My roof leaks and must be repaired before they can fix me up inside.

You know, I am 60 years old, and since I opened back in the days of vaudeville, not enough has been done to keep me in good shape. Neglect has taken its toll.

I'm afraid if they don't repair my roof soon, deterioration will continue, causing renovation costs to skyrocket.

Parkway spending scored

The decision this week by the New Jersey Highway Authority to hire an outside public relations firm to coordinate information on the proposed Parkway toll increase is troubling. At a time when the legislature has granted subpoena powers to a committee investigating the toll increase and spending policies of the authority, this new expenditure seems only to worsen the situation. In my testimony submitted to the legislative committee investigating the authority. I emphasized the need for fiscal oversite of independent authorities who act in a fashion injurious to the public. To hire a public relations/lobbying firm at $7,500 a month in addition to ample in-house staff, seems to be part of a counteroffensive to win approval for the 50c toll. There is a need for sound review of the finances set forth to justify new tolls, not lations should be revoked. It smirks of arrogance.

Beyond the increase, I fear the credibility of some of existing commissioners is so damaged as to harm the shortly itself. Characteristics of the control of the con more public relations. This new expenditure for public relations should be revoked. It smirks of arrogance.

authority itself. Charges of excessive spending, such as a quarter of a million dollars for new marble walls at a nospitality building, thousands more for works of art, and the unsuccessful attempt to purchase a Cadillac for the authority chairman are offensive. The commissioners have even taken to fighting among themselves. Even with the review by the legislature, it is time for our Governor to step in and call for the resignation of commissioners who have through their conduct lost the respect and trust of the Parkway users. Walter E. Boright Union County Freeholder CHINA CRUISE... Sal Prezioso, right, a member of the Kiwanis Club of Rahway, thanks guest speaker Blair Schupp, Regional Sales Manager of Pearl Ocean Cruise Lines for a slide presentation he gave at a recent neeting, depicting a cruise in the Orient. The several stops of the cruise included ports in China and side trips on the mainland. Shupp characterized the Chinese as very friendly toward Westerners and eager to practice their knowledge of the English language. The Kiwanis Club of Rahway meets on Wednesdays at 12:15 p.m. at the Columbian Club in Rahway.

Prepare yourself for the bare facts on burlesque, a word with an etymological rating that ranges from "PG" to "X" and beyond, depending on which of its several meanings you elect to infer. One form of burlesque is "a vaudeville-like show characterized by wild comedy, dancing, and nudity." Stone moves his camera constantly which gives the audience a SOFA-CHAIR 12 388-5280 1 sense of uneasy anxiety. He also boldly uses the hand held camera technique to good use as evidenced in the Sunshine Upholster scene when Bud confronts his father in a claustrophobic elevator. Oliver Stone has made a potentially dull cinematic subject (big business) into a visually exciting Though Oliver Stone's "Wall Street" will not be able to recoup the losses of last October, it will however, enable those who suffered a brief respite from their mourning!

TALKING

Oliver Stone's "Wall Street" is a crowd-pleasing norality fable about the consequences of greed in the world of big business. It is writer director Oliver Stone's first film since his highly acclaimed "Platoon" and reunites him with that film's star, Charlie Sheen. "Wall Street" is a solid cinema entertainment and is unquesthe "Black Monday" disaster, the film chronicles the woeful tale of young yuppie, Bud Fox (Charlie Sheen).

Bud is a decent, seemingly bright and incredibly ambitious Wall Street broker who nevertheless sells his proverbial soul for riches and power beyond compare. Th devil who dangles these "perks" in front of the bedazzled Bud is corporate raider Gordon Gekko (Michael Douglas), a modern day Satan garbed in the latest Italian designer wardrobe. Gekko is so filthy rich that he brags to the impressionable Bud that "rich isn't $450,000 a year, rich is enough to own your own jet." Gordon Gekko is truly a brilliant villain who provides the moral dilemma for Bud which is the core of the film. Bud must face the fact that the illegal insider information that he is providing to Gekko could cause the loss of his father's (Martin Sheen) love, as well as his dad's blue-collar job at the personified, yet the talented Douglas actually makes this fortune-hunting louse into a likable figure. The performance is all bombast and bravado and resembles his famous father's earliest yet equally ruthless performances n such films as "I Walk Alone" and "Ace In The Hole".

Indeed, Gordon Gekko is truly one of the more memorable characters in films this past year and he will to doubt earn Michael Douglas an Oscar nomination.

Writer/Director Oliver Stone has certainly not surpassed his work in the classic anti-war "Platoon", but he should be respected for tackling an entirely different type of battleground where the enemy, clad only in a Brooks

Brothers suit, proves to be just as lethal as the Viet-Cong in "Platoon." Stone's ability to simplify all of the financial wheeling and dealing and to translate it into an everyman's language should be commended. The film is easily understood even for those who can't tell a bull from a bear. Stone is not only a brilliant screenwriter, but also a master visualist. It's no mistake that the first image seen
