

State could have final say on waste plant

By E. R. Faszczewski

Despite the feelings of Rahway residents either for or against the proposed resource-recovery plant in the city the state could step in at any time and tell the city it has to locate the plant here.

That was the consensus of opinion among city officials and some residents who spoke at the June 13 City Council session, although the officials felt it was unlikely the state would intervene in the matter.

Responding to a question from Eddie Smith of 1280 Clark St. as to whether any combination of events could bring the plant to Rahway without the consent of residents and officials, Council attorney, Louis Rainone, said the state would have to get public comment on the plant proposal, but could still go ahead with forcing the construction of the waste-to-energy facility if it so desired.

However, Mr. Rainone said the Union County might have "over" the construction of the facility if Rahway should say it didn't want it was uncertain at this time.

Mr. Smith replied since the state could tell the city what to do about the facility in any case Rahway should give the state an awareness of what it wants so the city will at least have its voice heard in the matter.

Another resident, Alonzo W. Lawrence of 1343 Madison Ave., said Mr. Rainone should look into the statutes to see exactly what rights the city has.

Mr. Rainone replied the city only has as much control over its own destiny as the state gives it since the city is only considered a creature of state government.

Business Administrator Joseph M. Hartnett explained since the state delegated control over solid-waste disposal of 22 solid-waste districts it could step in at any time to spell out what should be done.

However, another resident, Carl Ludmer of 537 Linden Ave., objected to the fact that, from reading the Union County draft proposal for the plant, it appeared to him the county would be giving the plant operator a monopoly, something the state had not mandated in any of the 22 solid-waste districts.

Mr. Ludmer also said he had learned from Dr. Martin Sadat of the state department of environmental protection that even though a resource-recovery plant could incinerate up to 99.5% of its products there was no way of telling what would happen to the other half of a percent.

He said Dr. Sadat had told him it was possible over 20 years emissions from the stacks of the plant could accumulate pollution up to 33,000 tons per person.

The Linden Ave. resident also said there was at this time no way computerized, on-going testing of the emissions could take place, and he objected to a section of the draft proposal which said the plant could provide storage of up to four days' supply of garbage.

He also told officials they should tell the county Rahway did not want a plant which would process 347 million tons of garbage but would only settle for a smaller one with garbage brought in from the immediate area.

Mr. Ludmer urged a full discussion of the matter before City Council now and objected to the limitation of discussion on waste discovery to objections to the comments of one councilman on the matter.

He added the fact no discussion is taking place might lead to charges of non-feasance in office against city officials.

Responding to comments by Mr. Lawrence that the county draft proposal had too many sections which made it seem certain the facility was coming to Rahway and suggesting provisions which were "impossible" to the city, Mr. Smith reminded the resident the booklet issued by the county was only a draft of the proposal sent out to municipalities for review and comment, not a final document.

The administrator added Mr. Lawrence's criticism of the city's response to the draft and that would probably answer many of his questions.

Introduced at the meeting was the 1984 salary ordinance.

An attempt by Sixth Ward Republican Councilman James J. Fulcomer to separate the measure into two sections—one for the management employees and one for other workers, was defeated along party lines, with Second Ward Councilman John C. Marsh and First Ward Councilman Lawrence Bodine joining Councilman Fulcomer in support of dividing the question.

The reason he asked for the vote, according to Councilman Fulcomer, was so the councilmen who objected to what they considered excessive management salaries could vote against them without going against contractual obligations to unionized workers.

However, Mr. Hartnett said the administration objected to separating full-time, non-union personnel from union personnel because it was not considered a sound management practice.

However, the administrator said he did not have any objections to separating out the no-management positions for purposes of discussion.

The main objection made by Councilman Fulcomer was to the obligatory 10% salary differential of the business administrator over that of the chief of police.

The councilman felt because the chief had worked many more years for the city than the business administrator he deserved a greater salary.

Mr. Fulcomer also said the emergency management co-ordinator should get a smaller salary, as should the director of law.

He added the city clerk, who is also the clerk for the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, should get paid less for the second position because he performs much of the work for the beverage control board during his normal work day as the city clerk.

Responding to Councilman Fulcomer's comments about the business administrator's salary, Mayor Daniel L. Martin said the chief of police gets longevity pay, which actually cuts down the differential between the two salaries to 2 to 3%.

Fourth Ward Councilman Harvey Williams added the chief had not been the chief of the department for his full time of service with the city and the business administrator deserved a much larger salary because he runs the entire city administration, whereas the chief runs only one department.

Mr. Hartnett pointed out the chief gets double the longevity pay the business administrator does.

He added it was unanimously recommended by a City Council personnel committee, made up of officials from both political parties, in 1981 that there be a 10% differential between the salaries of the administrator and the chief, whereas the differential had been as high as 11 to 25% before that.

Although he objected to the fact the assistant public works superintendent was paid $5,000 extra for being the supervisor of the water department, Councilman Marsh said he thought over all Rahway could afford to pay neither the highest nor the lowest salaries in the county.

On the average, the councilman added, in 1981 when he was on the personnel committee he had seen people in most positions in the city didn't make as much as those in equivalent positions in industry and he found the same situation existed today.

However the Sixth Ward representative was re-elected by a margin of 30 to 12.

Elected with Mr. Fulcomer were Helen Mackow as the vice chairman, John Stopka as the second vice chairman, Mrs. Tina Knox as the treasurer, Albert Hersch as the recording secretary, Roberta Cohen as the assistant recording secretary, William Ulrich as the corresponding secretary, Carol Hersch as the county delegate, Katherine Fulcomer as the first alternate delegate and Evelyn Wilson, Theresa Ulrich, William Knox and Edward Doone as the other alternates.

Mr. Doone was also appointed sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Addona ran unopposed for his party post. Joining him on the Democratic side, also unopposed, were Alex Shipley, treasurer; Betty West, recording secretary, and Dinah Gabel, corresponding secretary.

To fill vacancies created by the fact that no candidates filed to run for Democratic committee seats Mr. Addona appointed the following: In the First Ward, Second District, Alex and Len Meyers; in the Third Ward, First District, Richard and Margaret Pryor, and in the Fifth Ward, First District, Mr. and Mrs. William Cladek.

For the fourth consecutive year the Union County Democratic Committee, meeting at the Abraham Clark High School in Roselle on June 12 chose Anthony Amalfi of Roselle as its chairman.

County Republicans meeting at El Pescador Restaurant in Roselle Park the same night, elected Alfonso Pisano of Roselle Park to his seventh term as their leader.

Both party leaders were unchallenged for their posts.

Other Democratic officials elected were: First vice chairwoman, Catherine Lehr of Linden, for her 44th year; second vice chairman, William Wolfe of Rahway; third vice chairman, Charles Walano of Clark; fourth vice chairman, Helen Miller of Plainfield; fifth vice chairman, Bertha Fagan of Elizabeth; secretary, Julie Coan of Roselle Park; treasurer, Jerry Biener of Roselle; sergeant-at-arms, William Cieri of Springfield; parliamentarian, Albert Parsonnet of Hillside, and chief counsel, John Molozzi of Roselle Park.

The Republicans also unanimously re-elected their slate of officers: First vice chairman, Lucille Masciale of Scotch Plains; second vice chairman, Mario Caporaso of Summit; secretary, Helen Wactor of Roselle, and treasurer, William Palermo of Linden.

Fulcomer survives ouster attempt

Although there was an attempt to unseat Rahway's long-time Republican chairman, Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer, at the GOP re-organization meeting on June 11, the incumbent leaders in both the city's major political parties easily retained their positions.

The Democrats again selected Councilman-at-Large Vincent P. Addona as their leader.

An attempt was made by forces led by Second Ward Republican Councilman John C. Marsh and former local GOP official, Terri Malone, to oust Councilman Fulcomer from the chairmanship and replace him by Joseph LoPiccolo of the Second Ward.

Mr. Addona was also appointed sergeant-at-arms.

However, the Second Ward representative did say a survey he did of municipalities of similar size as Rahway around the county had shown the city to be pretty much in line with the others.

The mayor told Councilman Marsh by combining the public works and water department position three-fifths of a salary had been saved.

The salary ordinance itself was introduced unopposed and it will be up for public hearing and possible final adoption at a special meeting to be held on Monday June 25, at 8 p.m.

Police issue fireworks warning

A spokesman for the Rahway Police Dept. wished everyone "A safe and enjoyable Fourth of July."

He reminded parents "fireworks" are a hazard to the health, safety and welfare of their family as well as being illegal under New Jersey statutes 21: 2-1 and 21: 3-1.

Store owners were reminded small novelty fireworks such as the following are illegal to sell: Cigarette loads, trick matches, trick noise makers, smoke grenades and toy propellants.

Only paper caps and plastic caps for use in toy cap guns are legal in New Jersey, he added.

Any person found guilty of possessing fireworks including "sparklers" with the intention of selling, same can be fined up to $1,000 and/or imprisoned for six months. Anyone found using fireworks can be fined up to $500 and/or imprisoned for up to 30 days.

Police departments are often criticized for enforcing the firework statutes. Remember in a Democratic Republic the police enforce laws passed by its citizenry. It is the death and injuries sustained from firework incidents in past years that has prompted an upgrading of the fines and jail terms for all offenders, the spokesman continued.

The Rahway police request your co-operation in making this a safe and enjoyable holiday. Spend it enjoying good food and recreation amid friends and family, not in the emergency room of a hospital, he concluded.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Pender explains resource recovery

Recent issues of The Rahway News-Record have contained articles of a somewhat emotional nature, both pro and con, on the siting of the Union County solid waste disposal facility in Rahway.

These articles have used the terms resource recovery and incineration, but beyond that no explanation of the technology employed has been presented.

American industry has employed high temperature incineration with air-heat recovery for some time. Because of increased energy costs and waste disposal regulations new application of the thermal processing of industrial waste are continually being implemented.

Basically, an industrial type would consist of two combustion chambers—the primary, where the waste to be consumed is charged into temperatures approaching 2000 degrees Fahrenheit. The noncombustibles and the inert residue of combustion are discharged from this chamber for ultimate disposal by landfill.

In a typical industrial application residues would account for less than 10% of the waste stream. The maintenance of proper waste destruction within this chamber should render the residue to an environmentally neutral state.

The secondary combustion chamber receives the off-gases, smoke and particulate from the primary chamber. These gases are elevated to temperatures approaching 3000 degrees Fahrenheit. The combustibles in the gas stream are consumed at this point. The hot gases from the secondary chamber are then passed through a boiler where the heat is extracted from the gas stream and steam or hot water is generated. The cooled gases then pass to an air pollution control device before being discharged to the atmosphere. The type of control systems vary and are dependent upon the character of the waste being processed.

This technology has proven to be viable in industrial applications. The adaptation of this process to municipal refuse will require a great deal of engineering and constructive thinking on the part of our elected officials to determine the merits of such a project in Rahway.

Mr. Buffalo cites NAACP chapter

This letter comes in recognition of 50 years of service rendered by the Rahway Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Since its inception in 1934 the organization has been a frontrunner in efforts to insure the economic, social and political well-being of minorities in the Rahway area. Through the leadership of 12 presidents the chapter has built a solid reputation of action in cases involving discriminatory policies and practices.

While its work reaches public awareness primarily during a crisis, the Rahway Branch meets regularly and its on-going program includes community awareness forums, the annual celebration of Black History Month, forums, voter information and registration drives and the annual Freedom Fund Dinner, the proceeds of which are used to support the local scholarship fund as well as the state and national programs.

Mindful of its creed to "uplift all men and women of this country by securing for them the full enjoyment of their rights as citizens, justice in all courts and equality of opportunity everywhere," the chapter has, over the years, chosen to be morally correct rather than politically expedient. This, I hope, will not change.

An examination of the position of minorities in our country will reveal what greater numbers are attending college and entering corporate boardrooms. The vast majority does not enjoy full equality of opportunity. There is still a need, indeed, now more than ever, for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

I applaud the Rahway Chapter's efforts of the last 50 years and hope and pray for even greater success in the next.

'Liberation' boosts pride of nation

Over the past few weeks we have all been reminded June 6, 1984, marked the 40th Anniversary of the great Normandy Invasion which set the stage for the end of World War II in Europe.

Next year will mark the 40th Anniversary of an even more momentous event—the liberation of Europe by American and Allied Forces.

I am proud to report in conjunction with the celebration that anniversary we are preparing to unveil, here in New Jersey, a major new historical monument—a monument that will preserve forever in bronze the valor and compassion of the American liberators, those brave soldiers who crushed the Nazi persecutors and rescued the survivors of the Holocaust.

I believe this monument is destined to take its place among the great monuments of our nation as a reminder that we must never allow the horrors of the past to be forgotten, while honoring the dead, will commemorate the living.

The monument will be a 15-foot high bronze statue entitled "Liberation." It will depict an American GI carrying a concentration camp survivor to safety and freedom. It will be a stirring reminder of the American that extended its hand to the people of Europe at the end of World War II, of the America that welcomed the oppressed from all over the world to its shores, of the America that has been the flagpole of freedom and liberty in this century.

The setting for this memorable statue is perhaps the most fitting in all America. It will stand in Liberty State Park overlooking the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, both symbols of America's European heritage.

Liberty State Park receives more visitors each year than any other park in the nation. Every year hundreds of thousands of school children will stand before "Liberation" and learn firsthand of America's great heritage of compassion and generosity.

This stirring monument is the creation of Nathan Rapoport, a world-renowned artist whose sculptures celebrate the triumph of good through such widely diverse subjects as the Holocaust and the torture of the Jews.

Mr. Rapoport's works stand in Warsaw, in Paris, in Philadelphia and at several locations in Israel. The artist is himself a victim of Nazi persecution and lost his family in the death camps of Germany.

During a visit to the artist in his New York studio more than a year ago, I was immediately struck by a high model of "Liberation." I knew this work could become New Jersey's gift to our nation and to people from all over the world.

Sens. Bill Bradley and Frank Lautenberg agreed to join me as honorary co-chairmen of the effort to raise this monument and the result was the formation of the Liberty Park Monument Committee.

For more than a year the committee has been working diligently to raise the $1 million needed to commission the monument, place it in Liberty State Park and arrange for its maintenance and upkeep.

Today we are ready to set the monument in place. And, as the committee works, Nathan Rapoport, at age 83, leaves his great work every day at 4:30 o'clock in the morning to journey by cab, train and bus to Peckskill, N. Y., to the foundry where his foot-high idea for a tribute to the living is being translated into two tons of cast bronze.

It is my hope "Liberation" will truly be a gift from the people of New Jersey to the people of the world.

Already people from many varied facets of New Jersey life are working to raise the money for "Liberation." They are too numerous to mention here, but they include many veterans organizations, civic and religious groups, corporate sponsors, labor unions, artists' groups and private individuals.

All are important and all are needed.

It is the committee's hope, and mine as well, we will have the broader people response in raising the funds for this great work. With your help we can create a major American landmark here in New Jersey.

Every New Jerseyer who contributes, no matter how small the amount, will have the gratification of knowing he or she has given of his or herself for the perpetuation of the great human ideals: Love, compassion, sharing and the dignity of the spirit.

We must control textile imports

Six years ago more than 2.7 million Americans were employed in the textile and apparel industries, more than in any other sector of the economy. Today there are only 1.9 million apparel and textile workers in the country and tens of thousands of these jobs are jeopardized.

A primary cause of the drop in employment in these industries is the sharp rise in textile and apparel imports, especially from China, Korea, Hong Kong and Taiwan. The importation of these textiles has reached staggering proportions and is seriously disrupting our textile and apparel industries, which are important not only to the economy but also to national defense.

What is particularly troubling about this situation is some of our trading partners have resorted to blatantly unfair and fraudulent practices to increase their share of the United States market. In some instances import licenses have been forged and in others goods produced in one country have been mis-labeled and shipped through a second country to circumvent quotas contained in trade agreements with the United States.

In addition, these subsidizing change in the balance of trade. In the first four months of 1984 textile and apparel imports soared 49% over the same period in 1983, which in itself was a record year. Textile imports were up 69%, apparel import 38% and yard imports 99% during this period. If the trend continues unchecked this year's textile, apparel and fiber-trade deficit will far outdistance the record $10.6 billion imbalance registered last year. Just in the first quarter the trade deficit for these commodities amounted to $5.1 billion or an increase of 74% over the figure for the same period a year ago.

Foreign manufacturers shipped 7.5 billion square yards of textiles and apparel to the United States in 1983. This figure could balloon to 10 billion square yards this year based on first-quarter figures, according to the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, which estimates for every 1 billion square yards of imports 100,000 American job opportunities are lost. Government officials also have pointed out the dramatic gains and apparel industry is important to national defense.

Few if any of the states have escaped the corrosive impact of the explosion in imports, including New Jersey where an estimated 66,000 workers are employed in the textile and apparel industries. Since 1970 the number of New Jerseyans in these jobs has fallen by more than 26,000, according to statistics compiled by the New Jersey Dept. of Labor. These are jobs that are lost and will likely be regained.

With the jobs of 1.9 million Americans at stake in the face of the flood of imports it is time for Congress to move swiftly and firmly to enact legislation that forces foreign compliance with bilateral trade agreements and eliminates double standards imposed by our trading partners to keep out American-made products.

I have joined a bipartisan group in sponsoring the Textile Employment and Fair Trade Act, which is intended to get this trade problem under control before further damage is done to the economy. The bill would freeze 1984 textile, apparel and fiber imports at 1983 levels and limit the growth in the importation of these goods to 1.5% a year over the next four years.

Additionally, the measure would require the department of commerce to institute an early warning system to the potential threat any change in the level of imports poses to the domestic market and would help officials identify fraudulent shipments of textiles and apparel coming into the country.

Legislative action is needed because the many actions taken by the Reagan Administration to bring the problem under control have not produced the desired results. It has become increasingly clear the present import control program is simply not working. With thousands of jobs at risk we cannot afford to ignore the problem.

Marsh welcomes G. O. P. support of referendum

The chairman of R. A. G. E., Rahway Against A Garage Environment, Second Ward Councilman John Marsh, said he was "extremely pleased and encouraging" when the Rahway Republican City Committee passed a resolution at its recent meeting calling for a public referendum on the proposed county incinerator.

"It's taken some time and a great deal of effort, but the R. A. G. E. Committee's drive is beginning to have a real impact on the rest of our elected City Council members and their children to a learning experience about the effects of nature in Union County," the Second Ward representative said. The referendum would ask the people of Rahway to indicate whether or not they want an incinerator built in Rahway to burn all of the county's possible waste.

"Naturally," he concluded, "since we would have the support of at least five of the nine councilmen, R. A. G. E. will continue its efforts to obtain signatures on its petitions until the Council has agreed to the referendum."

"Since it appears Jim (Fulmer) is now with us on this, I will be introducing a second resolution at the next City Council meeting asking the City Council once again to approve the public referendum," the Second Ward councilman declared.

"Then we'll know whether the rest of our elected City Council members are willing to give our citizens the right to vote on this issue."

Fulcomer: GOP wants referendum on waste plant

Rahway Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer, the newly re-elected City Republican chairman, announced today the City Council will hold a referendum on the question of a resource recovery facility in Rahway before a decision is made on the matter by the Rahway City Council. "We Republican leaders, whether we have a friendly attitude on resource recovery in Rahway, agree a referendum should be held on this public issue before a final decision on resource recovery is made," said Councilman Fulcomer. He suggested the best approach would be for both political parties on the City Council to work together to adopt a suitable resolution for a referendum. The Sixth Ward representative noted the Republican Party advocacy of the principle of a referendum on the issue does not constitute an endorsement of any special-interest group involved in the issue, but rather a final decision on resource recovery is made. He said for all citizens to study the matter carefully and to have an opportunity to express their opinion on the issue through a referendum. Some Republicans, he observed, favored using an initiative petition to force a referendum on the issue. Others, he added, with simply a policy upon the people without their consent," said Councilman Fulcomer. The councilman added that the Republicans are not committed to any particular type of referendum and any referendum on the matter prior to the final decision would be satisfactory. He explained the city could hold a referendum between the receipt of the finished proposal and the final City Council decision.
