'Disaster' in city keeps emergency units on toes

In Rahway on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, a disaster drill staged at the soon-to-be-opened Rahway Geriatric Center gave the Rahway Police and Fire Depts., seven local first aid squads and Rahway Hospital's Mobile Intensive Care Unit and Emergency Center personnel a chance to practice their procedures and evaluate their skills.

According to Lee Lanning, the director of the geriatric center, "This drill was a perfect opportunity for us to test our disaster procedures, which exist at this point only on paper. We felt by conducting a drill prior to the Dec. 1 opening of the geriatric center we could detect any flaws or problems before any employees or patients are in the facility."

This was the first disaster drill held on a community level in Rahway in five years and planning for it first began in August with the following Rahway groups involved: The police and fire departments, the first aid squad, the Office of Emergency Management, the geriatric center and the hospital.

A pivotal part of any disaster drill is having injured "victims" to evaluate and rescue.

BEING PREPARED - Local first aid personnel, left, look on as a "victim" is evaluated in the Rahway Hospital Emergency Center by hospital personnel, Joanne Yates, the nursing supervisor, in cap; Dr. Edgardo Tan, white coat, and unit clerk Barbara Zak, right.

Twenty-two volunteers (Rahway Boy Scouts from Troop No. 100, spouses of squad members and several high school students) met at the geriatric center at 5:30 p.m. and were transformed into convincing "victims" through the skills of the Port Authority Moulage Team, a group of police officers assigned to Newark Airport whose expertise helps groups around the state in staging realistic drills.

By using fake blood, liquid starch and food coloring, Karo syrup and food coloring, Bromo Seltzer, which makes wounds bubble, crushed charcoal for burns and an array of fake limbs, they managed to create a very convincing group of casualties, reports a spokesman.

The officers also gave each victim instructions on how he or she was to act, depending on the type and seriousness of the injury—instructions like "vill and scream a little and then go into unconsciousness" or "you'll be wandering around dazed, semi-coherent." After all the victims were made up and briefed, the six most seriously injured were placed in the boiler room, the scene of the supposed explosion. The others were scattered about on the first and second floors.

At 7:30 p.m., the call went out there had been an explosion and fire in the boiler room of the geriatric center. A little over two minutes later the Rahway Fire Dept. reached the scene and set into motion a chain of events that brought in first aid squads from Rahway, Avenel, Carteret, Clark, Colonia, Linden and Winfield Park and the Mobile Intensive Care Unit and paramedics from the hospital.

Once the first aid squads started arriving the process of locating the wounded and transporting them to the triage area began.

Here they were sorted and treated according to a system of priorities designed to maximize the number of survivors. The most seriously injured were the first ones transported to the emergency center at the hospital, where a team of physicians, nurses and other personnel was standing by to assess injuries and render immediate treatment.

By 9:30 p.m. the last of the "victims" had arrived at the hospital, where the Moulage Team was also waiting to retrieve its equipment and join the volunteer "victims" in the hospital's cafeteria for refreshments.

"The value of a drill like this cannot be overemphasized," stated Don Banghart, the coordinator of the Mobile Intensive Care Unit at the hospital. "It really gave us a chance to test all of our systems and personnel on a community level, so we will be the real thing on the real thing."

Lee Lanning, "With so much later, emergency and hospital have worked together, we feel excellent opportunity to demonstrate commitment to the ability of employees and residents who as of Dec. 1."

Mr. Henderson raps 'excessive' salary hikes

By Joan Gorzenik

The Rahway Board of Education on Nov. 21 okayed an 8% salary increase for the members of the Rahway Education Assn. and a 9% hike for administrators and the Board attorney despite some strong opposition by one Board member, Barry Henderson, who cast a dissenting vote for several of the salary-related motions.

Mr. Henderson said he felt the increases were excessive.

According to Board President Ronald Matusaitis the teachers settled for an 8% increase after meeting individually or through representation with the Board negotiations committee.

Board member, Louis Rizzo, was quick to point out the two-year salary contract was arrived at through considerable negotiation with the educators' group.

He said, "This was not done in five or 10 minutes. There was a lot of discussion. Personally, I think we arrived at a fair decision."

Under the agreement between the Board and the Rahway Administrators and Supervisors Assn. school administrators will receive a 9% increase as will the Board attorney, the Board accountant, a 10% increase and the superintendent of buildings and grounds, an 8% increase.

According to the contract the superintendent of schools will earn $61,100 per year; the assistant superintendent of schools, $53,250; the Board secretary and business administrator, $47,415; the Board attorney, $27,750; the Board accountant, $24,500; and the superintendent of buildings and grounds, $30,704.

Mr. Henderson was also most concerned with the absence of the actual salaries on the meeting's agenda. The public was informed of the salaries after his insistence they be read aloud by the Board president, although copies of the agreement are available in the superintendent and Board secretary's offices.

Mr. Henderson implied the salaries were not made public deliberately. The Board president accused Mr. Henderson of "going on a fishing expedition," explaining all the information had been made accessible during a prior caucus meeting.

In another matter, the Superintendent of Schools, Frank Brunette said the Minimum Basic Skills Test results were among the "best ever."

He added the test results indicated continued improvement in the achievement of the students.

Mr. Brunette attributed the success of the students to three factors: High expectations on the part of the students, the analysis of the test results then interpreted into action and a co-ordination of efforts.

According to William Humphries, the director of student personnel services and the co-ordinator of the testing, in considering kindergarten to 11th grade students in nine of those grades scored as high or higher than ever before.

In other business, the Board heard from Frank Clooney, of Suplee, Clooney and Co., the school body's auditors. He said the Board's finances were in good order and no recommendations need be made.

In other action, the Board:

- Appointed Scott Karaman as the assistant wrestling coach for the 1983-1984 school year.

- Named Thomas Seiler as the freshman wrestling coach for the 1983-1984 school year.

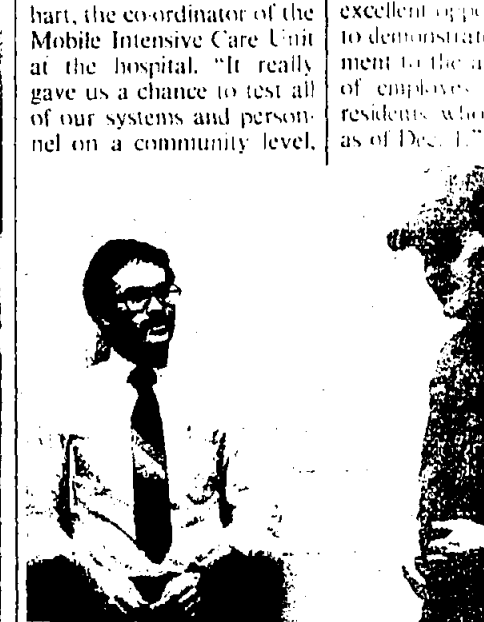

- Hired Ira Presley as the assistant winter track coach for the 1983-1984 school year.

- Appointed Gordon Austin as the freshman boys basketball coach for the 1983-1984 school year.

- Okayed a motion to compensate Michael Punko for assuming the duties of the assistant football coach during the 1983-1984 school year.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Argast replies to William Goldate

I would like to respond to the letter from William C. Goldate published in the Nov. 17 Rahway News-Record since he made reference to a meeting I conducted at the hospital early in the year.

One of the purposes of the meeting was to explain the hospital was planning to apply for a variance that would enable us to use the former Young Men's Christian Assn. property, which we had purchased, for a temporary parking lot for the duration of the hospital's expansion and modernization program.

I said after the need for the property had passed it would be sold to a developer for the construction of houses, but I doubt I said it would be sold for that purpose if the variance were not granted.

However, many circumstances have changed since that meeting.

In fact, the whole process of developing plans for the hospital has been one of repeated study and change since the early 1970s, when hospital consultants were first engaged to make such studies, until the mayor appointed a special committee this summer to study the problem.

Over the years the thrust of the hospital's efforts to meet the need for parking space has been to achieve the most attractive parking in the least expensive way.

The multilevel parking garage Mr. Goldate advocates is a very expensive solution, and I wonder where several million dollars would come from to finance the construction. Dr. Richard Goldstein, the commissioner of the New Jersey Dept. of Health, has made it clear the cost of constructing a parking garage could not be included in our rates.

Surface parking is less expensive and, in my opinion, can be more attractive than a huge parking garage. Mr. Goldate wants assurances his neighborhood will remain as it is, but he suggests erecting a multilevel parking garage in someone else's neighborhood.

To me that doesn't sound like the ideal solution to the problem. As a matter of fact the president of the hospital has personally spoken to Mr. Goldate in an effort to reach a mutually satisfactory arrangement, but to no avail.

Since my proposal to the community last February the hospital has acquired more property bordering the area it originally purchased, and therefore the picture has changed dramatically. We're still seeking a desirable solution but it may be easier now.

Time to allow voters to petition

If anyone missed keeping score this past year of how many pieces of taxpayer-oriented legislation have stagnated while being held in committee now is a good time to keep count for the coming year.

With the selection of Alan Karcher as the speaker of the Assembly for the second time we were very quickly promised "initiatives which are visionary."

Does this mean finally "initiative and referendum" or the people's right to petition might finally be springing from under the thumb of those who wield the power of choosing the quality of life of the New Jersey resident?

Over the years so many voters have either been "fostered or killed on the basis of unconstitutionality. The same individuals who consistently refer to the Constitution when it comes to such issues as keeping killers on the streets and papering out of schools never seem to read far enough in the First Amendment, which guarantees Americans the "Right to Petition."

Why is it that when John H. Dorey's bill for initiative and referendum out of committee such a threat to those who oppose citizens' participation in their own future?

Putting the issue on the ballot does not automatically guarantee passage. Why are initiative and referendum opponents afraid to even take this chance?

How would the people taking their rightful part in the government be disadvantaged, change things so our legislators cannot escape the challenge to put it to a vote? Why do the legislators distrust the very people who elected them to office?

Answers to these questions would be most welcome. Betty A. Schrock, secretary

Congress report card better than expected

Social Security, defense and foreign policy issues were the dominant themes of the just-concluded first year of the two-year session of the 98th Congress.

In an unusual display of bipartisanship, Congress agreed on a plan to save Social Security from bankruptcy, supported the President's action in committing the United States troops to Lebanon and Grenada and completed work on 10 of 13 appropriations bills.

Additionally, Congress approved a compromise defense budget, backed the President's Caribbean Basin initiative and pushed through a major jobs bill aimed at meeting the unemployment problem.

On pocketbook issues it refused to raise taxes and repealed the tax measure providing for the withholding of taxes on dividends and interest.

While the legislative successes were modest when compared to some past sessions, they surpassed the expectations of many political pundits who had predicted at the beginning of the session last January the Democratic-controlled House and Republican Senate and administration would be so severely split by party differences that a bipartisan gridlock would develop. It didn't.

Instead the session produced more co-operation than confrontation. On balance the record has been better than forecast with Congress handling several thorny issues that were so controversial they would have been the subject of lengthy and bitter standstills in the absence of a spirit of co-operation.

This tone was exemplified by the support Congress exhibited for the President's action in committing U.S. troops to the multi-national peacekeeping force in Lebanon and his decision to send troops to Grenada to rescue the subject of lengthy and bitter standstills in the absence of a spirit of co-operation.

In a related area Congress voted for a higher defense budget, but limited the spending increase to 5%. This was 5% less than what the President had requested but still provided funding for most of the weapons programs he had proposed. There was strong support in both the House and Senate for strengthening the defense program after several years of neglect under the previous administration.

In response to public demand for increased efforts to freeze nuclear weapons at current levels, the proposal was defeated in the Senate.

The one issue that captured the attention of most older Americans was the financial crisis faced by Social Security. They demanded a speedy solution to the problem and Congress responded by adopting a rescue plan proposed by the bipartisan Committee on Social Security Reform.

While the plan temporarily preserves the financial integrity of the system, it represents a long-term effect, it is a stopgap measure that reduced benefits, speeded the increase of Social Security payroll taxes and provided for the gradual increase in retirement age. Other more permanent solutions would have been less burdensome on beneficiaries and contributions should have been expected.

Congress also came to grips with two controversial tax issues by preserving the third year of the tax cut which highly-charged issues as acid rain, clean air, natural gas deregulation, telephone issues and the budget deficit. Additionally, several bills are in the legislative pipeline to help reverse the decline in education that was the subject of a provocative report by a blue-ribbon Presidential study commission.

While there were many noteworthy achievements during the session much remains to be done when Congress reconvenes in late January. We will be dealing with such highly-charged issues as acid rain, clean air, natural gas deregulation, telephone issues and the budget deficit. ## Arson: Fighting Burning Crisis

By Rahway Fire Chief James T. Heller

Each year in America more and more buildings go up in smoke because of arson. Homes are burned down to juvenile delinquents and lower-class quarters, businesses burn to collect insurance or ruin a competitor, professional torches ply their sickening, if lucrative, trade wherever there's a dollar to be made.

What's the answer to arson? No one really knows if they did, they'd be doing it. But some towns and cities have found innovative solutions that seem to fit part of the puzzle.

In the middle 1970's Seattle, Wash., experimented with a multi-pointed program which has led to some of today's most successful anti-arson initiatives.

Today there are national, state, regional and local arson hotlines run by insurance companies, business consortiums and various levels of government where you can report past or pending arson fires anonymously. Some offer rewards of cash, but all offer the reward of helping to stem this national scandal.

One of the first arson hotlines was developed by a business insurance consortium in Seattle and it helped cut the incidence of professional arson significantly. The nationwide hotlines offer the same bright hope.

Surprisingly, the largest number of arson fires are not set by professionals or by evil-minded amateurs, but by mentally disturbed adolescents. Chronic teenage fire-setters may set for attempt to set dozens of small fires in a year.

Detection, fire counsel and public exposure can combine to deal with these individuals rather effectively. But the arsonist can again, however mounted, ultimately hinges on the skill and dedication of the police and firefighters who deal with arson during fire overhauls.

Two often arsons go unreported because police investigators do not have enough fire science or because firefighters do not understand rules of evidence and collect arson evidence in a way that ruins its usefulness in court.

More and more communities are developing interdisciplinary arson task forces whose personnel are trained to understand both the fire and the police's side of the equation and to do justice to both.

Both arsonists and arson victims are suffering. The nationwide hotlines offer the same bright hope. # Brozick field goal saves Clark at clock

By Ray Haggard
Senior Tom Brozick, the captain of Clark's Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School Crusaders, kicked the winning field goal with 25 seconds left in the game to give the Crusaders a 23-21 win over the Rahway Indians before 4,200 excited fans at Veterans Memorial Field on a rainy Thanksgiving morning.

Nov. 24, in the final meeting of the cross-town rivals. The colorful game, that featured outstanding hands, checkers, and the releasing of balloons at half-time was a typical Rahway-Clark athletic event.

The Crusaders marched 85 yards in 11 plays for their first touchdown, aided by four first downs. The touchdown came on a pass from Charlie Whuman to Mark De Mille at seven minutes and 46 seconds into the period. Tom Brozick added the extra point.

A. J. Gabel's punt was blocked by Clark's Paul Grigiel 75 yards. He followed a wall of Crusader defenders along the near side line to some standing up at five minutes and seven seconds into the second period. Brozick kicked the score Johnson, 14, Rahway, 0.

Coach Mike Punks's team took the next kickoff on its 30-yard line and traveled 70 yards in seven plays to send Marty Denison around his right end for a touchdown from nine yards out at two minutes and 24 seconds into the period.

Ed Kahlin then kicked the extra point and it was 14-7 at the half-time. The Indians took the second half kickoff and marched 68 yards in 13 plays with Donnell Powell driving over center for the touchdown at five minutes and 23 seconds. When Kahlin's kick was wide to the left the Crusaders were on top 14-13.

Following a Crusader punt the Indians started a 61-yard drive in five plays that saw Derrick Bowen drive over center for the touchdown at five minutes and 23 seconds. When Kahlin's kick was wide to the left the Crusaders were on top 14-13.

Crusaders scored when Ed Waul ran the final seven yards for the score. It was Rahway, 21-20. The Indians' big defense stopped the Crusaders but the city team was still trailing.

On this play a tight took place and when the field was cleared the Indians were forced to punt—it was Gabel's best of the day.

The Crusaders started their winning march with four minutes and 34 seconds to go. Frank DiLollo and Ed Pedicone carried to a first down on the Indians' 21-yard line with three minutes and seven seconds to go.

The same combination made a first down on Rahway's 11-yard line. With 31 seconds left in the game the Crusaders took a timeout and then with 25 seconds left on the clock Brozick, a senior at five feet, nine inches and 155 pounds, kicked the winning field goal from the left side of the field.

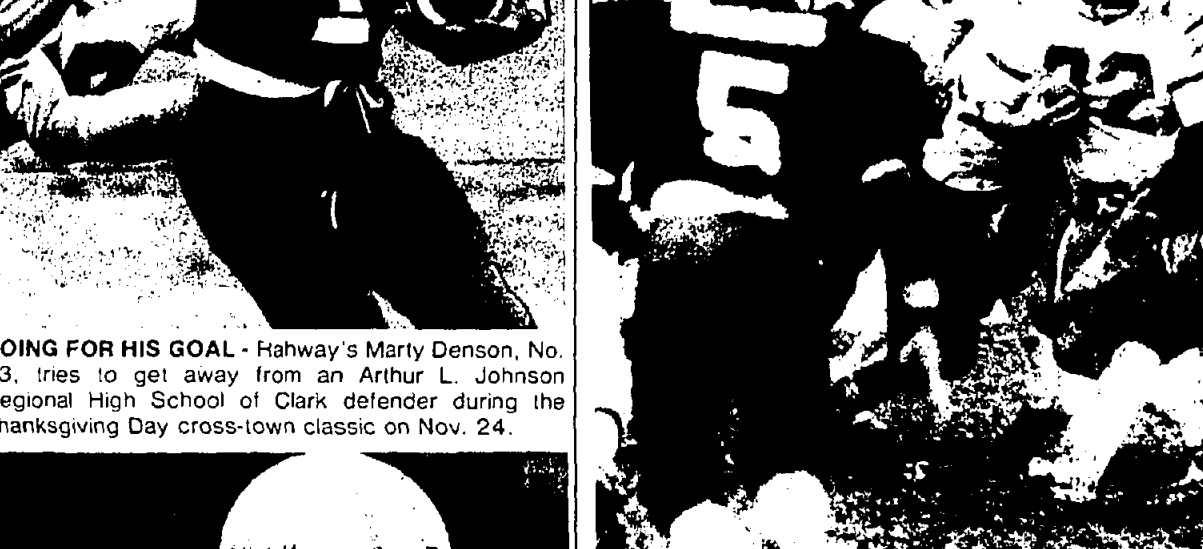

On the next kickoff a 15-yard penalty went against Clark, which kicked off from the 25-yard line. The Indians carried to mid-field and on the first play the Crusaders intercepted a pass and the final Rahway and Johnson game was history.

City grapplers gear for another mat year

The Rahway Recreation Dept. will sponsor boys wrestling teams this year to compete in the Union County Junior Wrestling League, the Central Jersey Mid-Jersey League and sanctioned tournaments, including an Inter-City Tournament.

The program will start with an inter-city league which will be established for boys in beginners' categories. They will practice and compete as teams against one another in dual meets and end with an inter-city tournament in which medals will be awarded. These teams will be made up of inexperienced boys in sixth grade and under and matched by weight and age. Practices will be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 5:30 to 7 o'clock at the Rahway High School wrestling room.

The experienced level boys will participate in two competitive leagues, the Central Jersey Mid-Jersey League, in which eligibility is for those in sixth grade and under, and the Union County Junior Wrestling League, which includes those up to eighth grade. The experienced boys will practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and compete in dual and in meets on Saturdays. Boys in seventh and eighth grades who practice with the junior high are eligible to be on the Union County Junior Team. Boys in sixth grade and under are eligible for both leagues, but the best will be on the Central Jersey Mid-Jersey 'A' Team and the second best will be on the Central Jersey Mid-Jersey 'B' Team. All three teams will compete and travel independent of one another with their own coaches.

Instruction and supervision will be by experienced coaches with the objective of developing self-confidence and strong bodies in the art of wrestling. The beginners' program is designed to train young boys; so experience is not necessary. Competition is always between boys of similar weights and abilities, reports a spokesman.

Practices will be held at the Rahway High School wrestling room from Monday through Thursday with most home competition meets on Saturday mornings. Parents or friends interested in supporting these teams should contact the department for more information. Anyone interested in coaching or refereeing must attend. Please telephone 381-8000, extension 322 for more information.

Madison flies green pennant again

Madison School of Rahway had its Green-Pennant flag-raising ceremony on Nov. 16 around the flag pole in front of the school. The patrols presented their program from kindergarten to third grade culminating with the raising of the pennant.

Louis Rizzo, the president of the Rahway Safety Council, congratulated the students on their achievement and encouraged them to continue with their safety practices. Mr. Rizzo expressed his pleasure Madison School had continued the green-pennant program when all other schools have dropped it.

The principal, Edwin Dykes, also added his praise and congratulations to the patrols for their outstanding efforts.

All the patrols took part and handed out booklets to each student in the school. The officers, co-captain, Michael Ondovik; co-captain, Grace Fiedler; primary captain, Christopher Streeter, and Lt. Natasha Harris, gave the presentation to the younger children.

As the green pennant was raised to fly under the American flag, a heart-warming round of applause was released by the children. Everyone showed their pride in earning the special green pennant, reports Mr. Rizzo.

The students in Madison School are enrolled in a student-oriented program under the direction of Mrs. Diane L. Shuster and the school safety patrols.

Designated as the Green Pennant Safety Program, the effort is aimed at making every student conscious of the vital need for traffic safety.

At the same time it provides recognition to the school for its outstanding traffic safety performances. The program, in effect 24 hours a day, seven days a week, was sponsored initially nationwide by General Motors and locally by the Rahway Safety Council. Madison School, one of the first participants in this program over 20 years ago, has continued the principles and goals of the green pennant and has made it its personal campaign for safety, reports Mr. Dykes.

A large green pennant, four feet by two feet, embossed with the image of a school safety patrol boy was given to Madison School to signify accident-free periods of participation in the program. The school has earned the right to fly the pennant by completing 30 consecutive days without a student-related accident.

A student-related accident occurs the green pennant must be lowered and displayed inside the school to dramatize the need for safety. Then another 30 consecutive accident-free days must be completed before the pennant can be raised again.

The green pennant focused attention on safe walking, bicycling and driving habits. The program has helped to reduce accidents in other cities, and it can do the same in Rahway if everyone will be just a little more safety conscious, announced Diane Shuster, the safety director at the school.

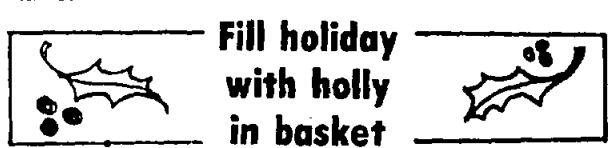

Madison School has completed 28 school years without an accident and has again received recognition for perfect safety for the 1983-1984 school year.

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF - On Nov. 18 Rahway Pili Mark Schwartzbach, second from left, presented a drug-information program to the fifth and sixth graders of Rahway's Grover Cleveland School. The materials had been reviewed by Frank Brunette, the superintendent of schools; Nicholas Delmonaco, the assistant superintendent, and Arthur Lundgren, the principal. They were presented at a level appropriate for this age child and hopefully will be a valuable resource for them, according to Mr. Lundgren. With Pili Schwartzbach, left to right, are: Tom Ziolkowski, Mary Ann Holliday and Anthony Hunter.

PLANTING NEW KNOWLEDGE - Participating in "Entertainment, A Tool to Learning," at Clark's Frank K. Hehny School are Maureen Green and Anthony Gonzales.

Fill holiday with holly in basket - A basket for a wall or door, to be made with vines and moss and filled with evergreens and holly, will be the finished product of a Christmas craft workshop to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 14, from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. at the Trailside Nature and Science Center at Coles Ave. and New Providence Rd., Mountainside.

Registration and a $10 fee are required for this Union County Dept. of Parks and Recreation facility.

Hehny pupils learn beauty of earth

"Entertainment, A Tool to Learning," was the concept used in a Parent-Teacher Assn.-sponsored program presented to Clark's Frank K. Hehny School students.

Jack Branagan, through the use of visual aids, games and a puppet show, impressed upon the children the importance of understanding our home and its natural resources in an effort to save it from needless waste and abuse.

"Our Home-Planet Earth" was enjoyed by both students and teachers, reports a school spokeswoman.
