Council adopts 7.5% spending limit; Republicans call for further budget cuts

By R. R. Faszczewski

The Rahway City Council voted 5-4 along party lines April 11 to adopt an ordinance allowing for a 7.5% increase in the spending limit, instead of the previous limit of 5% in the 1983 municipal budget.

Democrats said the budget, as presented by the administration, would mean a decrease in taxes, even with the newly-legalized state "CAP" limit, and Republicans said the budget could still be cut to stay within the old limit.

Responding to a question by Helen Mackow of 1990 Lufberry St., Mayor Daniel L. Martin said the budget he had presented to the Governing Body had been cut by $200,000 just to meet the 7.5% limit, and a cut to 5% could mean layoffs in city departments.

Mayor Martin added no municipality in the county was staying within the 5% limit.

Sixth Ward Republican Councilman James J. Fulcomer said he was against the will of city residents, who voted last year not to allow the 1982 municipal budget to exceed the then-5% "CAPS" limit. Councilman Fulcomer added it would be easy to cut $200,000 from the budget to stay below the 5% limit without cutting services. He pointed out the Council on April 5 had adopted a 29% increase in water-utility rates, which he considered an added tax.

The councilman also said there would be a boost, not a decrease, in tax revenues this year, and last year the Governing Body had been faced with a $199,000 emergency appropriation, compared to a $10,000 figure this year—causing about a $190,000 "windfall" for the city.

The Sixth Ward representative also cited the fact salary contracts with city employees had been settled at a lower level of wage increase and interest rates were down this year. He asked if Union County could stay within the 5% limit, why couldn't Rahway?

Business Administrator Joseph M. Hartnett, although admitting the presures on the city budget were less this year, said the entire budget was only up about 2%.

Mr. Hartnett explained the "CAPS-EXEMPT" section of the tab was down, but the portion within the "CAPS" was up, resulting in a $199,000 drop in the exempt section. Although the total revenues would be up, according to the administrator, the total amount of taxes to be collected by the city would be down. He added taxes were determined by the revenue section of the budget, not by the "CAPS" section, and pointed to a tax decrease of 5% or about eight tax points, to property owners.

Several reasons were cited by the administrator for "increased pressure" on the "CAPS" portion of the budget. Among them: Total salaries within the limit would be up $259,132.45 or 5.5%, including general pay raises of 5% plus retirement costs, and even with no new employees, the police department alone would increase the tab by $130,211.45; five police cars would have to be purchased this year, compared with two last year, for an increase of $24,726; despite reductions in fossil-fuel energy costs, any savings would be offset by an increase of $49,393.20 in street-lighting costs to restore a cut made in 1982; garbage collection would cost $43,373 this year, and library costs would rise by $17,167 this year. The above five items total $393,791.65, while all other "CAPS" items show a net increase of $126,001, or 1.15% in the $10.9 million budget.

Also pointed out was the fact pensions would cost the city $73,000 more this year. The reasons for "decreased pressure" on the "CAPS-EXEMPT" portion of the budget, according to Mr. Hartnett, are: Caps-exempt salaries would show a drop of $199,385; debt service would drop $170,317.25; and several major bonds would be paid off this year, including those on the library, the Public Works garage and the work on the Pennsylvania Railroad culvert. The above items total a decrease of $369,712.25, and other exempt items total an increase of $54,690.62, for a net decrease of $315,021.63.

A resident, Mrs. Rose Monyek of 1060 W. Lake Ave., said she couldn't see the reason for the increase in the "CAPS" limit when city employees were only getting 5% salary increases this year, the city had good rates and it is one of the few cities from which a major industry, Merck & Co., Inc., has decided not to move, but to stay, thus providing a good rateable.

Mrs. Monyek added if homeowners had to watch their budgets, she wouldn't see why the city should be allowed to increase its budget by 7.5%, which would probably be the limit every year from now on.

Mayor Martin replied the new state "CAPS" limit was based on increases or decreases in the cost of living, and it would not remain at 7.5% every year. He also pointed to the fact the "CAP" had nothing to do with the increase or decrease in taxes.

First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine said there were still some specific places in the budget where cuts could be made, and taxpayers deserved a bigger cut than they were getting this year to make up for the big increases they had gotten in the past.

Third Ward Democratic Councilman Max Sheld, replying to calls from Councilman Fulcomer and Se-

Mobile Intensive Care Unit marks first anniversary in area service

"Medic 10, Medic 10, you are responding to 123 Main St., Linden, possible cardiac arrest."

The call comes over the radio and Medic 10, Rahway Hospital's Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) and the paramedics that staff it are on the road again.

Since March 15, 1982, when Rahway Hospital's MICU first went into service, the staff has responded to nearly 2,000 calls for assistance. Most of the calls are medical emergencies, 70% of them chest pains or difficulty breathing, and the rest are usually trauma cases, frequently as a result of motor vehicle accidents.

According to Donald Banghart, mobile intensive care co-ordinator for Rahway Hospital, the hospital has recently outfitted a second vehicle to serve as a back-up unit when the main vehicle needs repairs and servicing.

"When you respond to 160 to 170 emergency calls per month, you have to make sure there is a unit available at all times," he said.

Rahway Hospital's MICU is celebrating its first anniversary at a time when funding for MICUs around the state is in jeopardy because of recent federal and state decisions.

According to John L. Yoder, the president of Rahway Hospital, "It is ironic as we look over last year's statistics and see what a service the MICU has provided, we are caught in a web of bureaucratic inequity that threatens to destroy the whole system."

Mr. Yoder was referring to the recent decision by Medicare the system of MICUs does not meet regulations for reimbursement. It has been paying for MICU services as part of the hospitals' inpatient costs, but recently the federal agency declared MICUs are an outpatient service.

In order to qualify as an outpatient service eligible for Medicare payment, the units must transport patients and carry a physician on board. But the New Jersey system was developed so once the patient is stabilized, local rescue squads transport the patient to a hospital for further treatment. The nurses and paramedics who staff the MICUs use two-way radio telemetry to work under the direction of hospital-based physicians.

"Every time the MICUs respond to a call at this point, they are losing money," Mr. Yoder continued. "If no solution is found, this valuable service might have to be ended. Interim solutions are being explored and hopefully, a permanent arrangement will be worked out."

According to Mr. Banghart, one of the keys to the success of Rahway Hospital's first year of operation has been the response of the area's local first aid squads.

"Without the first aid squads, who provide the base for the advanced medical care, the MICU couldn't function," he is quick to point out. "We had some growing pains in the beginning because some squad personnel weren't sure of their role in relationship to the MICU. But we held meetings with groups and individuals to allay any of their fears. Now, many of our volunteer drivers for the MICU come from the local squads.

In fact, some of the squad people who become more familiar with the duties of the paramedic profession go on to pursue training in this field."

Rahway's unit is part of a network that includes Oversees of 5% plus retirement costs, and even with no new employees, the police department alone would increase the tab by $130,211.45; five police cars would have to be purchased this year, compared with two last year, for an increase of $24,726; despite reductions in fossil-fuel energy costs, any savings would be offset by an increase of $49,393.20 in street-lighting costs to restore a cut made in 1982; garbage collection would cost $43,373 this year, and library costs would rise by $17,167 this year. The above five items total $393,791.65, while all other "CAPS" items show a net increase of $126,001, or 1.15% in the $10.9 million budget.

Also pointed out was the fact pensions would cost the city $73,000 more this year. The reasons for "decreased pressure" on the "CAPS-EXEMPT" portion of the budget, according to Mr. Hartnett, are: Caps-exempt salaries would show a drop of $199,385; debt service would drop $170,317.25; and several major bonds would be paid off this year, including those on the library, the Public Works garage and the work on the Pennsylvania Railroad culvert. The above items total a decrease of $369,712.25, and other exempt items total an increase of $54,690.62, for a net decrease of $315,021.63.

A resident, Mrs. Rose Monyek of 1060 W. Lake Ave., said she couldn't see the reason for the increase in the "CAPS" limit when city employees were only getting 5% salary increases this year, the city had good rates and it is one of the few cities from which a major industry, Merck & Co., Inc., has decided not to move, but to stay, thus providing a good rateable.

Mrs. Monyek added if homeowners had to watch their budgets, she wouldn't see why the city should be allowed to increase its budget by 7.5%, which would probably be the limit every year from now on.

Mayor Martin replied the new state "CAPS" limit was based on increases or decreases in the cost of living, and it would not remain at 7.5% every year. He also pointed to the fact the "CAP" had nothing to do with the increase or decrease in taxes.

First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine said there were still some specific places in the budget where cuts could be made, and taxpayers deserved a bigger cut than they were getting this year to make up for the big increases they had gotten in the past.

Mismanagement seen in school upkeep

Whatever got the ire of the Rahway people up against the second referendum on the same school bond issue for which there was a special, costly referendum just 48 days ago can be debated.

Perhaps it was the supposedly logical reasonings presented by our true town fathers, Alonzo Lawrence and Max Vogel. When these venerable gentlemen speak, people listen!

But, ultimately, the credit goes to the people who voted down these unpalatable proposed expenditures in a resounding and overwhelming 2-to-1 defeat.

People are finally getting "NO" minded. They are beginning to accept the fact every issue comes before them which involves the expenditure of THEIR money is something which deserves their serious, not passing, thought.

I doubt if anyone voting April 12 was opposed in any way to a beautiful and well-maintained high school. For years I have passed it regularly and wondered why somebody did not do something about its ghastly appearance. The pointing out of the brickwork is deplorable. Then there are the windows which don't match. Some windows are one kind of glass, some another, some appear to be boarded up and some painted different colors, all of which makes for a disheveled and sloppy overall effect. Between the poor pointing-out work and the mismatched windows, it looks like a patchwork quilt.

One cannot escape noticing the landscaping or lack of it - it is just deplorable. The grass has bare spots of mud and dirt appearing everywhere, and the few scrawny shrubs which confront the eye are not fit for an abandoned gas station.

Where has MAINTENANCE been all of these years? Where has the money gone which should have been taken care of all of these matters? Were there never trees and shrubs around the high school? Why was a little bit not done each year to maintain and refurbish this area?

Of course, the main structure is still architecturally handsome with some proper maintenance and minor repairs could be restored to a structure of elegance and beauty - a far cry from what it is today.

What is needed is a maintenance "program" which constantly anticipates needs and a follow-through which assures there is a steady availability of money to renew, refurbish and maintain this institution at standards which NEVER go below a pre-determined level.

This would include the boilers. Whatever the true costs, it does not make sense to wait until things are inoperable to plead poverty to a totally unsympathetic taxpayer. They feel that they are paying ENOUGH toward the education of their young already!

In fact, they feel they are already paying too much; that the money is being MISMANAGED. Proper management would never have allowed the levels of erosion which are to be seen or those which are being planned. Perhaps there is too much staff for too few pupils? Perhaps there are too many frills considered vital, but in fact, not vital.

All that is VITAL is that Jim and Jane acquire the tools for LEARNING necessary for a productive later life. The condition of the building has nothing to do with that. Capable and inspiring teachers provide this ingredient.

How well the boys play football is of very MINOR importance. The condition of their gymnasium should be way down on the list of truly important attention getters. It should not take fire priority as it seems to. But, it should be MAINTAINED!

I visited the girls' gymnasium and locker room recently. They are in an unbelievable shambles. Everywhere one looks, the color is the drabdest gray-black imaginable. The pines of glass in the front windows facing the street are all different, some painted, some this, some that. The lockers are literally laying against the wall in one section.

THIS PLACE NEEDS PAINT, spelled P-A-I-N-T. It needs replacement of window panes for uniformity. It needs a large mirror for the girls who are, indeed, people to use to make themselves presentable.

And I would hate to be ordered to take a shower in those dismal, dark shower stalls. In addition, it is not clean and it is not a pleasant place to be, so I left very quickly. I am told that the boys' locker room is much worse!

So, why am I then delighted that the referendum put before the people for a second time in less than two months has gone down in defeat?

It is because I know, and all of the people who voted against this issue know, our money is being MISMANAGED. If it had been properly managed, some of the nearly 50% of municipal property taxes which we pay which goes to the School Board would have been earmarked for MAINTENANCE AND RENEWAL. This fund should build up during years when not needed for the years when needed-simple arithmetic.

Further, good efficient maintenance people should be employed. If the school maintenance people are pointing out of the brickwork, someone should do it who knows something about color matching. Other public

'Big-money' voice must be softened

The expanding role of "big money" in Congressional campaigns is stretching thin the fabric of the American system of representative democracy.

Independently wealthy candidates and political action committees (PACs) are wielding a disproportionate degree of power in influencing the legislative process simply because of their substantial financial resources.

The effect is the will of the majority is being thwarted, and the voice of the average citizen is overwhelmed in the political process. And Congress, the people's forum, is in danger of being transformed into a club for millionaires.

Million-dollar races for a seat in the House of Representatives, once unheard of, could become commonplace if outrageous campaign spending is allowed to continue.

In the 1982 campaign election, candidates in more than 50 races for House seats spent $1 million on their campaigns. In New Jersey's seventh Congressional District, Adam Levin, the Democratic candidate, spent $1.7 million in a losing cause. It was the most spent by any Congressional candidate in the country.

Clearly, campaign spending reform is needed to diminish the influence of a candidate's personal wealth and to broaden the influence of individual constituents.

Many political reformers agree the most effective way to cut the cost of campaigns would be to put a ceiling on how much the candidates can spend.

Congress tried that in 1974. It set a cap of $70,000 in total spending for House candidates and a sliding scale starting at $150,000 based on state population for Senate candidates.

However, the Supreme Court rejected the action as unconstitutional, and also overturned ceilings on the amount of campaign funds that could be spent on their own behalf.

To legalize campaign spending limitations, I have introduced legislation to amend the Constitution so Congress and the states can regulate the amounts of contribu-

Last chance for spring cleaning

By Rahway Fire Chief James T. Heller

With spring comes that annual ritual called spring cleaning. If you haven't gone through your house in search of winter debris by now, you'd better hurry. You could be sharing your home with a number of fire hazards.

How much paper are you keeping? Old newspapers and cardboard boxes? How many old cleaning rags are lying around? How many old cleaning rags are lying around? How many old cleaning rags are lying around?

Why do I write this the day following this decisive defeat of the bond issue this victory for the people? Because I wish to express my joy to the people who have spoken so emphatically on this matter of more and more of their money being exploited at the whim of those claiming to know what is best for them and for theirs.

The people know what is in their own best interest, believe it or not. And they have been angered by this dual effort against this thing and ever mindless have spoken so could have been spent, instead, to do some vital renovation work.

In closing, may I comment on what this city would do without the likes of Alonzo Lawrence and Max Vogel to bring the facts before the tax-paying public. How would we ever know the FACTS without such spoken-minded citizens who are interested in the private wealth of the community as well as the public wealth?

If it were not for such vocal patriots, we would hear one side only of most issues. We are, indeed, fortunate to have these two wonderful gentlemen to carry the banners for us, and they should be duly honored. They remember when we forget that what we spend, we no longer have. Public officials will take every penny from us that they can get. It is a fact of life. We must be constantly on guard against this taking and ever mindless have spoken so could have been spent, instead, to do some vital renovation work.

Congress addresses handicapped needs

Several bills that would provide greater access and some financial relief for disabled and handicapped Americans at minimal cost to the government have been introduced in the 98th Congress.

One of these measures, of which I am the prime sponsor, would extend to those who are dependent on their homes because either they or a dependent are handicapped, the one-time exclusion from the capital-gains tax granted to homeowners aged 55 and older.

This legislation is similar to legislation I introduced during the last Congress, H.R. 4784. This legislation would help those homeowners who are forced to sell their residences due to their disabilities and the financial hardships that often accompany such disabilities.

Another measure designed to provide tax relief to the handicapped is H.R. 1015. This bill would help relieve the financial burdens so often associated with providing disabled persons with the opportunity to live and work independently of traditional institutional settings.

H.R. 1015 would permit the disabled and handicapped to take an additional exemption for work-related expenses when they file their tax return. This legislation is modeled on the current double exemption afforded to blind and aged individuals.

In companion measure, H.R. 1016, which I have also cosponsored, would amend the tax code to provide a tax deduction for expenses incurred in making publicly-used, but privately-owned, facilities accessible to the handicapped.

The tax code at one time included such a deduction. However, it expired at the end of last year. H.R. 1016 increases the allowable deduction and makes it available permanently.

It is certainly reasonable to allow businesses which undertake site alteration to improve access to the elderly and the disabled the opportunity to deduct the costs for such improvements.

Another bill to increase access for the handicapped and the elderly-in this case to polling places-has been introduced in the current Congress.

The Equal Access to Voting Rights Act includes cost-effective methods for resolving voting access problems, and at the same time provides the flexibility needed for effective implementation.

Structural changes are not required under the legislation. Since the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and other Architectural Barriers Act of 1968 respectively require buildings which house federal programs and federally-funded buildings be accessible to the handicapped, in many cases all that is necessary is to move registration and polling places to such facilities.

In addition, the bill provides for supplemental voting and registration aids, such as large-print instructions and paper ballots.

Each of these initiatives would provide meaningful choices to those who are disabled in a variety of ways, and I am proud to play a role in their development and ultimate enactment during this Congress.

Girl Scouts to welcome spring

Butterflies, clowns, shrinky-art, bird feeders, maypole dancing, cookie decorating, silk screening and pan-American dances are expected to lure more than 1,200 girls to the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council's Spring Festival to be held on the weekend of April 23 and April 24 at the Oak Spring Program and Environmental Education Center in Franklin Township.

The council, which includes Rahway, has designed the event to give girls an idea of the ways in which different cultures and countries celebrate the advent of spring.

Highlighting the event will be a butterfly demonstration by Pauline Meyers, who owns the Meyers Butterfly Farm in Denville, one of 15 such farms in the world.

Mrs. Meyers will demonstrate the life-cycle of moths and butterflies and their place in nature. Each girl will be given a souvenir program, depicting the life cycle of butterflies and moths in Centerville, one of 15 such farms in the world.

The girls will be able to view live and mounted specimens and to participate in games illustrating the place of moths and butterflies in nature.

Helping to put on the pan-American dances will be Barbara McLaren of Rahway.

Africa to be topic of lecture

A spokesman for the Caribbean Students Organization (CARIBSO) at New Jersey Institute of Technology of Newark announced that Dr. Yosef Ben-Jochanan, adjunct professor of history, african studies and research center at Cornell University and ethnic studies and advisor of Ethnic Studies at Malcolm X-King College in Harlem, will be a guest speaker at the institute on Tuesday, April 26, at 6 p.m.

He will lecture on African history, anthropology, Egyptology and religion.

This activity will take place in the theatre located on the first floor of the Humanities Building. There will be free admission and parking.

These affidavits may be notarized at the paper office or by another notary public.

Dr. Copleman to get 'Torch of Liberty'

Declared the recipient of the "Torch of Liberty" Award bestowed by the Central New Jersey Society of Fellows of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith was Dr. Hyman B. Copleman.

The formal presentation will be made during a testimonial dinner to be held on Tuesday, April 26, at the Hyatt Regency in New Brunswick. The society is a nationwide association of professional, business and civic leaders who assist the league in its efforts to promote human relations.

The New Jersey State chairman of the society, Gerald A. Flannbaum, announced Dr. Copleman's selection for the "Torch of Liberty" award and praised his long dedication to health and human services. He described Dr. Copleman as an extremely worthy recipient of the award which is presented "in recognition of distinguished service and inspiring leadership in preserving liberty, counteracting bigotry and advancing the cause of human rights, dignity and of equal opportunity."

Dr. Copleman is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a fellow of the International College of Surgeons and a fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine. He is senior attending physician at Middlesex University Hospital and St. Peter's Medical Center. He is assistant clinical professor of surgery at the Rutgers Medical School, a member of the New Jersey Medical Society and the Pan-Pacific Surgical Society.

He maintains his practice as a medical-surgical consultant in New Brunswick and is Medical Director of ESDP, a division of Johnson and Johnson.

A long-time resident of New Brunswick, Dr. Copleman attended Rutgers University, became a Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year, and was awarded the Bachelor of Science degree in medicine at Rush Medical College, University of Chicago, was graduated Alpha Omega Alpha and Internist.

He also served as the first physician to chair the local United Jewish Appeal. He established the Dr. H. B. Copleman Scholarship at Rutgers. He is the only team physician in the history of Rutgers and is now in his 24th year in that capacity. Dr. Copleman is recognized as the "Dean of Sports Medicine" in New Jersey.

He is a guest lecturer and an author on this subject, according to Mr. Flannbaum. He founded the Osteomyelitis Associates of Middlesex County, was honored with the Dr. B'nai B'rith and the medical advisor and consultant to that organization. He is a founder of the Central New Jersey Home for the Aged, and served as chairman of the Medical Board of the State of New Jersey. He has received many honors including the Rutgers Medal from Rutgers University for his dedication and devotion to his alma mater, the Distinguished Citizens Award from B'nai B'rith and the Lehman Award, the most prestigious award on behalf of the State of New Jersey.

Dr. Bernard Rineberg and Bruce Topolsky are serving as co-chairmen of the "Torch of Liberty" dinner committee. Full details can be obtained by contacting the league's regional office at 513 W. Mt. Pleasant Ave., Livingston, N. J. 07033. Telephone number, 994-4546.

Rosarians to hold bowling tourney

The Annual Rosarian Bowling Tournament will be held at Garden State Bowl in Union, where it was originated 21 years ago. The date will be Monday, April 25, at 9:15 a.m. and 1 p.m. The closing date for entries is tomorrow.

It is open to all Catholic women, since they can be Rosarians. There will be trophies for all members of the winning team, a trophy for high game, a trophy for high series and one for most pins over average. All trophies will be awarded on a handicap basis since the event is strictly handicap. Cash awards will also be given of the prize, and one bowl out of every entry will receive a cash award.

If a bowler wishes to enter but her league is not sanctioned there is a moral sanction which allows the sanctioned and non-sanctioned bowler to participate. Again there will be multiple entries allowed. For further information or an entry blank please telephone Emma Lamparicello at 763-3368 or Garden State Bowl.

Last year's entrants will receive entry blanks through the mail.

Tournament officials are Dr. Yosef Ben-Jochanan and Ida Catapano from Immaculate Heart of Mary in Maplewood and Maude Russell of St. John in Maplewood.

St. Mark's plans Confirmation rite

The students in St. Mark's R. C. Church of Rahway Religious Education Program who are preparing for the reception of the Sacrament of Confirmation will take part in a special ceremony on Sunday, April 24, at the 9 a.m. Mass.

On this day, which coincides with the celebration of the Feast Day of St. Mark, 51 young members of the Parish will declare their willingness and desire to continue in the Confirmation process in a Rite of Enrollment. They will be called before the altar to testify by their signatures to this intention.

Later, on the same day, religious education will be a feature of the Patronal Feast Day celebration by means of a display of instructional materials and ex-

AARP plans to visit Mystic Seaport

At the April 14 meeting of the American Assn. of Retired People, president, Bernadette Acerno, finalized details for a two-day trip to Mystic Seaport on Saturday and Sunday, May 14 and 15, including a tour of the Navy submarine base at Groton, Conn., Mystic Marine Life Aquarium, overnight at Day's Inn, a tour aboard the last wooden whaling ship, a cruise on the S.S. Sabino on the Mystic River and of Old Mystic Colonial Village, with 46 shops and restaurants, craft demonstrations, and doll museum.

Those who visit this portion of the offerings at the Feast Day celebration will be apprised of these as well as other aspects of the religious education program that forms such a major portion of parish life at St. Mark's R. C. Church, the spokeswoman concluded.

Lynda Volker honored by state unit

Eight members of the Rahway Area Junior Women's Club attended the 1983 District Spring Conference of the Junior Membership Dept. of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, held at the Italian American Social Club in North Plainfield.

The conference opened with a welcome by Sixth District Advisor Pat Sienko, who introduced the district chairwomen and guests, including Ann Quinn, junior director.

A Certificate of Appreciation was presented to Lynda Volker, a member and past president of the Rahway club, who serves as state program, scrapbook and creative writing chairwoman for outstanding service to the state board.

Representing the Rahway club were: Johanna Desiderio, Laurie Desmond,

Bell to open new data center

Citing New Jersey Bell's increasing use of high technology to meet the state's communications needs, company president, Philip A. Campbell, recent host of ground-breaking ceremonies for the company's new $22 million data center in Freehold Township.

Speaking before a group of state and local leaders that included Commissioner of Commerce and Economic Development, Gordon Fainman, Mr. Campbell said the new facility signals important economic benefits for both New Jersey and New Jersey.

"We rely on the processing and programming capabilities of computers to streamline our operations," he noted. "That, in turn, leads to faster service, reduced operating costs and increased productivity in our business."

Located on a 57-acre site on Rte. 137 adjacent to Freehold Area Hospital, the 256,556 square-foot building is expected to generate more than 100 acres of local construction jobs during the next two years.

Mr. Campbell said the building will provide comfortable new quarters for 430 New Jersey Bell employees when it opens in early 1985, increasing to 730 employees by 1992. Many of those employees now work at the company's data center in Madison.

More than 150 of the new data center employees will work in shifts to maintain continuous computer operations around the clock, seven days a week. The remaining computer analysts and programmers will work from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily to maintain and develop new systems.

In addition to computer operations and systems development, the new facility will house New Jersey Bell's computer-programming and operations-training center.

New Jersey Bell originally purchased the 177-acre site in November, 1981 for $17.7 million. The company plans to continue to lease more than 100 acres of the site to a local farmer.

Recall issued on attic ventilators

In co-operation with the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission, Westinghouse Electric Corp. and Braun Manufacturing Co. today announced a voluntary recall of approximately 16,000 electric motors supplied by Westinghouse for Braun Model N346 and Nautilus Model N346 attic ventilators.

The manufacturer has received one report of fire. No consumers have been injured.

Owners are asked to copy down the motor model number and date code before telephoning the toll-free number given below if they have one of the suspect ventilators in their home.

Owners of the affected ventilators should disconnect or turn them off, and telephone Westinghouse Electric Corp. on their toll-free number: 1-800-821-7700, extension 133. A new motor will be supplied and installed by service personnel free of charge.

The recall affects only those ventilators with the motor model number N346 and Nautilus Model N346. The ventilator can be identified from outside the house by the two-foot diameter, round beige plastic dome with either a Braun or Nautilus logo embossed in the top or from literature or other motors, the spokesman noted.

For further information or questions, consumers may telephone the Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-CRSC. A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8227.

Adult educators cite DiFrancesco

Sen. Donald T. DiFrancesco, who represents Clark, will be one of 10 state legislators honored today at the awards luncheon at the Annual Conference of the Assn. for Adult Education of New Jersey, which will be held at Resorts International Hotel in Atlantic City.

The award is for individuals outside the field of education who have demonstrated outstanding service and support for the existence and advancement of the life-long learner.

Throughout adult education efforts to fund a restoration of funds for adult education and high school completion programs, Sen. DiFrancesco has provided continual advice and assistance, reports a spokesman.

Through enabling adults to become employed or better employed because of their basic skill improvement and/or earning high school diplomas, these programs return the state's investment in them.

One third of New Jersey's adult population aged 25 or older is without a high school diploma. The members of the association are honored to know Sen. DiFrancesco understands the needs of the population served by this field and is willing to act on their behalf, the spokesman concluded.

Miss Barnick gets degree

A Rahway student, Mary Ann Barnick, recently received her bachelor of arts degree in biology from Kean College in Union.

Sen. DiFrancesco understands the needs of the population served by this field and is willing to act on their behalf, the spokesman concluded.

Miss Forrester gets degree

A resident of Rahway, Lauren Ann Forrester, James McNichols, recently received her bachelor of arts degree in English from Kean College in Union.

Sen. DiFrancesco understands the needs of the population served by this field and is willing to act on their behalf, the spokesman concluded.

Troop No. 47 to sell clothes

Rahway Troop No. 47 of the Boy Scouts will sponsor a Name-Brand Discount Clothing Sale at Rahway Post No. 5 of the American Legion on Maple Ave. on Sunday, May 1.

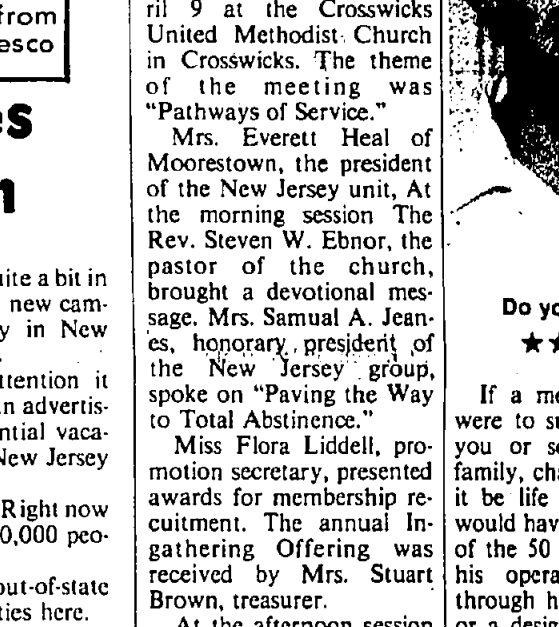

The sale will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. A bake sale will also be held at this time.

Sen. DiFrancesco understands the needs of the population served by this field and is willing to act on their behalf, the spokesman concluded.

He could save you

Could you identify this man? Even if your life depended on it?

Sen. DiFrancesco understands the needs of the population served by this field and is willing to act on their behalf, the spokesman concluded.

State promotes perfect match

New Jersey and you, perfect together. You'll be hearing and seeing this slogan quite a bit in the months ahead. It's the theme of the state's new campaign to boost the fastest-growing industry in New Jersey — tourism.

At last, tourism will be getting the attention it deserves. The state will spend a million dollars in advertising over the next few months to show potential vacationers there's more to New Jersey than the New Jersey Turnpike.

Tourism has a great potential in this state. Right now it is a $5 billion-a-year industry employing 200,000 people. And tourism continues to grow.

Just think of how it will expand when out-of-state residents learn about all the vacation possibilities here.

That's the idea behind the promotional campaign. The television and radio spots, which will air on New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York stations, give a 30-second look at state's beaches, mountains, rivers, historic sites and entertainment.

Comedian, Bill Cosby, talks about what New Jersey has to offer in some radio spots.

Although the advertisements promote the entire state, state tourism officials are hoping local government and business officials will pick up the theme in advertising regional attractions.

The new slogan can open up opportunities for merchants selling T-shirts, mugs and other souvenirs promoting the theme.

Although the advertisements are general, the Division of Travel and Tourism has prepared promotional brochures on specific regions of the state. Each region has an individual theme such as "Do More Than Get Your Feet Wet at Our Southern Shore."

This campaign holds great promise for the future of tourism throughout the state and in the shore region in particular. It offers a memorable slogan and a positive, exciting view of the state.

The $1 million investment should pay off three or fourfold in additional business for the state.

Not only should the campaign attract thousands of new tourists to the state, it should turn around New Jersey's image of being a corridor state with little more to offer than highways and smoke stacks.

Stable move won't hurt programs

With construction of the new Watchtower Stables set to get underway shortly, the Union County Dept. of Parks and Recreation is making every effort to arrange and schedule its programs around the work, in order to ensure riders an uninterrupted calendar, reports a spokesman.

The 1983 Spring Season will be held at the present site on Glenside Ave., and plans are to begin the Fall Troop program in September at the new site. Spring and summer programs will proceed as usual, but on a somewhat limited basis.

Due to the ongoing construction, stable personnel will be taking whatever precautionary measures necessary to ensure rider safety. The present Glenside Ave. will be temporarily relocated so traffic will not interfere with the construction in that area.

The new Glenside Ave. will then become the access road to the trail system, while the current stables remain in that location. The state will provide a fence-in path along the road for the safety of both horses and riders. Lower squads will be trained in the rings on the stables grounds whenever necessary, continuing on the construction schedule, the spokesman added.

Registration for the spring season of the Watchtower Mounted Troop is currently underway. Some 300 youngsters participate in the troop program annually.

The new stable complex will be located at the former Nike Missile site, in the northeastern section of the reservation.

Collegiate coaches cite Terry Juliano

Clark athlete, Terry Juliano, was named to the New Jersey Collegiate Basketball Coaches Assn. All-Star Team for 1982-1983. The sophomore guard played for Union County College's Women's Basketball Team.

Miss Juliano was also named All-Region No. 19 NJCAA honorable mention player for Union County College's Women's Basketball Team.

Miss Juliano had a fine year for the Lady Ows. The point guard led the team in points, 352, assists, 93, and steals, 66. She also pulled down 65 rebounds as the Ows finished with an 18-10 record, and their ninth straight Region No. 19.

In the Collegiate Basketball Coaches Assn. basketball game on April 10 at Ursula College in East Orange, Miss Juliano scored nine points while contributing five assists and two steals.

The winning team, the Ows, defeated the Lady Ows of Lehigh, Fla., from Tuesday to Friday, June 1 to 4, at Forsgate Country Club in Juneburg.

Dunscombe will chair the event with Augie Eosso of Somerset County College.

The tournament will feature teams from Region No. 19, NJCAA, which includes New Jersey, New York and Eastern Pennsylvania. Golfers will compete on a 36-hole tournament.

St. Mark's maps Patronal Feast

St. Mark's R. C. Church of Rahway will celebrate its Third Annual Patronal Feast Day at the church, at 287 Hillside St., Rahway, on Sunday, April 24.

A Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving will begin the day's events at noon. It will be celebrated by the pastor, The Rev. Theodorus F. Zubor, the associate pastor. The Rev. Joseph J. Jaremczyk, the pastor emeritus, The Rev. Rev. Messrs. Charles F. Butner and other priests who have served St. Mark's through the years.

Special music will be prepared by choir director, Alice Frazee, for the Mass in which the parishioners thank God for the blessings he has bestowed upon them during their 112-year history under the patronage of St. Mark.

Following the Mass there will be a dedication of the St. Mark's World War II Shrine, which will be dedicated to the memory of the parishioners who served in the armed forces during the second World War.

Feast day co-ordinator, Mrs. Meyer, reports the Religious Education Dept., St. Ann's Society and Holy Name Society will feature displays for the parishioners.

Members of the newly-formed St. Mark's Lions Youth Group, under the direction of Liz Bear and Nancy Saliga, will also be in attendance to present their activities and contributions to the parish over the last year. Matt Pazzurina and Frieda Jacquemin will host a 10th picnic, offering hot dogs, sauerkraut, doughnuts and beverages to all parishioners.

Mr. Meyer commented these feast days are becoming a tradition in the parish and not only for celebrating its long and interesting history, but for allowing the parishioners to get to know the priests and become better acquainted with each other.
