Board views $3.1 million bond referendum on renovations for Rahway High School

By Joan Gorzenik Education members and school administrators as well as school representatives and architectural firm spokesmen came together on Dec. 1 during a special meeting of the school body to examine a tentative budget breakdown for the Rahway High School renovations project. The consensus of the Board members present was to seek an approximate $3.1 million bond issue referendum to finance the high school's refurbishing which would include "no frills," according to the school

various community members and educators who were enlisted to study the issue and convey feedback to the school body.

In the view of Board member, Louis Rizzo, who was a committee participant, the education body should not go "beyond $3 million in order to comply with the committee's recommendations."

Board President, Ronald Matusaitis, said the building was most in need of repairs. He declared, "We are dealing with 40 years of complete downhill (referring to the building's condition).

stressing, "we cannot keep up a building on this." The Board also noted 19 out of 22 capital outlay appropriations have been defeated by Rahway voters. The Board President added he did not think "the people of Rahway were unreasonable." He believed the Board was "putting its cards on the table" by presenting a "streamlined"

Once again the Chamber of Commerce and the merchants announced Rahway and surrounding-area residents may bring their families to participate in the festivities of the annual ceremonies.

Luminaria candles. which have been donated by the Chamber of Commerce, will decorate the plaza in front of the City Hall. Their glow helps in creating the atmosphere of the early 1900's.

In keeping with the spirit of the turn of the century they suggest participants bring their pennies. Along Main and Cherry Sts. they will find vendors in period dress selling hot roasted chestnuts, crisp apples, sweet cookies and hot chocolate at the same prices as those bygone days.

Christmas carols and music will add to the celebrations.

the increase in the number of criminals in prison serves to defense posture. reinforce the view of many citizens the most effective way of bringing down the crime rate is to get tough on repeat offenders. Judges have been responding to the pleas from the public for more protection from criminals by handing out longer sentences, especially for those who have previously been convicted of serious crimes. The notion of linking punishment to fit the crime and the criminal's background is hardly new and it is puzzling why the criminal justice system drifted away from the idea of punishing the hardened offenders toward a more liberal view rehabilitation was the answer. In too many cases, rehabilitation has been a failure. The drop in the crime rate did not happen without support of the public and demands for harsher sentences. Police, prosecutors and judges were, in large part, respon-

As our nation prepares to meet the challenges of the coming decades we must do more to equip our future leaders with the skills they need to lead and prosper in an increasingly interdependent world. Without a sure knowledge of other languages and cultures Americans will not be able to compete effectively and successfully in the world marketplace, conduct a rational and viable foreign policy and ensure a strong Despite the recognized importance of international ducation in our society the United States is falling short in its commitment to these vital education programs. There are some 10,000 English-speaking Japanese business representatives in the United States. By contrast, we have only one-tenth as many business people in Janan and only a handful of these speak Japanese. Only 15% of American high school students now study a foreign language, down from 24% in 1965. Only 8% of American colleges and universities now require a foreign language for admission, compared with 34% in These facts and many others illustrate the need to renew and expand our commitment to international education and the Congress, despite efforts by the adninistration to eliminate funding for these programs, has moved recently to restore and provide for a modest increase in federal support for international education.

The additional support for international education as included in legislation funding the Depts. of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education recently passed by both Houses of the Congress and signed into law on Oct. 31. "We're similar teams," said a disappointed Kean coach

The only goal of the bruising defensive struggle that saw several players injured, came at 27 minutes and 57 seconds into the opening half when North Carolina's Ed Radwanski of Nentune took a pass from teammate, Andrew Mehalko, and sent a shot off the foot of Kean defender, Joey Anselmo of Carteret, into virtually an open net, as Squire goalie, O'Brien, failed to abort the play by coming out to meet the attacker. Radwanski, a 15-goal scorer during the regular season, was cited by his coach as being the toughest Spartan player overall.

"It was in really close and I could see he was going to get the ball," explained O'Brien, who was credited with 10 saves in the game. "You stand in the goal and you're a dead duck. I forced him to go wide, but he made a good move. If he had gotten the ball 10 yards farther out I would have had a bet-
