

County college offers quality at bargain prices

"Many parents don't realize the tremendous financial savings available to them if their children attend Union County College rather than an out-of-state, four-year college or university," Dr. Leonard T. Kreisman, vice president for academic affairs, said today.

"For example, a family in Union County might realize a savings of $18,500 in its child's college education based on the difference between attending Union County College at an annual tuition of $750 rather than an out-of-state four-year college or university with a tuition cost of $10,000 a year."

Dr. Kreisman pointed out these figures are possible because our graduates have transferred and had the credits they earned accepted at more than 500 colleges and universities in all 50 states — colleges of all types, sizes, and programmatic emphasis," he noted.

"While most of our graduates transfer to Rutgers, Kean College of New Jersey and Seton Hall and Fairleigh Dickinson Universities, many of them over the years have been accepted by, done well in the classroom and been graduated from Princeton, Drew, Bucknell, Amherst, Lehigh, NJIT, Brown, Stevens, Georgetown, Hofstra, St. Peter's, Boston College, Muhlenberg, NYU, Vassar, Temple, Delaware, Oberlin, Syracuse, Trenton State, Duke, Bates, Monmouth, Wagner, Alaska, Cornell, Miami, MIT, Colgate, Maryland, Michigan State, Albright and Marquette and many, many more."

A study conducted by the New Jersey Dept. of Higher Education shows 83 percent of the graduates of community colleges in general do as well or better at the receiving institution. Also, those who transfer to four-year schools will associate degrees "perform slightly better academically than those known as 'native students' — students who have spent their freshman and sophomore years at that four-year school."

According to Mrs. Patricia Bidar of Rahway, director of institutional research at Union County College graduates of Union fare "even better" academically than the state report shows as an average for community college graduates.

"This success rate," Dr. Kreisman said, "shows education at a community college — and especially at Union — is high quality. To know our graduates do even better at receiving colleges and universities than students who have been there for two years makes us proud. It should be noted they achieve well academically despite the inevitable adjustments they must make to the new institution."

James Kane, Union's director of admissions, records and registration, emphasized the "economic sense" of attending a community college.

"When you consider the savings involved in completing the first two year in an expensive four-year college, it makes sense to do it this way. Furthermore, many of our students work part-time and live at home during their time at Union, giving them a chance to save money for the more expensive second two years at a four-year institution."

Starting at a community college is a "wise move" from the personal point of view, according to Ronald Nakashima, director of counseling at Union.

"Many of our students are unsure about what to major in," he said, "and a community college gives them a chance to explore several subject/career areas without spending huge amounts of money. And some of our students aren't sure they want to go to college at all, so a two-year college helps them test the collegiate waters without giving up home, work or their savings for tuition, room and board."

Mr. Nakashima added the smallness of Union — 8,600 students spread over three campuses — allows for a great deal of personal interaction between students and faculty, students and staff.

"The personal quality of the education and guidance at Union is a tremendous plus, an indispensable one to many students. For anyone who has a problem, and many students do — uncertainties, indecision about careers, academic and social difficulties — it's always best to iron out those problems early in one's college career, and the special 'closeness' that exists at a school like Union can make that happen," Mr. Nakashima concluded.

Arthritis group seeks leaders

The New Jersey Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation began Aug. 5 to register people with arthritis and health professionals such as nurses and physical therapists who are interested in becoming volunteer arthritis self-help course leaders.

These volunteers will be trained by the chapter to lead a six-week course designed to help people with arthritis take an active role in "controlling" their disease.

Please telephone Lila Roseman, program director, at 388-0744 for more information.

Head Start nears deadline

Head Start, a free child development program for eligible pre-school boys and girls aged three to four and a half years, is rapidly filling its full-day and half session slots.

The group serves the Elizabeth, Roselle, and Linden areas. Registrations for September enrollment are now being taken.

For more information please telephone 686-6150, 353-6020 or 354-0972.

Arts center offers 'Recognition Seat'

Rahway Landmarks calls it a "Seat of Recognition". Other arts centers have different names for it, but the objective is the same: GIVE CONTRIBUTORS THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE FINANCIAL AID TO THE PROJECT WHILE, AT THE SAME TIME, PERPETUATING THE MEMORY OF A LOVED ONE VIA AN INSCRIBED PLAQUE ON THE BACK OF AN AUDITORIUM CHAIR.

Rahway Landmarks' is a bargain compared with some others. For example, an arts center in San Diego requires a $5,000 donation, spread over five years, for a single commemorative seat-back plaque. (For the same size donation, Landmarks offers a distinctive individual wall plaque in the lobby). The required minimum donation for a Seat of Recognition — only $1,000 — total.

It should be made clear the Seat of Recognition is merely a perpetual memorial, and does NOT grant the contributor a permanently-reserved seat for attendance at future shows. The honoree may be a person living or deceased, an organization, a pet, a memorable event... There are no specific stipulations.

However, the wording will be negotiable, the number of words being limited mainly by the approximately four-by-six-inch uniform size of the plaque. Location within the auditorium may be freely chosen from among available seats in designated areas.

As a bonus the contributor will be granted a three-year complimentary
