Sale of City land spurs protests

by Pat DiMaggio
The sale of City-owned land was approved by the Rahway Municipal Council in spite of vocal opposition from area residents. A special meeting, held on February 11, was well attended thanks to the efforts of Republican Councilman George Wagenhoffer, who had flyers delivered to those neighborhoods affected by the sale.

More than 75 people attended the meeting to protest the sale of three parcels of land. The resolution authorizing the sale included Library Park, behind the Rahway Library on Pierpont Street and Central Avenue; a portion of Stein Field, between Concord and Murray Streets; and a 75 by 100 lot on Tully Field, Princeton Avenue.

General conditions of the sale specify a maximum of six one-family residences on Library Park, a maximum of eight one-family residences on the Stein Field property and one home on Tully Field.

Business Administrator Joseph Hartnett said the City hopes to realize $1 million through the sale. "The money to be raised by this sale is equivalent to the hiring of 26 policemen and firemen this year, and three per year every year after," said Hartnett. "We are conservatively estimating a worth of 26 tax points. Ten for the Pierpont and Central Avenue property, fourteen for Stein Field and two for Princeton Avenue."

Hartnett explained the reason for the sale is that the City is facing "the worst budget crisis by far" this year. "Rahway, as well as other municipalities, has recognized that the infusion of revenue from these sales is critical to the survival of municipalities," said Hartnett. He explained that Stein Field and Tully Field will continue to operate as recreational areas for the City's youth.

Residents opposed to the sale cited the loss of park land and dangers of flooding if additional houses were built in the areas. Linda McTeague, of Pierpont Street, questioned the advisability of selling Library Park. "This is not fit for development; it shouldn't be considered surplus land," said Ms. McTeague in citing flood problems in the area.

The resolution was approved on a vote of six in favor, with Councilmen James Fulcomer and George Wagenhoffer opposed. John Marsh was absent.

"It seems to be real bad planning to give up something you'll never have again for what has been called a 'temporary crisis,'" said Fulcomer. "This land sale would greatly diminish the neighborhoods. Let's keep our parks for future generations."

"It is important that when the City government acts, we act with the eyes of the residents upon us," said Wagenhoffer. "This resolution should be voted down unanimously so 'George' doesn't have to go out dropping flyers. I'd rather leave my children with a City that has parks and trees. It's time to vote this down. It's time to take a stand. Let's not mislead the people."

"Over the years we have been cutting services," said Councilman James Cadinan in voting for the resolution. "This may just be a stop-gag until Trenton straightens itself out (with aid to municipalities)."

Councilman Max Sheld said he asked residents of Princeton Avenue what they thought of building a house on the 75 by 100 lot located on Tully Field. "The neighbors felt new construction would enhance their property," said Sheld.

"I don't believe the sale of this property is going to be the answer to our problems," said Councilman Harvey Williams. "I will support it this time and I will vote my conscience the second time," said Williams. "The resolution authorizes the advertising for bids for the surplus land. The actual sale of the land will come before the council for a final approval."

"We have fiscal responsibilities to residents," said Councilman Jerry Coleman. "We have to look at the longer overall picture. I think the development of wooded areas will enhance the value of Rahway."

Council President Vincent Addona said he would support the resolution to give the administration "flexibility."

"If the dollars come from Trenton, then I'll look at this resolution in another light. We are trying to stabilize this year's budget," said Addona.

Solid waste plan on track authority/freeholders told

At a recent joint meeting of the Union County Utilities Authority (CUA) and the Freeholder Board, outgoing CUA Chairman and Freeholder James J. Fulcomer reported on the activities of the nine-member Utilities Authority since its establishment by the Freeholder Board last May.

Fulcomer noted that CUA members have been meeting on a regular basis since they were appointed last August, to implement three major elements of Union County's District Solid Waste Management Plan. These elements include the construction of a resource recovery facility in Rahway, development of landfills in Elizabeth and Linden and implementation of a countywide recycling program.

In order to effectively conduct these major activities, the CUA last month named Joseph E. Kazar, former director of the county's environmental affairs division, to a five-year term as executive director; Kevin Davis of Hillside to a one-year term as clerk; Kupper Associates of Piscataway to a one-year term as consulting engineers; and G. Richard Malgran of the law firm Rubin, Rubin and Malgran to a one-year term as general counsel. In addition, a 1987 budget has been approved. Funds for the budget will initially be supplied in the form of a loan from the county that will soon be replaced with Authority-issued debt, state grants and user fees. The Authority is expected to name a bond counsel as well as underwriters in the near future.

In his report, Fulcomer stated that the first task of the Authority was the negotiation of vendor contracts for the resource recovery facility. He noted that intensive simultaneous negotiations are now being conducted with the two vendors whose proposals were ranked the highest — Ogden Martin Systems of Paramus and Research Cottrell, Inc. of Somerville.

Other activities associated with the resource recovery project included:

- Submission of a Preliminary Environmental and Health Impact Statement to the state in November 1986, which is reportedly ready for approval.

- Execution of a Host Community Agreement with Rahway and the Freeholder Board on December 29, 1986.

- Receipt of a $162,000 state grant that will assist in developing the project.

- Recommendation to the Freeholder Board to lower the ultimate cost of resource recovery to taxpayers by formally amending the District Solid Waste Management Plan to utilize the millions of dollars in the county's "Resource Recovery Investment Tax Fund."

- Initiation of the extensive permitting process that is expected to continue for another year.
- Activities relating to landfill development. Fulcomer reported, have been minimal, although environmental analysis and negotiations are expected to commence in the immediate future. The landfill plan amendment, he noted, is currently being reviewed by the state.

As a result of the state's directive that Union County implement mandatory recycling, seven municipalities joined the county's regional program to be conducted by the Occupational Center of Union County. Under this regional system, there will be two curbside pick-ups of newspapers, aluminum and glass per month. The remaining municipalities elected to conduct recycling programs on an individual basis, generally collecting a single material. However, should mandatory recycling become state law, Fulcomer said the Authority would expect additional interest in the regional program.

Thus far, municipalities have adopted recycling plans and municipal ordinances, while participants in the regional program have adopted Resolutions of Intent. Warehouse space is currently being sought, and program details are being finalized.

At the conclusion of his report, Fulcomer outlined the Authority's major activities projected for 1987.

Activities associated with resource recovery include:

- Selection of a resource recovery vendor.

- Execution of a construction agreement.

- Approval of a 20-year operating agreement.

- Filing of all major permits.

- Negotiation of an energy sale contract.

Activities associated with landfill development include:

- Negotiation of agreements with landowners and host communities.

- Environmental analysis and permitting of sites.

Activities associated with the regional recycling program include:

- Acquisition of a central warehouse, trucks and other equipment.

- Execution of agreements among participants.

- Collection of materials begin in May or June.

Rahway attorney faces theft charges

by Pat DiMaggio
Rahway attorney Joseph Witkowski is in a Bucks County, Pennsylvania jail awaiting extradition to Union County to face charges of theft. Union County Assistant Prosecutor Brian Gillette said Witkowski is accused of the theft of more than $200,000 from area residents.

Admitted to the bar in 1974, the 40 year old Witkowski specialized in real estate law, with offices at 1492 Main Street. He is also the owner of Casey's, on Main Street, which has been closed since his arrest.

Gillette credited Witkowski's capture and arrest on February 10 to the work of Rahway Detective William White III and Economic Crimes Unit Investigator Steven Seigel.

Witkowski is accused of the theft of money from clients who sought his services for house closings and refinancing mortgages. Gillette said that more than 21 complaints were received from area residents about Witkowski's failure to turn over monies received from clients seeking mortgages to area financial institutions.

"People were finding out that their mortgages were not being paid off, refinancing deals were not being paid and when they bought a new house, the seller was not paid," said Gillette.

Witkowski was suspended from practice on December 22, 1986, by the New Jersey Office of Attorney Ethics.

Witkowski was supposed to turn himself in to the prosecutor's office on January 14, said Gillette, but he fled. "His capture in New Hope, Pennsylvania was due to the good detective work of White and Seigel," said Gillette.

Seven seek board seats

by Pat DiMaggio
Seven nominees have filed petitions for three available seats on the Rahway Board of Education. Each position carries a three year term on the nine member board which sets the policy for Rahway's public schools.

Rick Proctor, Bryant Street, the only incumbent, is seeking his fourth term on the board. Former board member Beta Jacobs, Russell Avenue, is looking to return to the board as is former board member Bernard Miller, Hemlock Street.

Other nominees include Jacqueline Fagan, Central Avenue, Roy Valentine, Stone Street, Rev. Donald Jones, Bryant Street and Barry Henderson, Grove Street.

Mr. Valentine retired last year after 36 years as an educator and principal of Rahway High School.

Rev. Jones is presently filling the unexpired term of Louis Rizzo, a long-term board member who died last year. Jones and Henderson, also a former board member, and a police captain in Rahway, are both seeking Rizzo's board seat.

Board members William Hoodzow and William Ulrich have decided not to seek re-election this year.

ALTAR BOYS from St. Mark's Parish, Hamilton St., Rahway, attended a special Mass in their honor celebrated by Archbishop Theodore McCarrick at St. Theresa's Church, Linden, on Feb. 6. The Mass, sponsored by the Serra Club International, was attended by Altar Boys from several Union County churches, and celebrated by over 30 area parish priests. The

CITY COMMENDATION ... Carol A. Kaminski has been officially certified as a registered municipal clerk by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, Division of Local Government Services. Ms. Kaminski is shown accepting a resolution commending her designation from Mayor Daniel L. Martin at a recent council meeting. Ms. Kaminski has been employed as a secretary to City Clerk, Francis Senkowsky, for 2½ years.

Merck employees enrich fund for 'adopted families'

Merck employees raised almost $3,500 this year to benefit the hospital's Adopted Families. During the holiday season each year the hospital's Social Service Department selects several needy families which will receive funds. The money is contributed by hospital employees and friends, community groups, and employees from Merck. Merck employees raised $1,000 for the fund. Besides aiding several families this year, some of the funds will be used to help many homeless people who come to the hospital. Providing them with money for a necessary, such as socks or shoes, is a gesture to show these people some love.

Realtors install new president

Michael Ford was recently installed as president of the Greater Eastern Union County Board of Realtors at its second inaugural ball held at Livingston Country Club. The new board is comprised of the former Eastern Union County Board and Rahway-Clark Board of Realtors which this past year added the Union County Multiple Listing Service, making a total membership over 2,200. Dignitaries at the inaugural ball included Senator Raymond Lesniak; Helen Ryan, Mayor of Roselle Park; George G. Nucera, Mayor of Clark; Joseph B. Pozniak, Clark Council President; Charles Remlinger, 2nd District Vice President; and Janet D. Barton, Treasurer of the New Jersey Assoc. of Realtors; and Myles Herzog, Vice President of the New Jersey Real Estate Commission, who was also Treasurer of the event. Installed with President Michael Ford as officers were Robert Kolar, Vice President; Donald MacCoy, Secretary; Fernando Rivera, Treasurer; Directors Ruth Brewster, Peter M. Campana, Clarence Eaton, Dwight Hathaway, Eva Keybig, Frank LaRusso, Carol Mulzar, Eva Pascale, Joseph Petrucci, James Schoening, Stelie Sommer, Michael Tororello, Joseph Vaccarino, and David Weisbrod associate. Welcomed also were Stanley Fink, Esq., attorney for the Board, and Barbara H. Rogard, Executive Officer. Honored for her many accomplishments during the past year as President was Patricia Glogowski with presentations by Loreta Herman and Douglas Pradat of the Suburban News, and a standing ovation by the Realtors. Mrs. Michael Ford was honored with a bouquet and the family acknowledged.

Whistle-blower to speak at Kean

Mario Ragghianti, the whistle-blowing former champion of paroles and pardons for the state of Tennessee, will speak 8 p.m., Monday, Feb. 23 at Kean College of New Jersey. Her talk, scheduled for the O'Meara Auditorium (J-100 in the Hutchinson Hall), will be directed at members of an upper-level political science course — "The Constitution at 200." Dr. Michael Israel of Rahway, a professor of political science, invited Ragghianti to address the students who are studying major constitutional issues. Ragghianti is the subject of a book, "Marie A True Story," by Peter Maas, and a film, "Marie," which starred Sissy Spacek. Ragghianti discovered that state officials were making deals for clemency and bypassing the pardons and paroles board during her term as chairperson. As a result of Ragghianti "blowing the whistle," there was an FBI investigation, resulting in indictments, jail sentences — including one for then Gov. Ray Blanton, the shattering of political careers, three murders and an apparent suicide. Ragghianti left a six-year abusive marriage with three children. She worked her way through Vanderbilt University by the age of 33 and became active in Democratic politics. Blanton who later appointed her to the pardons and paroles board. She had a lively existence since 1948. Its members come from many Union County communities and other neighboring areas. The Colonial Chorus meets every Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, three blocks west of Hahn's department store in Westfield. Support group leads to new beginnings

The Bereavement Support Group offers the participants an atmosphere of mutual acceptance and understanding. The meetings are unstructured, allowing those who attend to direct the conversation. The program is also open ended, so that the participants may continue with the group for as long as they have the need. The death of a loved one can have a devastating effect upon the survivors. This is especially true when the deceased was a spouse after many years of marriage. "I felt all alone with no direction," said Debbie, whose husband of 34 years died in 1985. "It was as if my whole world just came apart; I was numb." Several months after her husband's death, Debbie was introduced by a friend to a program which helped to ease the burden of her grief. She began to attend monthly meetings of a Bereavement Support Group offered at the John F. Kennedy Medical Center in Edison. "I suddenly found that I wasn't the only person going through this," she said. "That realization — that the grief process is a natural phenomenon — is the first step toward recovery." According to Lois Hollander, bereavement coordinator for the Haven Hospice Program at JFK. Haven was established in 1982 to assist terminally ill patients and their families throughout the illness and after the patient's death. Its professional staff includes more than 80 volunteers provide a variety of services including counseling, transportation, homemaking and other non-medical services. Bereavement care is recognized as an essential part of the total care of the dying. "Just as the body needs time to heal after surgery," explained Ms. Hollander, "the spiritual and emotional sides of us need time to adjust to the loss of a loved one."

Auxiliary members to attend meeting of Legion dept.

The next regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Dept. of New Jersey will be held on Saturday, February 21, at American Legion Post 455, Route 528, New Egypt at 9:30 a.m., announced Dept. He noted that Kiwanis membership in N.J. was on the increase for the first time in several years. Lt. Gov. Loceaux is a member of the Plainfield Kiwanis Club. The Kiwanis Club of Rahway meets on Wednesdays at 12:15 at the Columbus Club in Rahway.

Rahway schools join pilot program

Rahway is one of three New Jersey school districts that will pilot a new management training program organized by some of the state's largest corporations. Merck & Co. will sponsor the Rahway School's participation in the Management Assistant Program for the Public Schools. This program was developed by the Partnership for New Jersey Education Task Force. The MAPS program will train school principals and administrators in management techniques used successfully by business. Rahway staff will attend a two-day orientation session hosted by Merck & Co., early in February. In April and May, participants from the three school districts will take training sessions by representatives of Merck, A.T. & Johnson & Johnson, PSE&G, Hoffman-LaRoche and National Starch.

Support group helps those with lung problems

The Respiratory Health Association sponsors a support group for patients with emphysema and other chronic lung diseases at its Paramus Headquarters, 55 Paramus Road, on the fourth Tuesday of every month from 1 to 2:30 p.m. These meetings enable patients to discuss their experiences and exchange information with others in similar situations. Each session includes a review of helpful breathing exercises. A family member is invited to accompany the patient and participate. Additional information may be obtained by calling 843-4111.

In search of Miss Union County

Every young girl dreams of becoming Miss America. The girl who is selected Miss Union County Pageant Queen could be the next Miss America. The Miss America Pageant is a national organization which has awarded more scholarships to young women than any other organization in the world. This year's Miss Union County will receive a $1,000 scholarship sponsored by the Suburban Chamber of Commerce. Over two dozen gifts and awards will also be presented to the contestants at Joseph Steiner and Mrs. Sally Johnston, Co-chairmen of the Miss Union County Scholarship Committee, have announced that applications are now available and encourage the young women of Union County to apply. Applications may be obtained by writing to Joseph Steiner, Box 824, Summit, N.J. 07901. The application deadline is March 6. The Miss Union County pageant will be held the early part of May. To qualify, a young woman must be between the ages of 17 and 26 on the Labor Day holiday, must be a high school graduate by Labor Day, must never have been married, and must work, go to school or be a resident of Union County. Talent will be considered in the judging, and each contestant should possess some quality of talent, either trained or potential. Steiner and Johnston pointed out that many entrants in previous pageants did not realize they possessed a quality of talent until they considered entering the contest. There have been state queens who have presented dramatic readings or comedy monologues. Judging of the candidates will be based on the same values as considered at the Miss New Jersey Pageant and the Miss America Pageant. Personality, poise, beauty and talent are the major requirements. Ads are now being accepted for the Miss Union County Official Program Book which will contain photos and information about the Miss Union County entrants plus the 51 Miss America contestants of 1987. Any business or organization wishing to sponsor this official collectors program book should call Marcisart Media, Inc. at 233-4500.

Rinaldo boosting home health care for the elderly

The senior Republican on the House Aging Committee, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo of New Jersey, has proposed broadening the Older Americans Act to provide for limited home health care for the elderly. The bill would be covered by voluntary contributions from the beneficiaries. They would be asked to contribute what they could afford for the services they receive.

The Rinaldo bill would amend the Act to pay for the part-time, intermittent services provided by a medical intern or resident physician also would be covered.

Access to adequate home health care services are not now available through existing federal programs," the Congressman said. "As a consequence, many needy elderly who otherwise could be maintained at home are being institutionalized at great expense to the taxpayers. It is expected to be extended for another three years when it comes up for a vote later in the session. Rinaldo said.

The Trial Lawyers Notebook
 Professional Negligence

Although the subject of medical malpractice has received a good deal of attention in recent years, lawsuits against other professionals have been largely ignored by the popular media.

The law of malpractice is not limited to claims against physicians. Malpractice actions can arise out of virtually every professional relationship.

Malpractice is simply professional negligence. Just as the operator of an automobile is required to use reasonable care in the operation of that vehicle under all circumstances, a professional is required to conform to the usual and accepted standards of competence within his or her profession or occupation. Any such deviation from this level of competence resulting in provable physical, emotional or financial loss can form the basis of an action for professional negligence.

While most of the public attention has been directed to actions for medical malpractice, attorneys are also called upon to pursue claims against other professionals. Legal actions based upon professional negligence can and have been brought against accountants, insurance agents, real estate agents or brokers, dentists, veterinarians, and travel agents, and even lawyers.

For example, a claim against an accountant may arise from failure of that accountant to accurately and reliably prepare financial statements upon which an innocent person may reasonably rely.

Actions against insurance agents or brokers are usually based upon their failure to provide insurance when they have agreed to do so. Other claims may be based upon a failure to offer adequate recommendations on the availability of certain kinds of insurance coverage and the amounts of such available coverage. This may result in a policy holder being subjected to a personal judgment either outside his coverage or in excess of the policy limits.

If an insured is injured by a driver with inadequate liability coverage and the victim's own policy has less than adequate coverage for damages inflicted by the underinsured motorist, the victim may bring an action against his insurance broker or agent for failure to advise him of the availability of underinsured motorist protection and the extensive coverage that could have been purchased for a modest premium.

Actions against attorneys can arise in a variety of contexts. Most are based upon the failure of an attorney to adequately represent the interests of a client in a particular case. For example, the failure of an attorney to file a lawsuit within the time limitations imposed by law may form the basis for a legal malpractice action so long as the client can establish that the suit would have been successful had the attorney filed it in timely fashion.

The same rules governing general negligence actions, such as suits for personal injuries received in an automobile accident or a fall on negligently maintained premises, also apply in a suit for professional negligence. There is no higher degree of guilt that needs to be proven in order to establish the responsibility of a professional.

The major difference is that in routine negligence cases the conduct of the parties to the suit are evaluated by the jury based on the general background and experience of the jurors. In claims for professional negligence, it is usually necessary to present testimony from a member of the same profession as the individual being sued since this person can review the facts and establish the standard by which the conduct of the professional will be measured; the jury will then determine whether there has been a deviation from that standard of general competence.

The law requires reasonable competence; a professional is not unrealistically required to conform to standards of perfection. The legal standard to which he is held is that of prevailing customary and ordinary standards of competence within his particular profession. Of course, if a professional holds himself out as a specialist within a particular area, such as a lawyer or a cardiac surgeon, he is held to the usual and ordinary standards of practice within the specialized field of expertise.

People rely on the skill and expertise of the many professionals they retain. The law, through the trial lawyer, helps to see to it that the standards of these professionals are maintained and the public well-served.

McCabe named executive v.p. of Merck & Co. division

Eugene F. McCabe has been named Executive Vice President of MSD AGVET, the worldwide animal health and agricultural products division of Merck & Co., Inc.

McCabe is a graduate of St. John's University Jamaica, New York, where he received the B.B.A. degree in Marketing in 1952. His graduate work in marketing was taken at New York University.

McCabe joined Merck in 1958 as an Assistant Advertising Manager of the Merck Sharp & Dohme International Division (MSD), the company's overseas human pharmaceutical and biological products division, which also had responsibility for marketing animal health and agricultural products outside the U.S. until the MSD AGVET division was established in 1979. After serving as Product Manager and Advertising Manager for MSD, he returned to MSD as Advertising Director in 1982. Two years later he was appointed Director of Marketing, MSD, a position he held until his promotion to Vice President, Marketing, in 1985. McCabe is a member of the American Management Association's Marketing Advisory Board, a past member of the Pharmaceutical Advertising Council, and a member of the Dean's Advisory Council, Merzer University School of Pharmacy. His community activities have included membership on the Board of the Bucks County (Pennsylvania) Association of Retarded Citizens.

McCabe is a graduate of St. John's University Jamaica, New York, where he received the B.B.A. degree in Marketing in 1952. His graduate work in marketing was taken at New York University.

Terrorism subject of vet's talk

Terrorism will be the subject of guest speaker Victor J. Grosswald, presently with the Israel Army Reserve, at the monthly Bagel & Breakfast Meeting of the Elm-Unger Post No. 273 Jewish War Veterans of the United States, Sunday March 1, 9:30 a.m. at Temple Sha'arey Shalom, 7850 Springfield Ave., Springfield.

Interested veterans are invited to attend. For information contact: Sgt. Victor Commander Joe Torres, 379-9188, or Commander Murray Nathanson, 376-0837.

Social Security affects everyone

Most people think of Social Security as something for the future. For some 37 million people receiving Social Security benefits, the future is now. For others, Social Security provides current protection against the loss of income because of disability or for one's family if the worker should die. This is why you should know what Social Security touches everybody in one way or another.

I am going to make some suggestions to change the way you view your Social Security and insure that you get the most out of the program.

Check your Social Security number at work. To protect your Social Security earnings record, you should compare the name and number on your pay stubs or the Form W-2 you received in January. If the name and numbers are not exactly the same, you should notify your employer.

Know the five times when you should contact Social Security. Most experts agree that with people generally living longer and staying in better health, the earlier you start planning for retirement, the better. Social Security benefits are designed to be a base for retirement, not your total retirement income. You need to start building on that base now, through private insurance, savings and investment, and similar means.

CPR can save lives

ROLLING ALONG

The Clark Wildcats fast pitch softball team will compete in a major-league tourney this summer and will host the 18 years and under girls tournament, July 11 and 12.

The Women's Class A tournament will be held at Wicomico Park in Elizabeth, July 11, 12, 18, and 19.

The Johnson girls were 6th in a field of 15 schools.

WBSL TO PLAY FOR RAHWAY YMCA BENEFIT

WBSL FM Radio Station personalities plan to play basketball in a fund raiser for the Rahway YMCA on March 7. A spokesman for the New York-based radio station said, "The Rahway YMCA has come so far since its fire in 1981 and their determination to go back makes us eager to come to Rahway to play."

Tom Williams, team coach, said his team is composed of college and pro players and will be accompanied by D.J. Ken Webb and Vaughan Harbor. The 7 p.m. game will be held at Rahway High School.

A double header will be held. The Rahway PBA, headed by PBA resident, John Waggenhofer, will play a Rahway facility team, captained by basketball coach, Tom Lewis. This is not the first game played between these two teams.

Past contests have been rough, highly contested meetings and this year's game promises to be the same.

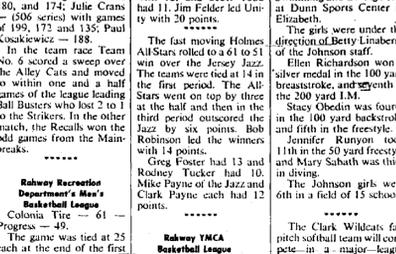

Two years ago the teachers lost by two points to the PBA.

In the second game WBSL will play the Rahway 10th Agency. Coach "Cooz" Gray said, "This year's All Star team from the Rahway Y is the finest assembled." Gray also stated, "We have a team of college stars, ready for this year's New York team."

The evening is sponsored by the fund raising committee from the Rahway YMCA and will be co-sponsored by Butch Kowalski, Laminare Corporation and Dr. Mark Zientek of Rahway. Tickets can be purchased at these locations or from Kathy Creed at the YMCA. For further information call the YMCA at 388-0057. Ticket prices are $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. A $0.50 will be held, "freshness add" and a program describing the evening's events will be available. For more information, call June at 927-2689.

The J.D.S.L. plays Sundays from April through July and concludes with four rounds of playoffs and world series.

Ten Free Flowering Trees

Ten free flowering trees will be given to people who join the National Arbor Day Foundation during February.

Two White Flowering Dogwood, two American Redbud, two European Mountainash, two Washington Hawthorn and two Flowering Crab trees will be given as part of the Foundation's efforts to improve the quality of life through the planting of trees.

These trees were selected because they will give a colorful flowering of pink, white, and red blossoms throughout the spring, John Roenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. The Foundation will give the ten trees to members contributing $10 during February. The six to twelve inch trees will be sent postpaid at the right time for planting, now to May 21, with enclosed planting instructions. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Flowering Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by February 28, 1987.

Did You Know?

The first automobile to cross the United States took fifty-two days to go from San Francisco to New York in 1903.

Part IV Kicking the habit (still)

There I was, 37 years old, and sneaking a smoke in the bathroom. I had locked the door and opened the window 20 degree day or not and stood there blowing smoke outside on my hand. I was really feeling it.

Wednesday was "Quit Day" at the American Lung Association's Freedom From Smoking Clinic. I brought all my cigarettes and had my picture taken as I threw them away. I had good intentions, really I did. And I did very well, for awhile.

At home, I cleaned furiously. I kept myself busy and when I felt an urge to smoke I stuck a workout in my mouth. Peggy Livinsky, our instructor, told us to stock up on celery and carrots for those times when we felt the need to reach for a substitute. She said one third of the people who quit smoking gain between five and ten pounds, one third lose weight because of the change in their metabolism and one third stay the same. But, said Peggy, a person would have to gain 90 pounds to do the same damage one pack of cigarettes does.

I coughed a tremendous cough that first night and I didn't have a cigarette after. Oh, I had the urge, but I wanted, and it passed. Peggy said these urges will pass, if you smoke or not. And as time goes on, they will get less and less.

I had to work that first evening and when a recess was called, I went out into the hallway with friends. One of them offered me a cigarette and when I told him I quit, he insisted. He took it out of the pack and waved it right under my nose.

Peggy said some people are threatened by efforts to quit. They are afraid to admit that you can do it, but they can't. I resisted at the moment, but when I got home I locked myself in the bathroom and smoked.

Our class met again on Friday and Charlotte and I were the only ones who had smoked. Sheila was chewing on a plastic cigarette. Peggy (our instructor) was eating and wiping the table compulsively with a napkin. Mary was in a bad mood and Jean and Anna couldn't make the meeting. Those who had quit had just gone through the hardest 48 hours they would face. Peggy said the physical cravings go away within a few days and the psychological cravings take over. This is when it's important to exercise, relax, use alternate coping strategies and call our phone buddies.

I didn't feel like a failure. Over two days time, I smoked five cigarettes. Peggy said the majority of people are not successful in their first attempt to quit. But I feel successful. The 100 cigarettes I had quit just one cigarette a day, if I could sustain between three and five cigarettes a day, it would be easier next time. As long as I don't have to smoke them all locked in the bathroom.

Helpline continues for troubled

The 20th training class for telephone worker volunteers for Contact-We Care and Deaf Contact 201 started recently at Westfield Presbyterian Church. Contact We Care on 232-3880 and Deaf Contact on 232-3333 are area 24-hour helplines for troubled individuals and the hearing impaired. The Deaf Contact number is further equipped with teletype equipment.
According to a recent review, the contact center is currently handling more than 38,000 calls around-the-clock annually.
Volunteers undergo 50 hours of professional training in a variety of subjects preparing them to help callers experiencing problems such as depression, grief, family relations, substance abuse and loneliness. The teletype link enables the center to transmit personal messages by conventional equipment for the deaf.
Trained volunteers serve eight hours a month on the phones in two four-hour shifts, or a single eight-hour shift overnight. During 1987, Contact plans to conduct three evening training courses and one daytime class to maintain its volunteer staff at about 100 members.

Petti elected president of hospital med staff

Matthew Petti, M.D.

Matthew Petti, M.D., a pediatrician with a practice in Colonia has been elected President of the Rahway Hospital Medical/Dental Staff. Franklin Morrow, M.D., was elected Vice President, and Frank Light, M.D., was elected Secretary/Treasurer. They all will serve two-year terms.

Dr. Petti has been on the Medical Staff since 1959 when he started his practice in Colonia. He won his medical degree from St. Louis University Medical School and interned at St. Vincent's Hospital, New York City.

He served his residency at St. Michael's Hospital, Newark. Before joining Rahway Hospital, Dr. Petti served as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Naval Hospital in Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Dr. Morrow, a board-certified urologist, has practiced in Roselle Park and Rahway. He has been on the staff since 1973. He won his medical degree from New York Medical College and interned at Roosevelt Hospital, New York. He served residencies at Beth Israel Medical Center, New York and Montefiore Hospital and Medical Center, The Bronx, N.Y. Dr. Morrow is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and a clinical instructor of urology at New Jersey's University of Medicine and Dentistry.

Dr. Light, chairman of the hospital's Anesthesiology Department, has also been on the hospital Medical Staff since 1973. After receiving his medical degree from the New Jersey College of Medicine, he took internship and residency at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital, Staten Island. Dr. Light is a Fellow of the American College of Anesthesiologists.

Russo commends Meals on Wheels extension

Senate President John F. Russo commended the governor for including funds in the proposed fiscal 1988 budget to make the Meals on Wheels program available on weekends and holidays.

Senator Russo is the sponsor of legislation that would appropriate $1 million to make home-delivered meals available for sick and disabled senior citizens on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The legislation, S. 2662, passed the Senate 38-0 in December, but has not yet been posted for a vote in the General Assembly.

"There are too many people forced to go without food all weekend because the Meals on Wheels program operates only five days a week in many areas of the state," Senator Russo said.

"I certainly commend Governor Kean for his foresight in setting aside $1 million in his budget proposal to fund the extension of this worthy program," Senator Russo added. "I urge the Assembly to act quickly on my bill so it can be signed into law as soon as possible."

Senator Russo explained that many elderly people with special nutritional needs or medical conditions such as diabetes need a meal program that is available seven days a week.

Under the bill, any state resident who is at least 60 years old and homebound because of illness or disability, or otherwise isolated, would be eligible for the Meals on Wheels program. Each participant would be asked for a confidential donation based on their ability to pay for the service. However, the program would not be denied to senior citizens who are unable to pay for it.

The bill requires the commissioner of the Department of Community Affairs to allocate the $1 million to county offices on aging according to a formula established in the 1965

Older Americans Act. The bill also specifies that each county must match the aid it receives under the program with cash or services equal to 20 percent of the state grant.

Rahway Hospital honors 70 junior volunteers

More than 70 Rahway Hospital junior volunteers have received awards for 100 or more hours of service to the hospital.

Junior volunteers work throughout the hospital. They deliver flowers, make beds, run errands, feed patients, and do office work. They give up their holidays, weekends, and time after school to serve. Some come to the hospital as early as 6 a.m. weekends to deliver newspapers. They all attend a special training program taught by registered nurses before they can serve.

Those who have achieved 100 or more hours of service are:

Kristen Ponczek of Cranford; Karen Dashevsky, Kathleen Cosmas, Denise Favor, Kathleen Dobbin, Steven Gelman, and Bryan Walsh of Clark.

Susan Palmucci, Donna Abrams, Patricia Prezioso, Susan Farrar, Theresa Shupp, Richard Jotz, Joseph Karch, Judy Madas, Brenda Martin, Laura Guidi, Nancy Palmucci, Elsa Amaral, Martha Barnhart, Donna Dalko, Brian Deeds, Lori Everson, Karen Fortune, Yvonne Harmon, Natasha Harris, Celeste Hudzik, Timothy Jones, Melanie Lubin, Paula Rooney, Phyllis Ross, Katrina Toney, and Cindy Wilson, all of Rahway.

Robert Ruczinsky, Michelle Bartkovich, Robert Foxe, Lisa Lim, Heather Rogers, Jill Zweig, Jeanine Bayus, Jean Musacchio, Joseph Russo, all of Colonia.

Susan Haber, Laura Rato, Susan Baykowski, Soo Jin Yun, Ann Oldenboom, Lisa Czarniak, Jennifer Londino, Jill McPartland, Gina Boechiario, Janet Kornberger, Michelle Novak, Suzanne Sarra, and Joan Wietrzykowski, all of Linden.

Gail Gillespie, Jennifer Soltres, Peggy Gavin, Jessica Silakowski, and Jennifer Urban, all of Woodbridge.

Cathy Timko of Westfield.

Michael Lordi, Sonya Ristau, Lesa Army, and Romona Ristau, all of Avenel.

Laura Brzycey of Fords, Lore Capaci of Middletown.

Nadine Milford, of Roselle.

Susan McDonald and Jeanine Rybeck of Garwood.

Karen Rankin of Metuchen.

Junior volunteers have an opportunity to help people, make friends, and try out career plans. Those between 14 and 18 interested in learning how to become a junior volunteer can call the hospital's volunteer office, 499-6037.
