Teachers to follow 'common language' to quality

By R.R. Faszczewski

The "common language" of all teaching will be used to continuously upgrade staff development in the Rahway schools when the 1985-1986 year begins on Wednesday, Sept. 4, according to Rahway Superintendent of Schools Frank Brunette.

Mr. Brunette told The Rahway News-Record the district's administrative staff has been introduced to a staff development model called "Instructional Theory into Practice" which identifies those teaching skills which will enhance learning.

The administrator pointed out up to now all teaching has had a common body of knowledge and research in education technique which has not been applied to upgrading the quality of instruction.

One of his primary goals for this year, says the superintendent, is to train all staff members in this technique, starting with the administration.

He expects everyone to be completely trained in the innovative concept, which has come about because of the institution of the New Jersey Academy for the Advancement of Teaching and Management, in five years.

Fifteen of the school district's administrative staff, which includes a total of 17 principals and vice principals, have been trained in at least the first phase of the program, and three have gone beyond the first phase.

Because the program is set up to have teachers and administrators work together in training as a team, according to Mr. Brunette, six teachers selected by their principals have also received the first phase of the training, which will enable the administrator to be a "knowledgeable observer" of the program in action in the classroom.

Although the nine area supervisors in the district have not begun the training they should be doing so shortly, reports the superintendent.

Both Mr. Brunette and Assistant Superintendent of Schools Nicholas DeLomaco recently completed a course in "Elements of Instruction and Clinical Supervision for Administrators" in the Monroe-Orleans County School District in New York State.

In addition, thanks to a grant from the New Jersey Principals and Supervisors Assn., Arthur Lundgreen, the principal of Grover Cleveland School, was able to take a course this summer which will enable him to improve the administration and teaching quality in the school system.

One of the major changes students will experience when they arrive for classes on Wednesday will be the opening of a new school, The Rahway Intermediate School.

As a result of a two-year study the ninth grades were moved out of Rahway Junior High School at the end of the last school year and are now part of Rahway High School.

The name of the junior high school, which now contains only seventh and eighth grades, was changed early in the summer to reflect its new status, according to Mr. Brunette.

He added the refined Core program in the seventh and eighth grades will cut down the amount of movement students will have to make among teachers because the two groups or "cores" in each grade will enable the same group of teachers for all their subjects.

Although the changing of the grade setup was first considered about five years ago it hasn't been feasible until recently because of a shortage of space according to the superintendent.

A drop in the number of students has made the new alignment possible. The intermediate school plan will also be better for ninth-grade students because colleges consider ninth grade part of the transcript requirements for high school and this will give them better preparation for college, he pointed out.

Another advantage of the new system will be it will enable the ninth graders to put more importance on fulfilling their requirements for college because they will be in the same building with other college-bound students, the superintendent said.

Although at the present time there are no formal interscholastic teams organized for the intermediate school, Mr. Brunette says that possibility will certainly be explored in the future.

He added the new alignment will make freshman practice with the varsity easier, along with recruiting.

The school district also has three major goals for the new year which have been presented to the Union County superintendent of schools: By Tuesday, July 1, 1986 the students enrolled in the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/Scholastic Aptitude Test preparation class who have taken the SAT's more than once will show a 10 percent improvement over their first SAT scores; 80 percent of the students in grades four, five and eight will attain a combined score of 7 or better on a writing sample in May, 1986 using a 1-to-six scoring range; and by 1987, using computer-assisted instruction as a tool, the total number of compensatory education students in mathematics identified for the 1985-1986 school year in grades three to six will be reduced by 10 percent.

With the institution of the new state-wide High School Proficiency Tests, which all high school students will be required to take in ninth grade and to pass before graduation, a much greater emphasis will be put on writing than in the old Minimum Basic Skills Test, according to the superintendent.

Although Mr. Brunette said initially a smaller percentage of students will probably score high in the new tests compared to those scoring high in the Minimum Basic Skills Test eventually there will be more progress and the school district has a game plan for continued improvement.

He noted there will be more emphasis on writing in the senior high school which will emphasize all the skills speaking, listening, writing and reading as opposed to the previous emphasis on only speaking and grammar.

Mr. Brunette pointed out any ninth graders who fail the writing section will be followed up with individual analysis and a program geared specifically to improve their writing skills.

The projected enrollment for 1985-1986 in entire district is around 3,200, while last year's enrollment ended up at between 3,225 and 3,240.

The high school enrollment will go from between 825 and 850 last year to around 1,050 this year.

Three new programs to be instituted this year are: A new social studies curriculum with more emphasis on the social sciences such as anthropology, and political science and thinking and studying skills; new reading texts in the fourth to sixth grades based on the Addison-Wesley Program of motivational and comprehension skills development; and new French and Spanish texts in the senior high school which will emphasize all the skills speaking, listening, writing and reading as opposed to the previous emphasis on only speaking and grammar.

NAACP to hold kickoff rally

A spokesman for the Rahway Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People announced the group's 1985 Membership Kickoff Rally will be held on Monday, Sept. 9 at the Ebenezer African Methodist Episcopal Church at 253 Central Ave., Rahway beginning at 7 p.m.

The spokesman added three of the most exuberant gospel choirs in the community will perform at the rally.

The guest speaker will be Hazel N. Dukes, a lecturer and life-long activist. She has served the organization as president of the New York State Conference of NAACP Branches, vice chairwoman of the national board of directors and director of the National Special Contributions Fund and has served in both elected and appointed positions at the local and regional levels of the association.

Hazel Dukes has also served such organizations as the Young Women's Christian Assn., the Senior Missionary Society, the National Council of Negro Women, the Nation Council of Negro Business Women and the Coalition of 100 Black Women.

Refreshments will be served after the rally. All members of the community, may attend.

For further information concerning the rally please telephone John J. Robertson, the president of the Rahway Chapter, at 574-9752.

William Roesch gets masters

A Rahway student, William Mark Roesch, received his master of arts degree in administration and supervision in the public schools from Kean College of New Jersey in Union on Thursday, June 6.

PTA board to meet

The Roosevelt School Parent-Teacher Assn. executive board of Rahway will meet on Thursday, Sept. 12 at 8 p.m.

Additional copies of the 163rd anniversary issue of The Rahway News-Record are available at the newspaper's offices, at 219 Central Ave., Rahway, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday.

LABOR DAY

MISS TEEN VISITS KIWANIS... Russ Taylor, a member of the Kiwanis Club of Rahway, is shown with Kathleen Reynolds, who was named Miss Teen of New Jersey at the state pageant held in July in Cherry Hill. Miss Reynolds is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alvarez of Rahway. She was chosen as one of the 37 finalists from the original 2,000 entrants in the pageant. She plans to attend Kutztown University in September. From Oct. 6 to 13 she will compete in the national pageant in Minnesota. Her goal is to raise a significant amount of money for the March of Dimes. Anyone wishing to contribute may send checks made out to the March of Dimes to Kathy Reynolds, c/o YMCA, 1584 Irving St., Rahway, N.J. 07065. The Kiwanis Club of Rahway meets on Wednesdays at 12:15 p.m. at the Columbian Club in Rahway.

THANKS FOR YOUR HELP... Dominick Nardona, left, and Jane Kuzmich, co-chairmen of the Employee Fund Campaign Committee at Rahway Hospital, accept a certificate honoring employee contributions from John L. Yoder, president of the hospital. Mr. Nardona and Mrs. Kuzmich presided at a recent unveiling of a plaque honoring those employees who contributed more than $200 to the Expansion and Modernization 80's Fund Campaign. Employees at the hospital set their goal at $50,000 back in 1982 when the campaign started and to date have contributed nearly $90,000. The expansion and modernization program will be completed sometime in 1987 and will increase the square-footage of the hospital by 40 percent. More than $2 million was raised for the program from members of the hospital family and local business and service groups.

Arts center offers 'Recognition Seat'

Rahway Landmarks calls it a "Seat of Recognition." Other arts centers have different names for it, but the objective is the same: GIVE CONTRIBUTORS THE OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE FINANCIAL AID TO THE PROJECT WHILE AT THE SAME TIME PERPETUATING THE MEMORY OF A LOVED ONE VIA AN INSCRIBED PLAQUE ON THE BACK OF AN AUDITORIUM CHAIR.

It should be made clear the Seat of Recognition is merely a perpetual memorial, and does NOT grant the contributor a permanently-reserved seat for attendance at future shows. The honoree may be a person living or deceased, an organization, a pet, a memorable event... There are no specific stipulations.

Act Now... this offer will be limited to the first 200 seats only, and will then be increased to 51,500 and up per "recognition" seat. Send in your check now to Union County Arts Center - Seat of Recognition, Post Office Box 1061, Rahway, N.J. 07065.

Rahway Landmarks' is a bargain compared with some others. For example, an arts center in San Diego requires a $5,000 donation, spread over five years, for a single commemorative seat-back plaque. (For the same also donation, Landmarks offers a distinctive individual wall plaque in the lobby). The required minimum donation for a Seat of Recognition - only membership in Rahway Landmarks (the non-profit organization operating the arts center), and the honoree's name will be listed in all future printed programs. Membership benefits include receipt of a permanent reserved seat for attendance at future shows. The honoree may be a person living or deceased, an organization, a pet, a memorable event... There are no specific stipulations.

As a bonus the contributor will be granted a three-year complimentary

School enrollment decline slows

A reversal of the 12-year downward trend in New Jersey's public school enrollments may begin this year according to Francis Pinkowski, planning associate at the New Jersey State Dept. of Education. "We expect to see the declining rates bottom out this year," he advises. "After an interim period of relatively constant numbers we should see an upward swing in overall school enrollments, beginning in 1989-1990." The department reports enrollments for elementary and secondary public schools increased by 4.8 percent in 1984-1985 are projected at 1,112,453 compared with 1,092,233 a year ago. This represents a drop of approximately 17,000 pupils in 1983-1984, a percentage decline in the prior school year. "First-grade enrollment statistics give early evidence of the pupil 'boomlet' predicted for later in the decade. In 1982 76,482 children entered first grade. By 1984 the number reached 80,530. For 1989 the projected first-grade enrollment is 83,678. State public education statistics show although overall enrollments have declined for more than a decade the relative percentage of New Jersey students pursuing post-secondary studies is on the increase. Between 1980 and 1984 the proportion of high school graduates going on to colleges, universities or vocational/technical trade schools increased by 4.8 percent. In 1984, 64.5 percent of New Jersey high school graduates went on to further study or career preparation. In 1980 it was 59.7 percent. The department's statistics also point to an increasing percentage of minority students in high school graduating classes. Comparing the 1984 with the 1983 graduating classes

SPORTS

RAY'S ROUND By Ray Hoagland

Former Rahway High School Football star, Dave Rankins, is getting ready for a banner season for the Lafayette College Football Team. The Rahway youngster is one of 17 starters returning from Lafayette's 5-5 team of a year ago and he'll have more incentive than most to make this a strong season. For one thing, it's his last, since he's a senior. For another, he comes into it with 12 career interceptions, meaning he needs five more to tie the school record. Rankins has learned his position well, noting, "You have to learn to be patient when everything else is going on. You can't go on your first instinct when the play is developing. You have to read your keys and look at the total picture. If you move too fast to tie the line the offense will take advantage of it."

Sibling class eases new baby's arrival

Having a baby is usually a happy event for everyone in the family—except perhaps for an older child who is now going to have to share Mommy and Daddy with a newcomer. Sometimes this can be a very traumatic experience for the child.

To help older siblings adjust to the birth of a new baby, Rahway Hospital offers a "Sibling Preparation Class" designed for those aged three to nine.

According to Diane Russo, a registered nurse in maternity, who teaches childbirth preparation classes at the hospital, the sibling class was developed to help children cope with the many questions and fears they have about the birth of a new baby.

"Children seem all excited about the idea of a new brother or sister," she said, "but often the reality is quite different. The forms about being separated from their mother, and they're not quite sure when Mommy disappears to when she's going to have the baby."

Children who participate in the sibling class see a slide show about the hospital's labor and delivery rooms. Then they don caps and

Colds and Allergies: When Can Parents Do? When children catch a cold or develop flu-like symptoms, their parents suffer along with them. Many parents are often worried about what kind of remedies to give a child who has a cold or flu. Over-the-counter medicines for information to your pharmacist. Here are some of the things he or she might tell you:

• Most youngsters prefer to take a medication that tastes good. Syrup is often easier for a child to swallow than pills or capsules. It's also important that the product be alcohol-free—the healthiest for a child.

• Assess the effective products for temporary relief of cold and flu symptoms. A child with a fever without a prescription is usually best treated with a mild fever-reducer such as Tylenol. Do not give aspirin to a child with a fever.

• Based on research conducted with a number of pharmacies in the area, it was found that the most common over-the-counter medicine used for colds and flu is Tylenol. This is a good sign, as it is a safe and effective medicine for children.

• It's a good idea to keep a supply of alcohol-free remedies on hand in the home medicine chest, so they will be there when you need them.

Medics offered college training

Union County College will offer three emergency medical training courses in the Fall Semester, all on the college's Scotch Plains Campus, it was announced by Dr. Joann LaPerla, director of continuing education.

A four-credit course, "Emergency Medical Training" (PMD-101), will be conducted on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. beginning on Thursday, Sept. 5.

Dr. LaPerla said this is the official United States Dept. of Transportation course for emergency care and transportation of the sick and injured. Upon successful completion of the course a student will be accredited by the new Jersey State Dept. of Health as an Emergency Medical Technician-ambulance.

A basic emergency medical training course will be offered on a non-credit basis on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., beginning Sept. 7. The first session of this course will be held on Friday, Sept. 6 from 7 to 10 p.m. This course will also lead to accreditation as an Emergency Medical Technician-ambulance.

In addition a 32-hour non-credit emergency medical refresher training course will start on Saturday, Oct. 7 and continue to Wednesday, Dec. 11. It will also be conducted at the Scotch Plains Campus from 7 to 10 p.m. EMT's are required to attend refresher courses every three years to maintain their accreditation. PMD 101 and AEC 110 (non-credit) both serve as pre-requisites for paramedic accreditation.

Additional information may be obtained by telephoning the UCC Admissions Hot Line, 272-8580, or the division of continuing education at 276-7301.

Money Store honors Rizzuto with donation

One of the highlights of Phil Rizzuto Day at Yankee Stadium on Aug. 4 was the presentation of a check in Rizzuto's honor to the Kidney Fund of New Jersey.

The check, representing the proceeds raised for the Kidney Fund at the Second Annual Money Store Charity Open Golf Tournament, was presented by Alan Thirtlebaub, founder and chairman of The Money Store, Inc.

Rizzuto, a former Yankee shortstop and now a sportscaster of Yankee games, has served as The Money Store's spokesman for 12 years.

Both The Money Store and Rizzuto have been actively involved in fund-raising efforts for the Kidney Fund for more than a decade, with the company serving as a prime supporter of a fund-raising golf tournament hosted by the Kidney Fund itself.

Then, because of its success as a backer of the Kidney Fund tournament, The Money Store two years ago began to host a celebrity invitational golf tournament of its own, with the proceeds also going to the Kidney Fund of New Jersey.

The Money Store, headquartered in Union, has offices in 16 states and the District of Columbia.
