[illegible]

TWO SECTIONS — [illegible] CENTS

City Highlights

Blood pressure

A free blood pressure screening is being offered for Rahway residents at the Rahway Public Library on the first Thursday of every month.

The next scheduled screening will be held on March 2, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Craft fair

Grover Cleveland School in Rahway will host a craft fair March 31 from 6 to 10 p.m.

Crafters are needed. Tables are $15, and anyone interested can call 815-1812 for more information and reservations. An early reservation is required.

Truck meeting

Congressman Donald M. Payne has been invited to attend the next meeting of those opposed to out-of-city garbage [illegible] on certain Rahway streets.

Union County Freeholder [illegible]

[illegible] the ACT-SO [illegible] of the Rahway Branch.

Volleyball event

On March 11 and 12, The Rahway YMCA will be hosting its First Annual Four Man Co-ed Volleyball Tournament at the Y, 1564 Irving St.

This event is being sponsored by U-Go Inc., a local business owned by Keith Stinger. The proceeds from this event will be used for YMCA's programs for children and adults.

Each team will have six players on its roster, two of which must be females. There will be three divisions based on ability of play. For more information, call Eric at 815-1466 or call the YMCA at 388-0057.

Residents block barrier's removal

By Andrew J. Stewart

The residents of Maurice Avenue decided to take matters into their own hands and got a court restraining order stopping the removal of the barrier at the end of their street until both the Rahway and Clark municipal governments pass ordinances approving a permanent barricade on second reading.

Despite pleas from local residents, a Rahway City Council resolution and support from Clark officials, the barricade keeping Maurice Avenue a dead-end street was scheduled to be torn down yesterday because it is a liability, according to city officials. However, Clark was set to erect another temporary barricade on their side of the street Tuesday, keeping it a dead end, hours before that Township Council passed an ordinance on first reading to build a permanent structure.

[illegible]

Traffic Engineering and Safety Programs manager William Anderson dated Jan. 31 which said the barrier was "an illegal traffic control device" and its removal was strongly recommended, he said.

The barrier was a liability to all of Rahway's taxpayers and had to be removed despite the requests of the street's residents, he said.

"It's unfortunate but you have to look out for what's best for everyone," Jotz said.

The Rahway City Council unanimously passed the same ordinance as Clark on Feb. 14. The ordinance calls for the permanent barrier to be built right on the Rahway/Clark border. Maurice Avenue, in Rahway's 2nd Ward, borders the 3rd Ward of Clark, which brought that ward's Councilmen James Sholtz and [illegible] to a [illegible] council meeting to express their support for the [illegible]

Common sense at supermarket means less trash

More packaging creates more garbage

By Andrew J. Stewart
Managing Editor

A little common sense in the supermarket can go a long way toward a cleaner environment, according to Rahway residents who made presentations Saturday at a Concerned Citizens of Union County forum on recycling and composting.

The group hosted the event at the Rahway High School cafeteria to make people aware of how to reduce the amount of garbage they produce. Author and gardener Trina Paulus, who has been profiled in The New York Times, was at the forum to speak on composting, while members of the Rahway-based anti-incineration group spoke on techniques for reusing materials and cutting down the amount of trash that is sent to the incinerator.

buying products that individually wrap small portions for convenience in packing a lunch bag. Often such items as raisins or drink boxes come in cellophane-wrapped packages of six individual portions, which creates more trash. Eash recommended buying large boxes of raisins or large bottles of juice and putting them in reusable plastic containers to pack in lunches. In addition buying one large package is often less expensive than several small ones, she said.

"You're not only paying for the product you're using, you're paying for the packaging," Eash said. "The idea is if it's something you use a lot, you buy in bulk and re-use these [illegible]

Styrofoam, all of which can reduce the amount of garbage a home produces.

"You really have to be smart and think before you buy something," Eash said.

Similar theories apply to selecting cleaning materials for the household. Concerned Citizens member Kerri Blanchard said people [illegible] commercially made cleaning fluids which contain toxic [illegible]

[illegible] like bathroom tiles can be made with a simple combination of baking soda, vinegar and salt, she said. The resulting paste is similar to abrasive cleansers and cleans just about anything off, she said.

[illegible] Blanchard said.

To remove pesticides from foods a solution of one gallon of water and two tablespoons of lemon juice creates a bath that will remove the chemicals, she said.

People with babies can be more environmentally conscious by using cloth diapers instead of the disposable plastic kind, [illegible] said. There are pros and cons to each type of diaper, but the cloth diapers are reusable and create less solid waste, she said.

Members of Rahway Hospital Foundation's 1995 Rose Ball Reservations Committee address invitations to the fund-raising event which will be held April 1 at the Brunswick Hilton in East Brunswick.

Rose Ball to benefit cancer patients

Invitations to Rahway Hospital's annual Rose Ball are in the mail.

This fund-raising event will be held April 1 at the Brunswick Hilton in East Brunswick. According to the 1995 Rose Ball committee, proceeds will fund services to cancer patients and their families at Rahway Hospital.

Cancer strikes about 1.3 million Americans each year. The American Cancer Society's "1994 Facts and Figures" estimated more than 40,000 new cases of cancer last year in New Jersey and more than 2,500 in Union County alone. Thanks to recent advancements in surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy the disease is more readily treatable than ever before. In the coming months the hospital plans to open a new unit devoted exclusively to the treatment of cancer and cancer-related diagnoses.

Funds from the 1995 Rose Ball will help equip the unit with the needed modalities and amenities to provide patients with the best possible treatments in convenient, attractive surroundings.

Anyone who would like to receive an invitation to the Rose Ball or would like to make a donation to the event in support of expanded services for cancer patients and their families, should contact Rahway Hospital Foundation's development office at 499-6135.

Richard III exhibit at Rahway library

Now on exhibit at the Rahway Library are artifacts from The Richard III Foundation, Inc., an international not-for-profit organization.

The foundation, renowned in New Jersey for its colorful and educational exhibits as well as speaking engagements, chronicles the life and times of King Richard III, his contemporaries and era.

In addition to its library exhibits, school and speaking engagements, the foundation offers quarterly meetings throughout the state. The local shire, the Whyte Rose Shire, hosts meetings that contain public speakers and various presentations on the medieval era.

For more information about the foundation, contact editor [illegible] Mahoney, [illegible] Grand Ave., Rahway, [illegible]-0056, or the corporate office at 47 Summit Ave., Garfield, at (201) 478-6466.

Official re-hired as Rahway deal dies

By [illegible]

One month after laying him off, Elizabeth has rehired Health Officer Kenneth Sandor in order to abide by a state mandate to have such an official on board.

The move came after the collapse of a deal with Rahway to hire the services of its health official to handle duties in Elizabeth for $10,000 annually.

Sandor, whose annual salary is about $50,000, was re-hired on a six-month "emergency" basis after the state Department of Health revealed the city was in violation of the state mandate, Mayor J. Christian Bollwage said.

"We could have saved taxpayers money through a shared services agreement," he said. Bollwage said the city is continuing to examine several options on how to save money on the health officer post.

Jeff Jotz, spokesperson for Rahway Mayor James Kennedy, said that city was not prepared to part with its health officer, Anthony Deige — who also serves as the health officer in Clark — for all that Elizabeth required.

"Their proposal was for greater than what our health officer could handle," Jotz said. "Tony does a lot of work for us." He said, however, that a future deal with Elizabeth is still a possibility.

Elizabeth's acting business administrator, Phil Connelly, said the city had a conditional agreement with Rahway to use its health official's services on an "emergency basis" if the need arose. "Nothing happened that warranted the services of a health officer for that month," Connelly said.

Connelly said the health officer's duties include supervising sanitary inspectors and overseeing health certificates and testing. He said the post is "mostly administrative" and requires "a great deal of knowledge" along with a state-mandated license.

Jim Blumenstock, director of consumer health services for the state Department of Health, said New Jersey law requires that a municipality's health programs "be under the administration of a full-time health officer."

He said Elizabeth "responded appropriately" to a state directive to put a health officer in place.

Blumenstock said the health officer can be part of a shared-service agreement or the administrator of a regional or county health system.

Fourth Ward Councilwoman Iris Brown blasted the Bollwage administration for laying off Sandor.

"With so many foreigners coming in here that aren't even immunized, he's the most important person in the city, bar none," she said.

City spokesperson Sebastian D'Elia of Elizabeth said the 18 layoffs made Jan. 12 — reduced in stages from the 137 announced in September — were done according to "economy and efficiency" and so as "to not hurt delivery of services to residents."

Brown said the state could have taken actions to penalize the city for not complying with state law.

Brown said it was "sick" to lay off the city's health officer while keeping on staff a public information officer, a chauffeur and other employees "that aren't worth a diddly-damn."

"Maybe if Iris Brown did her homework and found the reason why he was laid off then she would understand," D'Elia said. "If Iris Brown was so concerned about saving the city money she'd give back her salary increase."

D'Elia said the "chauffeur," Phil Leary, is an all-purpose aide who performs a range of tasks for the mayor, including serving as a driver.

"Iris Brown doesn't understand what it takes to run a big city," D'Elia said.

Scrap garbage flow system

New Jersey's waste flow system is in serious jeopardy of being dismantled because the U.S. Court of Appeals has ruled that the state cannot tell garbage haulers where to dispose of the trash they collect. The state's current flow control laws, which mandate garbage be sent to county facilities, are in violation of interstate commerce laws because they prevent the haulers from shipping garbage to less expensive, out-of-state facilities.

Locally, this would mean the garbage haulers operating in each municipality would no longer have to take garbage to the Union County Resource Recovery facility in Rahway to be burned. They could ship the garbage to out-of-state landfills with lower tipping fees if they choose.

The system is still in place while a lower court rules on whether the system serves a public purpose legitimate enough to allow it to continue to interfere with interstate commerce. In addition, the state administration is continuing to put pressure on Congress to pass legislation that will allow the current flow rights system to remain in place.

At this time, that legislation seems to be the only hope for keeping the present system in place. Dismantling the current solid waste system could jeopardize the Union County Utilities Authority's ability to do business. If the county's waste haulers find it less expensive to send garbage to a facility other than the Rahway site, the Utilities Authority could face a financial disaster.

At the very least, the UCUA would have to lower its rates to the point where it is competitive again. That option does not bode well for an agency that just recently announced a rate hike to meet its expenses. If the incinerator does not receive enough trash to justify its continued operation, or the Utilities Authority's rates cannot keep it afloat, there is another problem.

The UCUA bonded approximately $300 million to finance the project, and if the incinerator does not make enough money to pay back that debt, the responsibility falls squarely on the shoulders of the county taxpayers, which would be disastrous for homeowners and businesses.

The loss of the Resource Recovery facility certainly would be a victory for environmentalists who have been against the facility from the start. Despite stringent air pollution regulations and advanced pollution control systems at the facility, the loss of the facility would hardly be a bad thing for local air quality — no equipment removes all pollutants completely. At the same time, in a highly industrialized area such as eastern Union County, is one less industrial facility really going to make a significant difference to the air quality? More importantly, is the improvement in air quality worth $300 million?

We think not. At the same time, there is the real possibility that Union County's taxpayers will be able to pay less for their garbage removal. If the UCUA lowers its rates [illegible] correspondingly cuts expenses, in all likelihood, the costs of hauling the trash longer distances would outweigh any savings in tipping fees at those out-of-state facilities.

Customers would get lower rates on their service and the Resource Recovery facility would still receive enough trash, and enough tipping fees, to stay in business instead of putting the burden of the UCUA's debt directly on the taxpayers while still having to pay for the garbage to be disposed.

Several years ago, the state mandated that counties build incinerators to remove waste from the trash flow, but it never did anything to protect the consumer who was forced to pay for that service. If the flow rights system is not protected by Congress, New Jersey's county trash authorities will have to offer an economically viable alternative to out-of-state disposal facilities in order to stay afloat, which will benefit their customers.

Time to see who paid attention this month

Life Along The River

By Bob Rixon

With African-American History Month coming to an end, it's time to take the AAHM quiz. This multiple choice test will not be scored on a curve. Take as much time as you need. Use only a number two pencil. When you are done, please hand in the answer sheet to the proctor. Good luck.

The first man to reach the North Pole was: a. Santa Claus, b. a New York City cabbie trying to find Hoboken, or c. Matthew Henson, Admiral Peary's African-American assistant.

When British Gen. Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, he: a. heard Washington exclaim "I'm going to Disneyworld," b. was offered free hot dogs and beer, or c. learned that his trusted African-American servant James Armistead was actually a double agent for the Marquis de Lafayete.

Which of these movies is the most absurd depiction of African-American culture? a. "Blacula," starring William Marshall, b. "Scream, Blacula, Scream," also starring William Marshall and co-starring Pam Grier as a voodoo priestess, or c. Bing Crosby in "Birth of the Blues."

In 1925 near Folsom, N.M., an African-American cowhand named George Majunkin found in a tree: a. Davy Crockett's initials, b. a Keebler cookie elf, or c. a 10,000-year-old spear tip.

Benny Goodman was: a. the King of Swing, b. the King of Rock and Roll, or c. the king of white cats who got rich playing African-American music.

Malik El-Shabazz is known as: a. a fictitious movie character, b. the designer of a line of "X" shirts and hats, or c. Malcolm X, prophetic African-American leader and founder of the Organization for Afro-American Unity.

"Jumping the broom" is: a. how people cheat when they dance the limbo, b. a favorite prank at the National Janitor Convention, or c. a lovely African-American wedding ritual dating back to slavery days.

Musician Sun Ra: a. came from the planet Saturn to teach Earth people about peace and freedom, b. was a brilliant composer and big band leader, or c. recently completed interplanetary mission plans "A" and "B" and returned home.

Escaped slaves reaching New Hope, Pa. via the Underground Railroad knew they were safe when they saw: a. the price of antiques, b. drunken people floating down the Delaware River on tire tubes, or c. a lit lantern on the "Faithful Groomsman" hitching post.

Paul Robeson was: a. a scholar and great collegiate football player, b. a musical genius and outspoken human rights leader, or c. all of the above and arguably the most talented human being in our galaxy.

During World War II in Italy, the last thing on this Earth many Nazis saw was: a. a young Pavarotti eating spaghetti, b. the Sistine Chapel, or c. the face of a sharpshooting African-American pilot from the 33rd Fighter Group.

Which of the following African-American musicians is the better blues guitarist? a. B.B. King, b. Albert King, or c. I'm not sure. Please send free compact discs care of this newspaper so I can decide.

When Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr. first arrived in Washington and found communal congressional facilities off-limits to African-Americans he a. quietly accepted the situation, b. patiently lobbied the racists on the House Ways and Means Committee to change the rules, or c. promptly invited his entire staff to join him for a steambath, haircut and lunch.

African-American Nat Love made a reputation for himself as: a. a doo-wop singer and composer of "The 10 Commandments of Love," b. the grooviest hippie in San Francisco during "The Summer of Love," or c. Deadwood Dick, the coolest cowboy in the Dakota Territory.

In 1939, African-American contralto Marian Anderson gave a free concert on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial because: a. it was a nice day and she had nothing else to do, b. she heard on the Ren and Stimpy cartoon show that the statue of Abraham Lincoln was filled with caramel corn, or c. she was barred from appearing at the prestigious Constitution Hall by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

When Rutgers president Francis Lawrence used the controversial phrase "genetic hereditary" in an insulting reference to African-Americans, he really meant to say: a. "frenetic hiri kiri," b. "generic apothecary," or c. "Did anyone remember to turn off the tape recorder?"

If Newt Gingrich reads this quiz he will: a. blame it on Jocelyn Elders, b. send a copy to the Federal Bureau of Investigation, or c. check "a" for every answer.

Bob Rixon is a resident of Rahway.

Contract is with Hollywood, not America

Nothing Personal

By Dick Kimball

House Speaker Newt Gingrich continues his quest for innovation in government. He recently suggested that the owners and players settle the baseball strike by throwing out their agents and lawyers, and working together to settle their differences. Most tellingly, he said they should all sit down together and watch the movie "Field of Dreams."

Though Gingrich did not, for chance, expound at great length on the "big picture" aspects of his proposal, his agenda is becoming increasingly clear. Coming on the heels of his claim that welfare reform should be guided by the underlying principles in the movie "Boys Town," it is becoming apparent that the "Contract with America" is obviously a thinly disguised shell for a "Contract with Hollywood."

For some, this is a topic which might create confusion, as it was thought that Gingrich's archenemies, the Clinton family values, held a Hollywood monopoly. The Clintons have been the darlings of the liberal actors and actresses whose political activity garners the most publicity. They even briefly turned the management of the White House travel office over to some producer/director-type friends, with disastrous results.

But Gingrich obviously has a different agenda. He is not pandering to the people who star in or direct the films, but focuses instead on the films themselves. In keeping with the direction [illegible] we should expand our use of [illegible] solutions to the nation's problems. The following list provides a starting point:

Crime — "Naked Gun," "Naked Gun 2 1/2" and "Naked Gun 33 1/3." There's also a math lesson somewhere in here.

Education — "Crimes and Misdemeanors," which are rising much faster than Scholastic Aptitude Test scores.

Nuclear Proliferation — "Dr. Strangelove." Strange indeed, though the guy sounds very familiar.

The Deficit and the National Debt — "Aladdin." And we'll still have one wish left over.

National Defense — "Sleeping with the Enemy." Think of the savings in the defense budget if this became our primary strategy. This could also make honest tax-paying citizens out of current members of the "underground economy."

Movies can also be used to put in the proper context much of what takes place in the political arena, to provide a civics lesson for people of all ages. Imagine the pop quiz:

Q. What is the average length of a speech in Congress?

A. "From Here to Eternity"

Q. What happens to all the promises made in the presidential elections?

A. "Gone With the Wind"

Q. What's all the publicity about Newt Gingrich?

A. "Much Ado About Nothing"

Q. What are the names of the two houses of Congress?

A. "Dumb and Dumber"

Finally, in the spirit of consensus, it makes sense to combine the Clinton and Gingrich approaches by appointing celebrities to offices which were previously reserved for politicians, statesmen or major contributors. After all, look at the mess these "professionals" have created. The appointees should not be restricted to movie and television characters, but should also include figures from sports, music and popular culture; in short, anyone who has ever appeared in People magazine. We submit the following nominations:

Secretary of State — Julia Roberts. Who better than the star of "Sleeping with the Enemy" and "Pretty Woman" to negotiate skillfully and cheaply. In fact, she should be able to make a profit. And Lyle certainly is leaving her with some free time.

Secretary of Defense — Mike Tyson. Whoever said the best defense is a good offense must have anticipated this move. He'll need work when he gets out of prison, and this would aid his rehabilitaton and keep him out of the clutches of promoter Don King. Whatever problems Julia can't resolve will be left to Iron Mike. We'll simply send him over to beat the bejeezus out of the poor sod who dares to diss America.

Secretary of Agriculture — Wavy Gravy. The leader of a counterculture group, The Hog Farm, which was founded in the 1960s, and has never even asked for a government subsidy.

Co-Speaker of the House — Phil Donahue. It is apparent that Gingrich must be left in office, not so much to implement the contract as to provide fodder for the daily media feeding frenzy. However, given the constant firestorms which Newtie keeps igniting, it is only fair to provide him with some help. And who better for the part but the liberal look-alike. Talk about evil twins.

This will provide us with a constant point/counterpoint, as Phil attempts to fillet Newt, while Newt flays Phil. Poetic justice demands that these two be forced to sit across a table from each other, each prattling their own vision for America. The only real question is what to call the movie. Should it be "Twins," "The Odd Couple," or "Grumpy Old Men?" No, I think I've got to go with "The Jerky Boys."

letter to the editor

Trucks still defy rules

To the Editor:

I have three cats, one of Asian descent, another from Africa and a third from "Lard." All they do is eat, and do not understand the research I do. So I wake up to three angry felines because there is no food.

So off I go to Springfield where it's 14 cents a can. On my way through Westfield, I spotted two garbage trucks on the north side of the tracks on their way to the incinerator. This was not the correct route. I know because I followed.

There at the burner, I informed an employee to notify the two drivers and ask them to drive the correct route, which is Routes 1 and 9 to Route 22. Leaving, I followed a Bergen County tractor-trailer that exited the incinerator, one exactly like the truck that was involved in an accident a couple weeks ago.

A lot of passing on the right, driving in the left lane and going through red lights took place all the way to Exit 14 of the Turnpike.

There I left him, research done. I bought the cat food. Fed the critters. And the morning was not half over with.

Can't Rahway board members get along?

Liner Notes

By Andrew J. Stewart
Managing Editor

[illegible] who get along better than some members of the Rahway Board of Education. In the words of Rodney King, "Can't we all just get along?" This is a case of [illegible] the mood of the Clark Township Council last year. Thankfully, the members of that governing body are now civil to each other even in disagreement.

Rahway's board members should observe them in action and learn from it. Of course, less controversy also often means less interesting stories for me, but somehow I think the schools are a little more important than having these newspapers contain the type of material usually reserved for the New York City tabloids.

Word from two highly reliable sources is that the new Clark White Diamond serves the same greasy, artery-blocking, heart-attack giving, soul satisfying food as ever. That's the good news.

The bad news, according to my Diamond dining snitches, is that the atmosphere of the new place doesn't touch the original. Both of them used the same words to describe it.

"It's just too clean," they said. The pseudo circa-1947 decor also got the thumbs down from them.

I figure in another 40 years or so of operation, the cleanliness problem will take care of itself. Remember, decades of work and hamburger cooking went into making the old Diamond look the way it did before it was torn down. The booths and the decor are another matter, though. I will reserve judgment, however, until I see it for myself.

If the Diamond [illegible] approaches looking like a place to go with a girlfriend for a late night snack after a [illegible], I will have to [illegible] with my [illegible].

Speaking of girlfriends, another Valentine's Day just passed in which I have flown solo. Of course, even if I had a significant other, with a Tuesday newspaper deadline, the holiday would just have to be pre-empted until Wednesday.

[illegible] never been involved with a member of the female gender on Valentine's Day except for Feb. 14, 1993.

I did not enjoy that day. There was too much pressure.

Don't feel sorry for me, though. I like it this way. I personally hate "Greeting Card Holidays" such as Valentine's Day, Mother's Day, Father's Day, and so on. Is the American economy in such bad shape that we need these excuses to spend large amounts of money on gifts, dinners and, oh yes, greeting cards? The problem is that they are so entrenched that they have become a societal norm, and I have to go along with them.

Personally, I'd much rather stay to the basics that have real meaning — birthdays, religious holidays, anniversaries and the like. Try doing that in this day and age and you're definitely in the doghouse, likely to be abandoned at the side of the road even if you're driving, and run the possible risk of being placed in cement shoes and thrown into the Arthur Kill. I think I would most likely have been [illegible] in 1993 [illegible] Valentine's Day.

I guess sometimes you just have to take it on the chin.

Now, the last I heard, this former girlfriend was living in Maplewood, so I have to keep the rest of this column as local as possible on the highly unlikely chance it gets picked up by our News-Record of Maplewood and South Orange. If she ever reads this, I would still stand a good chance of getting the key to [illegible] Locker.

Congratulations are in order to former Progress and Eagle editor Sean P. Cole, who took home a New Jersey Press Association award for [illegible] writing. [illegible] but Sean's is special because now I can say that I'm the editor of an award-winning weekly newspaper.

Of course, I immensely resent the fact that it was he and not I, but hey, I'll get over it.

Sincerest apologies are also in order to Progress columnist Bob Rixon and Eagle columnist Joseph Orlando. Had I known that non-staff members were eligible for NJPA awards, I would have certainly asked them for their favorite columns of the past year and submitted them as well. I'm sure both would have provided tough competition in the column writing category, and in my opinion, at least one of them would have taken home an award.

Again, my apologies to both Bob and Joe.

I'm all for law and order and a big supporter of the need for a stronger police presence and more pervasive police involvement in the community, but the House of Representatives' recent vote to relax illegal search and seizure laws frightens me.

The Founding Fathers wrote the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution in part to protect the innocent from being searched without cause and framed because of their beliefs. To allow certain things to be admissible as evidence that were found in a search conducted without a warrant is a substantial weakening of that amendment and, as such, a weakening of the rights of the innocent.

Sure, I'm sick and tired of criminals getting off on technicalities, too, but the real solution is to have stronger, better-trained, effective law enforcement agencies which do their job properly and avoid those technicalities in the first place.

Weakening the Fourth Amendment is not the answer and sets a dangerous precedent. In a worst case scenario, this could lead to the existence of prisoners of conscience in the United States who have committed no crime except to speak their mind. Some would say they exist now, but with relaxed search laws, it would have the official sanction of the U.S. government.

Think about it. If I were to write something bad about someone influential, the next day there could be law enforcement officers at my door without a warrant who burst in, search the house and somehow "find" drugs, an illegal weapon, or other planted evidence of wrongdoing that would send me up the river for a long time.

That type of action has no place in what is supposed to be the land of the free and the home of the brave. It is the action of a fascist state, plain and simple.

State's newest challenge: Rebuild our communities

The Senate Report

By Bill Bradley

I recently gave a series of speeches in New Jersey and Washington, D.C., about a growing problem that affects all of us in many ways — we see examples of it on the news every day, but we may not have given it a name. I call it the breakdown of our civil society.

As the election last November demonstrated, New Jerseyans and Americans are worried about their families and angry with politicians and the political system as a whole. I understand both of these emotions — there is plenty to be concerned about.

I think there is more to this fear and anxiety than just one election. Many people in New Jersey share my belief that our neighborhoods and even our day-to-day lives are breaking down. Too many things seem stressful and uncertain: our jobs, our safety, our children's futures. We don't know our neighbors very well and we don't trust strangers. We seem to have less control over our own lives and less time for our families.

We are in danger of losing what holds us all together as Americans — what I call our civil society.

As a public figure, I think politics is a big part of this problem. Democrats and Republicans have forgotten what daily life for most Americans is really like. Democrats want the government too involved in our daily lives, and Republicans think profits and the private sector are all that matters.

I want to help turn this trend around. I have proposed that we institute radical change in our campaign finance laws to put people back at the center of our political process. I also believe we must help relieve the stress on our families by strengthening child support laws.

Bill Bradley represents New Jersey in the U.S. Senate.

Law subsidizes some business travel costs

Money Management

If your job or business has you sleeping in a different city every night of the week, chances are you have incurred substantial travel expenses. According to the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, tax law subsidizes some of your business-related travel costs in the form of a tax deduction. Just be sure you know — and travel — by the rules.

How much you can deduct depends on whether you are self-employed or an employee. Employees must treat unreimbursed business expenses as miscellaneous itemized deductions, which are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of the employee's adjusted gross income. Self-employed workers are not subject to this limitation.

Generally, you are eligible to deduct travel expenses if your purpose for traveling is strictly business related and you can prove it. This doesn't mean you can't take time on your trip to meet with old friends, but it does mean that a business purpose must be documented.

Whether you're on an overnight business trip or a long-term assignment, the amount you spend for lodging and transportation to and from your business destination is deductible. You can also deduct the cost of getting around at the location, as well as tips, laundry and dry cleaning, and luggage handling. In addition, the tax law allows you to deduct 50 percent of your qualified business meals and entertainment expenses.

If the reason for your trip is primarily personal, you cannot deduct the expenses of traveling to and from your location, even if you conduct business once you arrive. You may, however, deduct any business expenses you incur during the trip.

Suppose you fly to Palm Beach for a five-day business meeting, then extend your stay for four days to relax in the sun. The cost of the flight would be deductible, as would your expenses for food — limited to 50 percent — and lodging during the business part of your trip. However, the cost of food, lodging and other expenses on the personal days cannot be written off.

When it comes to foreign travel, a different set of rules applies. These rules depend on how long you are away. As with domestic travel, your costs, including transportation, lodging and 50 percent of meal expenses, are deductible if the primary purpose of the trip is business. If your business trip is for one week or less, or when the time spent for personal reasons is 25 percent or less of the total time away from home, your travel expense is considered to be entirely for business. Also, the trip is considered entirely for business if you have no substantive control over the trip or a personal vacation was not a major consideration. You could not, of course, deduct any personal expenses.

If you can't meet the rule above, you must allocate part of your business expenses as non-deductible.

The rules governing the travel expenses of spouses on business trips were made more stringent by a 1993 tax law change. Before 1994, you could deduct a spouse's travel expenses if you could demonstrate that there was a "significant" business reason for your spouse to accompany you on your trip. Congress no longer allows deductions for spousal travel unless your spouse is an employee of your business — and the expenses incurred would otherwise be deductible — and has a bona fide business reason for accompanying you on the trip.

Finally, CPAs also point out that if you want to deduct the costs of attending a convention on your 1995 tax return, be sure you can show that your attendance is of general benefit to your job or business. If the convention is overseas, it's even more difficult to qualify for a deduction.

Cohen honored by women's group

Assembly Minority Whip Neil M. Cohen has been selected by the Women's Political Caucus of New Jersey to receive its distinguished 1995 "Good Guy of the Year" award in recognition of his numerous legislative initiatives and outstanding achievements in support of women's issues.

"I am very pleased that the Women's Political Caucus, which represents so many prominent women, both Democratic and Republican throughout the state, would honor me with this prestigious award," said Cohen.

The assemblyman has been recognized statewide as a leading advocate for the protection of women's rights and safety and health in the Legislature.

Cohen was the sponsor of a law which limited arbitrary strip searches by police officers for minor offenses.

Cohen, along with former Assemblywoman Marlene Lynch Ford and the late Assemblywoman Ann Mullen, sponsored the 1991 amendments to the domestic violence law which strengthened the judiciary in providing protection from an abusive spouse. Currently, he is co-sponsoring A-2135 with Assemblywoman Nia H. Gill, which will provide a state tax contribution to battered women's shelters through a state tax return check off. This bill, the first of its kind, will provide a permanent funding source for many shelters in desperate need of financial support.

Cohen has also sponsored a wide variety of legislation specifically dealing with women's health related issues.

He sponsored the bill — the first of its kind on a state legislative level in the nation — which creates a "buffer zone" for health care facilities. The concept has now been upheld by the New Jersey Supreme Court. He was also the sponsor of a law which provides for mandatory prison terms for the arson of a health care facility — another first in the country. At present, he and Gill are the co-sponsors of a bill which calls for a ban on picketing the homes of physicians and health care workers.

Gov. Christine Whitman has recently signed into law the New Jersey Breast Cancer Research Fund, which provides for a state tax return check off for donations to the fund. Cohen co-sponsored the bill with Assemblywoman Rose Heck and Assembly Speaker Chuck Haytaian.

During Cohen's first term in the Legislature, he joined with former Assemblywoman Stephanie Bush and now state Sen. James McGreevey in sponsoring a pair of bills, signed by Gov. James Florio into law, which require private health insurance providers, as well as Medicaid, to now cover the cost of mammography testing procedures for the detection of breast cancer. During the current legislative session, he has reintroduced his bill which would require insurance companies to offer benefits to cover bone marrow treatment for cancer victims. The procedure has been shown to be particularly effective in treating and curing breast cancer, as well as forms of leukemia. The bill, A-1907, has the bipartisan support of more than 40 co-sponsors. It received overwhelming support from the Assembly with passage of the bill earlier this month, and it now moves to the Senate for consideration.

Cohen has served as vice chairman of the Women's Commission on the [illegible] and a member of the Assembly Health Care Task Force.

The assemblyman has consistently won the support of and been honored by a number of prominent women's groups. Right to Choose, NARAL, and the national chapter of NOW have continuously supported him. In 1991, the New Jersey NOW, a statewide coalition of women's organizations, honored Cohen for his legislative record on women's health care issues.

Cohen has always been known as an advocate of the advancement of women seeking elective office on the local, county and state levels. He has not only promoted their efforts, but [illegible] his assistance to them in their fund-raising efforts.

Cohen, who lives in Roselle, is a life-long resident of Union County. He previously served as a Union County freeholder and chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee. He and Assemblywoman Nia H. Gill are partners in the Montclair law firm of Gill & Cohen, P.C.

The New Jersey Women's Political Caucus is a bipartisan organization of elected officials and leaders from throughout the state. It is one of the most active political groups working in forms of discrimination. Its goals include fostering equal rights and representation in elected positions at all levels of government. During the last two years, through the caucus's support, the number of women holding elective office has increased dramatically.

Cohen will be honored with several other 1995 "Good Guy" award recipients from their respective categories at the fifth annual Good Guys Award Dinner scheduled April 6, at the [illegible] in Princeton.

Cohen also tabbed for forum by NJEA

Assembly Minority Whip Neil M. Cohen has been selected by the New Jersey Education Association to chair one of four seats in a roundtable panel discussion on the future of New Jersey's educational programs. The annual legislative conference was held Feb. 18 at the East Brunswick Hilton and hosted some 600 plus members of the association, as well as elected officials throughout the state.

"I am deeply honored that the NJEA would choose me as a panelist in the discussion of the state's educational policies," said Cohen. "With issues such as school vouchers, education reform, privatization, and school funding scheduled to be discussed, I'm sure the conversations will be spirited."

Dan Weissman, a reporter for the Star Ledger, will moderate the panel which will include Sen. Jack Ewing, Sen. [illegible], Assembly Majority Leader Jack Collins and Cohen. The panel members will be asked a series of questions by Weissman dealing with education and its changing face in New Jersey. Each panel member will then be given several minutes to discuss his ideas about the question asked. Additionally, audience members will have an opportunity to turn in written questions to the moderator for brief discussion by panel members.

"With a bipartisan panel like this, we are sure to see some heated debates, especially over the issue of private school vouchers," said Cohen. "It will prove to be interesting to see how Republicans Jack Ewing and Jack Collins respond to the question of school funding and ever-increasing property tax rates in local municipalities."

NJEA President Dennis Testa is expected to address the panelists and discuss some of his ideas as to where the role of public education is heading in today's society. Testa, an outspoken critic of Gov. Christine Whitman's recent raids of the teacher pension fund to balance last year's budget, will also discuss next year's Assembly races.

"I believe one of the most important topics will be the increasing reliance on local property taxes to fund education. With the portion of education costs being paid for by local property taxes increasing year after year, many of the state's lower and middle class residents are being crippled by this regressive tax," said Cohen.

Regional District releases petitions

The deadline for filing nominating petitions to run for a seat on the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education is 4 p.m. today.

Three seats on the nine-member board, one each from the communities of Berkeley Heights, Clark and Springfield, will be contested on School Election Day, April 18.

Candidates elected on that date will be chosen for three-year terms. These seats on the regional board are held by Burton Zitomer of Berkeley Heights, Donald Parm of Clark and Luigi Monaco of Springfield.

To be eligible to run for the Regional Board of Education, interested individuals must obtain a nominating petition from the office of the board secretary/school business administrator at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Mountain Avenue, Springfield, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Completed petitions must then be returned to the board secretary's office by 4 p.m.

Candidates filing a nominating petition for Regional Board of Education membership must meet the following criteria: he or she must be a citizen of the United States, at least 18 years of age, and [illegible] in any contract with or claim against the Regional Board of Education, and must not be disqualified as a voter pursuant to R.S. 19:4-1.

For more information, call (201) 376-6300, Ext. 202 or 203.

YMCA raises funds with Macy's

Macy's and the Rahway YMCA are joining forces for a special event featuring celebrities such as National Football League Hall-of-Famers Gayle Sayers of the Chicago Bears and Ray Nitschke of the Green Bay Packers.

The tickets are being sold by the Rahway YMCA as a fund-raiser. Each $5 ticket provides the holder with discount coupons at Macy's, as well as special drawings. There will be instant winner drawings for prizes and five grand prizes including a cruise.

Besides the discounts, drawings and celebrities, various types of food, entertainment and activities will be available throughout the Macy's Menlo Park store. The event will be held on May 2 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. to help local organizations raise funds.

Tickets are available from the Y, its board members, staff or by calling [illegible].

P.A. moves on expanding bridge

By Sean P. Carr
Staff Writer

The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey is moving forward on a plan to expand and modernize the Goethals Bridge.

The port's governing board last week appropriated $23.7 million to complete preliminary designs, environmental permits and other work on the bridge, which connects Staten Island with Elizabeth at the Linden border.

The project would build a new eastbound span adjacent to the existing bridge, which would be converted to westbound traffic only.

"This project is more than just a couple of new lanes. It opens new opportunities to create more efficient, intermodal transportation in this area with our partner agencies in both states. It will help to improve the regional competitiveness and support economic development," said Chairwoman Katharine Donovan.

Elizabeth Mayor J. Christian Bollwage said the Port Authority has not shared information on its plans with the city or the public.

"The Port Authority has not released any plans," he said. "We've received no official information."

Bollwage said he's concerned about the impact an expanded bridge and its construction would have on city streets.

"We want to be sure the traffic is not just left on the streets of Bayway," he said.

Bollwage said the Port Authority wants to delay releasing official information in order to minimize any potential opposition until the project is under way. "The further along they get, the better for them, and not necessarily for us," he said.

A liaison group of city officials — including Policy and Planning Director George Devanney and City Attorney William Holzapfel — has expressed the city's concerns to authority officials, Bollwage said.

The completed span would give the bridge three wide lanes in each direction, rather than the two narrow lanes each way on the current bridge. The wider lanes would allow for emergency lanes for buses, vans and carpools and road shoulders, Donovan said.

It would have the capacity for a future transit system, should the states want one in the future, she said.

The funds will be used to complete the process of obtaining necessary approvals, permits and licenses — including a final Environmental Impact Statement — and to complete preliminary design work.

The Goethals Bridge was built in 1928. Construction of the expanded bridge is [illegible].

Workshop planned Saturday

The Rahway Public Library will host an African-American history workshop for children on Saturday in recognition of Black History Month.

The workshop is for children 6 to 9 years old, and parents are welcome to be a part of the session. There is no preregistration, but this free program is limited to the first 20 children who arrive, to encourage the fullest participation by those who attend.

The program be held from 1 to 2:30 p.m.

The workshop will be presented by Vanessa Rozzelle, a Rahway resident. Rozzelle, an educator with a special interest in African-American children's literature, is on the counseling faculty at City University of New York-Manhattan Community College, and has presented the program in several other locations.

The library is located at the corner of Central and St. Georges avenues. For more information call the Children's Department at 381-4110.

WW II talk set for Poles

The Polish Cultural Foundation of Clark plans to start this evening's lecture with a talk by Artur Filipowicz, a mechanical engineer. The event, the first of a series, will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the foundation's building, 177 Broadway, Clark.

Filipowicz will share his World War II experiences during the lecture. The Union resident was a young boy at the time of Hitler's invasion of Poland in 1939.

Filipowicz was deported to Siberia by the Soviets from where he went to the Middle East, England and eventually the United States. He worked as a construction and design engineer at Public Service Electric & Gas from 1955-88.

A donation of $3 for foundation members and $4 for others is requested. For more information call the foundation at 382-7197.

Bill on highschools still in committee

By Cynthia B. Gordon
Staff Writer

[illegible]

According to [illegible] Traber, [illegible]

According to Traber, DiFrancesco [illegible]

The amended bill takes into account the titles and control of school grounds and buildings, and the furnishings and equipment inside the buildings.

"The withdrawing district and the remaining districts, or each constituent district in the event of a dissolution, shall take title to and control of all school grounds and buildings, and the furnishings and equipment therein, other than those which had been rotated or shared among the regional schools, situated in their respective districts on the effective date of withdrawal or dissolution as established by the [illegible]," according to the bill, [illegible]

[illegible] board of review. In the event of a withdrawal, the withdrawing district shall pay to the regional board of education, at least five days before it becomes due, the amount of the principal and interest of the bonded indebtedness," it states.

The bill also discusses what role the county superintendent and board of review will have in determining what will be paid. "In the event of a dissolution, the county superintendent and board of review, in determining the amount of indebtedness to be assumed by each constituent district, shall give due regard to the value of school building and grounds being conveyed to the constituent district in which those buildings and grounds are located," the bill states.

On taxation, the bill states that "the county superintendent and board of review shall also calculate the proportionate share of taxes paid by each constituent district during the regional [illegible]

[illegible]

The amended bill states, "The amount of payments to be made or to be received by the withdrawing district, or by each of the constituent districts, and the amount of indebtedness to be assumed by the withdrawing district or by each of the constituent districts in the event of a dissolution and the effect of such indebtedness upon the borrowing margin of the municipality, the withdrawing district, the remaining districts, and the remaining municipalities within the regional district, or by each of the constituent districts and municipalities within the regional district in the event of a dissolution, shall be stated in the notices and advertisements of the special school election and in the ballots to be used therein."

Stogies making comeback in U.S.

By Cynthia B. Gordon
Staff Writer

Despite the health hazards posed to those who smoke tobacco, cigars are making a comeback.

According to area retailers and distributors, cigars are selling strong.

"Sales have almost doubled what it was last year," said Allen Roth, sales director for NJ Bailey Co., a Neptune-based national distributor of tobacco products. "There has been tremendous growth."

"They're becoming a status symbol," he added. "Who can bring the better cigar to a friend's house to play cards, or who's going to give the better cigar box as a gift" has become socially important in the past year-and-a-half.

"Members of the Township Council buy cigars; normally I have a few business owners that buy the more expensive — $3 to $4 — cigars," according to Amit Shah, manager of Elmwood Smoke Shop in Maplewood.

"Although it's still a predominately male thing, more and more women are trying it," he added.

But it seems that cigar smoking is not only for socialites and prominent civic and business leaders.

"The new smokers are young, white-collar, 'Wall Street' or successful-type persons," Roth added. "Guys with a nice salary are now realizing that it's OK to enjoy a cigar if they want to."

"They see Arnold Schwarzenegger or Jack Nicholson smoking cigars on TV, and say, 'Why not me?'" he continued.

In recent decades, the carcinogenic effects of tobacco smoking have been no secret, and smokers go undeterred. Shah said that he believes cigar smoking is not as bad as cigarette smoking.

"My barber is 90 years old and has been smoking cigars for 70 years," he said. "If I stand next to someone smoking a cigarette, it irritates my eyes. But if I stand next to someone smoking a cigar, it doesn't affect me like that. It just stinks."

Roth voiced a similar opinion.

"It's a general thought that cigar smoking is better for you, because a cigar smoker doesn't inhale smoke," he said. "It's not frowned upon like it was a couple of years ago; then the trend was toward anti-smoking."

"Although a lot of people may be against smoking, people have to realize that it provides jobs for tobacco growers, clerks, and other people," he added. "It's still a legal product in the U.S. and it pays hundreds of millions in taxes each year to the government."

Board nomination deadline nears

The president of the New Jersey School Boards Association reminded citizens that the deadline to file nominating petitions to run for seats on local school boards is 4 p.m. today.

"I urge citizens who believe they can make a contribution to their schools to consider board of education membership," said Mark J. Finkelstein, NJSBA president. "If you have a sincere interest in children and their education, New Jersey needs you to serve on your local board of education."

School board elections will take place on April 18.

Finkelstein pointed out that the association has supplied local school districts with "School Board Candidate Kits" to assist citizens who are considering running for school board office or seeking appointment in districts with appointed school boards. The material describes the legal qualifications for school board candidacy, campaign procedures, the role of the school board member, and a list of important dates in the election-candidacy process. Also included is information on the New Jersey School Ethics Act, which requires school board members to undergo training during their first year in office and to file financial disclosure forms.

To obtain a "School Board Candidate Kit," contact your local school board office or call the NJSBA Information Office at (609) 278-5202.

Donations sought for school fund-raiser

Donations are being sought for the Madison Elementary School fund-raiser to be held March 3 at the American Legion Post 5 on Maple Avenue in Rahway.

The Parent-Teacher Association will be distributing to all that attend a brochure listing every contributor and business that aided in the event.

All proceeds will benefit the Madison School Playground Fund. The fund, established by the PTA in 1993, will enable the school to purchase playground equipment such as swings, slides and climbing apparatus.

Anyone who would like to donate or wishes more information should call Dorothy Baboc at (908) 815-9410 or Pat Bender at (908) 381-7476. Local pickup for donations also may be arranged.

Rahway plows over Union into semis

Indians faced No. 1 St. Patrick's for place in UCT tourney final

Jason Green scored 22 points to lead the Indians to a 73-70 overtime victory against Union last Friday.

By Michael Ziegler
Assistant Sports Editor

Rahway's road to the Union County Boys' Basketball Tournament final not only went through Elizabeth, but also No. 1 seed St. Patrick's. But after an upset overtime with over No. 4 seed Union, the Indians were looking to continue to play well.

"Everyone knows that St. Patrick's is the quickest team," Rahway coach John Patela said. "We're a quick team but not that quick. We need to play well and stay in the game early. If we do that then good things will happen."

Last Tuesday night Rahway (14-8) made a game of it midway through the first quarter, but then good things stopped happening and St. Patrick's (18-5) attacked like a shark smelling blood — advancing to the UCT Final Saturday at 3 p.m. with a 70-44 win.

"We just did not play well," Patela said. "Their pressure worried us but we handled it well and forced them out of it like we wanted. But once they went to a man-to-man we couldn't get the ball up the floor."

Rahway shadowed St. Patrick's throughout the first quarter and took a 12-8 lead with 4:00 to go in the quarter. And with the Celtics only dressing six players due to injury and personal reasons, Patela decided to take the ball to St. Patrick's forcing them into foul trouble.

The strategy was simple — get the ball inside and get St. Patrick's into foul trouble. Once in foul trouble, the Celtics would be forced to hold back on defense which would allow the Indians to survive inside.

"We were doing everything right in the first quarter," Patela said. "We got them into early foul trouble and changed their game plan, but then we stopped executing ours."

The strategy worked for eight minutes, then St. Patrick's, aided by Rahway's ineffectivness, had enough and exploded for a 27-10 run in the second quarter which left Rahway wondering what happened. Not only did the three point lead transform to a 15-point lead, but it happened in two minutes. Before Rahway could regroup, St. Patrick's had all but put the game out of reach.

"You cannot play poorly against St. Patrick's and expect to win," Patela said. "But what was most frustrating about this game was our terrible foul shooting."

The Indians took the ball to the basket and drew the Celtics into foul trouble, but never took advantage of it. Rahway went 0-5 in the first quarter from the line, when they could have kept the lead and continued to put pressure on the high-flying Celtics. But they did not, and ended the half 2-for-10 from the charity stripe.

In the second, Rahway began forcing shots and passes instead of looking for good inside shots and allowed St. Patrick's to play their own game. The Indians, after staying close in the first quarter, went into the break trailing 44-24.

In the third, Rahway started to do the things that kept them in it, and pulled the deficit back to 13 points at the 5:37 mark. But the inability to make foul shots soon forced the Indians to shoot from the outside which let the Celtics loose. Rahway finished the game 2-for-15 from the line.

Boys' Basketball

"When we cut the lead to 13 in the third," Patela said, "we ran out of gas. But we really thought that was our run to get back into it."

The fourth quarter was just a formality as St. Patrick's finished the third with a 14-0 run to lead 61-34, and finished the game on top 70-44.

000

The Indians earned a spot in Tuesday night's semifinal by beating the No. 4 seed Union Farmers 73-70 last Friday night in overtime.

"We're very happy for the chance to be playing the top team in the county," Patella said. "We showed a real determination and desire to win the game down the stretch and never gave up."

Union's Sean Perkins, after hitting one of two fouls shots with no time on the clock to force overtime, scored seven straight points in the extra period to give Union a 70-67 lead, But Rahway called a timeout and Brian Grossenstein took over — hitting a jumper and two foul shots in the final 1:30 of the game — giving the Indians a 70-73 lead with five seconds to go.

Perkins had a chance to win it for the Farmers in the final seconds but his three-point attempt rattled off the rim to give Rahway the victory.

Rahway looked as if it would have an easy night against Union, jumping out to a 12-4 lead jump two minutes into the game. But the Farmers came right back to tie the score at 19 a piece after the first quarter. From then on, neither team could hold a lead larger than four points as the hard-fought contest came down to the wire.

As each team battled to take control, Rahway maintained a three-point 47-44 lead after three quarters. But as the game got tighter, so did the officiating, and both coaches had several key players in foul trouble going into the fourth quarter. Rahway's John Johnson fouled out just 30 seconds into the fourth and Union had Darius Skeete and Andrew Horton both on the bench with five fouls three minutes later — Andre Lee played the second half with three fouls for the Farmers. As a result, each team got easy baskets inside.

"What it came down to," Union coach Ted Zawacki said, "was that the got a lot more easy baskets than we did. They out rebounded us and were able to get a lot of points from offensive rebounds."

When Monte Wise hit both ends of a one-and-one with eight seconds remaining to put Rahway up 63-62, the game looked over. But Sean Perkins, got fouled on his buzzer beater and would shoot two foul shots — giving Union a chance to win it from the line.

Perkins missed the first but hit the second to send the game into overtime.

When Rahway opened the overtime with four points, Perkins responded with seven of his own to give Union a 70-67 lead. The Indians countered with the final six points of the game, and Perkins final three-point attempt hit off the rim at the buzzer.

"After being down three in overtime," Patela said, "the guys showed a lot of guts to be able to come back. I am real pleased with the effort that was given."

Union County College offers Nets basketball tickets

Members of the publilc are welcome to take advantage of an opportunity afforded by the Union County College Athletic Office to puchase discount tickets for the New Jersey Nets/Portland Trailblazers professional basketball game at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 30, at the Bredndan Byrne Arena, East Rutherford. Ticket sales will benefit the College's Owl Club, a booster organization. Transportation will not be included.

The Portland Trailblazers are the professional basketball team now coached by P.J. Carlisimo, former coach of the Seton Hall University Pirates' men's basketball team.

For $30, purchasers may obtain a lower-level arena seat ticket, plus a Nets' basketball cap. For $18, purchasers may obtain an upper-level arena seat ticket, plus have the opportunity to participate in a raffle for possible selection as a ballperson at the 6 p.m. warmup, and receive several Burger King coupons.

Tickets will be on sale in the Athletic Office and in The Commons at the College's Cranford Campus, and in the Office of Student Services at the Elizabeth and Plainfield Campuses. Availability will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Those interested in further information should call Fred Perry, the College's director of the Campus Center/athletics, Cranford Campus, at 709-7093; rosanna Hunt, student services coordinator, Elizabeth Campus, at 965-6039, or Rita Weil, student services coordinator, Plainfield Campus, at 412-3580.

YBA bowlers mow down the pins

The Youth Bowlers Club conducted a junior scholarship bowling tournament at Eagle Rock Lanes in West Orange, N.J., on Feb. 12. A total of 33 boys and girls participated in the event with the top five advancing to a television-style stepladder finals.

A total of 10 bowlers participated in our optional Scratch Series Scholarship of $50 which was won by Raymond Ocejo from Belleville with an 800 scratch four-game series. The high scratch game winner was Terrance Eason from Orange with a 246 in his fourth game.

In the first match of the stepladder finals Jordan Straff from Livingston defeated Jermaine Wilson from Irvington 228-224. In the second match George Ninos from Belleville defeated Straff 236-221.

In the third match, Ninos defeated Kari Moore from Newark 224-209. In the final match our tournament leader Jason Payne from Irvington defeated Ninos 244-214.

The top five shared in a scholarship fund of $203 — $104 for first, $50 for second, $20 for third, $15 for fourth and $14 for fifth. The tournament winner also received a plaque and a free entry into the YBC tournament which will be held at Hanover Lanes in East Hanover of Feb. 26.

Legends headline Roselle card show

Roselle Catholic High School Men's Association will host it's seventh annual comic, baseball card and sports collectable show on Saturday, Apr. 8, in the school's gym on Raritan Road. The show will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The show will feature four of baseball's legends — including the pitchers of Mickey Mantle's first and last homerun.

Randy Gumpert, who pitched for the New York Yankees from 1946-1948 and was a member of the 1947 world championship team. Gumpert's claim to fame was giving up Mantle's first homerun pitching for the Chicago White Sox on May 1, 1951.

Jim Lonborg, who pitched for the Boston Red Sox from 1965-1971, won the American League Cy Young Award in 1967 and went 22-9 in 1969. He threw Mantle's 536th homerun on Sept. 20, 1968, for the Red Sox. Gumpert and Lonborg will be appearing for the first time at the cardshow and will be signing between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Carl Erskine, the legendary pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers from 1948-1957 and member of the 1955 World Champion Dodgers, will be signing autographs between 12 p.m and 3 p.m.

Tommy Hendrich, "Old Reliable," was a legendary outfielder for the New York Yankees from 1937-1950. Old Reliable will be signing autographs from 1 p.m to 4 p.m.

A donation of $3 for adults and $.99 for children under the age of 12 will be collected for admission. Proceeds will benefit the Roselle Catholic Baseball program.

Yolanda Creative Concepts provides hair, eye services

What is corrective haircoloring?

• Susan is an enthusiastic teen-ager who tried to turn her dark brunette hair to ash blonde with one-step tint in time for the senior prom. This is a corrective haircoloring situation.

• Mrs. Jones is a new client who left her old salon because she was very unhappy with the work of the colorist. The coloring work is good, but Mrs. Jones does not like it. This is a corrective haircoloring situation.

• Ann Clark is a housewife whose children has left home. She's ready to "do something." This is a corrective haircoloring situation.

Corrective haircoloring is color change. It is not always the correction of color that was poorly done. Often, corrective haircoloring is a change in color that the client simply does not like. It's a color change from something she does not like to something she does like.

The following are "how to" tips for the perfect "I Do":

Regardless of the type of wedding you are having, either formal or informal, there is yet another detail to see to, before the big event — a visit to your professional beauty salon.

Usually, the bride has a pretty good idea about how she wants to look. She chose the wedding dress, the flowers, and the caterer to complement the mental picture she has for "her" day.

As far as a hairstyle, we have found that no matter the trend, the bride-to-be usually leans toward a traditional look, with an eye to the contemporary.

In order to create your most flattering style, brides-to-be should consult with their stylist well in advance of the big day to discuss the head-piece they plan to wear and have it on hand two weeks before the wedding, the ideal time for a trial run.

Bride's time-table:

Three weeks before: Perm, if needed.

Two weeks before: Hair color, if needed; planning of style and make-up. Brides should take their head-piece along.

Three to four days before: Waxing, including leg, bikini, underarm, facial waxing.

The day before: Facial, manicure, pedicure.

The wedding day: Hair, make-up.

All of these services are available at Yolanda Creative Concepts, 326 Chestnut St., Union.

Beauty tips

To widen close-set eyes, stroke dark shadow on the outer half of the lid toward the temple, lighter colors into inner corners of the eye.

After 35, skin tends to be drier. Don't go anywhere — even to bed — without a moisturizer.

Ridges across fingernails usually come from illness or injury when the nail was forming. Use ridge-filling polish until it grows out. Or treat yourself to a manicure,

Off-premise catering is offered by Cioffi's

Planning your wedding and other related events should be an exciting and pleasurable time in your life. Sometimes, the number of choices and selections, as well as the costs involved can seem overwhelming to the prospective bride, bridegroom and their families.

Additionally, some find that many banquet halls and traditional reception sites do not offer the flexibility necessary to personalize this important day. Considering an off-premise caterer may offer some solutions.

Cioffi's is an off-premise full-service catering company. It can recommend a number of facilities ranging from country settings, to club-like ballrooms. And, of course, they are happy to cater "at home weddings."

As a full service caterer, Cioffi's coordinates the three components necessary for your event: wonderful foods, tenting and other rentals, and experience and friendly service staff for these related items.

Feel free to stop in and visit Cioffi's, which is located at 762 Mountain Ave., Springfield.

Helmar Fashions offers 23 years in the business

Helmar Fashions offers customers the dependable service of 23 years of experience in the bridal business.

The owner, Maria Kranke, established her first bridal shop in 1972 in Linden and moved to Elm Street in Westfield in 1976. After four years, due to lease expiration and increased business, it became necessary to move to the present location on North Avenue with a larger store area and ample parking for customers.

Experience is an important factor when it comes to planning a once-in-a-lifetime affair like a wedding. Everybody involved in the planning of this wedding wants to feel confident that every dress ordered will arrive in the correct size and color, will be custom fitted to perfection and ready in time for the wedding — be it the wedding gown, the mothers of the wedding, the bridesmaids, or the flower girl.

Kranke has given this feeling of confidence to everyone of her customers, and being in this business for 23 years, 19 of which have been in Westfield, as well as numerous repeat customers, proves it.

At Hayeck's, we 'cater' to your needs

The majority of your wedding day will be spent at the reception, making the choice of this establishment possibly even more important than the ceremony location. Be sure to choose a caterer who is willing to work with you to make this part of your day as memorable as the moment you said, "I do."

Choosing Hayeck's Caterers could take all the worry about the food you plan to serve. The Hayeck family has been catering since 1913. Fred and Sam Hayeck are experienced in planning your banquet and can offer affordability and practicality to meet any budget, whether it be a sit-down dinner or buffet style.

The newly decorated dining room is brightly lit by day and can become a romantic candle light affair by night. The room can accommodate groups from 20 to 50. The large room is well suited for rehearsal dinners, weddings, showers and corporate affairs.

Off-premise catering is also a specialty. Whether it be in a church hall, mansion, garden or home, we can take care of everything for you.

Hayeck's main concern is to offer the bride and bride-groom value along with honest advice.

"When comparing caterers, it is always important to be very clear on what you're getting for your money," said Hayeck. "Some packages may include flowers, linens, wedding cake, taxes and gratuities, while others will charge extra for some of these things," Hayeck said.

Entrees can include continental, Italian, German, Polish or French cuisine.

Hayeck's Caterers is located in Cranford at 515 Centennial Ave. It is centrally located off the Garden State Parkway Exit 136 and is convenient for guests traveling from anywhere in New Jersey, New York or Pennsylvania.

UNION COUNTY NEWS

A WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER — THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1995 — SECTION B

From The Editor's Notebook

By Tom Canavan
Editor In Chief

Sometimes we find ourselves in a position to comment about a subject, but our opinions cannot be expanded upon beyond three or four paragraphs.

It's the praise we'd like to bestow on a resident who volunteered his or her time to improve the quality of life in a town, or the student who walked away from a graduation ceremony with the most scholarship awards because he or she worked hard during four years of high school. It's also the criticism we'd like to bestow on our elected officials who simply did not act in the best interests of their constituents.

So, I present the Darts and Laurels column, which I hope to provide to readers every fourth Thursday of the month.

DART: To the Union Township Committee for its ridiculous attempt to suspend Tax Collector Joe Kmet. In Union Township, there's a power struggle going on among the five-member governing body, and its aim is to create a new political era with a new political name, similar to the Biertuempful era and the Russo era.

None of the five has been able to accomplish this and, quite frankly, I can't ever imagine one day this being called the Petti era. It would be too laughable.

Regardless, because of the power struggle, the Union Township Committee is making ridiculous alliances which will cause ridiculous mistakes.

LAUREL: To Departments of Public Works crews throughout the county who were prepared for the first snowstorm of the year and opened most roads to vehicular traffic. Thankfully, the storm occurred during the night on Friday and into Saturday morning, therefore avoiding a morning rush hour mess.

DART: To Hillside Township Clerk Charlotte DeFillipo, who everytime she [illegible] to talk to me has someone call for her. "Please call Charlotte at 926-3000" the familiar voice says on the voice mail system. Or, "Please hold for Charlotte." If I answer the telephone. If Charlotte wants to talk to me, I should hear her voice on the other end of the telephone asking for me.

DART: To Citizens Against Government Waste, for sending 11 copies of its Government Waste Watch newspaper to the same Post Office box of this company's newspapers. One is enough. Eleven is a waste.

DART: To President Bill Clinton [illegible] to set government

UCUA on call for recycling aid

The Union County Utilities Authority recently hosted a seminar for public and private school systems to help them implement effective recycling programs.

The seminar, "Recycling in Union County Schools," was open to both public and private school systems and attracted more than 60 school officials.

The UCUA's event, held on Jan. 26, is the first such initiative in the state. School systems are required to recycle under the county's solid waste management plan. The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection has made school recycling a priority and requires each county to sponsor a seminar on school recycling.

Active participation by area schools is essential to the county's overall recycling success. "The county's schools are large producers of potential recyclables but there have been no coordinated efforts to recycle this material," said UCUA Chairwoman Blanche Banasiak.

During the seminar, experts from the UCUA, the DEP, waste haulers and area municipalities offered guidance on ways schools can participate in various recycling programs. The UCUA was represented by Executive Director Jeffrey Callahan and District Recycling Coordinator Marian Swiontkowski.

The economic benefits of recycling were emphasized during the conference. "People always assume that recycling only involves extra costs, but that is not always the case," said Banasiak. "For example, the avoidance of disposal fees and the potential generation of revenues often compensate for the costs of recycling. Beyond economic reasons, natural resource conservation and pollution prevention are the primary reasons to recycle."

In addition, the UCUA sponsors a used fluorescent bulb recycling program that allows school districts, businesses and municipalities employing more than 100 people to dispose of their used bulbs at a rate cheaper than what would be charged if they contracted for this service on their own.

The UCUA offers schools the following programs and information:

- Tools for teaching materials;
- Recycling directory;
- Recycling Ranger assembly program;
- UCUA mascot curriculum, and
- Home composting classes for high school students.

UCUA personnel are available to meet with school representatives to assist with their recycling programs. For more information, contact Swiontkowski at (908) 382-9400.

Seized drug monies boost sheriff's fleet

Union County Sheriff Ralph Froehlich intends to use the nearly $120,000 in funds seized during drug arrests to beef up his department's vehicular fleet.

The sheriff's office received two checks totaling $119,593 from John J. Coleman, special agent in charge of the Newark Branch of the Drug Enforcement Administration. These checks represent a percentage of confiscated drug monies intercepted through the assistance of the sheriff's K-9 handlers and drug detection dogs.

Froehlich intends to use these funds to help restructure his fleet of vehicles, which has deteriorated during previous years. "Capital equipment has received a low priority during periods of fiscal restraint and I must take creative measures to bring my fleet of vehicles up to a safe and operational level where I can satisfy my mandated functions," said the sheriff.

Portions of these funds also will be directed toward domestic violence, senior citizens and community education programs, the sheriff noted.

On July 12, 1994, Sheriff's Officer Brian Way, along with K-9 Falco, responded to DEA Headquarters in Newark and conducted a search of a non-contaminated area. Falco helped law enforcement authorities prove $39,900 previously seized from Tony Brand and David Evans was involved in narcotics trafficking, according to the sheriff's office.

On Aug. 30, 1994, Sheriff's Officer Mark Banek, along with K-9 Max, responded to DEA Headquarters in Newark at the request of Special Agent Treva T. Whitefield. Max was taken to a non-contaminated area where he conducted a drug/sniff search and helped authorities prove that $368,505 the DEA recovered had been involved in narcotic trafficking, according to the sheriff's office. This money had been seized from George Gonzalez.

The Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984 allows law enforcement authorities to seize money used in narcotic trafficking and redistribute this money to law enforcement agencies to fund the war on drugs.

Specially trained dogs like Max and Falco, along with their handlers, enable these seizures to take place. The accuracy of the dogs and the ability of the handlers to perform necessary sniff tests have been tested and upheld in federal and state courts. "This act enables law enforcement to take the profitability out of narcotic trafficking and use these funds for the public good," said Froehlich.

The sheriff, in recognition of the cooperation that exists between the DEA and the his office, presented distinguished service certificates to the following agents: Coleman, Whitfield, Group Supervisor Stephen J. Moran and special agents Joseph P. McGinty, Earl W. Fielder, Jorge Marrero, Brent Edwards, John Post, Alex Koumanelis and Mark A. Rusin.

"I'm proud of my officers and the DEA. When law enforcement agencies come together and put aside questions of jurisdictional authority they have the strength to overcome the efforts of organized criminal activity. Today's presentation of funds and awards represents the successful culmination of this type of cooperation," the sheriff stated.

County program warns of storms before they happen

By Chris Gatto
Regional Editor

The lack of severe weather conditions hindering Union County motorists from getting to their destinations this winter is not stopping officials from readying themselves for a potential storm.

Last winter, which brought a multitude of snow storms that ravaged the county and state, served as a wake-up call, and county officials don't want motorists to be caught sleeping at the wheel so to speak this year. Officials hope to steer motorists away from the dumb luck approach employed by many last year when choosing a route to work, home or anywhere else for that matter.

During a Feb. 8 press conference at the Union County Administration Building in Elizabeth, officials announced the formation of a service to provide notification to travelers of impending weather emergencies.

Ice and snow storms paralyzed routes 78, 22 and the Garden State Parkway during the winter of 1993-94, causing travelers to be trapped in traffic jams for periods of 10 hours or more in some occasions.

"We'll never forget it," said Ben Laganga, coordinator of the Union County Office of Emergency Management.

Freeholder Henry W. Kurz, county OEM liaison, agreed. "The severity took everyone by surprise. At rush hour, many motorists frequently had no idea how road conditions were," Kurz recalled.

"The real tragedy of last winter was that many of those who were stuck in traffic, ice or snow could have avoided those mishaps had they been aware of what they would be up against when traveling a particular route. Laganga pointed out that had "real time" current traffic advisory information been made available to motorists via the local media and other sources, incidents may have been avoided.

This has spurred the OEM to form a Union County travel advisory partnership with an assortment of public and private entities. Participants include The Salvation Army, American Red Cross, AAA New Jersey Automobile Club, the Union County Freeholders, the New Jersey Department of Transportation, municipal police and public works departments, Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Services, an official unit of the OEM at the county and municipal level, and local media — radio, television, and newspapers.

According to Laganga, a phased response to winter weather events and other emergencies such as floods, hurricanes and chemical spills has been developed. These incidents will be classified in various phases. "During each phase, OEM will be gathering information from our partners and monitoring its impact on local roadways," said Laganga.

Phase I will represent an "alert" situation. If, for example, an incident such as a winter storm with no real expected accumulation is identified, the county will maintain normal staffing levels at its command center in Westfield and continue to monitor the situation with its partners.

If a storm in classified as Phase II, Kurz stated, the incident is likely to impact the county with minor disruption of services and travel. A Phase III event would be expected to result in significant delays and disruption. If that incident has or will impact the county with definite disruption of services and travel, and pose an imminent threat to life and property, it will be upgraded to Phase IV.

"At that point, we're going to be transmitting via fax and phone, travel advisories to our partners," stated Laganga. "Radio and cable stations will be asked to make ongoing travel advisory announcements, large businesses will be contacted regarding the best time to send employees home, Red Cross and The Salvation Army will begin to open reception centers near major roadways, and AAA will advise its emergency road sesrvice facilities and members of the situation via a telephone recording."

In addition to the incident classification levels, the American Red Cross, The Salvation Army and AAA are working to educate area motorists about the importance of being prepared in advance of a winter storm or other emergency.

"The position at the American Red Cross is that knowledge is one of the best defenses against disaster," said Anne Dashevsky, disaster coordinator for the Eastern Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross. "In addition to establishing and staffing reception centers, our chapter is also encouraging the media to share our safety tips with the public."

Pam Fischer, assistant vice president of Public Relations and Safety for AAA in Florham Park, indicated that the club has provided numerous free safe winter driving workshops for area businesses and community groups during the past two months. "It's evident by the number of workshops we've conducted, that area motorists are anxious to learn what they should do in advance of a winter storm," she said.

"This is just the kind of intergovernmental and inter-agency cooperation that serves our customers — the people of Union County," stated Union County Manager Ann Baran.

For information about winter emergency preparedness, contact the Eastern Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross at (908) 353-2500, The Salvation Army at (908) 851-9300 or AAA at (201) 377-7200, Ext. 274.

Women of status sought for display on history

The Union County Commission on the Status of Women and the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs are inviting the public to submit names of prominent women in Union County history to be included in a display on women's history they are sponsoring.

The exhibit, titled "Moving Forward: Notable Women of Union County," will feature women who have made significant contributions to society and women's civil rights through their careers and public service.

The women selected for the display may be from any period in history and their achievements should reflect the courage and foresight to "move forward" despite any obstacles. The fields include, but are not limited to education, the arts, medicine, science and technology, law, business, social service, government, sports, law enforcement, journalism and volunteerism.

Anyone interested in submitting nominees for the exhibit should send a brief biography of each woman, along with the name, date of birth, and for those deceased, date of death, field of accomplishment; a brief description of why this woman should be included in the exhibit; any photographs of the nominee, if available or sources for photos, and the name, address and phone number of the person submitting the nominee's name.

Send names to the Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs via fax at (908) 352-3513 or mail to Barbara Fuller, Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 633 Pearl St., Elizabeth 07202. Deadline is March 8.

Government is too intrusive in our lives as it is, and during a time when more and more people are calling for less and less government, I think our president should have more on his mind than worrying about ending a baseball strike. Oh, I don't know, how about reducing the national debt?

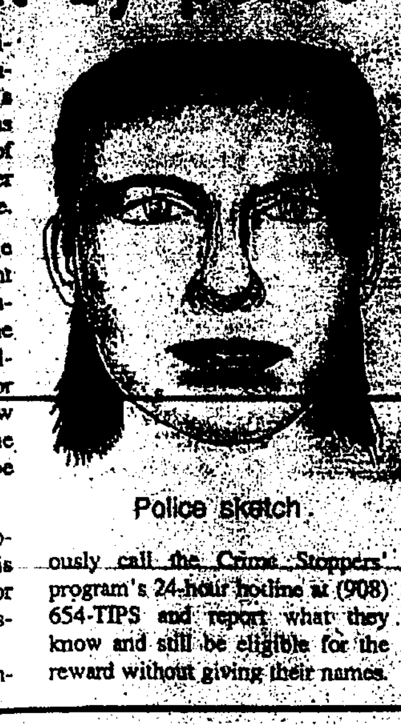
Graffiti witness sought by police



Police sketch

The Union County Prosecutor's Office and Kean College of New Jersey's Campus Police are seeking the identity of an individual that may be a witness to anti-Semitic and anti-black graffiti occurring in the college library between mid-October and the last week of December.

Police investigators are seeking this individual for questioning. Police are interested in talking to anyone that may know the identity of the individual in the composite sketch as well as anyone having information concerning incidents of bias-related graffiti occurring at the college.

Detective Steve Siegel of the Union County Prosecutor's Office, (908) 527-4500 and Sgt. Al Sager, (908) 527-2236, of the campus police are investigating the incidents.

College law enforcement officials have been working in conjunction with the prosecutor's office, State Police and the Bias Crimes Unit of the Division of Criminal Justice in an undercover effort to make an arrest in the case.

In a statement to the college community last month, President Elsa Gomez expressed the institution's sadness and outrage at the incidents. "Not one of us will tolerate bigotry, discrimination or bias. Laws of the State of New Jersey are being enforced on the campus and this will continue to be a priority," she said.

The Union County Crime Stoppers Program has announced it is posting a reward of up to $5,000 for the arrest and indictment of suspects in this case.

Siegel said tipsters can anonymously call the Crime Stoppers' program's 24-hour hotline at (908) 654-TIPS and report what they know and still be eligible for the reward without giving their names.

Don't throw it away! Recycle it, say citizens

By Andrew J. Stewart
Staff Writer

Household garbage is not just useless trash. That was the message the Concerned Citizens of Union County presented on Saturday in a recycling and composting workshop at the Rahway High School cafeteria.

Members of the Rahway-based anti-incineration group showed different methods of reducing the amount of waste generated by a household, as well as ways to re-use items that would normally be trashed and burned. They also invited Trina Paulus of Montclair to explain her composting techniques, which have been profiled in The New York Times by its gardening editor.

Recyclable material does find its way into the waste stream that ends at the Union County Resource Recovery facility because of non-compliance with recycling regulations, and nearly 38 percent of the trash burned at the waste-to-energy facility is paper or paperboard, which can be recycled but is not when produced by households, Concerned Citizens Vice Chair Robert Carson said. In addition, much of the non-recyclable materials such as food and wood are compostable and do not have to be thrown away, he added.

"Most of this recycling and composting is the appplication of common sense," Carson said. "It's actually hard to find something that's not recyclable or compostable."

Many items that are recyclable and are not picked up by certain municipalities can be taken to recycling centers by residents themselves, he said. The waste disposal system itself discourages recycling by making it more convenient to simply throw items away, he added.

"It's convenient not to recycle because people make it convenient not to recycle," Carson said.

Concerned Citizens member Fran Cagnassola said the paper products from households that are burned could and should be recycled.

"Every single solitary piece of that paper can be recycled," she said.

Food scraps make up about 6.7 percent of the incinerator's waste stream, Carson said. That could be eliminated through composting, he added.

"You don't have to deal with this if you compost it," Carson said.

Paulus said all oraganic materials can be composted, which turns the garbage into a dark, earthy material that is ideal as a fertilizer. The methods used in composting are quite varied, she said.

"There are probably as many ways to do composting as there are people who do it," said Paulus, who is also the author and illustrator of the book "Hope for the Flowers," which has sold more than a million copies since its 1972 publication and has been printed in four languages.

Her method of choice for composting is worm boxes, which contain soil, a bed of newspaper, and a 50/50 combination of green material such as grass to supply nitrogen and brown material like dead leaves for carbon, she said. The key ingredient is the worms themselves, though. The type best used for composting are known as red wrigglers, which consume most of the food scraps that are thrown in the box, she said.

"You can put an apple core in here and in a week it will be gone," Paulus said. There are many other substances that the worms break down, she added.

"They're wild about coffee grounds," Paulus said. They do not consume much meat however, she added.

The worm boxes themselves are convenient because they do not have to be turned over the way outdoor compost piles do, she said. They are also the best way for people living in an apartment to compost, she said.

"Worm boxes make it possible to compost inside your house," Paulus said. "It's portable. No one ever has to know you have worms in there."

Proper ventilation on the boxes endures that there is no foul odor that is often associated with compost, she said.

Gordon leads WalkAmerica birthday bash

Susan Gordon will lead Union County residents on the road to healthier babies for the North Jersey Chapter during the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation's 25th Anniversary of WalkAmerica.

As chairwoman of March of Dimes WalkAmerica taking place at Union County College, Gordon, assistant director of public relations for the Office of College Relations at Kean College, will oversee the recruitment and organizational activities for WalkAmerica, the first, biggest and most successful walking event of its kind in the nation.

March of Dimes WalkAmerica returns to Union County College on April 30 to celebrate its silver anniversary and 25 years on the road to healthier babies.

"I'm walking for all the babies who will be born healthy as a result of pioneering March of Dimes research, education and community programs," said Gordon, chairwoman of Union County WalkAmerica. "This is the sixth year I have been participating in March of Dimes WalkAmerica, and I am honored to be part of this great event which is so critical to giving New Jersey babies the chance to be born healthy."

Last year, close to 1,000 walkers in Union County raised more than $95,000 for the North Jersey Chapter and the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies. During the past 25 years, WalkAmerica has raised millions of dollars resulting in milestones and "healthy baby advances" in maternal and child health such as:

- Development of sufactant therapy to treat respiratory distress syndrome, which previously accounted for 8,000 newborn deaths a year;
- Establishment of a regionalized system of neonatal intensive care units to provide specialized care for sick and premature babies;
- Creation of MomMobiles to bring prenatal care directly to women who wouldn't otherwise get it, and
- A 1994 nationwide campaign to inform every woman in America that taking the B vitamin folic acid can prevent some of the most severe birth defects, neural tube defects.

To register or for more information about WalkAmerica, the March of Dimes or to request a Think Ahead! pre-pregnancy planning packet, call the North Jersey chapter at (201) 882-0700.

Speedy Car Wash outshines the rest

It's located in an industrial area on Lehigh Avenue — not exactly the kind of place you might expect to find a car wash; but somehow the Speedy Car Wash has managed to do quite nicely over the past 20 years.

"The thing that's been interesting is that there's no other commerce on the street," said owner Gene Rooney, "but there are people who go far out of their way to come to us."

According to Rooney, who has operated the business for the past 20 years, the customer receives the best possible service at a reasonable price.

During winter months, Speedy Car Wash completely removes road salt from vehicles.

At Speedy Car Wash, an exterior wash goes for about $2 less than the average car wash, a competitive price in a business where customers can be charged $7 simply for an exterior wash, not to mention amenities such as hot wax.

Rooney, though, at his totally "brushless" operation, provides more than just a lower price, while providing personalized service in what can be a very impersonal, high volume business.

In addition, the Speedy Car Wash offers free, self-service mat washing equipment, something many other car washes dispense only for an extra charge. Speedy also offers coin-operated, self-service vacuum cleaners.

Rooney always keeps his equipment up to date, replacing washing equipment as part of an ongoing commitment to giving the best wash for the money.

"There's no equipment in the world that will do an absolutely perfect wash," he explained, adding, however, that a little extra effort can produce a superior service.

At Speedy Car Wash, Rooney's employees take time to wash off excess dirt from every vehicle before it even enters the conveyor — and the workers must greet each customer courteously because it is their job to do so.

When the car wash is not operating, Rooney is still busy keeping all equipment in working order.

"We've really done a lot of maintenance on our equipment," he said. "I think that our assemblage of equipment is superior to most other car washes in the area."

During winter months, Speedy Car Wash is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Seminar is slated for elderly

The Senior Citizens Council of Union County will hold a seminar on April 5 at the F. Edward Biertuempfel Senior Center, 2165 Morris Ave., Union.

Registration for the program begins at 9 a.m. Ann Conti, Union County surrogate, will be guest speaker and discuss "You and the Law." Joann Mason, field representative for the Division on Aging, will moderate and speak of "Housing Options in Union County."

Other speakers will include "Mr. Medicare" Sam Vitale, who has been appointed by Rep. Bob Franks, R-7, as his representative to the 1995 White House Conference on Aging in Washington. Vitale will speak on "Understanding the In's & Outs of Medicare."

Following a coffee break, Nanette Asuncion, a geriatric nurse practitioner from Union Hospital, will speak on Health and Wellness. John Pavlinec, financial planner for the Senior Council, will discuss what seniors can do to increase and preserve their assets and reduce tax liability and Arthur Guarriello, an insurance specialist, will discuss long-term health care and auto insurance.

Lunch will be served at noon. At 12:45 p.m., Dr. Richard Stone, gerontologist and program coordinator for the Senior Council will speak about "Preparing for Retirement" mentally and socially, avoiding boredom and the retention of a sharp memory.

From 1:15 to 1:45 p.m., Milton Shumsky, president of the Elan Institute for Effective Living and Consultants in Human Energy Conservation, will speak on "How to Listen to Your Body and Stay Healthy: Conserving Your Most Precious Resource."

Information tables will be open so that people may ask questions and pick up materials on subjects of interest. The seminar will close at 2:30 p.m. Lunch will be included with a registration fee of $5. Mail checks to: Senior Council, 2165 Morris Ave., Union 07083.

Correction

Two of the women scheduled to be honored by the Union County Commission on the Status of Women were inaccurately identified in last week's newspaper.

Those recipients and their categories should have been identified as follows: business/economics — [illegible] Yankilis, vice president of Summit Bank in Elizabeth, and Margaret Coloney, founder and president of Center of Hope, Inc. in Linden.

Tech Prep to ready youths for future

The Union County Tech Prep has entered into articulation agreements with seven Union County high schools and the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools, Scotch Plains, to prepare students for the 21st century.

The agreement, which will be in effect this school year, calls for faculties and those from participating post-secondary institutions to develop collectively a curriculum in Office Systems Technology to ready students for a career in the ever-changing future.

Union County College, one of two post-secondary institutions in the Tech Prep consortium, in addition to Union County Vocational-Technical Schools, has entered into agreements with the Abraham Clark High School, Roselle; Elizabeth High School; Linden High School; Plainfield High School; Rahway High School; Roselle Park High School; and Union High School.

The purpose of the agreements is to provide a mechanism enabling high school students to continue their education at Union County College with a coordinated curriculum that assures continuity in instruction and eliminates duplication of educational experiences.

Under the Office Systems Technology agreements, the curriculum would be "seamless" in that it would start introducing subjects in this career area in the 11th grade of high school, and continue that thrust through high school graduation and into post-secondary education.

The major objective of the schools participating in the articulation agreement is to provide for the transition of students to UCC without delay or disruption to their educational program.

Continued planning, evaluation and program improvement of activities are integral parts of the articulation effort including continued meetings of the Office Systems Technology curriculum committee to update the scope, sequence, content, and instructional strategies and activities. Program content evaluations will be conducted annually to reflect the prevailing labor market demands, with curriculum revisions appropriately implemented.

Specific program committees made up of a consortium of secondary school instructors, UCC instructors, and advisory committee members will meet as required by a steering committee to discuss, develop and agree upon a coordinated curriculum that will contain sequenced instructions from secondary through post-secondary education.

Criteria for admission to the UCC program in Office Systems Technology will include taking the New Jersey Basic Skills Test and passing any developmental English and/or mathematics courses, as required by performances on that test and matriculation in the Office Systems Technology program.

Other participating institutions in the Tech Prep consortium include Hillside High School, the Union County Regional High School District, Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School and Lincoln Technical Institute, Union.

One of the goals of the Tech Prep project is to increase the representation of groups traditionally underrepresented in selected occupations, and thus increase the recruitment and retention of special populations in the Tech Prep programs.

The Tech Prep concept was formulated based on a sense nationwide that the quality of education in the U.S. needs to be improved in order for this country to be globally competitive in the next century. However, a balance is needed between technical course work and academic course work so that the offerings are responsive to employer needs and state-mandated competencies. There is a growing realization that an integrated approach is required in technical education that provides a foundation for lifelong learning and supports changing individual and societal needs.

Investors grabs three offices

Investors Savings Bank of Millburn has acquired three offices previously held by Carteret Federal Savings Bank of New Jersey pending final approval by regulatory authorities.

Patrick J. Grant, president of Investors Savings Bank, announced that the three offices were purchased from the Resolution Trust Corporation, which has served as conservator of Carteret since Dec. 2, 1992.

The offices are located at 56 Westfield Ave., Clark; General Greene Shopping Center, Mountain and Morris avenues, Springfield, and Rickel Shopping Center, Springfield Road and Route 22, Union.

Investors Savings Bank is headquartered at 249 Millburn Ave. in Millburn. The bank is an Equal Housing Lender and a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Swashbuckling production 'Zenda' is truly captivating

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

theater review

Everyone at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn is having a swashbuckling good time — onstage and in the audience — as the marvelous classic tale of "The Prisoner of Zenda" excitedly unfolds.

It's a fun show and has all the ingredients of being a hit show in its original stage production.

"The Prisoner of Zenda," which has been done numerous times in movies under that title and under other titles including "The Man in the Iron Mask," and more recently "Dave" and "Moon Over Parador," was adapted to the stage by Peter Manos from the 1890 Anthony Hope novel.

And in its world premiere here at the Paper Mill, in all of its trappings, it is charming, captivating and ofttimes breathtaking, particularly in the sword-fighting scenes. With the brilliant director Robert Johanson at the reins — one can actually feel his presence in certain lines and scenes — the marvelous array of performers in one or more roles, the colorful costumes of that era, with credit to Gregg Barnes, and the incredible scenery by the "he gets better and better all the time" Michael Anania, the Paper Mill has another absolute hit.

The audience is delightfully treated to a tongue-in-cheek adventure story of a young English gentleman, Rudolph Rassendyll, marvelously played by Jonathan Wade, scorned for his idle ways by his sister-in-law, Rose, Lady Burlesdon, comically portrayed by Nancy Bell, and admired by his rather stuffy brother, Robert, Lord of Burlesdon, played by Michael James Reed, an actor of great versatility. Rose arranges for Rudy to accept an ambassadorship position in the fictitious Kingdom of Ruritania so that he can become a respectable individual.

The British rake leaves Burlesdon Hall in England and arrives in Ruritania on the day before the Crown Prince of Ruritania is to become king. What he doesn't know is that he is the image of the future king — curly red hair and all — and that's where the fun begins. The Crown Prince, also played by Wade, is a somewhat effeminate, playful, man-child, who would rather shoot quail than show affection for his betrothed, lovely Princess Flavia, portrayed with comic beauty and charm by Bell. Then, of course, there is the sinister Michael, Duke of Zenda, the Prince's younger brother, in a dual role by Reed, who covets both the crown and his brother's queen-to-be, and sets out with his capricious henchman, Rupert of Hentzau, powerfully played by Tito Enriquez, to stealthly capture the Prince and throw him into the dungeons in Zenda.

And so the chase begins and before long, Colonel Sapt, the Prince's chief advisor, marvelously portrayed by John Wylie, enlists the aid of Rudy to take the Crown Prince's place at the Coronation and thus, into the arms of Princess Flavia. The comic antics of Therese M. McLaughlin, who plays Freda the bar-maid, a real scene stealer, who also pays Olive, a maid, and Steve Boles, equally funny as Johann, a tavern-keeper, who also plays Burton, a butler, and the jailor, are highlighted throughout the play.

It is rare that an audience becomes so engulfed in the clever staging and the meticulous timing of an actor in a dual role, especially when he has to be in two places at the same time. One never questions the movie scenes in such situations because it is done so frequently and so easily on the big screen. But when it comes to the stage, one must give credit where credit is due. And that is to the agile Wade and to Johanson, the play's director. One also must admire Bell for her quick changes in costume and personality.

And speaking of timing, it was due to Johanson's success in finding a fight choreographer, Rick Sordelet, the Super Bowl halftime entertainer, who directed the fights for Broadway's "Beauty and the Beast," to direct the sword-fighting scenes in "The Prisoner of Zenda." Thanks to the precise, minute directing of really exciting sword fights — and from the fifth row, those swords look good and sharp — and the assistance of fight captain J. David Brimmer, and Johanson, the audience seems riveted to its seat apprehending a wrong move. But, alas with the professionalism of both directors, the fight captain and the movements of the actors in the cast, all goes well. Brimmer, incidentally, plays the role of Bersonin, a swordsman in the employ of Duke Michael.

The background music is appropriately provided of Franz Liszt and his middle-European compositions, beautifully arranged by composer Albert Evans.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is certainly a change from the previous offerings from the Paper Mill. But it is a delightful, exceptionally entertaining change, even for children. And the best part about this world premiere production is that it has the promising aspects of a Broadway-bound play.

Next stop — Broadway?

Art is exhibited

Frank Lacano prepares work for exhibition in his show, 'A Love Affair with the USA,' which will open Feb. 26 at the Les Malamut Art Gallery, Union Public Library, Friberger Park on Morris Avenue, Union. The on the spot paintings will include watercolors, oils, acrylics, drawings and sculptures. The show will run through April 6.

Rock group set Feb. 25

Tom Loffa of T-Rock Productions will serve as host to a classic rock 'n' roll show at the Union County Arts Center, 1601 Irving St., Rahway, Feb. 25 at 7 p.m.

Opening the show will be a local alternative five man rock band, Bad Attitude, based in Rahway, with three of its members from Rahway, Jamie Heath, vocals; Michael Leonard, guitars and backing vocals, and Richard Wittek, guitars. The others are Pat McFadden and Tom Corea.

Headlining the show will be the southern rock 'n' roll sounds of Molly Hatchet, at 10 p.m. along with special guest, Mountain, at 8:45 p.m., a group known for its 1960s and 1970s hits, and has returned to the stage in the 1990s.

Bad Attitude will display its own brand of original rock 'n' roll music on Feb. 25. The Bad Attitude rock band reformed in 1991 when originators of the late 1980s Bad Attitude, Leonard, Wittek and Heath regrouped and brought on new members, McFadden and Corea.

According to its manager, Michael Lalace of Rahway, Bad Attitude, which was formed in 1988, and played local sites, served as the opening act in 1993 for the Marshall Tucker Band at the Stony Pony Big Top; The Outlaws, the Michael McDermott Band, Ace Frehley and Rick Derringer. In 1994, the group served as the opening act for the Marshall Tucker Band, The Outlaws and the Smithereens Band.

The group is getting ready to launch its first CD with 12 original songs, and will continue to entertain in such places as Kenny's Castaways in New York City, March 3; Crafts in Metuchen on March 10, Bets, Perth Amboy, March 11; The Waiting Room, Rahway, March 17; Chit-Chats, Dover, March 18, Oasis, Carteret, March 24; Butch Kowals, Rahway, March 25 and The Saint, Asbury Park, March 31.

Tickets for the show is priced between $20 and $30 each. They will be available at the box office on the night of the show and can be reserved by calling (908) 499-8226.

'Lady' cast gathers

'My Fair Lady' will be presented by the Union High School Musical Theater Co. in the auditorium March 31, April 1, April 7 and April 8 at 8 p.m. and April 2 at 2 p.m. Members of the cast and crew take time out to pose for pictures in their 'My Fair Lady' t-shirts before returning to hours and hours of rehearsal for the Lerner-Lowe stage musical.

Salute Women in Arts to exhibit work

Twenty years ago, a small group of artists created a community of creative women, known as Salute to Women in the Arts. Members include literary and performing artists, but most are visual artists.

Salute to Women in the Arts will exhibit work by its members at the Watchung Arts Center from March 1 through 31. The show, covering two-dimensional media, is called "Black & White," although some of the works "may have a splash of color in them." Stephen Sennott, director of City Without Walls, will be the juror, selecting pieces for inclusion, it was reported.

A reception will be held on the afternoon of March 5 to allow the public to meet the artists and discuss their work. Refreshments will be served from 1 to 4 p.m. Gallery hours for the run of the show are weekdays and Saturdays 1 to 4 p.m. There are no admission charges. All displayed pieces are for sale during the exhibition, it was announced.

The Watchung Arts Center exhibits the work of established and emerging artists in an ongoing series of shows that changes each month.

Membership information can be requested by calling (908)753-0190.

Concert talk is presented

Brad Keimach, music director of the Westfield Symphony, recently visited residents of the Westfield Senior housing Center. Keimach discussed the orchestra's spring concert schedule.

Joining Keimach at the center was Kristen Sauer, assistant manager of the Westfield branch of Chemical Bank, New Jersey. "Chemical Bank and its affiliate, Princeton Bank and Trust, have provided a generous grant to underwrite complimentary tickets to Westfield Symphony concerts for center residents," it was reported. Chemical Bank and Princeton Bank join a roster of corporations, foundations and individual donors in supporting the activities of the Westfield Symphony.

The Westfield Symphony's next concert, scheduled for March 4, will feature music for strings. The orchestra will perform Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 6 and Concerto for Two Violins, "Winter" from Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons", and Mendelssohn's Octet in an arrangement for string orchestra. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. at The Presbyterian Church, 140 Mountain Ave., Westfield. Keimach will offer a pre-concert talk at 7 p.m. Tickets are $21 and can be obtained by calling the symphony office at (908) 232-9400.

The Westfield Symphony is a professional orchestra serving northern and central New Jersey with concert presentations and educational programs. The Westfield Symphony has been named a "Distinguished Arts Organization" for 1994-95 by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Free concert planned at Kean

Kean College of New Jersey, Union, will present Katherine Harris, a voice professor at Kean, in a song recital at Wilkins Theater Feb. 28 at 8 p.m.

The concert is free to the general public and no tickets are required.

For further information one can call the box office at (908) 527-2337 or the music department at (908) 527-2107.

DINING REVIEW

CIOFFI'S

Great tasting food definitely makes a lasting impression.

By Mark Devaney
Staff Writer

Great tasting food definitely makes a lasting impression.

I say this now because I remember having the greatest pizza at a place in Springfield back in 1990. Then, I didn't know the name of the place and it wasn't until I moved to Springfield that my tongue prodded my mind about that pizza. In other words, I realized it was Cioffi's on Mountain Avenue in Springfield where that indelible memory was made, and my visit there this week was equally memorable.

Luckily, having sampled the pizza already, I was able to devote my attention to the infinite variety of other Italian treats Cioffi's has to offer.

Indeed Cioffi's is more than just a pizza place — much, much more. I felt I was in my fiancee's grandmother's kitchen as samplings of home-made salads and soups like minestrone, chicken pastina, and escarole and bean were put before me.

Yet the bodies pumping out the food were far from grandmotherly. Cioffi's staff is composed primarily of young men who have the same cooking mentality as the wisest of grandmother chefs. Simply put, they love preparing food and they want you to love eating the food they prepare.

Try slipping some of these into your stomach: bow-tie pasta pesto salad, mushroom and artichoke hearts salad, or boccochini or "Christmas salad," which is mozzarella balls with a touch a sundried tomatoes, arugala and a little garlic.

Nick Piccininno, who was born in Bariase, Italy, disclosed the secret ingredients to his favorite salad, a leafy delight that should make salad lovers salivate. Baby carrots, endive, riddiccio, dandelions, basil and cillantaro, with an "old recipe" dressing made of extra virgin olive oil, aged balsamic vinegar, freshly grated parmesan, freash garlic, fresh basil, ground pepper and, when in season, chopped cherry tomatoes.

Trust me, there's nothing quite like sopping good Italian bread into that mixture. By the way, Cioffi's gets their bread from two of the best known bakeries in the state, Calandra's or Giordano's both in Newark.

Ron Gedman, who cooks most of the specials, spoke about the healthiness of Italian food.

"No. 1 is the freshness. Nine times out of 10 everything is made fresh. Good Italian food is high in carbohydrates, low in fat; there are a lot of beans and pastas and spices that provide energy and are good for you," explained Gedman, who should know — he recently lost 50 pounds since improving his own eating habits and exercise regimen.

Sticking with the types of food he prepares, Gedman insists that the food at Cioffi's is healthy. For example: chicken cordon bleu, stuffed eggplant primavera, spinach ganocchi, and vegetable lasagna. "If we don't make it well, we don't make it," he said.

Evidently, Cioffi's makes it right. Droves of people drive their cars to the place and line up for some of the special lunchtime pleasures Cioffi's has in stock. Thankfully, because there are a number of hands on deck during the lunch rush, patrons are served in a timely manner.

But be warned. If you're looking for a place to sit and eat, you'll have to find it in a park, your car or simply at your workplace; Cioffi's is a takeout place, and that's exactly the way owner Jerry Cioffi wants his place to stay.

"If we had to seat everyone who eats lunch here, we'd need a 500 seat hall," Cioffi remarked.

This column is intended to inform our readers about dining opportunities in the area.

Cioffi's is located on Mountain Avenue in Springfield.

horoscope

Feb. 26-Mar. 4

ARIES – March 21/April 20
Getting rid of an old habit [illegible] monumental personal gains. Tasks that seemed overwhelming are easier than expected. Positive thoughts and constructive deliberations with a mate energize your dynamic side. Your love of fine foods could lead to "weighty" matters.

TAURUS – April 21/May 21
A dilemma that will require patience and tenacity may await you in the coming week. Don't become overly [illegible] if a big event momentarily [illegible]. [illegible] your options is the best way out of a jam. Your creative input concerning a domestic issue eases tensions.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
Losing sight of long-term goals is possible if you're not careful. Pay attention to important issues and you will be generously rewarded in the months to come! Be aware of interpersonal conflict. You can't flatter your way into everyone's heart. Learn from past mistakes.

CANCER – June 22/July 22
Remove your face from the pavement, and try to hold your head high. Not only will you be happier, everyone else will be, too! Exploring some new avenues and letting go of your colossal, diverse insecurities are the ingredients to success and enjoyment in the coming week.

LEO – July 23/August 23
You may soon sense a loss or feel something is missing. The magnanimous expenditure of your spare time, possibly devoted to helping others who are less fortunate, may be your key to personal fulfillment. A smile a day keeps the blues away. Physical activities promote good health!

VIRGO – Aug 24/Sept 22
Be careful not to become overly concerned about financial issues that may eventually take care of themselves. Panicking may be a destructive approach to your problems. A presumptuous colleague at work may be a surprising source of support. Seek exotic locales when planning travel.

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
Work-related vigor may start wearing on your nerves. Practice adaptation. Invest time in treating work-related hangovers. A weekend getaway adds some spring to your step and zest to your persona. Put your serious side at bay, and take time out to enjoy the delights and wonders that life has to offer.

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
Your self-confidence breeds complacency this week. Don't create an embarrassing situation for yourself by letting something crucial slide. The unusual makes for a good night on the town. Don't ignore a clairvoyant flash — your psychic proclivities speak the truth.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov 23/Dec 21
Your charming smile and good-natured attitude will work to your advantage this week. Have some fun, and take advantage of your enchanting ways. Use your [illegible] and talk your way to success at work and play. Watch out for health concerns in the latter part of the week.

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
A midday fantasy results in a new resolve on a lingering issue. Be aggressive with work-related concerns. You benefit by spending extra time each day on a long-term project. Watch out for health-related matters. Don't be too loyal to a lost cause. Be honest with yourself.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
A highly variable week results in numerous ups and downs. Keep focused, and stay on your guard. A touchy situation may leave you exposed and vulnerable. Be sure those you confide in are true confidants. Keep your spirits high. Luck may be around any corner.

PISCES – Feb 19/March 20
Keep an eye on emotional matters in the coming week. A fear of intimacy could be the cause of an emotional loss. Don't be afraid to take the plunge in a romantic matter. Keeping in touch with an old friend results in an unexpected surprise. Your expertise will be called upon.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
This year will go fast, so try to plan it out as carefully as possible. Working with a strong set of goals will help you keep focused and productive. In fact, if you play your cards right, you could reach a level of success you once thought was unattainable. This is especially true if you are involved in writing or graphic design. Romance will be a source of both joy and aggravation this year. Learn to express your emotions, and the rough times won't be so bad. A hobby could turn a profit later in the year. You could even form a mini-business for yourself if you make the time and have the inclination.

U.S. Air Force Band is set in Springfield

The United States Air Force Air Combat Command Heritage of America Band will present an evening of musical entertainment at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School auditorium, Springfield, March 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The concert is free, but tickets are required and can be reserved by calling the high school at (201) 376-6300, ext. 300, it was announced. The concert is sponsored by the Air Force Association-New Jersey, Sal Capriglione Chapter.

The ACC Band will present a program of traditional classics, marches, contemporary selections, a featured soloist, and patriotic music.

Formed in 1941, the band entertains one million people each year in more than 500 performances. It has performed for several presidents of the United States, the president of France, and the Queen of England.

The ACC Heritage of America Band has made significant cultural contributions to communities in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and New Jersey, it was reported. The band with its 60 professional musicians, has received the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award four times and has been presented numerous mayoral and legislative proclamations.

Teen volunteers needed

The Union County Teen Arts Festival will offer an opportunity for volunteers to get involved, and to work with artists, teachers, and students.

The Festival, sponsored by the County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Division of Parks and Recreation, is a two-day celebration of the arts held annually at Union County College, Cranford. The event, scheduled for March 29 and 30, is open to all students from public, private and parochial middle and high schools in the county, it was announced.

"At the Festivals, 3,000 students participate in performances, critiquing seminars, master classes and workshops with a staff of 50 professional artists in every discipline — visual art, music, creative writing, theater and dance," said Freeholder Linda Lee Kelly, liaison to the Union County Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

"Volunteers are needed to assist artists with workshops, manage performance sites and staff information stations" she noted. "We appreciate the invaluable assistance of our County residents with this exciting program."

If anyone is interested in any of these activities, it was announced, one can contact the Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 633 Pearl St., Elizabeth, (908) 558-2550.

Actor to read 'Genesis'

Story-teller-actor Max McLean will take one back to the way the familiar stories in the book of Genesis were originally presented — as tales to be told rather than as manuscripts to be read, it was reported.

Playing weekends Feb. 24 through March 19, McLean will offer a new look at these stories in a solo presentation, "Genesis," at Playwrights Theater of New Jersy, 33 Green Village Road, Madison. Adapted by McLean and Buzz McLaughlin from the first book of the Bible, the performance is directed by Playwrights Theater Producing Artistic Director John Pietrowski.

Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 with matinees performances on Saturday and Sunday at 3. Reservations can be made by calling the theater box office at (201) 514-1940.

Playwrights Theater of New Jersery, a professional, not-for-profit theater, reportedly, is the only theater in the state "dedicated solely to the development of new plays and writers for the stage."

Lupus group sets meeting

The Union County Branch Group of the Lupus Foundation of New Jersey will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Union Hospital, 1000 Galloping Hill Road, Union.

The topic will be announced during the time of the meeting. Patients, families and friends are invited.

Lupus Erythematosus is a chronic, inflammatory disease which afflicts an estimated one million Americans. Lupus can affect the joints, skin, heart, lungs, kidneys and other parts of the body. Although the disease is controllable in most people today, it can be fatal and there is still no known cause or cure.

The Lupus Erythematosus Foundation of New Jersey provides patient and family support services, information and referrals, public education about lupus and funds research projects.

The meeting is free and open to the public. For more information, contact the foundation office in Elmwood Park at (201) 791-7868.

Seminars scheduled to help sell

Century 21 Fred Allen Agency, 1606 [illegible] St. George Avenue, Linden, this month will be offering seminars to educate homeowners who are planning to sell their homes this spring.

"The two consecutive seminars, Setting the Right Asking Price For Your Home and Dressing Your Home for Success, will educate the homeowner on two of the most important aspects of preparing a home for sale," said Fred Allen, broker, "and experienced real estate professionals from our office will be on hand to address questions and concerns with no obligations."

D.J. Scott, vice president of the Fred Allen Agency, stressed the importance of careful market analysis when it comes to selling a home.

"Too often, sellers think they can handle the sale of their home on their own. They jump right in without any preparation. These seminars will give sellers helpful advice as well as provide them with the opportunity to test the waters and gain a head start on the spring market," he said.

The seminars will be held on Feb. 25 and March 4 between 10 a.m. and noon. For more information, contact D.J. Scott at (908) 925-0202.

Satisfaction guaranteed at RE/MAX

Top producer Micki Rosenbloom of RE/MAX Gold in Short Hills is making the ultimate offer to home sellers — if they are not completely satisfied, she will refund her commission.

Rosenbloom is a licensed broker and graduate of the Realtor Institute. Her "Satisfaction Guaranteed" program is a testament to her dedication to her clients and her determination to provide above-the-crowd service.

"RE/MAX associates perform above and beyond other real estate organizations. My program is a personal guarantee that home sellers will receive the outstanding service I promise to them when listing their home," Rosenbloom said. "A promise is worthless when it's broken."

For each homeowner, Rosenbloom will provide a comparative market analysis, continuous advertising, prompt responses to phone inquires, weekly consultations with the homeowners and necessary adjustments in marketing focus, if needed.

"There are basic requirements that the home seller must meet to participate, which involve open communication throughout the transaction. If in the end, the homeowner does not feel that I earned my commission, I will gladly return it. I stand behind my word 100 percent, she said.

Buick's 1995 Roadmaster gets many new improvements

The Buick Roadmaster sedan and Estate Wagon receive a number of improvements for 1995. The Roadmaster wagon is now offered in the more luxurious Limited trim level. Roadmaster Limiteds, both sedans and wagons, have comfortable new front and rear seats.

Other improvements on Roadmaster include a family of user-friendly radios, larger fold-away exterior mirror and on Estate Wagon, a standard "vista" shade for the vista window in the roof and security cover for the cargo area.

Roadmaster retains the full-frame, rear-wheel-drive design preferred by many traditional buyers. With its 260-horsepower V-8 engine and electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission, it provides brisk performance and excellent fuel economy. With the optional trailer-towing package, Roadmaster sedan and Estate Wagon offer a 5,000-pound trailer-towing capacity.

A third, rear-facing seat continues as standard equipment on all Roadmaster Estate wagons, bringing maximum passenger capacity to eight.

Roadmaster Limited Estate Wagon

The Roadmaster Estate wagon, previously offered only in well-equipped standard trim, is also available with the more luxurious Limited package for 1995.

The Limited package includes automatic climate control, automatic programmable door locks, automatic power antenna, remote keyless entry, six-way power seatsd for the driver and passenger and other luxury features.

As before, standard equipment on all Roadmaster sedan and Estate Wagons is extensive, including is V-8 engine, anti-lock brakes, dual air bags, air conditioning, power windows and automatic door locks.

Improved Seating

All Roadmaster Limited models have new seats. Designed by Buick's Seat Comfort Team using a systematic program of test drives and sophisticated computers, these seats hold the occupant comfortably in place, yet distribute body weight so evenly that there are no uncomfortable pressure points.

A new electro-mechanical lumbar support for the front seats provides even more support than the previous pneumatic design. Dual heated front seats with a driver's seat memory are also available on Roadmaster Limited.

Roadmaster Refinements

Roadmaster sedan and Estate Wagons benefit from a number of additional refinements for 1995.

Roadmaster features Buick's new family of radios. These radiso feature a rotary volume control, a large digital display, and 12 FM and 6 AM pre-sets with a convenient push-to-set feature. Both cassette and CD versions are available, as is a model that plays both formats.

Larger outside rear-view mirrors improve visibility in traffic, and make negotiating parking lots easier. The mirrors are hinged, so they fold forward toward the body under pressure.

A vista window shade in the roof and security cover for the rear cargo area are now standard on Roadmaster Estate wagons, for improved convenience and security. Also standard for 1995 is delayed entry illuminatino, which helps the driver and passenger get situated after entering the car at night.

Roadmaster sedans also have a new side molding.

Practical Power

Roadmaster sedans and Estate Wagons continue to offer the powerful, LT1 V-8 as standard equipment. This 5.7-liter engine, equipped with sequential fuel injection, is rated at 260 horsepower and 330 lb.-ft. of torque, providing responsive performance and 5,000-pound trailer-towing capabilities.

Roadmaster's V-8, which underwent extensive upgrades for 1994, continues to provide excellent fuel economy. Projected EPA fuel economy numbers are 17 miles per gallon, city; and 25 mpg, highway.

Roadmaster's standard four-speed automatic transmission uses a new Dexron III fluid for 1995. This is designed to provide smoother, more consistent shift under a variety of conditions and a 100,000-mile fluid and filter change interval during normal operation.

An optional trailer-towing package is available for both the Roadmaster sedan and Estate Wagon. It includes heavy-duty cooling, heavy-duty suspension with self-leveling P235/70R15 tires and a 2.93 rear-axle ratio.

New kids on the block

As part of Dodge and Chrysler's gargantuan comeback, they've introduced two new sleek automobiles that will give any import its run for the money. The Dodge Stratus, right, and the Chrysler Cirrus, left, are well equipped with standard luxuries that will be sure to set sales records this year. With sleek styling, smoothe curves and potent engines, these two beauties are now on sale at your local Dodge and Chrysler dealerships.

AAA names their best cars for new guide

Both the 1995 Saab 900 and Saab 9000 were named best in their respective price classes by the American Automobile Association in its 1995 new car buying guide, AAA AutoTest. The 36-million member association selected the popular Saab 900 SE 5-door as best car in the $25,000 to $30,000 price category, while the distinctive Saab 9000 CDE touring sedan beat out competitors such as the Acura Legend, BMW 525i and Cadillac DeVille in the $35,000 t $40,000 range. According to AAA's evaluations, cars in the Top 10 group offer buyers the most for their money in 1995.

AAA AutoTest rates vehicles in 20 categories, covering over-the-road performance,passenger environment, workmanship and value. Both Saab models scored extremely well in the overall ratings, earning accolades for such traditional Saab attributes as ride quality, cargo space, braking integrity and workmanship. The 9000 DE scored a "perfect" 10 in both the interior and exterior workmanship categories, while the 900 SE received highest marks for its cavernous cargo capacity.

David Van Sickle, AAA's director of automotive engineering, said the top-scoring cars "exhibit exceptional engineering, styling, workmanship, comfort and convenience." More than 125 vehicles, representing popular models in all price ranges, are reviewed annually by AAA.

The Saab 9000 also scored AAA Top 10 honors in 1993, when the 9000 CS was rated best in the $25,000 to $30,000 category.
