"String along" with us as we "have a ball" tracing the origin of the word clue. A clue is "something that guides or directs in the solution of a problem, mystery, or even a word origin." The current meaning of the word class is derived from the ancient Greek legend of Theseus and the Cretan labyrinth of Daedalus, in which a ball of twine was used as a guide out of that maze. Chaucer wrote of this event late in the 14th century thusly

"By a clewe of twyne, as he hath gon, The same way he may return Folwynge always the threades as he hath come."

Chaucer would never win a spelling bee today, but did provide etymologists with the important "thread of ice" necessary to unravel the mystery of this word origin. For you see, the word elue, as well as Chaucer's fere, were originally derived from the Anglo Saxon word clives, "a ball of thread."

When the Rutger University varsity football eam won its opening game over the University of Cincinnati last Saturday evening, Rahway's Tyrone Mc-Queen, former RHS player, was the leading receiver with four catches for a total of 60 yards. The game drew a crowd of over 21,000 at Knepper Field.

Rahway's Prize Fighter

Death came recently for Fred Russo, the only professional boxer from Rahway who boxed for the world championship at the Old Madison Square Garden before 15,000 fans, including your reporter, and many Rahway residents. Russo got his start at the old PAL Recreation Gymnasium, at 59 W. Main St.,

the old fire house. Police Officer Percy G. Paulson was the PAL director. Russo won four Golden Gloves Championships. He won his first 51 bouts. In his fourteenth professional bout, he won the N.J. Featherweight Champion ship with a second round knockout over George

Knox in New Brunswick High School. He delighted the press by giving them good copy o write, but angered the DeGennero, 62 oxing Commission when he took the belt presented | Kushinsky, 63 to him and gave it to Knox, saying, "I don't want to be Featherweight Champion of New Jersey — it's the World Championship that I'm after.' That prize eluded him on two separate occasions by the narrowest of margins. Although he defeated four World Champions in his long career, Freddie's Adele Benedit, 70. proudest win was his fiftigth straight victory when he Lois Stefanski, Rosemary defeated Vince Del Orto, Furos and Penny Booth, 77 the European Featherweight and Lightweight Champion in Newark.
