiring complex nursing," she pointed out.

Those who attend the part-time evening classes at Union County College follow a schedule that runs four days a week, four hours a night. Clinical instruction at area hospitals or other health facilities is mandatory.

Full-time students in the program follow a normal five-day-a-week schedule, with clinical experience also included.

All graduates of the practical nursing program have been placed in jobs, reports Mrs. Helmick.

Approximately 40% of the program's graduates since 1970 who "move up the career ladder," have been successful in becoming professional nurses, according to the program coordinator.

It is possible for a practical nurse to become a registered nurse, or to earn a baccalaureate degree within Union County, because of the college's co-operative program in professional nursing conducted jointly with Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield and Elizabeth General Medical Center in Elizabeth and Kean College of New Jersey in Union's baccalaureate nursing program, that prepares people for those levels of nursing, Mrs. Helmick noted.

Practical nursing is often the first choice of many who want to become registered nurses, but because of economic reasons elect to go through the one-year practical-nursing program, and then work for a period of time in order to pay for further education, she explained.

Classes for the upcoming January part-time evening cycle will begin on Monday, Jan. 3. Full-time classes during the day will start on Monday, Jan. 10.

Anyone interested in further information about the program should telephone Mrs. Helmick at 889-4100, extension 620, or telephone the Admissions Hot Line at 272-8580 or at 272-8581.

Free coffee to be served on turnpike

Free coffee to promote safe driving will again be available to New Jersey Turnpike travelers on New Year's Eve tomorrow, the 22nd consecutive year for the program.

The free coffee is provided to encourage safe driving on the turnpike and alert motorists caution is an essential for a happy holiday season.

The Turnpike officials stress taking time out for a break is a good way to overcome fatigue and drowsiness, frequent causes of senseless accidents.

The operator of the restaurants on the 13 service areas along the turnpike will be providing the coffee-and even tea or milk-on the night of Dec. 31 to Jan. 1 from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.

JOY TO THE WORLD - Clark's Charles H. Brewer School Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Rose Bachraty, entertained the residents of the Ashbrook Nursing Home in Scotch Plains on Dec. 17. The Brewer students helped to usher in the season of festivity with an array of holiday music including "The Dreidel Song," "Do You Hear What I Hear?" and "Holiday On Ice." The traditional Christmas, Chanukah and winter songs were performed. The students then presented the members of the Ashbrook audience with flowers. Seventh-and eighth-grade instrumentalists who accompanied the chorus, shown, left to right, are: Susan Tritschler, Wanda Budzinski, Marie Zimmer, Janet Pisansky and Jennifer Martino; middle, Michelle Catalon; Kim Doyle, Jennifer DeRose and Kelly Richter; front, Sigrid Stabenow and Linda Burlew.

Crusaders lance Raiders 58-47

By Ray Hoagland

Clark's Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School Crusaders Boys Basketball Team came from behind in the second period to defeat the Scotch Plains High School Raiders Boys Basketball Team 58-47 in Clark on Dec. 21.

The Raiders took a 13-6 lead into the second period, then Craig Esser scored on a lay-up to cut the margin to 13-8, and Mike Karamus hit on a foul and a jumper to cut the lead to 13-12 at the four-minute-and-six-second mark.

Tony Lake of the Raiders hit on a set from outside the key, but the Crusaders came right back when Esser made two free throws, and Drew Gattuso hit a 15 footer, and the Clark team was leading 16-15.

The teams exchanged points the rest of the period, which ended when Rusty Marshall hit from the right corner. It was 23-21 in favor of Clark at the half.

The third period was a wild one that saw the lead change after the Crusaders scored five straight points to take a 34-29 lead.

After a jumper by a Raiders player the Steve Petruzzelli team scored five points in a row-by Karamus and Marshall and a steal by Gattuso. The homeside led 39-36 at the start of the final period.

The last period, in which the Crusaders outscored the Raiders 19-9, saw four members of the Scotch Plains team leave the game on five fouls.
