Veterans offered education incentive

A new veterans educational program will take effect for persons enlisting in the Armed Services on or after

Monday, July I.

The Veterans Educational Assistance program (VEAP) was a provision contained in last year's Defense Authorization Act. It will provide education assistance to individuals who enter military service between July I and Eligibility is limited to those individuals who serve at least two years of continuous active duty and have received a high school diploma, or its equivalent, before completion of qualifying service. Graduates of the military academies or Reserve Officer Training Corps Scholarship recipients are not eligible for assistance under this pro-

Unless the service member elects not to participate in the program his or her basic pay will be reduced by $100 a month for the first 12 months of service Basic educational assistance of $300 a month for 36 months for full-time students will be available to those service members who had three years of active duty, or two years of active duty and four years in either the Selected Reserve or the National Guard. For persons serving two years of active duty the basic educational allowance will be $250 a month for 36 months for full-

While the basic educational assitance will be paid by the Veterans Administration, the Defense Dept. is authorized to increase this entitlement by up to $400 a month for personnel designated to have skills or specialities for which there is a critical shortage or for which recruitment is difficult. The designations would be made by the individual service secretary

Additionally the program provides a discretionary sup-plemental benefit of up to $300 a month to personnel plete the initial period of service required for thebasic benefit and go on to serve either an additional five years on active duty without a break in service or two additional years of active duty and four years in the Selected Reserve. This discretionary benefit would be paid by the Defense Dept. and would be targeted to individuals designated by the service secretary to have skills or specialties in which there exists a critical shortage. Service personnel entitled to the 36 months of benefits provided under VEAP must use them within 10 years of their date of last discharge or release from active duty or from the date they become entitled, whichever is Members of the Selected Reserve and the National Guard will be eligible for a reduced entitlement under this program if they meet certain criteria, such as extending an enlistment or re-enlisting and have a high school liploma (or equivalent certificate) before completing active duty for training.

For these individuals the basic entitlement would be $140 a month for full-time pursuit of education up to a maximum of 36 months. The assistance to newly-epiisted numbers of the National Guard of Selected Reserve would not be provided until the required initial period of active duty for training was completed or the reservist had 180 days of service.

For reservists the entitlement expires at end of the 10 year period beginning on the date the individual. becomes entitled to assitance or the date separated from e reserve, whichever is first. For complete information on the program and the
