

City Council unanimously voices opposition to parking lot proposal for Green Field

By R. R. Faszczewski
Rahway Hospital officials will now have to look elsewhere besides Rahway's Green Field for the parking needed for construction equipment and the vehicles of its employees during the hospital's Expansion 80's program, thanks to a resolution adopted by the unanimous vote of City Council Monday.

The Council resolution, introduced by First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine, and seconded by Councilman-at-Large James Cadigan, substantially is very similar to one introduced by Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer on July 14 in that it expresses opposition to the Green Field parking, citing environmental and safety reasons in addition to the fact that the county-owned land on the corner of Westfield and Madison Aves. is a major playground area for city children and an area used by city schools for many of their physical education classes.

However, several phrases were added to the Fulcomer resolution Monday, including the City Council's opposition to the field plan, the fact that many city residents have expressed their opposition to the field plan over a number of meetings since the original resolution was postponed on July 11, the fact that a letter dated Aug. 5 from Mayor Daniel L. Martin said the committee he appointed to study the hospital parking problem had ruled out Green Field as a site for parking and the fact that the Governing Body has pledged to work with the hospital in working out a solution to its parking problem.

In addition to the formation of a citizen's group to oppose the five-year temporary parking plan at Green Field, the Green Field preservation Organization, residents at Monday's Council session said they had collected about 3,000 signatures in opposition to the field plan.

In another development, the hospital last week had issued a statement saying it was abandoning plans to use Green Field for parking because the plan was "alienating the whole town."

Furthermore, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, which had been the first body to approve the Green Field proposal July 14 voted to withdraw its support for the plan.

After the 7-0 vote was taken Monday, two councilmen were absent from the session, Councilman Bodine thanked residents for their great response on a controversial issue.

However, he urged them to come out in as great numbers for every Council meeting they could in order to stay involved and keep the government responsive.

Rensselaer cites Sheila Adams

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Troy, N. Y., awards the Rensselaer Medal annually to high school students for outstanding achievements in the study of mathematics and science during their junior year.

A Rahway student, Sheila Marie Adams of 2076 Knak Pl., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Adams and a student at Rahway High School, received this year's award.

Rahway professor gives Canadians closeup view of U. S. justice

Three professors and 36 criminal justice students from Calgary, Alberta, Canada, about 200 miles north of Montana, came to Kean College of New Jersey in Union on Aug. 1 to visit Fort Apache in the Bronx, Rahway State Prison, Manhattan Criminal Court and other criminal justice landmarks.

Their teacher and guide for the three-week, three-credit course is Dr. Michael Israel of Rahway, an associate professor of political science at Kean College.

Dr. Israel, a criminologist, is a member of the Community Advisory Board of the Juvenile Awareness Program at Rahway Prison. He has served in an advisory capacity since the program's inception in 1976.

Dr. Israel said the Canadians are interested in the American criminal justice system. The contrast, he said, will help them better understand their own system, which does not include exclusionary rules and the same concept of individual rights. It also takes a treatment approach to corrections, whereas, he said, the United States system is punitive.

"Rahway Prison will be a shock to them," he said, adding, "Nothing else will be scheduled for that day because they will need the time to recover. They wanted to see the criminal justice system at its heart so they couldn't think of a better place to go because we have dormitories and the proximity to an enormous number of things."

In addition to the 36 Canadian students, about 20 Kean College criminal justice students, including professional police officers, are enrolled in the course entitled, "The American Criminal Justice System."

Dr. Israel said the interaction among the Canadian and American students will be an important part of the experience.

The professor first made contact with John Neville, a professor of criminal justice at Mount Royal College in Calgary, and other Canadians at conferences of the American Society of Criminology and the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences.

Dr. Israel lectured on the Rahway Prison Juvenile Awareness Program twice in 1980 and in the spring of 1982, both times before conferences on juvenile justice.

When Mr. Neville contacted Dr. Israel in the fall of 1982, this summer course was decided upon. The Canadians are living in the dormitories at Kean and travel in vans belonging to Kean College and John Jay College of Criminal Justice of the City University of New York.

John Jay students, police officers, are serving as guides during the New York City excursions.

County college offers computers for everyone

Twenty-two courses covering various aspects of computer operations will be offered at five Union County locations by Union County College during the fall semester, it was announced today by Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman of Westfield, the vice president for academic affairs.

The courses are offered through three associate degree programs and through the college's Division of Continuing Education. The degree programs include 17 credit offerings; the continuing education program five non-credit courses.

The computer courses will be offered at the college's campuses in Cranford and Scotch Plains, as well as at New Providence, Cranford and Elizabeth High Schools.

The fall semester will begin on Thursday, Sept. 1, on the Cranford and Scotch Plains campuses when all computer courses for credit will begin.

The non-credit courses will be offered starting on Monday, Sept. 19, at New Providence High School and also at the college's Cranford campus, and beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at Elizabeth and Cranford High Schools, and also at the Scotch Plains campus.

The computer science courses for credit being offered this fall range from "Introduction to Computer-Based Systems," a course designed to introduce the student to the operation and the role of the computer in business, to "Ap-lications Program Development I," which deals with the use of the COBOL language, to "FORTRAN," a course intended to familiarize the student with the high-level Programming Language FORTRAN IV, using that language to solve typical programming problems.

The non-credit courses being offered this fall are "Understanding Computers," a non-technical course which requires no previous knowledge of computers, "Introduction to Data Processing," which deals with the fundamental concepts of computing systems, "Developing Mathematical Background for Computer Programming," "Computer Programming: COBOL I," and "Computer Literacy for Adults."

Registration information for the credit courses may be obtained by telephoning 889-4100 in Scotch Plains or 272-8580 in Cranford. Information on non-credit courses is available through the office of continuing education by telephoning 276-2600, extension 206 or 238.

SITE OF HOSPITAL'S BIRTH - The two houses shown, at 968 and 978 Jacques Ave., Rahway, were used by Rahway Hospital from 1917 to 1929, when the hospital was moved into a new building on Stone St. The main building had an operating room, wards, semi-private rooms and the superintendent's office. The other structure had the nurses' home and private rooms. A nurses' training school and an emergency operating room also were in the hospital. This picture comes to mind because of recent publicity about the expansion of the present hospital building on Stone St.

County college lauds nurses of the future

Twenty-two students in practical nursing programs received their nursing pins during a pinning ceremony conducted on the college's Scotch Plains campus on Aug. 10.

Fifteen of the students are enrolled in the college's one-year practical nursing program and attend day-evening classes, while the seven others represent the part-time evening division, which takes two years to complete.

The program is designed to prepare the students, who will be graduated this month, for the licensing examination of the state of New Jersey.

The ceremony, held in Band Hall, included a candlelight ceremony presided over by the Florence Nightingale League, according to Mrs. Catherine Helmick of Rahway, the coordinator of the practical nursing program.

"I'm confident that the members will pass their state boards in October and be licensed, and will meet the needs of the community they will serve," Mrs. Helmick reported.

All of the graduates of the college's practical nursing programs have been placed in practical nursing jobs following successful completion of the program, Mrs. Helmick reported.

The students were welcomed at the pinning ceremony by Dr. Leonard T. Kresman, the vice president for academic affairs at the college; Miss Colleen Mitchell, the assistant director of social services at the Elizabeth General Medical Center; and Elizabeth Harris, the principal speaker at the event.

Dr. Saul Orkin, the college's president; Dr. Theodore Austin, the director of the Division of Nursing and Allied Health, a member of the college's Board of Trustees; and Joseph J. Denise Deckenback, representing the full-time day program, and Janice Hummel, representing the part-time evening program, also were present.

Not for a class, or a lecture, or an athletic event, their target is the New Placement Test. Under regulations adopted by the New Jersey Board of Higher Education, all students seeking admission to a degree program in a New Jersey public college or university must take the test. It is not an admissions test, but a basic-skills placement test.

Students who do badly in any of the three areas or all of them must take remedial courses before registering in college credit courses.

This scene takes place about 40 times each year in a New Jersey public college with more than 2,000 students expected to take the test this year by the time fall semester opens on Thursday, Sept. 1.

There were nearly 2,600 applicants who took the test a year ago, and we anticipate an even larger number for 1983," Douglas Greenwood, the director of the college's Academic Placement Testing Program, said.

Approximately 40 test dates are available at the Cranford campus up to this month. Testing is also scheduled the first two weeks in any term to accommodate late registrants, Mr. Greenwood reported.

Since 1978 the New Jersey Board of Higher Education has mandated all freshmen entering a New Jersey public college, all full-time and part-time freshmen seeking a degree, anyone taking 12 credits or more, and any freshman transfer student who has taken the test must complete the test. The state's purpose is to provide information to the prospective student and advisors concerning the student's readiness regarding student course selection and preparation.

The college has provided testing of new students since 1967 in areas of reading, writing and mathematics. Commencing with the state's 1978 ruling on basic skills requirements, the placement testing operation became dependent on the computer. The academic placement department checks computer files for students who need testing; notices are then mailed to

Hospital board names Maguire

County freeholder from 1969 to 1974 and as mayor of Clark from 1960 to 1968, William J. Maguire has been named to the board of directors of the Elizabeth General Medical Center.

Maguire, 62, is a Union County resident and a member of the board of directors of the Elizabeth General Medical Center.

The Rev. Robert F. Benedict, the Catholic chaplain at Overlook Hospital in Summit, delivered the invocation and benediction at the meeting.

The practical nursing program is offered twice a year by the college, in January and September for daytime students. The part-time evening program also offers a semester on campus followed by two semesters of clinical experience at the Elizabeth General Medical Center.

Dr. Maguire served as a state assemblyman from 1975 to 1982, a Union County freeholder from 1969 to 1974 and as mayor of Clark from 1960 to 1968.

His business experience includes being the co-owner and vice president of Elmco Distributors, which he founded in 1949, and the owner of the Clark Travel Agency from 1973 to 1979.

In 1977 he founded New Jersey's largest travel agency, Maguire's Travel Service, which he served as president.

Mr. Maguire's 30 years of experience in the private sector and more than a quarter century of involvement in the public sector make him an excellent addition to our board," stated Mr. Harris.

Mr. Maguire recently served as the executive assistant to Governor George Atanasiu for two years.

Basic skills mastery opens college doors

On many Saturday mornings in spring and early summer students of Union County area high schools seniors and a sprinkling of college students are taking the New Placement Test at Union County College's Cranford campus.

"Just let me die" which proved the young soldier no seconds after a Viet Cong hand mangled his body.

Unwilling to listen to such talk, the sergeant ordered Dennis A. Joyner to stop wishing for death, telling him he had much to live for.

"Right then," the Vietnam combat veteran said, "I found life's obstacles. I wanted to be a winner to overcome an obstacle life put in my way."

After losing both legs and an arm, the Apollo, Pa., man found life's obstacles. He was a winner to overcome an obstacle life put in my way.

Mr. Joyner has served the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) since he chose him to lead their organization through the coming year. The election took place at the DAV's national convention in Los Angeles.

Library seeks ideas for handicapped aid

The Rahway Public Library is planning to make improvements in the library building in order to provide an acceptable means of access to the physically handicapped to the library services and programs.

To aid in the planning for these changes, the library is seeking ideas from handicapped persons in the community. Those who are interested should contact Arthur D. Sadall or Mrs. Robert D. Sadall at 1175 St. George Ave. and the telephone number is 388-0761.

Health-care bill must be decreased

If the United States expects to control rising health costs, it must concentrate its efforts on the kind of care and the method of financing health services for the aged.

The National Center for Health Statistics has projected the nursing home population will increase by 500,000 per decade in coming years. Between 10 and 40% of this population could avoid expensive nursing home placement if home and community-based services were more readily available.

Under the bill, Medicare would be expanded to include more elderly people. It is not intended to provide for the care of the aged. It is not intended to provide for the care of the aged.

Mrs. Ogden backs cost containment in car insurance

The bipartisan agreement to build medical and automobile repair-cost containment into a comprehensive reform package represents "significant progress" that should help control automobile insurance costs, according to Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, who represents Clark.

She said talks initiated by Gov. Thomas H. Kean with Assembly Speaker Alan Kercheval and Senate President Carmen Orechio are apparently succeeding with reform legislation to be ready for the Legislature's consideration by Labor Day.

RAHWAY FIRE DEPT. FIRE-WISE You can prevent forest fires

It's a cliché, true. But as the dog days of summer linger and the forests dry, each of us who visit the woods must take personal responsibility for the safety and integrity of the forests.

The fire-wise camper, hiker or driver takes common-sense precautions to keep from destroying the outdoor enjoyment he enjoys. Here's how to add these precautions to your outdoor behavior.

Smoke with care. If you're driving, use your car's ashtray and don't throw butts out the window. Even a freshly-crushed cigarette can contain enough heat to spark a holocaust.

If you're camping, bring along ashtrays or use pieces of aluminum foil or other noncombustible material for a large rock on which to flick their ashes. As an alternative, hiking shops carry small fire-proof containers of fluid that can be used as field ashtrays.

Drivers should also exercise care, especially when going off the road. Cars and truck with catalytic converters are getting off the road, and trucks with catalytic converters are getting off the road.

Employment survey to be taken

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of Aug. 15 to 20, William P. Hill, the director of the bureau's regional office in New York City, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 60,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in June the survey indicated that the nation's unemployment rate was 10.9%, down from 10.1% the month before.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

'New Jersey and You' promoted

Commerce Commissioner Bardeen R. Putnam last week announced a summer promotional campaign featuring the "New Jersey and You Perfect Together" theme.

The campaign, the first to be launched in the summer, is designed to draw attention to New Jersey's natural assets, attract visitors to its scenic destinations and promote safe vacationing in the Garden State.

The summer campaign has four components: Advertising, public service announcements, a familiarization tour of the Jersey shore for travel writers and a "New Jersey and You Perfect Together Weekend."

"New Jersey resorts are enjoying a good summer season," Commissioner Putnam said. "Our mid-summer campaign is designed to continue this momentum through September."

Additionally, he said, the campaign will emphasize the importance of safety during the summer months. "We want visitors and vacationers to have fun in New Jersey," the commissioner added. "We want them to have a safe vacation as they discover why they and New Jersey are Perfect Together."

The commercials, which began in late July, are running on 39 New Jersey radio stations and continuing through Labor Day. A radio campaign began on seven New York City radio stations on July 13 and will continue for approximately eight weeks. The radio campaign also began on four Philadelphia radio stations July 14 and will continue for approximately eight weeks. The cost of the campaign is approximately $222,000.

In addition to the radio spots promoting New Jersey as a vacation destination, the department's Division of Travel and Tourism has distributed public service announcements recorded by Gov. Thomas H. Kean, Secretary of State Jane Burgo, Attorney General Irwin I. Kimelman, Environmental Protection Commissioner Robert Hughey, Michael Barrett, the assistant commissioner of the Dept. of Transportation, Helen Fenske, the assistant commissioner of the Dept. of Environmental Protection, Clifford Smedley, the director of the Division of Motor Vehicles, and Victoria D. Schmidt, the director of the Division of Travel and Tourism.

County youth need more helping hands

The Volunteer Service at the Union County Probation Office in Elizabeth recruits members of the community, gives them brief, intensive training, and then matches them with juveniles who the courts feel need a special touch.

Volunteers provide these youngsters with extra care and assistance while saving money for the taxpayers. For the volunteers, it is a chance to change a person's life, and to help fight the larger problems of crime and delinquency in New Jersey, reports a spokesman.

To keep growing the service needs new people who are willing to give a few hours each week for their community.

A new group of volunteers will be trained starting on Tuesday, Sept. 13, and there is still room in this class. Anyone interested in becoming part of this program should contact Dr. Fay L. Granberry, the director, at the Union County Probation Office, 32 Winfield Court Plaza, Elizabeth, N. J. 07201 or telephone 353-0500.

The Union County Volunteers in Probation, a state and national award winning program, will celebrate its 13th year in 1983. The program, consisting of over 400 volunteers, brings to the courts an individualized concept in helping youngsters who are in trouble with the law.

Anyone over 18 who is interested in helping a youngster may apply to become a volunteer. The program offers a wide range of help to youngsters from counseling, and tutoring to special interest types and group work.

Volunteers in Probation of Union County will begin its 41st training session on Sept. 13, and on the consecutive Tuesdays, Sept. 20 and 27 and Oct. 4 and Oct. 11. The sessions will be held in the sixth-floor conference room of the Union County Administration Building, which is behind the county courthouse on Elizabethtown Plaza.

The training program, conducted by Dr. Granberry, the director of Volunteers in Probation Division offers skill development in interpersonal relations by teaching counseling and listening techniques, role playing, psycho-drama, record keeping and monthly reports as well as the legal public service announcements cover a variety of subjects ranging from automobile and boating safety to the prevention of forest fires and support of the performing arts.

The radio program is part of a promotional campaign that includes a visit to the New Jersey shore by travel writers and the official "New Jersey and You Perfect Together Weekend."

On Aug. 2, the tourism director led a group of travel writers on a tour of the shore, beginning in Cape May and ending at Sandy Hook. The tour is focusing attention on the shore, Southern shore and greater Atlantic City regions of New Jersey.

"New Jersey's 127 miles of Atlantic Ocean beaches are well known as the longest and finest stretch of white sand beaches in America," Victoria Schmidt said. "We hope to familiarize these writers with the spirit of the shore, from the hustle and bustle of boardwalk amusements to the quiet coves of Barnegat Bay; from the modern hotels along the ocean to the quaint communities and landmark historic districts that dot the coast."

During the tour the director is meeting with the mayors of ocean-front communities in Cape May, Atlantic, Ocean and Monmouth Counties to distribute T-shirts for their life guard crews and promotional items for distribution to the public.

The institute, which provides concentrated instruction in English for speakers of other languages, is located in the college's Elizabeth Urban Educational Center at 10 Butler St. Institute classes meet in day and evening sessions from Monday to Thursday.

English institute sets registration

In-person registration for Union County College's Institute for Intensive English will be conducted on Tuesday, Aug. 16, and Thursday, Aug. 18, at the Elizabeth Urban Educational Center, according to Prof. Howard Pomann, the director.

Current students will register on Aug. 16 from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. New students may register on Aug. 18 at the same times.

The institute, which provides concentrated instruction in English for speakers of other languages, is located in the college's Elizabeth Urban Educational Center at 10 Butler St. Institute classes meet in day and evening sessions from Monday to Thursday.

After placement testing, an evaluation of exactly how much English a person can comprehend, students are placed in a "module" that matches their English language proficiency, Prof. Pomann said.

"What every adult needs to know about college" is the theme of a free information session to be conducted by Union County College on Saturday, Aug. 13.

Celanese gives college $500

Union County College received a gift of $500 from Celanese Research in Summit, it was announced by Dr. Saul Orkin, the president of the college.

The money will be used toward the purchase of equipment for the chemical technology laboratory at the Scotch Plains campus. Union County College's two-year chemical technology program trains students in the basics of chemistry, mathematics, liberal arts and computer courses.

Graduates of the program are prepared to become technicians in chemical, petroleum and pharmaceutical companies or they may transfer to colleges which offer a bachelor's degree in chemistry or chemical engineering.

Your love can make the world a better place for your neighbor and yourself.

Hand-In-Hand to fight 'pirates'

Santo Toro, the walk coordinator, explained the concept of the walk.

The walk will commence at the college, proceed to and around Roosevelt Park and return to the college. Pirates with prizes, games and entertainment will greet the expected 100 to 2,000 walkers.

Mr. Toro added "Each walker solicits pledges from community sponsors who are placed in a "module" that matches their English language proficiency, Prof. Pomann said.

Proceeds from this year's walk will help defray the cost of future Hand-In-Hand festivals and also aid in the expansion of Hand-In-Hand for all handicapped citizens of New Jersey.

To volunteer for the walk please telephone the Hand-In-Hand office at 388-4453 or write to Hand-In-Hand at Post Office Box 62, Woodbridge, N. J. 07095.
