According to a statement by Police Chief Theodore E. Polhamus in the department's 1982 annual report, which was released to The | were to strictly enforce the Rahway News-Record last city ordinances and state week. "We are attempting to return to the public the sense of security and well being the 'beat officer' once attractive place for the citiprovided. In understanding zens of our community to the adage, 'One can never shop." go home again,' I am a firm believer that success depends upon the effort." Although admitting that last year's attempt to recreate the old "beat officer's" personalized service to his patrol area fell far short of the police department's intended goal, the chief said his departa directed patrol program that offers "the epitomy in crime prevention and police-citizen co-operation once again in 1983." He added the program has already been the focal point of a meeting he had with local citizen groups which had been invited by councilmen to sit with police administrators in an effort to solve problems."

In a related crime-prevention measure, the report points out the Downtown Security Taskforce was established in September by Mayor Daniel L. Martin and Chief Polhamus with funds from a Community Development grant.

The force was put under the command of Lt. Barry Henderson and Sgt. Morris Clay. Assisting them were Sergeants Ronald McKeown and Kenneth Sides.

White, Donald Caulfield, George Barnick and Philip Reimer and Detectives William Shiel, Robert Disko and Edward Tilton.

From Sept. 16 of last year to Feb. 5 of this year 12 officers were assigned to patrol the downtown business district in teams of two officers each. Their duties statutes and to "thoroughly make the downtown shopping center a safe, secure and

The budget allowed for the patrol from its inception through the Christmas season to the end of the grant was $8,078. The total amount used by the tactical team, including that during the Christmas season, and allowance for detective surveillance, supervision, administration and record keeping as of Feb. 8, 1983 was $7.632.

Although there was a total of 308 miles covered, no mileage had been paid for by the city as of the filing of the report, although there was $446 left in the grant after the above expenses were paid.

One of the major themes of the chief's section of the report was the ability of the police to function well faced with economic cutbacks and fiscal restraints coupled with additional demands for services. Thanks to an agreement with the Policemen's Benevolent Assn. whereby officers accepted compensatory time off in lieu of overtime money $43,000 in overtime pay was saved, reports the chief. He added a resource reallocation policy was in-

Other contractual cutbacks achieved reduced the number of supervisors on duty during the weekends and this eliminated a previous minimum manpower requirement. Because of maintained traffic enforcement the accident ratio declined, and vacant patrol posts were filled without paying overtime, the chief pointed out.

The police director further stated, "In spite of the hardships imposed by an ailing economy the crime picture continues to show improvements. Violent crime, indicative of hard times, has increased by 15.3%, yet when placed in perspective with all crime the city showed a total decrease in crime

He explained, however, the increase in violent crime actually showed an increase of 24 robberies in 1982 over

The city's chief police-man added, "Of the 75 robberies that occurred in 1982, 43 cases were cleared by arrest, a tribute to the expertise of those officers who worked and achieved such high standards of performance.

Chief Polhamus also credited improved crimeprevention programs and stituted in order to stay Neighborhood Watch within the budgeted salary groups with helping to keep and wages. Personnel from crime under control.

Plant tomatoes on cloudy day

Though bright, sunny days are ideal for most gardening chores, smart gardeners will try to plant their tomato plants on a grey. Joyce Rita Mulhall, program associate with the Union County Co-operative Extension Service, explains bright sunlight draws water out of leaves faster than the recently-disturbed roots can replace it with water from the soil. When the plant is losing more water than it can take up, wilting results. By transplanting on a cloudy day when the de mand for water is not as great, the gardener provides the roots with a little more to maintain school I read with interest the tear-jerker letter by R. L. Guiler in local newspapers about the city of Rahway, and mostly about our schools and how the people of our city show a distinct lack of co-operation and understanding to

I would like to point out a few discrepencies his letter failed to elaborate. 1) Who destroys the school property and equipment? 2) Who shows a lack of respect for the teachers, with their horseplay and downright insolence and rowdiness?

3) Who fails to learn what is being taught by our qualified teachers? 4) Who destroys the lawn and shrubs planted to beautify the school property? 5) Who breaks the windows and shows an inhuman

Surely it is not the people paying the taxes, but we are asked to support these renewal projects over and over I do not know the age of Mr. Guiler, but when I went to school we respected our teachers and school pro-disregard for property not belonging to them?

I remember every Friday we would volunteer to wash the desks, clean the blackboards and do whatever chores necessary to see our homeroom was spic-and-spar come Monday morning. We took pride in learning everything that was taught to us, not that we had to, but because we wanted to. Granted the high school is far from clean only because it is due to the lack of maintenance and unkeen. I am sure the funds derived from the property school tax for this purpose are sufficient to keep the school up, but due to lack of student co-operation the maintendance department cannot keen up.

We pay school taxes, but there is an added revenue of additional school tax. Even our tax office does not know why it is there or why we have to pay it or what it is used for. I questioned this five times at the tax office to no

So you see Mr. Guiler, the people are just plain tired of more and more taxes to support a service, convenience and privilege that is not appreciated by the students of Rahway High School.

THE PERFECT PERM

If you ever had your hair ruined by the wrong perm, you know that doing a perfect perm is a separate skill, and that's one of our specialties. We use an enzyme wave that gently curves your hair into curl that lasts, and never looks artificial. We also use a test curl method that allows your hair to tell us the precise lotion strength needed to curl your hair-that way there are no surprises, just perfect results.

energy conservation improvements and your annual income is less than $30,000, PSE&G will lend you the money. Surprisingly enough, interest free."

"Permit us to assist you with energy conservation." At PSEsG, we want to help you achieve efficient home energy use. Smart use of electricity and natural gas saves you money and helps to conserve our nation's resources. One way we're helping is through our Seal-up & Save Loan Program, which was designed in cooperation with the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities. PSE&G is making loans available to you to help finance the installation of energy conservation measures "Incomes less than $30,000—no interest charge. Incomes $30,000 - $50,000low, low interest."

If you qualify, and your family's yearly income is less than $30,000, you'll pay no interest charge whatsoever. Between $30,000 and $50,000, the interest is just half the current consumer interest rate. Among the conservation measures eligible for financing are: Ceiling insulation • Wall insulation • Floor insulation • Weatherstripping • Low-flow shower heads and faucet flow restrictors . Caulking Duct wrap • Clock thermostats and zone thermostats • Storm or thermal windows or doors • Attic ventilating fans.

"Pertinent considerations" You qualify for a PSE<sub>N</sub>G loan if you: (1) Are a PSEsG residential gas or electric heating customer at your primary residence. (2) Are the owner of your primary residence. (3) Have a family income less than $50,000 per year. (4) Have an acceptable credit rating. (5) Have not received a discontinuance notice for electric or gas service from PSE<sub>N</sub>G during the 12 months prior to your application.

Junior bowlers mark 25 years on lanes

The Clark Junior Bowling Leagues at a recent banquet celebrated their 25th anniversary with more than 400 junior bowlers, parents, coaches and bowling guests in attendance.

Harold Sherman, the organizer of the leagues in 1957, and three of his original coaches, Mrs. Alberta Volpe; Tony Volpe and Marvin Veverka, were honored guests for the even-The highlight of the even-
