Utilities Authority chooses firm to build resource recovery plant

The Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA) last week authorized the execution of contracts with Ogden Martin Systems, Inc. of Fairfield, N.J., for the construction and operation of Union County's resource recovery facility.

The plant, to be located on a 23-acre parcel off Route 1 in Rahway, will convert approximately 437,000 tons of waste each year from 21 Union County municipalities into electricity, which will be sold to an electrical utility.

UCUA Chairman Kenneth L. MacRitchie stated that, "The approval of construction and service contracts with Ogden Martin represents a milestone in Utilities Authority's efforts to solve Union County's solid waste disposal pro-blems. We are delighted to have reached an agreement on this critical component of the solid waste manage ment plan and look forward proceeding with the resource recovery project as expeditiously as possible."

In a 1985 referendum. Rahway residents voted 55 percent to 45 percent in favor of allowing their city to become the host community for Union County's resource recovery facility Under a host municipality agreement negotiated among the Utilities Authority, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the Rahway City Council last year, Rahway will receive yearly minimum payments of $1,115,200 plus inflation adjustments.

In addition, the city will receive an no-front payment of $650,000 for community projects and recreational programs.

negative factor for the film's unfortunate failure. Director Ridley Scott must also weather some of the blame for his unoriginal attempts at building tension. It is most unusual for any film directed by Ridley Scott to be so devoid of style and originality. Perhaps, he is more at home in outer space ("Alien") or in fantasy worlds like the one he created in "I erend." As evidenced by the failure of "Someone to Watch Over Me," modern romance and danger are not his strongest suits. Tom Berenger continues to show his growing versaidity as an actor. He was recently nominated for an Oscar for his portrayal of the battle scarred Spt. Barnes in "Platoon." His performance in this new film shows us a cop who is more than a little bewildered and distrustful of the glamorous excess of the Upper West Side world where more emphasis is placed on who you know and also the importance of being a member of the smart set. Fulcomer: Rahway has highest property tax rate

Rahway has the highest property tax rate in Union County at 6.89 dollars per hundred dollars of evalua-tion according to the 1987 statistics compiled by the Union County Board of Tarecently by Freeholder James J. Fulcomer of

"Of the twenty municipalities in our county that system as Rahway, Rahway has the highest tax rate in our county. The cause of this dubious distinction is the very high taxes levied for Rahway's municipal purposes (not school) budget controlled by the Democrat mayor and council. This extremely high tax rate is one reason why the Republican minority on our city council refused to sup-port the adoption of this high tax city budget and why more economic policies are needed in Rahway, said Freeholder Fulcomer. Freeholder Fulcomer said that while Rahway raises millions of tax dollars less for the education of its children, the Democrat mayor and council raise nillions of dollars more for municipal purposes taxes (not schools) compared to other municipalities in Rahway's population category.

Compared to the three other municipalities in Rahway's population category, Rahway raised in municipal purposes taxes $2,768,216.00 more than Cranford, $2,115,254,95 more than Summit, and $2,356,471.49 more than Westfield, reported the freeholder.

Rahway leads the county with a 1987 tax rate of 6.89 dollars per hundred dollars of evaluation. The rate of the other municipalities in the county with the same taxation system are: Springfield, 2.02; Westfield, 2.19; Mountainside, 2.22; New Providence, 2.30; Clark, 2,47; Summit, 2,65; Garwood, 2,68; Berkeley Heights, 2,84; Scotch Plains, 2,84; Linden, 3,32;

Fanwood, 3.66; Roselle Park, 3.81; Kenilworth, 4.53; Elizabeth, 5.67; Roselle, 5.77; Cranford, 5.89; and Plainfield, 6.72, he reported.

The above facts were published recently in the 1987 Abstract of Ratables Union County," the annual report of the Union County Board of Taxation.
