REAL-LIFE EXPERIENCE - Crime really doesn't pay and prison is no place to spend your life. That's what students at Rahway Junior High School learned recently from Yabu Chiang, a man who learned these facts first hand. Mr. Chiang spoke to Mrs. Munsey's class and answered the students' questions. His topic was Teenagers and the Law," and his goal was to spread the message teenagers should think twice about the consequences of their behavior. The students had many questions ranging from the quality of prison food DECORATING to the problems of drugs in prison. Mr. Chiang pointed out he was fortunate to learn from his mistakes and now is a store manager for the McDonald's Corp.
