Education Board delays school revamp vote pending receipt of fee figure from architect

By R. R. Faszczewski

Approval of renovations of two student toilet facilities at Rahway High School, the cost of which was estimated at $46,000 each, was delayed Monday pending the receipt of a specific percentage figure for an architect's fee.

Board members announced last week they were considering some modest capital improvements at the school in the wake of rejection twice earlier this year of a $6 million bond issue for major renovations to the school facility.

However, at Monday's meeting, Board member Barry D. Henderson, said he didn't think it was good business for the school body to authorize the architectural firm of Eckert, Morton, Russo and Maggio to prepare drawings and specifications for the repair work without getting a specific architect's fee.

The chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, Louis R. Rizzo, told Mr. Henderson the architect had set a 15% contingency fee and the approximate cost of the total renovations would be $46,000 to each bathroom.

Board members then voted unanimously to table any action on the toilet facilities until a special meeting to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at the Superintendent's Office at Rahway Junior High School at 7:55 p.m., at which time details of the architect's fee are expected to be known.

Meanwhile, the school body did approve the installation of a door between the library office and the media center at the high school by Gus Brullini, general contractor, at a maximum cost of $950, and similar work at the junior high school by Mr. Bottini at a maximum cost of $450.

In other action, Board members: -Announced the Sept. 6 meeting would deal with the appointment of personnel; possibly a discussion of the status of school side positions and awarding of bids.

-Approved the participation of Rahway High School in the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Assn. sports program.

-Accepted the resignation of Vincent Nardiello as night custodian at the junior high school, effective Wednesday, Aug. 31.

-Adopted the book, "The American Economy - Analysis, Issues, Principles," for use in the high school economics courses.

-Approved the following fund-raising activities for the upcoming school year: Student photographs, ninth-grade candy sale, yearbooks, Washington trip, student dances, magazine sale, theatrical productions, seventh-and-eighth-grade fund-raising, library book fair, club and class dues, student insurance, Board-approved athletic fees and charities, Student Council fund-raising activities, purchase of novels and periodicals in individual classrooms on a volunteer basis, collection of fines and project money and the Reading is Fundamental Program.

-Okayed the following fund-raising activities for 1983-1984 at the high school: Several activities of the Blue Triangle Club and fund-raising activities of the high school band.

-Accepted the retirement resignation, with regret, of Mrs. Anna Ciano, an elementary music teacher, effective immediately.

-Appointed John Scalfani, Jr. as an elementary music teacher for the 1983-1984 year at an annual interim salary of $18,670.

-Named Donald Pennell as a secondary music teacher for the upcoming school year at the annual interim salary of $17,515.

-Okayed the appointment of Miss Ann Marie McCusker as a home economics teacher at the junior high school for the 1983-1984 school year at the annual interim salary of $15,015.

-Gave their permission for Mrs. Cheryl Carey Mitchell to be hired as a physical education/health teacher at the junior high school for the upcoming school year at the annual interim salary of $14,685.

-Re-appointed Mrs. Marsha Coulson as a para-professional in the special education department for 10 months during the 1983-1984 year at $30 per day, five-and-a-half-hours per day, fully federally funded.

-Appointed Mrs. Lois J. Krinsky as a para-professional in the special education department for 10 months during the upcoming school year at $30 per day, five-and-a-half-hours per day, fully federally funded.

-Raised the salary of Mrs. Diane Shuster, a Madison School teacher, from $25,825 to $26,325 for the upcoming school year for attaining 30 credits beyond her bachelor's degree.

-Added the names of Patricia Kasper, Phyllis Strauss, Cynthia Holzman, Ralph Dunham, Ulysses Gaines, Kevin O'Brien and Denise Gaubreau to the 1983-1984 substitute list.

-Appointed Mrs. Diana Anderson as a clerk-typist at the junior high school for the 1983-1984 school year at an annual interim salary of $8,160.

-Approved the placement of 54 handicapped students at out-of-district sites for the 1983-1984 school year.

-Okayed the attendance of Board members, the superintendent and assistant superintendent of schools, the Board secretary/business administrator and the Board attorney at the New Jersey School Boards Assn. Conference in Atlantic City from Wednesday to Friday, Oct. 26 to 28.

Jobs bill to fund sewers, daycare, housing

By R. R. Faszczewski

Rahway will receive $82,500 in federal funding, including $62,500 to be used for the separation of storm and sanitary sewers, thanks to an agreement with Union County authorized by an ordinance adopted by City Council on Aug. 8.

The other projects to be funded by the aid include: Housing and commercial rehabilitation, $15,000, and Rahway Day Care, $5,000.

A Tuesday, Nov. 1, opening date for the daycare and nursing facility for senior citizens in Rahway, the Rahway Geriatric Center, was announced by Third Ward Councilman Max Shield.

Councilman Shield, who is the governing body's representative to the Rahway Geriatric Center Corp., the non-profit body which operates the facility, also announced Rahway residents have been given preference for jobs at the center where this is allowed.

He added in cases where a state license was required for a particular job Rahway residents with such a license were considered first, and only if there were no city residents with the proper credentials were others hired.

Asked by Second Ward Councilman John C. Marsh who the administrator of the facility would be, Councilman Shield replied Shirley Dosier of Rahway was hired for the position.

He pointed out the administrator has a state license and experience in several similar positions in the area.

In other action, the Council:

-Approved veterans' senior citizens' and disability property tax deductions totaling $9,750 for this year.

-Authorized the removal of a $250 senior citizen's tax deduction from Frank and Henrietta Stevens.

-Okayed the refund of $4,466.36 for 1982 taxes under the Homestead Rebate Act.

Certified to the state that it has reviewed the recommendations made in the 1982 annual audit report.

-Approved the removal of a $50 veterans' tax deduction for 1983 from Edward Leboy.

-Gave its permission for the refund of $100 to Whittage, Inc. of Somerset for an amusement license fee paid. The firm had paid $200 for two machines, but the building inspector had determined only one machine was allowed at the Drug Fair in Rahway.

-Authorized the refund of $278 of the $347.74 paid by Saint John the Baptist Russian Orthodox Church of Rahway to the Planning Board.

Labor Day Parade expects 10,000

New Jersey's own Labor Day Parade, sponsored by the New Jersey State AFL-CIO and the Monmouth-Ocean Counties Central Labor Council of the AFL-CIO, will draw an estimated 10,000 working men and women from throughout the state to march in Asbury Park on Monday, Sept. 5.

Gov. Thomas H. Kean, Sens. Bill Bradley and Frank Lautenberg, Reps. James Howard and Jim Florio and many other state and local officials are expected to join the marchers. The parade has been designated by the national AFL-CIO as the official "Solidarity Day III" event for New Jersey to coincide with national Solidarity Day III events scheduled in each of the 50 states on Labor Day.

Last year's Asbury Park parade, the first annual event, drew 3,500 marchers.

This year's parade will have many bands and floats sponsored by the individual labor organizations from throughout the state.

Rutgers to host band competition

Top high school marching bands from New Jersey and 10 surrounding states will converge on Rutgers University on Saturday, Oct. 22, to do battle for national recognition at the Tri-State Music Bowl I New Jersey, it was announced by William Berz, marching band director for the university and the event's regional director.

The New Jersey program is part of a national high school music education program. With the addition of the New Jersey program, 11 regional competitions are being held in selected cities throughout the United States in 1983.

Designed to encourage and support high school music education, the national not-for-profit program also provides an avenue by which marching bands and local charities can raise much-needed funds.

The states included in the New Jersey region are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Mr. Berz is a member of the 1983 Tri-State Music Bowl Task Force. This

Charles Marciano, the president of the New Jersey State AFL-CIO, and the honorary chairman of the Asbury Park parade, said, "For over 10 years, Labor Day has been set aside especially to honor and to respect America's workers. This year, New Jersey's own labor parade is giving this great American holiday new spirit and energy."

The president of the Monmouth-Ocean Counties Central Labor Council and chairman of the parade, Steve Hornik, emphasized the event will be a "family day," a celebration that will bring marchers and their families into Asbury Park to enjoy the parade, a short rally after the parade and the national Solidarity Day III events scheduled in each of the 50 states on Labor Day.

The Asbury Park Chamber of Commerce is working closely with the New Jersey State AFL-CIO, and the Monmouth-Ocean Counties Central Labor Council, to coordinate the parade, a short rally after the parade and the national Solidarity Day III events scheduled in each of the 50 states on Labor Day.

CHANGING OF GUARD - The Rahway Retired Men's Club will resume weekly Monday meetings on Sept. 12 at 1 p.m. at the Rahway Senior Citizens Center at 1306 Esterbrook Ave. The newly-elected officers for the forthcoming season, left to right, are Edward Schweinberg, historian; Frank Walker, assistant chaplain; Warren Rode, second vice president; Chester Kruklikowski, first vice president; William Storey, president; John Hudak, trustee; Robert MacFadden, secretary; John Schmidt, assistant chaplain; Joseph Wighard, trustee; and Donald Black, sergeant-at-arms. Not shown are: George Black, sergeant-at-arms. In addition, it works to relieve the elderly person's family members when they need to work other activities such as a job, and do not wish to leave their loved one alone.

The program is being financed currently with Union Township Community Development funds, a Title No. 3 grant from the Union County Office on Aging and a grant given by the Adult Community Development Corp.

It is open to men and women having limited impairments, who are physically, socially and emotionally from day care in a professionally-supervised setting. Currently, the program is equipped to handle approximately 20 persons per week, while the number of days an individual chooses to participate can vary from one to five per week, depending upon his personal needs.

"Memorial General has created this day care program for persons 60 years of age and older, who cannot remain alone all day, yet do not need constant supervision or nursing care, such as that provided by a nursing home," added Mrs. Chas-noff.

The program will be held at the United Methodist Church at 1060 Overlook Terr., Union Township.

Persons wishing more information on this program may telephone Mrs. Chas-noff at 687-1900, extension 2320.

Additionally, Mrs. Chas-noff said the program is looking for volunteers who are interested in working with the elderly to assist program staff in co-ordinating a number of planned activities. Persons with skills in arts and crafts such as knitting or needlework, or in audio-visual equipment, nutrition and other activities who wish to volunteer their time should contact Mrs. Diane Ball, the hospital's director of volunteer services at 687-1900, extension 2340.

Hospital offers daycare for seniors

Memorial General Hospital in Union has developed an adult social daycare and wellness program which focuses upon the needs of Union County's senior citizens.

The program, designed to provide a comprehensive range of care for the elderly, consists of an eight-hour-per-day, professionally-supervised, weekday schedule of culturally-creative programs. It has been established to foster and maintain the independence and physical, mental and social well-being of elderly patients, reports a spokeswoman.

"The program is a viable alternative to institutionalization and enables elderly persons to remain in their own homes and communities," said Susan Chas-noff, director of the hospital's director of volunteer services at 687-1900, extension 2340.

Miss Lisa Catanzaro, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Catanzaro of 839 Nicholas Pl., Rahway, was married to Steven Alt, the son of Mrs. Milton Alt of 28 Kilmer Dr., Englishtown, and the late Mr. Alt, on Sunday, May 29, in St. Mary's R. C. Church, Rahway. The Rev. Edward Myers performed the 4 p.m. ceremony.

A reception followed at the Clinton Manor in Union. Secured by her father, the bride had Janet Catanzaro, her sister, as her maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Karen Kvech, Susan Alt and Debbie Alt, the sisters of the groom, and Tracy Catanzaro. Kimberly Wills was the flower girl.

A friend of the groom, Carlos Hall, served as the best man. The ushers were Bob Kvech, Ken Flick, Evan Elias and Eric Von Briel. Joseph Catanzaro was the ringbearer. Following a honeymoon in Bermuda, the couple will reside in Clark.

Mrs. Alt is a graduate of Mother Seton Regional High School in Clark, and is employed by Cosmat, Inc. as a customer representative.

Her husband is a graduate of Manalapan High School and Brookdale Community College, and is employed by Wakefern Food Corp. as a senior computer operator.

Miss Hersch thanks Green Field battlers

Now that it appears the battle to keep Green Field from being sold to the South Ward Councilman James J. Fulmer and First Ward Councilman Lawrence Boline for leading the city legislative efforts to stop the building of a 226-space parking lot in Green Field for a business.

I also commend Councilman Fulmer for attending and speaking up at every pertinent meeting and in all the county resolution that threatened our park was rescinded.

I am pleased the seven councilmen at the last Council meeting voted unanimously for the adoption of the revised resolution written by Councilman Fulmer.

I commend the two councilmen on the study committee, Mr. Boline and James Culligan, who moved and seconded Councilman Fulmer's updated language for the resolution the Sixth Ward councilman earlier introduced opposing the parking lot.

Significantly, the finally adopted resolution also parks the city of Rahway officially in opposition to any parking lot for non-recreational purposes in Green Field, thus closing any loopholes in this matter.

Now the city of Rahway appears behind the principle park should not be used for business purposes, but only for recreational and preservation purposes, the former issue in this controversy.

It's a terrible thing some officeholders would even consider the use of a municipal park for a business. Fortunately, in this case the Green Field Preservation Organization and two councilmen, Mr. Fulmer and Mr. Boline, acted immediately to stop the implementation of the county resolution that would have permitted such a harmful event.

Stop taxing people on phantom profits

One of the unfair taxes of all is the tax on long term capital gains.

Under current law millions of taxpayers are required to pay taxes on phantom profits, or paper gains that never gave them a real economic benefit.

The reason is capital gains are not indexed for inflation. Because the increase in the value of an asset held for several years could be due wholly to inflation, a taxpayer could have substantial gains for tax purposes even though the real value of the asset did not increase.

For example, an individual who buys an asset for $1,000 and holds it for 10 years at an annual rate of 7% would realize 100% compounded inflation over the 10 years. If he sold the asset for $2,000 he would have no real increase in value. Yet he would be taxed on $1,000 of capital gains.

Or take the case of an individual who bought an automobile repair business 10 years ago for $20,000. Suppose also during the last 10 years the value of that business increased 100% in nominal dollars and was then sold.

Under the law the seller would have to pay a capital gain on about $21,000, despite the fact there was no real increase in value. All that would have occurred would have been depreciation in the value of the dollar because in the last decade the gross national product deflator increased 106%.

Or take the case of an individual who bought an automobile repair business 10 years ago for $20,000. Suppose also during the last 10 years the value of that business increased 100% in nominal dollars and was then sold.

Numerous studies have found our transportation system is deteriorating faster than it is being repaired and replaced, and both the House and the Senate have acted recently to pass a funding bill for transportation that will help address this serious problem.

Currently, 8% of our interstate mileage is classified as "poor," indicating it is badly deteriorated and in need of resurfacing or re-building.

Another 34% is in "fair" condition and may be only barely adequate for high-speed traffic.

In addition, our rail-transit modernization needs are substantially backlogged, and our air traffic control system and air navigation facilities need major renovations.

The costs of neglected transportation facilities are substantial. The taxpayers pay for deferred short-term maintenance and repair by ultimately having to pay for higher cost reconstruction or replacement. Transportation users pay in terms of lost time, increased safety risks and high vehicle operating costs.

The transportation appropriations bill passed by the Congress and which I supported as a member of the House Appropriations Committee that reported this important legislation to the full House, includes funding to address our transportation needs.

Of particular interest to New Jersey commuters is the funding provided for rail line improvements along the Northeast Corridor.

New Jersey is a vital link in this corridor, and the funds will be used to continue the rehabilitation work in order to help provide safe rail passenger service and dependable trip times.

Older, industrial states like New Jersey have transportation infrastructure needs that are more acute than other areas of the country. This appropriations bill also earmarks substantial funding for highway and bridge construction programs to improve the safety of our nation's roadways.

Funding to upgrade our air traffic control system and increase the system's productivity and capacity is also included in the transportation appropriations bill passed by Congress.

The bill appropriated funds for Federal Aviation Administration programs designed to ensure our airport and airway systems will be able to meet the projected aviation requirements in the 1990's. The bill also contains funding for research and implementation of an improved traffic alert and collision-avoidance system.

In recommending funds for all of these various transportation activities, the Appropriations Committee on which I serve also stressed our transportation problems cannot be solved solely through additional financing.

We must work toward more cost-effective investments, better targeting of our federal programs and an overall improvement in management practices and incentives to help make our transportation dollars go farther.

I am pleased Congress has passed this legislation, which is currently awaiting the President's signature. The bill recognizes the rehabilitation and improvement of our national transportation system must rank high on the priority lists of all levels of government.

Second-timers offered guidance

A free two-session course designed for adults considering a return to college this fall after several years away from the books will be offered on Tuesdays, Aug. 23 and 30, by Union County College's Division of Continuing Education at the college's Cranford campus.

Adults who may be anxious about returning to a classroom atmosphere and who may have questions concerning the academic environment may find taking "Preparation for College Study" will allow whatever fears they have.

Topics to be covered are taking notes from texts and instructors, learning to conquer the fear of tests, eliminating the anxiety of writing papers, developing study skills and utilizing the resources in the library. Enrollment is limited to adults who have been out of school for several years.

The course, which will be taught by Dr. Donald Anderson, professor emeritus of the college, will be conducted on both evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Registration for the course is required. Further information may be obtained by telephoning number 276-2600, extension 206 or 238.

Student nurses learn how to serve deaf

Nurses encounter many difficulties in their daily dealings with patients, but an often-overlooked problem is how to communicate effectively with a patient who is hearing-impaired or deaf.

In an effort to heighten some Union County College student nurses' "deaf awareness" and provide them with advice on how to handle such patients, several students enrolled in the college's Interpreters for the Deaf Program have provided a learning session for their peers.

Approximately 20 students in the program, the state's only two-year program of its kind, which leads to an associate in applied science degree, conducted two presentations for a group of student nurses at the Elizabeth General Hospital's School of Nursing in Plainfield.

The student nurses also attend classes at the college under a co-operative agreement with the hospital, which provides them with clinical service organizations, schools, hospitals, courts, religious

RAHWAY FIRE DEPT.
FIRE-WISE
 Life you save may be your own

By Rahway Fire Chief James T. Heller
 When fire strikes at night, there's no time to "ad lib." Every family member must know what to do to save his or her own life, and do it.

Making sure all family members—even small children—know what to do in a fire is the province of home escape planning. Making sure, when the time comes, each family member uses that knowledge and displays appropriate escape behavior is the province of the home fire drill.

You have a smoke detector? Good. Sleep with all bedroom doors closed tightly? Good. Are there two ways out of every sleeping room—emergency leaders in second floor rooms, if necessary? Excellent.

Do all family members know to crawl to the door and feel it, escape through the window if the door feels hot, and meet at a prearranged place? Fabulous.

BUT—and this is a big-but in a real fire emergency, full of noise and smoke and heat, it's easy to forget what you know. Home fire escape plans must be re-inforced by frequent, unpredictable drills.

Presumably, each member of your family was present when you drafted your home-escape plan and each has used the escape equipment provided in his or her room at least once. But why not, late some night, hit the test button on your smoke detector and see what happens?

If you see anything less than smooth execution of your home-escape plan by every family member, you'll be able to go over it later—critiquing performance and strengthening the weak points. Real fires seldom give you a chance like that.

Will the six-year old hide under the bed instead of crawling to safety (keeping close to the floor, where the best air is)?

Will the teenager be able to open that window you recently repaired to deploy the escape ladder?

It's better to answer questions like this at a time when lives are not at stake than to find out about short-comings in your escape preparedness the hard, tragic way.

Plan to conduct home exit drills frequently at different times of the day or night, at varying intervals.

Make your tests as unpredictable as fire itself, and remember the goals of home-escape planning:

1. Provide positive fire detection (a smoke detector) and two ways out of every room (door plus window).
 2. Crawl wherever you go if smoke is present. Feel the door before opening it if it's warm or hot, don't open it. Exit through the window instead.
 3. Have all family members meet at a specific site for none counting, call the fire department from a telephone outside the burning building, after everyone is out.

State puts hotline on fraud cases

The state's citizen hotline for reporting unemployment insurance fraud has been changed to a toll-free number, Commissioner Roger A. Bodman of the New Jersey Dept. of Labor announced last week.

Commissioner Bodman said the toll-free number was put in service because results obtained from a temporary hotline have been "most encouraging."

In three months time, more than 130 calls were received, providing us with information on possible cheats," said the commissioner. "This response proves people are concerned enough to assist us in our efforts to eliminate fraudulent collection of benefits."

The new toll-free hotline number is 800-221-6179. The hotline is manned by the members of the department's Benefit Payment Control staff from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

Roughly half of the tips provided to date are still under investigation. Of the investigations completed, 12 cases have been found in which individuals fraudulently collected benefits to which they were not entitled, Commissioner Bodman said.

The department is seeking recovery of nearly $37,000 in non-fraudulent overpayments, $6,833; fraudulent overpayments, $26,158, and penalties, $3,920.

Kean cites Mr. Kremenich

A township man, Jeffrey Joseph Kremenich, received his bachelor of science degree in management science from Kean College of New Jersey in Union on Thursday, June 2.

The department is seeking recovery of nearly $37,000 in non-fraudulent overpayments, $6,833; fraudulent overpayments, $26,158, and penalties, $3,920.

Sgt. Lockley helps Guard score 'first's'

Some 7,000 New Jersey Army National Guard soldiers, including Sgt. Clifford Lockley of Rahway, commended by Major Gen. Melvin A. Crane of Beverly, have gathered at Fort Drum, an active Army post near the Canadian border in New York state, for their annual summer training exercises.

From armories throughout New Jersey, Guard convoys rolled north on Aug. 6. In a first for the 50th Armored Division—the principal National Guard unit in New Jersey—most units moved to Fort Drum in one day. Previously, they required two days to travel to the post.

"The one-day move enabled us to get additional valuable training time for our soldiers," Major Gen. Crane said.

In another first, the division will spend eight consecutive days in the field, giving members the opportunity to hone their military skills.

Headquartered in Somerset, the division trains its infantry and armor units to stage large tactical maneuvers and major live-fire exercises.

The Guard member's skills range from serving as infantrymen, armor crewmen and artillerymen to computer technicians, electronic specialists and cooks.

After training for two weeks, the Guard members will return home on Saturday, Aug. 20.

Engineers get stamp of approval

The Civil Construction, Electrical Engineering and Mechanical Engineering Technology Programs at Middlesex County College in Edison were recently recognized by the American Society of Engineering Technicians (ASET) as being currently a field over 30 certified interpreters in the state. The need for full-time interpreters has been approximated at 100, with 120 projected as the demand by 1985, when the number of deaf in the state is expected to reach 66,000.

Students can enroll in either degree or certificate programs on either a full or part-time basis and attend days, evenings or a combination of both.

accredited by the Technology Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology, Inc.

Approximately 300 students are currently enrolled in the three engineering technology programs.

Seventy percent of the graduates find employment in their respective fields upon graduation," Dr. Francis Spano, the dean of the Division of Engineering Technologies and Science, said. "About 30% transfer to baccalaureate programs in engineering technologies."

The state's citizen hotline for reporting unemployment insurance fraud has been changed to a toll-free number, Commissioner Roger A. Bodman of the New Jersey Dept. of Labor announced last week.

Commissioner Bodman said the toll-free number was put in service because results obtained from a temporary hotline have been "most encouraging."

In three months time, more than 130 calls were received, providing us with information on possible cheats," said the commissioner. "This response proves people are concerned enough to assist us in our efforts to eliminate fraudulent collection of benefits."

The new toll-free hotline number is 800-221-6179. The hotline is manned by the members of the department's Benefit Payment Control staff from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

Roughly half of the tips provided to date are still under investigation. Of the investigations completed, 12 cases have been found in which individuals fraudulently collected benefits to which they were not entitled, Commissioner Bodman said.

The department is seeking recovery of nearly $37,000 in non-fraudulent overpayments, $6,833; fraudulent overpayments, $26,158, and penalties, $3,920.

Sgt. Lockley helps Guard score 'first's'

Some 7,000 New Jersey Army National Guard soldiers, including Sgt. Clifford Lockley of Rahway, commended by Major Gen. Melvin A. Crane of Beverly, have gathered at Fort Drum, an active Army post near the Canadian border in New York state, for their annual summer training exercises.

From armories throughout New Jersey, Guard convoys rolled north on Aug. 6. In a first for the 50th Armored Division—the principal National Guard unit in New Jersey—most units moved to Fort Drum in one day. Previously, they required two days to travel to the post.

"The one-day move enabled us to get additional valuable training time for our soldiers," Major Gen. Crane said.

In another first, the division will spend eight consecutive days in the field, giving members the opportunity to hone their military skills.

Headquartered in Somerset, the division trains its infantry and armor units to stage large tactical maneuvers and major live-fire exercises.

The Guard member's skills range from serving as infantrymen, armor crewmen and artillerymen to computer technicians, electronic specialists and cooks.

After training for two weeks, the Guard members will return home on Saturday, Aug. 20.

English professors bank on creativity

For two professors who teach creative writing at Linden High School, the approach to teaching the subject is different from the one they find in the classroom. The two professors, Dr. Leonard T. Kresman and Dr. Mary Ann Kresman, are the only English teachers in the school who have been recommended by the National Council of Teachers of English for the National Teachers Association award for creative writing.

Dr. Kresman, who has been teaching English for 15 years, says that the approach to teaching creative writing is different from the one they find in the classroom. The two professors, Dr. Leonard T. Kresman and Dr. Mary Ann Kresman, are the only English teachers in the school who have been recommended by the National Council of Teachers of English for the National Teachers Association award for creative writing.

High school to host college offerings

Area intellectuals honored

Thirty-seven Clark and Rahway residents were among 381 full-time and part-time students named to the dean's list at Union County College in Cranford and Scotch Plains for the spring semester.

To be eligible for the dean's list, a student must achieve a 3.0 average based on a 4.0 scale with no grade lower than a "C".

The Clark residents named to the list include: Accounting/finance, Fred Butler, 95 Meadow Rd., and Diana Cerra, 19 Riverside Dr.; biology, Marc Paladino, 61 Stonehenge Terr.; business/computer information systems, Michael Gallacher, 7 James Ave., and Edmund Soine, 93 Lakeside Blvd.; secretarial science, Maureen Chas, 31 Amelia Dr.; Deborah Stachelski, 5 Linda Ln., and Patricia Vorse, 87 Georgia St.; and word processing, Donna Deangelis, 10 Picton St.

Benefits restored for veterans

The Veterans Administration has been designated to administer restored benefits payments to veterans' spouses and children who lost their benefits under the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981.

Congress authorized restoration of these benefits to carry out a promise made by the military to service personnel who later were in or as a result of military service.

The Veterans Administration will pay benefits similar to those eliminated if the eligible person is the survivor of a member or former member of the armed forces who died while on active duty prior to Aug. 13, 1981 or whose death after discharge was the result of a disability incurred in or aggravated by military service before Aug. 13, 1981.

College to preview lineup for fall

Students entering Union County College this fall will get a preview of what's in store for them at a freshman orientation to be conducted on Monday, Aug. 29, and Tuesday, Aug. 30, it was announced today by Dr. J. Harrison Mosson, the vice president for student affairs.

The orientation will offer students insights into what they can expect to encounter both academically and socially during their initial experience at the college, he said.

Students will be welcomed by Danielle Bey, the president of the Student Government Assn., who will serve as the mistress of ceremonies.

Describing the college from their vantage point will be Dr. Saul Orkin, the president of the Student Government Assn., who will serve as the mistress of ceremonies.

A slide presentation showing campus activities, services and facilities, and an informal discussion with representatives of college officials directly serving students' needs will follow.

Commissioner Roger A. Bodman

Unemployment fund needs overhaul now

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column was submitted to The Rahway News-Record and The Clark Patriot by Roger A. Bodman, the commissioner of the New Jersey Dept. of Labor.

In March legislation to overhaul the state's antiquated unemployment compensation program was introduced in the Senate with bipartisan sponsorship.

The need for this reform legislation cannot be overemphasized; the trust fund from which New Jersey pays unemployment benefits is $437.6 million in the red or, in a word, bankrupt.

The deficit dates back to the recession of the mid-1970's, when New Jersey borrowed $735 million from the federal government in order to pay benefits to its unemployed men and women.

As long as the deficit continues to exist, New Jersey employers will have to pay a surcharge, or penalty tax, along with their regular federal unemployment taxes.

Not only that, we were forced again this year to borrow $78 million from the federal government in March and April to keep benefits flowing.

Under a new federal law, new loans such as these are subject to a 10% interest charge if they are not repaid by Oct. 1. In this case, we have already repaid the money. We may not be so fortunate in the future. And given the state's tight budget, we can ill afford an interest payment. Today, financial analysts tell us the recovery is underway. It is not enough to know our citizens are returning to work. We must also return our unemployment trust fund to the surplus balance it once enjoyed.

Only by carrying a plus balance can we be assured there will be adequate funds available to pay unemployment benefits should lean times ever return.

Our reform legislation, S-3144, is intended to save the trust fund an estimated $70 million a year. It will also end New Jersey's recurring cycle of borrowing from and repaying the federal government.

Specifically, the legislation will:

- Increase the weekly compensation amount for the "average" New Jersey worker.
- Tighten eligibility standards.
- Minimize fraud and impose heavier fines for those who obtain benefits fraudulently.
- Alter the tax tables such that employers with good hiring practices are not taxed as heavily.

New Jersey is the only state in the nation whose unemployment benefits are 67% of a claimant's former pay, a factor we believe discourages unemployed persons from seeking work.

Statistics show 40% of our claimants collect benefits for the maximum number of weeks allowed. By comparison, the figure is 30% in New York and 17% in Pennsylvania.

Our legislation would lower the wage-replacement rate from 67% of the claimant's prior wage amount to 55%. This would bring New Jersey on par with most other states.

At the same time, we want to raise the maximum weekly benefit for the average wage earner. Currently, the most a person can collect is $158, taken as 50% of the average state-wide wage of $316.

We proposed raising this to 60%, thus making the maximum weekly benefit $188.

As it is, our maximum of $158 is the 29th lowest in the nation. It is time to balance the scale in favor of the average wage earner so he is able to keep up his rent or mortgage and feed his family while actively seeking new employment.

Bear in mind the situation is even worse for the individual who makes more than the state-wide wage. For example, a person who was earning $400 would still get only $158 a week—39% of his former pay.

Strange as it may seem, there is no penalty under existing law for persons fired for gross misconduct, including assault and embezzlement. Our bill says those persons should not be able to receive any unemployment benefits accruing from the aggrieved employer.

Existing law also calls for a 17-week disqualification from the time fraud is discovered. Benefits are reduced 17 times the individual's average weekly benefit rate, and a $20 fine is imposed for each week the individual received benefits through fraud.

Our legislation would disqualify these individuals for a full year and increase the fine to 20% of the amount illegally obtained.

Moreover, our eligibility standards have failed to keep pace with inflation over the years. Under current law, college students, summer employees and other individuals the law was never meant to cover can collect benefits.

An individual need only have earned $30 a week for 20 weeks to qualify. We want to change the formula such so a person would have to earn at least $72 a week in the current year.

We also have an alternative for eligibility which states a person can qualify by making $2,200 over any period. Our measure would increase that figure to $4,800. Finally, let me tell you New Jersey employers are taxed at a rate of 1.2 to 6.2%. We want to change the range from 0.6 to 7.5%.

This, along with other changes in the tax schedule, will enable us to charge a lower tax rate to good employers and a higher tax to deficit employers—or those whose hiring practices cost the trust fund more money than they are paying into it.

Currently, S-3144 is in the Senate's Labor, Industry and Professions Committee. We urge our legislators to act on the reform package as soon as possible.

The legislation was drawn after countless meetings with representatives from all sides and represents a compromise of the issues.

Its sole intent is to strengthen our trust fund so New Jersey will be able to take care of its unemployed men and women in the years to come without having to rely on the federal government.

Just this year we learned depending on the federal government can have some unexpected hazards when the $4.6 billion Emergency Jobs Bill stalled in the Senate during March. Included in the bill were funds for the loans on which New Jersey and 26 other states were depending to pay unemployment benefits.

During the jobs bill debate several states ran out of money and were forced to temporarily shut down their benefit-payment systems. New Jersey made preparations for putting in place a contingency plan that would enable us to continue to pay benefits.

Our state's Legislature passed on an emergency basis and Gov. Thomas H. Kean signed into a law a bill that would have allowed us to borrow from the state's disability fund while the jobs bill was pending.

Fortunately, the jobs bill passed. We did not have to rob Peter to pay Paul. We must now take steps to make sure we are never in such a precarious position again.
