Council in one voice: Bury Inman parkway exit

By R.R. Faszczewski

The Rahway City Council Feb. 11 loudly and clearly voiced its unanimous opposition to a Garden State Parkway exit on Inman Ave. which is being considered, by certain Union County officials.

Third Ward Councilman Max Shield introduced a resolution calling for Union County officials, Clark of officials, Woodbridge officials and Middlesex County officials to be put on notice of Rahway's absolute disapproval of the project, which reportedly is being considered by bureaucrats in the Union County engineer's office and is being pushed by Clark Second Ward Councilman William Caruso.

The Clark councilman reportedly is backing the move to relieve his township of some of the traffic burden caused by Clark Exit No. 135 off the parkway, but Rahway Mayor Daniel L. Martin has already written to Clark's mayor and Governing Body requesting their help in getting the exit put someplace else besides Inman Ave. because, according to Mayor Martin, the Inman Ave. proposal would cause more serious traffic problems for both Rahway and Clark.

Councilman Shield said he had been assured by state officials twice in the last several years the Inman Ave. proposal would be dropped. The state and county, according to the councilman, had told him at one hearing it was dead and then at the state hearing on improvements to the Rte. No. 1 Green St. circle improvements had reiterated the promise.

He added the traffic congestion caused by an entrance and exit on Inman Ave. would also cause problems for residents of Lake

Ave. and Rahway officials had been "led down the road" with decisions made "behind their backs" on the issue.

Replying to a report the county engineer had said the proposal would benefit Rahway, Councilman Shield said the engineer was wrong and Rahway should rise up and bury the proposal.

Sixth Ward Councilman James J. Fulcomer said the proposal probably did not come from the Union County freeholders but from an "overzealous bureaucrat," and the Governing Body should put pressure to stop the plan on the bureaucrat through the Union County manager and the freeholders.

He suggested Rahway ask Woodbridge officials to send a letter to the Middlesex County freeholders against the proposal.

Second Ward Councilman John Marsh said the people on Inman and Lake Aves. had protested to Rahway officials 10 years ago about the proposal and had been told by Mayor Martin at that time he would not be ruled by mob rule.

Councilman Marsh added the project was indeed an active consideration and the Rahway administration did not wake up to that fact until the reports of the proposal hit the newspapers.

However, Business Administrator Joseph M. Hartnett told the Second Ward representative it was the Rahway administration which had acted first to contact the freeholders and the county manager to ask the proposal be killed after Councilman Caruso's support of the project had been made known to the Rahway engineer when he was asked for comment by county officials.

Councilman-at-Large and Council President Walter McLeod said he had spoken to Walter Gardiner, the Union County traffic engineer, and Mr. Gardiner had offered to come to the city to discuss the proposal with Rahway officials.

Councilman Fulcomer added Rahway should invite the bureaucrat who was pushing the proposal (thought to be Mr. Gardiner) to the city to give him a piece of the Rahway officials' minds.

Both Councilman Fulcomer and Councilman-at-Large Vincent Addona said they had spoken to Union County freeholders and the freeholders were unaware of the Inman Ave. proposal.

City Clerk Francis R. Senkowsky was instructed to write a letter to Mr. Gardiner telling him Rahway officials wanted to see him about the plan at his earliest convenience.

A resolution which would have established medical coverage for the municipal judge and emergency management coordinator was tabled after several objections from councilmen and a call for more information.

Under the resolution the two positions would be covered after retirement if they had at least 10 years of service in the positions with the city, and coverage would not be paid by the city if the person holding the position or his spouse was eligible for similar coverage for any other employment or position held.

Councilman Fulcomer said it would be wrong to extend medical coverage to two part-time posts after retirement without extending it to all part-time posts and the city couldn't afford to extend it to all the positions.

Calling the resolution a political move to take care of the faithful of the Democratic Party, Councilman Marsh pointed out several years ago an attempt to extend medical coverage to a councilman after retirement had been turned back in court.

He said the city attorney should investigate the previous case, and added extending coverage to part-timers might cause hundreds or thousands of other city employees such as school crossing guards to ask for the same coverage.

Mr. Hartnett pointed out the Governing Body was confronted with two different issues: First, should the two part-time posts be covered under the medical plan; and second, should the posts be covered after retirement.

As to the first question he said he couldn't see any reason why active councilmen and those in other no-range posts should get medical coverage when the emergency management coordinator and the judge couldn't.

He also said the two positions under discussion were administrative positions established by statute and those in them were not considered employees in the same sense as other part-time employees.

Replying to a question from Councilman Marsh, the administrator said judges or emergency management coordinators who had served in the past could not be covered under the policy because it required the person to put in 10 years of service and retire on pension.

He added the only person he knew of in that position now was retired Municipal Court Judge Marcus Blum.

Councilman Shield objected to the implication by Councilman Marsh that Judge Blum was being rewarded for being a servant to the Democratic Party. He said the judge had served a distinguished term in office and was in no way partisan.

The Third Ward councilman also said the cost to cover both positions would only be $268 a month or approximately $3,174 a year.

Prior to Councilman Shield's remarks Fifth Ward Councilman George Wagenhoffer had said the councilmen didn't have enough legal or cost information to make a decision on the policy.

When the vote was taken to table the measure only Councilman-at-Large James Cadigan, Fourth Ward Councilman Harvey Williams and Councilman Shield were against the tabling.

After a complaint by Harold J. Young of 1181 Main St. that city police on Feb. 5 had chased him and drawn their guns on him claiming they had a warrant for his arrest which they had yet to show him, and other complaints about police harassment by Mr. Young, First Ward Councilman Jerry L. Coleman called for a full accounting by the police on the incident.

Mr. Senkowsky was instructed to have Police Chief Theodore Polhamus provide Council with a complete report on the incident.

School revamp passes by 2-1 margin

By R.R. Faszczewski
Rahway High School will receive a major renovation overhaul thanks to a $3,919,000 bond issue approved by more than a 2-1 margin by city voters in a special school election held Tuesday.

The measure passed by a total vote of 1,060 to 429, with the strongest support coming in the Sixth Ward, where it won by 160 votes, 272 to 112.

The lowest vote total for the bond issue was in the Fourth Ward, where it passed by only 60 votes — 78 to 18.

However, there was stronger support in the Third and Fourth Districts of the Fourth Ward, where the "Yes" votes were 49 and the "No" votes were seven.

In the First and Second Districts of the ward it passed by 18 votes — 29 to 11.

Voters in the First Ward gave the renovation proposal their support by a margin of 117 to 42, in the Second Ward 157 to 64, in the Third Ward 224 to 139 and in the Fifth Ward 206 to 59.

There were 11 absentee votes cast, with six in favor and five against.

Both school and city officials, who worked jointly to promote passage of the $3.9 million revamp, credited co-operative community support for the victory.

Two previous bond issues, totalling $5,990,000 each, had been defeated, in February and April, 1983.

Thanking staff members, city officials, who served on a joint committee to study what renovations were absolutely necessary for the school; members of the Rahway Ministerial Assn. and the Parent-Teacher Assns., all of which supported and promoted the project, Superintendent of Schools Frank Brunette said the reason Rahway residents supported the project this time was those involved in promoting it had spoken to service groups, golden age groups and other groups in the city and had convinced them the reason for the renovations was the existing building was old and in dire need of repair and its rundown condition had not been caused by vandalism or neglect.

The major part of the improvement project will be the improvement of the heating and ventilating system.

Other improvements will include masonry repair and replacement of windows on the exterior, interior improvements for the handicapped, electrical, lighting and plastering in the auditorium — lighting, doors, seating and curtains, and locker room facilities for boys and girls.

Mr. Brunette estimated the renovation work will begin this spring or fall — after the specifications are drawn up and the bids awarded — and it could possibly be completed by the fall of 1987, or at least during the 1987-1988 school year.

He added the heating plant will take the longest to complete because it will have to be worked on during the summer when it is not being used.

The vice president of the Board of Education, Mrs. Elizabeth Jacobs, thanked all those who had lent their support to the project, particularly Mayor Daniel L. Martin, the City Council, which unanimously voted to support it, and the members of the Rahway Ministerial Assn., who, she said, called for support at religious functions.

Board secretary and school business administrator, Anthony Rocco, called the vote a victory for Rahway's children.

A former councilman, Lawrence Bodine, who served on the joint committee which studied and backed the project, said the project would enable Rahway to continue to give its children a more rounded education.

Praising the efforts of the mayor and Council members, he noted the residents of Rahway have shown they are willing to get more involved in the education of their children and this will enable the school system to be able to produce students who can compete more successfully with countries such as Japan which are so far advanced educationally.

The city's business administrator, Joseph M. Hartnett, said he was pleased with the vote — for the largest financial project ever approved in the city's history — but somewhat disappointed by the low voter turnout.

Only 1,489 ballots were cast — about 10% of the city's registered voters.

Mr. Hartnett did, however, praise the city's senior citizens for giving the measure its largest plurality.

In the Third and Fourth Districts of the First Ward the vote was 65 to 13 in favor and in the Third and Fourth Districts of the Fourth Ward it was 49 to 7.

One senior citizen housing project is in the First Ward, Fourth District, on Grand Ave., and the other project is on Milton Ave., in the Fourth Ward, Fourth District.

He credited Mayor Martin's letter to the senior citizens and one sent to every resident in the community as a major factor in the victory and a major triumph for the mayor.

The business administrator also thanked Rahway's merchants, who displayed posters supporting the project, for their co-operation.

Indian boys cage Cougars in close

Rahway's Indians, on their way to the North Jersey, Section No. 2, Group No. 3 boys basketball tournament, scored a 52-to-50 win over the Cranford Cougars.

Coach Tom Lewis team jumped off to a 14-to-8 lead, and was on top 24 to 17 at the half and was leading 38 to 24 at the start of the final session. The Cougars' Ken Nolan's short jumper with 10 seconds left in the game cut the Indians' margin to within two points before the Indians ran out the clock.

Rahway pointmakers were Stan Smith with four, Raheen Muhammad with 14, Fred Morton 20, Jeff Baker six, and Mike McKenna 10.

Rahway was outscored from the floor 21 to 19. The Indians were 14 of 25 and Cranford was eight of 15 from the line.

The Alternates won 2-1 over the Recalls and took a three-game lead in the Rahway City Hall Employees Bowling League.

The Strikers were 2-1 winner over the Walkouts. Lorraine Wright had a 172 game.

St. Mark's begins Lenten rites

Lent began on Ash Wednesday, yesterday, with a blessing and distribution of ashes to parishioners at the 7 a.m. Mass. The season was inaugurated on Feb. 17 with a special homily at each Mass preached by The Rev. Andrew Pennella.

The parish has supplied all parishioners with church regulations of Lenten fast and abstinence. The Rev. Pennella reminded the congregation, however, "Lent is a happy time. It is a time given us by our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ to come to peace with ourselves and our neighbor."

Thaddeus Zuber, announced Father Pennella, who comes from St. Anselm's Abbey in Washington, D.C., will conduct the Lenten devotions in conjunction with the St. Jude Novena throughout the season, every Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Stations of the Cross will be held every Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

In other events at the church The Rev. Zuber thanked the St. Ann's Society, Mrs. Frieda Jacquemin, her committee and all the workers who sponsored another successful Sauerkraut Supper on Feb. 13, a tradition at St. Mark's and in the entire city of Rahway.

Associate pastor, The Rev. Joseph Jaremczuk, announced the Holy Name Society will host its annual Family Communion Breakfast on Sunday, March 10 beginning with a Mass at 7:30 a.m. in St. Mark's followed by the traditional breakfast at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Rahway.

Co-ordinator of religious education, Margaret Horling, remarked preparations are continuing for those receiving the Sacrament of Confirmation in the fall of 1985. Parishioners have been invited to be prayer partners for the confirmands to lend support in prayer throughout the program.

Maguires taste Oriental artistry

Editor's Note: The following is the text in an article on the journey of former Assemblyman William Maguire and his wife, Mrs. Doris Maguire Clark, from San Francisco to the Far East.

ORIENTAL BEAUTY ... Hong Kong is without a doubt one of the most beautiful harbors in the world. Only Valparaiso, Chile, harbor at night is as pretty.

Our final stop was a visit to the world-famous Rysaco Kimono Factory. Kimonos here are all individually handcrafted. It can take up to a year to have a kimono designed, handpainted and hand sewn. They range in price from $15,000 to $45,000 each. Nobility and grace pervade these kimonos.

We witnessed the hand painting and designing of the cloth that was going into one of these creations. Girls sit on the floor and the masters stand behind them, and they paint the cloth. Young Japanese girls are carefully selected for this job. I don't know how they can do it, but they sit cross-legged all day and paint the intricate designs.

Heart group gives snow shoveling tips

Most people don't realize snow shoveling is a strenuous exercise. The American Heart Assn. suggests being sensible about it particularly if you are over 50 and out of shape. If you have a history of heart disease check with your doctor before you attempt to shovel snow.

Bell Drugs of Rahway

1. Don't shovel immediately after eating. 2. If you are a smoker, don't smoke while shoveling snow. Smoking causes constriction of the blood vessels just as cold air does. The combination can be dangerous.

New Jersey brings magic to learning

From the time children enter kindergarten, they begin to gain a wide range of information that will be carried with them throughout life. The New Jersey Dept. of Energy's Office of Recycling and Environment is working with the state's school system to teach students the need for proper waste management.

The Office of Recycling worked with the Conservation and Environment Bureau of Burlington County, to develop a curriculum designed to teach students the benefits of recycling and proper solid waste management.

"Here Today, Here Tomorrow," is a curriculum on energy, recycling and solid waste topics. Through classroom activities, designed for use in kindergarten to 12th grade, the students received a first-hand look at alternatives to current waste disposal practices.

"This formal education program is actually part of a three-phase program, which includes the Office of Recycling's general information campaign, the teaching curriculum and, finally, Mr. R.E. Cycle, the working symbol of the state's program of environmental education and campaign.

The classroom curriculum, "Here Today, Here Tomorrow," has received wide-spread support throughout the state.

6. If you run out of breath, stop until breathing is easier. If you feel a tightness in the chest, quit. If you suspect any of the warning signs of heart attack, get to a hospital emergency room at once. The signals of heart attack are an uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest, lasting two minutes or more. The pain may spread to the shoulders, back and arms. Dizziness, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur.

H.O.P.E. holds skating parties

On the first and third Mondays of every month, H.O.P.E. Ministries sponsor a Christian roller skating party with a disc jockey, album giveaways and contemporary Christian music at the Union Roller World on Rte. No. 22, Union behind R&S from 7 to 10 p.m. The price for admission is $2.50 plus $1 for skate rental. For groups of 10 or more, admission is $2.
A non-perishable food collection is also taken at this time to help the needy. H.O.P.E. Ministries was founded in 1982 by Conrad Wozniak, its member of Grace & Peace Fellowship in Cranford. Its efforts have raised nearly $11,000, $4,500 of which has gone to mission organizations working to relieve the suffering in Ethiopia caused by its recent crisis. H.O.P.E. also supported one of its members while she worked in both Haiti with Salvation Army and while she worked with Emmanuel International in Canada, reports a spokesman.
Money raised from events such as roller skating nights is H.O.P.E.'s sole source of funds for administrative costs. H.O.P.E. uses these monies to produce contemporary Christian rock concerts. Members who are interested in these projects are then allocated to mission organizations working both in the United States and other countries, the spokesman added.

Student remembers Miss Pearce

Editor's Note: The following is a tribute to Miss Florence Louise Pearce, a former Rahway teacher who died recently, by Joseph A. Klenner, one of her former students.
In the summer of 1964, Miss Florence Louise Pearce quietly retired from teaching in the Rahway school system. In the winter of 1965, funeral services were held for the same lady in that same town where she had spent a great part of her life.
Miss Pearce, born in Camden, lived most of her life in Rahway, where she taught elementary education in the Roosevelt and Madison schools. When she retired in 1964 she moved to a part of the country she loved, Biddeford, Maine. She died in Weber Hospital in Biddeford just two months short of her 80th birthday. Miss Pearce was also a life-time member of the First Presbyterian Church in Rahway.
Florence Pearce was one of the rare breed of genuine teachers, a true professional who approached her job as an artist sculpturing a statue.
She did so much more than teach reading, arithmetic and spelling. She instilled in her young pupils the desire to learn, to investigate, to achieve.
Her enthusiasm radiated in the classroom. She testified to this to a former student just two months ago, writing, "Liking your job makes things go smoothly. I know, because I always loved mine - especially in Madison School."
She loved to have the children recite poetry and she delighted in their presentations of crafts and hobbies from home. Although she was a strict disciplinarian, her broad smile and laugh at funny incidents or on class trips were infectious.
If one could ask for a part-time mother, Miss Pearce would be the one. She loved to have the children recite poetry and she delighted in their presentations of crafts and hobbies from home. Although she was a strict disciplinarian, her broad smile and laugh at funny incidents or on class trips were infectious.
Pearce exhibited the love, patience and concern that truly filled such needs. She saw her pupils through the years of school prayer and air raid drills, through holiday festivities, Halloween parades around the school, the tediousness of phonics, and the repetition of Dick and Jane stories.
What she imparted on them, morality, consideration for others, self-control, which later in their lives became self-discipline, are invaluable. For these reasons she was loved and admired by both students and teachers alike.

FINISHED PRODUCTS — Edon Chapolwitz, Craig Abenita, Justin LaSala, Richard Procopio, Michael Kolesar, Edward Dubrowski and Trevor Ayr display the reports and projects they completed as part of their study of colonial America in Mrs. Marie Gagliardi's fifth-grade class at Clark's Frank K. Hahny School.

How to jump-start battery in safety

Eye injuries from one of winter's most common hazards — the dead battery — can be greatly reduced if motorists will take simple precautions before and during the winter season, says the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

According to a society spokesman an estimated 20,733 people were treated in hospital emergency rooms in 1983 for battery-related injuries. More than two-thirds, or 13,673 of those involved injuries to the eyes. Misdiagnosing and improper jump-starting of automobile batteries "were among the preventable causes of these injuries."

"Some people don't know a lighted match and cigarette or a spark from a dropped tool, booster or charge cable can ignite a battery," says Dennis Hirschfelder, executive director of the New Jersey Affiliate. "The explosion can throw battery acid into the eyes, causing severe burns, possible vision impairment or even blindness."

To minimize the risk, the society urges motorists to carry safety goggles in their cars, and wear them whenever working around or jump-starting a car battery. This precaution is given the highest priority among all the recommendations made by the society.

"The best way to reduce the risk of a dead battery is first to make sure it's in good working condition," Mr. Hirschfelder advises.

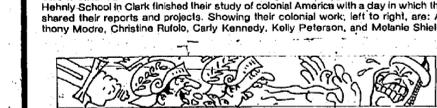

The society offers a check list that motorists can follow to maintain a car battery's peak performance:

- 1. Water Level: Replace water lost through evaporation overcharging.
- 2. Corrosion: Inspect battery terminals on a regular basis and clean as needed. Any corrosion on terminals should be removed with a cleaning solution of water and ammonia or baking soda. Clean terminals can be coated with petroleum jelly after attaching cable terminals to battery.
- 3. Charge: Check the charging system annually — particularly before cold weather season.
- 4. Manufacturer's Instructions: Read and follow instructions in car's operating manual on battery care and maintenance.
- 5. Jump-start procedure: These jump-start procedures have been reproduced by the society on a bright yellow, sturdy sticker. A copy is available by sending 15 cents and a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope to: Prevent Blindness, Box 2020, New Brunswick, N.J. 08903.

Founded in 1988, the Society to Prevent Blindness is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through a comprehensive program of community services, public and professional education and research. Mr. Hirschfelder concluded.

SHOW AND TELL ... Students in Mrs. Marie Gagliardi's fifth-grade class at Frank K. Hahny School in Clark finished their study of colonial America with a day in which they shared their reports and projects. Dear live in many parts of the world...some in hot, dry deserts, others in the cold lands above the Arctic Circle.

"JOIN AMERICA'S FAMILY ALBUM..." And save a great lady too! -- Americans of various ethnic origins stand on the New Jersey shoreline as the Statue of Liberty renovation continues in the harbor behind them. The

Vail-Deane: One big family

Every Monday morning before the first class begins the entire student body, in kindergarten to 12th grade, and faculty of The Vail-Deane School in Mountainside, assemble in the school's auditorium for a weekly meeting.

Standing in a semi-circle around a senior who leads the assembly, the students sing the alma mater, announce meeting dates and scores of athletic events, and in general, communicate the happenings of the school to each other. It is not unusual to hear a kindergarten cheerer for the boy who scored the winning soccer goal; that upper-school soccer player is probably the "big brother" of the enthusiastic cheerer, reports a school spokesman.

A long-standing tradition at Vail-Deane is the pairing of seniors and kindergartners in the big brother/sister program for new students. At the annual barbecue for the entire school community, given in September before school opens, the new students are greeted and made welcome by their big brothers and sisters. The kindergartners and their new upper-school friends establish a relationship that lasts throughout the year, the spokesman added.

The all-school assemblies and the big brother/sister program are just two examples of many cross-grade activities at Vail-Deane. Concerts, plays, picnic, and field days are some events that also take place.

NEWS OF HEALTH
New Device Helps People With Emphysema Breathe Easier

Many people with severe respiratory problems are breathing easier these days with the help of a whistle-shaped plastic device.

The new device is called the Pflex Inspiratory Muscle Trainer. It can control the effects of chronic bronchitis as well as advanced emphysema, even when drugs or oxygen fail, helping people with these problems lead more active lives, according to Dr. Leonard Sanna, former director of chest service at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center who headed a study of the device. The inexpensive and safe device is used for about 30 minutes a day, as the patient reads, watches TV or relaxes at home.

How does the Pflex Trainer work? The patient holds the device in his or her mouth and inhales and exhales through it. The device creates resistance that makes respiratory muscles work harder, actually training them towards greater endurance. Dial settings let the patient regulate the amount of resistance.

Six patients with severe emphysema or chronic bronchitis recently underwent an outpatient program at Harbor-UCLA with the device, using it for 30 minutes a day at home. They were tested before and after the six-week program to determine their capacity to take in oxygen during exercise.

The results: A significant 15 percent increase in maximum exercise capacity for all six patients. What this means to the patient is "less shortness of breath and an increased ability to carry out the normal activities of daily living."

The Pflex Trainer is made by HealthScan Products, Inc., Upper Merion, N.J., and is available by prescription. It costs $9.95.

Surgeons cite hospital-cancer unit

St. Elizabeth Hospital in Elizabeth was given a three-year approval for its hospital cancer program by the American College of Surgeons. This approval puts the hospital among a select group of approximately 1,000 hospitals nationwide, reports a spokesman.

According to Dr. Sidney Trubowitz, the chief of oncology, the approval recognizes the hospital's commitment to comprehensive care for cancer patients in the Elizabeth area.

The team approach to cancer treatment at St. Elizabeth involves a variety of board certified physicians from various medical specialties involved in the care of the cancer patient. In addition, the tumor registrar, a member of the medical staff, a social worker and a dietician serve on the tumor committee, added Dr. Trubowitz.

"Optimal care for the cancer patient often involves input from multiple and complex disciplines. By sharing information, we help assure a unified approach to cancer treatment," Dr. Trubowitz explained.

In addition to having a clinical program which meets the requirements of the Commission on Cancer, the hospital has also met the requirement of having a well-functioning tumor registry under the supervision of Mrs. Ann Munoz, a certified tumor registrar. This registry keeps a record of each cancer patient and makes certain follow-up examinations and rehabilitation of patients are done in a systematic manner at specified intervals.

According to Mrs. Munoz special studies of cancer cause and treatment are possible through the registry, which was begun in 1979 and is now computerized.

The approval by the surgeons unit was awarded based on submitted materials and an on-site evaluation in 1983. St. Elizabeth was evaluated on its activities directed toward prevention and early diagnosis of cancer, its rehabilitation and treatment programs, its efforts to detect recurrent and primary cancers and its optimal care for the dying patient.

What is Medical Rehabilitation?

America's rehabilitation hospitals... These unique medical facilities are helping thousands of victims of stroke, disabling accidents and birth defects overcome their handicaps and become healthy, functioning members of society, while saving our economy millions of dollars.

Some 8,000 victims receive permanent spinal cord injury each year, with a cost of treatment ranging up to $500 million dollars the first year alone. Stroke patients generate equally staggering figures: nearly one per minute, every minute of every year, with treatment costs of billions of dollars annually—a single stroke victim costs the American economy $17,000 per year. Thousands of dollars must also be spent for the care and treatment of paraplegics and quadriplegics.

Treatment at a rehabilitation facility is usually the best way, medical experts agree, to reduce the pain and suffering of such patients. Without rehabilitation, they can become silent sufferers in strapping homes, unable to perform the simplest tasks, while their medical bills strain their families' resources and the economy.

At a rehabilitative facility, patients receive the proper nutrition and medication they need for their particular condition. Physical and occupational therapy is started as Rehabilitation hospitals help patients overcome disabilities and become working members of society.
